President Ignores NRA Questions

Before leaving for his semi-final campaign drive, President Roosevelt today smilingly brushed aside press conference questions about revival of the NRA.

Asked point-blank whether he planned such a move, Mr. Roosevelt suggested a review of his past and present speeches.

He did say, however in response to questions about a new coal regulation bill that something had to be done about the coal industry. He also announced plans for continuing the C. C. C. on a slightly smaller basis than this year.

In Splendid Condition
With his heaviest campaigning behind him, Mr. Roosevelt in response to a question pronounced himself physically and mentally in good shape.

BYERS ATHLETIC QUEEN ELECTED

At the annual Hallowe'en Carnival held Thursday night, Miss Faye Alberson, of the senior class of the Byers High School was elected Athletic Queen.

Five candidates aspired to the Queenship, namely: Misses Margaret Harrison, Bettye Jo Harding, Dorris Mae Bates, Dorothy Wright and Faye Alberson.

Aided by their classes they turned in $354.00. Of this sum the Senior Class contributed $191.74.

Supt. W. D. George announced that this sum would be sufficient to purchase all needed equipment and award sweaters.

Mrs. B. H. Fambrough and Mrs. Willis Smith were shopping in Wichita Falls, Thursday.

Democrats Lead In "American Poll"

On November 4th, 1932, Roosevelt and Garner carried the democrats to a nation-wide landslide, carrying 43 states and polled the largest vote in the history of the party.

On next Tuesday, November 3, the people all over the nation will again go to the polls, each to cast a vote for one of the two major parties or for one of the various other minor parties on the ticket which this year seems to be more numerous than here-to-fore in a presidential election.

The "American" Poll of last Sunday, in its tabulation of returns, gave Roosevelt and Garner 301 electoral votes and Landon 153, leaving a 50-50 break in the states of Illinois, Indiana, New York and Iowa. This is not a sufficient number of electorates to give Landon a majority should he carry all of these acclaimed to be an-even-break, and we predict that many of the rock-ribbed republicans will wake up on Wednesday morning with a headache because of the overwhelming majority which will pile up in the final count for Roosevelt and Garner.

Old Texas, Garner's home state, will show 'em how solid she is behind leaders who are strong for the "Forgotten Man."

He moved to Henrietta several years ago and has been engaged as a drayman since that time. He has made many friends throughout the county, who are indeed saddened at his passing.

The Forgotten Man

By EDWIN MARKHAM

Dedicated to Franklin D. Roosevelt, after hearing his lofty and noble appeal for the Forgotten Man.

Edwin Markham

NOT on our golden fortunes builded high—
Not on our boasts that soar into the sky—
Not upon these is resting in this hour
The fate of the future; but upon the power
Of him who is forgotten—yes, on him
Rest all our hopes reaching from rim to rim.
In him we see all of earth's toiling bands,
With crooked backs, scarred faces, shattered hands.

HE seeks no office and he asks no praise
For all the patient labor of his days.
He is the one supporting the huge weight:
He is the one guarding the country's gate.
He bears the burdens on these earthly ways:
We pile the debts, he is the one who pays.
He is the one who holds the solid power
To steady nations in their trembling hour.
Behold him as he silently goes by,
For it is at his word that nations die.

SHATTERED with loss and lack,
He is the man who holds upon his back
The continent and all its mighty loads—
This toiler who makes possible the roads
On which the gilded thousands travel free—
Makes possible our feasts, our roaring boards,
Our pomps, our easy days, our golden hoards.
He gives stability to nations: he
Makes possible our nation, sea to sea.
His strength makes possible our college walls—
Makes possible our legislative halls—
Makes possible our churches soaring high
With spires, the fingers pointing to the sky.

SHALL then this man go hungry, here in lands
Blest by his honor, builded by his hands?
Do something for him: let him never be
Forgotten: let him have his daily bread:
He who has fed us, let him now be fed.
Let us remember all his tragic lot—,
Remember, or else be ourselves forgot!

ALL honor to the one that in this hour
Cries to the world as from a lighted tower—
Cries for the Man Forgotten. Honor the one
Who asks for him a glad place in the sun.
He is a voice for the voiceless. Now, indeed,
We have a tongue that cries the mortal need.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE RED CROSS

"Perhaps one reason for the support, the respect, yes even the love which our Red Cross inspire in all of us is that it is so typically democratic. It is everywhere, east west, north and south, in the small towns, and in the great rural areas" President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Red Cross is about the only organization that I know that does good by looking for trouble" Calvin Coledge, Late Press of the U. S.

"Our Red Cross organization today covers every inch of the United States and its possessions. It has a varied program which appeals to all. It helps the sick and the well, the old and the young, in urban and rural America. It is free from political, religious, racial or economic bias.

Through it the strong help the weak. James L. Fieser,, Vice-Chairman American Red Cross.

"No one who observed the Red Cross in action in the wake of the catastrophic floods and windstorms of last spring would fail to appreciate the worth of this nation-wide humanitarian organization. I am glad to endorse the appeal to all American business men actively to support the Roll Call" Harper Sibley, Pres. Chamber of Commerce of the U. S. A.

"People everywhere have learned that the Red Cross is its far reaching activities does more than in emergencies that feed the hungry, aid the handicapped, restore devastated regions.

Along with mending broken bodies and repairing damaged homes, this agency rebuilds human morale, renews hope, restores faith of the needy, and distressed.

The Red Cross stands for the ideal of service and must be kept at full strength for humanity's sake"

Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, Pres. Federal Council of the Churches of Christ.

Vocational Agriculture students are showing some nice plans for the coming year. Every boy in the class of 64 has decided on from one to five home projects to carry in connection with their class work. These boys, especially the boys who are taking second years work, realize that the more work they do the more they will be benefited in the long run. These projects pay off in two ways; in knowledge and skill and in dollars and cents.

Some projects have already been started and a number of supervised practice jobs completed. The two second year classes made field trips last week and culled between three and four hundred hens. Some terracing has also been done by individual students, with the help of the instructor and other terracing is waiting on favorable weather.

TEACHER RETIREMENT

One of the proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution which will be voted upon November 3. No. 2 on the list of six to be submitted then authorizes the Legislature to establish and levy taxes for a system of teacher retirement, including teachers both in public schools and in colleges and universities maintained by the state.

The proposed retirement plan is a matching plan. Each person employed in such capacity would be required to contribute a certain percentage of his salary, to be matched by similar contributions from the state up to five per cent of the compensation of the person involved, though the total, per year, per teacher, is not to exceed $180. No person would be eligible for retirement annuity who had not taught 20 years in the state. And any person accepting teacher retirement pension would not be eligible for benefits from other pension funds.

The amendment ought to pass it seems to us.

We've been niggardly enough in our compensation to teachers.

We ought to give them this definite hope of moderate security in their old age.—El Paso Herald Post.

RADIO MYSTERY

The radio is enjoyed by millions of people who do not understand it, but they need not worry too much about this because there are some things that the experts do not understand either.

The other day for nearly an hour shortwave signals from all parts of the world faded and went "blind". Nobody knows why. The same thing was noticed during an eclipse of the sun some months ago but nobody knows whether sun spots were responsible.

As One-Eyed Connelly said: "hit the ball—when it comes over the plate."

WARNING TO MOTORISTS

A court of appeals in Georgia has handed down a ruling in an automobile injury lawsuit that might well stand as a warning to all motorists. In this case a driver was going along a street near a school. A child darted out from between two parked cars and the driver couldn't stop in time. Suit was filed in behalf of the child and the lower court threw it out, holding that the child's negligence was the cause of the accident. Now the court of appeals has ordered the case reinstated and set for trial. Its decision is that it is up to the motorist to take especial care when driving on a street where there are many children. He knows that children are apt to pop up from nowhere in front of his car; he must take that fact into account, and prepare in advance for such a thing to happen. It's a sound warning for all drivers.

WHY WE ARE FOR ROOSEVELT

(Editorial in all Scripts-Howard Newspapers, Oct. 14, 1936)
We are for Roosevelt for the same reason that we think we would have been for Jefferson or Jackson or Lincoln had we lived in their day. We are convinced that future historians, as the years bring the complete prospective, will record Roosevelt along with those. We believe that in him the times providentially produced the man; that we have lived through an era far more dangerous than any of us fully realized; that our very form of government might have perished had we not been blessed with a leadership equipped with those qualities of courage, wisdom, understanding, human sympathy and daring which must be present if a major crisis is to be survived.

"It is needed only to recall a few of the events—the banking paralysis, the food riot in the cities, the organized defiance of the courts in the agricultural regions, the use of the army against the veterans in the nation's capitol, the hunger and desperation—to picture what might have happened had the ship of state been turned over to a muscle-bound, tradition-minded and near-sighted pilot. Thank God, we didn't get one, but instead one who could keep his head when all about were losing theirs, who could remain calm-eyed while panic reigned, who could sense the full size of the peril and take such chances as were necessary to the rescue.

"We have criticized him much and will much more, but we are trying to deal with the "net", the batting average. And that is higher, in our opinion, than that of any public figure of our time. We are a bit fed up with the hate Roosevelt chorus that has been sung in recent months by the very supermen that Roosevelt saved. But we do not rest our case on emotions. Rather, we want to put in words why we think it was possible only for a man of Roosevelt's vision to lead us out' and then why we believe it would be a stupendous blunder to defeat him for re-election in the middle of a recovery he is so certainly accomplishing.

"Roosevelt's tribute to the forgotten man was more than friendly political gesture * * * it expressed a philosophy both of government and of economic. It represented a realization that our society had become lopsided—that powerful and organized interests which had been able to have their way with the Government were actually endangering it. * * * Roosevelt had the vision to see that capacity to produce had outrun capacity to consume and that the answer must be found in creating a balance. That could only mean that would shift the emphasis and the attention of government to the man who hitherto had been forgotten. To do this, Roosevelt realized, the Government must be taken over in behalf of all the people. * * *

"So he made the switch—and much of the bitterness in high places against him comes from those who once were at the elbows of those who ruled. That old order became aroused when it finally realized that Roosevelt "meant it" and that explains the heat of the 1936 campaign, the trump-up alarm about communism, regimentation and all that—the protests of those who had set near the driver's seat and now are there no more. And yet' threading through * * * is the purpose of making life more livable for the many and at the same time more secure for those who already are well-to-do.

"Underneath all that has been a philosophy that our democracy, if it is to survive, cannot be rigid; that our government is a living organism; that it must change to meet the times; to go back would mean a recurrence of what did happen, multiplied—an eventual shock too great for the nation to stand.

"Translate that philosophy in terms of the recovery, we are now enjoying and the great confidence the rank and file of us have in our future and you have our explanation of why we believe the Roosevelt Administration has been the most effective, the most farsighted and the most humanitarian since Lincoln saved the Union. And what we have said of the domestic policies we project also into the foreign field, to encompass why we consider the 'good neighbor' in a troubled world the blood brother of the forgotten man at home. We are moving ahead. But there's a long way to go. It's no time to change leaders."
