counties are now obligated to fice supplies, and so forth. Federal regulations require a case worker for every 200 recipients. Also, the number of recipients is increasing daily because a recipient is permitted to make more money than ever before and a recipient may deduct travel expenses for medical purposes and a number of other changes to liberalize and further increase the numbers eligible for food stamps and commodities.

I am in the process of contacting every county in Texas to further analyze the serious. ness of this problem. Lynn County anticipates 2,500 food stamp recipients by midsummer. Our cost to dish out food stamps in one year on the 2,500 bases will increase $10,000 making us a total expenditure of approximately $17,000. We are now at our statutory ceiling of 80c rate and have no funds available for new money expenditures. If the valuations are raised, four school districts will receive less money under the minimum foundation program because the school valuation being tied to county valuations. I hope to hear from you soon on this important matter. Yours very truly,

Mayor J. R. Singleton and Alderman W. L. Knight returned Saturday from Dallas, where they went the fore part of last week to purchase an engine for the City Light Plant. In conversation with these gentlemen, they reported having investigated closely all makes and sizes of engines and practically decided on a seventyfive horsepower standard make, which they expect to purchased and have shipped here if it meets with the approval of the City Council as a whole, and the proper funds can be provided for the initial payment. AUSTIN, TEXAS

GREETINGS:

The Future Farmers of America organization continues to play an outstanding role in assuring the future progress and prosperity of our State and

The importance of agriculture in our State increases as Texas progresses. It is vital to our well-being that we train skilled farmers and ranchers to provide a plentiful supply of food products in years to come and to train those who will provide services to the farmer and process and distribute farm products.

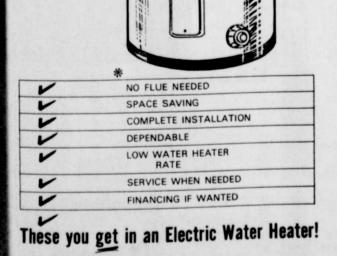

The FFA is composed of students who are studying vocational agriculture in the public schools in preparation for careers in the various phases of agriculture and agribusiness. In studying the science of agriculture, these Future Farmers are striving to continuously improve this great industry for the welfare of all citizens.

Texas now has almost 1000 active FFA chapters with over 50,000 active members and more than a quarter of a million former members. During the past 42 years, the Texas Association, FFA, has performed valuable services to our State by developing leadership, encouraging cooperation, promoting good citizenship, teaching sound agricultural techniques and inspiring patriotism among its members. Much has been done also in involving members in civic and community service projects aimed at improving their local communities. HEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of

NURSING HOME NEWS

Happy Valentines Day to each of you from your friends at the Nursing Home. So many of you remembered us this year!

Maxine Paris and Melanie Windham brought the 4th grade girl scouts for a visit to the home. They passed out Valentine cards to each patient then sang songs. Thank you ladies and girls - please come again. I will mention each girl at the end of the column who signed the register.

Among other programs benefiting youth on a statewide basis are the Scholarship and Research Programs. The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo annually presents scholarships to outstanding FFA and 4-H Club members in the amount of $4,000 each. Fifty students are currently attending college on scholarships provided by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo. Twenty-four scholarships of $1,000 each will be awarded to winners in each of 24 counties participating in the show's GO.TEXAN program.

The Research Program, established in 1970 by the show, is being carried on in twelve Texas agricultural colleges. Much of the work is done by students, thus providing jobs for those college students who need to work.

The knowledge shared through this $200,000 Research Program directly bene. fits Texas agribusiness.

This winter while trees are bare, homeowners should be on the alert for bagworms, advises Dr. Weldon Newton, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Although bagworms are exposed when broad - leafed trees drop their leaves, they may be overlooked until a damaging infestation occurs. Complete defoliation can result next season when large numbers are present. In addition to braode - leafed trees, bagworms also feed on arborvitaes, cypress and other tion February 9th at 1:00 p.m.

evergreens. Through fall webworms and tent caterpillars are often mistakenly called bagworms, they are really markedly different. Bagworms make individual cocoons from tightly woven silk. Leaves and twigs are attached to the outside of the 11/2 . to 2 . inch long bag so that the bags look like dried

The larval and pupal stages last from early May to late July, during which time the insects stay in their bags, In the pupal stage in July and August the worms change to moths with only the male having wings. After mating, the female lays 150 to 300 eggs in the bag, then drops to the ground and dies.

The bags will remain on trees all winter. Some will be empty with only the pupal skin of the male protruding from the bottom while others will have the skin full of In areas where the worms do not pupate until spring, a full grown worm will be found in the bag.

Newton recommends de storying any bags that may be found. Hand picking is very effective on small trees and those with only a few bags. Diazinon, carbaryl or trichlorfon can be sprayed in May or June on large trees with large numbers of bags in the upper branches.

The controversila new "setaside" rules announced February 1 for the 1972 cotton, wheat and feed grain programs have been reconsidered. A top official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture told Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, that the Department's set-aside policy for 1972 will remain "essentially the same" as for 1971.

PCG other organizations and many individual farmers had objected to the new regulations, primarily on the ground that expensive farming operations were already underway at the time they were announced.

new regulations would have cost High Plains farmers millions of dollars in 1972," said Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President, "and USDA is to be commended for modikying their original deci-

USDA on February 2 instructed County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices to disapprove farm applications for program participation if the productive capacity of land designated as set-aside was below that of acreage planted to program crops. This "disaprovel" would have deprived such farmers of all program benefits.

Now USDA says these instructions are being withdrawn and that farmers whose set-aside land is determined to be of sub-par productivity will not lose all payments, but suffer only a loss of a part of their payments. For cotton the "penalty" is to be an amount equal to the difference between the "set-aside" yield" as determined by the county ASCS Committee and

The penalty for corn, grain sorghum and wheat will be figured on the same formula, using 40 cents, 38 cents and $1.00 per bushel, respec-

This will permit farmers who have already selected setaside acreage and put money into preparing other acreage for crops, to continue with the same cropping pattern and still be eligible for the program. It also removes much of the widespread fear on the part of farmers that their setaside might later be declared ineligible by some outside agency such as the Office of the Inspector General, in which case all payments would

The 1972 regulations, as now understood, still say "When the program crop is based on irrigated yields, farmers are to be advised that set-aside acres must be acres which could be irrigated in the current year in addition to crops actually irrigated with existing irrigation facilities and available water supply."

If program crop yields on which payments are made are based on both irrigated and dryland yields (blended yields) the set-aside must be in proper proportion, the instructions

Exactly how these requirements concerning irrigated acreage will be interpreted and applied is not yet known. But they are thought to be a vast improvement over the February 1 directive which would have required County ASCS Committees to establish the "normal irrigated acreage" for each farm, and would have prohibited irrigation of acreas beyond this normal acreage" minus irrigated set-aside.

The Washington official who relayed the set-aside news to PCG stated that, "generally speaking," County Committees would be the judge of how much set . aside acreage on each farm has to be irrigable and will determine, within certain guidelines, what constitutes irrigable land on a given Land not capable of producing a crop of land which obviously would have not produced a crop in the absence of a farm program is totally always.

Successful supply - demand management of farm commodities under the set-aside program enacted in 1970 depends on (1) farmers taking a calculated total acreage out of all production as a prerequisite o program benefits and (2)

In an address to the Texas Federation of Cooperatives, Dr. C. R. Savre of Greenwood, Miss., said that although January planting intentions show an anticipated increase of seven percent more acres over last year, this probably will not be sufficient to prevent market erosion.

"The whole industry like strong prices," Dr. Sayre said, "but there is a marked and dramatic difference between strong prices and runaway prices. Already the confidence of some mill customers at home and abroad is shaken. Many have begun to look elsewhere for substitute raw materials."

Dr. Sayre discussed several areas of concern to the cotton industry. He pointed out that exports last year probably would have been greater but for work stoppages on the docks in this country. Dr. Sayre said it is of critical consequence that the President have more effective options in dealing with transportation disruption.

Another matter of top priority, he said, is improving public attitudes toward cotton and agriculture. "The lack of recognition and appreciation of contributions made by cotton -- by agriculture -- threatens our very ability to provide the food and fiber needed by every individual," Dr. Sayre said.

He also said that "people in this country must be made to realize that no one has a greater stake in a healthy environment than farm people." He hailed as a major breakthrough the recent announcement by Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz concerning the expansion of research on chemical-biological cultural means of pest control.

Program officials reason that control of total productive capacity, as required, cannot be maintained if acreage taken age productivity. Hence their concern for regulating the quality of set-aside acreage and their instructions to County ASCS Offices to "do your best to see that set-aside acres are acres which would otherwise have produced a normal

Copied from Texas Farmers Stockman. More than one Texas farmer has found himself confused and bewildered by the changes in Motor vehicle laws that went into effect at the first of January. A particular amount of chaos has risen out of the new requirements for brakes on each trailer wheel. The situation is bad enough for the Texas Farm Bureau to adopt a resolution asking the Governor to put farm trailer brake and lighting legislation on the agenda for the next special session of the legis. lature, and there has been no lack of willing sponsors to introduce a corrective bill when the opportunity arises. The Farmer-Stockman believes that Texas farmers are just as concerned about highway safety as any other group in the state. To look at the driver conduct on city freeways, you'd have to say they're even more concerned about it.
