4-H'ers Attend Camp

Eight Lynn County 4-H'ers spent five days this week (Aug. 12-16) learning professional ways of riding and handling a horse.

The occasion was the first District 2 4-H Horsemanship Camp at the new livestock pavilion on the Panhandle South Plains Fairgrounds in Lubbock. It was the first event ever for the new fairgrounds facility, said County Extension Agent Bill Griffin.

Some 60 4-H'ers from across the South Plains participated. Skills were taught by a team of four Texas Agricultural Extension 4-H program assistants.

Subjects taught included western horsemanship, biting, reining, basic maneuvers, and specialized events such as barrel racing and pole bending. Climax of the event was an instructional show conducted by the 4-H'ers themselves, said Griffin.

The four college students from Texas A & M University who taught the five-day course were Pete Gibbs of Wichita Falls, Carol Swanson of Dallas, Jo An Snodgrass of San Angelo, and Barbara Nagel of Houston.

"These students have been trained to conduct educational programs," Griffin added,

Tahoka Historical Marker Dedication Set For Labor Day

Plans were completed Tuesday for dedication of the "Tahoka" historical marker on Monday, Sept. 2, at 6 p.m. in front of the local municipal building.

Appearing on the dedication program will be John Ed Redwine, county chairman of the Texas Historical Commission; Mayor Meldon Leslie; Lee Holden, president of Tahoka Lions Club; and a representative of the state historical commission.

Complete details of the program and wording of the marker will appear in next week's issue of The News.

"and have spent the entire summer traveling throughout the state.

"The idea of conducting horsemanship camps as a part of the 4-H program originated in Texas last year, and is believed to be the first such event in the nation," he said. "Youths go back to the counties to share their learning experiences with younger 4-H'ers.

In effect, the program serves to upgrade horsemanship skills, not only increasing the effectiveness of the 4-H program but providing a way to develop good training on the safe, proper ways to ride and handle horses."

Sponsor of the horsemanship camp was the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with the Panhandle South Plains Fairgrounds, Steve Lewis, manager.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS

Cases of blackleg in cattle are increasing over Texas, according to the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory at Texas A & M University. Thus, County Extension Agent Bill Griffin urges cattlemen to take the necessary precautions to protect young animals from the fatal disease.

Raising calves without immunization is hazardous, emphasizes Griffin. Most cattlemen realize the danger of blackleg and routinely vaccinate their calves. However, some become complacent because they don't hear of blackleg outbreaks and therefore fail to vaccinate.

Griffin points out that vaccinating calves too early can cause blackleg. Calves up to three months of age fail to develop a lasting immunity. Vaccination should be at the age of four months and should be repeated annually until the animal is at least two years old.

Before beginning a preventive vaccination program, Griffin suggests a visit to the local veterinarian for advice on disease problems in the particular area. Certain vaccine combinations are available at a relatively low cost that will protect calves from a series of diseases.

With the increased costs of regular commercial fertilizers, many products appear on the market with fantastic and unrealistic claims as to their value. Thus customers would beware of such products and should take close note of the label before making a purchase.

Texas fertilizer laws and regulations require that products sold as fertilizer show on the label the percent nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and other nutrients, if claimed. Those products which do not indicate specific percentage of plant nutrients should not be purchased for application to soils as fertilizers. Fertilizers supply nutrients needed for plant growth. Since most soils contain some of all the essential nutrients, plants will grow without fertilization. Fertilizers just make them grow better.

Nitrogen and phosphorus are most often deficient in Texas soils, with potassium being third. Therefore, the primary purpose of fertilization is to supply on or more of these 3 major plant nutrients. Wide variation exists between soils as to the levels of available nutrients present. A soil test can provide valuable information about these levels and serve as the basis for determining what nutrients should be in the fertilizer.

The Annual Bethel Church Reunion will be held Sunday, Aug. 25 at the Tahoka Community center. Registration will begin at 10 a.m. All former members and their families are invited to come and bring a basket lunch.

Carolyn Haley Says . . .

Failure to keep potentially hazardous food cold causes a large percentage of food-borne disease outbreaks every year.

Potentially hazardous foods are those containing milk or milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, and shellfish. This includes custards, cream pies, and potato salad.

The disease-producing bacteria or bacterial toxins in these foods are tricky. It's not enough that the food looks all right and tastes delicious--it may still contain the organisms to cause sickness.

One reliable way to avoid food-borne disease is to refrigerate the hazardous foods immediately after buying them and again after cooking them.

Spoilage organisms which survive cooking cause souring of foods--but prompt refrigeration eliminates the problem.

Who sets the prices on items at the grocery store? Surprisingly enough, we, the consumer play a large part in determining what the final price of a retail item will be.

Pricing is controlled basically by the principle of supply and demand. And the consumer's shopping decisions influence the demand for a given product.

For example, the homemaker's decision to buy ground beef because steak is too expensive may reflect a lower demand for steak--ultimately affecting the price.

It's up to the producer and marketer to set their prices, but this isn't entirely a random process. They look closely at consumer behavior.

Retailers also have to consider what their competitors are charging for the same products. Then they have to set their prices at the point where they can cover costs, and make a small profit.

Crop Conditions Near Disaster

If conditions continue to deteriorate throughout the grain sorghum production area, the total overall production level will be near disaster, according to A.W. Anthony, Jr. of Friona Tx., president of the Grain Sorghum Producers Assn.

Anthony made the remarks during an address at the annual meeting of the U.S. Feed Grains Council this week (Aug. 7-9) in Stratton Mountain, Vermont.

"This year adverse weather conditions, including severe drouth, have caused prices to soar, but only a few producers will be wearing broad smiles with the increased prices," Anthony said. "A farmer whose production has been wiped out because of drouth will receive no benefits, even if grain prices were to go up to $10 per hundred pounds."

"Those of us who have irrigated but will have a short crop because of the extremely hot, dry summer will not be receiving the income that the higher prices might indicate due to reduced yields. The farmer who has only half his normal yield would have to receive twice the normal price in order to maintain the same income."

In summarizing sorghum crop conditions throughout the U.S., Anthony said the only bright spots are the valley area of South Texas and the Gulf Coast area. Crops in the Blacklands, East Central Texas, Rolling Plains, South Plains, eastern New Mexico, High Plains and throughout Kansas and Nebraska are far below earlier expectations and production levels will be down considerably from 1973.

"Just a rough estimate at this time is that our total production will be at least 20 percent below last year's crop," Anthony said. "This would drop the total production for 1974 to 750 million bushels or less. And we feel that it is quite possible for it to drop another 10 percent, even without further crop deterioration."

Including stocks on hand, Anthony estimated this country's total supply of grain is very likely not to exceed 811 million bushels for the coming marketing year. "Earlier predictions by the USDA showed an export market of 200 million bushels and a domestic market of 700 million. With the higher price levels of this fall's crops, both the domestic and export markets will be cut somewhat but taking everything into consideration, it appears that we will be about 100 million bushels short of earlier demand estimates," Anthony said.

Field Day Sept. 10

The 65th Annual Field Day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station will be held at Lubbock on Tuesday, September 10, 1974 from 1:00-6:30 p.m. The Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center is 7 1/2 miles north of Lubbock on Highway 87. The Cooperating Agencies are ARS-USDA National Weather Service and the Texas Agricultural Service. There will be tours, conferences, and displays. Special Evening tours will be conducted from 5:30-6:30 p.m. You are welcome. Four highlights will be soil water research, soil fertility, short-season, narrow-row cotton, weed control research and sorghum insect pest management. You are welcome.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Farmers in the Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation District are facing a critical wind erosion problem for the coming year. Crop residues which normally protect much of our soil just have not been produced this year.

Since the Dust Bowl days blowing sand has been accepted as a part of poor crop years. However it is not too late this year to raise some crops for this needed soil protection.

With our recent showers, several farmers are now planting forage sorghums. A late frost could even give cattlemen some grazing in addition to soil cover. To get a good growth, sorghum needs to be planted as soon as possible.

Small grain and winter legumes are also excellent possibilities. Optimum planting dates for these crops are until the middle of October. In addition to soil protection, a legume cover crop could be a valuable source of nitrogen.

The Lynn County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee is working on a program to provide financial assistance for emergency tillage and cover crops. The emergency tillage includes deep plowing and chiseling. Additional information will be available as soon as the program gets final approval.

Seven Accidents In Lynn County

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated seven accidents on rural highways in Lynn County during the month of July, 1974 according to Sergeant H.E. Pirtle, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in no persons killed and three persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first seven months of 1974 shows a total of 40 accidents resulting in three persons killed and 31 persons injured.

The rural traffic accident summary for the 60 counties of the Lubbock Department of Public Safety Region for July, 1974, shows a total of 485 accidents resulting in 18 persons killed and 280 persons injured as compared to June, 1973, with 658 accidents resulting in 21 persons killed and 366 persons injured. This was 173 less accidents, three less killed, and 86 less injured in 1974 at the same period of time.

The 18 traffic deaths for the month of July, 1974, occurred in the following counties: Four in Dear Smith; two each in Garza and Haskell; and one each in Oldham, Wilbarger, King, Palo Pinto, Dallam, Montague, Parker, Terry, Wise and Roberts.

Greenbugs In Grain Sorghum

An infestation of greenbugs continues to beset High Plains grain sorghum crops. But intensive research, funded by the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, reveals that certain chemicals used in low rates are relatively effective.

Entomologists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock feel the failure of known chemicals to provide control may lie in greenbug resistance.

Jack King, research director for TGSPB and the Grain Sorghum Producers Association, says research indicates Cygon, if available, or Parathion, gives excellent results. Either can be applied effectively at the low rate of a half pint per acre.

King points out, however, that Parathion has a tendency to cause an explosion in the grass mite population, making it less desirable to use than some other chemicals.

"Thimet granular is also giving good greenbug control," King said. "But since it provides good control in mites as well, and since it can be applied only once a year under Environmental Protection Agency standards, it should be reserved for use in areas where the mite problem exists, along with the greenbugs," he said.

"The use of low rates is encouraged since high rates build resistance much faster," King said. "If a half pint will do the job and allow the beneficials to remain, then why use a pint."

The area hardest hit by the greenbug infestation in north of Plainview to the Canadian River.

Lynn County Ranked 3rd In Cotton Production

Lynn County ranked 3rd in Texas upland cotton production in 1973, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has reported.

Cotton farmers produced a total of 275,800 bales and averaged 558 pounds per harvested acre.

Total cotton acreage for Lynn County was 237,300 harvested acres. Texas led the nation in production of upland cotton with a yield of 4,673,000 bales.

Dawson County ranked first in Texas upland cotton production with 315,300 bales.

The High and Low Plains are the largest cotton producing areas in Texas, and last year's combined production was over 2.7 million bales.

"Ideal growing and harvesting conditions produced one of the best quality crops last year on the Texas Plains," White said.

Complete production figures for cotton are in the "1973 Texas as Cotton Statistics." For copies of the book, write Texas Department of Agriculture, John C. White, Commissioner, P.O. Box 12874, Austin, Texas 78711.

The work, supervised by District Engineer George C. Jr., will be in Lynn County primary.

A contract was awarded Henry L. Stafford and Company and Woodruff, Inc. of Lubbock. Low bid was $1,105,050.26.

The project, which will require an estimated 100 work days, will be under Highway Department Engineer H. Ables of Lamesa.

The contract is for asphalt stabilized base, asphalt concrete pavement and seal on the shoulders on U.S. Highway 87 from 1 mile south of Tahoka to the Dawson County Line, a distance of 12.8 miles.

Faith Circle Meets In Post

The Faith Circle of the United Methodist Church met August 12, 1974 in the home of Emma Mueller and Linda Post, Texas for its regular monthly luncheon. Fourteen members from Tahoka attended and two visitors. The occasion was special in that the members had birthdays of month - Mrs. Georgia Cook, Mrs. Mueller, and Mrs. Mallie Edwards. Lady Stewart made the birthday cake.

The program that followed luncheon was reports given by Mrs. Mary (Stewart) Edwards on her recent tour of Europe, Pherne Cade on her trip to Russia, and Mrs. Mallie Edwards on her vacation to Red River.

The circle voted to meet each Monday beginning September 9 during the Bible study that will be directed by Mrs. Letha Porterfield.

The views of Texas cotton farmers with regard to proposed Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) requirements for protective devices on farm machinery and equipment will be voiced September 4 at a hearing in Oklahoma City by Woodrow Hart of Sinton, Texas, cotton producer and Executive Vice President of the South Texas Cotton and Grain Association.

The decision that Texas cotton producers would speak with a united voice on the issue was made August 14 at a Dallas meeting of the Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations. TACPO is composed of seven cotton commodity groups in Texas representing growers of over 80 percent of the state's production.

It is also planned that a qualified, experienced agricultural engineer will accompany Hart at the hearings to back up TACPO's contention that some of the proposals, especially as they would apply to machinery already in existence, are both economically and physically impractical.

The requirements proposed by OSHA in the February 8 Federal Register would call for protective devices on power transmission, electrical and other farm machinery components, to be installed on all tractors, harvesters and other farm equipment, whether existing or yet to be manufactured.

Hart's testimony before the hearing examiners will reflect and expand upon sentiments already expressed to OSHA by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. of Lubbock, TACPO's largest member organization. The PCG Board of Directors resolved on April 18 of this year that OSHA's final regulations for agricultural machinery should not be adopted until each requirement was determined beyond all doubt to be effective and practical and "that new protective devices be required only on new machinery manufactured after the publication of such final requirements."

PCG was among the many agricultural organizations and individuals requesting that hearings be held to determine the desirability and practicality of OSHA farm regulations. In addition to the Oklahoma City hearing, a hearing is scheduled August 22 in Washington, D.C., August 26 in Madison, Wisconsin, and August 29 at Phoenix, Arizona.

"Many of the measures proposed by OSHA would require customized protective equipment on each of the many makes and models of all types of machinery in existence," notes Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of PCG, "which makes compliance with the proposed regulations impractical if not impossible. And we hope OSHA officials can be made to recognize this fact before issuing their regulations."

The most recent guidelines for appraising weather-damaged cotton crops, received the week of August 12 by county offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), "are considerably improved and should permit more reasonable application of the disaster provisions in the present government program for cotton," according to Don Marble of South Plains, President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

PCG has been seeking changes in the "formula" used for appraising hail and drought-damaged cotton since early in the Spring when farmers complained that appraisals were not reflecting realistic yield potentials, and the criteria for judging drought-stricken crops have now been changed for the second time.

Currently ASCS has authority to appraise at "zero" potential fields where plants are no more than eight inches tall with only one or two blooms. Previously it was required in addition that plants be gray in color and remain in a curled or wilted condition overnight.

There she competed with 166 very talented and pretty girls.

Tawn did not win an award, but she was very excited and proud that her Mother and Dad each won a trophy as Mr. and Mrs. Congeniality. This was the first time for awards to be presented to a husband and wife in the Universal Pageant.
They were also given a key to the city of Baton Rouge. Tawn was thrilled to be with and performed with a former Miss America, Vonda Van Dyke. She had the pleasure of meeting the governor of Louisiana, Edwin

This whole pageant has been an experience long remembered by this young lady and her family and they are indeed grateful to all who helped in any way for making this most enjoyable.
