Woods Jewelry Store Robbed; Owner Threatened With Knife

Shorty Woods made it almost fifty-one years as a businessman in Tahoka without a robbery, but his unique record was broken last Saturday afternoon when a man and two women entered his jewelry store, put a knife to his (Woods') throat, and forced him to lie down in the floor at the back of the store.

Woods estimates that a relatively small amount of cash was taken, and approximately $10,000 worth of jewelry.

Woods said he had just returned to his store, at approximately 3 p.m., after going home for a late lunch. The trio entered the store and asked to be shown some diamond rings in the counter. One of the women stayed near the front door, while the other woman looked at the rings, being shown by Woods. The man walked behind the counter, put one arm around Woods' neck, and held a knife to his throat. Either by accident, or purposely, the knife cut Woods' arm.

The man told Woods, "Do what I say or I'll kill you."

and Woods assured him that he would give him no trouble.

Woods was taken toward the rear of the store, made to open the cash register, and then forced to lie down on the floor, at which time his assailant tied his feet together, rather loosely.

At that time, a customer, a Mrs. Walker, came in and she too "was invited" to join Woods at the back.

The trio hurriedly emptied many of the shelves of fine diamonds, and as they left, they put Woods and Mrs. Walker in the restroom at the rear of the store.

Woods said the whole thing did not last more than a few minutes. He called the sheriff's office and city policemen, and at press time on Tuesday, the sheriff's office said that some progress was being made in the identification and apprehension of the thieves. They were reportedly driving a late-model Cadillac.

Meal Honoring Short Re-Set For July 14th

Chamber of Commerce directors and others who are working on the fund-raising meal to honor E. L. Short, recently nominated for the State Senate on the Democratic ticket, have postponed the event until July 14 in order to have more time to prepare.

Dignitaries from throughout the State will be in Tahoka for the affair, to be held at Mel Leslie's Ranch, north of town.

Permanent Plaque To Bear Names Of Donors To Museum's Memorial Fund

A large wall plaque in Tahoka's Museum will record permanently the names of persons in whose memory an amount was donated, as well as the name of the donors.

Members of the Museum Committee met last Thursday night, and one of the announcements made was that persons who contributed at least $500 in another's memory would have their names inscribed in the permanent location in the museum.

Five contributions have been made thus far to this phase of the museum

The presentation was made by "Pete" Peterson, sub-station network specialist of Lubbock, on behalf of the National Service.

Hill's father, the late E. I. Hill, kept the records from 1928 until 1952, and prior to that, H. C. Crie, then publisher of The Lynn County News, kept the records from 1913 through 1915.

Official high and low temperature, rain, snow, and hail readings for the previous 24 hours are made to the Lubbock station each morning at 7:30.

Pirtle's Give $50 To Fund For Museum

Mrs. Macky Turner, chairman of the Finance Committee for Tahoka's museum, said Monday that a donation in the amount of $50 had been received from Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Pirtle.

MRS. NADINE DUNLAP, left, president of the Women's Division of Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, discusses with other Chamberettes the possibilities of Tahoka's being able to have downtown Christmas decorations. Chamberettes shown are, left to right, Mrs. Gertrude Polk, Mrs. Virginia House, and Mrs. Ann Roberts.

Chamberettes Seeking Ways For City To Have Christmas Decorations

A representative of a company which sells Christmas decorations will speak to Tahoka Chamber of Commerce members at the breakfast meeting on Tuesday, June 20th.

The women's division of the Chamber has been collecting newspapers to sell and use the proceeds to purchase Christmas decorations for downtown Tahoka; however, there is not a market for the papers at this time. Chamberettes are asking that civic organizations and clubs help in this project, and all interested persons are asked to attend the 7 o'clock breakfast meeting on the 20th and learn more about the project.

Plans Progressing For Celebration Of Lynn County's 75th Anniversary

Jimmy Bailey, Tahoka Ex, Signs With Green Bay Packers

Jimmy Bailey, Tahoka High School ex-student who is now a running back at the University of Texas at Arlington, has signed a free agent contract with the Green Bay Packers, thus becoming the fourth Maverick grider from the 1977 squad to get a shot at the pros.

Bailey, a 5-11, 185-pounder, finished as the fourth leading rusher in UTA history with 1,757 yards while starting three years for Coach Bud Elliott. A Maverick co-captain, Bailey broke the UTA record for best rushing average in a career with 5.3 yards per carry.

"He has very good strength for his size," Elliott stated. "With his speed and quickness, he makes good open field adjustment."

Junior Tourney Is Considered

Individuals who are interested in having a junior tennis tournament are asked to contact Mrs. Taylor Knight at 998-4073.

Consideration is being given to having a doubles tournament for youngsters from 10 to 12 years of age, and for those 13 to 15 years of age.

The tournament will be in Tahoka, and a date will be set and further plans made should enough interest be shown.

JIMMY BAILEY

Elliott indicated that the Packers plan to utilize Bailey at running back.

Bailey is the second Maverick to sign as a free agent, joining defensive back Bill Bradshaw who earlier signed with the Oakland Raiders.

Fullback Derrick Jensen was drafted in the third round by the Raiders and defensive end Dwight Carey in the fifth round by the Kansas City Chiefs. Both are currently negotiating contracts.

Stamps Sought For Museum Furniture

At least fifty books of S & H trading stamps are needed to purchase tables and chairs for the Meeting Room at Tahoka Museum.

Donors may leave books at Tahoka Drug, with Mrs. H. B. McCord, Jr., or with Mrs. Sam Edwards.

The Spectator...

By Mary Brecheen

Interesting sidelight clipped from an issue of The Lorenzo Leader, dated June 6, reads: "E. L. Short of Tahoka is now the Democratic nominee for State Senate because he is in the district and met the people and campaigned with them. He beat his favorite son, Don Workman, in the runoff primary."

Short visited in our office during the campaign three times, and Mrs. Short was here three times, when not with Mr. Workman at any time during the campaign--I yet do not know him.

Short voted for Short.

Apologies for being presumptuous, but I thought that E. L. Short is elected Senator from the 16th District of Texas, in the November election, Tahoka will "come of age" so to speak.

It is our town is going to grow--already growing, for that matter--far beyond our present boundaries. Many factors will contribute to that.

One of the thousands of mysteries in life is that of the abilities which people possess. I doubt, every teacher has marveled at the ability of some students and has felt helpless to do anything to cope with the different levels of ability and with the wide range of abilities in a group.

Who is to say what "education" really is? Formal-education pendulum has swung from the discipline of the early-day schoolrooms to the thinking era of the 1960's, and now there are those who say we are headed again for the "three R's."

I recently read that Harvard University has redefined its definition of what a college education is and has decided to take a sharp, sharp turn toward more rigorous academic standards throughout the nation in the 1980's.

Who doesn't answer the question, however, "Is the educated person?" I don't know how to sign the moon, to know when to plant cattle, or when to plant watermelons, but I consider myself uneducated. I could never stand all the regulations involved in a farm, nor do I know anything more about a car than to turn on the key, put it in reverse, etc.

I am not an uneducated person. And, by the token, the person who does not appreciate Shakespeare or Winston Churchill, as I certainly no less educated than I.

Everybody seems like Will Rogers or Mark Twain--said we're all ignorant, in some areas. I am fun to think about. I have my own ideas of "who is educated" also.

Thank You

Bill and I want to thank all of you Tahoka people who turned out for my benefit dinner that the O'Donnell women and men gave me. You know, if it were not for people like you and others, life would be terribly dull sometimes. I also want to thank the ones that have sent me cards and visited me, and especially the ones that gave donations at the dinner.

May God bless each and everyone of you, and some day you will get repaid tenfold for all the nice things you have done for people like me. We love all of you very much. I worked up there so long I feel like I am part of your town and community too.

With sincere appreciation,
Mary Helen and Bill Reed

HOME LOANS

A lot has been said lately about the housing market. That it's getting harder and harder to obtain a home loan at a reasonable rate of interest. And that if you're a young married couple, you might as well give up on the idea of finding a lender who'll listen sympathetically enough to back you with the money you need. In fact, a lot of people are saying that trying to get into a house of your own, is like getting on a merry-go-round. We think things should be simpler than that. But far more than just thinking out loud, we're doing something about it. We feel this way: a home is a dream that we can help come true. So why don't you come on home, to us? We are an equal housing lender.

People are our best assets.

As one of the two minerals that regulate the water balance in the body, sodium can cause problems if consumed in excessive amounts. When too much sodium collects in the body, water accumulates causing swelling of the hands, feet, and possibly elevation of blood pressure. The most abundant source of sodium is ordinary table salt and Americans generally consume too much of the seasoning. There are 2,132 milligrams of sodium in a teaspoon of salt and the average individual consumes far more than the 1,000 mg. needed, daily. "Unseen" sources of sodium include monosodium glutamate, baking soda, baking powder and some food preservatives. Even water, when softened with a sodium purification system, can be an unexpected source of salt.

Dental Care Is Stressed

It is good to encourage your children to emulate George Washington, but not where dental health is concerned. Our first president had a long history of troubles with his teeth, and later with his dentures.

Your children's teeth should last their entire lifetime. Of course, this is true provided youngsters have been started on the way to good dental health at a young age.

Dental health habits must be learned in childhood, the American Medical Association points out. In fact, youngsters should have their first dental examination at the age of two and one-half years — when all their primary teeth have erupted.

Those first teeth are important to future dental health. One basic function of primary teeth is to preserve proper space for permanent teeth, and if they are lost too soon — through decay, for example — the development of permanent teeth is often crooked. Poorly aligned teeth can affect appearance, eating habits and speech. Frequently, misshapen dentition can only be corrected by orthodontic treatment, which may be lengthy and costly. And, if a child's appearance is seriously affected by unsightly teeth, emotional problems may result.

On the initial dental visit, the dentist will check for any signs of beginning decay and other dental problems. He will also give your child — and you — instructions for proper home care. Usually the first appointment is a "get acquainted" period and is designed to make the child receptive to treatment at regular intervals.

To start your child on a lifetime of good dental health at home, make certain he or she always brushes properly after meals and after snacks. If the child is in the habit of eating a lot of sweets, cut down on them; sweets are a major cause of decay. And, the child should be drinking fluoridated water to help prevent decay. If your community's water is not fluoridated, the dentist can suggest alternate methods for your child to receive fluoride's benefits.

Dental decay is one of childhood's most prevalent health problems. Teach your child how to care for his or her teeth at home, and, if the child is already three or older, make the first dental appointment.

Women Smokers Given Warning

Under a directive by the Food and Drug Administration, effective April 3, 1978, about four million women who use the Pill and also smoke will be warned of the danger of heart attack and stroke unless they give up one or the other.

Druggists dispensing the contraceptives must also provide a brochure revising information required since 1970.

"Women who smoke and use birth control pills have a three times greater chance of dying from a heart attack or other circulatory disease than women who take the Pill but do not smoke," FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy declared when announcing the directive late in January.

"Women who both smoke and use the Pill are 10 times more likely to die of a heart attack or other circulatory disorder than women who neither smoke nor take the Pill," he said.

"Our best estimate is that from 30 to 40 percent of the eight to 10 million women who take the Pill also smoke. This means that for perhaps four million American women, the new FDA message is both loud and clear: If you take the Pill, don't smoke; if you must smoke, find another method of contraception."

The third chapter was written June 7 in the story of regulations determining eligibility for prevented planting payments under the 1977 Farm Act.

First, from the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, in April, there were reasonable and fair guidelines. These would have provided producer protection against unseasonable conditions — as Congress intended.

Then, on May 25 in the waning days of the required planting period, from Washington, came a directive that was impractical and unfair. It would have required senseless planting of other crops after the required cotton planting date, thus denying producers the protection envisioned by the law.

Now, there's something in between.

Following Washington's ill-advised action May 25, Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, by telegram and telephone, protested. Repeated conversations with USDA high-ups brought contradictory responses and assertions of good intentions.

And, at long last, action. The State ASCS office in College Station was authorized June 7 — well past the May 31 required planting date — to issue a "clarification" of Washington's May 25 communication. Although late, some producers may yet see some benefit from the prevented planting section of the 1977 law.

As received by PCG in a telephone conversation with the state office, the new instructions to county ASCS offices read as follows:

"Producers are expected to plant other non-conserving crops (after being unable to plant cotton prior to May 31) to the extent that:

"(1) Moisture is available for the planting of such crops during the normal planting period for the crop;

"(2) Non-conserving crops that can be planted are normal to the area;

"(3) Equipment is available for the production of other non-conserving crops;

"(4) Non-conserving crops normal for the area are tolerant to herbicides that were applied to the land in preparation for planting the intended crop this year;

"(5) Other non-conserving crops normal to the area are normally grown on the type soil and under cultural practices normally carried out on the farm.

"For example, a producer would not be expected to plant soybeans under dryland conditions if soybeans grown in the area are irrigated. The term cultural practices does not include rotation in the sense of Fall and Spring seeded crops."

Each producer who has not been able to plant, say PCG officials, whether too wet or too dry, should consult with his county ASCS office for any change these new instructions may bring about in his particular circumstance.

Dental Care Is Stressed

It is good to encourage your children to emulate George Washington, but not where dental health is concerned. Our first president had a long history of troubles with his teeth, and later with his dentures.

Your children's teeth should last their entire lifetime. Of course, this is true provided youngsters have been started on the way to good dental health at a young age.

Dental health habits must be learned in childhood, the American Medical Association points out. In fact, youngsters should have their first dental examination at the age of two and one-half years — when all their primary teeth have erupted.

Those first teeth are important to future dental health. One basic function of primary teeth is to preserve proper space for permanent teeth, and if they are lost too soon — through decay, for example — the development of permanent teeth is often crooked. Poorly aligned teeth can affect appearance, eating habits and speech. Frequently, misshapen dentition can only be corrected by orthodontic treatment, which may be lengthy and costly. And, if a child's appearance is seriously affected by unsightly teeth, emotional problems may result.

On the initial dental visit, the dentist will check for any signs of beginning decay and other dental problems. He will also give your child — and you — instructions for proper home care. Usually the first appointment is a "get acquainted" period and is designed to make the child receptive to treatment at regular intervals.

To start your child on a lifetime of good dental health at home, make certain he or she always brushes properly after meals and after snacks. If the child is in the habit of eating a lot of sweets, cut down on them; sweets are a major cause of decay. And, the child should be drinking fluoridated water to help prevent decay. If your community's water is not fluoridated, the dentist can suggest alternate methods for your child to receive fluoride's benefits.

Dental decay is one of childhood's most prevalent health problems. Teach your child how to care for his or her teeth at home, and, if the child is already three or older, make the first dental appointment.

As one of the two minerals that regulate the water balance in the body, sodium can cause problems if consumed in excessive amounts. When too much sodium collects in the body, water accumulates causing swelling of the hands, feet, and possibly elevation of blood pressure. The most abundant source of sodium is ordinary table salt and Americans generally consume too much of the seasoning. There are 2,132 milligrams of sodium in a teaspoon of salt and the average individual consumes far more than the 1,000 mg. needed, daily. "Unseen" sources of sodium include monosodium glutamate, baking soda, baking powder and some food preservatives. Even water, when softened with a sodium purification system, can be an unexpected source of salt.

Women Smokers Given Warning

Under a directive by the Food and Drug Administration, effective April 3, 1978, about four million women who use the Pill and also smoke will be warned of the danger of heart attack and stroke unless they give up one or the other.

Druggists dispensing the contraceptives must also provide a brochure revising information required since 1970.

"Women who smoke and use birth control pills have a three times greater chance of dying from a heart attack or other circulatory disease than women who take the Pill but do not smoke," FDA Commissioner Donald Kennedy declared when announcing the directive late in January.

"Women who both smoke and use the Pill are 10 times more likely to die of a heart attack or other circulatory disorder than women who neither smoke nor take the Pill," he said.

"Our best estimate is that from 30 to 40 percent of the eight to 10 million women who take the Pill also smoke. This means that for perhaps four million American women, the new FDA message is both loud and clear: If you take the Pill, don't smoke; if you must smoke, find another method of contraception."

HOME LOANS

A lot has been said lately about the housing market. That it's getting harder and harder to obtain a home loan at a reasonable rate of interest. And that if you're a young married couple, you might as well give up on the idea of finding a lender who'll listen sympathetically enough to back you with the money you need. In fact, a lot of people are saying that trying to get into a house of your own, is like getting on a merry-go-round. We think things should be simpler than that. But far more than just thinking out loud, we're doing something about it. We feel this way: a home is a dream that we can help come true. So why don't you come on home, to us? We are an equal housing lender.

People are our best assets.

FB President Criticizes Beef Imports

American cattlemen would view a suspension of controls on beef imports as "oppressive competition by our government," and the end result would be higher consumer prices, the president of the Texas Farm Bureau told President Carter Tuesday, June 6.

He also emphasized that higher beef prices are the result of inflation and not the cause.

Carrol Chaloupka of Dalhart, himself a livestock producer, expressed his concern in a telegram to the President, who is reportedly contemplating suspending import quotas and opening the door to more foreign beef as a means of holding down retail prices.

Chaloupka pointed out that the cattle industry is just now beginning to recover from four years of depressed prices. "Cattle producers have accumulated massive debts to private and government lenders during this period looking forward to an upswing in the beef price cycle when our debts could be paid and we could again rebuild our dwindling herds," he explained.

"We would view an increase in beef imports at this time as oppressive competition by our government. Such imports may appear politically expedient as consumers complain of higher food costs. But the world supply of beef is limited and a significant reduction of retail beef prices through such imports is questionable," he declared.

Chaloupka said producers would view such action by the government "as a signal not to invest in herd expansion" and the consequence would be "further beef shortages and higher beef prices."

"The agricultural sector of the economy has absorbed as much inflationary impact as it can, and the cattle industry is now rebounding. Higher food prices are the result of inflation and not its cause," he told the President.

PUBLIC NOTICE

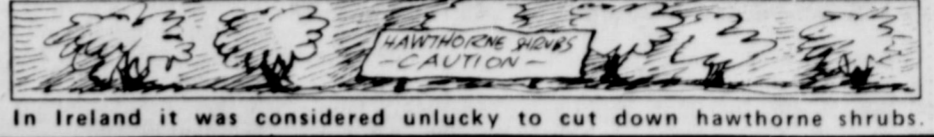

Texas Electric Service Company, in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice of its intent to implement new rate schedules for electric service in areas served by the company, effective July 5, 1978, or as soon thereafter as permitted by law.

The new schedules will result in a 24.43 percent increase in the adjusted gross revenue of the company.

A complete copy of the new rate schedules is on file with the Public Utility Commission at Austin, Texas, and with each affected municipality. Copies are also available for inspection in each of the company's public business offices.

In some parts of Europe, people were reluctant to cut mistletoe, and shot it down instead.

In Ireland it was considered unlucky to cut down hawthorne shrubs.

HAROLD ROBERTS
MANAGER

WHY SPS MUST HAVE A RATE INCREASE

The costs of labor, materials and other items necessary to the company's operations continue to skyrocket. Despite the fact that we have adopted programs for cutting expenses and capital expenditures, it becomes increasingly difficult for us to keep up with these rapidly rising costs.

Although we have been operating in a highly inflationary atmosphere for the past several years, there has been no general increase in SPS electric rates since 1974. Now, however, we are forced to seek rate relief if we are to continue to provide the electric service needs of our customers.

Our goal is to provide the best possible service at lowest possible cost, now and in the future. The increase in our rates that we have requested will allow us to realize that goal.
