STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — In spite of complaints of soaring property taxes, Texans pay much less in state and local taxes than most Americans.

"Money" magazine drew that conclusion, based on a sample of individual federal income tax returns which included itemized deductions for state and local taxes paid in 1975.

Comptroller Bob Bullock's office reviewed the "Money" study in detail in the latest financial report prepared for the comptroller.

Texans with adjusted gross incomes ranging between $10,000 and $15,000 reported to Internal Revenue Service they paid an average of $606 in state and local taxes.

That's $463 below the national average of $1,069 and third lowest in the nation.

Texans with adjusted gross incomes between $15,000 and $20,000 ranked 49th in the nation. They reported paying an average of $782, compared to the national average of $1,446.

Bullock's report also showed state revenues for December totalling $525.3 million, bringing the 1978 fiscal-year-to-date total to $2.36 billion. That is 12 percent above collections for the first four months of the previous fiscal year.

State expenditures for December totaled $664.6 million, raising the total for the current fiscal year to $2.6 billion.

More Jobs in Texas
 The state's unemployment rate for February dropped a tenth of one percent to 5.4 percent, Texas Employment Commission reported.

The commission said Texas' labor force in February was 5.8 million, a decrease of 62,200 from January.

Streets

 east, and northeast sections of the city.

At Monday night's meeting, Mason presented his map showing twenty-five blocks of pavement, including curb and gutter, on South Avenue M, South 4th and 6th Streets, the street west of the Lyntegar warehouse in the east part of town, and North 6th, in the northeast part of town.

Proposed caliche streets would be South 3rd, in east Tahoka, the street on the west side of Cottonseed Delinters, the street immediately east of Louder Gin, and South 5th and 7th Streets.

Proposed lateral sewer lines would be on South 3rd and 4th and 5th Streets, with the main trunk line running from South 3rd to South 8th, in the southeast part of town. A sewer lift station on South 6th would be in the plan also.

Mason said that a tentative plan calls for $250,000 to be spent on paving, $85,000 on sewer improvements, and $165,000 on housing assistance and caliche, should Tahoka receive the grant.

Another questionnaire, to gain needed input for the application, is being circulated in the projected areas, that particular survey asking for the family's name, the size of the family, street address, number of rooms in the house, and whether or not the family's income is more or less than a projected figure of $8,650. The questionnaires are to be returned to Mason as soon as possible.

Deadline for the grant application is May 15th. Also present at Monday night's meeting were Mayor Mel Leslie and Councilmen Jim Solomon and Dr. Richard White.

Texas insured unemployment rate was 1.3 percent for both January and February, compared with the national rate of 4.7 percent.

Rates Reviewed

Public Utility Commission members last week held a preliminary hearing on electric rates outlook for Texas.

The conference was called mainly to decide who would participate in a nine-day hearing scheduled during June.

The hearings will be the first by PUC to review electric rate structures in general rather than rates of a particular company.

One suggestion came from Senate candidate Joe Christie: establish a single rate for electricity use and eliminate "bonus" rates reserved for big industry.

Commissioner Al Erwin said rising electricity rates are serious problems for retired people and the poor, and an alternative must be sought.

Crop Declines

Texas wheat production this year may drop 37 percent below that of last year, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown predicted last week.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service forecasts 73.5 million bushels for the summer harvest, based on surveys from sample field plots in growing areas.

Brown said reduced production should not cause higher bread prices.

Short Snorts

Texas Youth Council has authority to use community assistance funds to reimburse recipients of the money for expenses of having outside audits performed, according to a new attorney general's opinion.

Other board members, all of whom were present at the April 13 meeting, are Mrs. Betty Green, Marlin Hawthorne, Othell Meeks, and Joe Brooks.

Melvin Burks, Clifton Gardner, and Jim Marcus presented their respective school's budget for for 1978-79 school year, as did Don Wise, band director. Athletic Director A. D. Shaver was unable to attend the meeting; however, the athletic budget was presented to the Board by Superintendent Jim Coulston.

David Roberson, who has been tax assessor-collector for the New Home schools for the past three years and who was formerly an employee of the State Comptroller's office, was employed as business manager of Tahoka schools.

In other business, the Board accepted the resignations of Mrs. Zuma McWhirter, Mrs. Linnie Redwine, and Mrs. Belva Whittington, all of whom will retire at the end of this year.

The Board also voted to increase the local bonus to teachers from $200 to $400, payable in one lump sum at the end of the school year. A day of personal leave, per school year, for teachers was also approved.

Doctors are warning that Phencyclidine (PCP), more commonly known as "angel dust," is the most dangerous drug ever to achieve such wide-spread acceptance. PCP causes behavior disruption; unpredictable, violent aggression; paranoia, severe anxiety and depression. Ninety-three deaths related to PCP abuse have been reported since 1974 and authorities believe that hundreds more have gone unreported. Useful only in liquid form and for veterinary medicine, PCP has lately found its way into junior high school and high school levels, where it is exacting a terrible toll. There are no recognized medical uses for the powder and tablet forms and the Justice Department and the White House are being called upon to get going on a program to diminish further availability of PCP.

Response To Newspaper Drive Is Superb, Say Chamberettes

Mrs. Nadine Dunlap, president of the women's division of the Chamber of Commerce, says that the organization's drive to collect newspapers has been tremendously successful so far, and persons are encouraged to continue saving their papers.

Organizations who wish to help in the drive by having bake sales, etc. are encouraged to do so. Individual donations of cash may also be given to the Chamberettes, to be used for Christmas decorations.

If at all possible, papers should be tied in bundles or put in paper sacks, so that loading them on the truck will be easier. People who find it absolutely impossible to bring papers to the depository at The Fabric

DON WORKMAN STATE SENATE

A WORKMAN For The People Of West Texas Wants YOU To Know. . . . Where He Stands On The Issues.

DEAR VOTER:
 As a family man, banker, businessman and farmer and rancher with oil and gas interests in West Texas, I know the problems facing West Texans. I feel I can relieve the problems facing the 28th State Senatorial District by:

- AGRICULTURE: Encouraging the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State to formulate a plan for development of marketing assistance and techniques, making them available to Texas farmers, and restrict foreign commodities into the state.
- SENIOR CITIZENS: Urging the state Human Resource Commission to begin a statewide program to promote the hiring of senior citizens while relaxing Social Security retirement and supplemental security income rules on the amount of earning before affecting payments and insurance.
- LAW AND ORDER: Moving the Texas Youth Council toward a regional detention center concept, with children in need of supervision and truants being separated from serious and habitual offenders who could still be sent to state training schools.

I know these solutions cannot be achieved overnight. But as your State Senator, I will work toward these goals—and many others which I will outline later—to give West Texans the independence and protection each of YOU deserve.

AMERICA WASN'T FIRST.

We Americans are pretty smug sometimes... until we stop for a closer look.

It was the Russians who put the first satellite in orbit...A South African who performed the first heart transplant...The English and French developed the super sonic Concorde aircraft...and the Germans developed the diesel and jet engines.

And, of course, America has had a great number of firsts also. There's only one area, however, where we are head and shoulders above the rest of the world...and that's Agriculture.

The American Farmer's ability to produce food and fiber has won him the envy and admiration of the world. The American Farmer's work, sweat and genius have made us the best fed, best clothed people in the history of the world.

The next time you see a farmer, tell him "thanks" for his great contribution to our American way of life.

Agriculture is basic in Texas. America needs a strong Agriculture.

Marvin Pierce Makes Pledge To The Precinct Two Voters

I, Marvin Pierce, take this opportunity to say a few more things to the voters of Precinct 2 before May 6th. I have enjoyed visiting with many friends and new acquaintances the past few months and will continue to try to get around to see as many of you as I can. The main issue I want to get across is, "People, you are the government of this Great Nation and government starts right here in your county. Yes, it all starts with you. Young or old, whatever your walk in life, you are involved whether you realize it or not, so Vote!" I know I can provide the ability, energy, and hard work to accomplish each phase associated with commissioner's post. I feel that I have good common interest with the other people who will be your County Court, to serve you to your best advantage. Should the people favor me with their support and vote, I pledge to accept and perform to the best of my abilities, the responsibilities and challenges Lynn County will have to deal with in order to continue to improve and strive to be among the best counties in Texas. Thank you for your support and encouragement. Sincerely, Marvin Pierce

Certified Seed Saves Money, Says Lubbock Cotton Breeder

Faced with rising production costs, the cotton grower may be tempted to cut corners by buying a neighbor's seed or by saving his own seed to plant next year. But, according to studies performed by Dr. Levon L. Ray, cotton breeder at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock, that practice can end up costing him as much as $53 per acre in reduced lint production.

In yield tests covering five years, Ray compared the performance of 16 popular varieties of "farmer-saved" (non-certified) seed with the same varieties of certified seed. Results showed certified seed the winner in yields, out-distancing some of the farmer-saved varieties by as much as 191 pounds of lint per acre.

In overall averages taken during the five years of testing the certified seed lines produced yields ranging from 15 to 116 pounds more lint per acre than their non-certified counterparts. At the rate of 46 cents per pound for cotton lint, that could mean from $6.90 to $53.36 extra income per acre in lint production to the farmer who plants certified seed over non-certified.

From Ray's studies, it is evident, then, that certified seed is likely to produce consistently higher yields than non-certified seed. But what about cost?

All seed costs money, even that which a farmer saves from his own crop. The costs of delinting, treatment, cleanout, transportation, and storage will run at least 12 cents per pound. Certified cotton planting seed will run about 35 cents per pound for 1978 planting.

According to Marvin Sartin, Texas A & M University Extension farm management specialist, a one or two percent increase in yield justifies 50 to 100 percent more for seed. Ray's tests showed yield increases from three percent to over 31 percent with certified seed.

At 20 pounds of seed per acre, the difference in cost for planting certified seed amounts to about $4.60 per acre, a small sum when compared to a possible $53 more income from increased yield.

But yield is not the only consideration. As Ray's studies indicated, non-certified seed has other disadvantages. One of its major liabilities is a tendency toward deterioration, which may reduce fiber quality as well as yield. Genetic deterioration may be a result of contamination either in the field (through volunteer plants or cross pollination) or at the gin or seed processing operations. Varietal purity, an important consideration as far as yield and crop quality are concerned, is likely to be compromised with the use of non-certified seed.

Bargain seed could also contain a considerable amount of weeds and pests, both costly items to eliminate from a crop.

According to Ray, "The first step in efficient, profitable cotton production is the planting of good quality seed."

Sartin adds, "Seed is a poor place to cut corners. Other production expenditures amount to much more, and those costs will be incurred, no matter what kind of seed you plant."

Considering the overall cost of producing a crop—planting, cultivating, fertilizing, spraying, and harvesting—Sartin estimates the cost of seed to be less than four and one-half percent of the total.

"If I were going to produce a cotton crop," he says, "I would plant the best seed I could get my hands on."

Dusty Rhodes Tells Of Anxiety In Area Of Military Strength

Congressional candidate A. L. (Dusty) Rhodes stated recently that he is concerned that the United States is fast becoming the second most powerful nation in the world, taking a back seat to the ever-expanding military strength of the Soviet Union. The Abilene businessman and attorney blamed "a lack of leadership on Capitol Hill" for the loss of America's military supremacy.

Said Rhodes, "There is a tendency for Congress and the Administration to make expenditures for defense based upon civilian political reasons, rather than the hard facts necessary to preserve a strong national defense. I believe that the best weapon the United States has is freedom backed up with power (militarily) to protect it against all that would take it from us. Our best attack weapon is freedom internationally and individually."

Rhodes noted that in the past few months, major defense budget cuts have been made. The candidate specifically pointed out the scrapping of the B-1 bomber, the cancellation of sixty new Minutemen III missiles, the authorization of troop pull-outs in South Korea, the recognition of China while abandoning Taiwan, and the present movement to ultimately turn over control of the Panama Canal.

To back up his contention of military disparity between the United States and the Soviet Union, Rhodes stated that "The U.S.S.R. has 4.4 million active duty personnel, while the United States presently has 2.1 million. In submarine capability, the U.S.S.R. has 909, while we presently have 656; a 35 percent disparity." Rhodes went on, pointing out the advantages the Soviets have over the United States militarily, in such areas as ICBM's (a 37% disadvantage), conventional force weapons, such as naval ships (a 60% disadvantage), tanks and artillery. The candidate continued, "I strongly favored the construction of the B-1 bomber, but the present administration seems to have killed any chances for production of that plane. I do feel, however, that a new bomber of some type needs to be added to our arsenal. It is common knowledge that the cruise missile requires delivery by an effective and able bomber which is dependable. The cost of renovation and modernization of the B-52 will almost equal the costs for construction of enough new bombers to meet our current strength."

A staunch advocate of a strong national defense program, Rhodes served during the Korean conflict as a member of the U.S. Navy. He currently is a member of the Military Affairs committee of the Abilene Chamber of Commerce. He has been highly vocal in speeches across the country, stating his belief that "an aggressive national defense policy is the proven method to maintain world peace." Rhodes is the front-running candidate in the race to replace the retiring U.S. Representative, Omar Burleson.

RCA Leaflet Available At SCS Office

A new leaflet explaining the Resources Conservation Act of 1977, and the public's role in its implementation is now available at offices of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service in Tahoka.

Under the new law, SCS will appraise the nation's soil, water, and related resources; develop a comprehensive 5-year strategy to guide conservation efforts; and evaluate the effectiveness of on-going conservation programs. SCS will carry out the work in cooperation with appropriate citizen groups, conservation districts, and other federal, state, and local agencies. The appraisal and program will be completed by the end of 1979 and updated every 5 years.

Copies of the leaflet, "Your Role in Conservation's Future," may be obtained by calling 998-4622, or by coming by the Tahoka office.

"The Lynn County Soil and Water Conservation

District and the Soil Conservation Service will co-sponsor a workshop or open meeting about this legislation in the future." Eual Davis, SCS district conservationist, said, "and it would be helpful to read the leaflet before the meeting."

Davis said that public participation is a built-in feature of the Resources Conservation Act, and suggestions from interested groups or individuals are welcome at any time.

Arthritis Costs Noted

"The burden of arthritis in pain and crippling, as well as the tremendous economic toll, is one that nobody can afford," reports Robert J. Burbridge, Chapter Representative of the West Texas

Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

How expensive is arthritis? Mr. Burbridge said medical care costs of $4.2 billion, including hospitalization, physicians' office visits, and drugs are annual expenditures for our nation's 20 million victims, including 125,000 right here in the West Texas area. The one in four families where arthritis strikes also lose $4.8 billion in wages and $1.4 billion in home-maker services every year.

"These and other expenditures related to arthritis add up to a $13 billion annual impact on the U.S. economy," said Burbridge. "And no price tag can be put on the enormous human suffering, disability, lost potential, and family problems that often accompany the disease."

To help reduce the toll, the Arthritis Foundation is offering a free booklet "Arthritis--The Basic Facts" to anyone who writes to their West Texas Chapter at P.O. Box 3335, Lubbock, Texas 79410.

Sancap will control the tough broadleaf weeds that escape your preplant.

Preplant herbicides are great for controlling grasses.

But the fact is, they just can't control the stubborn broadleaf weeds that are breaking through cotton here in the South High Plains.

So, if you grow cotton on sandy soils, spray an overlay of Sancap® herbicide at planting.

Because Sancap is strong on broadleaf weeds. Strong enough to stop the tough ones that escape your preplant.

Texas cattlemen may now have their heifer calves vaccinated with Strain-19 brucellosis vaccine free of charge.

The vaccination program is voluntary and will be conducted through participating, accredited veterinarians. These veterinarians will be able to obtain the brucellosis vaccine free and will be reimbursed for their services from state and federal funds on completing a vaccination chart.

Only eligible female calves will be vaccinated and will be identified by an ear tag and tattoo. Female calves of dairy breeds from two through six months of age and beef breeds two through ten months are considered eligible.

All the cattlemen has to do is call his local veterinarian and schedule a time for the vaccinations. Of course, the calves should be confined. This new vaccination program does not include vaccinating calves at live-stock markets.

There are several benefits from the vaccination program, including these:

1. Properly immunized heifers will be more resistant to the organism causing brucellosis.

2. Officially vaccinated calves should sell for higher prices if purchased for replacements.

3. The more animals that are vaccinated, the quicker the spread of brucellosis can be controlled, thereby minimizing the threat of quarantine.

To reimburse participating veterinarians, some $450,000 of state and federal monies has been made available for this vaccination program for fiscal year 1978, and additional funds are expected for the fiscal year beginning September 1st. Due to the limited funds, interested producers should contact their veterinarians early.

Heifer Management From Calving To Breeding management are the keys to developing weaned heifers into producing cows.

Good nutrition and herd

Provided nutrition and management have been correct during a heifer's first 15 months, she should conceive and calve first at two years of age. Virgin heifers, if managed correctly, conceive more easily than heifers with their first calf on the ground. First-calf heifers often calve late with their second calf due to the heifer's inability to come into heat and conceive within 85 days of calving with her first calf.

This inability to cycle relates mainly to nutrition and lactation. The lactating first-calf heifer has a greater nutrient demand than the mature cow. In most instances she is still growing, which increases her need for high-quality feedstuffs. Over-nutrition can have adverse effects on reproduction in heifers; however, under-nutrition is most often the problem in long calving intervals. Lactation also places a high nutrient demand on the first-calf heifer. A high quality, well-balanced diet is essential for maximum milk production and mammary development in the first-calf heifer.

Body condition prior to calving has an effect on the future reproductive performance of first-calf heifers. Heifers in thin body condition will normally have lighter calf birth weights, exhibit limited milk production, have lower nutrient reserves, experience stress at calving time due to low nutrient reserves, and ultimately have longer intervals between conception. Heifers which exhibit excess body condition may have calving problems.

As far as herd management is concerned, virgin and first-calf heifers should be managed separately from the cow herd. Differences in nutrient requirements, size, and social status in the herd make separation an effective management tool.

Infertility in first-calf heifers usually results from poor management and under-nutrition. So cattlemen should give particular attention to these factors to increase reproductive efficiency.

Poka-Lambro Vandalism Case Solved

Lynn County Sheriff's Department aided in the apprehension of three men who were responsible for $104,000 worth of damage to the Aten Exchange of Poka-Lambro Telephone Cooperative last November.

Bond was set at $5,000 for each of the men, all of whom lived in the O'Donnell area.

Dawson County Sheriff, Guy Kinnison, said a youth was out hunting with his dog when the dog dug up some test equipment which officials say was taken in the November 4 burglary. The youth took the equipment to his father who called the sheriff's office and further investigation led to the arrest of three men.

Poka-Lambro has been offering a reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those involved in the incident. The reward offered at first was $5,000, but recently was raised to $10,000.

4-H'ers Get Behind-The-Scenes Look At Chicago Board of Trade

Twenty-seven 4-H members went behind the scenes at the Chicago Board of Trade recently for a look at the nation's oldest and largest commodity exchange in action. The occasion was the 27th 4-H Commodity Marketing Symposium, a three-day educational program sponsored by the board in cooperation with National 4-H Council and the Cooperative Extension Service.

Delegates, who were state winners in their 1977 4-H commodity marketing projects, toured the exchange trading floor with board members and attended seminars on pit trading, futures contracts, hedging, speculation, and international trade.

The annual symposium is designed to help delegates understand the basic principles of commodity marketing and how these principles apply to commodities sold in cash markets and traded in futures markets of major commodity exchanges.

4-H'ers and their advisors met with officials of the board and heard from floor traders and marketing representatives. They also attended a production of "You Can't Take It With You," had dinner in Chicago's Greektown, took a sightseeing tour of the city, and lunched with board members in the Metropolitan Club on the 66th floor of Sears Tower.

Delegates came from 24 states including Texas, representing nearly every major agricultural production area in the nation. They were selected by the Cooperative Extension Service on the basis of their record of accomplishment in 4-H projects and activities related to marketing.

A number of the young people had sold crops or livestock for cash. Others had studied futures markets, or traced the flow of grain from the field to elevators and from there either to consumers' tables or to an overseas market.

"Each of you represents many thousands of other youths around the nation who have worked hard to apply fundamental concepts of the free economy in individual projects," Chairman of the Chicago Board of Trade Ronald F. Young told the delegates.

"Our market's freedom to function and its future existence truly depend on the understanding of persons like yourselves," he continued. "Beyond what you take home today to your club, families and friends, many of you will soon embark on careers as producers. Others of you will take important positions in education.

"Some of you will study economics and finance and later be making important decisions for firms in the agri-business sector," he said. "Whatever, it is our hope that you will carry with you some of the things you have learned about the Chicago Board of Trade and the principles of free competition under the influences of supply and demand that are our cornerstones."

4-H'ers interested in beginning a project in commodity marketing may contact the county Extension office.

Bob Nash Tells Rotarians Of Indian Hunt

The so-called "Lost Negro Expedition" by the 10th Cavalry, and its captain, Nicholas Nolan, from Fort Concho, in the hot, dry summer of 1877 across Lynn and other South Plains counties, was the subject of a talk at Rotary last Thursday by Bob Nash, prominent Lubbock leader who has done considerable research on the ill-fated expedition and its leader.

Incidentally, The Lynn County News was the first to research this story, published in the local paper on October 9, 1933, from notes taken from the U.S. Army Archives by Emmett I. Hill, Jr., then with the Government Printing Office in Washington.

The U.S. Cavalry troops came to the Plains in an attempt to corral a group of Comanches from the Oklahoma Reservation, four of the Negro soldiers died of thirst, and the rest almost famished before finding their way back to Double Lakes.

Nash, who was fascinated by the story, began further research of the horrible event, one of the most fabulous accounts of men on the verge of starvation, and he also became interested in the life of Captain Nolan, and is still researching his amazing life.

His presentation proved very interesting to his listeners. Clint Walker was in charge of the program.

About 195,000 Texas farmers, ranchers, and other land users are cooperating with their local soil and water conservation district.

A SYSTEM OF PARALLEL TERRACES will catch and nearly all of the 18-inch average yearly rainfall in Lynn County. This is equal to 78,000,000 gallons of water per quarter section. An irrigation well would have to pump 1 GPM for 181 days to equal the average rainfall. Most Lynn County have irrigation only or have neither terraces or irrigation. Does your 78,000,000 gallons of water run down the bar ditch each year? See your Soil Conservation office in Tahoka. We can help.

Norman Is Plains VIP

Wendell Norman, formerly of Tahoka, has been named 1977 Conservation Farmer by the Yoakum Soil and Water Conservation District.

The District singles out one individual yearly who has farmed or ranched in an outstanding manner. Production is considered, but the important factor is the way in which the soil water are treated.

Norman and his wife, former Mary Jane Norman of Tahoka, live ten miles southwest of Plains and have two children, ages 13, and Chris, age 11.

The Norman's own irrigated about 1,440 acres of cropland.

Courts Speak

Striking down a Hansford County districting, the State Supreme Court held county commissioners' precincts cannot be "checker-boarded" or divided.

The court of Criminal Appeals concluded a Dallas woman must be tried for welfare fraud, though the legislature changed the law which applied to her case.

A sales tax on motion picture leases by theaters in effect from October 1975 until June 1977 was upheld by the State Supreme Court.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals declined to strike the name of William A. Messer III, a Belton city judge, from the May 6 Democratic primary ballot as a candidate for state representative. Rep. John Bigham of Temple had challenged Messer's eligibility.

The Supreme Court upheld the will of a Dallas widow who left $7,000 to a cat and bulk of her quarter-million-dollar estate to a hospital for crippled children.

Competition On

Gov. Dolph Briscoe announced plans for the new Governor's Industrial Expansion Awards competition. Nominations are being accepted by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, the Lower Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, the South Texas Chamber of Commerce and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce through June 30.

A single winner will be picked from each region to be honored by Briscoe with an award presentation. Local chambers will select the best industry from their communities and make nominations to regional chambers.
