Girl Scout Cookie Sale Feb. 25 - March 11

The Girl Scout annual cookie sale is scheduled to begin in Tahoka, Friday, Feb. 25, at 4 p. m. Girl Scouts in Tahoka are participating in this project with other Scouts in the Caprock Council. Proceeds from this sale of cookies are shared by the troops and the council. The portion of the funds which go to the council are used to maintain Camp Rio Blanco which is located near Crosbyton. Many girls from Tahoka have attended this camp during its regular sessions and for troop camping experiences.

There will be five kinds of cookies (mint, assorted sandwich, butter flavored shorties, peanut butter and pecanettes) this year from which to select. They are packaged in family size boxes that will sell for $1. The sale will continue for two weeks.

Girl Scouts in Tahoka and their leaders greatly appreciate the response the community has made to the cookie sale in past years. They are looking forward to a successful sale this year.

The sponsoring organization for Girl Scouts in Tahoka is the Tahoka Lions Club.

WINS CITIZEN OF THE YEAR AWARD - Garland Thornton, Executive Vice President of the First National Bank is shown here receiving the Citizen of the Year Award from Clint Walker who made the presentation. Garland was cited for doing outstanding work in Tahoka since he moved here in 1965. The Award was made at the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce banquet.

ACCEPTS CONSERVATION FARMER OF YEAR AWARD - Mrs. Weldon Meador is pictured above as she accepts the Conservation Farmer of the Year Award for her husband, who suffered a heart attack a few weeks ago. Meador along with his family were cited for outstanding work in Soil and Water Conservation. Allen Sheppard is shown making the award and accepting the award with his mother is Stan Meador. The presentation was made at the annual Farmer-Businessman Banquet of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce.

RECEIVE SPECIAL AWARDS - E. R. Blakney and Boyd Barnes were presented special awards at the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce Farmer-Businessman Banquet held Monday night. The special awards were presented by the Soil and Water Conservation Service and cited the men for outstanding work in water and soil conservation.

Awards Presented To Local Citizens

The Tahoka Chamber of Commerce Farmer Businessman Banquet was held Monday night at the Tahoka School Cafeteria with special honors going to Garland Thornton as the Citizen of the year and Weldon Meador as the Conservation Farmer of the year with special awards going to E. R. Blakney and Boyd Barnes.

Reagan Brown brought the main address at the event. He is extension sociologist for Texas A&M University. Reagan, one of the most popular speakers in Texas, called on the community to stabilize the rural community in population before trying to industrialize.

The great strength of America, he said, is in agricultural segments of the population.

Reagan's talk called for saving the trade territory towns like Tahoka and other South Plains towns from trade areas shifting to the larger cities.

To do this he said towns should find out what is right in their community and work to correct what is wrong. He also urged a united front in small towns for beautifying the cities and providing more services and benefits.

Garland Thornton, the Outstanding Citizen of the year in Tahoka moved here in 1965 when he took a position with the First National Bank of Tahoka and has been an outstanding citizen in Tahoka since that time. Garland also became the President of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce this year.

He is presently the Executive Vice-president of the First National. Garland has served on the Board of Directors of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce for several years. He is a member of the Tahoka Industrial Foundation team which seeks to bring new industry to Tahoka.

When plans were first being formulated for a hospital in Tahoka, Garland was appointed chairman of the committee for securing the hospital and he has worked many long hours to make the hospital a reality. He was the first chairman of the Lynn County Hospital District board. Garland is very active in the Tahoka Rotary Club and is a past president of the club. He has been active in the Tahoka Bulldog Booster Club and, if you wore a size 44 Booster jacket and he only had a size 38 left, he could make it seem like "just a fit". He is a graduate of Texas Tech University and has been Secretary of the local Red Raider Club for several years.

Garland is a member of the Tahoka United Methodist Church and he and his lovely wife, Luanne, have been active workers in the church since they came to Tahoka. He is presently on the Official Board of the church.

When any worthwhile project comes up in our community we can depend on Garland to assist in any way he can. Tahoka is very fortunate to have such a family as Garland, Luanne, and their two daughters, Susan and Nancy.

Weldon Meador, who suffered a heart attack a few weeks ago and was unable to attend the banquet, was cited for outstanding work in water and soil conservation and for supporting conservation programs throughout nation, state and South Plains area through his participation.

The Meador family, represented by Mrs. Weldon Meador and Stan Meador, the awardee's son, were praised for their part in the "Family project" of conservation.

New officers of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce presented at the meeting were Thornton, president; David Midkiff, vice president and J. M. Small, executive director.

Returning members to the board of directors of the organization were Turner Rogers, J. D. Atwell, Leighton Knox, Thornton, Clint Walker, Midkiff, Calloway Huffaker H. B. McCord, Jr., and Binie White.

New board members were Mrs. Frances Chestnut, Horace Rogers, Harold Green, C. W. Roberts, Jackie Jaquess, Grady Lankford, Ross Smith, George McCracken and Harold Roberts.

About 135 persons attended the affair.

Welfare Programs Outlined At Lions Meeting

"Welfare is a many legged monster that affects us all," according to Lynn County Judge V. F. Jones. Jones was on hand at last week's meeting of Lions to outline the present welfare programs for the low income and needy groups. At the governments insistence, a commodity program was initiated and found to be unsatisfactory. The food dispersed under the commodity program was not normal to this area, and elderly people found they could not eat this type food.

Lynn County was able to go in with three other counties in obtaining a food stamp program. This program is based on the salary of the recipient. The stamps are sold to the recipient with a bonus of stamps to make up the differences. Depending upon the income a family of four can purchase $106 worth of stamps for as little as $50 or as much as $80.

Jones also reported the welfare rolls of the county would more than likely increase in the near future. The Federal Government has raised the salary limit for low income people from $210 per month to $360 per month. Many people not here-to-for eligible now fall into the minimum requirements for aid.

Lynn County's cost for the welfare program in 1971 was approx. $6800. The estimated cost for 1972 is $15,000. One of Judge Jones' main concerns is where this money is going to come from.

Since residency requirements have been changed, low income workers and the needy no longer have to live in the county a certain length of time. Since we are on US 87, Lynn County catches a great deal of migrant workers who are just passing through but who stop to receive food stamps. If the migrants have cooking facilities with them, and many do, they automatically qualify without a resi-

Staci Short Receives Betty Crocker Award

Staci L. Short has been named Tahoka High School's Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for 1972. Selected on the basis of her score in a written knowledge and attitude examination administered to senior girls last Dec. 7, she will receive a specially designed award charm from General Mills, sponsor of the annual educational program.

Additionally, she is now eligible for state and national honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow, to be chosen from all school winners in the state in judging centering on their performance in the Dec. 7 test, will be awarded a $1,500 college scholarship. A complete set of Encyclopedia Britannica will also be awarded to her school by Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. The second-ranking girl in the state will receive a $500 educational grant.

In April, the 51 Betty Crocker Homemakers of Tomorrow representing every state and the District of Columbia, each accompanied by a faculty adviser will join for an expense-paid educational tour of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D.C. Climax of the tour will be announcement of the 1972 Betty Crocker All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow and three runners-up. To be chosen through personal observation and interviews, together with the earlier state-level judging results, they will be awarded scholarship increases to $5,000, $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000.

In addition to the grants awarded state and national winners, a $1,000 National Nutrition Scholarship has been added to the Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow this year. To earn this award, a young woman must be planning a college major in nutrition or a related field, rank among the highest in her state in the overall Search test and achieve the top score, from those meeting the first two criteria, on the examination's nutrition questions.

All judging and selection of winners in the Betty Crocker Search is conducted by Science Research Associates, Chicago, which also constructed and grades the written examination.

More than 650,000 senior girls in over 14,500 of the nation's high schools were enrolled in this year's 18th annual Search. Total enrollment since the program's inception in the 1954-55 school year stands at over eight and one-quarter million young women, and, with this year's grants, scholarship awards will total nearly $2 million. The Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow is the only national scholarship program exclusively for high school senior girls.

Staci is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Short of Tahoka.

Cotton Meeting March 8

Current and future views of the cotton industry will be the theme of the Sixth Annual Cotton Production Meeting of the South Plains Development Program in Lubbock, March 8.

The conference is scheduled for 1:20 p.m. at the Koko Palace, says Bill Griffin, County Agricultural Agent, Lynn County. The lead-off speaker will be Dabney Wellford, economist with the National Cotton Council, who will offer his views on cotton marketing in the coming years.

Wellford will discuss such questions as the quantities of cotton that will be in demand in 1972, as well as a guess at future cotton prices, Griffin adds.

"The presentations at the meeting will deal mainly with key items concerning the cotton industry, including both marketing and production," the agent explains.

Roy McClung, the Cochran County agricultural agent, will follow Wellford with a discussion of quality cotton seed and irrigation. Dr. Devon Ray of the Texas A&M University Research and Extension Center at Lubbock will tell about some of the newer cotton varieties and the problems that have shown up. He is a pioneer breeder of narrow row cotton.

JOHN J. Seiber, Extension economist from College Station, will cover the aspects of contraction a cotton crop on the futures market. Walter Wells of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will explain the new provisions of the government farm program and also producer options in the feed grain program.

Marvin Sartin, Extension area economist at Lubbock, will conclude the program with a discussion on how South Plains cotton producers can fit the government farm program into their individual situations.

"The meeting will be very beneficial to anyone who is concerned with the South Plains cotton industry," Griffin says. He adds that further information about the meeting can be obtained through his office.

Cotton Officials See Demonstrations

Officials of Cotton Incorporated joined Texas researchers Friday (February 18, 1972) to demonstrate two new seed cotton handling and storage systems, either of which can save producers up to $24 per bale in the costs of harvesting, storing and ginning.

Observers saw the mechanical turnrow ricking and loading system, introduced last year and a new mechanical

The module builder compacted its free-standing modules onto wood pallets, which protect the seed cotton from ground moisture. It was designed specifically for use in the rain belt.

Emerson Tucker demonstrated a compressed seed cotton opening device for automatic gin feeding.

Farmer Jones explained to the audience of producers, ginners, researchers, USDA officials, extension specialists and machinery manufacturers that before a producer considers the new systems, he should take a new look at all operations involved in moving cotton from stalk to bale.

All the different operations add up to an integrated system, Jones said. Changing the economic factors relating to any one phase of the system will affect economic factors relating to other phases. A producer should analyze his system carefully to be sure he can realize a profitable return on the capital investments either of the new systems would require.

Both new systems can eliminate the trailer bottlenecks that tie up men and machinery during the harvest, and both can lead to substantial reductions in the labor forces in the field and at the gin.

In addition, field efficiency of harvesters is improved and ginning operations can be scheduled over a longer season.

density requirement. The food stamp program differs from other welfare programs such as those who receive a check from the state. These include the elderly over 65, disable, widow with dependent children and the blind. Their applications are direct to State Welfare.

One provision for food stamps recipients is work. Men over 18 and under 65 must register with the Texas Employment Commission for work. If they refuse work they can be taken off the food stamp rolls immediately. Jones reports several drawbacks to this stipulation, however. Judge Jones' program was well received.

Mrs. Sharp was accompanied by an assistant, Mrs. Georgia Brewer. Clint Walker was in charge of the program, and his wife, Lottie Jo, who is chairman of the Lynn County TB and Respiratory Disease Program, introduced the speaker.

TED BARTLEY

Ted Bartley Discharged

Ted Bartley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newman Bartley Rt. 1, Tahoka, completed three years of army service in May 1971. He completed requirements for his Bachelor's Degree in Music Education at Texas Tech in December. He was a member of the Army Band while in service.

Named to the Dean's List at Tech for the fall semester, Bartley is now enrolled in the graduate school at Tech.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Sue The Weatherman

"Fair and warmer," says the weather man's morning forecast, and you dress accordingly. But during the day a cloudburst hits town, drenching—and ruining—your clothes. You might feel a distinct urge to sue the weatherman for damages. Or, to be more technical, to sue his employer, the United States Government.

Could you win such a lawsuit? A quick answer would be no, because a weather forecast is only an educated guess, not a guarantee. But what if the weatherman was not only wrong but also guilty of negligence in making his prediction?

That complicates matters. Consider this case: A hurricane was bearing down on a coastal city, and the weather bureau issued a series of warnings. But the winds and flood waters arrived several hours ahead of the predicted time. A woman, caught on low land, was drowned.

Later, her husband demanded damages from the government. "I realize," he told the court "that weather predicting is not an exact science. But this was worse than just a mistake. It was outright negligence. They had discovered that the storm was coming in ahead of schedule, but they failed to pass the word along to the public."

Nevertheless, the court turned down his claim. The judge said the government cannot be held liable for broad, generalized activities like forecasting the weather because this would place too heavy a burden upon basic governmental functions.

But that may not apply to weather forecasting in a limited, specific situation. Thus:

The weather bureau at an airport, although aware of air turbulence near the ground, failed to warn the pilot of a private plane that was just taking off. The plane crashed, the pilot was killed, and the government was sued for damages.

This time, the government was indeed held liable. The court decided that in a particular, localized situation like this, the government ought to pay the penalty for its negligence—just like any other wrongdoer.

PROUD RECIPIENTS—Mrs. Weldon Meador and son, Steve, proudly display the outstanding conservation Farmer award they accepted at the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce Farm-Businessman Banquet.

1972 TEXAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

EDITORIAL

The Texas Public School system, established 118 years ago, has been a rich training ground for the youth which has helped them to make significant contributions in the fields of government, art, science and technology.

This week has been proclaimed as Texas Annual Public Schools Week, and it gives all of us cause to examine this Texas tradition. In recent years, there has been a schoolhouse revolution as Texas educators have experimented with flexible new methods and educational techniques and some have been most successful. This week gives you the opportunity of seeing some of the latest developments in the science of teaching.

This is a year of critical issues and crucial decisions in education. It is important that we as parents and voting citizens, acquire an understanding of what the schools are trying to achieve and the methods used pursuant to this goal. It is no longer enough for Johnny to learn to read—he must learn how to apply his rational powers to new kinds of situations. In short, the parent, the school, the child form an important education triangle based on mutual understanding.

We can fulfill our obligation in this educational triangle by being an active participant in Texas Annual Public Schools Week, March 6th through March 10th, 1972. All schools will have open house during this week. Visit your child's school. It will be a rewarding experience.

Mrs. RAY EDWARD MARION
...NEE STARLA KIM HUFFAKER

Huffaker-Marion Pledge Vows

The First Baptist Church was the setting of the wedding of Miss Starla Kim Huffaker to Ray Edward Marion, Saturday at 7:00 o'clock in the evening.

Reverend John Ferguson, pastor, performed the double ring vows amid a double arched candelabra centered in the altar area with the family Bible placed before a satin kneeling bench. On each side were candle trees with a low arrangement of white gladioli and greenery centered before the area. Bridal lights accented with greenery and blue bows marked the pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Huffaker. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marion. The bride is the grand daughter of Mrs. Ida Stewart of Post and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Huffaker of Grassland.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of white satin organza accented in rachel lace and pearl beading. The bodice was designed with a high scalloped neckline and long bishop sleeves, softly gathered to scalloped lace cuffs. A wide vertical panel of crisscross beading centered the front of the gown bordered on each side with lace to form a lattice work effect. The crisscross beading and lace was repeated down each sleeve. The modified belled skirt was complimented by a bouffant train attaching at the waistline with a small tailored bow. Lace motifs with beading were accented on the train. Her bouffant veiling was caught to a garland of lace petals and leaves which were also outlined in the seed pearl motif. She carried a cascade of small white rosebuds with ribbon streamers tied with low knots.

Honor attendants wore formal gowns of royal blue velvet, featuring softly gathered skirts with empire style waistlines and long sleeves gathered to cuffs, trimmed with blue braid. Their headpieces of sky blue illusion were caught to a royal blue bow.

Linda Huffaker, CHD Agent, Says.....

Homeowners have at last decided to kick the dry air habit. According to one new report, the sale of home humidifiers is expected to top $800,000 in 1972.

People are recognizing they must have proper humidification for optimum comfort during the heating season. The need for a humidifier stems from modern heating systems, which rob the air of all moisture, leaving the house dry and its occupants uncomfortable.

Besides producing discomfort dry houses also cause planos to go out of tune, raise fuel bills and produce static electricity. Dry air pulls moisture from the walls causing plaster to crack, and absorbs it from furniture, causing it to come unglued.

A simple test, developed by a leading manufacturer, can help home owners determine whether or not they need a humidifier. Drop three ice cubes into a glass, add water and stir. If moisture doesn't form on the outside of the glass within three minutes, your home needs a humidifier.

This test should not be conducted in the kitchen where cooking vapors might give a humidity level different from the remainder of the house. For best results, home temperature should be 72-75 degrees when making the test.

Today's humidifiers can be purchased in mini portable and standard sizes and in handsome cabinets of varied styled that are attractive in any home decor.

At home, locate a humidifier along a warm, inside wall. But guard against over humidification for a prolonged period of time, which is equally undesirable as overly dry air. If condensation forms on windows or in other areas of the home during periods of extreme cold, set the humidifier thermostat at a lower level.

Food Prices Expected To Go Up 4 Percent

Even though food prices are expected to go up four percent this year and net farm income is expected to set a record, the farmer still is less than three-fourths as well off financially as the city dweller, Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said. White said charges that the farmer is responsible for the expected food cost increase "is sheer nonsense." He said parity -- the measuring stick that shows how agriculture is faring in comparison with the rest of the economy -- is at 72 per cent. "This means that agriculture will have to increase its income 28 per cent to just be even with the rest of the economy," he said.

Expected increases in net farm income this year "is welcome news, not just for agriculture but for the rest of the economy, too. Farmers are big spenders when they have the money to spend, and a dollar of farm income generates five to seven dollars in new spending throughout the economy," White said.

Some members of Congress have asked for a ceiling on prices paid for agricultural products. White suggested that farm prices be "rolled back to levels of 22 years ago." If that were done, he said, the farmer would be getting more money than he now is.

"Livestock prices are as close to full parity now as any other commodity. Yet, livestock prices today to the producer are no higher than they were 22 years ago," he said. "The average wage earner today makes about three and a half times more than he did 20 years ago; net farm income is about the same as two decades ago," he said.

Growing up

Look at your lanky, teen-age son! It's hard to believe that he once wore these shoes. It seems only yesterday that he was a baby, yet he himself is the best testimonial that the years have passed. Now he stands almost as tall as you. He is a fascinating maze of contradictions—an eager, lovable youngster one minute, a scowling, angry adolescent the next.

It takes patience to understand a teen-ager—patience, and a lot of love. Though he strives to be adult, he is still a boy. Though he clings to childhood, he is almost "grown-up." You may not always be aware of it, but he still looks to you for many things. And he sees in you an example that he will, almost unconsciously, follow in many ways.

Are you setting a good example? How about church, for instance? If you haven't been going lately, start again next Sunday for your son's sake, as well as your own. And don't forget to take him with you!

OUR 62ND YEAR OF SERVICE

Editorials

Dear Mr. Brown:

You are standing there tonight speaking to some of the finest people in the world—the group gathered for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet in Tahoka. You are standing for exactly the same things and the same high ideals they all stand for: community pride and progressive action in all phases of endeavor as it pertains to our community. They are applauding you when you advocate attracting new industry—and that is good. We need to blossom out as would a lotus plant—with new life, new industry and new citizenry. All you say is most inspiring. Its needed and vital. It is like a shot in the arm.

I cannot stand up and applaud you—I am the town's two dilapidated, vacant movie picture theatres. I have stood empty, unused, unkept and forgotten for years. I am a sore eye. I would be a hindrance to the idea of establishing an industry such as has failed in me. I should either be razed or kept in a state of repair. I am just a "has been" and a grim reminder of a tired, weary community that is unaware that my presence hurts.

I too, would like to play on your team but someone must help me. Now that the block next to me has had a face lifting I am more embarrassed than ever. I am the four residents just south of the bank building. There are dozens of others like me all about town. My windows are broken and missing—my screens are hanging and banging. I am surrounded by weeds and litter that matches my appearance, perfectly. I am worth nothing to myself or to anyone else. I need to be cleared away so there will be room for new industry. If I were not so far gone I would suggest that I be renovated and made useable and attractive.

I am an old, old tourist court. I have seen my day—I know what you are talking about when you refer to "The End". I don't know who is supposed to clear away my remains. All I know is that I am long overdue and that I am not helping the town by being forced, by circumstances, to remain. I am sure not a drawing card for new industry, new comers or new interest.

I am the community center you are praising and in a way I am glad you did not come by to see me. Just back of me is a tumbled down remains of a residence that is partly destroyed. On the walk in front, next to the street, is a half burned sofa with its ugly springs and frame supplying the few as one passes—and its been there for longer than I care to report. I have been remodeled, painted, plumbed and replumbed. I have had much money and many hours spent on me and yet there seems to be this element that prefers to destroy my kitchen supplies, to ruin every piano that has been donated in order that I can serve as a unit to hold the populace together. I would likely be a disappointment to you.

You will find us on the sides of the busy highways and many streets. We are the wrecked automobiles, the numerous useless chassis and the worn-out trucks and trailers. If we are any good to anybody then why do we have to lie around in plain sight and clutter up the landscape? If we are not any good to anybody we should be put out of view and allowed to take our rightful places in the auto cemeteries. We are ready to line up with you on your program of community improvement but will remain completely helpless until help comes along.

I am the lots at north main—on the north sides of sixth and seventh streets. Drive by and look me over. I have hoped someone would consider me as a business sight. I am nice corner lots with pavements on two sides—look at ME!! If you were an industrialist, looking for a building sight would you want me? If not could you help to make me more attractive so some one else would pick me? I need help badly and I am not sure who is supposed to give it.

I am the empty cafe buildings, the vacant store locations, the old residence that used to house ceramic gift selections. I am the old body shop, the parts house, the warehouse. I am not apt to grow more valuable with the passing of time—on the contrary I am more likely to continue to mar your chances for progress. If I am valuable, make use of me. If I am worthless admit it and dispense with me—do something!!!

This is the beginning place, Mr. Brown.

We hear you are force in motion—sincere, earnest and convincing. We believe you are concerned and are selling your ideas to your listeners. We are all for you and for your program for our community. But we think we are the beginning point—the open door for the program you advocate. We are, of ourselves, helpless, hopeless and utterly dependent on the people you are talking to tonight and on hundreds of others like them. Just what are they going to do with us??? Come back next year, Mr. Brown and see.

Corn Irrigation Timing

Timing of irrigation proved the most critical factor in corn production in the 1971 Corn Irrigation-fertilizer study at the High Plains Research Foundation, Jim Valliant, research director, noted in the 1971 annual report.

"Yields were reduced significantly when corn was not irrigated until the tasseling stage as can be seen in the results of three irrigation methods studied in 1971," Valliant said.

In method one, corn received optimum irrigation (preplant plus seven weeks after germination and at tasseling, silking, milk, and soft dough stages of growth. A total of 44.3 inches of water was applied and yields averaged 5694 pounds per acre were obtained. In method two, the irrigation at the tasseling stage was eliminated, and yields decreased to 3851 pounds per acre.

A third method, in which the corn was not irrigated until the tasseling stage and 29.1 inches of water applied, produced only 1506 pounds per acre.

Corn was planted April 23 and stand counts showed that a plant population of only 17,000 plants per acre was obtained. "Yields were lower than expected and it is believed that this low plant population is the reason," Valliant says.

Forty-six pounds of phosphate was broadcast over the corn test area and nitrogen was applied five inches to the side and five inches below the center of the bed at various levels after listing and before preplant irrigation.

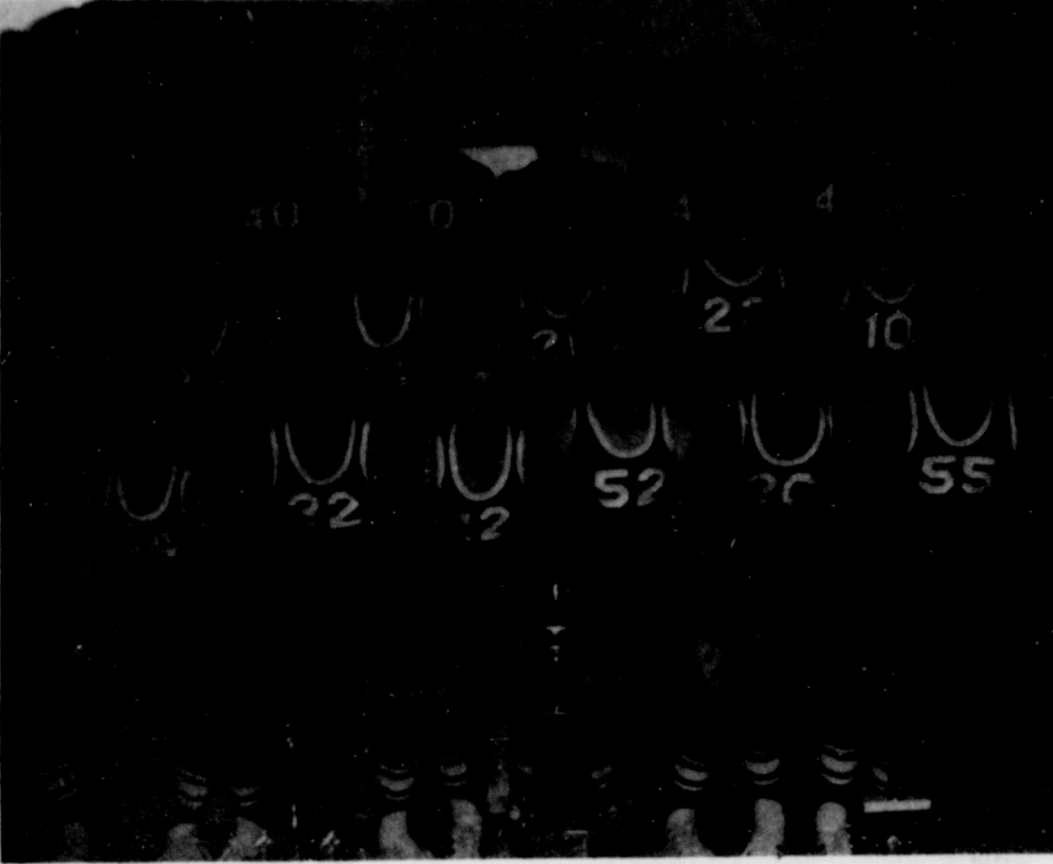

A 32 percent nitrogen solution was sprayed on the corn June 24. Valliant said rain kept the ground too wet to sidedress with anhydrous ammonia and plant height then prevented sidedressing.

PHILOSOPHER

New Rule

(Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm says he has discovered a new law.)

Dear editor:

As I understand it, the way civilization works is, first you invent something to make life easier, like the automobile, then you wonder what to do with it when it becomes the unbearable nuisance anybody who was ever caught in a traffic jam will tell you it is.

Or take the telephone. The telephone is a fine thing when you need to use it, but it can ring at some of the worst times. Therefore I was pleased to read in a newspaper last night after my phone rang and it was a wrong number that a man in Maine is asking the Federal Communications Commission to cut off the phone service of a credit company that has been hounding him.

I didn't know this, but a new rule allows the Commission to disconnect a loan company's phone if it uses interstate telephone lines for harassment.

This is a splendid idea and there must be millions of parents of teen-age children who'll be looking into this law as soon as they find out about it.

But the law ought to be expanded. For example, why couldn't it cover the mail too?

Say the tax collector is hounding you with delinquent tax notices. Why shouldn't a man have the right to ask the Federal Communications Commission to stop him from using the mail? I don't know of anything more harassing than a tax notice.

Getting mail is one of the pleasures of life if the letter is from somebody you're interested in or has a check in it, but using the mail or the telephone to harass somebody just because he owes you, that's carrying civilization too far and ought to be stopped just as soon as I wind up collecting the few bills people owe me.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Investment Credit Back

Investment credit is back. Farmers, ranchers and businessmen can claim a seven percent investment tax credit on their 1971 tax returns for qualifying property. Such property must have been ordered and acquired after March 31, 1971, or acquired after August 15, regardless of when ordered, explains Dr. James I. Mallett, economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Investment credit must be taken the year the property is placed in service and cannot exceed your tax liability, says the economist. If the tax liability is greater than $25,000 the limit is $25,000 plus one-half of the tax liability in excess of $25,000. Unused credits can be carried back three years and then forward seven years.

The amount of investment credit on each asset depends on its useful life. This must be the same for computing both investment credit and depreciation. One-third of the investment qualifies for tax credit if the useful life is three years but less than five; two-thirds, if five years but less than seven; and 100 percent, if seven years or more. There is a $50,000 limitation on investments in used property eligible for credit.

Property qualifying for investment tax credit must be depreciable, points out Mullett. It includes tangible personal business property such as machinery, office equipment, trucks, autos and, for the first time, livestock (except horses), elevators and escalators. Tangible real property tied closely to production is also included, such as fences, silos, grain bins, hay barns and fuel storage tanks.

Buildings not used strictly for storage do not qualify.

Tax laws prevent the creation of artificial credits by disposing of raised or non-recapture depreciable livestock and then acquiring substantially similar livestock acquired within one year beginning six months before the original livestock was sold is reduced by the sale value.

The business percentage of property used for both business and personal purposes is also eligible for investment credit.

Foreign-made equipment is not eligible for tax credit unless it was ordered between April 1 and August 15 last year.

In the old days, grandma had to rely on the comforter to keep her shoulders warm on chilly days... and in the cold bedrooms of those days every bed had its handmade comforter (many were works of art) to fend off the cold night air.

Today, Reddy Kilowatt is the all-year long comforter. Day and night, Reddy keeps the entire family warm in the winter, cool in the summer and a choice during those spring and fall days with up and down temperatures.

Complete climate control is possible with Reddy Kilowatt even including the right amount of humidity in the air. Call us today for complete information about completely conditioning your home for all-year 'round comfort.

Sure beats grandma's way!

Dear Mrs. Kinser: What do you advise in using leather-like vinyls as trim on coats and jackets? Can it be washed if used on a washable fabric; can it be dry-cleaned if used on wools? I have made a coat and several purses out of various vinyls, and have many left-over scraps that would make an attractive "added touches." —
Mrs. Richard Nickel
Dear Mrs. Nickel: It's chancey. But, with a little mind-joggling and researching,
I think I have hit on a plan that might work. (In sewing,

It is difficult to give you a definite answer as to whether or not your vinyl will wash or dry-clean. There are so many types of vinyl — and just as many ways to handle them.
So, it is necessary to do a little experimenting. Stitch a few inches of vinyl trim onto a piece of the fabric you are going to use. Then, put it through various washing and cleaning "baths." Or, better yet, make two or three test pieces and put each one through a different process.
This should give you a no-nonsense, no-guess-work answer as to how well it survives such treatment.

Housing Authority of the City of Tahoka,
Tahoka, Texas
Gentlemen
I Meldon Leslie, acting in my capacity as Mayor of the City of Tahoka do hereby re-appoint Harold Green, Horace Rogers and Eldon Gat-tis as members of the Housing Authority for a two year term from February 11, 1972 to February 11, 1974.
Also W. H. Eudy be appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. H. B. McCord to February 11, 1973.

To eliminate bulk, trim all joining seams as closely as possible; and use raw edges rather than turned-under edges whenever you can. Vinyl will not fray, so you needn't worry about it "pulling out" around the edges.
If you find, after experimenting, that your vinyl isn't going to withstand any type of washing or cleaning, then your only alternative would be to attach the trim by hand, removing it before cleaning the garment each time.

QUICK STITCH: A favorite pattern can go through only so many uses, and then suddenly it begins to disintegrate. Hold pop in it here and there, and the edges start to curl up and die.
But you can't bear to throw it away. Right?
So, carefully press each pattern piece onto iron-on Pellon, working with the iron just warm enough to do the job — no hotter. Use a soft-lead pencil to redraw the markings, cutting lines, etc. that may have disappeared. Trim the Pellon on the cutting line. You now have a permanent pattern that will go through many cuttings, and foldings, and cuttings.
