Fire Department Urges Extreme Caution During Dry Spell

Tahoka's long dry spell is a cause of concern to the local Volunteer Fire Department. The lack of moisture and the high incidence of dead weeds and grass in yards, alleys, and vacant lots pose a very high fire hazard according to Fire Chief, Jack Henry.

Citizens are urged to use extreme caution in any situation involving open fires especially in burning off yards, alleys, and fence rows. The Department has made several runs involving small fires that simply got out of hand because of the extreme dry conditions.

The Department would recommend that yards NOT be burned off at this time as it poses a danger to life and property. Should burning become absolutely necessary, then there are a few procedures that should be followed. 1. Have a water hose handy, long enough to reach all parts of the burning area. 2. Keep the fire small and contained to a small area, working small areas one at a time. 3. Do not burn anything when there is a high wind or chance that sparks may be carried to areas not under your control.

Tahoka Applies For Mini-Park

A group of Tahoka citizens, headed by Mayor Sheldon Leslie, will appear before the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission in Austin on Wednesday, Feb. 8, to renew the town's application for the proposed mini-park to be located on its just north of City Hall.

Several months ago, the city was turned down on the park project because of a shortage of funds at the time.

Tahoka Chamber of Commerce is cooperating with the City and Phebe K. Varner Club and other agencies in seeking the park designation.

Fire Reports

The Tahoka Fire Department were called out several times this past week. Jan. 2, grass fire on Highway 20; Friday, Jan. 30, south cemetery, burr fires in high wind; house fire, 8 miles north of Cleveville place; grass fire on North 8th.

Darleson and Pearlle vs. Parton vs The City of Tahoka and L.E. and Linda Pierce concerning auto accident at the corner of North 2nd and Ave. Oct. 27, 1973. The news was then informed later that the case was settled out of court.

Farmers and the Future

Letter To Editor, (From Plainview Paper)

Letter To Editor, (From The Plainview Paper)

There are many plainviews, Hale Centers, Kresses, Lockneys, Floydadas, and Oltons in the United States of America. As we celebrate the 200th birthday of our nation and look forward to two hundred more years of this great country, have we forgotten what this nation was built upon?

This country, this state, these counties and towns were built upon the basics set forth in our Declaration of Independence laid down by our forefathers in 1776. Has this prosperous nation gone too far from these basics of our nation to be saved even today? This is nothing but a fair question to be asked of the people in West Texas or in any area of the United States.

We believe in this country, founded on free enterprise and hard work, a nation under God. We hear in the coffee shops about the plot of our nation and of our farmers, but we, as people who are free, seem to be satisfied to discuss these problems in the coffee shops and say "Something has got to be done." But, we sit on our fat rear ends in our little private worlds and expect the other fellow to take care of these problems.

How many people would let the other fellow buy his supplies, seed, fertilizer on the farm or let someone come in and run your business who knows nothing about it? You say, "Not me!" Oh, yes, you wouldn't think of this, but still you sit around and let labor and the other people in special interest groups run your business from a distance. Guess What? There isn't much distance left from them and you.

Many say that this way or that way is the way to get these things straightened out. That's right. We all have opinions and ideas; we are all great independent people. But the fact is - that we are so independent that if we don't start working together as a solid unified mass, you will not have any independence left. The time has come to put aside our petty differences and to unify our courses, to work as a group.

The Farmer's Union, Farm Bureau, NFO, Co-ops and other farm groups all have fine organizations, but each with petty differences. What could be accomplished if these groups went in one mass to Washington and laid out a solid unified plan for the farm people of this nation?

Yes, the possibilities of a unified group are great, but this has never happened, and many say it never will happen. The people in the urban areas hope it will never happen because they have enjoyed and still do enjoy the fat of the land that you farmers have provided them. As we write this article, we sit and think of the people that we have visited, the people who have expressed their concern about these problems. Yes, they say, we have to stop inflation; our price of equipment has got to stop; or we have to receive closer to parity for our farm goods. "Boy, we are in quite a mess!" they say.

Guess who doesn't make any meetings? Guess who says "that group" is radical? Guess who says that protest isn't the way? Yes, you are right. They are the ones who don't make the meetings. Many say it isn't the way to get it accomplished, but I fail to understand why if that or this or the other idea isn't right, why the farmers can't come to these meetings and help form policy and plan they believe to be the right way.

This is a group that has met together to work on a policy, and if the farmers are so content to not come and discuss ideas, policy, and formulation of plans, then why have they the right to say this group is wrong? This is only a small group that asks only one thing of the farmer, and that is to come, meet, discuss, formulate plans and policy. We are not a formal group, not a profit organization - there are no dues or fees to pay to join in and to come to these meetings.

Yes, we are only concerned farmers and friends who have had it with the price squeeze, union, and other people running our business. Luther Gaither Plainview, Texas Submitted to Lynn County News by Concerned Area Farmers.

This tree was a symbol of resistance to British rule, and many towns planted or dedicated their own Liberty trees.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS.....

High Plains farmers who grew oilseed sunflowers in 1975 probably will be faced with potentially severe volunteer sunflower problems this crop season.

Dr. James Supak, a Lubbock-based area agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says that the volunteer seed from last year's 325,000 acres of sunflowers have had little chance to germinate or rot during the rather dry fall and winter months. He believes they'll begin cropping up in March when the soil warms up, and growers will be faced with varying degrees of volunteer problems.

"Many growers already have attempted to reduce this weed problem by shredding and disking sunflower stubble shortly after harvest to encourage fall germination and eventually winter killing of volunteer seedlings," he says. "Others have deep-broken their fields with the intent of burying the seed too deep for germination, thus causing them to gradually rot in the soil."

Supak says that virtually the entire 325,000 acres planted to sunflowers have been or will be rotated to other crops. Farmers will need to seriously consider the best weed control methods for their farm situation.

"Some of the 1975 sunflower acreage is being double-cropped with wheat," Supak explains.

"Invariably, volunteer sunflowers emerged with the wheat seedlings but were destroyed by the first freeze in the fall. The second volunteer crop will probably emerge in March when soil temperatures reach or exceed 50 degrees Fahrenheit. Unlike the fall crop, the volunteer sunflower seedlings that emerge in March will probably be much more tolerant to cold temperatures and will have to be controlled with herbicides."

The agronomist recommends from 0.5 to 1.0 pounds of 2, 4 - D applied after the seedlings emerge. This, he says, should not only control sunflowers but will also eliminate other winter weeds such as tansey mustard.

Supak says volunteer sunflower control in field crops such as cotton and soybeans poses a more serious problem. In 1975,

Dr. John Abernathy, weed researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock, tested a number of preplant incorporated (PPI), pre-emergence (PE) and post-emergence herbicides to determine their effectiveness in controlling volunteer sunflowers. None of the 25 treatments tested provided satisfactory control. The best treatment (Caparol plus MSMA applied as a post-directed spray) controlled less than 50 percent of the volunteer seedlings.

"With these crops," the Extension Service specialist says, "growers will have to depend largely on mechanical tillage to destroy volunteer plants. Where feasible, it would be advantageous to delay listing until after soils begin to warm up in March. If rainfall occurs before this time, part of the volunteer crop will emerge and can be destroyed by the listing operation. After the soil is stirred during listing, more seed will germinate and emerge after a rain or a preplant irrigation. These can be destroyed with knives or rolling cultivation prior to planting."

"Additional seedlings probably will emerge after the soil is stirred during planting," Supak adds. "Cultivation or a post-emergence directed application of Caparol plus MSMA can be used to kill many of these seedlings. Since sunflower seedlings will tend to emerge simultaneously with cotton, the post-directed herbicide treatment may be of limited value except where cotton is planted on the bed."

Supak says that in grain sorghum and corn, herbicide treatments were found to be more effective in controlling volunteer sunflowers. According to Abernathy's conclusions, Supak says, Milogard (propazine) incorporated prior to planting with a rolling cultivator at a rate of 2.5 pounds per acre (on clay loam and sandy clay loam soils) provided about 50 percent control. Similar results were obtained with pre-emergence application of Lorox plus Milogard. The best results, however, were obtained with post-emergence applications of AAtrex (altrazine) plus oil and Banvel. Both of these treatments controlled from 80 to 100 percent of the volunteer crop.

Supak says AAtrex (altrazine) incorporated prior to planting, applied pre-emergence or mixed with oil and applied over the top after emergence of seedlings provided 90 to 100 percent control of sunflowers in corn. Banvel applied post-emergence provided equally effective control. Bladex applied pre-emergence and Evik plus surfactant applied as a post-directed spray also provided satisfactory sunflower control in corn.

"It was of interest to note that after Dr. Abernathy destroyed his test plots in July, no additional volunteer seedlings emerged," Supak says. "This indicates that all the volunteer seed already had either germinated or rotted."

He says in view of Abernathy's research findings, he would recommend that sunflower land be rotated to corn or sorghum where AAtrex, heavy rates of Bladex, Milogard, Evik, or Banvel may be used to control volunteer sunflowers.

Rotations with cotton or soybeans should be avoided, he emphasized.

TEXAS TALK

By Fred Myers

Telling the truth about tumbleweeds seems almost un-American since all the western movies make us feel the rolling weed is a natural part of Americana. Fact is though, when most of those western trail drives were taking place the nearest tumbleweed was about ten thousand miles away... in the heartlands of Russia. It was 1874 before the first tumbleweed sprouted in this country... arriving in a collection of Ukrainian flax seed in South Dakota. With each plant capable of producing a million seeds, it took less than twenty years for the Russian thistle to infest a good portion of North America. Although generally scorned by ranchers, experts say tumbleweed hay contains more protein than orchard grass or Timothy Hay and more minerals than alfalfa. Just as you'd suspect, Euell Gibbons recommends the weed as a delicacy... saying it tastes like ambrosia when cooked like spinach.

Veterans Exempt In Property Tax

Thousands of disabled veterans, as well as certain widows and children of veterans, will be able to claim property tax exemptions this year. The exemptions were made possible by the passage of a special law by the Legislature in 1975, according to Sid A. Lowery, Veterans Service Officer for Lynn County.

Eligible for the property tax exemption are veterans who have service-connected disabilities which are rated 10% or more disabling by the Veterans Administration or a branch of the Armed Forces. Also entitled are the widows of veterans who had a service-connected disability of 10% or more in effect at the time of their deaths, and the widows of servicemen who died while on active duty. In addition, minor children of certain deceased veterans and active duty personnel may also be eligible for the exemption. This is a statewide tax, and it applies to every taxing authority in Texas.

The eligible person must contact each tax office where his or her property is assessed. It is the responsibility of the tax collector to determine the evidence necessary to claim an exemption. The Veterans Administration plans to mail letters of eligibility to those veterans and widows who are entitled to the exemption and who are currently receiving VA benefits. Such letters are to be mailed by the VA within the next two months. Persons who believe they are eligible for the tax exemption, but who have not received their VA letter by April 1, 1976, should make a request for the needed evidence. The 1975 cotton crop from the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. was characterized by improved fiber strength, below average grades, short staple, a considerable amount of bark and the second worst micronaire average since PCG began recording High Plains cotton quality in 1958.

PCG's 1975-Crop Quality Report, covering about 1,350,000 running bales of a crop that now looks as if it will reach about 1,450,000, has been completed and will be published soon, according to PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson.

Commenting on the expected 1.45 million bale total from the Plains, Johnson said area classing offices will probably class 1.25 million or slightly more, and that the remainder will be accounted for by High Plains cotton classed at Abilene and Memphis offices.

PCG makes the computer-compiled report available to PCG members, the cotton trade, the textile industry and others, providing a detailed account of quality and fiber relationships of High Plains cotton. U.S.D.A.'s cotton classing offices in the area and the Texas Tech Textile Research Center cooperate in making the report possible.

Staple average for the 1975 crop came to 30.3 thirty-seconds of an inch, far below the 31.7 thirty-seconds of an inch recorded in 1974 and the shortest since the 30.2 average recorded in 1971. The 32.3 thirty-seconds average registered in 1968 was the longest in High Plains history.

Pressley strength of the crop measured an average 83,120 pounds per square inch, as compared to 81,410 psi for the 1974 crop. All time high pressley on the High Plains was 85,000 psi in 1970.

In grade, 25.8 percent of the area crop fell in the White category, 62.5 percent with Light Spot, and 10.7 percent graded Spot. Corresponding 1974 figures were 50 percent, 43.9 percent and 5.8 percent. The highest percentage of White cotton produced on the Plains came in 1958 when 71 percent was in that grouping. The lowest percentage has been nine percent White in 1966.

Micronaire readings for 1975 averaged 3.00 micrograms, only slightly below the 1974 figure of 3.07, and near the record low of 2.9 established in 1971. The excellent 1973 crop carried the area's highest micronaire average ever, at 4.13.

Cotton classed as "Barky" in 1975 accounted for about 22 percent of the crop, which compares with almost 35 percent Barky cotton in 1974. The worst year in Plains history for bark was 1971 when over two-thirds of the bales carried that designation.

Prior to 1973, bales classed Barky were penalized 50 points in the Commodity Credit Corporation Cotton Loan Schedule in addition to being reduced in grade. The 50 point penalty was removed by U.S.D.A. in 1973 after PCG presented evidence that the "double penalty" was not justified by loss of spinning and finishing performance. Thus the 319,000 bales of Barky cotton from the 1975 High Plains crop were valued at an additional $2.40 each by the Loan Schedule and doubtless brought farmers a higher price in the market as well.

Cotton Prices Are Higher

Grower prices were steady to $5.00 per bale higher during the week ending January 30, according to Paul R. Dickson in charge of the Lubbock Cotton Classing Office. Farmers sold mixed lots of mostly grades 32, 33, 43 and 34, staples 29 through 31; mikes 2.9 and lower for 41.00 to 41.50 cents per pounds. Mixed lots of mostly grades 51, 42, 52 and 43; staples 28 through 33, mikes 2.9 and lower brought 42.50 and 43.50 cents.

The USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported trading was active and growers offered new crop cotton in moderate volume, Dickson said.

Demand was good. Prices paid growers for cottonseed ranged from 80 - 100 dollars per ton, mostly 80 - 90 dollars.

Grades 42, 52, and 43 were the predominate grades classed this week in the Lubbock territory. Grade 42 accounted for 23 percent, grade 52, 26 percent and 43 was 12 percent. Bark reductions were assigned to 51 percent of the samples classed.

Staples 30, 31, 32 and 33 were the predominate lengths. Staple 30 amounted to 25 percent; staple 31, 27 percent; staples 32 and 33, 16 percent each.

Mike readings 3.5 through 4.9 amounted to two percent of the total.

Mike group 3.3 through 3.4 accounted for two percent; 3.0 through 3.2 range 14 percent; mike 2.7 through 2.9, 34 percent; and 2.6 and below 48 percent.

High Plains samples classed totaled 17,000 for the week. Seasons total stands at 1,206,000. Total on this same date last year was 1,083,000, the USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service reported Friday.

Grow Your Own Tomatoes

To many, gardening means just growing a few tomato plants. This can be a fascinating and rewarding venture, or it can be a frustrating one. A sickly tomato plant with no fruit doesn't help anyone's gardening spirit. So, if you are growing tomatoes for the first time, Bill Griffin, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, has some advice to help avoid common pitfalls.

First of all, don't grow tomatoes unless they can be placed in an area that received sunlight for more than half the day. Tomato plants between tall shrubs, under tall trees, or between buildings just don't have a chance.

Next, good soil is essential. Often poor soil can be improved with liberal amounts of organic matter and proper fertilization. A dark heavy clay or even a fine sand can be improved by working in three to four inches of organic matter. For only a few tomato plants, dig up a space at least two feet square to a depth of about 12 inches for each plant. Add liberal amounts of organic matter and mix it well with the soil.

Variety selection is of utmost importance for successful tomatoes. Select varieties that resist common diseases. Griffin recommends Spring, Giant, Homestead, Porter, Terrific or the small fruited Small Fry as tomato varieties for Lynn County.

Plants can be grown at home or purchased at local retail outlets. When buying plants, check closely for suspicious spots on the leaves which could be one of the many foliage diseases that are common to Texas grown tomatoes. Short, stocky, young plants are best. Tall spindly plants that already have blooms are no bargain, warns Griffin.

Transplants should be planted somewhat deeper than they were originally growing. Plants in peat pots or peat blocks should not be removed, the entire container should be planted. The peat pots must be kept moist so the roots will penetrate them as the plants grow. It is sometimes helpful to break out the bottom of the pot.

Use a starter solution with tomato plants to assure adequate fertility for the young plants during their early growth, suggests Griffin.

All tomato varieties should be staked, trellised or caged for best results. Any method is good if it keeps the fruit off the ground. Fruits allowed to contact the soil often develop fruit rot.

At first bloom, dust or spray tomatoes weekly for both insects and diseases. Once the plants start to set fruit, apply small amounts of garden fertilizer every three to four weeks to insure continued production, recommends Bill Griffin.

Sherry Etheredge Says

"Americans trying to 'recapture the past' for Bicentennial celebrations find pewter suits their needs -- it looks antique but is durable enough for everyday use.

One recent innovation is fine pewter flatware, usually in satin finish with stainless steel knife blades, fork tines and spoon bowls. Also, decorative pewter figurines, often depicting Colonial and American Revolution characters, are popular.

When selecting pewter flatware, look for good quality workmanship. Hold each piece in your hand. It should feel comfortable and well balanced. Some pewter is hollow - handles and feels light. Others with a solid handle are much heavier.

Pewter is an alloy of several metals, mainly tin. Smaller amounts of copper and antimony are used for strength and brilliance. Pewter will not develop worn spots with prolonged use since it is a solid metal. But it is a soft metal and could dent easily without proper care. It has a low melting point and should be kept away from extreme heat, flames and heating elements.

To deal with the heat problems of pewter, manufacturers have developed pewter look - alikes. These non - pewter alloys have the look and feel of antique pewter but are stronger, more durable and safe for freezer - to - oven - to - table use.

When purchasing pewter -- especially flatware -- it is important to check manufacturer's labels and tags for care information. Coupled with its 'new' elegance and variety of designs available, most pewter flatware is dishwasher - safe.

But other pieces should be washed by hand in warm sudsy water. Rinsing in hot water and drying immediately with a soft towel will help prevent water spotting.

One manufacturer recommends using a plastic scouring pad on stains and scratches.

It's wise to wash food and beverage service pieces promptly after use. As with silver, certain chemicals and acids present in many foods may cause stains and pitting, if left on pewter long. This includes party dips, eggs, salad dressings, oils, vinegar, salt and fruit juices. Acids, such as those of a lactic variety found in cheese, may also start corrosive action on pewter.

Pewter polish may be used occasionally to restore original sheen. Either pewter or silver polish will renew bright - finish pewter. Read and follow directions.

Some pewter and simulated pewter has a protective finish and shouldn't be polished. Like silver, pewter in frequent use will develop tiny scratches that blend into a patina.

Try This Recipe:

Orange Honey Bread
2 tablespoons shortening,
1 cup honey, 1 egg, well - beaten, 1 1/2 tablespoons grated orange peel, 2 1/2 cups flour, 2 1/2 tablespoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon soda, 3/4 cup orange juice,
3/4 cup chopped pecans.

Cream shortening and honey together until well blended. Add well - beaten egg and grated orange peel. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and soda. Add the flour mixture alternately with the orange juice. Add the chopped nuts. Bake in a greased loaf pan at 325 degrees F. for one hour and 10 minutes. Makes one loaf.

1976 Marks Centennial of Texas A & M and Land - Grant System

Texas A & M University, the state's oldest public institution of higher education, is observing 100 years of service to Texans in 1976, and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, a part of the A & M University System, is joining in the Centennial celebration.

Texas A & M owes its origin to the Morrill Act, approved by Congress on July 2, 1862. This act provided for donation of public lands to the states. The land was to be sold at auction, and the proceeds set aside in a perpetual fund. The act further directed that interest from this fund "be used to support a technological college whose objectives must be -- without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics -- to teach branches of learning pertaining to agriculture and the mechanic arts in order to promote the practical education of the industrial classes in the various pursuits and professions of life..."

Texas, by resolution of the state legislature in November 1866, agreed to provide for a college under the terms of the Morrill Act, but no such institution was organized until the establishment of the Agricultural and Mechanical College on April 17, 1871.

The same act appropriated $75,000 for erection of buildings and bound the state to defray all expenses of the college exceeding the annual interest of the endowment. Proceeds from the sale of the 18,000 acres of land scrip received under the Land - Grant College Act were invested in $174,000 of gold frontier defense bonds of Texas, forming a perpetual endowment for the college.

A commission created to locate a site for the institution accepted the offer of 2,416 acres of land from the citizens of Brazos County in 1871. Instruction at Texas A & M began in 1876.

In keeping with the expanded and diversified character of the University the 58th Texas legislature changed the name to Texas A & M University on August 23, 1963.

Educational programs are now offered in both undergraduate and graduate studies through Texas A & M's 11 academic colleges, including the College of Agriculture.

Today, Texas A & M has established itself as a leader in many of the newer technological areas, such as marine resources, space, computer, nuclear and others. It has placed added emphasis in such areas as agriculture, the liberal arts and business administration fields, and enhanced its prominent role in many other traditional fields.

Cotton Growers Gets Payment

A progress payment of five cents per pound on cotton deliveries is being made to members of American Cotton Growers this week. L.C. Unfred of New Home, President of the 3,000-member marketing cooperative, has announced. The payment totals over $4.5 million and represents the marketing - textile manufacturing organization's first progress payment of the season, in addition to the initial advance of "even the loan."

"We are highly pleased with the size of this payment and feel confident that subsequent payments over the course of the seasonal pool will provide members with a better average price than they could have obtained elsewhere," Mr. Unfred stated.

In a letter to ACG members announcing the payment, Mr. Unfred comments, that this week's payment is "on schedule as predicted when you voted, along with other cotton producers, to organize the pool and to build the textile mill."

ACG serves 26 cooperative cotton ginning organizations in the West Texas area. In addition to its marketing concept of pooling cotton and merchandising over a 10-month period which concludes on September 30, the organization is building a $30 million denim manufacturing facility in Littlefield, north of Lubbock.

Members of the 26-man Textile Pool Committee, comprised of a producer representative from each member gin, who met to approve the progress payment early this week, also heard a status report on the denim mill.

"It is progressing on schedule and we will be weaving some yarn as early as the middle of April," Bob Hale, Manager of the Textile Division, reported.

When completed, the facility will consume nearly 65,000 bales of cotton annually, spun and woven into indigo-dyed denim. The mill will use the revolutionary new spinning technique called "open-end." A total of 360 looms will produce 20 million yards of denim annually. Approximately 450 persons will be employed.

ACG's marketing program calls for members to be advanced a conservative price level at time of delivery and for progress payments to be made over the marketing season as there is an inflow of cash. The concept is patterned after the successful program employed over the past 30 years by Calcot, Ltd., in the Far West. The program strives to attain for members a strong average price reflecting market prices over a prolonged period such as 10 months rather than only at harvest time.

INSUR-MATION

Robert Harvick
Lynn County Farm Bureau, 998-4320

I have a successful farm. One of my sons is interested in farming and would like to be able to buy the farm when I am no longer able to work it. Can we do to make this possible and equitable for everyone?

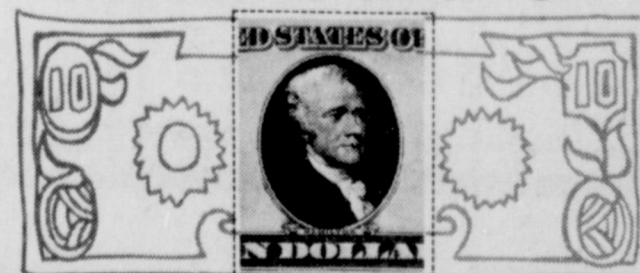

This can be arranged by having your attorney draw up a plan whereby your son will be able to buy the farm at an agreed price. Your son should then insure you with enough permanent life insurance to meet the agreed price of the farm. When he dies, the insurance proceeds can be used as specific bequests for the benefit of the family - assuring equality of benefits. If your son dies before you, he can borrow against the insurance and buy the farm directly from you.
