11,000 Demonstration Farms in 215 Counties In Texas Industrial Congress Contest

From 1,746 students of better farming in 161 counties of the State in 1911, the Texas Industrial Congress has steadily increased this number to 10,859 in 215 counties in 1913.

Unique among associations for agricultural development, the Congress, by offering $10,000 in gold annually for the best yields of specific crops, cost of production considered, has in a little more than two years awakened among the farmers of Texas enthusiastic interest in scientific cultural methods, improved seed selection, better preparation of the soil and the conservation of its fertility through crop rotation and diversification.

While this remarkable growth has been the result primarily of the stimulus caused by the prize offer, this inducement to use brains as well as brawn in crop production, is recognized by thinking men as but an incident for the purpose of accomplishing the real object of the Congress, which is to lower the cost of production while at the same time increasing the acreage yield, hence its slogan, "Smaller farms; better farming." The enrollment of nearly 11,000 contestants in this year's competition means that many demonstration farms in as many neighborhoods, intensively cultivated by 11,000 farmers who are seeking the best information they can get both from the Congress and from other sources, and are striving for the highest farming efficiency, thus educating not only themselves but presenting an ocular demonstration of better cultural methods to their neighbors as well.

Every dot on the above map represents a demonstration farm cultivated in corn, cotton, cowpeas, kafir or milo, in accordance with the advice and suggestions of the Congress. This information is furnished by bulletins at frequent intervals and also by personal letters. The stars indicate those counties in which prizes were won in the contests of 1911 and 1912.

Among the 215 counties represented, Bexar County, which in 1911 had but seven contestants and in 1912 but nine, leads the State with 505 entries. Ellis County is second, having 381 contestants; Hunt County, with 339, is third and Kaufman, Cooke, Navarro, Tarrant, Dallas, Rockwall, Hill and Rusk Counties rank next in the order named.

Regents Advocate Adoption of Amendment.

The Board of Regents of the University of Texas has issued an address to the people in advocacy of the adoption of the proposed amendment to Sections 49 and 52. Article 3, of the Constitution in the election called by Governor Colquitt for July 19, 1913.

The Regents show that there are 2121 students now in attendance at the University, 300 more than were in attendance last year; that under the present Constitution no buildings can be erected at the University out of appropriations made by the Legislature; and that the adoption of the proposed amendment would authorize the use of the income from the University permanent endowment for the erection of buildings, and would not make any addition whatever to the taxes to be paid by the people. The Regents also refer to the benefits that would accrue under the proposed amendment to the other State institutions, which of course would include the State Normal Schools, the College of Industrial Arts, and the A. & M. College.

The following paragraph in the statement of the Regents is interesting:

"For thirty years the University of Texas has grown steadily in the esteem and confidence of the people. The men who have constituted its governing board have been distinguished citizens selected from different sections of the State; its faculty have been well equipped scholars, chosen without political influence, for merit and efficiency; nearly twenty thousand Texas boys and girls have been students in its halls; no breath of scandal has touched it; its growth and prosperity have more than kept pace with the advancement of the great State which gave it being, and whose bounty sustains it. One serious handicap under which it has labored, and is laboring now, can be removed by the people of Texas on July 19, next, without touching the pocket of any citizen."

Every farmer should be a regular subscriber to and read carefully his county newspaper and at least one first class agricultural publication. No intelligent man will try to do without either. The home paper keeps you informed as to what is being done in your home county, while the general farm journal tells you what the foremost farmers and farm produce people of the world are doing and how they are doing it. A good general newspaper is a valuable adjunct to the two mentioned, but it can be omitted if times are too hard, while the first two are necessities.

An Old Pioneer

Mr. A. E. Gracey, of Dallas, came in this week to pay his sons, John and Walter a short visit. Mr. Gracey settled in Dallas county 53 years ago, when that county was much more a frontier than this is now, but says he has helped to settle his last frontier. He bought land for practically nothing five miles from the now business center of Dallas, and sold 400 acres to the Dallas-Waxahachie Interurban company for $100 per acre, two years ago.

Mr. Gracey was with Col. Rusk and others in the surveying out of the T. & P. and the S. P. railroads, and of course seen this country when it was sure enough a howling wilderness. He is an interesting talker, having had a long and varied experience in Texas, and has seen it developed from an uncertainty to the greatest State in the Union.

The Herald will visit Mr. Gracey in his home near Dallas, for the next twelve months at least, as he says he wants to keep track of the boys, and also says a West Texas paper can be depended upon to tell when it rains.

If the silo wasn't a kind of money mint on the farm, some wise old farmer would have found it out ere this, and would have turned it into wells and post holes. Build silos.

Always keep a sharp lookout for new or improved varieties of seeds for the farm. Reserve a small block of the farm for a testing ground and test such things as impress you favorably. The beneficial results obtained will more than pay for the time and work.

A ranchman will now send a hand with four mounts, fifty miles to a large pasture, for a cow and yearling, that will likely take him a week to find. Only a few years ago he would have sold the whole cheese to the other ranchman for $15 rather than make that trip, but that was before the time when cows brought $15 and the yearling $30.

Now comes the big navy correspondents trying to scare us cross eyed with a bloody-shirt yarn about the Japs jumping in and putting us to the sword. Why, if an average nervous citizen was to receive a bed-bug bite these nights, he'd dream a pig tailed heathen had shot him slap through and through.

J. J. Taylor, alias State Press, an editor of the Galveston-Dallas News, was elected president of the Texas Press Association, at San Antonio, during their recent convention. It is said that after the tremendous applause that followed his speech of acceptance and well nigh wrecked the roof of the Gunter Hotel, and lasted all the afternoon, more or less—we refer to the applause—after the uproar had died down sufficient for it to be heard, the band played "Hail to the Chief" and the choir sang "Hallelujah!"

A prominent lawyer from Ill., was here recently, on business, and in conversation with a local attorney said: "If I was not tied up in business up there, here is the place I would land. It is almost impossible for a young man to own a farm in our $250 per acre country. His parents may give him $1000 at his majority, and he may be a hard worker, economical, and a good financier, but cannot in a life time accumulate sufficient funds to purchase 100 acres of land. One has to be born rich or inherit the land to get it." Well, we ask, why in blazes do they hang around a place like Illinois, when they can own a home in two years in glorious old sunny Terry, with no capital but two plug mares and a willing heart?

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to fall dead any time.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is spared to me today, a fat, rosy cheeked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. R. CANON, Worth, Mo. The unbounded confidence Mr. Canon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Dr. Treadaway informed us Saturday that he had a card from D. J. This is to be greatly regretted, but the Dr. said he rather suspected that to be the case all the time.

S. B. Johnson, one of our successful west side stock-farmers, was here Saturday and made a deposit for one of his boys for the sale of a yearling. Mr. Johnson informed Mr. Jones, bookkeeper for the Brownfield State Bank, that, make $312.00 his boy had made from one heifer he gave him seven years ago, when they came to Terry. Considering the small amount of trouble, what is a better investment than an old cow or mare? Other boys can do the same thing if they will.

CULTIVATION OF AN ORCHARD

If to Be Made Profitable Trees Should Receive as Good Care as Other Crops—Kill Weeds.

(By L. H. BAILEY, Cornell Experiment Station.)

If orchards are to be made profitable, they must receive as good care as other crops.

Good drainage, natural or artificial, is essential to success. Trees are impatient of wet feet.

Well-drained lands are drier in wet spells and moister in dry spells than other lands. They can be worked earlier in spring.

Good tillage increases the available food supply of the soil and also conserves its moisture.

Trees should be made to send their roots deep into the soil, in order to fortify themselves against drought. This is done by draining the soil and by plowing the orchard rather deep.

This deep plowing should begin the very year the trees are set, and it should be continued every spring until the habit of the tree is established.

Moisture is retained in the upper soil by very frequent but shallow tillage, by means of which the surface of the land becomes a mulch for the soil beneath.

Tillage should be begun just as soon as the ground is dry enough in spring.

This tillage should be repeated as often as once in ten days throughout the growing season, which extends from spring until July or August.

Tillage should not exist for the purpose of killing weeds. Weeds have taught the most important lessons in agriculture, to be sure, but the school-master should now be able to retire.

Late cultivation may be injurious by inducing a late growth. At all events it can be of small utility when the tree begins to mature and rains become frequent. This season of respite gives the grower the opportunity of raising a green manure and of adding fertility to his land at trifling expense and with no harm to his trees.

FIRE POTS FOR AN ORCHARD

Any Number of Little Stoves May Be Ignited by Electricity—Prevents Frost Damage.

In many fruit belts, especially in the west, fire pots are utilized as a means of preventing frost from destroying the fruit crops. In the illustration is shown an electrically ignited ed fire pot for such purpose, any number of which may be connected up in a circuit, says Popular Mechanics. Normally, the fire pots are covered, but the contact points in each are so arranged that a wire will fuse and trip the catch holding the cover down when the current is turned on, and at the same time ignite a wick which sets fire to the fuel. The covers, of course, are weighted so that they will fly open when the catch is tripped. In this manner all the fire pots in the orchard are instantly ignited by turning on the current.

"Why Buy At Home"

I Buy at Home—
 Because my interests are here.
 Because the community that is good enough for me to live in is good enough for me to buy in.
 Because I believe in transacting business with my friends.
 Because I want to see the goods I am buying.
 Because I want to get what I buy when I pay for it.
 Because my home dealer "carries" me when I run short of cash.
 Because some part of every dollar I spend at home stays at home and helps work for the welfare of the city and county.
 Because the home man I buy from stands back of the goods, thus always giving value received.
 Because I sell what I produce to my home people, be it labor or goods.
 Because the man I buy from pays his share of the county and city taxes.
 Because the man I buy from helps support our poor and needy, our schools, our churches, our lodges and our homes.
 Because if ill luck, misfortune or bereavement comes, the man I buy from is here with his kind expressions of greeting, his words of cheer, and if needs be, his pocketbook.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help. I had almost lost my reason, but, thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardui.

The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways.

Try it.

INCREASE RICHNESS OF MILK

It Will Pay Farmers to Feed His Cows So That They Are in Good, Healthy Condition.

An increase in the richness of a cow's feed does not make the milk richer. If it were possible to change the test of milk by feeding the cows, we would then be able to make all the cows giving thin milk produce cream or change a Holstein into a Jersey in so far as the richness of the milk is concerned. Increasing the feed of a dairy cow has a tendency to increase the pounds of milk she will give but the milk is of the richness characteristic to that cow. Experiments have shown that the natural richness of a cow's milk is inherited, or is an individual peculiarity the same as the color of her hair and feeding does not change it. These statements apply to cows under normal condition of health and reasonable treatment. A fair test of the milk given by a herd of cows may vary from 3.5 to 4.0 per cent fat. This, of course, will change according to the period of lactation of the cows, the milk of fresh cows is not usually so rich as that of strippers. It will pay anyone to feed his cows so that they are in good, healthy condition and produce the maximum amount of milk which their natural capacity as dairy animals will permit them to give.

DAIRY NOTES

One bit of impurity in the pail may spoil a whole dairy's milking.

Sunlight and pure air are absolutely necessary in the dairy barn.

Dairy farming is one of the most permanent systems of agriculture.

Just because a cow is dry is no sign that she does not need any feed.

The by-products of the dairy increase the earning capacity of the farm.

The constant demand for good dairy stock makes it a bad policy to sell the good heifers.

The successful dairyman endeavors to raise all the feed needed for his cows on his own farm.

Success lies not in the number of cows that a man keeps, but rather the kind of cows he keeps.

The per cent of butter fat in a cow's milk is not a sure index to her capacity as a butter-maker.

The profit of a cow depends upon the amount that she yields above the actual cost of feed and care.

Shrinking cows can hardly be brought up again this season. Do your best to make them hold up.

The separator should be placed where the light is good. Working in a dark place is always a disadvantage.

Put the broody sows in a pen by themselves.

Treat the cow kindly. This requires no cash outlay.

Political Jokers.

"What is the difference," asked Mr. Bones, "between a statesman and a boss?" "A statesman," replied Mr. Tambo, "puts himself in the hands of his friends, but the boss devotes himself to seeing what he can get his own hands on."

Ed Spear sold his crop and lease on the J Cross ranch to Elmer Wear. Ed says he is tired of batching.

Bill Hill's horse ran under a barb wire that had been used to tie the tops of gate posts, and in jumping a plank at the bottom of the gate way, caught the young man on the wire, cutting several gashes on his head and face. Luckily the cuts are not very deep and we hope will soon heal.

Mrs. Rotan and children and Mrs. Vada Hurst, were on their way to Mr. M. A. Hill's one day last week, when a sudden lurch, caused their buggy top to give way, carrying part of the bed. They were all thrown out in the buggy top. The horse seemed to realize that it was time to stop and stood still until they were able to extricate themselves from the wreck.

Bro. Dixon preached an excellent sermon at J Cross school house last Sunday at 4 o'clock p. m. He will preach every third Sunday evening and we hope the people will turn out to hear him without a single exception next third Sunday.

Mr. Bledsoe, from north of Lubbock, has been spending several days with Mr. Merrit.

Charlie Baker was out Tuesday getting up a party at Mr.

Quite a number of our citizens are battling with La Grippe. This is one enemy that is hard to conquer.

Robert Hill is suffering considerably with his hand which is badly swollen. It is feared it might be blood poison setting up.

Mr. Hooker, of Lubbock, was visiting his son, Hub, last week.

Elmer Ware bought two fine milk cows Monday. He says he is not going to keep batch and do without milk and butter. We are wondering who will do the churning.

Digger

The Need of The Silo.

We are indebted to Col. Peter Radford, President of the Farmers' Union, for directing attention to the importance of the silo in Texas agriculture. He says it will increase the efficiency of the feed 40 per cent, and enable cereals and forage crops to successfully compete in productive value with cotton.

Silos and red barns are the twin agencies of prosperity and fortunate is the farmer who possesses them. They are good business educators and ownership arouses the spirit of thrift and enterprise.

Thanks, Digger, for the comp. on punctuality in writing. I suppose the quality of doing their work on time, is what disqualifies woman being fit for the ballot, in the opinion of the average law-maker, as that is one great difference between men and women's way of working. Man works when it suits his convenience; woman does any task assigned her when the time is come, whether she be ready or not. The correspondents of the Herald are cited as example.

SKIM MILK GIVEN TO CALVES

Best Way to Make Use of By-Product, But Not Unless Done in Right Way—Makes Good Veal.

About the most satisfactory way to use skimmed milk is to feed it to calves, but not unless it is done in the right way. Sour, cold milk in dirty pails will not make profitable growth and is out of the question for veal calves. Skimmed milk will make first class veal and the calves will grow nearly as fast, make as heavy weight and sell for the same price per pound as if fed on whole milk. But the milk must be fresh from the separator, and pails must be washed every day. The calf must be fed regularly and three times per day is better than twice per day, as a calf's stomach is small, much smaller in proportion to his size than that of a cow. Even the veal calf should be encouraged to take all the grain that he will. Cheap flour added to the milk is quite important in making growth. The calf will consume more skimmed milk than he would of the whole milk, but the extra cost is not very important, since skimmed milk is not reckoned very high in the market. Raising veal calves by skimmed milk requires some care and intelligence. One feed of milk in the wrong condition will check the calf's growth and make the buyer find fault or refuse to pay the whole milk calf price.

Raising calves for growth is another matter requiring somewhat less scrupulous care. Most of the trouble usually comes from feeding them in old dirty pails with stale soured milk in the corners full of germs which produce scours and intestinal troubles. But they will grow well on skimmed milk fed with reasonable care. At the Wisconsin station it was concluded that to raise a calf on whole milk is four times as expensive as to raise it on skimmed milk, although the whole milk calves will grow a little faster, but it costs very much more per pound to get the growth. The skimmed milk calves consume about twice as much grain as the others, but two pounds of grain would take the place of one pound of butter fat in the whole milk. Of course, a dairyman cannot afford to feed cream to his calves when grain will answer the purpose.

No matter how much of a premium price is paid or offered for calves that possess good bone and fair stock, the farmer with his grand opportunities for growing grass, grain and several splendid forage crops, cannot afford to sell them.
