The Spectator...

By Mary Brecheen

FRUIT TREES IN THE AREA are "decked out" in spring finery, and one of those is the 36-year-old apricot tree at the home of Mrs. Lou Rusk, 1200 Avenue K in Tahoka. Mrs. Rusk set out the little tree which she got from "Uncle George" Dennis.

The passing of time causes changes in most aspects of our lives, the weekly newspaper being no exception.

The weekly is no longer obligated to report national and international news because every citizen has access to a daily paper, to say nothing of instantaneous news coverage via television and radio.

One day has gone when the average citizen is the fact publicized in advance that he will be on the month's tour of the Caribbean, lest the local tourist make a raid on his (the tourist's) home.

Some time was, also, when the world moved a little closer, and one newsman could know pretty well what was going on in his little town, and furthermore, the one newsman could be there to report the facts. That has changed also, but the local newspaper can ill afford a slate of reporters, a full-time photographer, a typesetter, an advertising executive, etc. Many times those tasks must be done by a crew of two-three at the most.

And it's true in newspapering as in other professions that "I know so much more of how to do your business than you do, so let's run it my way." Overlooking the fact that maybe you are right and the fact that you've been at it awhile, you can't really can one go in and say "Weld my plow, fix it thus and so," or "Remove my appendix, then stitches to close the gap, prescribe such such medicine"?

Along the same line of thought, the following is clipped from The Lorenzo Leader:

...concerns the weekly newspaper person... he writes a good story about you, that's what he's paid to do. If he doesn't, well, you don't owe him a cent of your stuff anyway.

When he writes his stories complete, they're too long. If he condenses them, they're too short.

When he takes sides on a subject, he's trying to run you down; if he remains silent, he's a coward.

When he asks for advice, he's incompetent; if he doesn't ask for advice, he's let the job go to his competitors.

When he doesn't stop to talk, he's a high hat; if he does, that is all he has to do anyway.

When his suit is pressed, he thinks he's a big shot; if it isn't, he looks just like a newspaperman.

When he has been on the job for some time, there should be a change; if he's new on the job, he's too inexperienced.

When he attends a meeting, he's nosy...if he doesn't, he isn't interested in community projects.

When he's giving away space, he should give a great deal; if he's selling it, only a little is plenty.

When he makes a mistake, he hears about it for weeks. If he doesn't make a mistake, he never hears about it.

Tahoka Citizens Will Have Opportunity To Discuss City's Top-Priority Needs

The city of Tahoka will hold a public hearing on Monday, April 10, to allow the citizens of the city the opportunity to offer their opinions about the community development and housing problems of the city.

The hearing will be held at the Community Center at 7 p.m. All interested citizens are invited to attend and state their opinions.

While ceilings on the grants will be determined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, it is expected that the city will be eligible to apply for a grant totaling $250,000 to $500,000. The city will be competing for a limited amount of grant funds for which there will likely be many more applicants than there are federal funds available.

Thus, the city is not assured of receiving a grant.

Many projects are eligible to be funded through the CDBG program. They include water and sewer projects, housing rehabilitation, drainage improvements, sanitary landfills, community facilities, parks, streets, fire protection, code enforcement, and some limited social services. Other eligible projects include construction of centers for the handicapped, other neighborhood facilities, relocation, and clearance activities.

The purpose of the public hearing is to determine which types of community projects are perceived by the citizens of the city to be the most important, and to obtain opinions concerning which projects should be included in the city's pre-application.

Further information about the community development block grant program is available from Ray Mason, city administrator, or Mayor Mel Leslie at city hall during regular working hours.

Don Workman Aspires To Be Senator From Big 28th District

Don R. Workman could be classified as a man of many talents.

His background has been varied as well, ranging from collegiate rodeo star to Senior Vice-President of First National Bank of Lubbock. Sprinkled in between were stints as an instructor, farmer, rancher, family man, civic and church worker.

Now, he aspires at age 40 to become State Senator for the 13 counties comprising the sprawling 28th Senatorial District of Texas. He has resigned his post at the bank effective December 31, 1977, in order to devote full time to his campaign.

Workman, recently re-appointed to the Texas Youth Council by Governor Dolph Briscoe, is making his first bid for a political office. The Democratic party candidate also serves as a Regent for Texas Tech University.

Workman's activities over the years include a long history of service to many civic, professional, and church organizations, including a directorship of the West Texas Water Institute and membership on the Agricultural, Water, and Legislative Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Workman began shooting for the top as a champion rodeo cowboy during his college years. He won wide acclaim and titles, including World Champion Junior Cowboy in 1955 and National Intercollegiate World Champion Bullrider in 1958.

Suspects were released on $1500 bond.

Early-Day Post Office In Lynn County Named For Stalwart Pioneer, Mrs. Lou Rusk

MARY BRECHEEN

The Loulynn Post Office in the West Point community of Lynn County no longer stands, but could its walls have spoken, they would have told of the spirit of the pioneer whose name it wore.

Mrs. Lou Rusk of Tahoka came to Lynn County in October of 1920, for reasons common to the era, and she has stayed, through good and bad times, with her memories to keep her company.

She was born July 4, 1894 in Hamilton County, and went to school in the one-room Pleasant Valley School there. Her father, Henry Jefferson Bulman, was minister of the Missionary Baptist Church in the community, together with his farming interests, and today a bridge in Hamilton County bears his name.

She was the youngest of four children, and in 1908, at the age of 14, Lou Bulman was married to John Wesley Jennings, a farmer in Pleasant Valley, and two children were born to them. A brother, John H. Bulman, and a brother-in-law, C. T. Tankersley, had bought land in Lynn County, and when Jennings saw the potential for farmers in West Texas, he decided to move his young family there. He died in 1922 and left a wife and two small daughters who continued to farm until illness prevented more of the hard work which farming demanded.

The young widow had to make a living, so she was recommended by a neighbor, the late J. M. Noble, as one who could operate a gas station and post office built by a Mr. J. K. Quinn on his land west of Tahoka. The Postmaster General officially appointed her, and the Post Office was named Loulynn, for the postmistress and the county.

In addition to the jobs of dispatching the mail and pumping gas, she boarded the school teacher, Dolphia Carmack. In 1926, the widowed postmistress married a ranch foreman named Robert (Bob) Rusk. She already had horses, cows, and tools when they married, and they farmed until 1940 when they moved to Tahoka and Mr. Rusk died thereafter.

Their children are Robert, of Tucson, and Dorothy Luttrell, of Lubbock. One of the Jennings children, Louise, lives in Sacramento, California, and the other, Altha Wayne, died in 1975. There are nine grandchildren.

After the family moved to Tahoka, Mrs. Rusk worked at Cobb's, then Rutherford's, Department Store, and during the drought of the 1950's, she drove to Lubbock for department-store work.

She has lived in the same house in south Tahoka since 1942, and says she thinks it's "the prettiest place in town." She has defied all odds—having had a broken neck, a broken back, and a "worn-out heart," she is still going strong, and much of that going is done in a 1953 Mercury which she acquired in the late '50's.

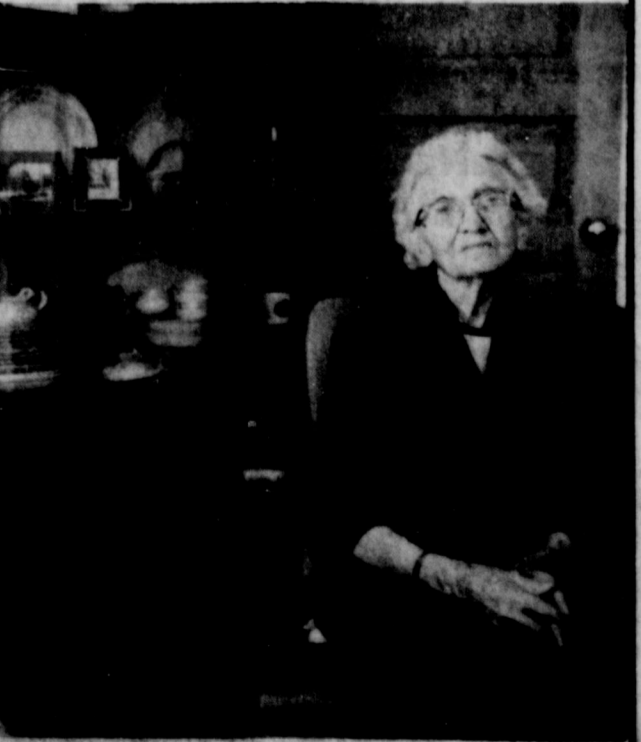

Her doctors and her children felt she shouldn't live alone, but to quote her, "I don't fit in with the patients at the old folks' home."

She likes to go places and see things, and was once named Mother-of-the-Year by the Pythians.

The spirit of the pioneer still thrives in Lou Rusk, and she plans to add to her stockpile of memories.

83-YEAR-OLD MRS. LOU RUSK prefers to live in her own home so "she can go to bed when she wishes, get up when she wishes, and cook what she wants to eat."

JIM SNOWDEN

Snowden Makes Statement To Voters In Texas' 17th District

Jim Snowden of Tye, Democratic candidate for U. S. Representative, District 17, has authorized this newspaper to publish his statement to the voters as follows:

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 17TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:

Basically, I believe that government should be the embodiment of equality and not an instrument through which special and individual advantage can be gained. I believe our government is determined to pauperize a segment of our society through maladministration of welfare programs.

I believe in the supreme worth of the individual and his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

I believe every right implies a responsibility; every opportunity, an obligation; every possession, a duty.

I believe that the law was made for man and not man for the law; that the government is the servant of the people and not their master.

I believe in the dignity of labor, whether with head or hand, that the world owes no man a living but that it owes every man an opportunity to make a living.

I believe that thrift is essential to well-ordered living and that economy is a prime requisite of a sound financial structure, whether in government, business or personal affairs.

I believe that truth and justice are fundamental to an enduring nation.

I believe in the sacredness of a promise, that a man's word should be as good as his bond; that character - not wealth or power or position - is of supreme worth.

I believe that the rendering of useful service is the common duty of mankind and that only in the purifying fire of sacrifice is the dross of selfishness consumed and the greatness of the human soul set free.

I believe in the all-wise and all-loving God, named by whatever name, and that the individuals highest fulfillment, greatest happiness and widest usefulness are to be found in living in harmony with his will.

I believe that love is the greatest thing in the world; that it alone can overcome hate; that right can and will triumph over might.

Sincerely yours,

Jim Snowden

Education also played a major role in Workman's climb to success. After graduating from Olton High School, he attended Lubbock Christian College and Odessa Junior College. Later, he received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Agricultural Education from Texas and a Master's Degree in Agricultural Economics from Texas A & M University.

Workman then became an assistant professor at A & M until 1963. Other teaching positions he later held were at Texas Tech Intermediate School of Banking, Southern Graduate School of Banking at Southern Methodist University, the Banking School of the South at Louisiana State University and the National Commercial Lending School at the University of Oklahoma, in Norman.

However, Workman's real desire during his early years was to return to West Texas and enter private industry. He began his banking career on the bottom rung of the ladder as a bookkeeper for the First State Bank at Morton. He later became Vice-President and Director of that bank. In 1966, he moved to Lubbock, and within six years, was named Senior Vice-President of First National Bank.

At the present, he serves on the board of directors of the First State Bank of Petersburg, and Citizens National Bank in Crosbyton.

With farming and ranching operations in Yoakum and Cochran Counties and widely respected expertise in the field of agricultural economics, Workman has been quoted in such national publications as "The Wall Street Journal" and "U.S. News and World Report," for his work in farming and banking.

Workman's civic activities go hand-in-hand with his professional life. Positions he has held in the community include Regional Vice-President and Director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, a seat on the Board of Governors of the ABC Clubs of America, and memberships in the West Texas Health Planning Council and the Governor's Traffic Safety Council. He also serves as a member of the Criminal Justice Advisory Council for the State of Texas.

Workman also is a member of the American Red Cross Advisory Committee, the Advisory Council to the Dean of the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech, and has served as Chairman of the State Committee on Texas Grain-Fed Beef Promotion. He has supported the United Way Campaign by serving as Team Captain for the Commercial Division and is a past president of the Morton Area Chamber of Commerce.

Honors Workman has received include being listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest and, in 1972, he was selected as Lubbock's Outstanding Young Man. Also, in 1972, he was selected as one of five Outstanding Young Texans and was a nominee for the ten Outstanding Men in the United States.

Workman is an active member of the First Baptist Church in Lubbock, where he serves as a deacon. He also teaches Sunday School and is past president of the Baptist Men.

He and his wife "Skeet" have two children--David, 12, and Mark, 9.

Faith Circle Meets On 27th

Faith Circle of United Methodist Church met Monday, March 27, in the church parlor to continue their study of "Women of the Bible."

Mrs. Lois White is leader of the study, and the Monday lesson was on women who were prophets, which included Miriam, Deborah, and Huldah.

The meeting was opened with a devotional by Marietta Montgomery, and she used Florence Nightingale as an example of one who gave comfort, hope, and cheer to those around her.

Tahoka High Seniors Defeat Post's Learn-And-Live Team

Teal Corley, Pat Calderon, and Wynne Brookshire, Tahoka seniors, defeated the Post Learn and Live Team in the second round of the Driver's Education Contest, with a 90.75 score.

All sizes of schools within a 120-mile radius of Lubbock have participated in the tournament, a total of sixteen teams. Questions for the "quiz show" are taken from the Driver's Handbook and the Texas Law Digest, says Joe Downey, faculty sponsor for Tahoka.

Prior to their defeat of Post, the Tahoka team defeated Denver City, to qualify them for second-round play, and they now advance to the semi-finals round with Dunbar of Lubbock.

The Tahoka-Post game will be telecast on Channel 13, KLBK, at 2 p.m. on Saturday, April 8th.

PARKER PHARMACY

The National Cancer Institute is aiming an informational campaign at individuals who have had x-ray treatment for ailments of the head, neck, or upper chest at any time from the past 5 to 40 years. A link has been recognized between thyroid tumors and irradiation (x-ray) treatments and the Institute wants both the general public and practicing physicians to be aware of the situation. Only a small percentage of those irradiated have thyroid tumors and most of the tumors are benign. Those that are cancerous are usually confined to the neck and can be successfully removed surgically. Informative brochures, both for the physician and for individuals once irradiated for scalp ringworm, acne, enlarged tonsils or other conditions, are available from the Cancer Institute.

The new requirements replace existing postal regulations on the correct way to package and wrap parcels and are the result of cooperation with mailers' associations and others to develop more realistic and enforceable standards for mailing. The new rules reflect established commercial standards and will apply to all mailers, both individuals and businesses, using the Postal Service.

The major areas of change for the mailing public are:

1. The use of fiberboard containers in strengths directly related to the weight and nature of the parcel contents. For example, 125 pound test fiberboard is required for lower density loads up to 20 pounds. For difficult loads of 20 pounds, 175 pound test board is required.

2. It is recommended that paper wrappers not be used on fiberboard containers. Experience shows such wrappers can be torn and lost in handling, and the address and return address of the parcel lost.

3. A clarification of closure and reinforcement requirements with the recommendation that pressure-sensitive, filament, reinforced tape be used for closing and reinforcing containers, instead of twine or cord. Masking tape and cellophane cannot be used in closing and reinforcing packages.

4. A strengthening of the marking requirements on the outside of parcels. This would include a mandatory provision that the container with the marking "Do Not Bend" must have stiffeners protecting the contents. Also, extraneous information such as order numbers, which can be confused with ZIP Codes, will not be permitted adjacent to or immediately under the last line of the address. It is recommended also that a return address be enclosed in a parcel.

5. To minimize loss of address labels and envelopes attached to packages, the new regulations call for sealing of such labels and envelopes to the container, with no more than one-eighth inch separation between the edges of the label or envelope and the container surface. A series of guidelines for packaging and materials are in the regulations for certain types of packages that have experienced relatively high damage rates, such as book, soft goods, records, and tapes.

Construction To Begin Monday On US 380 In Terry And Lynn

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the contractor, Stafford Construction, Inc. of Lubbock, have announced that reconstruction work on US 380 in Terry and Lynn Counties is planned to start on Monday, April 3, weather permitting.

This work is planned to begin in the vicinity of West Point in Lynn County and progress westerly toward Brownfield. The first phases of the work will be confined to the east half of the 12.6 mile project.

The beginning step will be to regrade and recompact the existing base material including the existing surface. This step will be done in half widths of the roadway so that traffic can be routed along the other half. Adequate barricades and warning signs will be displayed, but motorists should be extremely cautious in passing through the area as it will be heavily traveled by large highway construction equipment. The construction area will be zoned for a maximum speed of 45 miles per hour, for protection of motorists and workmen alike. The zone length will be patrolled to minimize inconveniences to motorists. Cooperation of the public is requested in obeying all traffic signs, warning signs, and speed zones.

H. C. "Doc" Brown, Resident Engineer with the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation in Brownfield, will be in charge of construction.

Gentlemen:
I am trying to locate some descendants of James E. and Thersie Redwine Bowman, who came to Texas in the 1880's from Whitfield County, Georgia. Before leaving Georgia, they had three sons, William, Henry, and Edwin.

I would appreciate it if you could run a notice in your paper to help me locate some of their descendants, as I have learned some of them were living in your area.

Very truly yours,
Dorothy Harris

Hill has demonstrated that he has a definite ear for the people of Texas. Why, I am in constant correspondence with the Attorney General and can even boast of his attendance at one of our football games. This is all quite contrary to Governor Briscoe, who once appointed a dead man to a post in our fair state.

After the dedication of our headquarters, and a small informal brunch with the Hill's and members of our campaign organization, I shall retire to a post in our fair state.

Sincerely,
Timmie R. White

Lynn County Ladies Vie For Prizes At Farm Show Feature

Julia Gill, Barbara Rudd, and Sheila Fillingim, Lynn County residents, will be entered in the adult division of the Natural Fibers Fashion Revue, a feature event today (Thursday), March 30, at the South Plains Farm Show in Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

More than a hundred entries in the three divisions will be judged during the morning by a panel of sewing and fashion experts. At 2 p.m. in the Civic Center Theater, the contestants will model their creations in a colorful fashion show, free to the public. Narrating the show will be broadcasting personality Jane Prince.

The revue is designed to emphasize elements of good clothing construction, home sewing, and fashion, as well as the use of natural fibers, she said. Entries must be made from at least 50 percent cotton, or 50 percent wool, or wool and mohair comprising 50 percent or more of the fabric.

In addition to the fashion revue, the three-day South Plains Farm Show will feature a display of the most modern farm equipment in the world, a public forum on the economic plight of the farmer, and a championship micro-mini tractor pulling contest. All of the events are free to the public and are sponsored by Southwest Hardware and Implement Association, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

THE NEXT GREAT SOUTHWESTERN COTTON

LOCKETT 77

It has a lot going for you!

- Multiple disease resistance, good fiber quality
- Early fruiting and maturing
- Outstanding performance, even under stress
- Wide adaptability for consistent performance under many conditions
- Genetically pure, certified seed

the cotton to count on for good times and bad.

Never before has there been a cotton variety like this! With its wide adaptability, multiple disease resistance, and proven yield record through seven years of testing, Lockett 77 has all the best characteristics of the best cotton varieties previously available.

Lockett 77 is ideal for the short season cotton production concept. It has excellent seedling disease escape and cold tolerance. Its multiple disease tolerance includes protection against bacterial blight, verticillium wilt and the fusarium wilt-nematode complex. Lockett 77 has also shown outstanding performance under stress. Foliage is sparse. Leaves are medium-sized. Bolls are of the storm-resistant-type. Short-fruiting branches on an erect, short to intermediate main stem make Lockett 77 an excellent stripper cotton, well-adapted to both conventional and narrow-row systems. And, it has desirable fiber qualities.

There's never been a cotton planting seed that promises... and delivers... like this one. Plant some Lockett 77 on your place, this year.

R TWO GREAT DANGERS TO YOUR EYES

There are many causes of blindness, from congenital defects to accidents. But, two different degenerative and progressive diseases are a great danger to persons over 40. Senile cataracts cause about 13% and Glaucoma about 14% of all blindness.

But cataracts can be safely removed and glaucoma can be controlled, providing the diagnosis of either is made and treatment begun in its early stages. The only sure way to guard against these two dangers is to have your eyes examined by a Doctor every two years after the age of 40. It takes an expert to diagnose them.

A Visit With Your County Agent

by Stanley Young
Lynn County Agent

Calving Season Economies

The most important management practice to a successful cow-calf operation is the development of a definite calving season. Many producers in Lynn County allow bulls to run year-round with cows, resulting in calves born each month. This means the herd will be in all stages of production during the year. This creates problems in feeding, marketing, and management. Furthermore, calving out of season or at the wrong time of the year may cost the producer an extra $50 in feed and a loss of up to $25 in weaning weights.

In addition to reduced feed costs, Texas research has shown major differences in weaning weights between calving seasons. For example, calves born in February, March and April averaged 478 pounds; those born in November, December and January averaged 466; May, June, and July calves averaged 430 pounds; and August, September, and October calves averaged 415 pounds. Calves born in the February-April period were worth from $7 to $25 more, depending on season of birth.

Producers can gain as much as $75 per cow each year by selecting the best calving season. The season should allow cows and calves to take advantage of the greatest forage quality and quantity in spring and early summer. Cows calving in late winter and early spring also obtain adequate nutrition to get in good breeding shape and thereby increase conception rates.

LIT MOORE, CHAIRMAN OF THE LYNN COUNTY Soil and Water Conservation District, says the conservation program which went into effect in 1961 could end in 1978 unless the present administration proposes money for conservation work under the ACP program. There have been 326 contracts approved in Lynn County, covering 175,000 acres of land. Approximately $2,000,000 has been paid over the years to install needed conservation practices, one being parallel terraces, nearly 15,000,000 feet of which have been constructed under the GP program. The SCS office at Tahoka still has money for GP contracts in 1978, and all contracts approved this year will be carried to completion even if no new contracts are approved in 1979. Call the office at 998-4622 for information on obtaining a GP contract.

Sherry Etheredge Says...

Young people, help conserve energy at home—become energy misers.

While parents are caulking, weather-stripping, and insulating, there are many things children and teenagers can do.

--Walk, hike, jog, and bicycle. This requires no energy except personal.

--Turn off the television, radio, and record player when no one is watching or listening.

--Don't turn on more lights than needed in a room, and turn them off when leaving.

--Don't hold open an outside door. Go in and out of a building quickly, and close the door.

--Don't let water run when doing dishes or washing hair, and turn off all water faucets completely—no open or dripping faucet wastes energy.

--Instead of baths, take quick showers—they use up to 50 percent less hot water.

--Decide what is needed from the refrigerator before opening the door. Try to open the door only once, and do it quickly. Warm air enters the refrigerator and raises the temperature when the door is open. The refrigerator uses the energy to return the temperature to a cool level.

--On sunny winter days, open window blinds, shades, and curtains so the sun's heat will help warm the home. Close window coverings in the evening to keep heat in a room.

--When planning an outing with friends, organize a car pool so that fewer cars are needed.

--Encourage friends to become energy misers.

--Teach younger children the "whys" and "hows" of energy conservation.

--When it's gift-giving time, ask for or give a tree as a present. Properly selected and planted trees and shrubs can reduce heating and cooling needs.

--Encourage schools and social clubs to conduct home and community energy conservation projects.

Rotarians Hear Program On Goodwill

Goodwill Industries of Lubbock is doing a great work for this section in training handicapped people to qualify for employment and to live productive lives. Rex Davis, executive director of the organization declared in a talk before Tahoka Rotary Club last Thursday.

A total of about 45 people a day receive training in the Lubbock center, at 28th Street and Avenue G, develop skills, and reclaim and repair items which are then sold through one of the outlet stores to the general public.

There are 165 such centers in the nation, loosely connected but operating independently.

Davis, who holds a masters degree from Texas Tech, was reared in Amarillo and was with the Houston Goodwill Industries before moving to Lubbock.

The program was arranged by Calloway Huffaker, who introduced the speaker.

Store sales this past year amounted to $265,000, and the remainder of the $400,000 budget this past year was made up of donations and grants.

FHA Week, April 2-8, the chapter will have a special project each day.

On Sunday, the group will attend the Methodist Church and on Monday, they will wear red and white. Tuesday is Teacher Appreciation Day, and Wednesday is Community Service Day.

A "Secret Granny Tea Party" will be Thursday, and Friday is Ribbon Day. Saturday is Tweep Day.

The chapter will have a bake sale on April 5 to raise money for the FHA Banquet which will be May 5 at the Big Texan Steak Ranch in Lubbock.

4-H Clothing Training Meet Is Friday

The 4-H Clothing Training meeting for Lynn County will be Friday, March 31, at the Southwestern Public Service Meeting Room, at 10 a.m.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss changes from the previous year's project and to complete in detail the plans for the county revue.

Questions about the meeting will be answered by calling the Extension Office, 998-4650.

Wilson FHA Makes Plans

Wilson's chapter of Future Homemakers of America met March 27 at 3:45 and discussed plans for the annual FHA/FFA party on March 30th.

The two chapters will meet at 5:45 on the school parking lot and will go on a hayride to the Tahoka roadside park where they will have supper and fun activities before returning to Wilson.
