oOo A full report of the winnings made by members of the Tahoka High School Band in the annual contests at Plainview two weeks ago show that the following individuals won medals, placing in second division.

Jack Flets, baritone horn; Billy Jack Edwards, clarinet; Nelda Savage, cornet; Carl Griffing Jr., clarinet.

Third division Ruth Evelyn Story, French horn; Winston Redwine, saxophone; H. B. McCord Jr., French horn.

W. H. Jackson of Wilson, who played with the Tahoka Band, also placed in third division, National. He as well as others received much praise for the manner in which he performed.

The Band as a whole won third division.

oOo Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Cook in Wilson Tuesday afternoon. It was a large structure and was only partially covered by insurance. Most of the furniture also was destroyed.

Only Mrs. Cook was at home at the time and the fire had made great headway when she discovered it. The Tahoka fire department was called and hurried to the scene but could not get there in time to be of much service.

oOo Active management of the T-Bar ranch, oldest ranch on the South Plains, has passed into new hands as the result of a lease signed recently between C. O. Edwards and son, Crawford Edwards, to San Angelo men. The lease is for ten years with option on the part of lessees for a five year extension. Involved are 110 sections, all in grass but 3,000 acres of cultivated land. Also included are about 3,000 head of cattle. Other cattle will be sold on the market, it is said.

oOo Holders of the lease are prominent Tom Green county ranchmen, J. Q. (Johnnie) Adams and Wayne Chandler, John Chandler, brother of Wayne, and his wife have already moved to the ranch, of which he will be foreman. Mr. Adams expects to move to Tahoka as soon as he can find a house. D. Sanders, foreman for the Edwards interests, will be retained by the new management.

Chandler and Adams are owners of large ranches at Van Horn and in Tom Green county, raising sheep and goats principally. A carload of sheep wire was unloaded here this week, and it is reported that the T-Bar will gradually be converted into a combination cattle and sheep ranch.

The lease is dated January 1, 1940 though the men have just recently taken charge, and cattle will be delivered to their possession on July 1.

Established in 1883, the T-Bar is the oldest ranch still in existence located entirely on the Plains. Also, it claims the distinction of having been under the same management longer than any other ranch, 56 years.

In 1883, Frank and Will Porter drove out from Jack county a small herd of long-horns, and established a dug-out headquarters at Double Lake spring. There were no fences, the Indians and the buffalo had been gone only a few years, and the T. & P. railroad was just building into West Texas.

That winter or next spring, Cass O. Edwards, who had been ranching in Crosby County, bought out the Porter boys and established the T-Bar. He later secured aid of Fort Worth financiers and formed the Tahoka Cattle Company in order to expand, but back in the 'teens he became sole owner, with his son.

During the early days, the ranch was open-range, a free grazing proposition. Later, the owners of the cattle herd were forced to lease but in the latter part of the last century Mr. Edwards began buying up and filing on the land which he grazed. Except for a large block of land northwest of town and a few scattered sections, all sold to farmers, the ranch remains intact as it has been for 56 years.

Until only a few years ago, Mr. Edwards has taken an active hand in the annual round-ups on the ranch, but for the past two years he has been unable to look after business of the ranch. He is now 90 years of age. His son, Crawford, is likewise in very poor health and has spent the past several months in a hospital, and no doubt, these circumstances have led to leasing out the ranch.

Passing of the Edwards management in the ranch bring a pang of regret in the hearts of many Tahoka citizens, especially old timers, for the Edwards' name has long been associated with the town and county, though they have spent most of their time at their Fort Worth home.

The new operators are up-to-date ranchmen and are already taking steps to improve the T-Bar range.

oOo Copied from April 26, 1940 One by one, the landmarks of Old Tahoka are disappearing in the wake of Progress.

Last week, the old concrete horse watering trough in the middle of the street near the rear of the English Theatre was done away with in order that the street might be paved.

Since the automobile has taken the place of the horse and buggy and the tractor, truck and trailer have taken the place of the horse and mule and wagon, there is no more need for the horse trough in downtown Tahoka.

In addition to serving as a horse trough, this water container has been the scene of many practical jokes. Many are the Tahoka citizens who have been "dunked" in it as the result of committing matrimony, losing an election bet, and so forth.

oOo The agriculture boys of the Tahoka High School went to Brownfield last Saturday to participate in the Meadow F. F. A. District contest. The events included debate, public speaking, one-act play, and news writing.

Tahoka boys attending were Boyce Evans, Roy Botkin, Arthur Hammonds, Jack Alexander, Pershing Alexander, Pug Parker, "Slick" Wells, Green Lloyd and Junior Sanders.

The Tahoka teams made the following placings: debate, second; public speaking, third; one-act play, third; news writing, third.

"Production, Promotion and People" can be called "the three P's for profit" in the natural fibers industry of West Texas, according to Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. Johnson spoke April 14 in Fort Worth to the 54th annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Theme of the convention was "Economic Opportunities in West Texas" and Johnson's assigned title was "Picking Dollars from Natural Fiber Production."

The return to the natural, the rejection of false appearances, and the seeking of truth in what they consider to be a world of counterfeit values is at the heart of our young people's philosophy -- and it may well be a philosophy that will find increasing favor both here and abroad.

Noting that the annual farm-level value of natural fiber production in Texas, including cotton lint, cotton seed, wool, mohair and lamb, comes to approximately $1 billion, Johnson said "Our future in this vital industry can be one of stagnancy or growth, depending on what we do about the three P's -- Production, Promotion and People."

On the "People" or "Public factor in natural fiber's future in West Texas Johnson said "I am afraid those of us in agriculture have given too little attention to this subject in the past, yet our very survival is becoming more and more dependent upon what the public thinks about us and the public attitude toward our products."

He went on to say that far more progress has been made in production technology and know-how than in the other two areas, stating "We can produce cotton, wool and mohair as well as as efficiently or more efficiently than any other part of the United States or possibly of the world. It is widely recognized," he said, "that farmers and ranchers in West Texas are among the most progressive in the world, and generally lead the way in the adoption of new techniques and practices for improved production efficiency... and there is little doubt that we will continue to lead the world in this area."

In addition to the well known effect of public opinion of the passage and administration of federal supply control programs for agriculture, Johnson expressed concern about environmental protection laws and over-zealous product safety regulations "which penalize all responsible people as the means to protecting a few irresponsibles against themselves. Carried far enough, this trend can stifle all innovation and greatly increase the odds against progress and growth in the production of natural fibers in Texas."

Until recently Johnson said "Promotion" of natural fibers through product development, research and advertising had been seriously neglected, but reported that the natural fiber industry is finally coming alive.

Johnson concluded by saying "We have an excellent start in the first two of the three P's vital to a bountiful harvest from natural fiber production in future years. We are already 'ahead of the game' so to speak in production technology; and the life-style and philosophy of the new generation is going to be a big advantage to us in our promotion efforts. In the third area, that of agriculture's public, we have been asleep but we are coming awake. And with that awakening I am confident the contribution of natural fiber production to the West Texas economy will continue and will grow in the years ahead."

With their own aggressive programs of research, product development and promotion the man-made fiber industry over the past 20 years has wrested huge chunks of textile markets from what Johnson described as a "still slumbering natural fiber industry." But he said "I am happy to report today that our industry has taken up the gauntlet and is now in the trenches with programs of our own to combat the very effective selling job by the man-made fiber people."

A. J. Minor Is Visitor Here

Johnson noted that world consumption of textile fibers is expected to double over the next 20 years, an increase roughly equivalent to 100 million bales of cotton, and said "Our challenge is to get a share of that increase for natural fibers... and I believe we can compete, and win, in this struggle for markets."

A. J. Minor and wife of Spokane, Wash., were brief visitors here Friday. A building contractor, A. J. left here in 1934. They were en route to Post to visit his brother, James Minor, seriously ill and facing major surgery. Mr. Minor reported that Lt. Mike Minor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Minor, who was killed in Vietnam recently, had been in the war zone only a few days. A recent West Point graduate he had visited A. J. en route overseas. A. J. understood Mike was flying an escort fighter plane accompanying a transport when he was shot down and killed immediately.

He called attention to the recent upswing in demand for jeans, denims, corduroys and other fabrics which consume a lot of cotton. "The move is back to the natural, away from the artificial," he continued, "and this definite trend is more than just a passing fancy conceived in the minds of sales-hungry fashion designers."

Linda Huffaker, CHD Agent, Says.....

People eat first with their eyes, then with their taste buds.

That's one reason the fresh strawberry season is such a delightful occasion in good eating. The bright red, juicy and tasty berries catch your eye in the field, the market or the moment they're brought into the home.

Their appeal grows as the berries are transformed into attractive, simply prepared dishes of strawberries n' cream, shortcakes, cereal toppings, pies, sauces and cakes.

In earlier years the strawberry lasted only a short time. Homemakers had to work hard and fast to preserve the berries for winter use.

Things have changed a bit. We now have fresh berries available to some extent the year round. Still the excitement over the first berries - lusciously ripe from vines in nearby gardens - can't be excelled.

A hidden bonus in strawberry eating lies in their nutritive value. Fresh or frozen, they rate high in vitamin C. A half-cup of strawberries - a dish of strawberries and cream or a large piece of strawberry pie - provides the minimum daily dietary needs of this important vitamin. And strawberries that ripen on the plant contain more vitamin C than those picked half - red and held until fully ripe.

So now's the time to enjoy the full glow of eye-catching, tasty and nutritious fresh spring strawberries from nearby production center.

You can expect supplies to increase gradually, with peak shipments in May and June, as the season advances.

When buying strawberries look for berries with full red color and a bright luster. The flesh should be firm and the cap stem still attached. The berries should be dry and clean. Usually medium to small sizes have better eating quality than the large ones.

It's wise to avoid buying berries with large uncolored or "seedy" areas. These are signs of poor flavor and texture. A dull, shrunken appearance or softness are signs of over - ripeness or decay. Also, watch for berries with mold which can spread rapidly from one berry to another.

Because fresh strawberries are so delicate, handle them carefully to avoid bruising. Empty the berries into a shallow tray, and sort out the damaged or decayed ones. Cover loosely with wax paper and store in the refrigerator.

Just before serving, wash the berries in cold water and drain dry. Remove caps after the berries are clean and dry. Serve them as soon after purchase as possible - with in one or two days.

...is a "company secret" you need to know, too!

The figure 99.993% stands for the dependability - the continuity of the electric service we deliver to you. We think you'll agree with us that missing our 100% goal by only seven one-thousandths of a % is a pretty fine record. It's good, but we keep trying to do even better.

Actually, we don't have any "company secrets". We're in a goldfish bowl regulated by the FPC, the FCC, the SEC, the IRS, and state and local regulatory commissions but most of all by our own self-imposed good business practices.

COURTS SPEAK -- The Court of Criminal Appeals refused to go along with an argument that the aggravated assault law discriminated against men -- and concluded it's still worse for a man to hit a woman than the other way around.

Texas Supreme Court held a county judge can't prevent a township incorporation election if 200 residents present the required petition. The decision upheld an Athens district judge and the Tyler Court of Civil Appeals.

The High Court sustained lower courts and refused to knock out of operation a Houston legal aid service for the poor in spite of objections to it by some lawyers who claimed it is costing them money.

APPOINTMENTS -- James W. (Jack) Ward of Amarillo has been named by Gov. Preston Smith as a member of the Texas Mass Transportation Commission for a six-year term.

Smith also named eight to the Real Estate Research Advisory Committee. They are Joe W. Loper of San Antonio, Glenn W. Justice of Dallas, Mrs. Katherine Boyd of Arlington, Dr. Walstein Smith Jr. of Waco, John A. Worley of Dallas, George O. Yamini of Dallas, Julio S. Laguardo of Houston and R. L. Pardue of Houston.

HEALTH STUDY LAUNCHED -- State, local and federal health officials this week began an intensive study to determine if health hazards exist for workers in the American Smelting and Refining Company plant in El Paso.

SHORT SNORTS -- Texas cities and counties would get about $202 million this year under a federal revenue-sharing bill before a U. S. House committee.

The survey will complement a comprehensive health study to evaluate lead hazards in the plant vicinity which was initiated by local health officials several weeks ago in cooperation with the State Health Department. A. S. R. C. is cooperating in the survey.

PARTIES SLOW -- Secretary of State Bob Bullock complained about early response to his request that county political party officers submit early estimates of May primary election expenses.

Bullock said a week after he asked for the estimates only 99 (of 254) counties were represented in replies. He warned again no state funds will be allocated to local parties until estimated expenditures are submitted on prescribed forms.

Some county chairmen explained they were taking their time since the new state primary financing act makes them responsible for inaccuracies in their figures.

JUNE 1 PUPIL TRANSFER DEADLINE -- Texas Education Agency has held parents who want to transfer their children from their home school to a nearby district must submit requests by June 1.

Once approved by the receiving school board, the request must also be cleared by T. E. A. State approval is a term of a U. S. District Court order filed in Tyler relating to desegregation of schools. Under the order, transfers are not to be permitted to reduce or impede desegregation or encourage discrimination.

SHORT SNORTS -- Texas cities and counties would get about $202 million this year under a federal revenue-sharing bill before a U. S. House committee.

College teachers in a meeting here endorsed the idea of collective bargaining rights for public employees.

Likely date for the next special session of the legislature on appropriations and taxation appears to be the week of June 12.

The State Treasury, declares Treasurer Jesse James, had a greater net return on its time deposit interest "than any billion-dollar bank in Texas."

Texas National Guard units have reached the highest rating level in 10 years, according to Adjutant General Ross Ayers.

New state bank charters are being sought at Balch Springs (Dallas County) and Houston. The attorney general is being asked for an opinion interpreting the state's nepotism law governing state officials and legislators hiring each others relative in view of new disclosures.

Zack Fisher of Memphis is the assistant state campaign manager for Sen. John Tower.

Bill Griffin, County Agent, Says.....

It has been said that outside of the land itself a farmer must have four things to be successful.

First, he must have continued research as supplied by landgrant colleges throughout the country and the U. S. Department of Agriculture to meet the challenge of the times.

Second, he must have a fair level of prices to sustain an abundant production. He is like any other good businessman -- he must have a profit to stay in business.

Third, he must have modern tools and facilities for production. With labor problems the subject of power farming is more and more important to the huge production job.

Fourth, he must have good credit - resources to pay the bills - and in particular, a reserve fund for emergencies and future needs.

That reserve fund is a real key to his ultimate success in farming. And because it is so important, it is no wonder that so many farmers depend on U. S. Savings Bonds as the vehicle for building it.

Bonds have the advantage of being completely safe - guaranteed as to principle and interest - and they can be accumulated in small amounts out of current income. Their long-term benefits are obvious, since they offer an interest bonus at maturity, yet they are also liquidated to meet any immediate financial need.

Modern farming is a complicated and hazardous business - but the farmer who buys U. S. Savings Bonds is removing at least one element of risk. They are one crop that never fails.

LOCAL -- Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Hunt and Mrs. J. N. Line of Lakewood, Colorado visited in the F. A. Wyatt home this week. They also visited friends and relatives in O'Donnell. Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Hunt are sisters.

Let's put government into hands we can depend on ...andal rocks our state government, as it has for more than a year, for Texans to take the reins of government and place them once to the hands of an honest, capable man. This is a time when we need a man to believe in. A man like Dolph Briscoe. His success in business and agriculture, his work in government to bring-to-market roads and to eliminate the screwworm have proven him a man Texans can depend on when solutions are needed. His unquestioned reputation for honesty and integrity stand him head-and-shoulders above his opponents. Never has Texas been offered such unacceptable candidates for the office of governor. And never has Texas so urgently needed a man like Dolph Briscoe. May 6, elect Dolph Briscoe governor.

NURSING HOME NEWS

We had a good song fest as usual this week with Mrs. Hammonds and several of our local ladies. We certainly enjoyed this afternoon and want to extend an invitation to more ladies to join us on Monday afternoon about 3:00. It raises all spirits of those who attend.

Mrs. Corbin went to the Dr.'s office again this past week for a checkup on her hip. Reports are that she is doing well and we hope her progress continues. She also visited this week with her daughter Ataska Messer.

Our hearts go out to the Inklebarger family in the loss of their wife and mother, Mrs. Billie Inklebarger. She was our patient just a very short time before her death in Lynn County Hospital. Now, Mr. Inklebarger is very ill in the hospital. We hope his condition improves greatly soon.

We are happy to report Mrs. Harter is back in the home and very much improved. Probably having her daughter, Estena Lawson, visiting in Tahoka makes her feel much better.

Mrs. Elmore is slowly but surely mending. We are happy she is able to take her meals with us in the dining room again.

Mrs. Bertha Jolly brought fresh fish pork sausage for the patients breakfast. We sure do thank you, Mrs. Jolly.

Mrs. Moss Moore of Elida, N.M. is here visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kaddatz. Mrs. Moore is Mrs. Kaddatz' sister.

Farm Prices Are Not High

FARM PRICES ARE NOT HIGH -- The 5 percent to 6 percent increase expected in farmers' realized gross income in 1972 is a reasonable figure.

Realized gross income from farming in 1971 was percent 58.6 billion. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is forecasting a $3 1/2 billion increase for 1972, bringing the figure to $61.6 to $62.1 billion, an increase of 5 percent to 6 percent.

Farm meat prices are not high. Broiler prices at the farm area about the same as last year, and less than the 1967-69 average.

Average farm hog prices in January were 13 percent less than in January two years ago, and 17 percent less than in January six years ago.

Farm beef cattle prices recently reached the level of 20 years ago, but what other prices are just getting up to the levels of 20 years ago? The cost of many things people buy have set a record high every one of the last 20 years. And if you deflate present beef prices in line with today's cheaper dollars, today's beef prices are a long way under the level of 20 years ago.

Meats are free to respond to market demands and meats are very competitive with one another. There are no price supports on meat and no production controls.

Cyclical production of livestock deals with farm prices, often harshly. Livestock prices are very cyclical and seasonal. Hog prices were low just a few months ago. These cyclical and seasonal forces cause wide fluctuations in livestock prices completely apart from general conditions in the economy. Hog prices dropped 35 percent in four months in 1970. Farm production responds to higher prices. Ceilings on farm prices are counter-productive because they reduce production rather than increase supplies.

Live cattle futures prices from April through December this year are $2 to $4 per hundred lower than present live prices, indicating that the trade is expecting lower prices in the months ahead.

Live hog futures prices from April through December this year are 3.3 times higher than 20 years ago while in manufacturing industries, output per man hour is 1.6 times greater than 20 years ago.

Output per man hour on farms is an example for the nation. Output per man hour on farms is 3.3 times higher than 20 years ago while in manufacturing industries, output per man hour is 1.6 times greater than 20 years ago.

FARM PRICES HAVE NOT REACHED FAIR LEVELS

Output per man hour on farms is an example for the nation. Output per man hour on farms is 3.3 times higher than 20 years ago while in manufacturing industries, output per man hour is 1.6 times greater than 20 years ago. This is unmatched efficiency.

One farm worker is supplying three times as many with food as 20 years ago. In 1951 one farm worker supplied 16 people with food now he produces enough for 61 people, which is more than three times as many as 20 years ago. This is unmatched anywhere else in the world, or before in history.

High farm productivity has released people to produce other wealth. In 1951 one person out of 7 was living on a farm producing agricultural products now, one person in 21 lives on a farm. This has released people to produce other wealth and services and is primarily responsible for the unequalled affluence of the nation.

The largest increases in the cost of food are for food eaten away from home where labor and services are the main ingredients of food cost. Total food expenditures away from home have risen 79 percent in the last 10 years and the price index for food away from home has increased more than 50 percent in the last 10 years.

Farmers receive only 38 cents from the dollar consumers spend for farm-raised food this is down from 49 cents 20 years ago.

Food is one of the most reasonable buys available. Production of farm food is a very competitive business and this keeps margins low.

Retail food prices have not advanced as much as the other main categories in the cost-of-living index.

Twenty years ago people paid 23 percent of their take-home pay for food in 1971 they spent 16 percent of their take-home pay for food and in 1972 they are expected to spend less than 16 percent of their take-home pay for food.

BEEF PRODUCTION HAS EXPANDED TREMENDOUSLY -- Total beef production is 2 1/2 times higher than 20 years ago. Farmers produced and marketed 8.8 billion pounds of beef in 1951 and 21.9 billion pounds in 1971.

Beef supplies per capita are twice as large as 20 years ago.

Beef consumption per capita was 56.1 lbs. in 1951 and was 114.3 lbs. in 1971, an increase of 2.0 times.

Production of Choice grade beef is nearly 4 times larger than 20 years ago. One-third of our beef was Choice grade. Thus the total production of Choice beef is 4.0 times larger than 20 years ago.

Imports of beef and veal are 1.7 times larger than 10 years ago and are 3.7 times larger than 20 years ago.

FARM PRICES HAVE NOT REACHED FAIR LEVELS

This has released people to produce other wealth and services and is primarily responsible for the unequalled affluence of the nation.

Farmers' costs have gone up sharply. Farmers are paying 2.3 times higher wages for help than 20 years ago. Farm machinery price levels are nearly double what they were 20 years ago (1.9 times higher).

The level of all prices that farmers pay has gone up nearly 50 percent from 20 years ago, and farmers' total production costs have nearly doubled (1.9 times higher).

Farm real estate taxes per acre are 3.8 times higher than 20 years ago. Farmers are less able to pass along their costs than other major economic groups. Farmers are unprotected by franchises, patents, territories, licenses, and by size. They do not enjoy industry-wide contracts, nor escalator clauses, nor the economic ability to force higher prices and hold them.

Farm investments have doubled in 20 years. Farm investment in the food and fiber producing plant of the nation (land, buildings, livestock, etc.) has risen from $152 billion in 1951 to $335 billion on Jan. 1, 1972, which is 2.2 times higher.

This plant's resources must be conserved and the growing investment must be capitalized from farm net income, which has increased only 6 percent from levels of 21 years ago.

Farm debts are nearly five times larger than 20 years ago. The amount of debt owed by farmers has risen from $13.1 billion in 1951 to $65.5 billion in 1972 (5.0 times larger).

The per capita disposable income of farm people is only three-fourths as much as the per capita disposable income of non-farm people.

Farm people have only three-fourths as much income per capita as non-farm people, even though farmers' income must cover both their rate of return on a $335 billion farm business as well as representing the hourly return on their labor.

Farm people have to rely on off-farm income for half of their total net income, which even then brings their income up to only three-fourths of the per capita disposable income of non-farm people.

Tahoka Not Eligible For City Delivery

A recent survey made by the Superintendent, Delivery and Collections Services of the Lubbock Sectional Center Facility, disclosed the fact that Tahoka does not meet the minimum standards required for the establishment of city delivery service.

A complete tour of each street and avenue in Tahoka was made by the SCF representative accompanied by local Postmaster Charles Townes. Every house in each city block was counted as a possible delivery stop and all businesses were counted and charted on the city map. Vacant houses and business buildings were even counted as potential delivery stops. The SCF representative made a study of the facts and figures revealed by this survey and sent the following message to Postmaster Townes - "Surveys and counts conducted in Tahoka during the months of February and March of 1972 reveal that the city of Tahoka does not meet the minimum requirements and, therefore does not qualify for the establishment of City Delivery."

It seems that the major item preventing city delivery in Tahoka is the fact that a minimum of 2,500 people must live within territory possessing good continuous sidewalks, surfaced streets, house numbers, street signs and mail receptacles or door slots. Even if every street in town were paved, it is doubtful that the minimum 2,500 requirement could be met and, since much of the city's streets are not paved, the count fell short of the minimum.

The minimum requirement has been in effect for only a few years. There are towns smaller than Tahoka which have city delivery that was established years ago.

Football Film Shown Rotary

A film featuring highlights of the Texas Tech 1971 football season was shown at the Rotary Club Thursday by Lete Jackson, executive secretary of the Red Raider Club.

Jackson invited the public to view the final scrimmage of Spring practice in Jones stadium on April 29. Maurice Small introduced Jackson.

Several local club members expect to attend District 573 Rotary Conference in Borger this weekend, according to President Dwain Lusk.

New Jobs Needed For Homemaking

The Cooperative Homemaking Education program needs more jobs for the 1972-73 school year. This has been a very successful program in this, its first year, and the program is ready to expand if more jobs can be secured.

Cooperative students attend high school part time and work at least 15 hours per week in homemaking related occupations such as housekeeping assistants, food service, companion to the elderly (caring for the elderly), child care aide, consumer's aide, clothing assistant and many others. It is possible for a student to work at more than one job to meet the hour requirement.

Each student has individual instructions pertaining to her particular job and minimum supervision by employer is needed as the students are in training. This could be a good opportunity for mothers to acquire part-time babysitters or housekeepers. Those who hire cooperative homemaking students benefit two ways. They have better trained employees and they assist in promoting more responsible individuals in the community. Students who participate in the program receive two credits if they complete the year and they earn some money while completing their high school education so it is good for all concerned.

Anyone interested in hiring cooperative homemaking students during the summer or beginning next fall should contact Mrs. June Reimer, coordinator of the program, at the Homemaking Cottage or they may call her at 998-4474 or at her home 998-4853.

Revival Service

One unique feature of the revival services to be held at Sweet Street Baptist Church next week will be the rap sessions to follow each service. One often hears a pastor or evangelist preach, and has questions concerning what has been said, or would like to hear more about something which is mentioned in the sermon. Others simply would like to ask the speaker about something which has been on his mind for some time. But there is usually no place for such discussion in a revival service! Rev. Wright Price of Flat, Texas, who will be preaching in the revival services at Sweet Street Baptist Church April 23 to 30, invites you to join him for a rap session to follow each service of the revival. Services will be at 11:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. Sunday, and 10:00 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. each weekday. Everyone is invited, and the nursery will be open. Greg Deering, new music and youth director at Sweet Street will be leading the music during the revival. Dan Rupp is pastor of the church.
