County Pioneers Celebrate Nation's 200th Birthday

Pioneers and their descendants, numbering some three hundred in number and ranging in age from toddlers to near-centenarians, filled Tubb Elementary Cafeteria to capacity Saturday, June 26, at the annual get-together of Lynn County's old settlers.

John Ed Redwine, himself the grandson of early Lynn County sheriff, Ed Redwine, was master of ceremonies. He introduced representatives of Girl Scout Troops 273, 158, and 93, who presented the colors and led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Reminiscing was the order of the day as Redwine read excerpts from 1905 and 1907 issues of The Lynn County News which had been submitted by Mrs. Frankie Fenton. "Why risk your wife's life with an old harness when you can get a new one at Bud Milliken's Harness Shop'', read one advertisement.

Far-away places were represented--several from California--but the person winning the prize was Mrs. Bonita Baker, a resident of Quito, Ecuador. Mrs. Baker is the grand-daughter of pioneer Charles Doak and the daughter of Morris and Bertie Sanderson, now of Seagraves, who were the first president and secretary of the Old Settlers Reunion. Mrs. Baker said she attended the first reunion in 1934.

The most noticeable thing about the gathering was that the "younger generation" did not dominate the number--Fritz Speckman, 89-year-old resident of the Lakeview Community, was the oldest man there who hadn't won the award previously. Mr. Speckman came to Lynn County sixty-four years ago 'when there were more rattlesnakes than people!'

Mrs. Lena Shelton, who will be 90 in August, took the prize for being the oldest lady present who had not won the prize in years past.

Many families whose names are synonomous with the county's childhood were represented--Mr. and Mrs. Belton Howell; Hall Robinson; Mrs. W. H. May, who will be 100 years old in February--and as Master of Ceremonies Redwine said, "This is a significant year for the United States and for all of us

The New Creatures, a group of puppeteers from the First Baptist Church in Tahoka, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Wood, entertained the group.

Newly elected officers are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, president and secretary-treasurer; and Rush Dudgeon, vice-president.

Sometimes, a little goes a long way. And a little extra sometimes makes a house a much better home. Like keeping cooler this summer by having your attic insulated. Or widening your driveway. Or adding a porch that's screened, to keep your guests in and comfortable, and the mosquitoes out.

Arranging help for these fix—ups or whatever you have in mind, isn't hard either. From the smallest job to the largest. Whether it's paneling a room or adding a second story. We're interested in helping you, positively. And a little goes a long way.

we've been doing it successfully, for a long time. So why wait. Let's get started. Like we say,

AS SURE AS THE SUN RISES! Our Constitution, the Bill of Rights, our American Flag . . . and everything they stand for are still there. True, they may be partially obscured some days with unsettled clouds of doubts like an energy crisis, spiraling prices, shortages, and changes of all kinds. But, be assured the precious bases of our American heritage are there today as they were almost two centuries ago. The American people have decided their own destiny for all these years. And it works. We Americans live in one of the few countries in the world today where freedom of speech, worship, and the pursuit of happiness are still preserved. Our Constitution, the Bill of Rights, our American Flag . . . and everything they stand for are still there. True, they may be partially obscured some days with unsettled clouds of doubts like an energy crisis, spiraling prices, shortages, and changes of all kinds. But, be assured the precious bases of our American heritage are there today as they were almost two centuries ago. The American people have decided their own destiny for all these years. And it works. We Americans live in one of the few countries in the world today where freedom of speech, worship, and the pursuit of happiness are still preserved. Circumstances change - methods change - basic principles never! Let us uphold the principles of democracy under which this great country was founded and it shall endure.

Freeze and Hail Hurt '75 Texas Peach Crop

AUSTIN-Damaged by a late freeze and hail, the 197.5 Texas peach crop totaled only 333,000 bushels, according to final statistics released recently.

Production in 1975 showed an eleven percent drop from 1974 production of 375,000 bushels, White

"Last year, a late March freeze damaged the crop in all but southern parts of Texas," White noted. "And in early May, hail damaged the crop in both Atascosa and Gillespie counties.'

The majority of the crop was produced in Central and South Texas, with scattered production in East and North Texas.

The five leading peach-producing counties were Gillespie, Smith, Frio, Atascosa and Burnet.

The 1975 peach crop was harvested off approximately 788,800 trees of bearing age. An estimated 91,200 trees were not of bearing age.

COTTON TALKS

The 2,405,000 thousand acre estimate of standing High Plains cotton acreage released June 24 by the joint Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.-Lubbock Cotton Exchange Estimates Committee foretells area production far below "what might have been," notes Joe D. Unfred of New Home.

Unfred, Secretary-Treasurer of Plains Cotton Growers and chairman of PCG's half of the eight-man committee, recalls earlier expectations of 2.8 million or more acres in the 25 PCG counties. Planting rains failed to materialize over a sizeable part of the dryland area of the Plains, and around 400,000 to 450,000 acres either were not planted or were planted dry

Jere Booth of McFadden Brothers Cotton Company, a Memphis, Tennessee firm with offices in Lubbock, co-chairs the committee for the Cotton Exchange.

The joint committee has four members each from PCG and LCE, plus a number of knowledgeable advisory members who assist in gathering crop information from throughout the area.

"We are confident that our estimate of standing acres is the best that can be made as of June 23," Unfred said, "but only 80 percent of that acreage can be called firmly established and in good shape at this time.

This opinion agrees with committee discussion to the effect that at least 350,000 acres on the Plains are in "below average

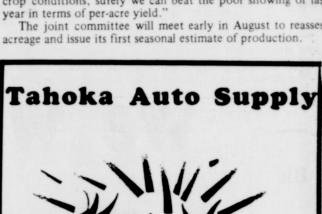

A definite plus for production potential in the area is the presence of good subsoil moisture under much of the acreage, but committee members recognize that this condition is not uniform across the 25 counties.

"Considering this fact and the widespread sparsity of surface moisture," Unfred says, "leads me to something less than unbridled optimism about 1976 prospects.'

The 2,405,000 standing acres compare with last year's 2,712,000 planted and 2,444,750 harvested acres. Production for the 25 counties in 1975 came to 1,420,200 bales, a yield of only 279 pounds per acre, the third lowest since 1952.

As did the committee, Unfred declined to speculate on production for 1976, except to say that "despite less than ideal crop conditions, surely we can beat the poor showing of last year in terms of per-acre yield."

The joint committee will meet early in August to reassess

AUSTIN-Damaged by a late freeze and hail, the 1975 Texas peach crop totaled 333,000 bushels, according to final statistics released recently.

Production in 1975 showed an eleven percent drop from 1974 production of 375,000 bushels. White

"Last year, a late March freeze damaged the crop in all but southern parts of Texas," White noted. "And in early May, hail damaged the crop in both Atascosa and Gillespie counties."

The majority of the crop was produced in Central and South Texas, with scattered production in East and North Texas.

The five leading peach-producing counties were Gillespie, Smith, Frio, Atascosa and Burnet.

The 1975 peach crop was harvested off approximately 788,800 trees of bearing age. An estimated 91,200 trees were not of bearing age.

COTTON TALKS

The 2,405,000 thousand acre estimate of standing High Plains cotton acreage released June 24 by the joint Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.-Lubbock Cotton Exchange Estimates Committee foretells area production far below "what might have been," notes Joe D. Unfred of New Home.

Unfred, Secretary-Treasurer of Plains Cotton Growers and chairman of PCG's half of the eight-man committee, recalls earlier expectations of 2.8 million or more acres in the 25 PCG counties. Planting rains failed to materialize over a sizeable part of the dryland area of the Plains, and around 400,000 to 450,000 acres either were not planted or were planted dry and never came up

Jere Booth of McFadden Brothers Cotton Company, a Memphis, Tennessee firm with offices in Lubbock, co-chairs the committee for the Cotton Exchange.

The joint committee has four members each from PCG and LCE, plus a number of knowledgeable advisory members who assist in gathering crop information from throughout the area.

"We are confident that our estimate of standing acres is the best that can be made as of June 23," Unfred said, "but only 80 percent of that acreage can be called firmly established and in good shape at this time.

This opinion agrees with committee discussion to the effect that at least 350,000 acres on the Plains are in "below average to poor" condition.

A definite plus for production potential in the area is the presence of good subsoil moisture under much of the acreage, but committee members recognize that this condition is not uniform across the 25 counties. 'Considering this fact and the widespread sparsity of surface moisture," Unfred says, "leads me to something less than unbridled optimism about 1976 prospects." The 2,405,000 standing acres compare with last year's 2,712,000 planted and 2,444,750 harvested acres. Production for the 25 counties in 1975 came to 1,420,200 bales, a yield of only 279 pounds per acre, the third lowest since 1952. As did the committee, Unfred declined to speculate on production for 1976, except to say that "despite less than ideal crop conditions, surely we can beat the poor showing of last year in terms of per-acre yield." The joint committee will meet early in August to reassess acreage and issue its first seasonal estimate of production. Tahoka Auto Supply
