It was de cided that the disease is a result of the lodgment of microscopic plants in the teeth. When the disease extends to the jaws it nearly always proves fatal. It can be communicated to man. JOSEPH BURSINGER, brewer, of Water town, Wis., failed for $100,000, with only $35,000 assets.

GENERAL GRANT has addressed a letter to General Fitz John Porter, in which he says: "As long as I have a voice it shall raised in your support without any reference to the effect upon me or others Your restoration to the army simply, would regard as a very inadequate and unjust reparation. I hope for your thorough vindication, not only by Congress, but in the minds of your countrymen."

THE other night the mail between Malts Bend and Mount Leonard, in Saline County, Mo., was robbed about one mile from the latter place. The mail carrier was at tacked by three men, two of whom covered him with revolvers, while the third made away with the mail pouch. The two mer who had guarded him ordered him to pro ceed on his route, and threatened him with death if he gave the alarm, but he gave the alarm as soon as possible, and officers started in pursuit. The mail pouch was found cut open a short distance from the scene of the robbery, and all the letters were lying in the pouch, not one having been opened, except a registered letter containing $175, which was gone.

He claimed to have proof that Mrs. Nelson was murdered.

THE Illinois Central Railroad manage ment has decided not to adopt the new standard time, soon to go into effect, but to adopt Chicago time. The reason given for this is, its numerous suburban trains must necessarily be run on Chicago time, and to runs its other trains upon a different schedule would mix up matters and increase the danger of accidents and collisions between trains running by the different schedules. If the city of Chicago should adopt the standard time the road will do likewise. THE main walls of the Mormon Temple. at Salt Lake City, were completed a few days ago. They are ten feet thick and of solid granite eighty feet high. The foundation was laid twenty eight years ago and the cost to the present time is $4,500,000. It

Sheridan, and especially his bravery at the battle of Winchester, he hould be promoted to General, and that Major General Hancock, for like reasons, especially bravery at Gettysburg, should be made Lieutenant General. The resolutions are to be transmitted to the headquarters department of the Kentucky Grand Army of the Republic, and thence to all the department headquarters in the United States for concurrence by all Posts. When returned they will be sent to Congress with a proper explanatory letter. As a solution of the fence-cutting difficulty in Texas, it is proposed to increase the penalty for that offense and to fix the penalty for inclosing land without authority, also to place the venue of all such cases at Austin, where conviction is more cer tain, juries there not being swayed by sentiment, which renders fence-cutters' convictions so difficult in the disturbed coun-

The Hallroad Conference. The Traffic Managers of the different railroads in the State met the Railroad Commissioners, at Topeka, on the 6th, according to agreement, with the view of agreeing upon uniform rates to be charged by the roads, but after discussing the question the whole day, the difference between the Commissioners and Managers seemed to be no nearer a settlement than before a meeting was called. At the meeting the representatives of the roads asked that the conference be private, which the Commissioners finally agreed to. The conference continued into the evening, and the Com-missioners, the next morning, decided that the Beloit decision must stand and go into effect the 10th. Subsequently the Managers appointed a committee, who went before the Board with the following request: To the Honorable Board of Railway Commis

Defendants propose now to try and get both cases into the United States Circuit Court and see what can be done there toward getting them into the United States Supreme Court. ONE night recently some section men discovered the body of a man lying across the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe track near the Emporia junction. The victim proved to be William H. McMillen, of Topeka, who left home a few days previous to collect about nine hundred dollars and also pay some taxes. He was undoubtedly murdered. He had a wife and three children, two of whom were attending the State University and the third at school in Philadelphia. The city of Emporia offered a reward of two hundred and fifty dollars for the murderer, and efforts were being made to have this reward augmented by the State, county and others to two thousand dollars.

In the case recently taken to the Supreme Court by the City of Topeka upon demurrer to the petition of G. C. Unconstitutionality of Partisan Legistation.

The Civil-Rights act, the most objectonal of the partisan measures which a Republican Congress fastened upon the white people of the United States, has just been decided to be unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Of all the strict-ly political legislation of the period fol-lowing the war, when partisan hate and sectional spite ran riot over the liberties and privileges of the citizen, this forced equality of the negro was the most un-wise and least necessary.

When it was proposed to enfranchise the emancipated slave, and add to the voting privilege of the people a mass of ignorant and uneducated freedmen, influential persons both in and out of Congress gravely questioned the wisdom of such an act, but the interest of the Nation and the judgment of its people were not considered amid the partisan clamor of that period. The whole ques tion was merely regarded from the standpoint of political advantage, and as it was easily seen that this mass of ignorance would be as putty in the hands of the Republican party managers, the force of law was quickly applied to the schemes of the leaders, and the negro appeared the political equal of the white man. That all just con-siderations of public policy were rudely ignored in that act of a Republican Congress all sensible people could readily the act and provisions made for their see, and the mass of the people did see and loudly protest, but protests were of no avail when so evident a party gain for the Federal District and Circuit was secured, and the consequence was the addition of a voting element which The rights and privileges claimed by and next meeting will be at Kansas City, Mo. has done more to degrade the ballot than all other causes combined. But great as was this step a still greater was afterward taken. In order to thoroughly humiliate and punish the people among whom the majority of these ignorant negroes lived, the Civil Rights act was passed by a subsequent Republican Congress, and the social equality of the negro with the white race thereby proclaimed. Clothed with all the rights and privileges of citizenship, it would seem as if the negro and his party champions might have been content, but they were not, and the Civil Rights act was brought into requisition to complete the debt of gratitude for which the > country was to pay the penalty. For nearly twenty years the Repub-lican party has had the benefit of that legalized partisan scheme; and now a Court almost entirely Republican has decided it to be unconstitutional. Every man blessed with good sense must have been satisfied in his own mind that no such legislation as forced a social equality between a superior and an inferior race could stand the test of an impartial inquiry, especially with such a Constitution as this country claims to be governed by. Such a sweep and stretch of partisan power might acquire the force of law and be obeyed because of the hostile political forces to which the war gave rise, and which were industriously kept alive for the most selfish party ends, but returning peace and good-will was certain to show the enormity of an act which leveled all proper distinction between an ignorant and an educated race, and forced an equality hateful and objectionable, almost impossible of practical effort, and certain o provoke the most strenuous opposition. It has always been claimed that it was unconstitutional, and this fact may have, and doubtless did, deter the negro from offensively pushing himself as the act in question permitted. It was impossible that such a measure, born of sectional antagenism and kept on the statute books by the force of party power, could remain when the reason and the judgment of men were allowed to exert their proper sway.

> This unnecessary and unnatural political measure, now declared void and without effect by the highest judicial tribunal in the country, is not the only partisan law which Republican adventurers have saddled upon the country. The statute books teem with measures purely political and intended simply and solely for party benefit. So accustomed have they become to overriding the Constitution that its principles or enactments are a dead letter to them, and when an object is to be attained or a purpose carried out, they do not inquire whether it is unconstitutional or not, but whether it will advance party ends. Satisfied of this they plunge ahead, and, regardless of consequences, pursue the methods marked out by craft and intrigue. If the Republican party cared anything for pub-lic opinion, it would hide its dishonored nead in the dust, since a Court of its in the world .- Troy (N. Y.) Times.

own political faith has undone the work which its leaders gloried in accomplish-ing. But it has no more regard for public opinion than for law, and unless awakened to a realizing sense of its un-worthiness by the lash of public indig-nation, it goes on scheming and flatter-ing just as if it had a thousand years to live, and the country were to be forever at its mercy. This decision of the Su-preme Court will, however, open the eyes of the people to the manner and methods of the Republican party. The lesson taught will not be a new one, for everybody at all conversant with public affairs knows that these manners and methods have violated constitutional provisions ever since the party has become an organized band of po-litical speculators. They are now, however, confronted by a power greater in its sphere of operations than the dictates of a caucus. They will now learn, perhaps for the first time, that the States have rights which can not be overrridden, and that the Constitution has a meaning which must be obeyed. Had they learned this lesson sooner, or been governed by patriotic considera-tions instead of setting at defiance all wholesome laws, the country would long ere this have resumed its wonted prosperity and the welfare of its citizens been greatly advanced. But it has run its race and is getting ready to go, and it is fitting that the period of its departure should be signalized by a vote of want of confidence from the highest legal tribunal in the many uneasy moments.—American Register.

An Important Decision.

The decision rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States that the Civil Rights act is unconstitutional is one of the most important that has been delivered in many years. The decision was rendered in a number of cases from different parts of the country which were a year ago submitted to the Court on written arguments. These cases were practically test cases of the law of 1875, and the decision, which lacks but one vote of being unanimous, is correspondvote of being unanimous, is correspondingly important. The law in question provided "that all persons within the jurisdiction of the United States shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, public conveyances on land and water, theaters and other places of public amusement, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law, and applicable alike to citizens of every and applicable alike to citizens of every race and color, regardless of any pre-vious condition of servitude." Penal-ties were provided for the violation of denied to the colered persons in these cases by which this decision was occasioned were full and equal accommodations in hotels, in ladies' cars on railway trains and in the dress circles in theaters.

The decision of the Court holds "that Congress had no constitutional authority to pass the sections in question under either the Thirteenth or Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitu-tion." The Fourteenth "Amendment The Fourteenth "Amendment is prohibitory upon the States only, and that the legislation authorized to be adopted by Congress for enforcing the Amendment is not direct legislation on the matters respecting which the States are prohibited from making or enforcing certain laws or doing certain acts, but is corrective legislation necessary or proper for counteracting and re-dressing the effects of such laws or acts; that in forbidding the States, for example, to deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, and giving Congress power to enforce the prohibition, it was not intended to give Congress power to provide due process of law for the protection of life, liberty and property (which would embrace almost all subjects of legislation), but to provide modes of redress for counteracting the operation and effect of State laws obnoxious to the prohibition."

Congress, then, when it passed the Civil Rights bill in 1875, assumed that it had the power to secure for colored persons by direct legislation "full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations * * * and privileges" accorded to others on railroad trains, on steamboats, in theaters, or, in fact, wherever they happened to be. The Amendment, it now appears, could not be so construed except so far as it might be necessary to counteract the prohibited legislation of the State. In these test cases before the Court it did not appear that any State had made the discrimination com plained of by prohibited legislation, and consequently the unconstitutionality of the Civil Rights act was apparent.

There is no doubt that exists in many quarters against the col-ored people, and that they are deprived of some of the advantages enjoyed by their white brethren; and, furthermore, there is no doubt that they have a right to a full enjoyment of the same privileges, but it is a question of grave doubt if the question of social privileges can be settled satisfactorily by legislation. The Supreme Court says the Federal Government has no business to tamper with the question, and the only thing left is recourse to the sound Democratic doctrine of States' Rights. If legislation can pleasantly affect the question then it should be State legislation. This decision then is additionally important in its bearing on the question of States' Rights. Federal legislation on matters of this nature is but another name for arrogance. - New Haven Register. -Lord Chief-Justice Coleridge says the Hudson is the most beautiful river

The enlisted men of the regular army are circulating a petition, praying Congress to enact a law providing for the retirement of enlisted men after a reasonable length of service, similar to the law enabling officers to retire from active service. There is no valid reason why such a law should not be passed by Congress. Every reason applicable to the case of an army officer is equally applicable to an enlisted man. It the services of an officer be recognized by life, after he becomes incapacitated for active service, there is no reason that the modest allowance of pay granted the soldier should not be allowed him when the wear and march, bivouac or battle.

The Humiston Food Preservative, with which I iston Food Preservative, with which have experimented, have accomplished all claimed for them. So far as I have yet learned, they are the only preparations that are effective, and at the same time practicable, for domestic use. FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

-California horticulturists are interesting themselves in the fig culture. A Nebraska farmer feeds his hogs finely-cut hay, and considers it good food for them, -It is a good plan to plow or spade up the poultry yard once a month through the snmmer. It gives the fowls fresh earth in which to dust themselves, to say nothing of the worms and gravel so necessary to them .- San Francisco Chronicle.

-A nice dish for breakfast is made by cutting pork tenderloins in thin slices; stew them in water till they are nearly done; then put a little butter in a saucepan, and fry them till light brown; serve them on buttered toast, mashed potatoes and raw tomatoes sliced thin—N. Y. Post.

-The seine twine that now comes in varied colors may be used to good advantage in making stand covers and tidies. A pink tidy with a black velvet ribbon run through the open spaces is pretty. The ends of the black velvet should be pointed, and a ball of pink and black put on each point.

-Moles may be removed by the following method: Seat the patient in a clear, strong sunlight. With a sunglass costing from two dollars and fifty cents to five dollars bring the concentrated rays of the sun to bear on the excrescences five or ten minutes, In three or four weeks the mole will scale off and a new skin come on. If the mole should not be entirely removed by the first application, repeat. No scar will be left. This is vouched for by a physican who has tried it repeatedly. N. Y. Tribune.

-One way to economize and to pro duce excellent results in cooking is to use suet in place of butter or lard. For many purposes it is better than either of these. Some people who object decidedly to cakes fried in lard relish them when suet is used for frying. Beef balls are very nice when fried in suet. Round steak can be used for these. Chop the meat fine, season well with pepper and salt and any herb you may choose, shape them like flat balls with your hands, dip in egg and fine cracker or bread crumbs, and fry in the hot suet.— Boston Post.

Bessemer steel rods, No. 6 (threesixteenths of an inch in diameter) are recommended by Mr. Crawford for fencing, in place of wire. They will run ten feet to the pound, and come in pieces weighing about ten pounds each. They are very much stronger than fence wire, never having been weakened by the processes to which the latter is subjected in its manufacture. Three rods, sixteen inches apart, will make a fence four feet high, and will cost less than twelve cents a rod, not counting the freight.—N. Y. Examiner.

Winter Quarters for Swine.

Those who keep a stock of hogs through the winter should not try to do so in quarters that are not perfectly comfortable, for two reasons. First, because the health of the hog is endangered, and second, because it costs more to produce a pound of pork when the hog is not kept in a comfortable condition in cold weather.

When we look back to our boyhood days, and call to mind some of our visits to farmers who kept their hogs where the wind swept through at a twelve miles an hour, we can hardly repress a shudder. But fortunately a great progess has been made in not only providing our animals with more comfortable quarters, but also ourselves. Still, the question of what is to be done for the winter protection of the animals presents itself to us every year, and we should make it our business to, from year to year, make such repairs and improvements as our judgment shall suggest. Whenever we find that there is a chance for a current of air to pass through upon the hogs, or other animals, it should be stopped, and there should also be provision made for keeping out the snow and rain.

One of the mistakes which is too often made in providing winter quarters for hogs is in permitting too much water to accumulate where the hogs stay most of the time. While hogs may not be injured in warm weather by wallowing in the water, there is danger in cold weather, even though in quarters where the water does not freeze. Hogs should have a good dry bed to resort to, even in warm weather, but in the winter it is more important, because of the danger of the hogs taking cold.

Another mistake is very often made by keeping hogs in a dark cellar, where the ammonia that comes from the manure often seriously interferes with the health of the hogs. Light and pure air are very important for the health of not only the human race, but also for all of the domestic animals.

When we are able to get the most profit from our domestic animals, we shall have learned to keep them in quarters where they can be both comfortable and healthy. It is only the rich man that can afford to keep cattle in quarters where they are uncomfortable and un-healthy.—Massachusetts Ploughman.

Parsley in Winter.

It is very easy to have a supply of parsley all winter. Take up the plants from the garden, cut off all but a few small leaves at the center of the tuft, and plant them in a box of good soil. Another method is, to take a keg-a nail keg will answer; bore numerous inch of inch-and-a-half holes in its sides. Place the parsley with the crown at the holes and the roots extending horizontally into the keg, gradually filling in with earth to hold them in place. Finish by planting some roots expight at the total contents of the property of planting some roots upright at the top. Either box or keg, if supported at the kitchen window and watered as needed. will give a supply of fresh leaves all winter. The residents of cities who have no gardens, can buy parsley for this purpose in the markets, as it is usually sold with the roots attached. Those who are fond of parsley as a seasoning, and do not care to be at the trouble of raising it as above, may dry it readily and find it about as good as when fresh. Spread the leaves thinly on a pan; when the stove oven is not very hot, place this in it, and leave the door open. The parsley will dry very quickly; as soon as it is crisp; rub if between the hands into a powder, which is to be kept in bottles, tightly closed. -American Agriculturist.

Smuggling Opium.

Opium is surreptitiously supplied by San Francisco Chinamen to their countrymen in the Sandwich Islands, where it is forbidden. The drug brings eighty dollars to ninety dollars a pound, and the smuggling of a few hundred pounds makes a Chinaman rich. In numberless ways they contrive to introduce it. A large safe was consigned to a prosperous merchant. An officer demanded that it be opened. The Chinaman declared that he had forgotten the combination. That night the safe, weighing four tons, was taken out of the bonded wards and the safe was a safe to the safe to the safe was a safe to the safe was a safe to the warehouse, carted away several miles, emptied, and left in a sugar-cane-field, where the officers found it the next day, with evidence that it had been crammed with opium. A man had a contract for washing the linen of the Pacific Mail steamers. Hundreds of bundles, each containing a can of opium, were pitched from the steamer's deck to the wharf, and carried away to his laundry. He happened to be sick on one occasion, and his assistant, who was ignorant of the contraband trade, handled the linen in such a way that an an opium-can fell out. A great number of sewing machines were sent to Honolulu, and by accident it was discovered that the legs were hollow and packed with opium. Opium has been delivered in the Islands in fruit cans, the can being divided into three compartments, the two outside ones filled with fruit and the larger one with opium. Large quantities have also been shipped to the Islands in stovewood, each piece of the wood being bored. Masses of coal have done service in the same way .- San Francisco Calt.

And so he is; indeed, the inhabitant is far stranger than habitation. He is a Norwegian Mormon, fifty years old. So far from having numerous wives, he has no wife at all, but steadfastly keeps a promise which he made more than thirty years ago to a girl whom he married on her death-bed that he would never marry again. He lives entirely alone, and admits that he is oppressed by the solitude of his home, to which he never admits a visitor. On several occasions he has felt inclined to

A Queer Pet.

One day last week a lady residing on Chapel street, in New Haven, saw, on going into the garden behind her house, a snake about four feet long coming toward her. She screamed and ran, thus attracting the attention of a gentleman, who killed the reptile. It was a beautiful creature, and a person who saw it said it was of a rare variety. While wondering how the serpent could have reached so thickly a settled part of the city, and be found so far from the woods and fields, the wife of a German physician, who lives around the corner from the lady's house, came up and inquired in tones of great solicitude if any one had seen her "pet snake," and when she discovered its dead body she was loud in her manifestations of grief and anger. She, however, become more resigned, and carefully gathering the remains in her arms she walked away lamenting and talking to the dear one, now dead, in a cooing manner, and calling it loving names .- New Haven Reg-

-It is said that a young man made a singular contract with a farmer near Abbeville, Ala., last year. He agreed to work a year for the farmer's daughter and a double-barreled shot-gun. This contract he faithfully carried out, and is now happy in the possession of his double reward.—St. Louis Post.

A HUMAN FIRE.

The Phen enon of a Burning Mine Re peated in the Physical System.

A few years ago one of the most important coal mines in Pennsylvania caught fire. It started slowly but soon obtained such headway that it spread through the greater portion of the entire mine. To flood it with water would extinguish the fire, but well nigh ruin the mine; and still the flames continued to increase. At that juncture a young man stepped forward and suggested continued to increase. At that juncture a young man stepped forward and suggested that all the entrances and vent holes of the mine be covered and secured, thus shutting off the supply of air. His advice was followed and the flames were finally subdued. To compare the condition of this mine with many phases of the human system, is most natural and appropriate. "Fire in the blood" is not a mere expression, it is a most serious fact. How it originates, it may be impossible to say; but that it burns and rages with an increasing fury, the one who is its victim only too painfully knows. The blood is the life. It is designed by nature to purify, strengthen and sustain the system. It is too often made the channel through which poison and death are transported. Poisonous acids coming through the veins and arcries inflame and cause a fire just as real as the one which existed in the mine. They burn and irritate, causing the brain to become weak and the nerves unstrung; they carry pains to the muscles and leave agonies in the joints; they bring destruction instead of strength; they devastate the very portions of the body that most require help, and they hasten the approach of death in its most horrible form. These things have been felt by innumerable people who have been the victims of rheumatic disorders, and the agonies they have endured confirm this description.

There is but one way by which this fire in the blood producing inflammatory rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia, gout and all rheumatic fevers and affections. When they are deposited as gritty crystals in and near the joints, they cause articular rheumatism; when in the muscles, muscular rheumatism. rheumatism; when in the muscles, muscular rheumatism and lumbago; when in the tissues covering the nervos, sciatica; when in the face, head and nerves generally, neuralgia. In every case they are painful; in most instances, dangerous. Inflammatory rheumatism is likely to locate in some joint and become chronic, or suddenly attack the brain or heart, causing apoplexy or heart-disease. The fire in the blood must be extinguished—the supply must be shut off. This can only be done by guarding the portals to the blood—the kidneys and liver; and no means have ever been found for accomplishing this which can equal Warner's Safe Rheumatic Cure. It acts directly upon the seat of the disorder; it extinguishes the fire by controlling the supply and removing the cause.

The well known standing of H. H. Warner & Co., of Rochester, N. Y., the remarkable success which Warner's Safe Cure has achieved, being indorsed by no less a personage than Dr. Robert A. Gunn, Dean of the United States Medical College, New York, and the fidelity with which they have carried out all their promises to the public should be a sufficient warrant that the above statements are true. They, however, guarantee to cure ninety-five per cent.

They, however, guarantee to cure ninety-five per cent. of all rheumatic troubles, especially acute, knowing full well that the demonstrated power of the remedy justifies them in so doing. Nothing can be fairer than this, and those who suffer in the future from rheumatism with such an offer before them, do so ut their own responsibility, and can do so on their own responsibility, and can blame no one if living pain and untimely death are the results.

tensive work has connected historical value as well as thrilling narrative interest. The author is a perspicuous and dramatic writer, and carries each recital forward to an absorbing climax. The hundred engravings are not only well drawn, but are full of thought, suggestion and feeling. The work is written in the best, most graphic, historical style, which, combined with the intensely interesting facts detailed, will hold the attention of the reader throughout. No other book on Pioneer Life approaches it in vividness of description, purity and vigor of style, accuracy of detail and fascination of the story. The excellent introduction by Dr. Ridpath, written in his proverbially accurate and fascinating manner, is a good contribution to the volume. Worn, Weary, and Wretched.

"As weak as a cat" is an expression frequently used by debilitated sufferers who are trying to tell how forlorn they feel. It is an incorrect expression, for a cat is one of the most agile and vigorous animals in existence. It would be more correct to say, "as weak as a limp old rag," for that gives the idea of utter inability to hold one's self up. The weary person who feels thus is generally worn, worried, woeful, and wretched.

Sometimes it is a case of overwork, and sometimes of imperfect nourishment. The blood in the system of a person who is "as weak as a rag" is in a wretchedly thin condition. It needs iron, to impart richness, redness, and strength. This is to be had by taking Brown's Iron BITTERS, the only safe and proper preparation of iron in connection with gentle and powerful tonics. The physician and the druggist can tell the worn and weary how valuable a remedy BROWN'S IRON BITTERS has been found in actual
