An Experience

Yesterday a friend who had heard that I sometimes suffered insomnia told me of a sure cure. "Eat a pint of peanut a.r.d then drink two or three glasses of milk before going to bed, and I'll warrant you'll be asleep in half an hour." I did as he suggested; and now for the benefit of others who may be affected with insomnia I feel it to be my duty to report what happened, so far as I am able this morning to recall the details. First let me say my friend was right I did go to sleep soon after my retirement. Then a friend with his head under his arm came along and wanted to sell me his feet, I was negotiating with him when the dragoon on which I was riding slipped out of his skin and left me floating in midair. While I was considering how to get down a bull with two heads pered over the wall and said he would haul me down if I would just climb out and rig a windlass for him. So while I was sliding down the mountain side the brakeman came in and I asked him when the train would reach my station. "We passed your station 400 years ago," he said, calmly folding the train up and putting it into his vest pocket. At this juncture the clown bounded into the ring and pulled the center pole, out of the ground, lifting the tent and all the people in it up, up, up, up, while I stood on the earth below watching myself go out of sight amount the clouds above. Then I awoke and found I had slept almost ten minutes.—Uncle Bi.

A Wyandotte hen is credited with having laid 252 eggs in one year. At the average market price that number of fresh eggs were worth at least $25, and a hundred such hens would be equal to a moderate fortune. Some how the unassuming American hen who contribute so largely to the wealth of the nation does not seem to always receive the respect and appreciation that are properly coming to her.—Big Springs Herald.

An exchange says: "A lawyer charges a man ten dollars for ten minutes' conversation—the man insists on paying it. A doctor charges one dollar for a prescription and the patient says, "Oh, pshaw, is that enough?" An undertaker charges a hundred dollars for conducting a funeral and he is just perfectly lovely with everybody inside and outside the family. A man buys a gold brick and apologizes for not having bitten before. An editor walks a mile in the hot sun to get the facts of a death or wedding or social function and spends 3 hours writing it up and tells lies and praises people until he hates himself. Then if he makes an insignificant omission or error or charges five cents straight for three extra copies he is a stingy, careless good for nothing old cuss who never gets anything right and charges four times the price of city papers twice as large. In short he is a confounded most any old thing and ought to be run out of town. Talk about the ice man, how would you like to run a newspaper.

Every newspaper that has come to our desk this week is booming the peanut crop. We suppose the "fresh roasted peanuts" stands are about to run out of goobers.

We have had several complaints from our subscribers who get their mail at Gomez, who claim they call and ask especially for their paper, and are told there is none for them, or sometimes give them out as far as four weeks back.

We would certainly appreciate it if that post master would watch after this, and attend to it, which would save us some sever tongue lashings about negligence in mailing papers out.

One man in particular, it seems as if he can't get a paper, and never fails to let us here from him when he doesn't. We know the papers leave our office in a sealed bundle marked "Gomez."

Took his Bride's Surname.

Dr. Anna Copelan was married to Mr. Abraham Erott Copelan formerly Mr. Abraham Erott in the parsonage of Rev. Dr. H. W. Schneeberger the other day after a peculiar romance, says the Baltimore Sun. Instead of the bride changing her name, it was vice versa, the man changing his name. Dr. Copelan was graduated from the Maryland University four years ago, and in the meantime has built up a practice in her neighborhood. Not wishing to lose any of her practice by changing her name when she married Mr. Erott, who is a student in the dental department of the Maryland university, they decided that the best thing to do was to have the court change his last name to Copelan.—Ex.

Civilized Woman

See the woman!!

She has step-ladder, corkscrew heels on her shoes and has squeezed her foot into a pair several sizes to small, and she looks as if she was going to fall forward and be deformed some more. She is having a continuous struggle with her feet.

She has a corset which binds her upper part and has compressed her waist so that it looks like the small end of a funnell, and she can hardly breath, and her internal anatomy has shifted quarters, and there are several jobs ahead for the family doctor. And she doesn't know why she feels "poorly" most of the time. She is pinned, tied, laced and braced.

She uses cosmetics, hair dyes, paints, powders, belladonna to brighten her eyes and all manner of false and uncomfortable things are on and about her from her head down.

She has rings on her fingers, bangels on her wrists, a chain about her neck, many trinkets on her breast, and her blood has to struggle for circulation.

She has birds and gay colored plumes and feathers on her hat, and she wearth many colors.

Is the woman a savage?

No—she is the flower of civilization.—Ex.

Has Wonderful Gown.

It is probable that no woman in the wide world possesses so many fearfully and wonderfully made gowns as Princess Tschinsky. It is her boast that she never pays less than $1,000 for any costume. Recently she had a remarkable gown made in Paris, on which her family coat-of-arms was reproduced in jewels on a white satin gown. All the stones had to be pierced, but, tho their value was thereby deteriorated, the costume as it was returned from the modiste's represented a value of at least $75,000.—Ex.

MYSTERIOUS STRANGER

John J. Terrell, General Land Office Commissioner Here.

It was rumored around to-day that Hon. John J. Terrell, the Land Commissioner, or his agent was prospecting in the west part of this county, and a number of people scuttled to their bonuses, like a prairie dog town when a badger appears. There was considerable preparation and rustling around to greet his coming, and not like those accorded Roosevelt, Bryan, Bailey or Gov Campbell either. A conspicuous dullness marks our towns, while the rural districts are well settled this week. We expect considerable improvements and building right away in our country. We hope no harm will result from his trip, and that he will like our country and decide to settle here.

As we go to press we do not learn for certain of the truth of the report, but it would be well for the bonus man to look a little out as the said Visitor takes periodical spells occasionally concerning various localities in west Texas. However most of our citizens have fully complied with the law of the purchase of School land, and little uneasiness need be felt.

Mutual Obligation.

Gibbs—Ha! old fellow, how are you? Just heard that you had gone into the newspaper business.

Dibbs—Yes. Just bought a country paper.

Gibbs—That so? Why you can give me an occasional puff, then.

Dibbs—Certainly. What are you busy with now?

Gibbs—I am in the clothing business—ready made clothing.

Dibbs—Ha! Then you can give me an occasional suit of clothes.

Gibbs—Well, dunno about that. It costs money to manufacture clothing, you know.

Dibbs—That's true; and it costs nothing to manufacture newspapers!

Then they parted.—Ex.

Geronimo Penitent.

The famous and once cruel Apache chief, Geronimo, has become a sort of missionary in his old age, and says he has a message to all Indians from the Great Spirit Father in the Clouds. He is now addressing great gatherings or "pow-wows" of Indians. In captivity he learned to speak good English, and now says:

"My mission is to lead my people safely across the broad field of peace to eternal happiness. I am no longer an Apache warrior who killed and scalped white men merely for pleasure, but an old man, full of sorrow and regrets."

Female Weakness

"Last Fall," writes Mrs. S. G. Bailey, of Tunnelton, W. Va., "I was going down by inches, from female disease, with great pain. After taking Cardui, Oh! My! How I was benefited! I am not well yet, but am so much better that I will keep on taking Wine of Cardui till I am perfectly cured."

Despite the envious attacks of jealous enemies and rivals, Cardui still holds supreme position today [as in the past 70 years] for the relief and cure of female diseases. It stops pain, tones up the organs, regulates the functions, and aids in the replacement of a misplaced organ.
