"We have had a lot of inquiries from law enforcement agencies who have found bodies," he commented.

Great Plains Foods Explains Program

On August 28, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal carried a front page news story concerning Great Plains Foods, Inc. headquartered in Muleshoe.

According to the story, Great Plains Foods had cancelled all of the growers contracts for this year.

Andy Durco, president of Great Plains Foods Inc. said the Company wishes to make the following statement:

"In the opinion of Great Plains Foods the facts in the article appearing on August 28, 1986 need clarification. Upon reviewing the transaction which was entered into by Mack Hodges, it is apparent that Mr. Hodges may have acted without fully understanding our new purchasing program.

"Our purchasing program is structured upon paying to the grower a percentage of the selling price to our ultimate customer. At our current selling price Mr. Hodges would have earned 4.75/cwt for his crop, assuming the price stays flat and it takes 12 months to distribute the crop. He would have collected $3.43 of that amount upon delivery of his corn at harvest by placing it into the loan. Additionally, he would have collected the difference between $3.43 and $3.76 after the first 90 days of delivery. Over the last 9 months of the year, he would have collected the difference between $3.76 and $4.75.

"This is an increase of 95 cents per hundredweight over the price that is represented that he took in today's cash market. This 25% improvement over today's price is exactly the impact of the program which we are hoping to be able to communicate to the growers. Our offer is one which will give them the ability to be able to share in a greater percentage of the ultimate market price than is currently available in the cash market.

"Under our new program our selling prices would have to decline from today's level by over 20% to impact the payment sufficiently to match the current cash market price. Company management feels the

Doctors File Two Lawsuits On Friday

Shortly before 10 a.m. Friday morning, two lawsuits were filed in the office of District Court Clerk Nelda Merriott in the Bailey County courthouse.

Filed at 9:40 a.m. was a suit entitled "Jack McCarty, D.O. vs. Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc." and the second suit, filed was entitled "Homer Allgood, M.D. vs. Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc.", and was filed at 9:50 a.m.

Each of the lawsuits is a result of actions taken this month, when Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc., lessees of West Plains Medical Center, terminated contracts made with the two doctors, as well as the contract of Enrique Muyschondt, M.D. and surgeon at the hospital.

The lawsuits allege that Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc. has 'breached the contracts' of the doctors involved, and asks for reparations, as well as injunctions to allow them to continue to operate their offices at West Plains Medical Center while waiting for the suits to be heard in court.

Termed "Rental and Management Agreement" the contracts guaranteed the doctors a set yearly sum, to each, as well as various 'fringe benefits,' such as office space, personnel for the offices, billing and collections, insurance, car allowances, and other benefits.

The doctors allege 'excessive charges instituted by Westworld Community Healthcare, Inc. for use of the hospital' as being the major factor for the lack of hospital patients, and loss of patients for the doctors involved.

As litigation has been filed, none of the doctors involved, or Westworld officials deemed to proper to make comments at this time.

Texans Lead Nation In Safety Belt Use

Texans, who were buckling up at the rate of 10 percent to 15 percent before the safety belt law, have earned the national spotlight by buckling up in record numbers and staying buckled up since the new law went into effect last September, according to George R. Gustafson, Texas Safety Association president and spokesperson for the Texas Coalition for Safety Belts.

Observations in 14 Texas cities show that 66 percent of drivers of passenger cars and light pickup trucks are buckling up," he said.

"So far we are avoiding the national tendency of usage rates falling after the first initial public awareness of a new safety belt law," he said. Twenty-six states, plus the District of Columbia, have enacted safety belt mandatory use laws.

Dallas and Houston had the highest safety belt usage rates of drivers in 19 cities across the nation observed in a study by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) January through June, 1986.

In Bailey County, local and area residents have found it to be rather costly to not 'buckle up.' Muleshoe City Judge Linda Huckaby said she has received approximately 50 violations in her office since the law went into effect, and tickets started being issued on Dec. 1, 1985.

She said the law provides for a minimum fine of $25, plus court costs of $10. However, the violator can be fined up to

Also, youngsters who plan to have breakfast at one of the school cafeterias are asked to please be at the cafeteria at their school no later than 8 a.m. This is to insure that the

Job Stress Affects Millions Of Workers

Seven o'clock in the evening. The boss is still waiting for an overdue report. The stack of work on the desk grows taller. The phone doesn't stop ringing. The headache throbs.

Does this sound familiar? Workers who experience this kind of day too often are candidates for job stress and are in the running for job burnout, said William Myerson, Ph.D., a psychologist with Baylor College of Medicine and The Methodist Hospital's Institute for Preventive Medicine in Houston.

Today's average office working environment, with long hours of sedentary work, puts an emotional strain on people accustomed to activity. The unstable economy and high unemployment in states such as Texas can also lead to increased job stress.

"One thing we see constantly when we go into corporations is people not doing a lick of physical labor, but they are absolutely drained at the end of the day," Myerson said. "We see that they are drained not from physical effort, but from the stress of it all."

Factors that contribute to stress include demanding job tasks, a continual need for immediate decisions and a lack of control over time and tasks on the job.

There are ways to cope with job stress, short of quitting your job, by keeping physically fit and exerting more control over time and tasks, Myerson said.

Signs of excess stress on the job include a lack of ability to concentrate, a loss of interest in work, an absence of job satisfaction for months on end, or a mild sort of depression or continuing disappointment about work.

Physical signs of job stress include ulcers, nervous stomach, high blood pressure and migraine headaches.

"One of the signs is a feeling at the end of the day like your brain is dead," Myerson said. "Somehow, you just can't think, and you can't imagine doing anything but going home to watch television and have a drink or a beer. Ideally, you should leave work feeling good about yourself, and feel that something good has been accomplished."

It is important to recognize stress and deal with it before it becomes job burnout, a more psychologically and emotionally troubling problem, Myerson said.

"One of the things you can do is focus some of your energies elsewhere and put more emphasis temporarily on another part of your life, like your family, favorite sport or hobby," he said. "It is also helpful to take more control over how your day runs. For example, try to schedule lunch away from your desk occasionally, decide when to take breaks and figure out your priorities and schedule for the day."

Keeping physically healthy will also ward off stress or at least reduce its damage. Myerson recommends regular exercise, healthy eating habits and cutting back on caffeine and alcohol.

When job stress is leading to job burnout, he suggests testing the job market.

"A job is not a marriage," Myerson said. "You're not getting a divorce if you look around for another job. It's all right to keep your option open by inquiring about other jobs and other opportunities."

He said getting additional information on the job market can lead to renewed job satisfaction with a current position or a decision to change jobs or even careers.

"The bottom line in avoiding job stress is to make work as enjoyable as possible," Myerson said. "But realize that every day is not going to be great, and don't let it get you down."

Vaccinations Still Needed For Good Disease Control

Immunizations save U.S. citizens an estimated billion dollars a year in health care costs - more than any other preventive health care practice.

These savings illustrate the remarkable effectiveness and good sense of immunizations, according to Dr. Robert Bernstein, Texas Commissioner of Health. "The widespread use of vaccines in the U.S. has had a tremendous impact on disease prevention. We have seen the number of diphtheria cases reduced from 206,939 cases in 1921 to no cases in 1985, (and polio cases have decreased from 21,269 cases in 1952 to none in 1985," Dr. Bernstein said).

He added that our past success in controlling these diseases does not mean that immunizations are unnecessary. "Quite the contrary, if children are not immunized, we risk new epidemics of infectious disease," he said.

In Texas, 1,211 cases of vaccine-preventable disease were reported in 1985. These included: 450 cases of measles, 321 cases of mumps, 52 cases of rubella, 379 cases of pertussis, and nine cases of tetanus.

To help prevent cases of vaccine-preventable disease, Dr. Bernstein advised parents to check family immunization records to be sure they are complete and up-to-date. "Parents whose children are not immunized should call a doctor or local health department to make arrangements to receive the vaccinations," he said.

In Texas, state law requires immunizations for polio, tetanus, measles, rubella, mumps, and diphtheria before children may register in public schools. In addition, the Texas Department of Health and American Academy of Pediatrics recommend pertussis shots for children beginning at two month of age.

MRS. KEVIN BRADLEY SATTERWHITE
(nee Abbye Kaye Kennedy)

Kennedy, Satterwhite Exchange Vows In Lubbock

In an afternoon ceremony at the Ford Memorial Chapel in Lubbock, on Saturday, August 30, Abbye Kaye Kennedy, daughter of Clinton and Gerry Kennedy of Plainview and formerly of Muleshoe, exchanged wedding vows with Kevin Bradley Satterwhite, son of Brad and Barbara Satterwhite, Lubbock.

John Ballard, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lubbock, performed the 2:30 double ring ceremony before an altar enhanced by brass candelabras, all adorned with fresh greenery and white bows. Included in the decorations was a brass unity candle with white bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown designed by San Martin Bridals. The bodice was of satin and Venice lace, embellished with pearls and sequins, outlining a sweetheart neckline. Puffed sleeves featured rows of crystalline ruffles. The natural waistline comes to a point in front and has a satin bow in the back. Her fully gathered skirt is of crystalline organza over satin, appliqued with Italian Milano lace. Her skirt bottom had rows of crystalline ruffles forming a cascading train that fell to cathedral length.

The bride wore a wide brim lace hat, enhanced with crystalline ruffles and pearls and carried two catalpa orchids, surrounded by white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, plumosa, fresh greenery and white ribbons.

Wedding selections were 'Annie's Song,' by John Denver, 'Till I Loved You,' by Restless Heart and 'The Wedding Song.' Soloist was Cristal Taylor, of Lubbock.

Maid of Honor was Shannon Kennedy, sister of the bride, from Lubbock; and bridesmaid was Mrs. Kurt Nelson, also of Lubbock.

They were attired in dusty rose tea length taffeta, with the bodice dipping to a point in the back, and sleeves with fluted ruffles. A candy box bow offset the back. They carried nosegays with alstromeria lillies, white button poms, baby's breath, accented with dusty rose and blue ribbons.

Flower girls were Stacy McClanahan, niece of the groom, from Lubbock; and Kelli Dunn, cousin of the bride, from Bledsoe.

Stacy's dress was identical to the bridesmaids and Kelli wore a white lace with puff sleeves, and featured two rows of lace ruffles on the skirt. Both flower girls carried baskets with silk petals.

Serving as best man was Brad Satterwhite, father of the groom, of Lubbock and groomsmen were Kurt Russell, Lubbock. Ushers were Richard Cunningham, brother-in-law of the groom, of Lubbock and Troy Lewis, also of Lubbock.

Ringbearer was Stephan Williams, Morton, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a mauve crepe floor length dress and the groom's mother was attired in a lace, tunic street length dress in turquoise. Both mothers wore corsages of white roses with ivory trim.

A reception followed the wedding at Ford Memorial Chapel in the parlor. Members of the reception house party included Sanae Rucker, Kim Dill, both of Lubbock; Melinda Gandy, Michelle Dunn, both of Bledsoe and Lori Cunningham, also of Lubbock.

The bride's table was accented with a large silver candelabra, adorned with dusty pink carnations, pink snapdragons, alstromeria lillies and baby's breath.

Highlighting the groom's table was a brass candelabra. It was accented with white snapdragons, spider mums and carnations.

For a wedding trip to Acapulco, Mexico, the bride chose a silk dress in royal blue, with beige accessories.

A graduate of Muleshoe High School, the bride, also attended American Commercial College in Lubbock and is employed by First Federal Savings Bank, Lubbock.

The groom is a graduate of Frenship High School, and is employed as assistant store manager of United Supermarket, Lubbock.

Out of town wedding guests were registered from Bledsoe, Morton, Levelland, San Antonio and Amarillo.

A rehearsal dinner was held at Jeremiah's Restaurant, Lubbock, on Friday, August 29.

Candace Warren, Tarter Wed In Candlelight Rites

Candace Myrl Warren, of Midland and Joe Daniel Tarter of Bryan, exchanged wedding vows before an altar in a candlelight ceremony at 6 p.m. on Saturday, August 23, in the Golf Course Road Church of Christ in Midland. Performing the double ring ceremony was Andy Rogers, of Antlers, Okla.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Warren of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tarter of Lazbudie.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride was escorted to the altar and stood before two gold spiral candelabras intertwined with white gladiolas, daisies, and greenery; in the back center, a gold stand held two white tapers with a white unity candle in the center decorated with white daisies and greenery, and large bows adorned the two front pews.

Special music selections were presented by the Golf Course Road Church of Christ choir, and musical selections included "Truly," "To Me," "The Wedding Song," and "The Wedding March."

The bride was attired in a white satin gown with fitted bodice, inlaid with sequins and pearls down the bodice and front of the skirt; the full, floor length skirt tapered into a chapel length train trimmed in ten rows of lace forming a heart; sheer neckline originated at the top of the shoulders; and puffy, satin sleeves trimmed in lace were fitted with lace sleeves from elbow to hands. An oval headpiece encircled with pearls had a back attached veil with soft gathers that fell softly to the waist. Her bouquet consisted of white roses and pink rubrum lilies, interspersed with baby's breath and various types of greenery.

For something old, the bride wore the wedding ring that belonged to the groom's great-grandmother; something new was her dress and veil; a slip was something borrowed and she wore the traditional blue garter.

Maid of honor was Susan Stone of Lubbock and bridesmaids were Clare Wynne of College Station and Vandi Tarter of Lazbudie, sister of the groom.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore stain with fitted bodice, with low heart-shaped neckline and short, puffy sleeves with a fabric-made rose on each sleeve; half the bodice was rose and half burgundy, with soft gathers diagonal across the bodice with a large burgundy bow resting on the left hip, flowing into a full, floor length skirt of rose-colored satin.

They carried bouquets of rose-colored carnations and tiger lilies with baby's breath and various types of greenery.

Flower girl was Tasha Reynolds of Midland and ring bearer was Tyson Kerby of Bovina, cousin of the groom.

The flower girl wore a white taffeta dress with fitted bodice and short, puffy sleeves, floor length, and a full skirt was enhanced by a large burgundy bow that tied in back and the sash fell to the floor. Her bouquet was of white carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

The bride's mother wore a long, soft knit, of deep rose with long sleeves, a draping bodice with a square neck. The mother of the groom wore a mauve chiffon, with fitted bodice, and lace jacket with long sleeves. The full skirt of chiffon featured a tea-length front, draping and a floor length back. Both mothers wore corsages of rose-colored baby roses, baby's breath and greenery.

Coming down the aisle, the bride presented her mother a long stem red rose, and following the ceremony, on leaving the altar, the bride presented the groom's mother a long stem red rose.

Kevin Hallmark of Bryan was best man. Groomsmen were Alan Lee of Houston and Kenny McCaslin of Angleton. Ushers were Rickie Dale of Lazbudie and Al Kerby Jr. of Bovina, uncle of the groom.

Tina Lopez, Lee Ann Maddocks and Wendi Robertson served white bridal cake from the bride's table, along with pink punch, nuts and mints. The table was covered with a white cloth draped with pink ribbon. The centerpiece was white daisies, white carnations, baby's breath and greenery. The cake was three tiers, with columns separating the layers. The columns were decorated with swans around the bottom. Each layer was adorned with pink loops of icing and the cake was topped with traditional bride and groom.

Serving at the groom's table during the reception at the Golf Course Road Church of Christ were Kay Culbertson and Carolyn Duke. Sharon Coles registered guests.

The groom's table was covered with a white cloth. A chocolate cake in the shape of a double horse shoe was covered with chocolate icing, draped with burgundy roses of icing. One horse shoe had the names of the bride and groom, the other was inscribed with the wedding date. Coffee and nuts were also served.

Jason Kerby, cousin of the groom, passed out rice bags. After August 26, the couple was at home in Bryan.

For traveling, the bride chose an outfit of wranglers and a royal blue cashmere sweater.

The bride graduated from Lee High School in Midland, Midland Junior College, and is presently attending Texas A&M University. He is currently employed by Granada Land and Cattle Company.

Out of town guests included Myrl McKee, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Al Kerby, Bovina; Mr. and Mrs. Al Kerby, Jr., Jason and Tyson, all of Bovina; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Tarter and Carrie, Weatherford and Mr. and Mrs. James Elder, Muleshoe.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Zentner's Steakhouse in Midland.

Creative Living

Two interesting topics will be presented on "Creative Living" on Tuesday, Sept. 6 at 2 pm. (All times are mountain.) Cake decorating can be both a pleasure and a challenge. Zella Junkin is Manger of Consumer Affairs with Wilton Enterprises in Woodridge, IL. She suggests that anyone interested in learning to do cake decorating, should first concentrate on some of the basic techniques, such as making stars, zig-zags, writing and outlining. She will demonstrate these basics for us and also show some special new pans that will add more interest to your cake production.

Another guest, Lauren Ryan, brings good news for home gardeners and produce enthusiasts who enjoy freezing fresh vegetables for year-round enjoyment. Recent tests prove that you can blanch some fresh vegetables in your microwave, using a special plastic zip-top bag. Enzymes in vegetables such as corn, green beans, cauliflower and broccoli and killed when the vegetables are blanched in the microwave. That means much less work than the old-fashioned method of blanching -- just you, your microwave and the bag for freezing. What an improvement! Lauren represents Dow Summer Products in Indianapolis, IN.

On Tuesday, Sept. 2 at 9:30 pm, Gayle Shockey, a consulting nutritionist for Heart Keeper will share recipes and tips for eating better health. Gayle is from Fallbrook, CA.

Holidays -- They're in the bag They're in the bag, according to paper bag. Butch is from New York.

On Thursday, September 4 at 12 noon the topics will include fuss-free dieting, new developments in eye care and celtic quilting.

Special diets are not new, but keeping on the right food track can become a hassle when you're the only one eating differently. An easy answer is to plan ahead and develop a system. In an afternoon you can turn your freezer into a buffet of microwaveable meals that are delicious and "safe". Lauren Ryan will talk about the virtues of meal preparation and demonstrate two low-calorie recipes.

Americans spend more than eight billion dollars a year on eye care and eyewear. Consumers recognize the value of good vision, but are concerned about keeping the cost within their budget. Dr. Johnnie Barnes, an optometrist in Portales, will talk about good eye care and what it cost.

Virginia Walton, an instructor for the The Quilt Works in Albuquerque, will demonstrate how to do celtic quilting. She explains that it comes from an adaptation of the ancient Irish scroll work mostly seen in old manuscripts and church decorations.

likelihood of this kind of depressed market condition for the selling price is unlikely.

"The reason for the change in our purchasing program with farmers has been necessitated because of the current market conditions. We do not think the Company has to dwell on the fact that the agriculture industry as a whole is in depressed times, and programs that have survived for many, many years are not responsive to the needs of either growers or processors in today's market. Therefore, we developed this program to give the grower the opportunity to participate, not just as the supplier to the processor, but actually take advantage of some of the market price fluctuations that we can experience, both up and down.

"Hopefully this will give the grower a better average price for his product than is currently available in a cash market status. We feel that the majority of the growers, when they understand this program will be happy to participate, because of the potential upside that this gives them in payment for their crop.

"As a result of numerous conferences with area leaders, we are hopeful that the majority of the growers would be allowed by their lenders to participate, recognizing that some growers are presently not in a financial position to take the market risk that is inherent in the Company's new program.

"It is our opinion that all growers who participate in this program will be rewarded with a mutually beneficial long term relationship with the Company," concluded Durco.

which were not in the national survey, some even higher than Dallas and Houston. Corpus Christi was the highest with 77 percent and Austin was next with 75 percent.

Observations for the TTI study were done in the same time frame as the NHTSA work, January through June, 1986. Penalties under the Texas law began December 1, 1985.

The TTI study also showed that equal proportions of drivers in passenger cars and light pickup trucks were wearing safety belts. Before the law, usage in pickup trucks was lower than usage in passenger cars, according to the TTI work.

The TTI study showed an overall usage rate in the 14 cities of 66 percent for drivers, 56 percent for front seat passengers, and 65 percent for the combines driver/passenger category (42,000 drivers observed.)

Driver usage in the 14 cities were Amarillo, 65 percent; Austin, 75 percent; Beaumont, 60 percent; Brownsville, 63 percent; Bryan/College Station, 70 percent; Corpus Christi, 77 percent; Dallas, 71 percent; Fort Worth, 63 percent; El Paso, 64 percent; Houston 69 percent; Lubbock, 63 percent; San Antonio, 60 percent; Tyler, 67 percent and Waco, 57 percent.

"We in the Texas coalition believe that the positive and vigorous enforcement carried out by our local, county, and state law enforcement officials accounts for a lot of the Texas success story," Gustafson said.

"The work of private and public sector groups doing local and state wide safety belt awareness programs is also a crucial contributing factor to these good statistics," he added.

"Of course, the most important benefit of these high usage rates is the decrease in fatalities in seating positions covered by the law. Department of Public Safety data show that front seat fatalities in passenger cars and light trucks fell about 13 percent during the first nine months under the new mandatory safety belt law in Texas," Gustafson said.

In Texas, there were 217 fewer deaths in September, 1985, through May, 1986 (1,407) compared to September, 1984, through May, 1985 (1,624), relative to those positions covered by the law (Department of Public Safety, 1985 final data and 1986 preliminary data).

"The only way to make that good news better is for more and more people to buckle up," Gustafson concluded.

Ranch Profitability Carries Many Options

To regain profitability, beef cattle producers of Texas must be the low-cost producer of a commodity or produce a superior product for which they will receive a premium, a key leadoff speaker said here Monday (Aug. 18) during the International Ranchers Round-up.

Dr. Gary C. Smith, a meats researcher and head of Texas A&M University's Animal Science Department, said that agriculture in general—and beef production in particular—must have a total action-agenda to survive and hopefully prosper in the future.

"Longterm, the future of beef cattle ranching as a viable enterprise lies in our ability to develop integrated beef management systems that combine current biological knowledge with economic models to allow for simultaneous consideration of all the ramifications of each decision before that decision is made," Smith told several hundred ranchers taking part in the educational conference.

Keying on the conference theme of resource management for ranching success, Smith said that "cattlemen must lower production costs and increase consumer demand for beef if we are to have a future at all."

He pointed out that beef production in Texas in 1985 was not profitable with the various segments—cow/calf operators, stocker cattle and slaughter cattle enterprises—either losing money or barely breaking even.

While high interest rates presently are impeding attempts to reduce production costs, yet improved management of the order of 10 percent changes in certain key factors collectively can increase net profit in the cow/calf, stocker cattle and slaughter cattle segments of the industry by $103, $101 and $136 per head, respectively, Smith said.

Potentially capable of bringing about substantial increases in profitability for producers are such practices as enhancement of the product quality largely through genetic change, joint utilization of land resources through management of wildlife and sale of hunting privileges, use of biotechnology and improvement in the demand of the end product—beef, Smith noted.

The animal scientist emphasized that attempts to increase efficiency of beef production or adoption of recommendations for applying new technology would pale in the comparison to the effects on beef production profitability that would accompany a dramatic up-turn in consumer desire for the product.

"Surely, for the still-most-popular food product in the world, producers will find the way to accomplish this goal. But we must get off the defensive and get on the way to accomplish this goal. But we must get off the defensive and get on the aggressive offensive," Smith said.

The conference, arranged by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, has attracted cattlemen from a number of states as well as New Zealand.

The prayers of an old man are the only contributions left in his power.

-Thomas Jefferson.

Down on the FARM

WATCH

UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe . . . and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line.

Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

EATING OUT

By Rose Hughes

A recent query at a "MacDonald's" hamburger outlet revealed that: One can have the cheese left out of a Big Mac. But he still pays for the cheese.

AT this outlet, also, one asked for a Quarter Pounder without cheese. The saving was seven cents. Is there anywhere in the country where one can get cheese added to a hamburger for 7 cents?

THE point is that things are so arranged that some who don't want a cheeseburger pay for cheese anyhow.

AT a "Kentucky Fried" outlet recently, a 15-piece box of chicken contained seven wings and drumsticks. That's probably about par. What this means is that the customer is paying almost $12 (including tax) for 15 pieces of chicken.

GOOD as it is, this is too expensive, for chicken. One is paying for carry-out chicken 80 cents per piece. And half those pieces are wings and drumsticks.

ALSO, recently, a strawberry shake at a "Burger King" outlet was, we thought, poor.

PRICES are better at "Dairy Queen" and a hamburger there recently--custom made--was good.

AS yet, however, few outlets have posted notices saying what is in their beef. Quite a lot of controversy has arisen over meat content in the last sixty days.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

One of the signs to watch in following the price of stocks is volume on the New York exchange.

It was very high in the first quarter of the year and the average was still about 147,000,000 shares traded daily in the month of April.

Volume has decreased steadily since and so has the market. In May average volume was 128 million (average) and in June the volume dropped to 126,000,000.

Considering that in March volume averaged 161 million, that's a sizeable percentage drop. When so many fewer are trading there are, obviously, fewer buyers and that puts pressure on prices.

This trend, by the way, is what has depressed brokerage house stocks. Lower earnings by most of the big houses in the second quarter were a factor.

The individual investor might keep an eye on volume. If it regains the daily average level of the first quarter, price would very likely resume their rise.

Arts Dollars

While economizing on some things, Congress is increasing the millions given to the National Endowment of the Arts.

The House recently voted to give this agency $165 million to spread around the country, mostly to urban theater and other "art" groups. This is $20 million more than the Reagan Administration requested.

This would be, perhaps, acceptable if the nation was running a surplus and the government operating in the black. But any return is purely a hope--that this outlay will somehow help the citizenry.

The truth is that it's a sort of welfare for urban "arts" organizations, the product from which is often not art but entertainment, of which we have an overabundance in the U.S.

Hard work never hurts anyone, so we're told, but if this is true, then it must scare some people to death.
