CAROLYN'S CLATTER

by Carolyn Klaus

Women's Liberation and the highly debated Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) are running hand in hand. Each movement has worthy points but then each also has some shady implications.

Congress gave the ERA seven years to get all states to ratify the amendment but the time is running out and supporters of the amendment are screaming for an extension or could grant an extension is being hotly debated.

In my opinion, that is not the question but why haven't more states supported the amendment thus far? America is supposedly the age of liberation, openness, and responsiveness so if that were actually true has the ERA had to struggle so gratefully for every inch of ground they have won? It's because America is made up of everyday people like you and I and we value the family system as outlined in the Bible, that being the man as the head of the house.

The first to admit the amendment has some qualities (such as equal pay for equal work) but do they outweigh the bad? If the amendment is taken literally that would mean we raise a generation or more of children with male and female assuming the main role in family and society. Anyone knows no nation is able to survive very long with women and the United States is no exception.

Anyone could get confused and wonder who should be the leader and that would be one of two alternatives. Either, 1. men would do anything, assuming the woman would do it, or 2. they would constantly battle with each other and miss the point of the argument and nothing would get done.

There are other points that could be raised, pro and con, with very convincing arguments but that's not my point right now. My main concern is that if seven years is not enough to convince us the whole idea is wrong, maybe it's time to drop the idea for a while and let people mull it over a while. The ERA supporters should take the time to evaluate their amendment and it's progress, sometimes we get carried away with the idea and forget the objective. Possibly a compromise is in order.

The amendment can pass not only on it's merits but simply because people get tired of being pestered. It's the same as a relentless wearing down a parent.

Whether you want the ERA to get a time extension or not, you'd better speak up to your congressman now in order to be heard. Does America really support the ERA or are they being bullied and badgered? Think about it.

Dr. Durham Retires Dental Practice

By Frank Hill

DR. AND MRS. KENNETH R. DURHAM

Dr. Kenneth R. Durham, who is retiring after practicing dentistry in Tahoka for 50 years, will be honored by friends this Sunday, September 3, from 3 to 5 p.m. at a reception in his honor in Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church. The public is invited to attend.

A brief program will include a talk by Judge Luett Smith and presentation of a book of tributes to the Doctor. Mrs. Durham and other family members, his associates, Dr. David Midkiff and Dr. Richard White, and employees of the dental clinic will also be present.

During these 50 years, Dr. Durham has been an active civic leader, having served as a member of the Tahoka City Council and as Mayor; as a charter member, secretary and president of the Rotary Club; a Chamber of Commerce director; and in other capacities too numerous to mention. Currently, he is vitally interested in development of the local museum.

All these years, both he and Mrs. Durham have been very active in and devoted to the First Baptist Church.

He loves Tahoka, Lynn County, and the warm-hearted people. He likes almost everyone he knows and is highly respected by the community.

He has loved and taken pride in his work, has always taken a sincere interest in each patient and has been willing to go the second mile for a patient, day or night.

Dr. Durham is very devoted to his family, set high standards for his children, and attributes much of his success to a loving and understanding wife.

Born at Verda, Louisiana, November 28, 1900, one of eight children of a Baptist preacher and wife, he worked his way through high school, worked and borrowed money from an aunt in order to attend Baylor Dental College, where he graduated in May, 1928, and passed State Board examinations. He arrived in Tahoka in August of that same year to set up an office, also on a shoe-string, over the old Kemp Variety Store. He recalls he received $1.50 for his first tooth extraction. Those were the Model-T days, and just ahead lay the days of four and eight cent cotton, and the Great Depression. A year or two later he moved his office over the bank building, but it was several years before he could afford a car.

He and his finance, Miss Eloise Hutchison, carried on their courtship by letter. In August, 1929, he went back to Shreveport, Louisiana, to marry and then he brought his bride back to a little apartment in the rear of the Scott Davis home. Mrs. Durham became his dental office assistant. Soon, his practice picked up, and they moved to a larger "little brown house" they rented for $15.00 per month. There, their first child, Margaret, was born. Their second daughter, Dorothy Ann, was born three years later, and in another three years along came their only son, Ken.

Dr. Durham's reputation as a dentist was spreading, and in 1941, he and Dr. Emil Prohl built the Tahoka Medical-Dental Clinic on South First, where the dental offices are today.

Since then, the local dental clinic has expanded until patients come from all of West Texas, over into New Mexico as far as Roswell and Artesia and even from other states. It has become the largest dental practice west of the Fort Worth-Dallas area and from Colorado to San Antonio. Dr. Midkiff joined the clinic several years ago, bought the clinic, and more recently a local young man, Dr. Richard White, has joined the clinic.

Dr. Durham is known as an outstanding dentist, not only in this area, but also nationally among his professional colleagues. He was a charter member of South Plains Dental Society, which he served as secretary, 1937-47, and as president in 1949. His honors include life-time memberships in Texas Dental Association and American Dental Association, and back in 1948 at Chicago he became a Fellow in American College of Dentistry. He was president of the Texas Section in 1960. He was a delegate to ADA in Miami in 1961, on the committee of arrangements of ADA at Atlantic City in 1963, and read a paper at the ADA meet in Las Vegas in 1965. Also, he has written about dental techniques for Texas Dental Journal and National Dental Digest.

In addition, Dr. Durham has conducted about 20 clinics at dental meetings, including one at the 1974 Ohio Dental Association, a day and a half clinic at Southwestern Society of Denture Prosthesis in Houston in 1961, and others at San Antonio, Waco, Houston, Dallas, and Fort Worth.

All this tends to prove a small town man can get wide recognition.

Dr. Durham believes he is leaving dental care in Tahoka in the hands of two younger qualified professionals.

The Durhams will continue to live in the town they love, except they plan to enjoy more travel and relaxation.

Jerry Lewis Telethon To Be Broadcast On September 3-4

Lynn County will be joining the Jerry Lewis "Love Network" again this Labor Day Weekend. A Telethon Pledge Center will be located at the Community Center. "Residents of the Tahoka area may make pledges by calling 998-4503," according to Pledge Center Coordinator Peggy Jolly.

The thirteenth annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon Against Muscular Dystrophy will be broadcast in the South Plains area September 3-4.

Originating from Las Vegas, the TV spectacular is held to benefit the medical service and research programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA). The 21-1/2 hour entertainment marathon will be carried by a coast-to-coast "Love Network" of more than 200 TV stations, and will also be seen in Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and Guam. In this area, the production will be broadcast by KLBK, Channel 13.

Last year the Telethon produced a record $26.8 million for national health agency's work, and was seen by an estimated 92 million persons-indicating that over half of the households with TV sets in the U. S. turned on the show. Anchorman Ed McMahon will again serve as Jerry Lewis' Telethon sidekick.

Arthur Forrest, the show's producer-director, began planning this year's Telethon shortly after the last one was over. Mr. Forrest said, "Jerry started talking about this year's Telethon minutes after the close of last year's show. The excitement and interest in this production is contagious and the final figures on the toteboard inspire us all to work harder and longer to produce the finest spectacle."

PEGGY JOLLY (center), Pledge Center Coordinator, and Mark Nix and Jean Cook, both sharing MC duties of the Telethon this year, are planning for a good response from the public. Persons wishing to make a pledge to MDA may call 998-4503 beginning Sunday at 8:00 p.m. thru Monday at 5:30 p.m. Your pledge will be entered on a pledge envelope, which you will receive in the mail a few days later. R SOME INFORMATION ABOUT SNAKEBITE

Venomous snake bit wounds first appear as small white wheals surrounding each of the two punctures. The wheal may progress through color changes of red, blue, green or purple. There can be swelling and an intense burning sensation. There may be shock, a weak, thready pulse, and cold clammy perspiration with faintness.

Much damage can be caused by well-meaning persons whose attempts at first aid may result in excessively deep incisions, and tourniquets applied too tightly for too long a period. The damage here can exceed the bite itself. Get to a doctor or hospital quickly.

General Telephone Makes Plans For Changes Effective October 1

Most Texas customers of General Telephone Company of the Southwest will find decreases on their telephone bills beginning October 1, according to F. E. Hightower, vice-president-revenue requirements for the company.

Hightower said the Public Utilities Commission of Texas has approved the company's March request to lower extension telephone rates and to offset this revenue reduction by adopting a statewide multi-part service connection charge.

The changes will result in an estimated $2,500 annual reduction in revenues.

"The changes basically mean extension rates, which in the past have subsidized other services, were lowered to 85 cents for both business and residence," Hightower said. "Charges for new installation or changes of service, which have been subsidized by other services, were made uniform across the state to a level more nearly reflecting actual costs for the services and to recover the dollars lost through the extension reductions."

The vice-president pointed out the net results of the changes will mean existing customers with extension telephones will share in a $2,614,560 annual revenue reduction as the result of the reduced extension rates. In addition, customers who provide their own primary telephone will receive an 85 cent per month credit.

Hightower said the extension rate reduction will become effective October 1. Installation and change of service charges also will change October 1. Installation of one residential telephone generally will range from a minimum of $35 to a maximum of $43. Likewise, installation of one business telephone would range from $48.65 to $59.15. For customers with existing service, changes in service charges generally will range from $7.50 to $22.75 for residence and from $7.50 to $34 for business, again depending upon the portions of the five-part service charge that are applicable to make the change or addition to the service.

However, Hightower added the new installation or change of service fees can be paid equally over a three-month period and customers will pay only for services required to establish or change service rather than paying a set fee regardless of the amount of work required.

Hightower said the PUC requested all telephone companies file plans on changes to bring tariffs in compliance with a recent Federal Communications Commission rules change.

September Brings New Crop of Artichokes to Market

September marks the beginning of the new-crop supplies of artichokes from California, reports the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

Major shipping begins in October and continues through December. Supplies decrease some in January and February, but rise to a peak in March through August. Overall, artichokes are available most of the year, say federal-state market reporters.

Artichokes were considered a gourmet item for many years, but have found their way into many family meals.

Though they may be new to your table, artichokes were known to exist over 2,000 years ago in Rome. The first record of the modern, Globe artichokes having flower heads with edible buds came from Naples in 1400 A.D.

There are no records of when the artichoke first came to America, but the French in Louisiana and the Spanish in California are often credited with first plantings.

Today, nearly all artichokes marketed in the U.S. are grown in the Castroville area of California. Since artichokes are very susceptible to freezing and like cool, foggy summers, they will not grow in too many areas of the U.S.

They are members of the sunflower family, but are usually thought of as a sophisticated thistle. The edible portion is really an immature flower bud.

Artichokes make an unusual-looking vegetable. Though you may think them difficult to prepare, they aren't. First, trim about an inch from the top. Trim all but one inch from the stem and use scissors to trim off the tip of each leaf.

Place the trimmed artichokes in a pan of boiling water which has been seasoned with salt, garlic, oil and lemon juice. Simmer until a leaf can be pulled out easily.

After the "choke" is done, it can be chilled and used as an appetizer—dipped in Hollandaise or Vinaigrette sauce. You can slice them in half lengthwise and cover in Hollandaise sauce for an attractive side dish.

Stuffed artichokes are a hit with many. Use a teaspoon to scoop out the thistle-like inside of the "choke", leaving a hollow shell to be filled with meat or your own combination of spices, herbs and vegetables.

Artichokes are so attractive they can be used as an edible garnish. They will elicit ooh's and aah's from family and guests alike.

Wade Implement Along With International Harvester Set Field Demonstration Sept. 7

Wade Implement and other local International Dealers will host a special "Red Power Showdown Days" field demonstration, featuring International Harvester's improved Series 86 tractors, at a site 1/2 mile south of Hayloft Theater, from 10:00 to 3:00 p.m., on September 7.

Including all Series 86 models over 100 pto hp, the field day will be "one of the biggest IH promotion's ever", according to Hershel Wade. He noted that farmers will have the opportunity to test drive IH's 986, 1086, 1486, 1586 and Hydro 186.

"They will be able to try out the new park-lock transmission heavy-duty power shift TA, which makes shifting easier," Wade continued. "Also, farmers will be able to judge for themselves just how quiet the Control Center is."

Mr. Wade said the Control Center, a departure from the add-on cab of the past, is an integral part of the Series 86 models located forward of the conventional design. This permits maximum visibility and improved riding quality.

With resilient rubber isolators and other sound-deadening techniques, the Control Center has an officially-tested 78.5 dba sound rating on the 1586. That rating is one of the lowest in the industry.

"We also will discuss the new and exclusive tractor warranty for the 86 line," Wade said, "which guarantees tractors for two full years or 1500 hours of operation, whichever occurs first."

Other features to be highlighted are the wet power disk brakes designed for maximum heat dissipation and extended service life, wet differential lock that over-comes one-wheel spin-out, and increased fuel efficiency and easy service accessibility.

"We believe we have the best tractor line available. And we hope our farmers take advantage of our Red Power Showdown Days to see what we're talking about," Wade concluded.

When contemplating scale it should be remembered that outside spaces are much larger than inside ones; therefore, outside steps should be considerably wider than those inside a home to reflect the scale of the area. Scale should also be a consideration in the selection of plant materials. One should recognize that a large tree may dwarf a low-lying house, and plants that become too large may destroy the effect of the intended design. For this reason it is important for the landscape designer to know the ultimate size of the plant materials used in order that his planned landscape will increase in value and beauty in the years to come.

Include Landscape Cost When Planning A New Home

Building a new home soon? If so, be sure to allow for the cost of landscape development. This includes such items as grading, drive, patio, retaining walls, screen fences and walls, plantings, and professional services. Under average conditions, the landscape budget should be between 10 to 20 percent of the cost of the house and lot. This does not include the cost of such features as a swimming pool or tennis court.

When a new home has concrete blocks for walks, a loose gravel drive, and a Burford holly on each corner, it doesn't mean that it has been landscaped. In fact, it appears as though the owner ran out of funds before he finished because he didn't plan ahead.

The ideal procedure is to plan the house and ground as a unit before construction begins. In this way, the house can be designed to fit the site with a minimum of grading or cutting and filling of soil. This results in a better use of the site and makes it easier to provide a close relationship between the indoor and outdoor areas. Other factors to consider in developing the site are the views, topography, seasonal wind directions, sun angles, space usage, both inside and outside the house, and legal building restrictions.

The less the site must be changed, the better use one can make of existing features and still achieve unity in the total landscape design. All too often the house design is chosen with no thought as to the lot on which it is to be located. Consequently, many valuable and irreplaceable trees and other landscape features must be removed to make room for the house. With coordinated planning of the house and lot, the destruction of existing beauty can usually be eliminated.

Simplicity Is Essential To Good Landscaping

Unity is an essential element of a well designed landscape which can be achieved with a proper balance of simplicity, contrast and scale. A properly planned landscape lessens the temptation to add those odd pieces of plant materials which one often finds on sale or receives from well intentioned friends. As good as the intentions are, those unplanned plants are a common nemesis to unity in the landscape.

Textural contrasts with plants and structure can yield interest without confusion. Large leafed species such as paper plants, bananas or cannas are usually considered coarse textured while ferns, cypress trees and zoyisa grass are regarded as fine textured. Texture is, however, a relative thing meaning that the texture of a plant depends somewhat on the other plants with which it is used.

Structures in the landscape also provide texture. A stucco wall may be viewed as a fine texture compared to a flagstone wall which could be considered coarse.

When contemplating scale it should be remembered that outside spaces are much larger than inside ones; therefore, outside steps should be considerably wider than those inside a home to reflect the scale of the area. Scale should also be a consideration in the selection of plant materials. One should recognize that a large tree may dwarf a low-lying house, and plants that become too large may destroy the effect of the intended design. For this reason it is important for the landscape designer to know the ultimate size of the plant materials used in order that his planned landscape will increase in value and beauty in the years to come.

PARKER PHARMACY

When a fishing companion, rather than a fish, is hooked, the rule for extracting the bard is: PUSH-FORWARD, rather than pull-out. Two simple tools for such an emergency should be included in the fisherman's tackle: a good pair of wire cutters and small needle-nosed pliers. With the cutters, clip off the eyelet to which the line is attached. Then, attach the pliers to the end where the eyelet was removed. With the fingers of your left hand, find and hold taut the skin where you think the barbed end will exit. Push the barbed end in the direction of the curve of the hook and out, through the skin. When the barb appears, grasp it with the pliers and extract the remainder of the hook. Up-to-date tetanus immunization should be pre-requisites for every member of a fishing expedition.
