Clements of New Home, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Buck of Pampa are parents of the groom.

Rev. Thomas Spence of Mangum, Oklahoma performed the wedding ceremony.

mony at seven o'clock in the evening.

The couple repeated their vows before a background of spiral candles and a center candle with bouquets of daisies and baby's breath with blue bows. Pew markers lined the aisle and these were white daisies with blue ribbon streamers. The altar was decorated with daisies, greenery and candles.

Mrs. Dwayne Smith played traditional wedding music and also accompanied Buddy Hawkins as he sang "The Wedding Prayer," at the end of the ceremony. Patti Perryman of Stillwater, Okla. sang "Follow me," accompanied on the guitar by Wayne Hatcher, Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was escorted to the altar on a white satin aisle cloth. Her gown, designed by Alessandio, was of white silk organza, styled with a molded bodice featuring venise cotton lace, and a stand up collar adorned with lace medallions. The full blown shepherdess sleeves were banded with a wide cuff of matching venise lace. The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a cap of venise and atencon lace and was edged in narrow venise lace. The circular skirt of the dress flowed back into a sweeping chapel train also finished in lace. The bride carried a nosegay of white roses, daisies, baby's breath and ribbon and lace streamers.

Mrs. Michael Nunneley, Stillwater, Oklahoma, was matron of honor for her sister. She had a formal length gown of blue floral batiste styled with princess lines and long full sleeves. Bride's matrons were, Mrs. David Gandy of Tahoka, and Mrs. Wayne Hatcher of Stillwater, Oklahoma. They wore matching gowns of blue styled with a princess skirt and capelet collar edged in venise lace. The attendants carried nosegays of white daisies with blue ribbon streamers.

Serving as best man was Mike Chaney of Pampa. Groomsmen were Mike Price, Pampa, and Bobby Owen, Denton. Ushers were Mike Nunneley, Stillwater, Oklahoma and David Gandy, Tahoka.

Kecia Hawkins and Scott Smith, both of New Home, served as flower girl and ring bearer. Kecia's dress was a blue floral pinafore over a long white dress and she carried a basket filled with daisies. Candelighters were, Stephanie Herndon of Margum, Okla. and Connie Barrington, cousin of the bride from Lamesa. Stephanie & Connie wore long blue skirts with blouses of blue floral batiste. Miss Christy Barrington of Lamesa, cousin of the bride, presided at the bride's book to register guests. There were 225 guests registered.

Serving at the groom's table were Becky Buck and Suzan Buck, both sisters of the groom. The groom's table was laid with a blue cloth with silver and white china appointments, a chocolate double heart cake and nuts.

Mrs. Ron Miller of Plainville and Mrs. Larry Durham, Lubbock, served at the bride's table. The table was laid with a white pleated polyester cloth, which was floor length. A centerpiece of blue carnations, daisies and candles in a silver container was on the bride's table with a four tiered cake and crystal punch bowl and crystal appointments.

For a going away outfit the bride chose a blue and white guina dress with blue velvet coat. The couple will live in Pampa.

Chili: Deep In The Heart Of Texas

American humorist H. Allen Smith once observed: "Every man who cooks chili believes with all his heart that his chili is infinitely superior to all other chilies on earth."

The origins of chili are somewhat obscured. Depending on which side of Texas/Mexico border your loyalties lie, national pride may force you to claim credit for this food item that one "chili-head" describes as, "protecting against colds and malaria... aiding indigestion... clarifying the blood... developing robustness and resistance to the elements... and acting as a stimulant to the romantically inclined."

Certainly Texas is the chili capital of the U.S., boasting the nation's highest per capita consumption. But whether the "Bowl of Red" has its beginnings here or south of the border, Texas history is chock full of chili. According to Texas lore, back in the 1890's one West Texas jail made chili so good and with so much beef a man once broke into jail to get some. The earlier quoted Mr. Smith, who also is self-proclaimed "world champion chili cooker," once asserted tongue-in-cheekly that chili first saw the light of day in San Antonio, thanks to Canary Islanders who were recruited from the Old World in the 18th century by the King of Spain to discourage French interlopers into the new southwest.

In his now classic The Great Chili Confrontation

(Trident Press), Smith relates the story of his monumental chili cook-off a few years ago with a member of the Chili Appreciation Society International in the Texas ghost town of Terlingua.

Terlingua has since become the permanent site of this annual epic battle. Author/chili-head Smith has said of Terlingua, "When Lyndon Johnson declared war on poverty, Terlingua promptly wanted to know where to go to surrender."

Whatever its origins, chili is uniquely western hemisphere, and there are as many ways to prepare it as there are preparers. Variations can occur in every ingredient normally associated with chili (and others not so normally associated).

So popular is this "ambrosia," as many chili-heads call it, that literally scores of food processors around the country have developed and canned their own varieties of chili, all the way from mildly spiced to the kind that some Texans love to describe as "hot enough to make the tonsils slip." Not a particularly savory description, but you get the idea.

D-DAYS FOR CLEAN WATER

For municipalities and industries around the country, three upcoming years are "biggies" in the field of wastewater treatment compliance: 1977, 1983 and 1985. Not only do treatment plants have to meet the standards of their respective states, but also national goals of the federal pollution control agency as required by the 1972 amendments to the federal law.

July 1, 1977 is the first future deadline. By this date municipalities must be providing secondary treatment of wastes before discharging them and industries must be providing the "most practical method" available to treat their wastes.

With only a few exceptions, Texas should be able to meet this goal with little trouble. As far back as the 1930's secondary treatment of wastewater has been required in Texas and industries in Texas have been exemplary in initiating cleanup campaigns for their discharges.

Two long-range goals also required by the federal law are July 1, 1983 and 1985.

By 1983 the "best available technology economically achievable" for treating wastewater should be practiced by both municipalities and industries. And then by 1985 the federal law states "it is the goal that the discharge of pollutants into the navigable waters be eliminated."

Guidelines for the 1983 deadline have been laid out, but for the 1985 goal, the definition of "pollutants" has not been outlined.

As is the case in almost any project, there are many "ifs" which must be answered before the mission can be accomplished. In this instance, money is the deciding factor.

Presently most municipalities have adequate facilities for secondary treatment, but many have applied for federal grants to improve existing facilities or for new construction. For these cities the money available in the grant program will be the deciding factor as to whether they can or can't meet the federal guidelines.

The monies now being administered are the $9 billion which was impounded by the last federal administration and then released in fiscal 1975. Of these funds, Texas' chunk was $175 million, now being used to complete grant projects already under construction, and new starts.

Grant figures for fiscal 1977 should be released sometime in February or March, but until then the amount released by the government will remain a mystery.

On the whole, Texas has a headstart on many other states in wastewater treatment, but with many wastewater bonds failing statewide, many fingers are crossed, waiting for federal funds.

The Veterans Administration hired 1,207 handicapped persons in 1974. This represented 17.5 per cent of the total federal number of handicapped hires for the year.

INSUR-MATION

Robert Harvick
Lynn County Farm Bureau, 998-4320

Why is there so much difference in insurance between one state and another?

There are 50 states and therefore 50 different regulatory agencies. Each of these agencies makes up that particular state's rules and policies regarding insurance. For a policy to be marketed and enforced, it must be approved by that state's insurance regulatory board. It is possible, therefore, to have 50 policies... each slightly different... each designed to do the same thing and give the same coverage and benefits. However, you will find in most cases the greatest discrepancy between policies in different states is in the wording, or form of the policy, not in the substance.

Letter To Editor

Views expressed in "Letters to the Editor" are not necessarily those of this newspaper.

Tyler, Texas

My wife and I were in Tahaoka on Dec. 11-75. We had been hunting quail, my wife's arm was black where the shotgun had kicked her. We were in the bank with Mr. Pete Hegi, he told us about a gas operated automatic shotgun that didn't kick. When we got home we bought one of these shotguns, got some duck stamps, and headed for lake Estine to try this no kick when I started to get in boat, my feet slipped, I fell in that boat, the fall was not so bad, but that was the end of the bottom of my back, and broke three ribs and my lungs looked odd with my top of the windshield that boat. Then they didn't look too normal from window of the ambulance either, after ten days in hospital, several x-rays, pills, and many sleepless nights at home, I tried several times to call one of Pete's friends here in Tyler, but have been unable to contact this friend of Pete's, Mr. Harris Fender. We have two unused duck stamps, an untested, gas operated 12 Ga. shotgun, we don't know if it kicks or not, we only have Pete's word on that, but we were wondering if Mr. Harris Fender, here in Tyler might have bought one of those shotguns? Maybe some of your newspaper readers can help me find out, sure would appreciate it if they could.

We enjoy reading the Lynn County News it helps us keep in touch with my home town and friends.

Sincerely,
G.W. Hickerson

Directors of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. January 14 adopted firm positions on issues related to farm labor, raw cotton storage, and future financing of cotton research and market development through Cotton Incorporated.

The PCG Board of Directors at its quarterly meeting in Lubbock said "No" to proposed legislation which would raise the wage base on which employers pay unemployment compensation taxes and extend unemployment coverage to agricultural workers. The Bill, HR-10210, has cleared the House Ways and Means Committee and awaits action from the Rules Committee to permit consideration on the House floor. Effective January 1, 1977, it would almost double the maximum on which employers pay unemployment compensation taxes from $4,200 to $8,000 and cover all agricultural workers of employers with four or more workers in 20 weeks or who pay $5,000 of wages in any calendar quarter.

Board discussion was to the effect that the Bill's provisions would lead to an increased tax load for all employers and create a totally unmanageable situation in agriculture which by its nature has large numbers of seasonal employees.

Directors of the Cotton Warehouse Association of America (CWAA) recently passed a resolution requesting that storage charges on raw cotton accrue to the account of the seller when shipping from warehouses is delayed beyond a "standard" shipping time. In some instances, this would cause cotton producers to pay storage on cotton after it is out of their hands, and the PCG Board resolved to resist further action which would make the resolution effective.

It was explained that the CWAA move was prompted by shipper complaints of excessive storage charges against warehouses outside the High Plains area. Warehousemen John McQuien of Plainview and Roy Forkner of Lubbock reported that High Plains warehouses prevent such problems in this area by stopping storage charges as soon as cotton is cleared for shipment. McQuien is a current PCG Board Member and Forkner a Past President and Executive Committee member.

Forkner said the CWAA Board action would not be effective until it attains approval on the convention floor at the organization's annual meeting and expressed doubt that this would be achieved. Also required to make the resolution effective would be a change in American Cotton Shippers Association trading rules.

Cotton industry leaders are asking Congress for legislation to permit a producer vote on increasing farmer contributions to Cotton Incorporated, the producers' national cotton research and market development company. Some in the industry want the vote to be on increasing the current $1 per bale assessment by a fixed amount. Others favor an amount based on a percentage of the average price received by farmers for cotton in the preceding year.

The PCG Board voted to work for legislation authorizing a referendum on an increase of "up to 1% of the price at which each individual bale is sold." If the referendum passed, the actual percentage to be paid by producers, not to exceed 1%, would be determined by the Cotton Board with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

PCG President W.B. Criswell of Dalou pointed out to the PCG Board that producer support for C.I. on this basis would be fair to producers of both high and low priced cottons, and would help to offset the effects of inflation and fluctuating cotton production volume and prices.

The 52-man PCG Board also heard reports on a prototype pest management program that will begin on the High Plains in 1976, PCG membership, and plans for the organization's annual meeting to be held in March or early April.

The Lowest in 29 Years... Farm Numbers Continue To Decline... Commercial Vegetable Production Keeps Texas Third.

Cotton production in Texas during 1975 will be remembered as one of the lowest in recent history. The crop of 2,400,000 bales is the smallest since 1946. The turn-out compares with 2,462,000 bales in 1974, a year which was plagued by drought.

Both reduction in acres plus a freak weather condition on the High Plains were responsible for the 1975 poor production record. Acres harvested were 4,000,000, down 10 per cent from a year ago. Yield is expected to average 288 pounds per acre, which is only a slight improvement over 1974.

Meanwhile, cotton planting for the 1976 season gets underway officially on Feb. 1 in the Rio Grande Valley. The economic outlook for cotton this year is believed by most economists to be greatly improved over 1975.

TWO THOUSAND FARMS AND RANCHES Disappeared From Texas during 1975, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes.

The preliminary estimate for the number for farms and ranches in Texas for 1976 represents a decline of 1 per cent from a year ago.

And even though the farm numbers did decline a small amount, the number of acres in farms and ranches stayed the same, thus the decline in total numbers was brought about by addition to other farms and ranches. Total land in farms and ranches is set at 141,800,000 acres.

The average size farm and ranch in Texas is now 692 acres compared to 685 acres a year ago.

The recent decline is a departure from the stabilization of farm numbers in the state during 1972 to 1974. Nationwide, farm numbers also declined 1 per cent and total farmland, estimated at slightly more than one billion acres, is down slightly from 1975.

TEXAS CONTINUES TO BE A MAJOR SUPPLIER of commercial vegetables for the nation.

The state ranks third in harvested acreage, production and value of fresh market vegetables. California and Florida are ahead of Texas. This state had 9.9 per cent of the harvested acreage, 8.1 per cent of the production and 9 per cent of the total value of fresh market vegetables produced in the nation.

Texas ranks first in the nation in acreage for fresh market of these crops: onions, spinach and watermelons.

It ranks second in harvested acreage of cabbage, cantaloups, carrots, cucumbers and honeydew melons.

Estimated Texas production of the 14 principal fresh market vegetables and melons for 1975 is down 7 per cent from 1974.

The 14 principal vegetables and melon crops had a total value of $189,000,000. This was up 36 per cent from a year ago.

Leading the crops in order of value were onions, carrots, cantaloups, watermelons and cabbage. In acreage harvested, watermelons led. That was followed by onions, carrots, cabbage and cantaloups.

Nationwide, estimated 1975 production is 1 per cent less than 1974.

The Speaker Reports

by Bill Clayton

AUSTIN—The Legislature needs firsthand information when it starts assessing needed action. For that reason it is necessary for our legislative leaders to see situations as they actually exist.

It is commendable that these men and women take time from busy schedules to find out for themselves exactly what the picture is in a given situation.

On Jan. 1, Rep. Joe Hanna of Breckenridge, chairman of the House Energy Resources Committee and Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo, chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, went to Alaska for a six-day fact-finding tour of the Alaskan pipeline.

The information they received while viewing the operations in 20 below zero weather, will be invaluable as they continue to work the state's energy puzzle.

We must have this information and the only sure way to know it is accurate is to view it and talk to the engineers, geologists and companies who are preparing to bring the oil to us.

Hanna and Sherman reported they found some erroneous information was finding its way back to us. They saw for themselves a reported 600,000 gallon oil spill, but it was in fact only 6,500 gallons that had been spilled and had been cleaned so it was hardly noticeable.

Useful information they brought back and will include in reports to their committees is that Alaskan oilmen are enthused at the prospect new formations tested show there is more oil still undiscovered than all previously discovered.

They also report a natural gas cache in Alaska approaching 26 trillion cubic feet and a gas line alongside the big oil pipeline might be forthcoming.

Finally, they say, look for the first North Slope oil in the second quarter of 1977.

New School Lunch Program Guidelines

New Guidelines for Reduced Price Lunches will go into effect in Tahoka Schools on February 2, 1976. Reduced Price Lunches sell for 20c in the Tahoka School Lunchroom. There is no change in the guidelines for Free Lunches, but any family may apply at any time for either free or reduced price lunches.

Children from families whose income is at or below levels shown on the attached income scale are eligible for Free or Reduced Price meals. Those children eligible for Free Lunches are also eligible for an extra carton of free milk. This extra milk is available during afternoon break in Tubb Elementary School. All students in grades 4 through 12 who receive free lunches are eligible for an extra carton of milk with their meal at no additional charge.

If the family income is greater than shown on the scale below, but you have unusually high medical bills or shelter cost, special education expenses, disaster or casualty expenses, your children may still qualify for free or reduced price lunches.

In certain cases, foster children are eligible for these benefits. Anyone having foster children in their home may apply for free or reduced price meals.

To apply for Free or Reduced Price Meals, some adult member of the family should submit an application to the office of Tubb Elementary School between 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on any school work day.

The school will let you know within 10 days whether or not your children are eligible for free or reduced price lunches. If you do not agree with the school's decision, you have a right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling Mr. Edwin Roberson, Superintendent of Tahoka Schools at 998-4538, or by writing him at P.O. Box 1230, Tahoka, Texas, 79373. All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay and lunch tickets are disbursed to all students at the same location in each building. In operation of the child feeding program, no child is discriminated against because of race, creed or color.

The Tahoka School Lunchroom serves nutritious meals every school day. Students may buy a lunch for 50c and may buy an extra carton of milk for 6c. Adults who work for the school may buy a lunch for 75c while other adults may purchase a lunch for $1.00. Any adult may purchase a lunch for $1.00. Any adult may purchase an extra carton of milk for 11c.

Federal Guidelines stipulate that one carton of milk be served with each meal, and that no food be taken out of the lunchroom.
