The Convention at St Louis

Second Annual Meeting of the Cattle and Horse Growers' Association of the United States.

Special telegraphic report to the Journal. FIRST DAY-MORNING SESSION.

ST. Louis, Mo., Nov. 23 -The sec ond annual convention of the National Cattle and Horse Growers' association met in the large music hall in the exposition building at noon to-lay. The convention was called to order by the president, Col. R. D. Hunter. Large delegations are present from all sociations to endeavor to form a cos the cattle raising states; those from Utah territory, Colorado and Texas being especially strong. Fully 600 delegates were on the floor. Mayor D. R. Francis delivered an address of was added. The convention then adwelcome, in which he spoke of the wonderful growth of the cattle interests as instanced by the value of exports during the year ending 1, 1884 of cattle at $18,000,000 and of beef prcducts at $28,000,000, and concluded by Hunter, president, delivered the annual address, in which he recommended the consideration of diseases of cattle, the improvement of breeds, transportation, and discrimination against shippers of live all its branches. He then gave way stock, the formation of an international government commission to consider the question of restrictions upon American beef in Europe, the necessity of substituting som mechanical appliance to designate cattle and thus do away with the hide-destroying brands, the formation of a special association of the horse growing association, the necessity of practical national legislation, through which alone existing local troubles can be settled, and finally the consolidation of the several national associations devoted to the

CATTLE INTEREST OF THE COUNTRY. Prof. D. H. Moore of Colorado read taken in favor of national quarantine journed? significantly asked the speaklaws, this point being warmly applauded. Touching the subject of illegal fencing of public lands, the speaker said this was as much condemned by the range men as it would be by Connecticut farmers. We only want what the law gives us, the right to occupy these lands until the settler comes, and now that we can come from our ranches in palace cars, it is

As the Indian gave way to the pioneer, so must the cow-boy go before the settler, and the rancher take the place of the ranger, until the 80,000,000 acres of land now roamed by cattle shall team with villages and model farms for the cultivation of refined cattle, cared for not by the maturing grounds of the Northcowboys with revolvers but by cowboys with brains. The chair was authorized to appoint committee on credentials, and a recess was taken until 3 p. m.

ward perfecting the national organiza-tion during the year, accompanying it with divers recommendations. The report states that since its organization, one year ago, the association has grown rapidly, the membership now, including nearly 1,000 persons, with 31 local associations, 41 state and territorial vice-presidents and 480 members of state and territorial executive committees, making a total of 1552 actively interested, bons-fide representatives, with a further representation of 45,000,000 cattle, 10,000,000 horses and $2,000,000,000 capital. The National Catile and Horse Growers' association is recognized as the most powerful, wealthy, and influential organization of the kind

IN THE WORLD. The report warmly recommends the establishment of the national bureau of animal industry in connection with the agricultural department and says that the bureau is right in some things and wrong in others cannot be denied, but, declining to take issue on either side, it begs to suggest that the province of this association lies in a TEXAS. moderate, conservative and united west of Ch

A proposition to refer all resolutions to a committee on resolutions without debate was defeated.

Hon, Elihu B. Washburne spoke briefly about the Chicago Live Stock exchange, and its position relative to national legislation on the subject contagious diseases. He suggested the appointment of a national comlation to protect the cattle industry in prepared an elaborate paper on the subject. Speaking for the exchange, Mr. Coy expressed decided opposition

TO THE ANIMAL INDUSTRY BILL as now in operation as calculated to create a panic in the cattle industry instead of lasting benefits, inasmuch as the industry is practically at the mercy of the veterinarians who have given the sensational reports of the existence of pleuro-pneumonia, when nothing more dangerous than lung fever as the result of over driving is in sight. The speaker cited several instances of far-reaching and most disastrous panics created by the stupidity of the so-called government experts. He asserted that there has never been west of the Allegheny mountains an elaborate paper upon the cattle in-dustry of the United States, highly descriptive and abounding with sta-tistics of lands. Strong grounds were of the St. Louis Live Stock exchange read a paper entitled "The commission merchant and his relations to the live stock industry."

The committee on resolutions, whose report is expected to furnish topics for discussion by the convention, not being ready to report, the reading of Mr. McMinn's paper closed the session for to-day, and the convention adjourned till to-morrow.

THE THIRD DAY'S SESSION.
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 25.—The National Cattlemen's convention reassembled this morning with General representative of that territory. This without debate, but the second, about representative of that territory. This led to an effort to enlarge the committee to one from each state and territory, which was defeated, and then General Porter was added to the committee.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The executive committee of the association made a report of its efforts toward perfecting the national organization. Without debate, but the second, about pleuro-pneumonia and the measures for its extripation, provoked an animated and prolonged discussion, and it, as well as a resolution about Spanish fever, was laid over until to-morrow. In fact, the whole report went over. The convention then adjourned, and the delegates marched in a body to the Union depot, where they

VERY few Texas cattle are at the markets. Chicago quotations range number of roadsters and carriage horses from $2 60 per hundred for cows and that owners do not care to carry common steers, to $3 75 for choice well fattened steers of 1,000 pounds. At of fashionable nomads that live on the St. Louis the extreme range of prices | Pacific ceast, Florida, New Mexico is $2 25 to 3 50; at Kansas City, $2 40 and in other mild climates, that sell 325. How many thirteen hundred pounders? Not one. There is something wrong somewhere.

TEXAS live stock interests are founded upon a strong foundation. Time was when the undeveloped ranges were used rent free and easy money was made by the use of ranges costing nothing. There were fortunes made by men who were in possession, and the profits being greater than in any other line of business induced many to engage in it until the western ranges were fairly stocked. Land egislation has since been the means of causing payment for the lands by lease or purchase, and the profits have been curtailed therbey. The land own ers taking to fencing as a means of restraining other stocks from grazing on their pastures, to economize in labor and to improve the lands and stock, are fast making changes to compensate for land ownership by increase of profit on a better class of stock, while the landed estate is making a better accumulative dividend than did the unsold increase in stock. Stockmen have experienced difficulty in adjusting their business to the chang- dance is very large, and on many occaed conditions and some were unable sions the hall was crowded. UNION STOCK YARDS, CHICAGO, Nov. 23, 1885 Regular Correspondence Texas Live Stock

Supplies of southwestern grass cattle ave been light of late. The demand as been good and values have ruled strong. Native cows and mixed cattle ere beginning to come to market very reely. In speaking of beef cattle most scople are inclined to think of steer the ripened into mature beef. But is very astonishing to most people or vould be to know how large a share I the beef of the country grows in the hape of common cows, bulls, stags te. From this time on until the grass attle come again, some of the larger imphtering establishments will run imost entirely on these so called naive cows and mixed cattle.

for a month. The quality of the hogs however is remarkably good and speaks well for the fine and favorable fall and winter which we have had thus far.

The Chicago packers are acting as if they considered hogs cheap. On Saturday one firm bought 12,000 hogs, and from $3 40 to 3 85 for fair to fancy naon Monday the same firm took 10,000. Here was a purchase of hogs amounting to about $220,000 in two days. Handling hogs on such a scale as this ought to yield an immense profit even on small margins. The margins now are large and the packers are putting up immense quantities of cheap pork. That is why they are so active. Of late no Texas hogs have been on the market. It is the off season for light stock and prices are nominally very

There is little or nothing new in the city market. For ordinary work horses prices, as the winter approaches, are rather lower, and there are large through the winter. The following paragraph I clip from the Missouri Republican of last Satur-

"Much speculation is being indulged" in by dealers and commission salesmen concerning the immediate future and the probable course of prices. Somehow or other the impression has become general that values from this als for the present month are about on are going to appreciate and once again infuse new life in the shipping hiere packers is at work and there cattle market, It looks as if the hopes never a steadier, healthier de- and desires of Western drovers to see op of hogs is not expected to be anylized at last. Hogs were active and prices have advanced 30 to 40c per cwt. on good cornfed grades, the range at present being tive hogs. Texas hogs, if cornfed, will bring as much as natives. G. W. Bryson, of Gainesville, Texas, had several carloads of fat Texas hogs, and obtained $3 60 to 3 65 per cwt.

Texas horses are still coming in, but the season is practically ended. Good breeding mares the only grade wanted. Prices low, $20 to 30 per head. Thin stock can not be given Evidence of Merit.

The best evidence of the merit of any article offered for sale to the people is its popularity—that is the readiness with which it sells. If a baking powder, for instance, fails to give entire satisfaction in any particular, the cook never fails to complain and it becomes unsaleable. Nobody has ever complained about Silver Loaf Baking Powder, because it is of full strength, absolutely pure chemically, and makes the most wholesame bread of any powder on the market. Regular Correspondence Texas Live Steek Journal. The great fire to which we alluded in our last letter has burned itself out, or at least such is the supposition. Its extent is from the Canadian river on nitude, and its results cannot easily be told. It should wake up the ranchmen to the necessity of plowing in the spring and burning proper fire-guards. The present extended drought has made the winter in New Mexico, and will sible, and has hardened the ground until it is impracticable to plow now. The lesson taught should not be for-A. F. This suggests the possibility that there may be ready become famous in England and gests the possibility that there may be Scotland. Why not try a few in two sides even to this question. A great howl goes up that the cattle are not taxed at their full values, or the full number given. This may be partly true, yet we venture the assertion that the cattle and stock interests come as near being as fully listed as any other interest in the state. AN OLD GUN'S STORY.

The Flint Lock's Talk to the Journal Man.

The STOCK JOURNAL man had been regaled by uncle John Wilson for two hours with stories of Indian fights, of the slaying of "bar's" and hair breadth escapes of the long ago in Texas. Uncle John came here when the memory of man · runneth not 'to the contrary. He has lain 'em out many a time, "those pesky rascals," the Indians and no one has yet exhausted; Uncle John's fund of anecdotes.

We had been listening some time, the Journal man and the old fintlock gun which had been so quiet St. Louis meeting. He looked as handthese long years past. It was a very Rip Van Winkle of a gun. Some how it had drifted into possession of the JOURNAL's branch office and had more than once been mistaken for the noble Crockett's old weapon. As an inspirer, Uncle John had been fondling the old notices of the Plaza cut, Thanks, genpiece and clicking its old locks; the tlemen. Let's take something. JOURNAL man had grown drowsy and was fast dropping back into oblivion when the old flint-lock lustily cried

"Say! Do you know that I'm leaded? Oh, no; there's no powder or ball in me; my fire-pan's all worn out and my | week to negotiate with Jot Gunter for flint has lost its fire; but I'm loaded and am bound to go off. If you can San Antonio. keep that young man, (Uncle John, he meant) quiet I can tell you some things, too." And the wrinkled old gun seemed to clear its muzzle for a pleasure of another visit. good long talk and we settled easily back to hear its story. We had noticed that the rusty old fellow was branded on the barrel, seventeenhundred and twenty something, in quant old figures. It was clear that this old gun could, if he would, tell some wonderful things of the long ago. With a few creaks of his shattered breech and jerks of his rheumatic barrel he began his yarn.

"Say! I've seen sights in my time, "height, health and happiness." young fellows. I'm too old now to! "Yes, I'll go on; don't hurry me. Time was when I had to move fast but old age, old age! I remember quite well that my youth was spent in the Canary Islands, a sunny land that knew only peace and plenty. I was in life found I had been designed for busines between buyers and sellers of destruction. I desired to rove and see every description of live stock, much sorrow to me therefore when I handling stock to the entire satisfactory found myself in 1730 in the goodly any occasion to buy or sell call on or ter had occurred in connection with the Fort Worth & Denver City Railcompany of fifteen jolly fellows of my write to own kind, all owned by a number of Spanish families then setting out for the place now called San Antonio. We were long coming and from what I could learn much money was spent to get all our families safely here. We used to hear them say that it took what would now be called $72,000 to bring us. But we got here. You should have seen us then! Oh, Silver Loaf and give it a fair trial. Here we were in the settlement of San Fernado,that was the old name, you know,and even the good Franciscan fathers who had preceded us could not entirely control those Indians. But we did; ah! how we did! And a hollow sound came up from the rusty barrel very like a chuckle of delight.

"And so it went on," said the old cosey "Fashion" and excellent bill, well rendered. It has been found that well rendered. Among the welcomed new residents lately located in the lone star state, and known butcher, went to Sherman this now a permanent citizen of South Texas, is Captain David Samuel Irons. Such has been his success in life as to make it a matter of interest for the JOURNAL to gather the details of his history, and it is believed that the data gathered respecting him is in the main correct, and is given as an illustration Up to this week the entire southern of what can be accomplished by persistent and intelligent application to legitimate business.

Capt. Irons was born in Monroe county, Virginia, Sept. 20, 1340, and only because of more important matters in life, necessitating other occupation, has not yet been chosen as one of our national presidents. As early as great state of Missouri in Monroe coun-

Here Captain Irons was reared on a farm, and acquired that training which has so generally characterized young manhood in buying and selling he formed the live stock commission firm of Irons, Cassidy & Co., the firm comprising Captain Irons, A. C. Cassidy and W. L. Cassidy. Such was the prosperity of that firm based as it was upon dealings of the strictest integrity and promptnes that they soon built up what has since been reputed the largest stock commisson business on the continent; indeed the Hines Clark & Sons is prepared in senior of the firm, Captain Irons had long since acquired the title of "Hog King" of the country, he then giving his special attention to that department and to his general and careful overlooking of the entire business through his many years of activity was the success of the concern attribter had occurred in connection with the firm, but Captain Irons and Al Cassidy were at the helm throughout. The Wool Trade.

The Boston market has received in one week less wool than during the corresponding week of last year. The circumstance is significant, and will prove to be the beginning of the shortage exhibition. So far no shortage is developed owing to the movement of wool stored during the depression. It may be sometime before the actual reduction of the domestic clips is evident but we of the range and stock farm, know that there is a shortage just so well as we know that low prices next spring will cut the remainder of the Texas sheep interest square in two. Men do not raise wool at a loss and keep it up long after the deficiency is discovered.

Prices now are at a valuation that Texas men can make good money on raising good wool. Texas spring wool at 25 cents top figures, gives us an easy 20 cents for our year clips of medium, and 17 to 19 for half clips and trashy year clips and heavy wool, 14 to 16 for alightly improved, etc. At these figures the business will rub along, but it is useless to carry any other idea than that supported by the fact here stated. Texas sheep have decreased under influence of low prices, and it is the same all along the line. If there is no visible shortage now, the stock on hand was longer showing the full quantity than might have been expected, but it is not reasonable to expect a dead overstocked market of staple weak, broken-down invalid. Dr. goods to recover at a time the rise was bringing out all dead stock on the face of a full years supply.

The wool trade continues healthy. The Boston Advertiser reports sale of one dollar. By druggists. 48,000,000 pounds of wool in 47 weeks, in excess of the same period last year. The highest price for Texas fall was 23 cents. The commercial Bulletin reports sales at 25 cents. In New York prices have ranged from 15 to 211 cent for fall. St. Louis sales reach- Cents. ed 23 cents. The outlook continues good and sheepmen can go into winter confident that their wool will find sale in the spring.

The Wool Trade and Free Trade.

The free traders had a discusion over their ideas of matters in general and discussed the question: "Does a fairs in the wool and sheep line are High Tariff on Wool Protect the Wool Growers?" How Scab Inspectors' Fees ar Collected-Fatten Lawvers Instead of Sheep. Editor Texas Weol Grower:

Quite an important law suit came off here lately affecting the wool growing interest. The parties most directly In the year 1880 there were manuinterested were the scab inspector and factured in the United States woolens, a wool grower. The inspector inspectat wholesale prices, to the amount of $263,633 261. divided as follows: Wooled the sheep of Mr. Moody and claimen goods, $160,706,721; hosiery and ed his fees. He came by road, via; Cheyenne, Trinidad, sheep were not scaby. Another jury was impaneled and the defence was that it made no difference if the sheep Pueblo, Tascosa and Clarendon, was three months on the way. His clip were scabby or not, that the sheep was sold by Messrs. Macnaughtan's were not properly inspected, or the Sons of Spring street New York, and limit of range properly defined. 'The averaged 40 cents per pound. The flock will be wintered at Wichita result was a disagreement, and the jury was discharged.

FROM MIDLAND.

MIDLAND, TEXA,

Nov. 15, 1885.

Then arose the question if another jury could be brought together; wool growers were objected to on the ground of partiality to the inspector. Then at last another jury was brought together who finally brought in a verdict which, if unchecked, are liable to in favor of the inspector. As the amount sued' for was but $36.00 it could not be appealed, and the court refused a new trial.

About four years ago a suit was instituted in Shackelford county by after he was forbidden to do so until properly dipped. The suit was first won by the inspector and lost on appeal. If you should ask the result, it of wool growers failed and those who first supported the inspector considering the scab law a nullity commenced importing scabby sheep as there was more money to be made by trading sheep than in raising sheep while the scabby sheep were permitted to run over the county. I happened to talk with one of Albany's prominent merchants and the subject of tariff came up. He said that if he could get rid of scab he would chance the tariff. I laughed at him and mentioned the Zug-Bennet suit.

Public sentiment is against the scab running loose over the ranges. Here sheepmen believe that they shall first clean their own sheep, then kill all bunches of stragglers that come along. The law is no good except for lawyers. The right way beats the legal way. The more this subject is commented on the better.

The suit here involving $36.00 employed four lawyers, twenty jurors, ten or more witnesses besides judges and clerks. SUBSCRIBER.

DOUBLE DECKS.

The Late Northwestern Experi-

[Montana Wool Grower.] Much to our surprise, we found upon arriving at the end of the Northern Pacific road there was but one line willing to take our double-decked cars to Chicago -that road was the Omaha & Northwestern. Having made up our mind before arriving that we would prefer the Milwaukee & St. Paul, we went to that road for an explanation. We were informed that the roads, including the above two and of the matter: Is it not a law of the Rock Island-all the lines then running from St. Paul to Chicago-

Then our double-decks to Chicago for us to pay out $80 for each and every time. If he did not think we owed this road much, and should in the future not only ship our mutton and wool over their line, but do what we could to goods we bought of them via the Northwestern, in order that this line might get even. He snapped out, "No, they don't care anything for you: they are only doing it because they are mad at something!" And as it was very evident that he also was few days saw an account in the papers of a meeting of the northwestern traffic double deck question again. At this meeting it appeared that they fixed the thing up so that no company in the pool should be allowed to run double decks after October 15. What the penalty is for so doing we did not learn-perhaps it is $100 per car, perhaps imprisonment for life, perhaps death. As there was something said about "boycotting" in the reports of this meeting, it may be that our Milwaukee friend had told his people for patronage and getting in a huge amount of advertising all the while it was paying its fines. The association at this meeting made a wonderful concession to the sheep interest. While they kept the price at $40 per car from St. Paul to Chicago for carrying 24,000 to $30 per car for carrying 10,000 pounds of mutton. They pretended to be amazed that we were not overjoyed and perfectly satisfied at receiving such a favor.

The details of our pilgrimage among the railroad men, to get them to give a good reason-one that we could publish-why they objected to double decks, would be tedious; so we will mention only the results. It was said Charley Zug inspector, against Joseph | that there was not business enough to Bennet; the latter drove some sheep prompt them to build double decks, and that they could be used only on way on the road. To this we answered that no one asked them to build double decks; we only wanted came about this way. The association the privilege of hauling our own decks over their roads-that the Cana dian Pacific and Northern Pacific cars should be allowed to run through with the decks we placed in them at our own expense, was all we asked. To this it was said that they had hundreds of stock cars of their own, and were serious losers by allowing foreign cars to run over their roads. We frankly said we believed this to be an excuse only, and if it were true, the answer to it was this: The northern roads agree to allow those roads over which they run their cars, a mileage in return equal to that granted; hence this objection was entirely removed Then there was an objection on the score of danger, the load being too high. Now, as a matter of fact, the center of gravity of a double decked car of sheep must be below the floor of the deck, and hence below the bull bar upon which the deck rests. With a car load of cattle or horses the center of gravity is certainly as high as the bull bar, if not higher; hence there is neither the danger, nor the tax upon the rolling stock, in carrying a double deck of sheep that there is in carrying a car load of horses of cattle. And then there was the matter of driving a few nails into a car in putting in a temporary double deck, and the matter of the sheep upon the lower deck getting soiled by the dropping from above, and a lot of other equally good (?) reasons which were very carefully presented. But we listened and listened in vain for anyone to say that the tariff was from 25 per cent to 50 per cent greater when single decks were taken, than it was when double decks were run. No one thought of that objection, and it was certainly a great oversight. To such of these gentlemen as we saw, we propounded the following gestions and presented the following view transportation that the tariff is regulated partly by the value of the commodity iaken? Yes. Beef is worth from 25 to 50 per cent more in the double-decks. The fine was $30 per Chicago market than muiton? Yes. Under your present arrangement you take 24,000 pounds of beef for 4,000 PATENT ELUID ce sful remedy extant for pulmonary Fourth of July they took—by an over- 3,000 cents—or one sixth of a cent per sight, they say-a train load of double- pound for beef, against nearly onedecked sheep from the Transfer to third of a cent for mutton; that is, Chicago, the result of which was that with mutton not worth nearly as much they not only took the train over their as beef you charge nearly twice as road for nothing, but were $80 out of much for carrying it? Yes. If pocket by so doing. That is, suppose you were to take a double deck of the freight amounted to $960; this sheep for the same figure that you do goes into the pool and the Milwaukee a car of beef-that is, $40-you would gets its one-third, or $320, for taking still be getting more for transporting a the sheep to Chicago. But they were pound of mutton than you do for a fined $30 a car for twenty cars, amount- pound of beef; there would be 20,000 ing to $600; as this goes into the pool pounds of the former against 24,000 also, they got one-third of it back, pounds of the latter. In fact, if you which left their fine $400 to be paid. were following out your law of trans- P. O. Box 559, - SAN ANTONIO, TEX. We do not expect, debt to the pool to the amount of $80. if we cannot get as much mutton into At least, that is the way we understand a car as we can beef, to get a less rate the pool business, and how it was that per pound in consequence. But we this road had to pay $80 as they say, do claim that it is not just to charge for the privilege of taking in a double more for a double deck of sheep than a single deck We asked this official if he did not of cattle; and we do claim that Doty, and will run them in the fu. has become the most topular restau- upon the part of his road to refuse having no valid excuse—to force us to without any good cause to take a full pay, as you do now, twice as much to car load of mutton, as they did of get mutton to market as you do to

To all of this the answer was that it we asked him if he did not consider it | did seem as if an injustice was being a decidedly friendly act upon the part | done; that, in fact, very little attenof the Omaha & Northwestern to take | tion had been given to the matter; it had not been a matter of much importand get nothing for it, but even have ance thus far, etc. etc. But we might depend upon it that justice would be done; it might be impossible to get the matter up again in the association this year, but by next season it would be fixed all right-and so on, "sweet persuade our merchants to ship the taffy, my dear!" If fair justice can not attain her ends by moral sussions. she must apply the lash-if she gets the chance. October 15, is past, and our sheep,

pool, are going into Chicago uron double decks. About the time the cast iron rule forbidding double decks went into effect with the pool, a new through line frem St. Paul to Chicago commenced operating. This is the Minnesota & Northwestern, known association, in which they tackled the as the Waterloo route, which goes via Mona, Waterloo and the Illinois Central into Chicago. This road, not being in the pool, is glad to get all the double decks that come along. The Northern and Canadian Pacific see very clearly that sheep cannot be brought from the far west at a profit to anyone without the use of double decks; hence they are with us in our struggle to break down this senseless opposition. Under these circumstances it would be well for all shippers, so far as practithat the Northwestern was bidding cable, to leave the naming of the road over their stock shall enter Chicago, in the hands of the western road over which they ship. That is, suppose you ship by the Northern Pacific. leave the power in the hands of the general freight agent of that road to pounds of beef, they reduced the price give the shi pment from St. Paul on to whom he pleases. If he can give all the sheep comining over his road to any one of the roads he likes going to Chicago, he will have a powerful deck regulation. * And now we believe it is not out of place to mention a matter which is more or less related to the one in hand. That transportation law which fixes the tariff upon a basis of the value of the commodity has a certain degree of justice; that law which T. C. FROST, - - - says "tax the industry according to what it can stand," is often abusive and unjust-however, it is a law. Railroad men who look over this number of the Wool Grower will say, What under heaven are Montana men kicking about; according to their own showing they net from $200 to $3 00 per head for their sheep, while Texas and the Pacific coast sheepmen are glad to net from $1.00 to $200 per head. To this we have to say that the thermometer sometimes drops down to 50° below zero in winter winter in Montana; we have weeks in winter when the ground is covered with snow; we construct expensive buildings in which to house our sheep; put up large quantities of feed to insure from winter loss, and employ more help at twice the wages than does our Texas or Pacific coast brother. In short, there is more money in raising sheep in Texas at $2 00 per head. Hence, gentlemen, when you figure what you will "allow" us to get our sheep to markst for, always bear in mind that while a Montana sheep is worth a third more than a Texas sheep both for wool and for mutton, it costs from a third to a half more to raise it.

Feeding Cattle for Profit. S. Burns, Clinton, Pa., in National Stock

cattle for the butcher's block. But a little reflection soon brings to light the fact that "Feeding Cattle for profit" embraces more than this; and in order to ascertain the true profits in the case they must be considered from an earlier date. In order to have cattle feeding a financial success, there are many things to be taken into consideration, and the feeder's judgment must be brought into active service. We must take into consideration our climate, our facilities for marketing, the cost or value of rough and solid feed, and en-

we find at once that no rule or system of feeding can be laid down which will be practicable with feeders or farmers of all localities; for a system that would be practicable and profitable for a Western farmer would not be so for his Eastern friends. our feeding cattle. I care not how excellent a breed of cattle may be, it cannot fill the requirements of every place to the fullest extent. There are localities were some one type of cattle will be more profitable than another. In the grand meadows of the Western states and the rich bottoms of the great Eastern rivers, the Shorthorn will perhaps supplant every other breed for profitable feeding. There are, however, more hilly districts where the pasture is not so luxuriant

may be more prefitable. But without attempting to discuss the adaptability of the different breeds to different localities, I have no hesitation in saying that the most important element of profit and success in cattle feeding is to have the right kind of animal to feed. These are the machines, as it were, by which the raw materials are worked up, and every person knows how much better it is to have a perfect machine to work with than a mere make-shift. There are animals that are able to eat and digest only enough to sustain life, fortable against a blizzard, and made while they slowly grow to maturity in more open on milder days. If cattle very inferior value for beef. On the er they will be better prepared to other hand, there are those which can stand a cola snap. They should never be made when two and a half or three be left out all day in a storm, when years of age to reach a greater weight accustomed to a warm stable. They and more valuable product than the should have exercise, but I would rath former. The feed consumed during er deprive them of this for a day than the short life of the best cattle is not expose them to a storm. For grass we more than half that eaten by the poor stock. The saving made, then, by feeding the best, amounts to 50 per cent, of hay and feed and three years of time and labor. This is the plain and simple reason why the improved breeds of cattle are held to be more valuable than the common stock or socalled scrubs.

Early maturity is a chief point in chief thing to calculate for is to have stock that will make the most weight in the shortest time, and on the least food. These animals need not necessarily be thoroughbreds, for many valuable for feeders than thoroughbreds, and they are more nearly withence, I would choose a cross between able feeder. This cross gives them a tened at any age.

Here the question may be raised whether it is more profitable to raise stockers or to sell the calves and buy steers. Upon this question there is depends on locality and circumstances, to a certain extent. But my does not supply our wants for feeding, proves more satisfactory when want to fatten them. We try to have evenings and feed them hay at night. them quiet and easily handled. A docile, contented animal is always a good feeder, as little of its feed is spent in nervous excitement, or accompanytheir breeding, I better know what to expect of them. And, further, if a man can make money raising and selling stockers to be fattened by another, at a profit, after they have passed to supply the feeding capacity, and as yearlings, except they should have buying is resorted to, as intimated rather more grain until spring, when when ready for market.

The farmer who raises his own stockers will have his yearlings to look after. And the aim should be to have good time to sell, as this is about the them in good condition before cold weather, remembering that an animal time is over, and we have had advanbeginning the winter well is as good tage of all the pleasant, cool weather, as half through it already. During the time that cattle fatten the best my first experience in keeping cattle The feeding should be quite moderate I fed out all our straw first, and by the time it was consumed, together with a gineer accordingly. And in so doing tle were reduced in flesh, and the feeding of hay never seemed to replace it. So I abandoned that plan. Latterly I til about October 1st, when new corn feed hay in the stables from the beginning of winter, turning them to in my experience, I have never found the straw during the day, and it is And so it is in selecting or raising straw, after being fed all the hay they will eat, and again their relish for the hay after being to the straw. I find that in this way I can keep them better without grain than I could on but as rapidly as possible, and whenstraw alone with grain. I do not advocate keeping young cattle entirely much cheaper than grain, and with less impoverishment to a farm. So I prefer to feed an abundance of hay, of cold the cattle are exposed to.

stabling. The great secret in wintering cattle cheaply is having proper stabling and a proper quality of hay. It is a well known fact that warm weather and an abundance of grass will make cattle grow faster than anything else; and when they are deprived of these it falls upon us to provide the best substitute we can, and the nearer we approach the real the greater our profits will be. For warm weather we must substitute a warm stable. Not a close, damp, illy-ventilated one, but one that can be closed and made comabout six years, and then they are of are not kept too warm in mild weathsubstitute hay. Other substitutes might be mentioned, but with most farmers this seems to be the most practicable, and if we would have a good substitute we must not allow it to be come ripe or bleach the life out of it while curing. It should be cut when the stem, head and blades have all the strength and vigor of grass. When I have this kind of hay I never find the breeding animals for market, and the need of roots to regulate the digestion, yet I do not depreciate their value for

The manner of wintering cattle in tended for the next season's market depends on the time we intend to mar grades and crosses have proved more ket. And now the question arises Which is the best season of the year to market? Upon this there is difference in the reach of every farmer. For my of epinion. And knowing the grass; then they should be fed very liberally, and be forced right along until they are ready for market. When intended for the fall market it will be necessary to pursue a different course. During my early experience through perhaps two or three hands, in cattle feeding I thought it necessary each having his profit, the figures to feed all summer to have them ready would surely be in favor of the man for market. And cent a pound is a small consideration | by September 1st we find them round between a smooth, square steer and a and plump, and to the inexperienced narrow, flat-ribbed one. The good they will appear to be fat; but when one will make twice the gain while we come to handle or weigh we find fattening, and you are always sure of they are soft, but are in splendid shape your cent or more per pound difference to begin feeding. We mention September 1st because 3 months from this brings December 1st, and the last of November or first of December is a beginning of cold weather, and pasture at first, and if a steer refuses to eat sprinkle his feed with salt or bran, or considerable amount of grain, the cat- anything that will tempt his appetite, and when it is found that every one Any Person can Play the Piano will eat, increase the feed steadily uncan be had. Here I would note that, anything to equal new corn for fattenwonderful the relish they have for the ing cattle, and they will eat it in preference to anything else. It should be broken or cut in small pieces, to enable them to chew it easily.. With the corn increase the rations gradually, ever corn can be cribbed after being well sorted, they should be fed of the without grain, yet hay can be raised refuse corn twice a day all they will eat up clean. There is no danger of foundering a steer if his feed has been increased gradually. During this time and feed grain in proportion to the se- the feeder's vigilance is in demand, verity of the winter and the amount seeing that every steer is receiving his share of feed. It is a good plan to give This leads us to the consideration of a feed of some different kind every few days, which will sharpen their appetites. If preferred they may be fed each alternate feed with chopped feed. but I prefer plenty of corn, and if a few pigs are turned with them once a day there will be no loss from feeding whole corn.

I think this is the only time that forcing is justifiable. When you want to fatten an animal the cheapest way is by forcing, but if it is commenced at any time it cannot be abandoned without being accompanied with more or less loss, and it is not practicable for farmers to be continually forcing their stock. This system of forcing should continue until the animal is fat, and whenever fatsell. Moderately fat animals are the most profitable to feed. Excessively fat ones will be fed at a

Another thing that I should insist on is regularity. Regular attention to all live stock is very important, and especially to fattening ones. With regularity nothing is forgotten, and nothing is done twice over. Have regular hours of feeding. They will soon learn when to expect you, and if not disappointed it will prevent restlessness. These things may seem trifling in themselves, but they are conducive to their comfort, and to see stock comfortable and contented is not only a comfort to the farmer, but is money in his pocket.

Salt should be given regularly to all estrie. Some recommend keeping it 2 where they can get it themselves. To this plan I object, as in so doing young stock is more liable to be neglected. No farmer should allow a week to pass without seeing his stock once or twice. | Monday and Thursday of each week are good times to salt. I use equal parts of salt and bran, and prefer this to pure salt.

Every farmer should have good scales, and be prepared to weigh his stock from time to time, and thus be enabled to determine whether they are making proper improvement. If not find the cause, and if it is in the feed or care, rectify it. If it is the fault of the cattle, or of one steer, he had better be disposed of at once. A farmer cannot afford to care for stock that is giving no returns. And this is the only intelligent way to determine this. Besides, in this way, the farmer can tell just how much each pound of beef cost him.

Much more might be said in connec tion with the above, but there are so many ideas that could be advanced on this very important subject that I find it a difficult matter for an ordinary scrub farmer to incorporate them in the space allotted by the worthy Stock-

A PERSONAL GARD.

A Matter in Which in Which the Public Should Have A Deal of Interest.

To the Readers of THE TEXAS LIVE STOCK JOURNAL. Why does the government spend so much money and risk so many lives in trying to capture the counterfeiter?

"Suppose he does counterfeit government bonds and notes, surely the government is rich enough to stand any loss his act may confer!" But the individual citizen could ill
