Program For Aged Is Planned Here

A local survey is underway by the Community Action Committee to determine desires of Senior Citizens preparatory to installation of the programs to aid them, Judith Jackson, aging services coordinator of the South Plains Association of Governments, revealed in a talk at the Rotary Club last week.

She reviewed the history of the program to help aged and retired people, and outlined some of the projects that can be adopted locally. Purpose of the program is to provide activities to keep older people active in the community and to provide help to many who are unable or who have no incentive to take an active part in community affairs.

The program for aged are sponsored by SPAG, and the County and local Community Action Committee headed by Robert E. Abbe, and taking the lead in planning for a local program.

County Judge V. F. Jones introduced the speaker.

The club heard brief reports of the District Conference at Pampa, where Dr. Emil Prohl was honored. As District Governor of Rotary, he had completed plans for the event before his sudden death.

Ladd Roberts Corps of Cadets

Ladd Wells Roberts of Tahoka has been chosen for command responsibility in the 1975-76 Corps of Cadets at Texas A&M University. He will be the top-ranked officer in the Second Battalion.

One of 10 Battalion and group commanders, he will hold rank at the third level one above company and squadron. At that level, the cadet will have responsibility for three to five company type units and his staff. Cadet commissioned officers in the TAMU Corps come from the senior class. Juniors are chosen as cadet non-commissioned officers. Sophomores may attain rank of corporal. Command assignments, from corps commander to squad leader and company leaders, are made on the basis of performance at other leadership levels, academic standing and peer evaluation.

The Corps is known as "leadership lab" for cadets in TAMU's Army, Air Force Navy and Marine Corps officer commissioning programs. Students who do not plan to enter the U. S. military participate as drills and ceremonies cadets, however, to obtain the leadership training and personal development the Corps provides.

New command assignments officially become effective next fall. But Class of 1976 officers will take the posts for the first time May 10 at Final Review.

Roberts is an agricultural economic major at TAMU. An Army ROTC contract cadet, the son of James F. Roberts, 1903 Ave. R., Tahoka was formerly in Company D-1.

If you were not contacted during the Cancer Crusade and would like to make a donation or would like to receive information about cancer, contact any of your local ACS Board Members. Please send your donation or your inquiry to Mrs. Macky Turner, Tahoka, or Mr. Howard Moore, O'Donnell, or Mrs. Jo Ann Steinhäuser, Wilson. ADVERTISING FERTILIZERS: The Advisory Committee to the Fertilizer Control Service has discussed the use of the public press in advertising the effects of soil ac-tivators on crop yields. Some companies advertising soil activators follow the practice of printing a part of experimental data out of context. The most recent use of this system has reference to a Southern Cooperative series bulletin 189 released in August of 1974 by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. This bulletin entitled "Effect of Two Soil Activators on Crop Yields and Activities of Soil Micro-organisms in the Southern United States" was a joint regional publication of the agricultural experiment station of Texas, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and the United States Department of Agriculture. All advertising material citing experiment station results should be checked. It is easy to obtain a copy of the published material referred to in the advertisement. County agricultural agents usually have copies of published research data. Copies of this bulletin may be obtained by writing to the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, College Station, Texas. A summary of the report follows:

Two soil activators, "Medina and Supernate" were evaluated by state and federal soil scientists in a cooperative research program in the Southern States of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, and Texas. The goal was an objective evaluation of these products, using the best scientific methods and experimental procedures. Since extreme variability exists within fields, the scientists repeated the treatments, in well designed trials, to estimate the natural variability existing in soil, irrigation or rain water distribution, and crop growth, in evaluating the true effects of soil activators on crop yields. Additional laboratory and greenhouse tests were conducted to probe reasons how and why crops might respond to these products. Results from these extensive studies are briefly summarized:

1. Based on laboratory analyses, Medina and Supernate contain plant nutrients that are already common to soils. Amounts of these elements, that would be added to soil, based on manufacturer's recommendations, would be low in relation to crop nutrient requirements.

2. Application of these products at recommended rates did not alter the number or activity of microorganisms that were naturally present in soil. The microorganism population in the products was considered to be too low for the products to be regarded as soil or plant inoculants.

3. The severity of cotton root rot was not reduced in greenhouse tests or in well - designed field trials where plots were of reasonable size for plant or yield evaluation.

4. Yields of grain sorghum, cotton, oats, or bermudagrass forage, soybeans, rice, peanuts, or tomatoes were not significantly increased with recommended application of Medina or Supernate. Products were evaluated both with and without conventional fertilizers, on a wide variety of soils, and in irrigated and dryland fields. Where yields of succeeding crops were obtained, there was no indication of a delayed benefit. (EFFECT OF TWO SOIL ACTIVATORS ON CROP YIELDS AND ACTIVITIES OF SOIL MICROORGANISMS IN THE SOUTHERN UNITED STATES)

COTTON LOAN PROGRAM: CCC loan entries of 1974 crop cotton reported through March 27 totaled 2,179,600 bales. Loan repayments were reported on 569,200 bales through the end of March, leaving loans outstanding on 1,610,400 bales. Through the end of March last year, 1,734,800 bales of 1973 - crop cotton had been placed under CCC loan and 928,500 bales had been repaid, leaving loans outstanding on 806,300 bales of 1973 - crop cotton.

End of March CCC - owned and loan stocks: CCC - owned cotton (uncatalogued) - 101; CCC - loan cotton: 1973 crop upland loan stocks - 124; 1974 - crop upland loan stocks - 1,580,363; 1974 - crop American Pima loan stocks - 30,074; Total CCC controlled cotton - 1,610,662.

FERTILIZER RACKET: The following UPI story is copied from the Waco paper:

Brownsville, Texas (UPI) Authorities said Tuesday the uncovering of a mammoth fertilizer smuggling operation at the Port of Brownsville has led to expansion of the investigation to include the entire 2,000 - mile long U. S. Mexico border.

Assistant U. S. Attorney John Smith of Brownsville, who heading the criminal in-who is heading the criminal aspect of the investigation, said he would seek indictments against at least eight individuals in connection with an operation which allegedly smuggled $10.5 million worth of anhydrous ammonia liquid fertilizer into the United States from Mexico in a one - year period.

U. S. Customs agents, who broke open the operation last January when an inspect spotted a purportedly empty railroad tank car leaking ammonia while rolling back from Matamoros, Mexico, said the investigation was extending to "wherever a railroad crosses the border" from Southern California to Brownsville.

"We have essentially completed the (Brownsville) anhydrous ammonia investigation for a period of one year, December, 1973 to December, 1974", Smith said. "So far we are talking about the illegal importation of over $10.5 million worth of fertilizer. That's only one year's worth."

"The scope of the investigation, however, has continued to increase. Smith said he had "reams and reams of data" in the complicated smuggling plan in which the government of Mexico was the big loser. He said the Mexican government was buying the anhydrous ammonia on the world market at $400 to $500 a ton and reselling it to farmers south of the border for $120 to $150 in a subsidy program.

However, authorities allege instead of going to the farmers, some of the ammonia was being illegally returned to the United States and sold again at the world market price.

Among seven U. S. corporations identified by the officials as having bought the illegal ammonia were American Grain and Cattle Corp., San Antonio based corporation which is involved in bankruptcy proceedings in Kansas, and Wycon Corp.

The others they named were John T. Chemicals, Oklahoma; Nipack, Oklahoma; American Agribusiness Corp. Christi, Texas; Neel Cooper Grain, Ohio, and International Commodities Products, Inc., New York.

"Each was implemented in virtually the same way," Smith said. "Each was a little bit different from another. They are essentially the same, that is they take advantage of the Mexican farmers' price and that of the world market."

SCHOOL TAXES: The following UPI story is copied from the Waco paper for your information: JUDGE'S ORDER AGAINST SCHOOL TAX PLAN UPHOLD

The Texas Supreme Court Tuesday refused to stop a district judge from prohibiting the San Augustine School District to implement a new property tax system to improve its dilapidated public schools.

The court, in a three - page ruling, also denied the school district's request to make certain property owners establish the value of their properties as part of the new taxing system.

The school district asked the court to overturn the temporary injunction granted by District Judge O'Neal Bacon blocking the implementation of the new tax plan.

The Texas Education Agency had warned the school district it was in danger of losing state accreditation in every grade because of the rundown condition of its properties. San Augustine is the county seat of San Augustine County on the Texas-Louisiana border near the Toledo Bend Reservoir.

The district planned to raise $60 million in new property taxes so it could sell school improvement bonds. But the Kirby Lumber Co. brought suit and Bacon granted a temporary injunction against the tax plan.

Another hearing in the suit before Bacon is set for April 16.

Kirby contended in its petition to the Supreme Court that the tax plan is arbitrary and is based on "no uniform assessment, no assessment of all property in proportion to its value."

TEXAS FEVER TICK: The United States Department of Agriculture announced a new research program on cattle fever tick at Falcon Heights, Texas. United States producers, with the assistance of various government agencies, have waged a 37 - year battle against the Texas fever tick which causes a dread disease, Texas Fever.

During the last three years there have been two confirmed cases of tick fever in Texas cattle. It is probable that other cases have occurred and gone unrecognized or were diagnosed as anaplasmosis, a closely related blood disease of cattle. The tick that carries the fever is a native of Mexico and periodically they are reintroduced into Texas. In 1972, an outbreak of ticks occurred in a fairly large area of South Texas, more than 100 miles from the border. Texas cattle have no immunity to the disease, so outbreaks of the ticks pose a very real threat to the Texas cattle industry.

The goal of the research will be to find a successful way to immunize cattle against the fever.

CARE AND FEEDING EVERGREENS

Most folks think that digging a hole, dropping in a tree, and covering it with dirt and the evergreen is a healthy, low cost way to plant a tree. Actually, the planting process begins before your purchase home. Evergreens are a year and a half of them die before planted! Select only a plant that is half-grown with the largest pick the shock. I always pick the tallest. Take care to avoid damage when you transport evergreens. Bring them home. Make sure the plant is not too small. The roots and start of the plant. Dig a large hole again as wide as the half of the container. Don't dig too deep. The hole should be 2 inches deeper than the hole in the nursery. When ready, add a large bone meal and Lawl's Gypsum in the bottom hole. Then half-fill the hole with a 50-50 mixture of soil. Sprinkle with water. Don't wash away the soil. The hole or after it is completely filled the hole with soil. Sprinkle with water. The ground firmly in your foot to eliminate air or hollow spots. Later and expose roots to air or cause the plant to die.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS

Fertilizer tonnage and amount of plant nutrients per ton have declined in Texas, a trend that could have a negative effect on rural economies.

According to figures released by the Texas Feed and Fertilizer Control Service, fertilizer tonnage registered with that agency totaled 1,985,685 tons during the period September 1, 1973, through March 31, 1974.

Dr. Flake Fisher, director of the Feed and Control Service, said tonnage from September 1, 1974, through March 31, 1975, is 1,378,653 tons - a 31 percent drop in one year.

The Feed and Fertilizer Control Service is a unit of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Fisher said quantity of plant nutrients per ton is also reduced an estimated 10 percent for the same time period. Therefore, total fertilizer nutrients used by Texas farmers and ranchers may be down by fully one-third.

What might be the economic impact of the trend? Fisher says reduced yield per acre leads to less total gross revenue to Texas agriculture and fewer expenditures in local economies. Business activities slows down.

Every reduction for $1 spent for fertilizer may reduce economic activity in a local area as much as $3. The result is rapid decline of the typical rural Texas community, the director said.

Lower output of farm foods, he added, almost invariably leads to higher retail prices for food.

Bill that would ban purchase of imported beef by state agencies and institutions operated by political subdivisions of state given final approval by the House 106-19 -- (I was coauthor)

STATE AFFAIRS Committee in the past two weeks has met a total of eight times -- Utilities were considered in six meetings for 19 hours and 30 minutes. The two other meetings were on bills of general interest for a total of 4 hours and 40 minutes.

ON UTILITIES COMMISSION -- It appears that there will be some kind of Utilities Bill passed out of State Affairs - could be a vote of 10 to 7 -- (my vote will be no).

Senate Current Resolution read and adopted - requesting use of Memorial Stadium for a teachers rally on April 26.

New Dept. of Labor poverty - level definitions make legislators with one child poverty level.

STATUS OF MY BILLS: H. B. 680 - Recodification of State Seed Laws - voted out of Agr. Cmte.

H. B. 783 - Unknown Mineral Interest Owners bill-out of Judiciary Cmte.

H. B. 756 - Passed House Municipal Court can hear cases by truant officers on school drop outs.

H. B. 1089 - Weather modification & Hail Supp. - out of Natural Resources Cmte.

HCR 60 - Endorsing Investigation by Railroad Comm. into Hydrogen Sulfide Gas - Signed by Governor.

H. B. 1181 - Adding Speaker & Lt. Governor to Board of Intergovernmental Affairs Council - passed House and Senate.

H. B. 1528 - Cotton Contracting - to be out of Agr. Cmte. soon.

ATTY. GEN. OPINION - Personal notes made during open meetings are not subject to open records law. Also, Committee requested me to ask Gen Hill if counties could do private road work. He said NO unless it served a public purpose.

I have set for Hearing many land use bills in Intergovernmental Affairs - could be 3 weeks of hearings. Looks like boats and motors will be titled. They're trying to title tractors (don't believe they will get it done)

A NEW CONSTITUTION We voted article by article this is a product of over 7 months work last year - you will have the opportunity to vote this November I was against the Judiciary (mostly because of additional costs). Also against the Education Article (it will weaken local control -- and could set up a centralized taxing agency in Austin so that each student in Texas could receive equal educational opportunity regardless of where he lived.) Against the Legislative Article (because number of days we would be permitted to meet in annual sessions).

ERA - Hundreds of people were here and many testified -- constitutional lawyers for both sides said women could be drafted and that many laws would be voided - the bill went to subcommittee and no one knows what will happen next.

Don't look for a comprehensive change in finance of public education -- it could be limited to increasing teachers starting salaries from $6600 to not more than $8000 PLUS additional transportation for all schools on equal basis PLUS maintenance and operations funds to help alleviate expenses for the local tax payer.

SIGNED BY GOV. - Resolution declaring "Texas Highways" to be the official travel magazine for the state.

Reported favorably out of committee (Senate) -- bill providing consumers with info concerning deceptive trade practices.

Speaker Clayton produced figures to show the '75 House is moving faster than the '73 bunch. He said 218 members have made it to the floor compared to the 165 at this time in '73.

Transportation Chairman said -- the motion to put off consideration of the bills for a Telephone Commission means there's no chance for such a commission this session.

HOUSE KILLED H. B. 1018 for an Agency Shop -- would have authorized employers and labor unions to force non - union employees to pay fees to the union equal to union dues.

PASSED SENATE -- S. B. 718 to prevent butane dealers from running out of gas during unseasonal cold spells.

APPROVED BY CMTE. -- bill to provide that at least 20 percent of each new med school class voluntarily contract practices in rural areas.

PASSED HOUSE -- bill that increases the maximum rate if pay for election judges and clerks from $2 to $3 per hour -- also increases amount of payment to the judge who delivers returns of an election from $5 to $15.

To be heard in State Affairs this week -- a bill to create a State Commission of Cosmetologists and Barbers.

HOUSE APPROVED -- on second reading -- bill authorizing Dept. of Public Safety to cancel and suspend vehicle inspection station certification where repairs or replacements are "fraudulently" required for passing inspection.

SENT TO SENATE -- bill that would put a state silhouette, rather than a 5 - pointed star, on Texas license plates.

SJR 11 -- Proposed new state constitution - passed Senate and House in different forms, compromise approved by both houses - sent to Governor.

A property tax reform bill by Peveto -- touted as the necessary preliminary to equity in public school finance, could reach House Floor for debate this week.

Proposal to create a Public Utility Commission -- cleared Senate State Affairs Cmte. and Sen. Bill Moore said he may seek passage of the measure this week (still pending in House Cmte)

PASSED SENATE -- permanent voter registration system -- prohibition of smoking in certain public places.

PASSED HOUSE -- bill making an anatomical gift by excising a statement on the reverse side of a driver's license.

Seasonal Pool Marketing At Wells Coop Gin

A new concept for marketing cotton grown on the High Plains and the Rolling Plains of Texas is developing according to Dan Davis, Manager of Plains Cooperative Association.

The new concept is Seasonal Pool Marketing, which cotton producers are to deliver their cotton to their cooperative to sell for them. These producers will receive their advance when their cotton is delivered to the Pool. Advance payments will be made to the pool cotton is tion of the program. Mr. Askew commented, "I believe this program will produce a better and more stable market for our short staple cotton, grown in this area."

Bertice Askew, who served on the Wells Coop Gin Board of Directors for 14 years and is the father of Lyndol Askew said, "Farmers owning their own textile mill is a means of taking our product one step closer to the consumer, which should add more income to our individual operations."

advance commitment of acreage, I can more accurately predict ginning volume and plan accordingly. The Board of Directors set a 20,000 acre limitation on our sign up, because they felt our gin facilities would be overloaded if we signed more than that. We believe we can accommodate all of our present members and stay within this limitation, but we have a waiting list of new member applicants which we likely will not be able to accept at this time."

The Seasonal Pool now being organized will consist of approximately 250,000 bales to be grown by members of the 27 High Plains and Rolling Plains Cooperative Gins who have joined together in this effort. This Pool also will supply the cotton for the new textile mill and denim manufacturing plant to be built in Littlefield, Texas by American Cotton Growers. This denim manufacturing plant will consume approximately 65,000 bales of cotton annually. The balance of the pool cotton will be marketed by Plains Cotton Cooperative Association under agreement with American Cotton Growers.

The marketing of this pool cotton will be under the direct control of a 26 member Pool Committee of PCAA's Board, consisting of one producer from each of the participating gins. The cotton will be marketed throughout the year and each member will receive the season average for his price cotton, based on quality.

The net margins from the textile mill and the proceeds from marketing the balance of the Pool will be returned to the approximately 2,000 cotton producers who committed their cotton to the program.

At the present rate, the sign-up should be almost completed at most of the gins in the Seasonal Pool Program by May 1.

Natural Gas Hearings Moved to Southwest

Hearings to determine the future of natural gas for irrigation fuel will be held soon in three southwestern U. S. cities, although observers predict the issue will ultimately be decided by the Supreme Court.

The three sessions, each expected to last three days, will be held in Lubbock, Texas, Albuquerque, New Mexico and Phoenix, Arizona.

There will be no curtailment of natural gas for irrigation until the hearings are over and the initial decision is reached by an administrative law judge, according to a spokesman at the Washington office of Sen. John Tower of Texas.

The future of natural gas as a farm fuel has been in question since the Federal Power Commission issued a ruling last December which lowered the use of natural gas for agriculture from second to third priority.

Although that decision applied only to customers of El Paso Natural Gas Company, observers believe the action will eventually result in curtailment of natural gas as a farm fuel throughout the United States.

Spokesmen for agriculture feel such curtailment would have a devastating effect on production of food and fiber.

Officers and staff of Grain Sorghum Producers Association, headquartered in Lubbock, have worked full time since the December ruling to block the curtailment and have sought to move the hearings from Washington to the Southwest where farmers will be hardest hit by loss of natural gas.

Working with the High Plains Gas Users Association and Southwest Consumers Association, GSPA spokesmen have continually stressed the technical and economic impossibility of converting irrigation to alternate fuel sources.

GSPA vice president Mabry Foreman of Felt, Oklahoma, and research director Jack King have met regularly with legislators in Washington, personnel of the FPC, representatives of the Federal Energy Agency and U. S. Department of Agriculture, attempting to demonstrate the impossibility of converting commonly used automotive irrigation engines from natural gas to gasoline or propane.

A study by Dr. James Osborn of Texas Tech University indicates conversion to gasoline would increase hourly fuel costs 320 percent for 150 h.p. engine. Conversion to propane, according to the study, would increase hourly costs 282 percent.

The annual cost of a 3,000 hour irrigation season on the same 150 h.p. engine would jump from $3,570 for natural gas to $15,000 for gasoline and $13,650 for propane, according to the study.

Dave Hubbard fell Friday and has been ill at his home. He will not have the Shoe Shop open for a few days.

labor, production and transportation. He said rail rates had risen 60-103 percent and truck rates are expected to rise also.

Wet weather during fall planting season added to the decline by preventing some farmers from seeding.

Figures for January through March, peak months for winter vegetables, revealed a 15 to 55 percent drop in harvested acreage. Estimates show that carrots, a major cash crop in Texas, will be down 15 percent from 10,600 to 9,000 acres. Cauliflower has dropped for the second year in a row. One hundred twenty acres are expected to be picked, a 66 percent decrease from last year's 350 acres.

Cabbage harvest is estimated at 8,700 acres, down from 9,500 during the same period last year and 11,800 in 1973. Onions are estimated at 14,100 acres, a decline of 2,200 acres.

Also expected to drop this winter are broccoli and spinach. Tomatoes, a fall vegetable, declined from 1,000 to 700 acres.

White said he expected winter vegetable acreage to stabilize around current figures. "Independent farmers have diversified into corn, grain and sugar cane," he said. "Most vegetables are being grown by produce companies or on a grower-shipper basis, which guarantees sales. This should mean that the remaining vegetable acres will remain stable."

Texas Taxes

By BOB BULLOCK State Comptroller

Austin-It has often been said that there is nothing certain but death and taxes. Perhaps the line was originally meant to apply to our inheritance taxes.

The Texas inheritance tax is one of the most overlooked state taxes, probably because it has liberal exemptions and is so much smaller than federal estate taxes. The Comptroller's Department collects about $50 million in inheritance taxes annually, one of the minor sources of state revenue.

We get reports on only a fraction of the persons who die and leave things of value to their heirs. Last year we looked at more than 3,500 returns but found only 15,000 of them to be taxable.

The Texas tax is completely different from the federal tax. The federal tax is levied on the deceased person's estate, regardless of who inherits it or how it is divided, and the tax is taken before the estate is divided.

Our tax is levied on the persons who receive the inheritance and the exemptions and rates vary according to the several classes of heirs.

The first class of heirs includes the spouse, mother, father, son, daughter, and grandchildren. Regardless of the number of heirs, each heir in this class is given a $25,000 exemption before the tax applies.

The rates for this classification, after the $25,000 exemption, are one per cent for inheritances between $25,000 and $50,000, two per cent for $50,000 to $100,000, three per cent for $100,000 to $200,000, four per cent for $200,000 to $500,000, five per cent for $500,000 to $1 million, and six per cent above $1 million.

Brothers and sisters are another classification and they get a $10,000 exemption. Their graduated rates start at three per cent. Aunts, uncles and cousins get a $1,000 exemption and their rates start at four per cent. Unrelated persons receive a $500 exemption and rates start at five per cent.

Property and money passed on to charitable, educational or religious organizations are, of course, exempt from inheritance taxes.

The $25,000 exemption for members of the immediate family means our tax doesn't fall on many

A message of hope was held out to High Plains cotton producers and others in the area cotton industry by Donald Johnson at the annual meeting of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. in Lubbock recently.

Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President, declining to dwell on the poor 1974 crop, today's low cotton prices and worsening chances for substantial improvement in government programs for 1975, concentrated his remarks on the benefits he believes will accrue to High Plains people "a little farther down the road" from PCG research and promotion of open-end spinning. "Legislative work is vital for the near term," he said, "but as the years go by I become more and more convinced that our future in the High Plains cotton industry will be dependent on markets, not government programs."

Noting that PCG and other research continues to show that the open-end spinning system utilizes Plains-type cottons much more effectively and efficiently than does ring spinning, and that the consensus is that some 30% of the ring spinning machines in the world will be replaced by open-end machines as equipment becomes available, he said "I believe the open-end spinning system holds greater promise for bigger and better markets for High Plains cotton than anything ever to occur in the history of High Plains cotton production."

He continued, "I think I can safely speak for the Board of Directors in saying that PCG will continue to the forefront of the research and development efforts which will be necessary to full realization of that promise."

As an example of the added profit potential available to open-end spinners, Johnson said the system could make yarn suitable for such big market items as blue jeans, using one inch or shorter cottons in the low micronaire ranges, while yarn for the same end use on the ring spinning system would need 1-1/16 inch cotton with premium mike.

This translates into a saving of several cents per pound on raw material cost which, coupled with three to five times greater productivity on the open-end machines, gives the open-end mill a hands down advantage over the ring spinning mill in terms of profit potential, he said.

That profit potential is moving the textile world in the direction of open-end spinning, Johnson continued, "and it can be enhanced even more by locating mills in the High Plains area where the raw fiber is grown and in the State where more and more garment manufacturers are locating."

Texas now is the No. 2 state in garment manufacturing, exceeded only by New York.

While Johnson spoke in general terms of benefits to High Plains cotton from increased usage by open-end mills, another speaker at the meeting was more specific. Hal Brockmann, Cotton Incorporated's Vice President for Textile Research and Development, told the audience the day would come when low micronaire cotton will sell at a premium above the prices paid for the currently favored 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire range.

heirs, and yet we know we are missing some taxable inheritances. To correct this, we are simplifying reporting forms, changing death reports sent by the counties and trying to make the public more aware of the state tax.

The law requires inheritance tax returns to be filed with us within nine months of the date of death. Failure to do so can subject the heir to penalties of up to 10 per cent.

Some efforts have been made in the Legislature to increase the exemptions and perhaps the Legislature would be justified in doing so in light of inflationary increases in property values. But until the Legislature makes such a decision, we have to stick with the present law.

However, our Inheritance Tax Division goes out of its way to arrange longterm payouts for larger estates. I certainly never want to see the family farm or business have to be sold just to pay taxes as long as an heir wants to keep the property for productive purposes.

WELCOME BACK Total rehabilitation or the return to normal life is the goal of the American Cancer Society's Service to the Cancer Patient Program.

Poultry, Egg Value Declines

AUSTIN—Cash receipts for eggs, broilers and other chickens raised in Texas was $250 million in 1974, a $15-million drop from the previous year. According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, broiler production rose slightly but the average price per bird paid to farmers dropped four percent from 22.8 cents a pound to 21.3. Egg production was down nine percent from 1973. Cash receipts from the sale of Texas' 2.3 billion eggs was $104 million, eight percent lower than a year earlier. Chickens, excluding broilers, were up one million for an 11 million total. A 30 percent drop in price received, however, resulted in a 10 percent gross income loss. Cash receipts were $5.3 million, down from $6 million in 1973. White said Texas figures were close to the national marks as gross income figures for all poultry across the nation dropped five percent. Nationally, egg income rose one percent, and broilers dropped one percent. Chicken value, however, dropped 30 percent.

SYNONYMOUS When people think of the American Cancer Society they automatically think of research, but the ACS does important work as well in providing service to the cancer patient.
