Employees Discourage Armed Burglary Attempt At Jif-E-Mart In Tahoka Last Friday

Shortly after eight o'clock in the evening on Friday, February 25th, local law enforcement officers were summoned to the Jif-E-Mart on North Main Street in Tahoka to investigate an attempted armed robbery.

Jif-E-Mart employees, Zina Atkinson and Patricia Fox gave officers a description of a Spanish male, wearing a lady's black wig who entered the store, pulled a gun, and demanded that they lock the door. Mrs. Atkinson convinced the would-be burglar that she did not have keys to lock the door; therefore, he left, advising the ladies not to report the incident or "he would get them later."

It was at this point that Mrs. Atkinson called law officers.

As a result of a description of the car driven by the suspect given to sheriff and police department employees by Mrs. Atkinson and Mrs. Fox, the vehicle was subsequently located on Saturday night. Victor DeLeon, believed to be in his early twenties, was positively identified by the store employees and was arrested.

During the early hours of Sunday, the 27th, someone entered Tahoka Drug by way of the roof and took a considerable amount of drugs and money from a safe and cash register inside. Law enforcement officers assume that the burglar entered through the back door.

Later that day, local officers questioned a suspect apprehended in a drug store burglary in Lamesa and charges were filed by local officers, in the Tahoka Drug robbery, on a white male, Tommy Pointer.

In other incidents over the weekend, local officers investigated four minor accidents and on the 26th, Joe Moya was charged with driving while intoxicated and fined $125 plus court costs.

accountant for Taylor Tractor and Equipment Company, Incorporated, have filed for a place on the ballot.

Steve Greer, also a farmer, had filed earlier, as had incumbents Othell Meeks and Joe Brooks, both farmers.

Three places on the board will be filled as a result of the election.

Members whose terms do not expire are Marlin Hawthorne, Mrs. Mary Brecheen, Bob Haney, and Jay Dee House.

The Spectator...

By Mary Brecheen

There's a contemporary poet named Biondetti whose writing doesn't necessarily "come on", but one of his poems has a message I'm unable to forget.

The title of the poem is "I Am Waiting" and the poet enumerates various things which he laments--most of them having to do with socio-social problems in the world--at least that I gleaned from the man when I read the poem some years ago.

In any way, I find myself re-thinking about the poem mainly because of the catchy title. He made a point, probably, by expressing his thoughts on "waiting" and I don't expect that my thoughts will be much applause; however, I shall put them in this column.

I am waiting--for people to act and not talk. I am waiting--for parents to shake themselves out of lethargy and become aware of children's needs being wasted. I am waiting--for parents to realize that it all begins at home--the discipline, the love, the guidance, and the push.

I am waiting--for parents to "wake up and smell the coffee", to go to town and find their youngsters when they're not at home at a decent hour.

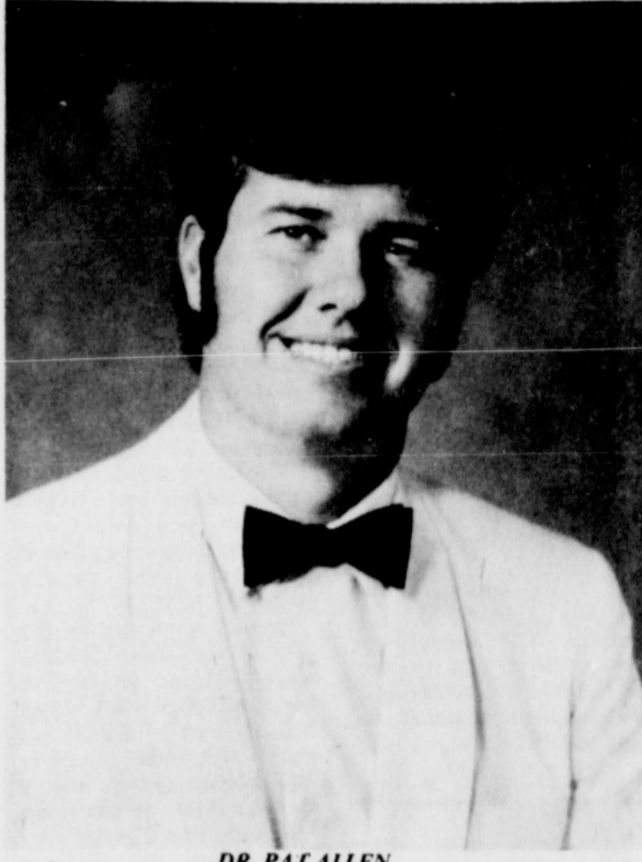

I am waiting--for parents to defend the children at school, at church, or wherever. I am waiting--for parents who will humbly admit that possibly they may be negligent in raising and who will promise to do a better job next time.

I am also waiting--for young people who will "step up to the plate" in a world that condemns their parents and who will prove that they are able to carry the torch--passed to them by really great teachers and other leaders.

It may sound a little melodramatic. If you heed the poet's words, I can be more than satisfied.

I'm forever discussing this thing of "back to basics" at school--we're tired of modern math, modern grammar, no this, no that--but it's all talk and we're doing. We need to do something about going back to the basics" in teaching our children respect and responsibility at home. We haven't yet found the courage (a euphemism for spine, stamina, guts, if you please) to really lay the blame for the things we don't like at home.

In any way past time that we take inventory to find out if it could possibly be our children who shoot the street lights, who dump the beer cans, who loiter in the downtown streets, who chant obscenities at basketball games, and who, because of a lack of discipline at home, refuse to accept the responsibilities that go hand in hand with the privileges we so lavishly place before them.

West Texas Texas Hospitality Manifests Itself To Don Spears Family

BY MARY BRECHEEN

'Tis an undisputed fact that hearts are bigger in West Texas than anywhere in the world and the Don Spears family at Wilson will confirm it now.

Spears, a young farmer in the Tahoka-Wilson area, has been ill for approximately a year and has been confined in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital for most of the past month.

Time waits on no man, true, but a man's friends can ease the burden made pressing by the passing of time. On a Lynn County farm, certain things have to be done at the "right time" and every farmer is aware of that "right time."

So it was that on Monday morning of this week, more than thirty farmers and/or their representatives and/or equipment and fuel congregated on the two Spears farms to tackle the job of applying Treflan to the land--one of those tasks that has to be done at this particular season in a farmer's life.

The grapevine buzzed with the news and the job was coordinated by gin managers J. O. Reed in Tahoka, Ronnie Nettles at Wilson, and by Lynn County farmer Billy Weaver.

On the farm just north of Tahoka there were fourteen tractors going and four trucks applying the Treflan--a rather unbelievable sight, in itself. And east of Wilson, another crew consolidated their efforts and got the job done there.

Those farmers don't want praise nor recognition--it was all in a day's work for them--but the writer did some snooping to find out, to the best of several people's ability to remember, who they were.

Other than Reed, Nettles, and Weaver, the list goes something like this: B. L. Miller, Ronnie Hill, Dan Curry, Ruben McElroy, Billy Tomlinson, Mike Taylor, Finis Botkin, L. A. Forsythe, Jim Potts, Ike Carter, Gene Ingle, H. L. Strickland, Kenneth Huffaker.

And there was Curtis Gickhorn, A. J. Jester, John Henderson, James Wuensche, Russ McCormick, Gary Houchin, Jack Blevins, Cecil Fields.

Also, David Wied, Stan Meador, Pete Bruedigam, Alvin Kitten, David and Richard Savell, B. L. Hatchell, Glynn Moore, J. D. Ross, Walter Menzer, Walter Ray Steen, Tom Autry, Brian Autry, and Gilbert Steinhauer.

The fairer sex provided a meal for the workers on Monday, served at the Spears home, and neighbors are pitching in to keep the two Spears children while their mother keeps a constant vigil at their dad's bedside.

It was a case of neighbor working with neighbor to prove to another neighbor and friend that the world is still a pretty good place--especially in Lynn County.

Staying lean

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — Women who wish to lose weight should increase their physical activity rather than relying solely on reducing their calorie intake, a University of Texas nutrition specialist suggests.

Dr. RoseAnn Shorey says one of the problems of extreme diets is that fewer calories are not sufficient for proper nourishment "because so many of the trace minerals and vitamins occur at small amounts in a wide variety of foods."

She points out "exercise can allow us to eat more and stay lean," but notes that the success of a weight-loss plan depends on "day-in and day-out discipline." She adds: "There's no easy way."

More protein for world food

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — More protein for world food supplies may result from a University of Texas study that has yielded 20 times as much meat protein per square meter per year as could be produced through agriculture or animal husbandry.

Conducting research in the Virgin Islands, UT marine scientists are engaged in a project to increase the protein yield from shellfish such as oysters, clams and scallops. Called "artificial upwelling," the project brings up from ocean depths nutrient-rich water which, when it is mixed with nutrient-poor surface water, stimulates the growth of algae on which shellfish feed.

According to Mrs. Pollard, try-outs will be announced soon and anyone interested in helping with the Little Dribbler program may contact her.

Call 998-4496

At a birthday party on Tuesday afternoon, February 22nd, seventeen people celebrated the birthdays of three Pioneer Club members, Cordia Swann, Sue Ellen Dorman, and Louie Weathers.

George Washington decorations were used and Mrs. Teddie Kelley and Mrs. Louie Weathers brought decorated cakes.

Each honoree was presented a handmade gift.

The regular noon meeting of the Pioneer Club will be this Friday, March 4th.

A St. Patrick's Day party is being planned for March 17.

Mrs. Thelma Dewbre entered Methodist Hospital on Wednesday, February 23rd, with bronchial pneumonia. She is in Room 823.

Mrs. Roy Appling is visiting in Killen with her daughter, Jean Kotsisiah.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Smith visited her mother, Mrs. Wilma Morris, in Plainview on Sunday.

Mrs. Cordia Swann left by plane Sunday for California where she will visit in the Fresno and Los Angeles area with children and grandchildren.

Former Lynn County residents that now reside in that area are Mrs. Chester Barrington, Mrs. Cleo Miller, Mrs. Francis Hayhoe, and Sonn Aten.

Mrs. Swann expects to visit later in Oregon and Nevada and will be gone about two months.

Mrs. Leo Dulin reports that her husband, Jimmy, is improving slowly although he developed pneumonia last week following his surgery.

He is in Methodist Hospital, Room 473.

On Saturday, Mrs. Inez

Jenkins, together with her mother, Mrs. L. T. Middleton of Lamesa, and her sister, Mrs. LaVern Lowe of Brownfield, went to Amarillo to see Mrs. Lowe's daughter perform in the play "Boeing, Boeing" at the Country Squire Dinner Theatre. They returned home on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Wanda Farr, first-grade teacher, was able to assume her duties on Monday after a month's absence because of illness.

Mrs. Ethel Adams and Avis Henry went to Temple on Wednesday where Mrs. Henry will be an out-patient for several days while further tests are being made at Scott and White Hospital.

A camel has three eyelids, World Book Encyclopedia reports. Two outer lids with long, curly lashes which keep sand from blowing into the animal's eyes, and a thin inner lid which blinks to dust off the eyeball.

1976 Farm Prices Close Below Parity

AUSTIN—The past year closed on a slight rise in agricultural prices in Texas, though still insufficient to meet parity levels for most commodities, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported.

In a survey issued this week for December prices, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service showed small gains of 3 per cent for the total of major state crops.

Grains had an increase of a few cents, White said. Wheat moved to $2.40 a bushel; corn, $2.34 a bushel; oats, $1.62 a bushel, and sorghum, $3.50 a hundredweight (cwt.). All were from 50 cents to $2 below parity. Rice prices were not reported.

Lower prices were received for cotton and hay. Cottonseed prices increased a dollar to $99 a ton, but were still $39 under parity.

Livestock prices showed some gains with beef up 80 cents to $30.30 a cwt.; calves up $1 to $30.40; lambs up 50 cents to $49.60. This is the first month since April that increases have been recorded.

Beef prices continued to fall far below parity, White stated. The range is from about $25 to $40. Lamb prices were $11 under parity. Poultry prices were varied and except for eggs were below parity. Broilers went down 1/2 cent to 20.5 cents a pound; turkeys up a cent to 35 cents a pound, and eggs were up to 78.8 cents a dozen, at parity level.

Wool and mohair prices remained the same, 93 cents a pound for wool, but 45 cents below parity. Mohair at $3.55 a pound was above parity.

Feed prices were generally higher except for corn meal, which was lower, and mixed dairy feed, which remained the same as November.

Nationally the index of prices received by farmers was 4 per cent below a year ago and prices paid were 6 per cent above a year earlier.

Every Pound Of Cotton Bale Useful

AUSTIN—From start to finish, every step in cotton processing adds value to the completed product long after the farmer has received his share for growing the crop.

"And except for waste and 'tare' (bagging and metal ties), all of the original bale of cotton ends up in three major uses - apparel, household, and industrial," according to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

When it first shows up at the mill, a bale of raw cotton tips the scales at an average of 500 lbs., 20 lbs. of which are tare.

An additional 24 lbs. are non-lint waste like dust and vegetable matter, while another 29 lbs. are waste produced in the first steps of the yarn production process.

"The 29 lbs. of usable waste are sold mostly to the textile waste industry and eventually end up as padding and upholstery filling," White explained.

The bale, now down to 427 lbs., will be spun into yarns, roughly 76 lbs. for knit goods, nine lbs. for sewing thread, three lbs. for carpet and tufting yarns, and seven lbs. for specialty yarns. The remaining 332 lbs., or more than three-fourths of the yarn produced, will be woven into fabric.

Clothing fabric alone makes up about 206 lbs., or about half of the total end use.

Hens today lay up to four times more eggs than hens a century ago.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS.....

Plans of the Texas Animal Health Commission have been outlined for an expanded program for control of bovine brucellosis in Texas.

Although not in effect at present, the program could assist livestock owners in reducing the disease incidence more rapidly. The expanded program would be dependent on additional funding requested of the legislature by the Texas

Animal Health Commission, along with an expected $1.80 in federal money for each state dollar designated for this purpose.

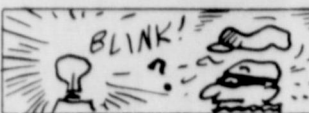

The proposed program is responsive to recommendations resulting from the International Symposium on Brucellosis held at Texas A & M University in 1976. Key livestock industry groups have indicated an endorsement of the proposed program.

Areas of emphasis included in the proposed program are: 1. An active program of incentive based calfhood vaccination. 2. Use of Strain 19 adult vaccination in problem herds. 3. Increased surveillance and improved traceback from the market identification program 4. Use of supplemental diagnostic tests.

The expanded program would provide emphasis on the use of Strain 19 brucella abortus vaccine for producers wishing to follow a calfhood vaccination program, as well as the selective use of adult vaccination with Strain 19 in so-called problem herds, improvement in the present system of finding and tracing infected cattle, and the increased use of supplemental testing on those cattle reacting to the card test.

The bovine brucellosis problem is still present in many areas. An expanded program to reduce the incidence and reinforce the overall program goals is the objective of this thrust by the Texas Animal Health Commission.

THE EARLY BIRD

This relatively early Lockett variety is getting more and more recognition as a fine, early cotton for this area.

Its early maturity (slightly earlier than Paymaster 18) along with being a highly determinate variety, allows it to set bolls early, then "cut-out," resulting in the production of more mature bolls with higher lint quality. It is well adapted to narrow-row as well as conventional planting because it matures early and the close-fruited plant holds the low bolls off the ground. Lockett 4789-A normally produces a good yield of quality fiber with staple length of an inch or more. It is recommended for both dry and irrigated land. However, under irrigation it should be grown only on wilt-free soils.

To be sure you're planting the real thing, buy only certified seed from a Pioneer Seed Dealer. Reserve your supply of Lockett 4789-A planting seed now.

Trimble, economist-management of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at the 25th Farm and Ranch Credit School held at Texas A & M University in College Station. Approximately 200 agricultural bankers throughout Texas attended the school. This year's school addressed topics including the changing market and financial environments facing agriculture, details of making farm and ranch loans, and the overall economic and agricultural outlook. The school is offered to commercial bankers each year, and is conducted by Texas A & M's Department of Agricultural Economics, and the Rural Affairs Section of the Texas Bankers' Association.

Nutritionists will fight food fads and wonder foods in March--to celebrate March, Nutrition Month, according to Mrs. Sherry Etheredge, Lynn County Extension agent. The theme "Nutrition - Foodway to Fun and Fitness" emphasizes the need for good nutrition and weight control obtained from eating a balanced diet according to individual food needs.

"Faddism and nutrition nonsense have created a major public health problem, with Americans squandering $2 billion on food fads," the agent reported.

"These people are fooled, because they don't know--or won't accept scientific facts about foods and nutrition," she challenged.

She cited "ignorance, indifference and fear" as the

Letter To Editor

Letters to the editor do not necessarily express the views of this newspaper. All correspondence must be signed and in good taste before it will be published; however, the writer may request that his name be withheld. Letters are not edited as to grammar, punctuation, and spelling.

Dear Editor:

After reading Ann Landers' article in the morning paper, on school teachers' comments about students and teaching, I think we, as parents, all should take a closer look at our children!!!

Teachers wrote to say they were resigning because they were "sick of being called foul names, sick of hearing students use four-letter words, fed up on garbage and fights in the hall, and you-can't-make-me attitudes."

A school bus driver wrote, "Today's students are undisciplined, unmotivated, and I've had it with their filthy language."

Even fellow students wrote to say, "they were ashamed of the kids they went to school with because they get away with acting terrible, as the teachers have no one who will back them up. When they get into a hassle with parents, the teachers always lose."

Teachers wrote to say also that "The kids are a handful, but it's not their fault. Parents have failed to teach them respect for authority and taxpayers vote 'No' on improvements that are badly needed because they cost money." (The public school system, in my opinion, is the best way we can invest our money.) Teachers even wrote to say "We are so worn out from trying to maintain discipline, we have no time or energy for teaching. Kids who want to learn are being ripped off."

I am not a teacher, but a parent who has been associated with functions that our children attend and the majority are nice, courteous, and behave like ladies and gentlemen. Then there are always a few Bad Apples who spoil the whole barrel!

Bad behavior and foul language does not make these few look good in the eyes of fellow students or parents. So--why do they do it? Beats me!

Maybe we as parents should check closer on what our children are doing when they attend a ball game, a school play, a stock show, drag the streets, a dance, classroom activities, etc. Teaching behavior and respect for our fellow man begins at home and is the responsibility of every parent!!!

Thank you,

A Parent

Dear Editor:

A week ago Tuesday, the Tahoka varsity boys met the Merkel Badgers for the Bi-District playoff in Snyder. The school spirit was better than I have seen it in a long time. Everyone knew that a long-awaited dream could come true and it did!

Friday our boys advanced to Regionals in Lubbock where they went up against Morton. I was really disappointed in the lack of faith in our team from the Tahoka fans. Several comments were made, such as, "Even if they play as good as they did Tuesday, it won't be good enough," and "Morton's going to blow us out of the coliseum"! And not one came from students. How could our boys win when they didn't even have 100% support from their own town? Anyone there would probably agree that they were just as good or better than Morton!

They were certainly not blown out of there. I wonder if it could have been any different if everyone would have really been behind them and not just a few. It's just like football and girls basketball!

One day when everyone in Tahoka is behind all the Bulldogs in every area of athletics, girls and boys, maybe, just maybe, we'll go farther than Regionals! Anything's possible, if you believe.

(Name withheld on request.)

Dear Editor:

I am a teacher and "moonlight" weekends by driving a truck. I drive only at night, all night long, between Lubbock and Midland.

One night, out on the prairie, the winds were fierce. It was a cross-wind, striking the broadside of my truck, causing it to list very noticeably. Having to arrive in Lubbock on schedule, I pressed on. Soon I heard a rumbling along the side of the truck. Unable to interpret the noise, I kept rolling. About two or three miles further up the road, I heard nothing, but the truck seemed to lurch, and I knew I was down. Getting out of the truck, I saw both duals flat, with fire flickering on the outside tire. After putting the fire out, I climbed back into my truck.

With my headlights out and no traffic on the highway, I had never encountered such a black night. Such loneliness and helplessness I had never before experienced. With the engine off, I had never experienced such deafening silence. I finally hiked to a farm house, aroused the occupants, borrowed their phone and eventually arrived back in Lubbock.

Later, as nearly all other truckers, I bought a C.B. I found out two things about that little radio: It provided companionship on the road, but more importantly, it provided a means for me to reach my destination in the event of mechanical failure.

Not long after this, I heard the voice of a man who came to mean a lot to me as I travelled the road between Lubbock and Midland. I knew him only by his handle - Head Honcho.

I heard him as he talked to truckers and "four-wheelers" from all over the country. He gave road information; he helped stalled trucks begin rolling again; and he made long distance phone calls for them. His voice was always very reassuring to me. When I could not raise him on my C.B., I was always a little more tense as I flip-flopped between Lubbock and Midland.

To express my appreciation and my feelings to Head Honcho, my wife and I wrote this poem. I feel certain that it will strike a responsive chord in both truckers and "Four-wheelers." I would appreciate it very much if you decided that this poem would be of sufficient interest to your readers to warrant your printing it in your newspaper.

Sincerely,

Gerome Byrd

He talks me up and
He talks me down
Straight on the Highway
Through O'Donnell town
Ask any trucker
They all agree
The night's not so lonely
With "Head Honcho's" C.B.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS INC.

Selling cotton is a new ballgame under the free market concept engendered by the Agriculture Act of 1973. "And it is a game cotton producers must learn to play and play well." So advised Frank Jones of Lamesa February 22 at the Western Cotton Production Conference in Lubbock. Jones, a Dawson County cotton farmer and a director of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., addressed the conference on "Using Cotton Marketing Alternatives."

The Lamesa resident stressed that selling cotton for maximum income requires a series of marketing decisions based on a broad understanding of market forces. "Producers need to maintain or acquire the ability to market their production over a longer period of time than has been customary," he said.

Jones outlined five possible alternatives which can improve chances for profit and discussed some of the advantages and disadvantages of each.

The traditional method is to average cotton into the Spot Market as it is ginned, he noted, "which in times of surplus stocks and stable prices is o.k., but may not now be the best way to go because of wide market fluctuations before, during and after harvest."

Hedging cotton on the New York Cotton Exchange futures market "can work well for some growers under some circumstances, but involves several problems, especially for High Plains growers," the PCG director stated. High Plains cotton, he explained, generally is not tenderable on futures contracts; there can be and often is an erratic basis between spot prices and futures prices, and there is always the possibility of crop failure, which opens the door to losses on the futures market with no spot sales on which to show offsetting profits.

Fixed acreage, fixed price forward contracting, a common practice on the Plains, was the third marketing procedure discussed. "This is an effective way of transferring price risk to the buyer," Jones said, "but only if you are certain your buyer will live up to the contract if the market goes down, and when you transfer your price risk you also transfer your opportunity for gain from price movement."

Mentioned only briefly were "call contracts" under which all terms of a forward sale are fixed except price, with the producer given the right to "call" the price at a later date based on futures prices. Such contracts have not been available on the Plains, but could become popular if offered, Jones believes.

"In my own operation," he continued, "I lean toward alternative number five - which is to use one of the first four alternatives to cover most or all of my production costs, then hold the remainder of my crop in inventory for possible profit." The disadvantage of this method lies in the necessity for a large investment in inventory, sometimes for long periods of time, with no assurance of a price increase.

To illustrate, Jones told of holding 1973 crop cotton while the price went from 50 cents a pound down to 28 cents before recovering in 1976 to 70 cents.

Marketing strategy each year for individual producers, he said, is dependent on market expectations and the producer's ability to hold cotton during periods of market weakness.

"Learning to play the selling game and play it well can be very rewarding," Jones concluded, "and I think we all should work to maintain the free market in which the game is played."

The three-day conference, of which PCG President W.B. Criswell of Idalou was General Chairman, was sponsored by PCG, other western cotton industry organizations, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Extension Services of California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.
