An important decision was recently rendered by the Court of Claims at Washington, in a test case, fixing the status of litigants under the Bowman bill, passed by the last Congress. The opinion was carefully drawn by Judge Richardson, who decided substantially that no claim under mystery. the Bowman bill can be considered if the Court had jurisdiction of the same previous to the passage of the Bowman bill, whereof the claimant failed to take advantage within the six years limitation.

THE town talk in Washington the other day was the discovery of the alleged forgeries and flight of Clarence M. Barton, formerly managing editor of the National Republican. Mr. Barton will be remembered as the party who attacked the private character of the well-known journalist, A. M. Sateldo, in the columns of the National Republican, growing out of defense of a fallen murdered his father. woman, who had been assaulted by Jimmy Kegan, formerly a reporter for the New York Herald. This resulted in a personal altercation, in which Sateldo was killed in the editorial rooms of the Republican office. It seems that these forgeries had been known to various parties for some days, but were not made public at an earlier moment, because of sympathy for Barton's sick wife and helpless children. Each was happier than the other, and, although the weather was severely cold, a gale blowing the snow against the car windows, the merry frowd did not heed it as they told how they spent New Year. On rounding a sharp curve just before reaching the Bolt Works the engineer saw a freight train coming thundering down the grade toward him. He reversed the engine, blew a warning and with the fireengine, blew a warning and with the lire-man jumped for his life. The conductor heard the warning, and shouting "Jump, boys, for your lives," sprang into the snow. In a second more there was a terrific crash. The engine of the freight train knocked the boilers of the dummy clear through the first car, crushing the unfortunate passen-gers in every direction, and planing many to the floor. The impetus was so great the to the floor. The impetus was so great the engine actually mounted the truck of the duminy, which kept the rails, and remained on a balance.

he saw a collision was inevitable, sprang from the engine, but Thomas, the fireman, was killed instantly.

To add to the horror of the scene, the boiler of the dummy exploded and the steam and boiling water caused the death and terrible injuries to the maugled and bleeding men. Then the fire, as if maddened at other age cies clutching so many victims, broke out and completed the sickening work, of destruction. Shrieks, growns and heartrending cries for help from the agonized sufferers rent the air. Several poor fellows, suffering untold agonies, with limbs and bodies burnt to a crisp, piteously implored those near them to pour water upon their scalded limbs or put an end to their sufferings. Strong men looked on appalled and many an eye was dim with tears. With every possible phase of disfigurement to be seen, limbs cut, bruised, mangled, half eaten away by fire, swallento enormous size by steam and water, no possible horror was left to the imagination. their sufferings with fortitude and patience, a few groans being the only indication of their intense agony.

The scene at the morgue beggars description. There were fifteen bodies laid side by side in rows. Mothers, sisters, fathers and brothers were to be seen passing from body to body, and with trembling hands lifting the coverlet and gazing on the faces of the dead. Now and then a cry of anguish would tell too plainly of the discovery of some dear one carried off in the prime of manhood.

At the hospital on arrival of the wounded, doctors set to work sewing up wounds and did all in their power to alleviate the sufferings. One man, Jno. Rowlett, died shortly after arrival at the hospital. When found among the debris he spoke cheerfully and asked to be allowed to walk. On look-

No Democratic Mistakes.

When the Republicans attempted to seek comfort for the thorough drub-bing they received a year ago, they affected to find it in the supposed blundering infirmity of their victors. They even fixed the time for the Democratic mistake, and with a generosity that was positively marvelous, offered to assist them into committing it. In the elections of last year the Democracy had wrested the popular branch of Con-gress—the real seat of power, in this as in every other free country-from their, hands and sent them to the background as a party which had forfeited the confidence of the people. The organization of the new House—frequenty a delicate and difficult task, when the governing party's candidates for Speaker represent different sides in a sharp issue-was set for the most opportune occasion for it. If the elated victors could be decoyed into making an unfortunate choice for Speaker, this would be the initial and irreparable fatuity from which an endless progeny of blunders would inevitably follow: and the Republicans made up their minds that this initial and necessary misstep should be taken. They re-solved that one of the ablest and cer-tainly most distinguished Democratic member of the House should be the agent in it. They resolved that Mr. Randall should be, a second time, Speaker of the Democratic House if they could bring it about. And it must be conceded that their choice was wisely made. Mr. Randall possesses many merits to commend him to his par-ty. His experience and courage; his ended June 30, 1872, up to and includhabit of rapid and accurate decision; his familiarity with legislation, and the honors he has heretofore won for his party—all combine to give him claims on his party which, at any other time than the present, could not be set aside in favor of another. And behind all these was still another fact that weighed heavily on his 'side; he was a representative from a powerful Northern State, while his chief opponent came from a section which, it has been assumed for over twenty years, could reduce appropriations!"

On Saturday night, the convent of Notre Dame, at Belleville, Ill., was consumed by fire, the fire orignating from the furnace in the basement; and most of the inmates perished in the flames. The dispatch says: "The bodies were all mear each other, and the Mother Superior's bedy seemed to be in to center of the ghastly circle of black remains." Railroad Commissioners' Decision.

In the complaints from Osage City, New on and Great Bend, against the Santa Fe Railroad Company, that had been before the Board for some time, the Commission ers issued their decision on the 2d. After entering into a general and lengthy review Teachers' Association at Madison, Wis., next July. Senator Ingalls delivered an address before the Association, his subject being "Garfield." The Principals' Association met and elected the following officers: President, D. C. Tillottson, Superintendent of the Topeka schools; Vice-President, T. W. Conway, President of the Independence schools; Secretary, L. M. Knowles, Principal of the Peabody schools; Executive Committee, Prof. Wasso, of Mound City. Prof. Sherry, of Valley Falls, and Prof. Chidester, of Oswego. The County Superintendents then met and passed a resolution requesting the State Superintendent or State Board of Education to prepare a course of study for country schools. The State Superintendent said a course of study would be issued in eight weeks. A course of study a great deal larger than the one in use at Institutes could be published by him at a cost of from three to five cents a copy. These should be distributed not only among teachers and parents but among pupils, so that each boy and girl might know exactly what was expected for each day. This would enable pupils who missed a few weeks to keep their studies up at home.

The Pudding in the Chair.

A paragraph of State news, embody-ing a droll Thanksgiving incident at a dinner table in Wyndham, leads Dr. C. B. Lyman, of this city, to recall a similar occurrence in that neighborhood a long time ago-before he was born, and he eighty. In the original incident (which was a true story) the "head of the table," a lawyer, while standing to carve the turkey, found a need of more room, and so set a big dish of hot pud-ding in his own chair. The company, seeing the chance for fun, diverted his mind from the pudding by introducing a lively theme that set all a-laughingand when Mr. Carver sat down he sat in the hot pudding. The later version -whether of a new and real incident or an improvement on the old one-is that at the recent Thanksgiving in Wyndham the carver found the turkey a tough one to unjoint, and, after tugging awhile at it, he made more room by clapping a big dish of hot pudding into his vacant chair, and went on hacking at the turkey, his energetic but ill-directed labor finally landing the obdurate fowl in the lap of a lady at the table, and spattering the table cloth with grease and gravy. The carver, aghast, and ruefully ecclaiming: "Now I've done it!" weakly subsided into the pudding, and found he had indeed done it.-Hartford Times.

$20,000 Gone! SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.-The Chronicle publishes in substance the following mar-vel. Captain W. F. Swasey, the oldest pioneer of the coast, makes a statement of the intense suffering of his friend Col. D. J. Williamson, an Army officer of distinction and an Ex-U. S. Consul, who was attacked in the winter of 1861-2 with violent rheumatism. So great was his agony in after years, he became a helpless cripple, and after trying numberless remedies, the baths of other countries and spending a fortune of $20,000, the disease somed to assume a more virulent type. Finally, he was persuaded to try St. Jacobs Oil, the great conqueror of pain. It worked a miracle of cure. In a letter to the Chronicle be confirms Capt. Swasey's statement and adds: "I cheerfully give my unqualified attestation to the truthfulness of the statement, because I feel perfectly certain that a knowledge of my cure by St. Jacobs Oil will prove the means of relieving hundreds

Twenty-five Per Cent. Stronger than any Other Butter Color,

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 3, 1882. I hereby certify that I have examined the Butter Color prepared by Wells, Rich-ardson & Co., and that the same is free from alkali or any other substance injuri-ous to health; that I have compared it with some of the best of the other Butter Colors in the market and find it to be more than twenty-five per cent. stronger in color than the best of the others.

I am satisfied that it is not liable to be-

pectant throng of passengers bound for a foreign shore.

She never entered port.

The mystery of her untimely end grows "Samaritan Nervine cured my daughter deeper as the years increase, and the Atoffits," said Jno. Murphy, of Albany, O. mysterious fate of that magnificent vessel are alluded to.

Our reporter, on a recent visit to New York, took lunch with Captain George Siddons Murray, on board the Alaska, of the Guion line. Captain Murray is a man of stalwart build, well-knit frame and cheery, genial disposition. He has been a constant voyager for a quarier of a century, over half of that time having been in the trans-Atlantic service. In the course of the conversation over the well-spread table, the mystery of the City of Boston was alluded to.

"Yes," remarked the Captain, "I shall never forget the last night we saw that ill-fa'ed vessel. I was chief officer of the City of Antwerp. On the day we sighted the City of Boston a furious southeast hurricane set in. Both vessels labored hard. The sea seemed determined to sweep away every vestige of life. When day ended the gale did not abate, and everything was lashed for a night of unusual fury. Our good ship was turned to the south to avoid the possibility of ice-bergs. The City of Boston, however, undoubtedly went to the north. Her boats, life-preservers and rafts were all securely lashed; and when she went down everything went with her, never to re-appear until the sea gives upits dead."

"What, in your opinion, Captain, was the cause of the loss of the City of Boston?"

"The City of Limerick, in almost precisely the same latitude, a few days later, found the sea full of floating ice; and I have no doubt the City of Boston collided with the ice, and sumk immediately."

Captain Murray has been in command of the Alaska ever since she was put in commission and feels justly proud of his noble why.

Captain Murray has been in command of the Alaska ever since she was put in com-mission and feels justly proud of his noble ship. She carries thousands of passengers every year, and has greatly popularized the Williams & Guion line. Remarking upon the bronzed and healthy appearance of the Captain, the reporter said that sea life did not seem to be a very great phys-ical trial.

"No? But a person's appearance is not always a trustworthy indication of his physical condition. For seven years I have been in many respects very much out of sorts with myself. At certain times I was so lame that it was difficult for me to move around. I could scarcely straighten up. I did not know what the trouble was, and though I performed all my duties regularly and satisfactorily, yet I felt that I might some day be overtaken with some serious prostrating disorder. These troubles increased. I feit dull and then, again, shooting pains through my arms and limbs. Possibly the next day I would feels flushed and unaccountably uneasy and the day following chilly and despondent. This continued until last December, when I was prostrated soon after leaving Queenstown, and for the remainder of the voyage was a helpless, pitiful sufferer. In January last, a friend who made that voyage with me, wrote me a letter urging me to try a new course of treatment. I gladity accepted his counsel, and for the last seven months have given thorough and business-like attention to the recovery of my natural health; and to-day, I have the proud satisfaction of saying to you that the lame back, the strange feelings, the ical trial.
"No? But a person's appearance is not my natural health; and to-day, I have the proud satisfaction of saying to you that the lame back, the strange feelings, the sciatic rheumatism which have so long pursued me, have entirely disappeared through the blood-purifying influence of Warner's Safe Rheumatic Cure which entirely eradicated all rheumatic poison from my system. Indeed, to me, it seems that it has worked wonders, and I therefore most cordially commend it,"

"And you have no trouble now in exposing yourself to the winds of the Atlantic?"

"And you have no trouble now in exposing yourself to the winds of the Atlantic?"
"Not the least. I am as sound as a bullet and I feel specially thankful over the fact because I believe rheumatic and kidney disease is in the blood of my family. I was dreadfully shocked on my last arrival in Liverpool to learn that my brother, who is a wealthy China tea merchan, had suddenly died of Bright's disease of the kidneys, and consider myself extremely fortneys, and consider myself extremely fort-unate in having taken my trouble in time and before any more serious effects were possible."

and before any more serious effects were possible."

The conversation drifted to other topics, and as the writer watched the face before him, so strong in all its outlines and yet so genial, and thought of the innumerable exposures and hardships to which its owner had been exposed, he instinctively wished all who are suffering from the terrible rheumatic troubles now so common might know of Captain Murray's experience and the means by which he had been restored. Fain is a common thing in this world, but far too many endure it when they might just as well avoid it. It is a false philosophy which teaches us to endure when we can just as readily avoid. So thought the hearty Captain of the Alaska, so thinks the writer and so should all others think who desire happiness and a long life. who desire happiness and a long life.
