Texas voters rejected proposals to increase salaries for legislators, the lieutenant governor and the house speaker Tuesday in early returns, but supported amendments to rewrite the state constitution and give equal rights to women and tax relief to veterans and the aged.

Cotto: producers will be ricking cotton during cotton harvest. Procedures for rick formation are as follows. RICK INFORMATION To begin a rick, make two or three dumps into the ricker. When the height of loose cotton exceeds the height of the compactor by one or two feet, start the ricker. Gather loose cotton by backing the ricker a few feet so that the front wall collects the loose cotton. Then pull the ricker forward until the compactor is positioned above the cotton. Compact the seed cotion by lowering the compactor to the full extent of the cylinders. Pull the ricker forward two to three feet and cycle the compactor again. Repeat the operation again -- and the rick is off to a good start. Go through the three cycling operations for each dump af. ter the rick is started. The total forward movement of the ricker should be from six to nine feet for each dump after the initial two or three dumps. Several factors may vary he forward movement of the ricker after each dump -- the size of the harvester basket, the amount of cotton in the basket, the variety of cotton. and the trash and moisture content.

When you move the ricker forward correctly, the back of the ricker will list from one to four inches when the compactor is down. Your rick will have a fairly even top. If the ricker is not lifted too high, the horizontal bar on the back will drag the top of the rick.

If you want to make the rick higher, cut back on the for. ward movement between dumps. If you want to make it lower, increase the forward movement.

Be sure to raise the compactor anytime you move the ricker forward. Loose cotton should reach or come close to the top of the raised compactor before you cycle the compactor.

If you move the ricker correctly, you will always have enough space for the next dump so that the harvester can always dump cleanly, without any necessity for remov.

Anton Beats O'Donnell, 14-13

The Anton Bulldogs knocked the O'Donnell Eagles out of the drivers seat in the race for the District 5-A crown Friday night, by a score of 14-13.

The Eagles had a 13-0 score at halftime.

O'Donnell exploded for a first quarter touchdown when Ronney Jaspers hauled in a Bennie Hancock pass on a play that spanned 61 yards and netted the first score of the night. Jaspers booted the PAT.

Hancock next found Kevin

Wood open for a 20 yard scoring strike but the PAT failed and the Eagles took a 13-0 lead into the dressing room at intermission. The Eagles are now 4-4 for the year and 2-1 in district action. They can (1) place their cotton in the loan immediately or (2) hold the cotton at their own expense until sometime between harvest and May 31, the final date for putting cotton in the loan. Either choice will yield a financial advantage only if the cotton's price between harvest and loan maturity rises enough to cov-
