TERRY COUNTY

The Banner Corn County of the Plains

Terry County is thirty miles square, situated in the heart of the Great South Plains, of Texas, bounded on the North, by Hockley County, on the West, by Yoakum on the South, by Gaines, and the East, by Lynn.

It is 90 miles S. W. of Plainview, 90 miles N. W. of Big Springs, on the T. & P. Ry. 28 miles due West, of Tahoka, the nearest R. R. point.

Terry County, was organized June the 23, 1904. It was named after Col. Terry, the noted Texas Ranger.

Brownfield, the County Seat, was named after one of the leading citizens of the county.

The county has a population of 2,000 people; Brownfield proper, has 500 people.

The County has good free schools, there being twelve public schools in the county, employing sixteen teachers; the school fund is sufficient to afford first class schools, with long terms, amounting to more than $15.00 per pupil.

There are 450 school children. A school in reach of every community, which average seven months free school.

We have good churches, and all denominations are well cared for.

Though we have been handicapped by the lack of rail-roads the county is settling up with a thrifty, law-biding people, mostly farmers from the East, and Central Texas, Oklahoma, and the older states.

There is projected through the county four roads, being the Colorado, Hereford & Gulf, north and south, The Texas Central, east and west, The Quanah, Acme & Pacific, north-east and south-west to El Paso, also the Santa Fe, is making preparations to survey from Tahoka, west to Bronco, or, Roswell, N. M. leaving the Lubbock-Lamesa line either at Sladen, near Lubbock or branching off from Tahoka.

We are sure of one or more of these roads in the near future, we have the country to support rail-roads, and we will get them. We have the inducements to offer both in rich and fertile lands, and we have the bonus ready when we are called upon for it.

The soil is a mixed sandy loam, with one-half of the county mixed hard land, with enough sand to plow well, level and smooth, portions covered with short grass (catclaw and mesquite growth,) and some with sage grass, catclaw and mesquite and some with sage and shiner, while a great deal is a mixture of both. All have a clay foundation, loamy and fertile. The county being level, no running streams, creeks, rivers or mountains, the land catches every drop of the rain-fall, none is wasted.

The grass is splendid for grazing purposes, especially horses, and is one of the best counties for well bred stock on the Plains. Thousands of cattle and sheep are shipped ever year.

Now as to the productiveness of the county, it has never been thoroughly tested, but has for years produced more feed than is needed at home, and has furnished feed to the stock men of adjoining counties.

It has been said by many, and a true saying it is that Terry County, in a few years would be the leading corn and fruit county of the west.

The following crops have produced, and are producing, corn cotton, maize, kaffir corn, alfalfa broom corn and all kinds of sorghum. The fruits are apples, peaches, plums, grapes, cherries, pears and apricots, in fact all kinds of fruits and vegetables do well here.

Corn has produced as much as 50 bushels per acre, and with very little effort on the part of the tiller of the soil, cotton has produced as much as 3-4 of a bale per acre, with less than one half the work that it takes to produce a crop in the east, or Oklahoma.

The same can be said of all other crops. They are planted late but mature about the same time that they do in the Central part of the State.

Alfalfa can and has been successfully grown here, we have a red clay subsoil, and inclined to be porous, which is very retentive of moisture.

Water as fine as there is in the State, at a depth of from 60 to 120 foot and pure, free from alkali, gypsum or salt, and under lie the county in a sheet, even sufficient for irrigation if needed.

The rain fall, is given in the Texas Almanac, at 24.4 and it comes during the months of, May June, July and August, insuring good crops. We don't claim to have heavy rainfall, and we don't need it, we answer that question by showing the products, it makes very little difference how much it rains, but it is important to have products show for themselves, and we have them.

The climate is dry for the most part through the winter and spring, though we usually have sufficient snow to put a good season in the ground and gives the farmers plenty of bottom season to plow and fix their land.

It is cool the year round. The summers are cool especially the nights.

The winters are not severe, true the altitude is high, but the winters are rather mild. The spring (during Feb. and March is generally windy, and very little planting is done before May, when the summer rains commence and continue through the summer insuring fine crops, and we harvest about the same time that Central Texas does.

The late spring, summer and fall are noticeably pleasant, for their cool and fresh air.

The wind at times blow rather hard, and the sandiest of the land will blow where it has been tramped, but this is only the case in places, and does not apply to the entire county, and all that scare about the sand blowing so bad on the Plains, can be layed down and you can come to Plains where people have good health, and are happy and prosperous, and have forgot that they once like you was afraid to come to the Plains, for fear they would get some sand in their eyes, but continued to stay with the black mud.

It never gets muddy though we have some land is sticky, it is never muddy.

Fuel is obtained from the quite stumps and grubs, some these are large and make considerable wood; some use coal-

It will only be a short time until there will be wood, from trees, such as black locusts catalpah, for the people realize that they can be grown so easily have planted thousands of trees and their homes will prove beyond a doubt that this true, for we have as many as 500 trees, such as black locust, catalpah and cotton wood, which grow to perfection here.

The land is easily cultivated. One man can cultivate as much as three men can cultivate in the East, and one year with an acre he will produce more corn than they will on their high priced land.

This assertion is broad, the writer has had experience along this line, and therefore knows it is the truth.

Land prices: Lands adjoining town, range in prices from $15 to $40.00 owing to improvements. Further out prices range from $5.00 to $15.00 per acre over improvements and location.

With a small out-lay of money you can buy a home well improved, and the best of terms, at a low per cent interest.

There was never a better time to invest, if you want a home in the coming County, the one you need, you, and your family, the country.

This county is the best one man; it is owned by one man, and you can get any size from 160 to 1280, or more.

Brownfield, the County Seat, and the largest town in the county, has two dry goods stores, a store, good substantial bank, and sources over $100,000, nice hotels, as good country news paper, any town can boast of, good barn, barber shop, local and long distance telephone, in fact everything that goes to make a good town.

A nice Court House, with park around it all planted in trees. Two nice churches, large room school building having 6 rooms story.

An able body of teachers are employed, and we have one of the best schools on the Plains.

How to get here: We have an auto line running daily to Lubbock, 43 miles N. E. Have daily services from Big Springs, 9 miles S. E. by auto, will have daily services from Tahoka soon 28 miles east.

We invite you to come and see for yourself. We know that we have a good country, and would rather you come and be convinced like-wise.

When the rail-roads buy through this country like they have in the East, we will have homes on every quarter section, and it will support thousands of people. Rail-roads and more people is what we need, and that is what we want, the rail-roads are coming, and it is up to you to secure you a home while lands are still cheap.

Many are coming, and all are satisfied, come to the South Plains Country.—Contributed.

improvement. Each home reader and many foreign ones have taken such an interest in the Herald that they consider it a public property which is right, and rejoice with the editor in any and all advancements looking toward the general good of OUR paper.

We thank one and all for past patronage and encouragement that has made it possible for us to install new type and modern machinery, and we hope to merit a continuation of the same.

Let us all pull together for our noble little town and county in general, that we may open the eyes of the the world to the fact that a parcel the "land of the Nile" lies up on the cap rock in the very heart of the great South Plains country. If we are living easy and enjoying good health and need some more neighbors, it becomes our duty to tell them write them, or advertise the fact through the Herald.

From Citizen.

Hello Mr. Editor:—How are you this morning.

We will come again after a long time. Well the election is over and the drouth is broken, and there will be plenty grain made to fatten all the hogs in the county and then some. The defeated candidates will have plenty time to plow out all the maize and kaffir that their wives and children planted while they were running for office, and make plenty to do them another year. So they have lost nothing only their announcement fee, and you got that; so that is not lost.

The Commissioners Court have been in session this week and have done some splendid road work on paper. They let the contract for the balance of the road East to the Co. line and advertized for bids for the road west from Gomez to the Co. line. Rah! for the Commissioners Court. They propose to do something for roads now. I see that the citizens of old Terry County are wanting the county put back on rabbit scalps again. Several petitions are in for it. Some of the last grand jury signing for same. It seems that anti-rabbit and anti-exeffico doesn't take very well in old Terry county. Well I have been over some parts of the county and see that there will be plenty maize and kaffir corn made. The corn will be cut short, but the farmers will cut and shock it and it will be worth all that it cost. There is a great preparation being made for all the schools in the county; good school houses being built in diferent parts, of the county and the new addition to the school building at Brownfield is a beauty, and the trustees have secured a splendid corps of teachers, and we anticipate having a splendid school this school year.

Sucess to the Herald and may your shadow never grow less.

The Stockman and Farmer Alike is Wearing the Smile that Wont Come Off

For the past several days the Weatherman has been threatening us with a general down pour by sending advance gard showers over most of the county, and Tuesday afternoon his great black army began to assemble to the West and North in no uncertain numbers. The forked streak of lightning and the heavy artillery of the heavens combined to make the scene more foreboding.

The cloud in the west and the one in the north finally united and slowly came over. It began a steady downpour about five o'clock Wednesday afternoon and rained continuously throughout the night, and till seven o'clock Thursday morning. By use of the telephone and of people coming in from different communities, we learn that the rain was general over Terry, Hockley and Cookum counties. A man would have to have the gout awful bad combined with pellegera and hook worm not to smile after this glorious rain.

While old corn is gone in most places, kaffir and sorgum will make the usual heavy yield, and grass oh! my. Come to Terry. Come to Terry.

GOOD MEETING

About twenty miles south of Tahoka, Texas, in the corner of Dawson County, is a Baptist church which was organized more than a year ago, namely Plainview church. They have never had any pastor but there was a meeting conducted there last week by Rev. Ashton, of Haskell, Texas.

The results were as follows: Twenty four additions by letter and statement and ten by Baptism. We are glad to note the power of this good man in his first meeting on the Plains. Pray that he may have like results in other places. He is now out working in the field and no doubt is in another meeting by this time. We like this quality in a preacher; to see him get busy where there is so much destitution. My predictions are that this man's soul will be made happy, and we hope that he will get his part of the pay for his services.

Yours truly,

A. L. Estes, Missionary.

The Christian Meeting.

One of the most successful meetings held at Brownfield in some time, so far as additions are concerned, was brought to a close Monday night.

Elder German of Lockney did the preaching and Carroll Phillips, of Gomez, led the song service. Elder German is a nice quiet, but forceful speaker that has a great reverence for the Holy Book, failing not to declare the whole council, but at the same time respects the feelings of those who differ from him religiously.

There were five baptisms and one took membership. The Church was greatly strengthened here, and we look forward to a church building in the near future.

Terry County Street

While in Lubbock last week we came to the conclusion that east Broadway, or at least a part of it should be named as above heading.

Strolling leasurably down that coming thoroughfare, as we passed the southeast corner of the square, we were met by other than Mr. G. F. Higbee, recently of Brownfield, who is running a first-class restaurant in the corner building and is enjoying a good trade. After a pleasant conversation, we moved on and at the very next building we read in big bold letters; "ARKANSAW HOUSE," but still we did not save the ramrod but, was fixing to wager with ourself that they put up good chuck under that roof, when the proprietor walked out and ourself called off the bet. This house is conducted by Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bough, formerly of Terry county, who immediately handed us the coin and told us to put the Herald to 'em. They have quite a nice lot of boarders and are doing well.

The very next stop is the Jackson House, which is already too well known to need a recommendation from us. Everyone knows that when they put up at the Jackson House, they will get the best going

Then just across the street one is bound to notice an imposing structure recently known as the S. A. Richmsnd Hardware Co., that handles hardware by the wholesale and retail. This great house has been advertising quite extensively through the Herald and we dropped in as usual to see how business was going. But we found a new proprietor, who was no other than our own L. B. Minor, and Vernon Seitz, another Terry county lad was also helping him to look after the interests of this big establishment. Mr. Minor showed us through the entire building, and we found everything up-to-now and plenty of it. He gave us a fine pair of shears to take home to Mrs. Herald, and said he would start a big ad next month.

Reader, do you wonder now that we want east Broadway dubbed Terry street or avenue?

Interested in Terry Co.

The following is a sample of letters we are constantly receiving, and goes to show that our county though regarded by many as being out of the way, is becoming to be recognized as one of the leading counties of the Plains.

Mr. A. J. Stricklin, Editor
Brownfield, Texas,

Dear Sir:

Yours of the 19th received. Am pleased to hear from you concerning Terry Co. I am interested in your county, and have been for 30 years. I own a section of land in the county, and have friends who are seriously thinking of visiting the Panhandle district with the purpose of going there to live, and every year I plan to go down to see the country, but have not done so yet.

I am interes edtin all that is transpiring in that section, and I am sure the news to friends here, and you may soon see some of them among you as citizens.

I am sending you by this post, one dollar for the Terry County Herald, which you can please send me.

There are questions which I would like to ask about the county, but am sure they will be answered in your paper during the year. My section is used for grazing and am wishing to know what the usual rate per section or per acre is in your county.

CARING FOR UNRULY COWS.

When a cow has been raised on the farm and turns out unruly the owner, generally speaking, has but himself to blame, but as many farmers purchase cows that are troublesome in one way or another a hint or two by an expert dairyman regarding such animals may prove of interest.

Some cows are confirmed ramblers and cannot be turned by any ordinary fence. In a case of this kind the vice is due to the animal not having been properly restricted in her wanderings while she was growing to maturity, and there seems to be no cure for the vice. A preventive measure is to equip the animal with a collar and swinging pole, but the best plan is to sell her at the first convenient opportunity.

A cow that kicks while being milked is not beloved of the milker, and such a practice is a sign that more time and patience should have been expended upon her when she first came down to milk. It depends somewhat upon the individuality of the cow and how long she has thus misbehaved herself whether her manners can be improved or not. Try being gentle with her and coax rather than force her to stand still, and frequently in the course of time tying the legs may be dispensed with.

Many cows that do not kick have the undesirable habit of being continually upon the move while being milked, which is, of course, very annoying to the milker. This awkward habit is always due to nervousness and is nearly always the result of having been ill treated at one time or another. Petting the animal somewhat and milking quietly and calmly will frequently effect a cure, but it may be some time before the habit can be entirely dropped.

Some cows will kick promptly at any one approaching them in the stall. This vice may occasionally be cured by a change of stall that permits of the animal being approached from the contrary side. If such a move does not cure, try persistent kindness for a month or so, and if this does not bring forth improvement see if sterner measures have any effect. If none of these things answer, the best must be made of a bad bargain, and it would be well to get rid of the animal when the opportunity offers.

A very awkward habit some cows acquire is that of tossing the head just as food is being placed in the manger, and unless the attendant is very wary one of the horns, if the cow has horns, may easily catch him upon the face. Some cows that will thus treat strangers will not continue the practice when properly used by the attendant, and others will treat every body alike. One way of aiding in effecting a cure is for the attendant to fill his mouth with water before going up to the animal's head and if she misbehaves herself to squirt out the water upon her head.

A by no means dangerous habit, but one that is very annoying to the woman when work is being done at high pressure, is that of not standing properly when it is desired to go up alongside the animal. The legs of the animal should never be hit with a stick or with a fork or other tool that may be in hand, as this is liable to start the animal kicking. Indeed, hitting the legs with a fork or other tool is the usual cause of cows' kicking.

Dehorning the Calves.

One of the most humane ways for removing horns on calves is by means of caustic potash. Get one or more sticks of caustic potash and preserve it in a tightly corked bottle. One stick will serve to dehorn a number of calves. Apply this potash as soon as the buttonlike horns can be felt on the calf, which is usually when it is three or four days old. To apply the potash remove the hair about the horn close to the skin, moisten the potash slightly and rub over the skin which covers the point of the horns until the skin is white. It is not necessary to rub the skin until blood comes, as is often advised, as it causes unnecessary soreness. Wrap the caustic in heavy paper to protect the hands of the operator. Do not moisten the caustic too much so that the liquid will run down the sides of the calf's head, for this will cause unnecessary pain. Fasten the head securely and apply the potash only on the spot over the horns.

When the Hogs Gnaw Pens.

When the hogs get to gnawing the woodwork of their pens you may be sure they need something different to gnaw from what you are feeding them. Look into it and see that you are giving them variety enough.

BRINGING EWES AROUND.

First Year Very Troublesome in Life of Animals.

Having been an extensive grower of wool and mutton for twenty years, says a well known shepherd, I will give some experience and observations I have had in developing the ewe lambs, by which I trust some one will be benefited.

Every year while buying a few native lambs for feeding purposes I have an opportunity to observe what a great many flock owners are doing with their ewe lambs, and I am sorry to say that this part of the flock is sorely neglected in altogether too many instances.

The first year is the critical period in the life of the ewe lambs, and if they are improperly fed and cared for but little improvement can be effected in the flock. The impression is carried by many farmers that it is not important to force the ewe lambs along the first year, as they have two seasons to come to maturity. I consider this a very wrong impression of the situation and one that has an important bearing upon the improvement of the flock.

Experience has shown that much more rapidly in the first year of the lamb's growth than during any period thereafter. Ewe lambs that are allowed to stop growing the first year never regain normal condition and, despite good breeding, they fail to transmit to their offspring the desirable qualities found in their parents.

I have observed ewe lambs in my own flocks that, because of insufficient nourishment during the suckling period, failed to make the growth they should have made. Because of the good breeding behind these lambs I retained some of them to replenish my flock. I have found that, with one or two exceptions out of a large number of instances, I have never secured a lamb from these that was worth retaining for breeding purposes.

I am very confident that the first year of life determines to a large extent the future usefulness of the ewe lamb. A ewe that has been full grown will withstand neglect and hardship and bring forth well developed offspring. But if she has been poorly cared for during her early life the reverse is invariably the result.

A female of any kind must have a strong, healthy system, with vigorous constitution to withstand the natural functions of reproduction. These characteristics come into natural life during early development and not as the animal ages.

Therefore if one wants his ewe lambs to grow into strong, healthy and vigorous breeding stock he must begin feeding them as soon as he can get them to partake of food other than that furnished by the dam. This feed should contain the elements that will produce bone and muscle and be given in troughs clean and pure.

Cholera Preventive.

Careful and persistent attention to general preventive measures, such as quarantine, disinfection, proper feeding, etc., on the part of farmers generally would no doubt result in a material reduction in the yearly losses from hog cholera, and the importance of observing these precautions cannot be overestimated.

OF GENERAL FARM INTEREST.

Cowpeas add nitrogen to the soil and improve its mechanical condition. They are most profitably grown in rotation with other crops.

A set of farm buildings well painted impress the passerby favorably. The same impression is made on the owner, and that is of immeasurably more importance.

Some people judge a farmer by the fences he maintains. The wise man looks over the fence and sees the crop in the field. Therefore put your work on your fields though the fences have to groan and creak.

The man who can complacently face his potato field polluted with weeds and not disturb his hoe and cultivator had better let the other man raise the potatoes and he give all his time to crops that can successfully compete with weeds.

RAPE FOR FORAGE.

Not For Milk Cows, but Excellent For Dry Cattle, Sheep and Hogs.

I have given rape a thorough trial and have found it a most valuable crop for summer and fall pasture, partly on account of its providing excellent pasture until late in the fall and also because it is very useful in cleaning the land, says a correspondent of the Orange Judd Farmer. It does not, however, provide a proper food for milk cows owing to its flavoring the milk and butter somewhat similarly to turnip tops. But as food for dry cattle, sheep and hogs it is most excellent, furnishing an abundant pasture from the middle of July until very late in the fall if cattle are given their liberty.

The expense of growing rape is very trifling, as the seed costs but a few cents per pound. From two to three pounds is sufficient for an acre, providing it is sown in drills, which is the proper way. Any soil which will produce a good crop of turnips will give a good crop of rape. The preparation of the ground should be much the same as that for turnips, although personally I have usually sown rape on ground to be unfit for a spring crop. This is where I found one great advantage from the crop I would work the ground over once or twice before or during seeding, then after seeding give it the necessary special work and sow the rape in drills about two feet apart. By this means the ground can be worked with scuffler or horse hoe until the rape has covered it over. With suitable growing weather this only requires about a month or six weeks.

Where the ground is moderately strong and has been well prepared rape usually grows from two feet to thirty inches high and is fully ready to either cut and haul to the stable or turn stock on at from six to eight weeks after being sown. If intended for pasture stock should be turned on to it at eight weeks, and if the larger leaves are eaten off at this time a fresh, tender crop quickly follows. I find that more and better pasture can be obtained in this way than if left untouched until fall.

Rape may be sown with a fair chance of success any time from May 1 until July 1. The crop may be harvested by cutting with a scythe and throwing in small heaps, which can be hauled to the stable as required. Animals should not be turned into rape while it is wet with dew or rain unless they have had freedom to it previously.

Cotton in New England.

A curious experiment in cotton growing in a northern latitude has been tried at Indian Orchard, in western Massachusetts, says the American Cultivator. Last year two residents of that town succeeded in growing well developed cotton, and they propose to try it again this year—in fact, have the new crop already well under way. The seeds are planted in April, and the growth is rapid. The seeds were obtained from a bale of cotton from the south and are from one of the early cheap varieties widely grown in that section. The cotton blossoms are of a reddish hue and quite fragrant. To mature the commercial cotton in this latitude requires a rather favored season, as the plant is easily killed by frosts. The experiment was tried out of curiosity and for the sake of the sight of a crop so novel in this latitude. Success the first season led the experimenters to take the matter up more seriously and to plant a larger piece this year to see just what could be done with early cotton in the north.

Terry county will make more stuff than they can house. My maize is heading out and maturing as pretty as I ever saw anything in my life.

About the Reunion.

There has been some talk of changing the coming place of meeting of the old soldiers reunion from Gomez to Brownfield, as the former place would have to go to the extra expense of fixing shades etc., which we think is a sane idea.

We have no knock coming on Gomez, for she is a hustling little city and plenty able and willing to take care of the crowds, or at least she always has been successful, but as Gomez has no shade trees, we would like to make this suggestion:

Our beautiful Court House park is as much the property of the people of Gomez, as is any other citizen of the county, and should they want to entertain the crowd over here, that will be o. k. They can appoint their own committees, sell the rights, and otherwise take charge and receive credit for the entertainment and do all this under shade of the trees at Brownfield. We are going to give them the use of our colums to boost the affair whether they decide to have the entertainment here or over there.

BIG BALL GAME.

Brownfield Boys Defeat Lamesa's 1st Nine in a Fast Game at the Big Picnic, Aug. 4th.

The game was called at 4 p. m. with a very small crowd of fans present, but the crowd quickly increased to about 1000 people. Brownfield having their choice took the field, and when they trotted out to their places on the diamonds, and in the field—all being mere boys—they were listed. They said: "Poor Brownfield boys, they came 50 miles to get beat."

The first three to the bat were put out—three up and three down Ashmore, Willis and Williams. We changed places quickly and were shut out. Three up and three down; McDaniel, Hill and French. Each team was again shut out, Lamesa for the third time when Brownfield came to the bat the third time Pyeatt and Copeland each made an out. Harris went to the bat with two outs but sent a fly far into the field and made first safely, Scudday came to the bat and with wild pitching Harris succeeded in making a score. Neither team scored next time but the fifth Lamesa made one score. Harris and Scudday each made a score for Brownfield, Scudday making a home run, Lamesa made three scores next time making 3 and 3. Harris, Walter Scudday and Hill each scored for Brownfield in the next. Lamesa succeeded in scoring once in the next. Walter Scudday scored again for Brownfield. The next two boys were outs. The game closed in the 8th inning 8 to 5 in Brownfield's favor.

This was the fastest and best game played by the boys this season. McDaniel and Scudday made themselves a reputation as catchers. Earl Hill pitched the entire game and did excellent work. Henry French did first-baseman work as usual, never let a single ball pass him. With one or two exceptions all the rest of the boys did themselves proud. The boys are in high spirits and are ready to tackle most any school team on the Plains. The following is the scores.
