Tahoka 72 Years Ago . . .

by Frank Hill
The county of Lynn and Tahoka was less than 70 years old when the first settlers appeared on October 18, 1803. There were already 150 families, three churches, a court house, a school and under construction a number of houses, most of them made of adobe. People living in tents and huts. The classes were being held in the district court house. The church was being built. A dance was held on Saturday night. The mail was being received by the stage, on the Redwood, by mail and by speedy little mules. Freighters bringing in supplies and material almost every day. The editorial column of the News introduced the editor Otis Lilly, and wife, then went into to praise the county: "Tahoka is a little city five months old and has over forty buildings to grace her appearance." "Lynn County's Court House compares favorably with any new county in Texas." "Grass looks green, and the days are pleasant like spring." "If you want to live in a new country where you can breathe the pure air and forget your troubles, come to Lynn County." "The sun shines pleasant, people wear smiles, and 'the goose hangs high' in Lynn County. Come be one of us; we will spare you and your friends." "Tahoka is destined to make a good town. Look on the map and measure the distance we are from a good town and see how centrally located in one of the best countries in the United States."

We business people of Tahoka pause a moment to pay tribute to you pioneer families who launched a new life early in this century when you drove out onto these vast virgin Plains of Texas.

Our early settlers asked no aid, gave no quarter - they only wanted the opportunity to develop a home in this new land. They plodded long distances, first lived in tents, dugouts, and little box houses while breaking out the land.

They met the challenge of great distances to town, railroad and doctors. They weathered drought, blizzard, sandstorm, prairie fire coyotes, grasshoppers - all the hardships.

Today, we enjoy living in one of the most modern farming areas in the entire world, with all the conveniences possible, among the finest people one could hope to find.

We are proud of our county and our towns. We just want you to know we appreciate the people who paved the way to make this such a desirable place in which to live and do business.

A hundred years ago buffalo, deer, antelope, wild mustangs, prairie dogs, etc., inhabited the Plains, along with the nomadic, Comanche Indians, occasional explorers, and Mexican sheepherders.

Then, came the buffalo hunters, the U. S. Cavalry to chase out the Indians, followed by the first ranchers in the 1880's the first settlers in 1901 - 1903.

Lynn County was organized in 1903, Tahoka established as the county seat, the railroad came in 1910, farmers began coming in increasing numbers, and we have now our present land that still holds great promise for the future.

Yes, we are thankful for our great area and its people.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS

Nearly 200 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 South Plains counties will participate in a district leadership lab June 17-19.

Site of the three-day summer workshop is South Plains College, according to Billy C. Gunter and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district Extension agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A team of older teens will assist with conducting sessions throughout the lab.

The youths, supervised by 4-H adult leaders and agents, will perform a variety of activities ranging from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis will be on a human relations approach to communications skills. Activities will be geared toward helping the young leaders learn to express themselves and their ideas, and to develop solutions to problems through group processes. Time for relaxation and fun will provide the teens with opportunities to make new friends.

The annual leadership lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills for working with younger club members and provides opportunity for them to broaden their friendships and develop leadership qualities.

Lynn County 4-H members attending are Karla James, Charmi Wood, Sheree Jorden, Sharon Ernst, Travis Mires, Kerry Smith, Mike Edwards, Kevin James.

Food Dehydration Demonstration Set

If you want to dry and store foods the natural and economical way in your home you are invited to this demonstration on June 24 at 2 p.m. in the Meeting Room at Lyntegar Electric Cooperative.

Connie Jaquess, representative of Nutrition Unlimited of Lubbock will give the demonstration exhibiting the food dehydrator and fruits and vegetables that have been preserved by this drying method.

The foods retain more of their natural nutrients and food values than by any other method of preservation, and in most cases, can be returned to their natural state of looks and taste by just soaking in plain water.

Lucille Bartley's Grandson Dies

Funeral services for Cary Johnson, 12, of Willcox, Ariz. were held at 2 p.m. Wed. in the First Southern Baptist Church with the William McFarland, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Sunset Cemetery.

The youth was killed Sunday in a car-pedestrian accident east of Spade, Texas. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Terrell Johnson Jr., two brothers, Scott and Jeffrey of the home; grandparents, Lucille Bartley of Tahoka, John D. Bean of Clyde; and Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Johnson of Willcox; and a great-grandfather, Clark Allen of Tahoka.

The storage of dehydrated foods is very simple. Much food can be stored in a small place as it is only 1/4 to 1/2 of its original size and weight. This is also a great advantage to backpackers, hikers, campers, boater, and others with limited storage space.

The length of time required to complete the dehydration cycle varies depending on moisture content and size of the product ranging from 4 to 48 hours with a cost of three cents of power every 24 hours of continuous use.

The primary cabinet is made of stucco aluminum. It is 12" X 12" X 16" with four interchangeable drawers with four feet of drying area. The single load capacity is 80 large peach halves or an equal volume of other produce. It can, and frequently is used, in kitchen or utility room as it requires no venting, does not drip moisture or fog up windows.

Each unit has an instruction booklet explaining the use and how to prepare and dehydrate 13 different fruits, 39 different vegetables, fruit leathers and other suggestions for meat jerky, fish, nuts, herbs, etc.

Fruits and vegetables can be prepared and stored during the growing season for year-round use without the use of sugar, jars and lids, or refrigeration. It also eliminates a lot of fuss and bother.

The program is being sponsored by Lyntegar Electric Cooperative.

Short Talks At Rotary

State Representative E. L. Short told of some of the most important legislation passed in the recent session of the Texas Legislature and some of the trials and tribulations connected with serving in the legislature.

He revealed the new school legislation will benefit all four Lynn County schools, which will receive about 67 percent increase in transportation aide, $40 increase in ADA for the "disadvantaged" students, and $90 on operational expenses. He declared Tahoka's new school superintendent, Ed Robertson had been very helpful.

Of interest to farmers, a cotton contracting bill was adopted requiring the forward contractor to register with the state. Also passed was a bill to re-codify planting seed laws, and new regulations pertaining to herbicides and pesticides.

Establishment of a State Utilities Commission, he said, will apply to all cities who wish to go under the new law, but will apply to rural telephone and electric cooperatives.

He told of the long and involved process through which a bill must go before it is passed by both houses of the Legislature and passed on to the Governor to sign or veto.

Short said this session of the Legislature used up by new appropriations all the current State surplus funds. He predicted some time in the future Texas will have state income taxes.

Warren Embree was in charge of the program and introduced the speaker.

Bicentennial Corner

As part of the Bicentennial celebration for Tahoka, the Bicentennial committee is sponsoring a Flag Wavers page for the July 3 edition of the Lynn County News.

The committee plans to include the names of all citizens and businesses who are not ashamed to be "flag wavers for America."

The money raised from this page will be used by the committee for prize money for the up-coming contests expenses and to make a contribution to the mini park fund.

If you are interested in waving Old Glory in the newspaper contact, Mrs. Jim Wells, Mrs. David Midkiff of Mrs. Jerry McKibben. The minimum contribution is $2.00 per family and $10.00 for a club or business. Contributions can be left at First National Bank.

Weight Room Now Open

The weight room at Tahoka will begin opening June 18. The room will open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday from 7 to 10.

The weight room will be open to all high school and junior high school boys and girls.

Portrait Artist To Give Demo

Paul Milosevich, a well known Lubbock artist-trainer will give an oil portrait demonstration using a live model Tuesday night, June 24th.

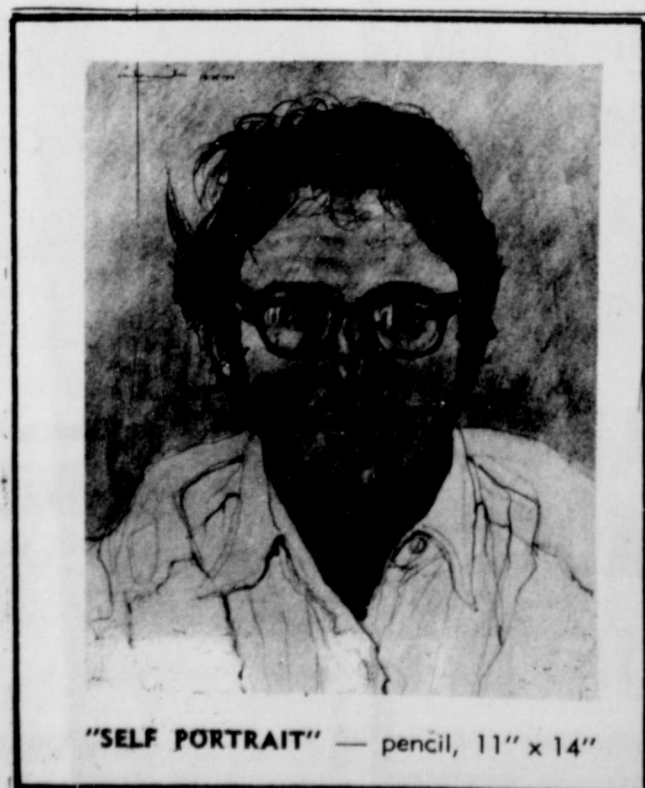

This is regular meeting night for the Lynn County Art Association. Meeting place is the Bank Community Room, at 7:30 PM.

Milosevich is a native of Trinidad, Colorado and has taught art at Odessa College and at Texas Tech University. He has recently quit teaching to go into fine art full time.

A name will be drawn from the audience and Paul will use that person for his model. That person in turn will get to keep the portrait.

The public is invited to attend. A demonstration fee of $3 will be charged.

STATE CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

Senate Joint Resolutions 11 as amended has been approved by the legislature providing a completely revised constitution if approved by the voters on November 1975. Voters will be asked for or against eight propositions. If all of the propositions are approved, the net result will be a completely revised constitution, with the exception of the preamble.

The eight propositions that are on the official ballot are as follows:

Proposition No. 1 - The constitutional amendment regarding the SEPARATION OF POWERS, LEGISLATIVE, EXECUTIVE PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 2 - The constitutional amendment regarding the JUDICIARY PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 3 - The constitutional amendment regarding the voting and election provisions of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 4 - The constitutional amendment regarding the EDUCATION PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 5 - The constitutional amendment regarding the FINANCE PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 6 - The constitutional amendment regarding the LOCAL GOVERNMENT PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 7 - The constitutional amendment regarding the GENERAL PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

Proposition No. 8 - The constitutional amendment regarding the MODE OF AMENDING PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution.

State laws now require the state legislature to place at the beginning of each bill, or resolution approved, a statement setting forth what the specific legislation seeks to do. The opening statement of Senate Joint Resolution No. 11 reads as follows:

Senate Joint Resolution proposing eight amendments to the Texas Constitution; revising the separation of powers, legislative, and executive provisions of the constitution; revising the judiciary provisions of the constitution; revising the voter qualification and election provisions of the constitution; revising the education provisions of the constitution; revising the finance provisions of the constitution; revising the local government provisions of the constitution; revising the general provisions of the constitution.

ance with this constitution of laws enacted pursuant thereto.

"Section 6. ANTICIPATORY LEGISLATION. Laws may be enacted in anticipation of the effective date of revised articles, but those laws may not become effective prior to September 1, 1976.

"Section 7. POWERS OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE UNDER AMENDMENTS ADOPTED NOVEMBER 4 1975. Regarding non-substantive matters, the secretary of state, after the review and approval of the attorney general shall: (1) number, locate, amend, or delete articles, sections, or subsections, and change cross references in the Constitution of Texas in accordance with constitutional amendments adopted by the voters of the state on November 4, 1975; (2) number, locate, amend, or delete portions of the transition schedule of the constitution in accordance with constitutional amendments adopted by the voters of the state on November 4, 1975; and (3) make other non-substantive changes in the constitution or amendments to the constitution as required to assure an orderly revision of the Texas Constitution from amendments adopted by the voters of the state on November 4, 1975."

(2) The following transition provision is added, as appropriately numbered, to Section 4, of the transition schedule: "(c) Article XVII, Section 1 - insofar as it provides a procedure for publishing amendments to the constitution." (c) Article XV II as revised by this amendment is renumbered as appropriate according to the propositions adopted to place the article at the last article of the constitution. (d) The effective date of this amendment is September 1, 1976.

In summary, House Joint Resolution No. 11 establishes procedures, if all eight propositions are approved by the voters, that will result in a revised state constitution with the exception of the preamble.

The establishment of a government in effect, transfers all power to that government. It is the limitations placed in the constitution that tie the government down and prevent it from abusing the citizens. Stated another way, the purpose of the constitution is to provide for organization and to establish the limits of power that government.

MICRONAIRE

Micronaire is a test of fiber fineness and maturity. This test is an instrument measure of quality factors which are not included in a grade and staple classification. The test is performed with air-flow instruments which indicate the resistance to the passage of air under specified pressure through the specified weight of cotton when it is compressed to a specified volume.

Commodity Credit Corporation's schedule of loan differences for the 1975 crop of upland cotton is as follows: Schedule of Micronaire Differences for 1975 Crop Upland Cotton:

Micronaire reading: 5.3 and above; 5.0 through 5.2; 3.5 through 4.9; 3.3 through 3.4; 3.0 through 3.2; 2.7 through 2.9; 2.6 and below; Points Per Pound: .110; .50; 0; .75; .200; .350; .550. ASCS NEWS FOR PRESS AND RAcounts home buyers are required to place in escrow accounts established to insure the payment of real-estate taxes and insurance; and (4) in significant reform and modernization of local recordkeeping of land title information.

FAR EAST COTTON EXPORTS CONTRACTS DEFALTED?

The WALL STREET JOURNAL of June 2, 1975, reported that the U. S. cotton exporters have succeeded in salvaging some shaky contracts with textile mills in the Far East - on paper at least. The exporters are now waiting anxiously to see if promises turn into performance.

There are 1.3 million bales of cotton, valued at $350 million, which exporters sold to Far East mills in 1973 and 1974 when prices were high and supplies appeared to be short still in the U. S. Since the contracts were originally made, prices have fallen considerably, world wide recession has caused demand for cotton consumption to slump and mills located in South Korea, Taiwan, the Philippines and Thailand simply haven't made any arrangements for the cotton to be delivered or to pay for it.

The U. S. government has extended $230 million in credit in an effort to make buying the high priced cotton more palatable. The U. S. government is also helping Indonesia with a $40.9 million loan, payable twenty years with low rate interest to buy 195 bales of cotton.

Also at stake is the storage charge accumulated at a rate of about $3 per bale per month. Some of the cotton is nine months to a year past due to be shipped. Some contracts provide that storage will be paid by the mill. Exporters have estimated that storage charges will amount to about $20 million beyond the cost of the cotton.

EMERGENCY LIVESTOCK LOAN ACT:

The following information was released by the American Farm Bureau Federation, June 4, 1975. On June 3 the House agreed to the conference report on amendments to the Emergency Livestock Loan Act. The Senate had previously approved the conference report on May 22 so the legislation now goes to the President for his consideration. Important changes are as follows: 1. extends the termination date from July 25, 1975 to December 31, 1976. 2. increases the amount of the government guarantee on the loans from 80 percent to 90 percent. 3. increases loan repayment from a maximum of 5 years to a maximum of 10 years. 4. lowers the total loan guarantees authorized under the act from $2 billion to $1.5 billion. 5. increases the maximum loan guarantee a producer could receive from $250,000 to $350,000.

once each year and more often if canner is used frequently or if lid is dropped or received a hard knock. If the gauge is not registering correctly, food might be either underprocessed or overprocessed. A weighted gauge needs only to be cleaned thoroughly. Sakey Pointers With Pressure Canner.

Never release steam suddenly.

Never remove the lid until steam has been released or until the pressure gauge registered zero.

When removing the canner lid, lift the back side of the lid, thus permitting the heat to escape away from the face and arms.

The office has a thermometer for testing a pressure canner. The thermometer and directions for use can be picked up at the Extension office and homemakers will be able to test their own canners before the canning season begins. It is extremely important for canners to register pounds of pressure and temperature correctly. Call the office at 998-4650 to set aside a time for using the testing thermometer.

Sherry Etheredge

Says . . .

The Pressure canner method is necessary for processing all non-acid vegetables in order to prevent possible spoilage and botulism. Botulism cannot be detected except in enterme cases, as the flavor, texture and odor are not necessarily affected. Boil all home-canned, non-acid vegetables for 15 to 20 minutes in an uncovered pan before tasting.

Pressure saucepan of adequate size and provided with an indicator or gauge, operating accurately at 10 pound pressure, may be used for canning small amount of vegetables.

Processing Methods for Vegetables-

Keep Your Pressure Canner In Safe Working Order-

Take off removable petcocks and safety valves and wash and dry thoroughly after each use. Occasionally soak these parts in vinegar to remove any corrosion.

Use toothpick, pipe cleaner or string to clean openings in lid of canner.

Wash pressure canner thoroughly after each use. Do not immerse lid in water. Do not use harsh scouring powders.

To remove odors and stains, use one of the following mixtures and process at 5 pounds pressure for 5 minutes:

1. Juice of 1 lemon and 2 quarts of water.
2. Two tablespoons of vinegar and 2 quarts of water.
3. Handful of Irish potato peelings and 2 quarts of water.

If the canner lid of a pressure canner that seals metal to metal is difficult to remove or steam escapes, grease the closing surfaces with saltfree fat.

If the canner lid is equipped with a rubber gasket, keep lid and gasket clean and free from grease.

Never add cold water to a hot canner. Guard against sudden cooling that might cause it to warp or crack.

Store a clean, dry canner with crumpled newspaper inside to absorb moisture and odors. Wrap cover in paper and invert it on top of canner.

Check the dial gauge on the pressure canner at least

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

TAHOKA LAKE RANCH HEADQUARTERS -- House originally built on present Marshall Stewart half section, moved to Tahoka Lake when Jack Alley became manager of Col. C. C. Slaughter's Tahoka Lake Ranch; later the Jack Alley Ranch, and today owned by Mrs. Walter H. May. House destroyed by fire many years ago. (Photo courtesy Mrs. Jack Alley Robinson)

Provisions in current farm law which authorize payments to farmers whose crops fall victim to capricious weather bounced back into the spotlight on the High Plains in recent days as a succession of hail storms damaged or destroyed upwards of 400,000 acres of growing cotton.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. sponsored the "disaster program" of the 1973 Farm Act, and the 25-county Lubbock-based cotton producer organization, along with USDA's Agricultural Stabilization & Conservation Service (ASCS), is being bombarded with questions about program benefits and regulations.

The present law provides that a farmer suffering a total loss on cotton after the final replanting date in his area (the date after which planting is not required for disaster payment eligibility) can be paid 12.7 cents per pound times the established yield from his "disaster allotment." The final replanting date for cotton ranges from June 1 in counties north of Lubbock to June 15 in southern sections of the Plains.

Whether or not the final replanting date has been reached, the producer may replant cotton if he wishes, in which case he remains eligible for the same disaster payment if the crop is destroyed by the elements later in the season. Or, a yield deficiency payment may be applied for after harvest if the new crop survives but fails to produce a "normal" yield. The per pound payment rate in this latter case is also 12.7 cents, with the total equal to that rate times the difference between actual yield and the farm's established yield.

Producers not wishing to replant must within 15 days report their loss to ASCS, certify the number of acres planted, and request an inspection. ASCS appraisers will inspect damaged fields (after a 7-day waiting period on hail damage) to determine the extent of loss. When the producer and the appraiser have agreed on the percentage of loss, ASCS will release the field and it can be planted to another, shorter season crop if the farmer so desires. The disaster payment is not affected by production of the subsequent crop.

In 1974, USDA administered the disaster program in such a manner as to deny disaster payments to many producers who overplanted cotton, wheat or feed grain allotments and underplanted one or both the others. But, largely as a result of a protest led by PCG and Lubbock's Grain Sorghum Producers Association, production of each program crop in 1975 will stand on its own for purposes of figuring disaster payments.

Also in 1975, when one program crop is overplanted and another underplanted, the farm's "disaster allotment" of the overplanted crop is increased to reflect the underplanted portion of other program crop allotments.

Take, for example, a farm with a 100 acre cotton allotment and a 100 acre feed grain allotment. If the full 200 acres is planted to cotton and no feed grain is planted on the farm, disaster coverage will extend to the full 200 acres of cotton. On farms where there are cotton, feed grain and wheat allotments, under planting of one grain crop will be credited to overplanting of the other before cotton disaster coverage is increased. ASCS appraisers begin their assessment of cotton crop damage by assuming that a stalk every 6 inches is a perfect stand. The number and length of skips that measure over six inches between plants is tabulated to arrive at a percentage of loss. One hundred feet of row is considered a sample, and skip measurements are made on representative samples throughout each field. If ASCS determines that there are enough living plants in the field to make 50% of the farm's established yield, the producer is eligible for a payment only on the 50% considered destroyed.

When the farmer and the appraiser cannot agree on the percentage loss, the farmer can request another appraiser or leave the crop and apply for a yield deficiency payment after harvest.

The farmer who wants to replant his field to another crop before it is inspected and released by ASCS may leave a representative five percent of the acreage, in strips no less than four rows wide, for future inspection.

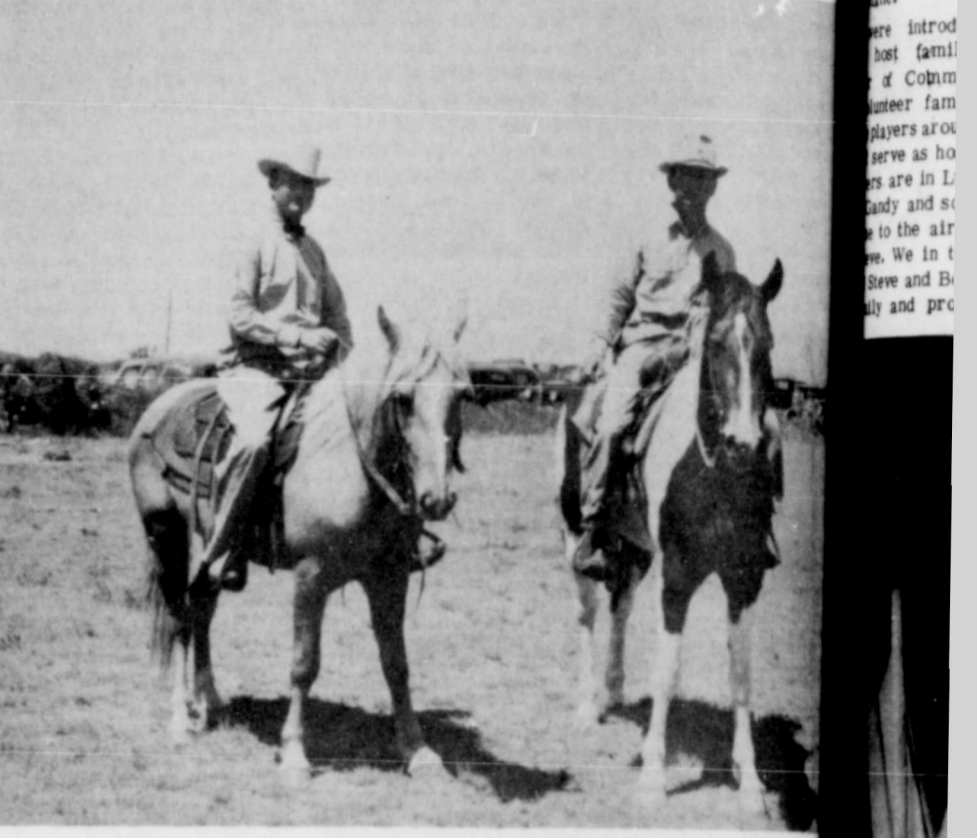

Eligibility for payment under this procedure, however, requires a prior agreement from the farmer that he will accept the ASCS appraiser's assessment of loss. The farmer cannot leave the strips and later qualify for a yield deficiency payment.

"These are the general regulations under which the program is now being administered," said PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, but he cautions that each producer should rely on his county ASCS office for explicit instructions.

4-H's Sharpen Consumer Skills

Practical activities in the national 4-H consumer education program help 2 1/2 million boys and girls from 9 to 19 improve budgeting and shopping skills. Montgomery Ward offers incentives and recognition to 4-H'ers in this Cooperative Extension Service conducted program.

CHICAGO—The array of merchandise is tantalizing: the latest Rolling Stones album, those terrific-looking jeans, the T-shirt with a "message."

Young people make consumer decisions every day. According to Dr. Lois Howard, program services associate with the National 4-H Service Committee, they not only select items for personal use but they also strongly influence family decisions on household purchases.

Outdoors in Texas

By: J. C. Roberts
There's nothing like being among the tall pines 4000 feet above the desert floor, listening to the bugle of a bull elk. In Texas? You bet! Those things, and many more are available in Texas at the Guadalupe Mountains National park, some 100 miles east of El Paso along the Texas-New Mexico line. Just west of the desert like Salt Flats the mountains soar a mile higher to 8,751 feet, the highest point in the state. Elk (that's right, Elk) move through McKittrick Canyon, and rare species of plant life are everywhere. No motorized vehicles are permitted and visitors are limited due to the fragile balance of nature in the area. A walk through McKittrick Canyon is best for the first time visitor. Check at the Frijole Station, east of Pine Spring on U.S. 62/180. No water is available once inside the park. Tip of the Week: Dove hunters watch where you reach for that fallen bird. Snakes are often attracted to the sound of the downed bird.

Compliments of J. C. ROBERTS PKG. STORE FM 1585 and U.S. 87 Lubbock, Texas

Planned spending
Spending their dollars wisely is the goal of the nearly 2 1/2 million boys and girls enrolled in the national 4-H consumer education program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. 4-H members from 9 to 19 learn to distinguish wants from basic needs, prepare budgets and set short- and long-range spending goals.

Montgomery Ward, sponsor of this learning-by-doing program, has supported 4-H work in home economics for 53 years. Awards in the program are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Practical consumer education activities help 4-H'ers become more discriminating shoppers. They begin to look critically at advertisements and commercials, examine hangtags and care leaflets, study warranties and time-payment contracts, and compare features and prices of products from different manufacturers.

Consumer awareness
As they become aware of consumer rights and responsibilities, young people find they are entitled to truthfully advertised products that meet certain health and safety standards.

First Time To Play "At Home"

Linda Valentine Lockaby and myrtle to the airport Friday, to meet Steve Roy Thomas, defensive coordinator of the New England Patriots. Steve, who was in Lubbock for the Coaches All America Game, had agreed to an exclusive interview with Lynn County News. Our camera, and I, went to meet him. Eddie agreed to have a photo taken of him and I cleared the way for him. We went out to the airport to meet Steve and Eddie and they were coming to the airport to meet Steve and Eddie.

Steve Freeman

Q. Do you think it will be a close game? A. I don't really know, there are a lot of good players from all over the country. It should be pretty evenly matched teams.

Q. What are some advantages and disadvantages for both teams? A. I haven't studied all the players, but just looking at the line up, the west might have a slight advantage in quarter backs. David Humm of Nebraska can really throw the ball.

Q. How many players are there on each team, and how are they selected? A. Thirty I believe, I'm not sure how they are selected. Coach Sloan called me, then got in touch with the coaching staff. All the players on the coaches All America team are automatically invited.

Q. Why did you accept this invitation? A. I figure playing football in June in West Texas is a good way to get ready for camp.

Q. What position will you play in this game? A. Either left defensive cornerback or maybe safety.

Q. Steve, I understand you are also a track star, do you think this had anything to do with your decision to draft you? A. I run the 120 high hurdles in 13.9 and the 40 yard dash in 4.5. The pros look for quick speed.

Q. What is your opinion of bowl games, this game in particular? A. Bowl games are fun, especially the Sun bowl because you played with your own team mates. In the Senior bowl and the All America game you have to get acquainted with the players and the coaches, and learn the style of the players.

Q. What is it like to be a college athlete? A. College was much better than high school. You have the fun of playing ball plus get your education.

Q. What changes do you expect now that you are a pro? A. In college you might meet three or four really good athletes all year, in pros, you play against a pro every week.

Q. Steve, I understand you were chosen as one of "the outstanding college athletes of America" how are these chosen? A. I received a letter saying that I had been selected. I don't know how they select.

Q. Steve, you were drafted in the fifth round by the New England Patriots. How do you feel about being drafted by New England? A. I think it's great, New England has a young club, Coach Fairbanks from Oklahoma won seven games last year before injuries hurt the team.

Q. What do you think New England's chances are for being in the playoffs? A. New England has a very good chance to be in the playoffs.

Q. Have you signed your contract? Yes, I signed my contract before coming to play in the All America Game.

Q. What position will you play? A. I have been working out at left defensive cornerback.

Q. What is your opinion of pro ball? A. Pro ball is a good life, not every young man of 22 can come right out of college, do the thing he loves best and make that kind of money.

Q. Do you think your attitude toward football will be different now that you are a professional? A. I have always put everything into the game, but now that I'm playing for money I'll probably try even harder.

Q. How do you spend your off season? A. That depends on how the team comes out as to how much off season there will be we will have to wait and see. I majored in agriculture economics, so I could go into banking or federal land banks but no definite plans right now.

Q. How do the people who know you are a native of west Texas feel about your playing for the East? A. Some had rather I play for the West, but since coach Sloan will be coaching the East, maybe it will be all right to yell for the east.

Just a few statistics -- Ht. 5' 11 and 3/4" rather call it 6' Wt. 178 - 180 lbs. 22 years old. Married to the former Rebecca Vosburgh of Memphis, Tennessee, everybody call her Bo. He attended grade school and junior high in Lamesa; high school in Memphis, Tennessee at Whitehaven, College at Mississippi State, where he tied the school record for interceptions. Expecting their first child in September. Parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Freeman of Lamesa, Grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Herman Freeman of Lamesa, Maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robinett of Crosbyton, a sister Mrs. Mac Reinsor (Sherry) of Lubbock and a host of great grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins all over West Texas.

Short Hosts City Officials

City officials from Andrews, Seagraves, and Seminole visited the offices of the Texas Department of Community Affairs (TDCA) recently. A primary objective of the meeting was to familiarize the cities in State Representative E. L. Short's district with the work of TDCA so that they could develop better understandings of the programs the Department offers in social services and community assistance.

Attending the Austin meeting were Mayor Louis Miller City Manager Len Wilson, James Roberts of the Industrial Commission, and Raymond Sharbutt of the Chamber of Commerce, all of Andrews; Mayor Jesse Lambert and Leroy Wilkinson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, both of Seagraves; and Mayor Bob Clark of Seminole.

The officials were hosted by Rep. Short and TDCA Executive Director Ben F. McDonald, Jr. Also participating in the conference were TDCA's Deputy Directors, and the Directors of Program Development, Office of Early Childhood Development, County and Rural Services, Housing, and Human Services Delivery System.

The officials were hosted by Rep. Short and TDCA. The officials were informed of the Department's varied activities, with particular emphasis placed on rural development.

The Texas Department of Community Affairs was formed three years ago to help develop a higher quality of life in every Texas community. At its inception several existing state and federal programs were gathered under TDCA.

Wide-ranging programs of TDCA currently include rural development, urban affairs, drug abuse, and the Texas Office of Economic Opportunity.

TDCA strives to coordinate information, give advice, and direct tangible services to the communities of Texas with emphasis on the local role in delivering services to citizens. Technical assistance and guidance to local governments are given to better enable them to conquer such divergent problems as poor housing, unemployment, and child neglect.

The meeting with the West Texas officials was one in a continuing series of conferences between TDCA and city officials from around the state.

"Do you have this glorious power to become?...If you have, thank God and use it; if not praise God and get it - become number one," he concluded.

Price came to Narbonne Avenue after 10 years as pastor of First Baptist Church of Monahans, Texas. He earned his degrees at Wichita Falls Junior College, Baylor University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

It's Dairy Month... Pecan Prospects... Crops Continue to Progress.

This is Dairy Month in Texas. Now is the time to enjoy an extra glass of milk every day; dairymen hope you enjoy an extra glass of milk every day of the year.

Texas is in the top 10 in dairy states in the nation. Texas ranks ninth in total milk production, and it also ranks ninth in milk cows that have calved. The dairy industry is an integral part of the Texas agricultural economy. Milk production in 1974 totaled more than three billion pounds.

Most of the state's dairy production is in the eastern half. Hopkins County is the state's leading county in milk production. Other counties in the top 10 include Erath, Wise, Johnson, Grimes, Comanche, Cooke, Franklin, Archer, and Wood.

The top 10 counties in milk cows that have calved are Hopkins, Erath, Wise, Grimes, Johnson, Comanche, Cooke, McLennan, Wood, and Franklin.

Dairy producers through the years have consistently taken the lead in producing a top quality product. They have also been leaders in developing marketing programs.

As is the case with all agricultural producers, dairymen are caught in a cost-price squeeze. They have watched their costs of production skyrocket while the price they have received has not kept pace.

As a result, dairymen are continuing to search for new ways to cut costs of production and to increase efficiency. However, most dairymen are now doing about all that can be done in those areas.

Meanwhile, you can help the dairy industry as well as helping yourself to better health by drinking an extra glass of milk every day this month, and every day throughout the rest of the year.

TENT CATERPILLAR, walnut caterpillar, or webworms are causing damage to pecan trees and other trees in many parts of central and south central Texas. But in spite of this and recent wet weather, the pecan crop continues to make progress.

A survey was made recently of the pecan producing areas in West Texas by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. Pecan trees in commercial orchards in that area total 401,900. Commercial orchards included in the survey each had 20 trees or more.

The 401,900 trees are on 7,520 acres in 19 West Texas counties. This represents an average of 53.4 trees per acre. Growers intend to plant about 1,250 trees during the rest of this year. Virtually all West Texas pecan trees are under some type of irrigation.

Counties involved in the survey are Andrews, Brewster, Crane, Culberson, Ector, El Paso, Glasscock, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Loving, Martin, Midland, Pecos, Presidio, Reeves, Terrell, Upton, Ward, and Winkler.

WHILE COTTON AND SORGHUM planting for the state is nearing completion, harvest of wheat and oats is well underway. Rains have delayed harvest to some extent. Harvest thus far is only about half that compared to a year ago for wheat. Oat harvest is less than a fourth completed; a year ago about half that crop had been harvested. Flax harvest is complete.

Rice planting is finished; soybean planting has passed the halfway mark; peanut planting is also more than 50 per cent complete.

TEXAS TALK

By Fred Myers

Sorghum planted in a field of plastic? That's one of the possibilities being studied by research groups now taking a hard look at a variety of water conservation programs. Experiments have actually been done in the Oklahoma Panhandle whereby plots were covered by large plastic sheets... holes cut in the plastic for the plants and irrigation water supplied under the plastic. Results... less than half the normal water required. Costs... terrible. So the search goes on with new attention focused on special breeding for water retention and improved plant utilization. Tests at Oklahoma State University reportedly indicated that as much as 2 inches of water a year can be saved by planting sorghum in rows running north and south rather than east to west. Direction of rows, spacing of furrows and development of new breeds are all subjects the sorghum producer will be hearing a lot more about... especially if the weather forecasters are right.

4-H's Express Life-styles In Home Environment Projects

CHICAGO - Consciously or not, people are affected by color. Red expresses a mood of boldness and power, blue seems hopeful and serene, and yellow happy or frivolous. Color, texture (the feel and look of things), and design (sizes, shapes and arrangements) are all basic to the creation of pleasant, functional living spaces. For the nearly 170,000 young people in the national 4-H home environment program sponsored by The S&H Foundation, Inc., living spaces might mean a shared room or one's own room, an apartment, the family home, or housing in the community at large. Personal and family life-styles differ, and 4-H's find that furnishings, equipment and housing can be means of expressing these differences - ways of saying "This is me!" Projects are varied "Learning by doing" activities in the Cooperative Extension Service conducted program are educational and fun. Attics may turn out to be treasure troves of discarded furniture and accessories that can be restored to usefulness with some repairs, sandpapering, and refinishing or painting.

Young people in the national 4-H home environment program are eligible for awards donated by The S&H Foundation, Inc. Six achievers, yet to be designated, will replace these 1974 scholarship winners shown with Patrick McGee (right), senior vice president, Corporate Services, The Sperry and Hutchinson Company. Creating more pleasant and functional living spaces - through furnishings, equipment and housing - is the goal of this Cooperative Extension Service conducted program.

Has the family outgrown its home or has some room ceased to serve its purpose? 4-H's might blueprint structural additions to the house or draw up plans for remodeling a room. They'll compute costs and decide who will do the work: themselves, other family members, or outside contractors.

4-H members from 9 to 19 help budget, shop and care for household equipment - from hair dryers to stereos to automatic washers. In the process they develop the consumer skills they need to cope with today's inflationary economy. Developing citizenship Shifting their sights to the larger area of the community, 4-H's study zoning laws, how they operate and how they can be changed if necessary. As they become aware of special housing needs of the elderly and of lower-income families, they grow in responsible citizenship.

For outstanding achievement in the 4-H home environment program, S&H provides $800 college scholarships to six national winners. The six are chosen from among 24 sectional winners who receive expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, to be held in Chicago Nov. 30-Dec. 4. A $50 U.S. Savings Bond goes to one winner in each state, and four medals of honor are awarded in each category. More information on the 4-H home environment program is available from county extension agents.
