Easter Seals Rehabilitation

"Do you know a handicapped person who needs help and isn't getting it?" is the question being asked by Mr. J.M. Small, who is Lynn County's Easter Seal Representative, and the person to contact for services from the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas.

The Easter Seal Society offers rehabilitation services to help disabled persons and their families to find and make the most effective use of resources which will be helpful to them in developing their abilities and living more purposeful lives, he said.

This is accomplished through direct treatments, services, education, research, and cooperative efforts with all other health agencies, private, state and federal. The Easter Seal Society does not duplicate services, but strives to fill all unmet needs of the disabled, he added.

The Easter Seal Society is carrying out its forty-second annual Easter Seal Appeal from February 28 - April 2, to finance a program of rehabilitation services for crippled children and adults. The Texas Easter Seal Society helps support 19 treatment facilities where children and adults are treated regardless of ability to pay. Physical therapy and speech and hearing programs are offered to help the disabled make their lives fuller, despite their handicap.

Mr. Small urged persons in Lynn County to increase their support of the Texas Easter Seal Society and its programs of services to the crippled children and adults of Texas.

Cotton Producers Contract 1972 Crop

South Plains cotton producers showed a great deal of interest in contracting their 1972 crop at the 28 cent level, according to W.K. Palmer, Officer-In-Charge of the Cotton Division's Lubbock Office.

However, only a small amount of the South Plains crop had been booked by early February.

Contract prices ranged from 26.50 cents for all cotton regardless of quality to 30 cents for the Acala varieties. Some contracts specified 28 cents for all cotton with premium micronaire (3.5 - 4.9) with discounts for all cotton with micronaire outside the premium range. Most contracts specified prices of 23 to 25 cents for below grade cotton.

The combined estimates from Cotton Division field personnel in all cotton classing offices in Texas showed about eleven percent of the state's crop was under some kind of sales agreement by early February. Most active contracting was in the Corpus Christi and Harlingen territories where 65 to 70 percent of the crop was booked. Statewide prices ranged from 32.00 to 34.00 cents per pound for medium staple qualities down to 26.50 to 28.00 cents for short staple cotton. These prices generally applied to all in-grade cotton. Some contracts had micronaire requirements and others had none. Contracting activity reached a peak in Texas in early February and since has declined to a slow pace.

Gov. Preston Smith left timing of a special legislative session up in the air after the Texas Supreme Court, in effect said there has to be one. The High Court, not unexpectedly, concluded the Secretary of State Bob Bullock could not order public financing of primary elections without prior legislative authority.

Smith conceded that apparently left him no alternative but to summon lawmakers back to work in advance of the May 6 primaries. He said he wanted to postpone the unhappy deed as long as possible and was not prepared to say when he would have to act.

Meanwhile, to help Smith with his decision, Bullock's staff compiled data on estimated costs of the May 6 and June 3 elections and when the bills would fall due.

Most legislators faced with election campaigns hoped the session would be limited to the primary finance issue alone -- or perhaps that and highway billboard controls. The latter legislation is needed soon to avoid a threatened $24 million cut in federal road building funds allotted Texas.

Another special session will be needed later (unless Smith decides to lump all business into a single pre-election call to approve a 1973 state appropriations act replacing the budget items vetoed last year by the governor.

Bitterness is expected to flare in the House of Representatives on opening day of the session -- whenever it is. An effort is almost certain to be made to oust Speaker Gus Mutscher who is being tried in Abilene on charges of conspiring to accept a bribe in the form of 1969 bank loans and pre-arranged insurance stock profits.

A coalition, in an effort to avert the House clash, is pushing Rep. L. DeWill Hale of Corpus Christi as interim speaker. The leading speakership candidate, Rep. Raymond Price of Palestine, wants a showdown vote on electing a new speaker immediately.

CRIMES INCREASE -- More major crimes were committed in Texas in 1971 than in 1970 but the increase actually was the smallest since 1963, the Department of Public Safety reports. Cities over 100,000 population reported fewer major crimes -- a total of 298,033 as compared with 307,149 in 1970. The overall crime rate for the big cities was up three-tenths of one per cent.

The DPS Crime Report based on information submitted by Texas sheriffs and chiefs of police shows 482,386 major criminal offenses during 1971, an increase of 13,324 over 1970. All categories except theft (which declined 11.7 per cent) increased.

There were 1,687 murders, 3,075 rapes, 14,385 robberies, 137,140 burglaries, 34,472 aggravated assaults, 48,323 auto thefts and 243,344 thefts.

STORM INSURANCE CUT -- A 26 per cent reduction in wind-storm insurance rates for non-beach property in 14 coastal counties was ordered last week.

The cut, directed by the State Board of Insurance, takes effect before the hurricane season for those structures at least 2,500 feet from shore, 20 feet above mean sea level or protected by a seawall.

Property owners have been paying 150 per cent above normal rates through the Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Pool. Beachfront property will continue at three times standard rates.

The Insurance Board also raised the Maximum amount of insurance available through the pool from $100,000 to $200,000 on dwellings and from $500,000 to $1 million on commercial properties including schools and public buildings.

VETERANS LAND BONDS SOLD -- Forty million dollars worth of Texas veterans land bonds were sold last week at the lowest rate -- 4.03658 per cent -- paid by the program since 1961.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said the sale assures continued financing of the program until early 1974. Constitutional interest rate ceiling for the bonds is 4.5 per cent.

The Veterans Land Board is constitutionally authorized to sell another $30.7 million in bonds to finance the program which has enabled almost 46,000 Texas veterans to buy land.

LABOR RECOMMENDS CANDIDATED -- The Texas AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education recommended support by labor union members of five statewide candidates but didn't agree on a candidate for governor.

Delegates recommended former U.S. Ralph Yarborough for senator; State Sen. Joe Christie of El Paso for lieutenant governor, Houston lawyer John Hill for attorney general; John White for reelection as commissioner of agriculture and Bob Armstrong for re-election as land commissioner. They also strongly recommended State Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty for speaker of the Texas House of Representatives.

Although the necessary two-thirds of COPE delegates did not rally behind any candidate for gubernatorial nomination, State Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi did get a commendation for her legislative reform efforts which she is carrying into the governor's race.

AKL-CIO President Roy Evans said COPE will try to raise $500,000 for primary campaign efforts.

AG OPINIONS -- Texas is entitled to its proportionate share of the federal credit for state death taxes even though the decedent was a non-resident and specific property is exempt, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other recent opinions, Martin concluded: Deputies of county officials are "employees" as defined in a new law creating a county civil services system for counties 300,000 or more.

The Navarro County criminal district attorney paid entirely from state funds is entitled to participate in the Employees Retirement System of Texas, but not the County and District Retirement System.

SIGNS CHANGING -- Watch for changes in traffic control devices, signs, signals and markings along Texas highways.

Texas Highway Commission approved them in the manual on uniform traffic control devices, based on recommendations of the American Association of State Highway Officials and Federal Highway Administration.

Changeover will be from words to symbols and pictures as part of an international move toward greater uniformity and clarity in road signs. The change will be gradual, with new signs going up initially on a replacement basis. Panels explaining the new symbols will be placed under the signs at first, then removed in about five years.

SHORT SNORTS Texas Court of Criminal Appeals held extending voting rights to 18-year-olds did not give them the right to serve on juries in this state.

New regulations allowing insurance companies to cancel auto policies only for failure of the insured to pay premiums or for license suspension or revocation have been adopted by the State Board of Insurance.

Internal Revenue Service said a spot check of 4,579 retail stores showed 95 per cent are complying with base price posting regulations.

Cigarette smokers paid $3.5 million more in state taxes last month than in February 1972 State Treasurer Jesse James reported.

A University of Texas study group believes debris washed away from coral reefs in some coastal waters to deeper ocean could provide the key to finding future fuel and energy resources.

UT Bureau of Business Research says the Texas economy is off to a slow beginning this year but is "dawdling along in the right direction."

Continued effectiveness at lower cost is the immediate goal of refinements and improvements being made annually in the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program, according to Ed Dean, Field Service Director for Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., the organization which initiated the program in 1964 and continues to coordinate its activities.

A second, longer term objective is to prepare the High Plains area for a leading part in a Statewide and eventually Beltwide control effort that will make this region's individual program unnecessary, Dean states.

The High Plains program in its first few years involved only the application of an insecticide at regular intervals during the Fall of the year. This was done on all weevil infested cotton fields along and just below the Caprock on the Eastern edge of the High Plains. This approach consistently killed over 90 percent of all weevils each year before they could attain "diapause," the state in which they are able to live through the winter in surrounding hibernation sites. Thus the population buldups during the growing season were kept low enough to prevent mass migration into High Plains fields before the following year's Fall sprayings.

"This minimal effort, while effective, offered no hope for substantial reduction of the program's cost or for ever being able to discontinue it," Dean notes, "because proven migration from areas outside our control zone will forever supply the seed for an infestation every year, regardless of how low we are able to get weevil numbers."

Research has shown the weevil's reproductive capacity to be such that under average conditions a single pair of weevils in three generations, a period of 45 to 60 days, can multiply to eight to ten thousand weevils. Dr. Perry Adkisson, head of Texas A & M's Department of Entomology has repeatedly stated that weevil populations could return to their former migration-inducing levels on the Plains in a single year if the program were relaxed.

Techniques incorporated into the program since the early years include spraying of insecticide in the early part of the growing season to break the weevil's reproductive cycle; use of pheromone, or sex traps, as a part of survey work to supplement manual surveys; application of a systemic insecticide, TEMIK, to small acreages adjacent to known hibernation sites; and limiting acreage to be sprayed to that which reaches a predetermined level of infestation rather than spraying all acreage in a prescribed zone.

All of these innovations were well researched and each proven to either make the program more effective or reduce the overall cost before being made a part of the overall program. Together they have enabled program officials to make sizeable cuts in the total acreage that requires spraying over a season. In 1971, an aggregate of only about 400,000 acres received insecticide treatment, as compared to almost 2 million acres treated in the first year of the program.

Column No. 407

Fairly Free Private Enterprise

Curbside flower vendors became so numerous in a certain community that the regular florists began to complain about the competition. Finally, the city council passed a tough licensing law aimed at knocking the street vendors out of business.

But when the new law was tested in court, it was held null and void. The court said the city simply had no power to regulate a business as harmless as selling flowers.

Private enterprise, while not wholly free, still has considerable vitality. A city's "police power" does not include blanket authority over all kinds of business activities, just because they happen to be within the city limits.

On the other hand, a city may indeed impose restraints on a business that has a real potential for harm. Consider the case of a man who started a telephone answering service. According to a city ordinance, he and his employees were supposed to submit to photographing and fingerprinting. Challenging the ordinance, the man said it was unfair to "single us out."

But a court saw two ways in which a telephone answering service could be harmful: 1) by the misuse of confidential information about subscribers; and 2) by the encouragement of immoral activities.

Upholding the city's requirements, the court said: "There is a reasonable basis for distinguishing this type of business from others that are not regulated."

Another ordinance, covering private detectives, went still further. Under its terms, they had to put up a special bond and get a character clearance from the police department.

But again, a court decided there were enough possibilities for mischief in this line of work to justify the city in taking precautions. As one judge put it: "A statute to promote the public safety is valid, although it may interfere with individual freedom. Individual freedom must yield to the public good."

use the margarine. The law requires that all margarine must contain 80 per cent fat unless the product is intended as a diet substitute. And a diet substitute must be labeled "imitation" or "diet". Package labels must also state the type of fat or fats used to make the margarine.

Soft, whipped and diet margarine all cost more than regular margarine. You pay additional money for the whipping, extra ingredients and any other additional processes needed to make the margarine ready-to-spread, fluffy or low-calorie.

Another difference between whipped and regular margarine is the volume per weight. For example, one pound of regular margarine contains two cups of margarine. A pound of whipped margarine contains three cups because milk and air has been added.

This difference poses a problem when baking since the cook can't substitute one-half cup of whipped margarine for one-half cup of regular margarine or butter. If the substitution was made, the baked product wouldn't contain enough fat and would contain too much liquid.

Whipped margarine, although more costly is convenient whenever you desire a soft, fluffy spread. However, choose the regular type of margarine if you want a better buy for your money or if you want to use margarine for baking.

for Christ." The enthusiastic crowd gave the mentor a rousing standing ovation at the conclusion of his inspiring message.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO ENGAGE IN WEATHER MODIFICATION ACTIVITIES
Notice is hereby given that Atmospherics Incorporated of 4981 East Dakota, Fresno, California, 93727, who holds License No. 2 of the State of Texas, intends to engage in an operation to change or attempt to change by artificial methods the natural development of atmospheric cloud forms for and on behalf of the Colorado River Municipal Water District located at P.O. 2. The target area, within which the precipitation is intended to be enhanced can be described as follows:
The boundary may be described by a line beginning at a point of origin at Big Spring, Texas, and running along Highway 87 in a north-westerly direction to Lamesa, thence north-northeast on Highway 87 to the north border of Dawson County, thence east along the north border of Dawson, Borden, and Scurry Counties to Highway 84; thence southeast along Highway 84 to Roscoe, in Nolan County; thence south-southeast to Maryneal thence southwest to Silver in Coke County thence south-southwest to Highway 87 at a point approximately 13 miles northwest of Sterling City thence northwesterly along Highway 87 to the point of origin at Big Spring, Texas.
3. The equipment, materials and methods to be used in conducting the operation within this area of approximately 3500 sq. miles include a scm radar system, cloud seeding aircraft, and the application of silver iodide ice nuclei, hygroscopic nuclei or other nuclei considered appropriate to the artificial nucleation of clouds or weather systems.

HOG INDUSTRY GROWING
The hog industry in West Texas is growing fast, it's growing not on corn but on sorghum grain. With the growth, an increased interest is developing in special diets for early-weaned pigs.
Dr. A. Max Lennon of Texas Tech University's Department of Animal Science, reported to the Southern Agricultural Workers Conference that in choosing additives for a grain sorghum soybean meal diet for early-weaned pigs, price should probably dictate choice.
In Lennon's research at Texas Tech, 290 piglets, weaned at three to four weeks instead of the more standard six weeks, were involved in four trials of 42 days each.
Evaluated were dietary additions of spray dried brewers yeast, delactosed whey, a protein concentrate from alfalfa, and commercially procured lysine.
Any one of the additives improved the rate of gain over the control diet of grain sorghum and soybean meal alone, Lennon said.
With any one of the additives, gain was improved about one-tenth of a pound per day over the gain with the control diet, and lysine tended to mask the effect of the other additives.
Lennon said that the test using a protein concentrate from alfalfa was repeated, and the repeat trial "only made the original findings more significant." The gain was satisfactory, he said, but the cost of gain was increased with the alfalfa additive.
A light rain or drizzle, especially after a dry spell, will produce a thin, greasy film which makes a road a prime skidding surface.
