

THE FARM.

ALFALFA.

(Fruedicago Sativa.) In general clovers are not a success in the region of the southwest, owing to the protracted droughts to which this belt is subject. Fortunately there is one grand exception to that rule, namely, alfalfa, also known as lucerne.

While alfalfa has been grown successfully on a variety of soils it delights in sandy and loamy soils, open, porous and well drained with calcareous subsoil to furnish lime, an essential constituent of clovers. The necessity of the soil being deep and well drained is apparent from the habit of root growth.

Alfalfa is sown in a variety of ways. Sometimes it is broadcasted, sown with a seeder and lightly harrowed, or still better with a runner press drill, which would never be sown deeper than two inches. In this section it is frequently sown in drills 8 to 20 inches apart and cultivated carefully the first season.

As a soiling crop alfalfa is very useful. For this purpose and also for making hay it should be cut in the early blossoming stages, otherwise it becomes very fibrous and loses much of its feeding value.

All kinds of stock relish alfalfa and thrive on it alone. As it is rich in protein it is excellent for producing muscle and milk. There is danger in bloating when fed in excess, but the exercise of good common sense will avoid any trouble from this source.

Whether the yield of corn is affected by color, and whether the white or the yellow varieties produce the greater yield, has always been a matter of dispute. In order to secure definite results the writer has conducted a series of experiments at the Agricultural Experiment Station.

Next year's results largely depend on the work done this spring. The crops to be planted in the winter months should be hatched before summer, as they require an early start. No doubt our advice, so frequently given, to plant corn as early as possible, has been followed by many, and the prospective winter layers are now out, but they must be kept growing.

These results have been so uniform, and have indicated so strongly that the better yield can usually be secured from the white varieties, that the published records of similar work done at other stations have been examined very carefully, and have been found to correspond very closely with the results secured at this station.

The fact that Texas Stock and Farm Journal endorses "Samantha at Saratoga" is a sufficient guarantee that nothing shoddy in appearance or make-up is offered. Read our offer in another column.

A SPLENDID MOVE.

An important work has been undertaken by the weather bureau that may prove of great value to the West and South. It is a systematic investigation of the influence of climate on health and disease. An immense amount of scattered data exists on this subject, and many erroneous ideas are held by doctors as well as the laity.

A man who intends to be a successful farmer should be posted on his business and should study it as an art. It is as necessary that he should do so, as it is that a newspaper man or a teacher should study their respective occupations. To keep posted, a farmer must read good agricultural papers.

MAY THOUGHTS.

The first of another month is here—a month of rare importance to the farmer. A busy month; a month when the returns are comparatively small, and yet such ought not to be the case in this season.

Next year's results largely depend on the work done this spring. The crops to be planted in the winter months should be hatched before summer, as they require an early start. No doubt our advice, so frequently given, to plant corn as early as possible, has been followed by many, and the prospective winter layers are now out, but they must be kept growing.

IRRIGATION.

UNDER CHANGED CONDITIONS.

In sending out the ninth biennial report of the Kansas state board of agriculture, Secretary F. D. Coburn preaches a little sermon which applies with equal force to Texas. Among other things he says: "Among other things, the shortness of crops in various portions of the state the past two years, from lack of seasonable rainfall, has caused the question of irrigation and the extent of the available water supply and its possibilities to be much studied."

The conditions which have prevailed, whatever their effects elsewhere, are to result in a revised agriculture and a new era of prosperity. Some reliable ways and means toward these are suggested in the talkative words, "irrigation," "subsoiling," "alfalfa," and "sorghum."

The first has so far progressed as to demonstrate the assurance of crops annually, regardless of seasonable rainfall, by fruiting with the extensive underground water supply. Independent of the surface water, the percentage of our most fertile lands will in large measure be inexpensively done, by harnessing to the work the present streams, which, shot through by the dam, will create a healthful climate for all breathing things, and the choicest growths of grain and flower.

YOUR VERY TRULY,

F. D. COBURN, Secretary.

IRRIGATION OF VEGETABLES.

Always apply water to the vegetables in the evening as the sun is going down. After each irrigation the soil should be stirred with a fork, better still, you may get a small hand cultivator running on a wheel and which can be bought for about $4. It is quicker and does better work than a fork. Always use a light and quick weed between the rows. Irrigate as often as the plants show signs of flagging. Large plants will, as a rule, need water whenever the soil is wet, and only can be set to dry and activate your hands into a ball, but for small seedlings or newly transplanted vegetables the surface must be kept moist.

TEXAS PROGRESS.

The people of Uvalde county, Texas, are taking an active interest in the proposed canal and agricultural resources of the valley land of that section. A contract has just been entered into between Samuel W. Scott, of California, and R. H. Kelley, of Uvalde county, for the irrigation of 5000 acres of land on the Sabinal river belonging to the last named parties.

The development of the rich valley of the Rio Grande is progressing more rapidly than many people suppose. John Lipscomb, a farmer, living six miles below Hidalgo, in Hidalgo county, has planted one hundred acres in corn, ten in tobacco, ten in sweet potatoes, thirty-five in cotton, six in sugar cane, four in Irish potatoes, one in garlic and two in onions, making 168 acres in cultivation.

IN TAYLOR COUNTY.

The interest in irrigation in Taylor county is growing every day. Numerous individual irrigation plants are being put in along the streams, and at places where water can be stored at small cost. In the streams systems of dams are being constructed on the order of the old water mill dams, which permit the water during rains in the creaks to pass over from one dam to the other storing large quantities that have heretofore gone to waste. This way blocks of forty acres can be supplied by pumping, at very small cost to the farmer, and thousands of acres made to increase the former yield three or four fold.

The most extensive irrigation enterprise ever undertaken by man in this country was made for the work of constructing a dam where Elm creek comes through the mountains near Buffalo Gap some twenty miles southwest of Abilene. By the construction of this dam a lake of 2700 acres will be formed, 2000 acres of which will have an average depth of 45 feet. From this it is proposed to irrigate 50,000 acres of the rich valley along Elm creek, running the main canal through the western suburbs of Abilene.

The conditions which have prevailed, whatever their effects elsewhere, are to result in a revised agriculture and a new era of prosperity. Some reliable ways and means toward these are suggested in the talkative words, "irrigation," "subsoiling," "alfalfa," and "sorghum."

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

SORTING AND PACKING.

While our shipments of apples to England were very large during the winter and spring, they might have been still larger and many of the returns more satisfactory if more had been paid to the sorting and packing of the fruit.

The value of careful packing and sorting can hardly be overestimated, and the commission dealers who neglect these features are the most neglected. Without them the finest crops will only bring inferior prices. It is of the utmost importance to pack each fruit in the neatest possible package, well filled and carefully selected for each grade. Anything that pleases the eye is half sold before it is offered.

THE WONDERFUL PEA.

I saw an article on "Pea-Culture," taken from "Horse Farm," in your paper of the 19th instant, which I greatly enjoyed. I have had considerable experience with the cow pea. They are the best renovator of worn-out soil, and the best for the place of red clover. Like Mr. Wellborn I have seen a wonderful difference in the yield of land that had been planted to peas in comparison to the same land sown with red clover.

It makes a very dense shade, and shades the ground at the time it needs it most, viz.: August and September. A Florida seedman claims that the Unknown and the Wonderful are not the same, but I sent him for seed of the Wonderful and the department of agriculture at Washington sent me the Unknown, but it also had been planted in my garden for years. I planted them near each other, so that I could see the difference, believing them the same. I could see no difference, and sent samples of both to the seedsmen and asked him which was the Wonderful and which was the Unknown, but he failed to say.

As to keeping hay, Bill Ark may be right. I have never tried his way, that is the rain part, but if they are let dry before housing they will keep. A good way to keep them is to let them dry a day or two after being cut and then put in a house. Use a thick layer of very dry hay on oat or wheat straw, then peavines, straw again, then peavines, and so on until you get all stacked, and you will not only have peavine hay, but the straw will be eaten with almost the same avidity by all stock.

WATERMELON ORGAN.

The "Watermelon Bulletin" published at Hempstead, Tex., has been sent this office. As implied by its name, it is devoted to watermelon growing and shipping, a big and growing industry in that part of the state. The following are excerpts from the last issue: "Watermelons may be flavored while growing by siphoning the fluid extract from a bottle with a woolen yarn inserted through a slit in the stem of a growing melon."

To reduce a melon to the best eating temperature hang up over night in current air covered with a wet cloth or towel, the evaporation does the cooling better than icing. Watermelon matures in from 30 to 35 days from the setting of melon. To make a 90-pound melon make an average daily increase of weight of nearly four pounds, the ratio of increase at some stage of its growth of about 10 pounds. Some have succeeded in getting large melons by feeding water to the vine from a bottle of fertilizer connected at base of vine with a wick that would siphon the water to the vine from bottle or vessel.

SMALL FRUITS.

The universal and overwhelming popularity of the strawberry has cast all the other small fruits in the shade. Not merely do the blackberry and raspberry lack the delicious flavor of the strawberry, but the size of their seeds is regarded as an objection which originators of new types should devote their energies towards overcoming. But currants and gooseberries are much neglected and rarely receive the care and attention their merits deserve. The markets for these fruits is capable of great extension, and there is very little loss in handling them. There is no rush or hurry attendant on the gathering of currants. They do not require to be picked as soon as ripe, but may hang for days on the bushes and are not injured by staying on the trees. The demand for them has never been so great as at present, and the growers of small fruits would do well to recognize this fact.

EXPENSIVE FOWLS.

All fowls that do not lay are expensive. That is, if a certain proportion of food is allowed them, and they do not give any return therefor, they are not only unprofitable but reduce the profit on the laying hens. In feeding a flock there may be some of the more expensive breeds, such as Game fowls, and pay well, while others (and very often the majority of the flock) are worthless, yet such does not imply that the flock is not a good one; for the loss may be made up by the laying hens being laid regularly and are now resting, while others are hatching out broods. The number of eggs received daily may indicate only the work of the laying hens. The layers will be doing duty, and the hens not now laying may soon begin.

It is frequently the case that a flock contains several males after the hatching season is over. They are of no use unless more chicks are desired, and they will not bring enough in market to pay for the food they consume. The hens will be just as profitable, and lay as many eggs without the males as with them, and the proper thing to do is to get rid of the males. Reduce the flock so as to save expenses in the cost. Do not keep anything that is not paying unless there is a prospect of an increase in a short time. The farmer who knows his own fowls will have no difficulty in getting rid of those that are unprofitable, and thus increase the revenue from those which give a fair return for the food consumed.

HORSES AND MULES.

THE HORSE PROSPECTS.

In our country 70,000,000 people are to be provided for. Many millions live in villages and in the country, where the only possible conveyance of people or freight is horse or mule power. Many people are now in need of a horse, but the stringent times forbid the purchase. There are accordingly more sellers than buyers, a rule which improved times which are sure to follow the good crops now in prospect in the West and the renewed industry of factories, the demand for good dispositions sound horses will rapidly change the sentiment as to the value of horse flesh. If breeders view the situation aright and act judiciously this season, there can probably never again, in this country, be such a depression in the value of equine tribes as the past two years have witnessed.

Thousands of wealthy people are today seeking a horse, and are unable to find such an animal as they desire. Kindly disposition, sound limbs and constitution are first sought. Usually beauty of form and graceful movement are expected. Occasionally high speed is a consideration, or breeding which promises the rapid rate. In a pedigree pedigree all that is desired is a "going quality." The great majority wish only a moderate gait in their drivers and are willing to pay for the full combination of qualities which define their wants all that the creature has cost.

A knowledge of the ancestry (for three generations) of sires and dams, often enables a breeder to proceed with assurance. They who set out earnestly to breed only the best will find, in judicious effort, ample profit for their pains in producing the proper material. This line of ancestry, for the extent of the breeder's ability to train and fit a colt for the work expected of it later on. Skill plays an important part in all stock raising, and is especially essential in training the sensitive colt. One person will succeed in teaching the growing youngster much, while another, though adapted to the work following will soon undo all that has been done. The breeder of drivers should, on this account, be adapted to this important part of his calling.

It is a good share of one's capital if properly applied, in breeding and training driving horses, the genius is able with a dozen good rooster colts to reap a reward for his labors which would not be realized from two scores of draft colts that must be sold mainly for their physical qualities. Every lover of the work of training who is in position to devote one-fourth of his hours, each week, to doing good rooster colts during the next five years may expect full reward for his labors. On general principles, however, the man who sells what he breeds should always be conservative. So while enthusiastic in the faith in his colts, three-fourths of his time should be devoted to other employments. The specialist, however, who has good reason for the exercise of his faith—Exchange.

It is characteristic of the great mass of Americans that where one man is successful in a business, a thousand immediately rush into the same business, and, as soon as the price of the product begins to lower, fall over each other to get out at any price. This is especially true of horse people. They are buying and buying when they are selling tolerably sure to get the best of the market at each end. A few years ago, when money was being made quickly in the breeding of trotting horses, thousands rushed pell mell into the business. The man who sold in the boom days of the trotting horse, has since sold very closely and stayed out during the past few years, he would have made much more. The price dropped, and at least one-half of the breeders have been driven out of business, and have stocked in his pastures and stables what he had sold quickly in the boom days. A very small cost, and a few years hence will be right in the game to make money.

Writing upon the quality of different colored hoofs, C. Stevens of Malone, N. Y., says in The Horse Breeder: The white hoof is softer than the black one. We will all agree that light colored hoofs are better than dark ones absorb them. Light clothing is cooler in the sun than black. This principle will apply to horse's hoofs. The black hoof by absorbing the rays of the sun, the white hoof, on the other hand, and consequently it will hold the shoes longer. If one will make the observation of horses that have one black and one white for four or five years, he will find that the white hoof shows the most nail holes; being softer, the shoe gets loosened or pulled off easier. A glossy, shiny hoof indicates that there has been fever in the foot. A dull surface denotes a healthy condition. I will here state that contracted heels and quarter cracks are caused not so much by bad shoeing as by allowing the hoof to get too dry and the frog too hard.

TO TELL THE AGE OF CATTLE.

The teeth of the ox are thirty-two in number, twenty-four of which are molars, arranged as in the horse, and eight incisors or front teeth situated in the lower jaw, while teeth in the upper jaw are replaced by a thick cartilaginous pad, covered by the mucous membrane or that glassy skin which invades the inside aspect of the mouth. This pad furnishes a bearing for the incisors or front teeth of the lower jaw, but sometimes we have four supplementary molars which are never said to be present at one time, they being generally shed before molar dentition is completed.

intermediate become smaller. At eleven all are considerably diminished, but not to the same extent as in the young animal. From now on the teeth diminish in size so that the animal cannot properly gather or grind the food, although there are instances where they have remained good breeders and milkers up to twenty years and over.

LAND COMMISSIONER'S VIEWS. Many Features of the Land Law Are Conflicting and Embarrassing—He Will Track the Law.

Austin, Tex., May 11, 1895. Editor Journal. Your favor of the 6th instant asking certain questions in regard to the new lease law is this morning placed in my hands. As it will be eighty days before the new law will take effect, and as I have had my hands full of settling over with my duties current under the old law, it has been impossible for me to give my attention to the study of the many conflicting and embarrassing expressions found in the new law, which will be absolutely necessary for me to give it before I will be able to give the construction which the whole act intends to establish. Besides I have found so many clauses doubtful of true construction that I do not even hope to be able to clearly interpret all of them at the start. In all these cases I shall from time to time call to my assistance the opinion of the attorney-general, and thus as early as possible put the law in full operation.

You say that many prominent cattlemen, you are informed, have been advised not to take any settlement or new leases until it is fully decided whether the rate as provided by the original bill shall be operative, or that provided by the amendment. In reply to which I can only say that I have heard some suggestion of the kind, but am not informed of any settled purpose to that end. So far as this office is concerned, of course it will not be presumed that I can possibly be expected to adopt any other line than that prescribed by the written law as I find it, until I am advised otherwise, either by the courts or the law department of the government.

There is now a very heavy movement of Arizona and New Mexico cattle to Montana and other Northern pastures. The Santa Fe reports that during April they took 1045 cars from their stock yards, and that orders were in for 4481 more to go to Montana, largely. During April the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe handled Texas cattle to the Indian Territory, Kansas and Northern localities as follows: Northern division, 1724 cars, an increase of 424 over same month in 1894; Southern division, 1632, a decrease of 1207 from a year ago. Total both divisions 3356 in 1895, a decrease of 783 from 1894.

The Telegram has frequently called attention to the growing importance of South America, particularly Argentina, in the sheep trade of the world. It appears from a statement made by W. I. Buchanan, minister to Paraguay, that our cattle trade is also likely to feel the effects of South American competition. Minister Buchanan says: "I am convinced that in a year or two we will have as great a competitor in South American cattle as we now have in Western—and they sell into any part of the Old World without a minute's quarantine either, though there is plenty of disease. I am inclined to believe this is because European countries here more commercial interests have to nurse than they have with us."

THE WAGGONER LEASE.

Early last week Uncle Dan Waggoner, one of the wealthiest cattlemen in America, his son, W. T. Waggoner, the lessee of all the school sections in the counties of Woodward, Day and Roger Mills, his ranch boss, J. R. Roberts, and his former superintendent and general manager, W. H. Portland, came up from the lower country to investigate the causes of the sensational reports afoot regarding their lease of school lands, says the Woodward, O. T. News.

of any knotty legal problem which might be presented. On Saturday an agreement was reached, which provided that all the school sections in Woodward county to be taken by the pasture men here at the same rate of lease paid by Mr. Waggoner; that all school sections inclosed in Day county be taken by Mr. Waggoner; that all school sections in the same terms, while all not inclosed be taken by Mr. Waggoner. No action was taken in regard to Roger Mills county.

Mr. Waggoner has showed himself fair and liberal in his terms. He naturally desired to increase his range, as he has immense herds which require an increase pasturage. He is conversant with the rights of others, however, and respects their rights when he has the power to cause them untold loss. On the other hand, the pasture men who have taken up ranges here have constructed fences at a heavy cost, and would be absolute loss in case the lease privileges had been insisted upon. They also recognized the right of Mr. Waggoner to bid for the lands, and were willing to assume his lease obligations in return from losses. Had conditions been known by Mr. Waggoner prior to making the big lease, affairs would have assumed a wholly different form, and no clash of interests would have arisen.

Both sides to the controversy have shown themselves gentlemen of rare judgment, cool-headed and willing to do the fair thing in every way by each other.

THE FORT WORTH MARKET.

The month of April last being a banner month in the business done at the Fort Worth Stock Yards in the way of a market caused M. G. W. Simpson, president of the stock yards, to investigate the prosperity of the property, and the following is what he says he found in comparing the progress of the live stock center in Texas in its first seventeen months with the first seventeen months of the Kansas City and Omaha markets. Fort Worth handled more hogs, sheep and horses during that period than either of the above mentioned markets. In making this comparison Mr. G. W. Simpson says he does not want any one to feel that he is comparing his market with any of those great markets in the north, but any other spirit than to show that these markets are on the same plane as the Fort Worth market, i. e. beginners. And while speaking very highly of the management that has brought about such results as the northern markets, he thinks that the people of Texas in expecting big things of their market, should bear in mind the figures that he gives above and keep on pushing and encouraging the home live stock center.

Mr. Simpson begs to assure the Texas people that he is very grateful for this business showing and states that he will, he hopes, be in a position before very long to put the market in such a shape that the advancement will be as rapid as that of the northern markets. Kansas City is about twelve years the senior of Omaha and Chicago is about four years the senior of Kansas City, and the markets in succession seem to show an increase of business over the other in their commencement. Of course, increased population necessitating the different markets would have a bearing on that, but the hog raising continues in Texas as it has recently he feels that there will be no cause for complaint in the progress of the home live stock market. This should be very gratifying to the people of Texas and it is to be hoped that it is the commencement of the reaction of a live stock center equal if not superior to any of those established in the United States, as the increase of the hog raising in Texas required, as all of the people of Texas know that there are more cattle accessible to a live stock center in Texas than there was to the northern markets when they were in their infancy, and packing facilities would make as good showing with increased cattle receipts as the other branches have shown through local demand, and this he is endeavoring to bring about here.

POINTS ON BREEDING.

Merkel, Tex., May 12, 1895. Editor Journal: I have been looking over the live stock items of the Journal for some time, and as I see many and diversified opinions of feeders, I thought perhaps a few lines along the breeding line would be of interest to your readers. I have been handling cattle for some time, and have given the breeding interest a good deal of thought, from which I have drawn a few conclusions on the best method of handling cows and breeding them in pastures. First, dehorn your bulls so you can keep them where you want them. Then cut the cows' horns, and for breeding purposes about the first of April, put them in a pasture to themselves and let them stay until the 1st of July. Then put in your bulls of every breed you wish to use, say one to every 25 cows, and let them remain during July and August. They should have plenty of grass and water, and be thrown together in bunches very early in the morning, and the cows and bulls around together.

I tried this plan last year and I have had fine success. My calves are all of an even age and size, and I will give an credit a per cent. of calves as those who left the bulls with the cows all the year. Besides I did not lose any cows on account of being heavy with calf during the cold part of the winter.

By managing as I have indicated, there will not be any late summer or fall calves to suck through the winter, and weaken the cows.

BUYING AND SELLING.

Burton Wade delivered 800 steers this week to Martin L. Beaman of Comanche. Three and four they were and they sold at the good round figure of $20. C. C. French received this week 600 head of steers from L. Burman of Menardville for Martin & Beaman of Comanche. Godair, Harding & Co. sold in Kansas City on the 2d, 15 car loads of Dublin oil mill cattle, averaging 1067 pounds, at $4.25 per hundred, and on the 6th in Chicago sold 15 car loads belonging to the same company, averaging 1000 pounds, at $4.50 per hundred. M. B. Pulliam bought 300 four year old steers from Captain G. C. Rice of Sterling county, at $19.50 per head. The cattle were delivered here and shipped to Brownwood Monday where they will be fed at the cotton seed oil mill. Mr. Pulliam sold to the mill company at cost. M. B. Pulliam sold about 1000 head of mixed steers this week to Bird & Mertz for about $15,000. This cleans up all the stock owned by him here at this time, and after he sells his fine herd

In Hockley county he expects to step down and out for a few months, and will hunt for Schwartz in Europe.—San Angelo Standard.

THE OUTLOOK NEVER BETTER.

Farmers and Stockmen Are Doing Well—Religious Notes. Baird, Texas, May 13.—Editor Journal: After the refreshings from several good rains we have had a solid week of plow weather, and our farmers are beginning to catch up with their work. Crops were never better; in fact, the outlook is more promising than at any time during the past eight years. There is a large increase in the acreage of some crops and other foreign crops, and it begins to look like our stockmen mean to take care of their cattle in future.

Trading in cattle has been fairly active for the past two weeks. Hearn & Sons sugar to W. G. Crowder and C. Hinds 340 yearling steers at $11 a head. J. H. and E. R. Beck sold a mixed bunch of stock cattle to Geo. Clifford and J. H. Beck at $10. Some other sales have been made on about the same basis. R. A. Speer delivered to Ellis county parties a splendid lot of horses sold at $9 per head some weeks ago. Good horses can be bought here at $7 to $10 per head.

O'Laughlin Bros. of Stephens county were at Baird last week trying to sell 500 stock cattle. The cattle are good native stock and they seem anxious to sell. It is thought that the demand for good feeders will be very strong here by October.

Rev. J. T. L. Annis of Corsicana is in town and preaches at the Methodist church yesterday. Bro. Annis is well and favorably known here, having lived several years at Bell Plains in this county.

The closing exercises of Baird high school will be held next week. The commencement sermon will be preached by Rev. Robinson of Strawn next Sunday, and the program for the week following will be full and entertaining, closing with a concert on Friday evening. If any of you East Texas readers wish to exchange good cattle for horses this is the time and place to strike.

The office of the Cattle Raisers' association has been moved from the Stock Yards hotel, North Fort Worth, to the Hotel Worth, and is located on the ground floor in the southwest corner of the building, front entrance on Main street, where Secretary Loving says he will be pleased to have members call when in the city.

AN AUTHORITY.

One of the very richest books in the way of genuine humor that has been published for many years is "Samantha at Saratoga," by Miss Marietta Holley. Rev. Dr. Newman, the distinguished bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, in writing to a friend, says of this book: "I commend 'Samantha at Saratoga' as an antidote for the blues, a cure-all for any kind of mental wear and recreation from mental taxation, a provocation for wholesome laughter, and an inspiration to godliness. It is the bitterest satire ever coated with the sweetness of exhilarating fun; it is irony laughing at fashionable folly; it is exalted wit and the scalpel in one hand and the Balm of Gilead in the other. Her personal life, her intense genius, her art perfect. She stands alone in her chosen sphere without a rival."

FARMERS HAVE THEIR WAY WHEN THEY WEIGH ON JOURNAL SCALES.

Because Journal Scales Are Always Correct. A farmer needs an accurate and handy scale for weighing goods he buys and produce he sells, as much, though probably not as often, as the merchant. The high price of decent and reliable scales have kept them out of the reach of the average farmer. Our success in placing before our readers exclusively the only really first-rate, good-as-any-made sewing machine, as low as the cast iron premium machines, induced us to undertake to see what could be done in the line of scales. After negotiations extending to every considerable manufacturer in this country, we are in a position to offer two sizes of scales that fulfill every requirement in capacity or accuracy, at prices that cannot be duplicated except at a loss of money, even by the manufacturer.

No. 1 Journal Scale, 1-4 Ozs. to 25 Pounds.

This scale is particularly adapted to the requirements of the housekeeper. It will soon save its cost as a detector. With this scale in the house, short weights in groceries, seeds, etc., will be able to know in advance just how many pounds of butter she is sending to town, how much each dress with U. S. seal, so that absolute accuracy may be depended upon. In this scale, as in No. 1, the bearings are all steel and connections all of a quality of iron that is strong enough to sustain many times the weighing capacity of the scales. This is the biggest scale bargain ever offered and we expect to sell a thousand of these during the twelve months of our contract. Price on board cars at Fort Worth with one year's subscription $5 $2.50.

No. 2 Journal Scale, 1-4 Ozs. to 244 Pounds.

This scale is equal in capacity to the regulation counter scales of the grocer. The scoop draws from 1-4 ounce to 30 pounds, and the platform from two ounces to 240 pounds, and are sealed with U. S. seal, so that absolute accuracy may be depended upon. In this scale, as in No. 1, the bearings are all steel and connections all of a quality of iron that is strong enough to sustain many times the weighing capacity of the scales. This is the biggest scale bargain ever offered and we expect to sell a thousand of these during the twelve months of our contract. Price on board cars at Fort Worth with one year's subscription $5 $2.50.

DAIRY.

SOILING CORN.

But comparatively a small portion of the dairymen of this country have sufficient pasturage to last through the entire season, at least for the best results. Good pasturage is the key to success. The best and most perfect milk producers and could they be furnished in sufficient quantity and quality through the season managed by the dairymen, but this is not the case, unless it is in some favored portion of our land.

Most farmers may have plenty of good pasturage up to perhaps the middle of July and the cows will give excellent yields of milk, but as the dry, hot weather comes on the grasses begin to fall and the milk to decrease. Thereafter extra feed of some kind must be furnished or the receipts from the dairy will be small and unsatisfactory.

Here comes in the value of corn or some other good forage plant to supplement the failing pasture grasses. Perhaps no other one crop can take the place of corn for this purpose, taking the country through. It is now many years since it began to be used in this way, and as its value becomes more fully known, so is it more highly prized and its cultivation increased. It is a crop which, if properly managed, can be made to produce large yields, and if not all wanted to feed in a green state can be readily cured, for winter use or placed in a silo.

But to get the best results with corn, simply as a fodder crop, needs the right kind of management. The old way—and the one still practiced by some—is sowing three bushels of Western or Southern corn broadcast to the acre, is by far from being the best way. It should be treated very much after the manner of our common field corn.

It is not so much a large mass of stalks and leaves that is wanted, as a goodly amount of ears along with the fodder. To obtain these in suitable proportion it is necessary that the crop be cultivated with the object in view. It should be planted on properly prepared ground, either thin in drills or hills the same as field corn, only perhaps a little closer. This will admit of the required cultivation which is an important factor in the success of the crop.

gaining the preference over others in Vermont, and perhaps New England, as a forage crop, and even for the silo, is the Stanford, a variety that has been in use for a long time. It is a medium growing kind with abundant foliage, healthy growth, and a good yielder of fine shag-bone white ears. One-half bushel of seed is used to the acre, and the crop is cut early in the morning, and the stalks are cut with the cultivator and the crop is hand-hoeed once. This is all until harvest, when the crop is cut early covers the ground and weeds or grass have little chance for growth.

If the crop is likely to be too thick, it should be thinned sufficiently at time of hoeing in order that there may be a fair protection of ears.

This makes an excellent crop to feed green and large quantities are cured for late fall and winter. Should be harvested when in the milk to cure. From five to eight tons to the acre of cured fodder are raised with this treatment, which makes it one of the cheapest and most profitable crops that can be produced on the farm for dairy purposes.

While corn for fodder can be successfully raised when even planted quite late, still for a better crop it will be found the most profitable crop if put into the ground as early as the common field varieties, in order that a proper degree of maturity may be secured before it is wanted for use, as herein its value will largely consist.

THE BLIGHT OF POLITICS.

The people of Texas are neglecting to develop the limitless resources of their matchless state, and are engaged in uselessly frittering away the gray matter of their brains in an attempt to solve questions of financial statecraft instead.

On the hilltops and in the valleys, men with selfish motives of personal aggrandisement are inciting contention and strife, the like of which has not been witnessed for many years, and the sturdy yeomanry of the country attracted by the glittering promises held out are neglecting their fortunes to listen and become involved in the bewildering maze of governmental finance.

The picture is not over-drawn. The evidences of the conditions cited being apparent on every hand, and while public opinion precludes the possibility of internecine actual warfare, the results of the present uncalculated agitation will damage the country equally as much.

About one in every five of the big pastures if west Texas are offered for lease, and in most instances the lessee can make his own terms.

The builders of the constitution must have anticipated something of this kind when they fixed national elections for every fourth year, but the mistake they made was in not arranging for the interims between these recurring struggles to be of six or eight years' duration.

Only a little more than two years have elapsed since by the expression of the will of the people existing differences were settled, yet with a year and a half of futurity, during which time the mutability of human events may bring about the necessity of entirely different plans.

Particularly does this apply to the imperial state of Texas, which, under present circumstances, sends nearly forty millions of dollars out of the state for food products alone, an amount which, if kept at home, would render the people independent of what course the contending politicians take, and of the peculiar style or ratio of the nation's money.

The press of Texas has been caught by the infectious disease of partisan strife, and instead of being the masses in the need of a leader, it is developing their belongings by modern, advanced methods, is devoting its columns to the discussion of subjects about which little is understood, and which at least should be shelved until a political year.

What Texas needs most is a campaign of business education—a school of methods, in which the whole people could be told how to direct their energies that the best results would follow, and how that the vast mines of wealth which abound on every hand could be made to yield their unhidden treasures if only an intelligent application of industry were applied.

Mr. Baker, the state land commissioner, says in a letter to the Journal, that the clauses of the new land law are very conflicting and embarrassing. Add so they are, the entire bill being clothed in verbiage capable of double construction, and faulty in the extreme.

Where it has been given a trial the Wonderful pea, is pronounced a success, and it behooves the cotton-ridden farmers of Texas to give this plant a consideration in their fields.

A RACE FOR LIFE.

An Exciting Ride Across a Continent—Bitten by a Deadly Insect—An Accident Saves a Life.

I was sitting in the reading rooms of the Y. M. C. A. of Philadelphia. At my right was sitting an elderly gentleman whose whiskers and dress would indicate that he belonged to the cloth.

"I think he was bitten by some kind of a spider last summer," was his reply. We thought at the time he would lose his life, but by the skill of one of the best physicians in San Antonio he was seemingly cured.

"Who are you going to see in Boston?" I asked. "Dr. R. C. Flower," was the reply, and Mr. Mildredge believes that, but as he is and as near death as he is, if he can only see Dr. Flower he can be cured.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that you were bitten by a spider or something of the kind, but the treatment you had practically cured you. It is also my opinion that your mother died with cancer, and more than likely a grandmother, too."

"I met a number of his patients while in Texas, as I have in all sections of the country I have ever been in. They all tell of two miraculous features in Dr. Flower's practice. His unerring ability to tell a patient his disease without asking a question and the speed and ease with which he cures the most malignant diseases.

"I have ascertained, first, that Dr. R. C. Flower has some 1700 patients in the state of Texas; second, that he examines all his patients without ever asking a question, and, third, that his books show in connection with the investigation of the facts that in cancer, consumption, tumor, paralysis, fatty degeneration of the heart, kidney and nervous diseases, he does not lose one case in ninety; fourth, that his patients, as a rule, have been given up by other physicians as incurable, and yet these incurable malignant diseases seem to be handled by him with the utmost ease and uniform success."

given up as incurable. I will name you a few: E. Hunt of Conroe, Tex., was cured of a terrible liver and stomach trouble, which had resulted in nervous exhaustion; Mrs. Hattie Raquet, Tyler, Tex., a most lovely and gifted woman, cured of nervous heat and blood trouble—trouble which had nearly wrecked health, life and brain; Mrs. S. R. Curtis, Rusk, Tex., of a complication of diseases which had brought her into a speedy and quick decline; L. Cerf of Corsicana, Tex., of most serious head and heart trouble; Geo. B. Paxton, Fort Worth, Tex., of lumbago sciatica and nerve trouble after a severe case of catarrh, throat and bronchial disease, chronic and far advanced; D. F. Crawford of Ennis, Tex., of bronchial and lung consumption; James McKee, Mt. Selman, Tex., of consumption; the late Mrs. J. C. Warden, Victoria, Tex., of cancer of stomach, fungus bowels and womb. This woman when she first consulted Dr. R. C. Flower was losing flesh at the rate of half a pound a day, suffered death almost every hour of her life.

PERSONAL.

Frank Brown of Wichita Falls was a visitor to Fort Worth Saturday.

M. Sanson of Alvarado, one of the longest headed stockmen in Texas, was in Fort Worth Saturday.

W. D. and Dun Houston of Gonzales, Texas, cattlemen, were in the live stock market of Texas, Sunday.

J. B. Wilson of Dallas, one of Texas' best known cattlemen, was in Fort Worth Monday.

M. Maud, proprietor and manager of the Moon ranch, in Childress county, was a visitor to this city Friday.

H. L. Pennington, live stock agent of the Santa Fe, returned to Fort Worth Tuesday from a trip to south Texas, where he says grass is good and cattle getting fat.

Geo. W. Reynolds of Albany, Tex., was in Fort Worth Friday talking over a big cattle deal which he contemplated making, and said that grass in his part of the country is very fine.

Mahan's Commercial college of Sherman, has an advertisement in the Journal, which should attract the attention of those interested in a business education. Correspondence is invited.

C. C. French, who rustles business for the Evans-Snyder-Buel company, returned Wednesday from a trip to Menard county. Said grass is fine and plentiful, and cattle scarce in that section.

Brooks Davis came in Monday from a trip out to Midland and Big Springs. Said that from Big Springs this way good rains had fallen recently, but from there west a rain was badly needed.

W. L. Gatlin, the well known Abilene cattleman, has moved to Fort Worth, where he will make his home in the future. Abilene loses a good citizen, and Fort Worth is the gainer thereby.

Ritenour & Batsell of Sherman, Tex., have two splendid stallions which they want to either sell or trade for horses or mules. Look up their advertisement in the "For Sale" column and write for information.

W. E. Rayner of Rayner, Tex., has two splendid pastures to lease in the southeast corner of Stonewall county supplied with extra good grass and water. Read his advertisement in another column.

Stewart Bros. of Gertrude, Tex., have twenty-eight high grade yearling Shorthorn bulls advertised for sale in this issue of the Journal. Write them for prices, description, etc., and state where you saw their advertisement.

W. D. Jordan, Uncle Sam's live stock agent at Quanah, was here Friday. No man in the employ of the bureau of animal industry has more friends among the cattlemen than Billy Jordan, and he is always a welcome visitor to Fort Worth.

Loren W. Krake, the National Stock Yard's hustler, returned from a tour of south Texas. Said grass was growing fine, and cattle getting fat. Mr. Krake feels very elated over the progress of the market he represents in the receipts of both cattle and horses.

C. F. Masch of Chapman, Kans., an extensive dealer in pumps, windmills and irrigation supplies of every description, has an advertisement in the Journal. Special attention is directed to the windmill he sells, and those contemplating anything in the way of irrigation or water raising should write him for particulars.

Aultman, Miller & Co. of Dallas have in advertisement of their Buckeye ramless binder in this issue of the Journal. There is no piece of machinery made which comes nearer to perfection than this binder, and the Journal takes pleasure in leasing its readers to select a "Buckeye Ramless" if in the market for a machine of his class.

the official organ of the Oklahoma Live Stock association, and is devoted exclusively to live stock interests. The Journal wishes the new venture unbounded success, and with such a hustler at the helm as Bolton it can have no other future.

Ed East of Archer City and M. Davis of Seymour, two successful cattlemen, were here Sunday, but got away without being angered by a Journal man. These gentlemen have fed a great number of cattle during the past season and it is safe to say have cleared no less than $75,000 in this business, irrespective of their range dealings.

Col. Wm. Hunter, of the Strahorn-Hutton-Evans Commission company, reports the sale at St. Louis by his company last week of the McGhee & Withers steers, 1284 pounds, at $5.50. These cattle were raised south of San Antonio. Mr. Hunter also reported the sale of a train load of south Texas grass cattle, weighing 865, at $3.70, a good price for cattle of that weight.

J. W. Smith of Kilgore, Tex., breeder of thoroughbred swine and poultry, makes some special offers in an advertisement he has in this issue of the Journal, which should be taken advantage of by anyone wanting good stock. The Wilkes swine he offers come from one of the best strains of Poland-China swine extant, and his offer should not remain open long.

Geo. Campbell Brown of Spring Hill, Tenn., has sent the Journal a catalogue of his great twenty-second annual sale of trotting and pacing horses, made up from some of the farms in that famous horse breeding country. The sale will take place at Spring Hill, Tenn., Wednesday, May 23, 1895, and anybody wishing to purchase some of the best blood in America in horseflesh, can be satisfied by attending this sale.

A. W. Themanson of Wathena, Kas., a widely known breeder of recorded Poland-China hogs in a letter to the Journal says: "I have some fine pigs, when his friends all know that there is not a particle of ostentation or show about him, the reverse being more applicable. The worst of it all, though, was that he inadvertently found his way into the Journal, which, as Mr. Gatlin said, 'is read by everybody in the country.' The only true thing about the whole story was that Mr. Gatlin was in St. Louis at that time."

J. I. McWhorter of Baird, a prosperous cattleman, accompanied by his family, was in Fort Worth Monday. Said grass was fine and cattle fat, and for the life of him could not see what was going to prevent cattle bringing a good price right along through the summer. He said: "Grass cattle are bringing more money now than top feeders did last year, and while prices may weaken some when the Territory stuff commences going forward, it won't be for long in my opinion."

W. P. Anderson, of the Chicago Union Stock Yards, blew into Fort Worth Friday, in advance of the cattle. Ever the same, loquacious, entertaining and a mine of information about cattle, with an acquaintance extending from Sitka, Alaska, to the city of Mexico, he is always a welcome visitor to Fort Worth. To a Journal man he said: "The people of other states believe that the much talked of short-grass in Texas does not exist, and that it is only a scheme to make dressed beef higher. The statistics given out by the department of agriculture regarding live stock are as a rule very inaccurate, and do more damage than good."

J. A. Newlin of Quanah, a cattleman, was in the Journal office Saturday. He said: "We have not had near enough rain yet, and although grass is growing some, a rain is needed to make it good. The farmers in our section, what few there are, have given up the idea of making any wheat this year, and some of them are planting sorghum. Others are leaving their plowed ground idle, the fact being about established that ours is not a success as a farming country. Where it is possible, however, they should raise sorghum, as it is a fine roughness for winter feeding."

Dr. R. C. Flower, the Boston specialist, has an advertisement in this issue announcing that he will visit Fort Worth in the near future. There is certainly something remarkable about this man of medicine, and while the regulars may rant and howl invectives at him, charging him with quackery and hippodroming, the fact that he goes over the same ground several times in a year, meeting larger crowds at each visit, is a strong recommendation, if he had no other. He has, however, other and stronger recommendations, and he will doubtless be met here with a throng of suffering humanity.

Col. W. E. Skinner, general manager of the Fort Worth Stock Yards, feels elated over the success of the enterprise since he has been at the helm. To a Journal man, who was at the yards Friday, he said: "I have just compiled the figures and find that the receipts of hogs, sheep and horses at these yards for the seventeen months that have elapsed since the new company was formed, are greater than for the corresponding period in the upbuilding of the South Omaha yards. I regard this as a pretty fair showing, and by the time we get as old as the South Omaha yards are now, I think we will make an even better showing."

C. T. Herring of Vernon, a well-to-do cattleman, was in Fort Worth Monday. He has a large pasture in the part of Oklahoma recently leased by Waggoner & Son, and does not like the turn affairs have taken in that country. He said: "In addition to having to pay $1 per section more than we were promised the land for, we lease a great many sections we cannot use. Under the arrangement made by the cattlemen and the Oklahoma land board, we were to get the land in our pastures or on our ranges for $32 per section, but under the re-lease from Mr. Waggoner we have to take every school section in Day and Woodward counties."

J. O. Terrell, of Terrell, Tex., is secretary of the Texas Jersey Cattle club, and has an advertisement in the Journal announcing that on Tuesday, May 23, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock, about fifty head of registered acclimated Jersey cattle, owned by members of the club will be sold singly at the auction at the Dallas fair grounds. The Journal personally knows the majority of the stock that will be offered for sale, and urges any of its readers who may want a good Jersey cow to attend this sale. A catalogue describing the cattle to be sold can be had by writing Mr. Terrell, the secretary. His address is Terrell, Tex.

W. L. Gatlin of Abilene, the cattleman upon whom a St. Louis paper perpetrated a fake story some time since, was here Friday. The nature of the write-up given Mr. Gatlin made it appear that he was cutting a wide swath at St. Louis, spending money like a prince, and nabbing a fortune, when his friends all know that there is not a particle of ostentation or show about him, the reverse being more applicable. The worst of it all, though, was that he inadvertently found his way into the Journal, which, as Mr. Gatlin said, 'is read by everybody in the country.' The only true thing about the whole story was that Mr. Gatlin was in St. Louis at that time."

J. W. Lynch of New Ponca, O. T., a wealthy cattleman, was a visitor to Fort Worth Monday. In speaking of the little entanglement which existed between the West Oklahoma cattlemen and Dan Waggoner of Decatur he said: "I was one of the parties called in to adjust the existing differences, but it was hardly necessary as everything went off as smooth as possible. The cattlemen agreed to take all of Day and Woodward counties at the price paid the territorial government by Mr. Waggoner. The last named gentlemen will give his range in Roger Mills county to any of the Northwest cattlemen improving has been done by settlers or cattlemen. Mr. Waggoner acted fair and square all the way through, and everybody is feeling good. We attend his sale. A catalogue describing well, but more rain would not be amiss."

Jot J. Smythe of Grandview, a wealthy stockman and farmer, was in Fort Worth Monday. He has 1600 acres of fine black land on his home farm, besides owning several good farms and ranches at other points. He raises as many or more hogs than any man in any of the Northwest counties. While Mr. Smythe raises hogs and cattle and an immense amount of feed, he does not take any stock in cotton acreage reduction. He said: "With cotton at 5 cents, the average farmer, with his children, can make more money than out of any other crop, as in raising another crop there is no chance for him to get any work out of his children. My renters all got out of debt last year, and are doing well. If the farmers would quit trying to run the government and do more work at home they would get along a good deal better."

A general live stock agent of one of the big railroad systems, who asked that his name be not used, in conversation with a Journal man, expressed himself thusly: "There is one peculiar characteristic about the majority of Texas cattlemen, and that is, they invariably over-estimate the number of cattle they own, or are going to ship. They will come in and want a rate on say 200 cars of cattle, to be hauled to the quoted number, can be counted. This is a serious mistake, as the buyers of cattle get their information from estimates of this kind, and fix prices accordingly. I have been among the cattlemen in any of the Northwest some, and I find the reverse rule applies to them, as you generally add 25 per cent to their estimate of cattle owned. I suppose the action of the Texas cattleman comes from the fact that in former days they owned such immense herds, and they dislike to admit how few they own now. It may be, however, that this is done to impress the railroads, but the harm that comes from exaggeration is the effect it has on the market. Doc Riddels of Kansas City, member of the Lone Star Commission company, and J. S. Rizer of Meridian, also a member of the above firm, were in Fort Worth Saturday. Mr. Riddels, in speaking of how his firm was getting along, said that when he left Kansas City, which was a few days ago, they were short of Texas every year to fatten an empire of stock. In my opinion, every field in Texas should be grazed every year after the crops are gathered. It would be worth a great many dollars to the farmers, and the old idea about it hurting the field is all rot. The farmers of the Northwest take advantage of all these things, and figure that their fields of corn stalks and straw will have a better policy of feed. If all the corn fodder in Texas were saved every year it would be worth a great many dollars to the farmers. Texas raises enough feed to thoroughly fatten every animal within her borders, but a goodly part of it is wasted."

W. V. Johnson of Grasslands, Lynn county in a letter to the Journal renewing his subscription and ordering "Samantha at Saratoga," says: "We need rain on the plains, and trail herds moving north and west find difficulty in getting through. It is a policy looking to free trade in cattle is right in principle, even if it may affect our business interests unfavorably for a time. The 'greatest good to the greatest number' should be the guiding principle in all legislation. Am glad member of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet adheres to pure Democratic doctrine. I am distressed whenever I think of Mr. Carlisle's present humble and painful position. Dominated as he is by Mr. Cleveland's overbearing and arrogant assumption of superiority to his party or party men, he seems to have lost the noble individuality and superb statesmanship for which he was once distinguished. Until he sank his own dignity and personal independence by submitting both to those who whom he now serves as humbly and obediently, I had ever regarded him as one of the greatest and best men Kentucky had produced. Now the great are fallen. Since the overthrow of the Confederacy it seems impossible to find any of the sterling and heroic characteristics among our public men, men that made Andrew Jackson great and glorious. A sad fact for a distressed country."

MARKETS.

FORT WORTH MARKET.

Business at the stock yards since the former report has been somewhat dull...

The following sales, representative of the week's market are from a report furnished by J. P. Butz & Co., commission men at the yards:

WAGON HOGS.

PERSONAL MENTION.

J. T. Cockrill, Seymour; Ed L. Timms, Grandview; J. B. Bradley, Mansfield; E. B. Stone, Roanoke; G. W. Pool, Nevada; Stanford & H. Nevada; B. H. Sharr, Grandview; J. C. Hannum, Wild Point; S. P. Stone, Itasca, and F. B. Field, Hawkins, shipped in one or two car loads of hogs each.

CHICAGO LETTER.

Chicago, Ill., May 14.—The cattle market this week opened with heavier receipts and a decline of about 1c in prices, although good Texas cattle sold at $5.10, or 5c above the best price at any other market.

Sales of beef cattle in car lots or over during the week were at $4.20@6.00; largely at $5.00@5.70. Fed Western cattle sold at $4.50@5.65 with fed Texans at $4.50@5.65.

The Texas cattle market gained 10c to 15c last week and we are of the opinion that the trade will hold at least where it is if it does not mend.

Actual receipts of sheep last week 50,498, against 78,352 the previous week.

Most dealers are expecting comparatively small receipts for awhile.

Texan shippers should bear in mind the closeness of the government inspection.

All sheep not fit for food are thrown out and shippers of scabby sheep are sure to have trouble.

Common grades of sheep are neglected and the very heavy export sheep are not in the best demand.

Native sheep $2.00@4.70, Texas $2.25@4.00, Oregon, Montana and Nebraska $4.00@4.40; bulk $2.70@3.15, woolled lambs $3.25@6.00, and shorn lambs $2.50@4.45.

A lot of 272 Texas sheep, eighty-four pounds, sold at $3.75.

Would advise shippers to string their sheep along and not get here altogether and break the market.

Yours very truly, GODAIR, HARDING & CO.

KANSAS CITY LETTER.

Receipts this week 22,000 cattle, 50,000 hogs and 14,000 sheep.

Receipts this week 22,000 cattle, 50,000 hogs and 14,000 sheep. Compared with last week this shows an increase of 1400 cattle, a decrease of 900 hogs and 7000 sheep.

There has been very little change in the cattle market this week, though the market closes strong at about the best prices obtained.

The top price received for Texas cattle, $4.65, with bulk sales of good meal-fed Texans from $4.00 to $4.40.

We expect liberal receipts of Texas cattle next week at all markets, and would not be surprised at seeing some lower prices.

though we think that a decline from present prices would not last long.

Packers bought last week from Armour 4300, from Swift 4000, S. & S. 4000, other packers 1200.

The very light receipts of sheep caused a strong advance in prices, and prices are now from 50c to 75c higher than they were ten days ago.

Good fat mutton sheep are in active demand, and the very sheep are dull and hard to sell.

Swift bought last week 5200, Armour 3000, S. & S. 1700. We think we have seen low prices on sheep for the present, and we have excessive runs we will have stronger markets for the next two months.

Yours very truly, The Geo. R. Barse Livestock Commission Company.

SLADE TO THE BOYS. He Lectures Them and Then Tells Them a Tale.

Goliad, Tex., May 12. Boys, you need talking to, and I feel it my duty to lecture you a few lines. I was once a boy myself with hair on the top of my head like you, one pair of trousers, stone buttons on my heels, a conscience pliable to every touch of interest, an ambition to be a general or a colonel, an appetite for green apples and a general disposition to evade farm work...

her own interests, she held them up, saying: "Just look here, will you? Somebody's stuffed the ballot box." I managed to attract her attention, and winked very vigorously at her with first one eye then the other. Then she began to cry and a big fellow came round to me and said nobody could insult a young lady there and invited me to come out to one side and have a talk with him. But I was not a good conversationalist, and explained that I had a kind of impediment in my eyesight, and that my wink often went off when I didn't know it was needed. Just then another lady, who was helping to count the votes, and who had taken up my little consignment exclaimed, "Law, Miss Lizzie these votes are all for you!" Miss Lizzie did no thing but just faint and fall back in the faint. I did the same thing. That is, I fainted and fell back in the lap of a big Dutch woman who was complacently drinking hot coffee out of a tin can, and who to revive me I suppose, poured the hot coffee in my shirt bosom, which had the effect of completely restoring me to consciousness. Another dude took the young lady back to the hotel. Sauntering around among the crowd, I was unexpectedly chosen one of the judges of the baby show, and an unguarded moment accepted the honor. As I ascended the platform I heard the mother of one of the entries say: "Of course that baldheaded brat of Mrs. Scrimshires will get the prize, 'cause they ain't a hair 'twixt that man an' heaven, shore's you born. I tried to get the people to lead the mothers to one side while we invoked their offspring, but it was no go. The other judges seemed inclined to decide in favor of the red-headed baby of the red-headed woman, who has made a disrespectful remark about my head, and I had to stick a pin in the young one to make it cry, so as to not look its best. The woman had an eye like a hawk, and she suspected me, and I could see wrath gathering in her face. Finally when we had awarded the prize to the bald-headed baby the storm burst, and I sprang from the platform with the red-headed woman hanging to my coat collar with one hand, while with the other she plunged a big darning needle into the small of my back, exclaiming: "You will stick pins into my little angel darling, will you. I'll teach you."
