Announcements

J. R. BURNETT

Through the encouragement of his many friends, the above gentleman has decided to make the race for Tax Assessor of Terry County, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July. Jimmie held this office one term, and made a good record so far as we know, and he feels that he should have the office again this next term, as time about is fair play. We can truthfully say that he is in everyway trustworthy, and well qualified for the office, and we believe the voters of Terry county will make no mistake in making him their next Tax Assessor. With these introductory remarks, we leave him with the voters for full consideration.

AMARILLO—The silo has scored another victory. A test conducted by government experts at this place for the purpose of determining the value of ensilage as a feed crop for cattle proved successful.

The experts in their test selected two herds of equal number and fed them separately for thirty days. One herd was fed on grass and cottonseed cake.

At the end of the scheduled time the grass fed stuff scored an average gain in weight of 22 pounds, while the ensilage kept stock manifested an increase of 105 pounds.

Many people with sour stomach find relief in Dr. Miles' Laxative Tablets. Try them yourself. [Advertisement.]

From Arkansas

Russville Ark 1 22 14

Dear Editor:

I have been wondering if you would like to have a letter from me in old Ark.

Now, Mr. Editor, I hope you will excuse all mistakes and blunders, but I want to let the people of Terry county know where I am just now, and what I think of this country, in and around Russellville, which city has a population of near 6000, and is composed of some of the most hospitable people I ever met.

It seems so nice to see running streams of water, and the large forrest trees that move in the breeze, and seems to speak cheer and gratitude. I think nature the grandest thing that we have in this world of ours to enjoy. Everything seems to tell one to "be of good cheer, as there are always better things in store for you."

This city does a great deal of business, as lots of cotton is raised near town. There is one of the best and most complete Agricultural colleges in the state located here, consisting of four dormitories, a hospital and main buildings for class rooms. They also have a printing department in one of the basements, where they get out a college paper, and if the Terry county people have anyone they would like to send to a good school, it would elevate them to attend.

The farmers are now fertilizing their small tracts for gardening and all kinds of berries, as we have not had such winter since I have been here. It seems like spring—such delightful weather, but cannot say how long it will continue.

I hope you will not judge me wrong and think I do not appreciate and love old Terry county, for I like that country just as dear old Ark. I think that a good country if you could stop the sand storms, but we all know that the maker did not intend for all countries to be alike, so we may appreciate the good in all countries. Some will ask me what we raise out there? I tell them we raise everything. I find some who say they will never be satisfied until they go to the Plains. I tell them they will find it a lovely climate in summer. The Iron Mountain rail road is the only one through this town.

Took dinner out one day this week; had many good things to eat—too many to mention—prepared by a good old fashion cook and it was all well prepared. It did seem so nice for the hostess to sit and entertain and stay out of the kitchen.

Have not gotten to the end of my journey yet; will leave in a few day to visit a son near Little Rock, who is a physician.

I might say more about this dear State, but it would take too much space. You cannot blame me for having so much love for the State and home of my girlhood.

Sincerely your well wisher,

Mrs. J. T. May.

The Brownfield Calves.

Sunday afternoon turned off so beautiful that a half score of town people went up to Dick Beavittie's—only one mile from the square—to see his silo and calves.

Dick has a 250 ton silo, and is feeding something like 130 head of calves and a few cows, and as common nearly a car of hogs are coming the calves. He has good fences, good feed troughs and water enters through iron pipes from his huge surface concrete watering trough.

And while we are about it, we just as well mention that he has one of the biggest, if not the biggest barn in Terry county, being something like 40x60 feet, in which he keeps his dry feed.

His calves are now in prime condition, weighing something near 600 pounds and are putting on more than two pound per day. They will be fed about 45 more days, and at the end of that time will be among the prettiest bunch of stuff ever shipped out of Terry county.

These calves are the prevailing Terry county breeds, Herefords and Durhams, and are tolerably well averaged as to size. A man that could go look over these calves, view this big barn and silo, and not see visions of prosperity and contentment as the future of Terry county, hasn't got an atom of thought about him and his vision isn't an inch long. And the beauty of it all is that these visions are wholly possible.

We have received a copy of Rev. Hick's Almanac for 1914, which is devoted exclusively to forecast for 1914, all fully diagramed and explained, without the lot of medicine ads of the usual Almanac. It is a useful volume.

We have refrained from advising our readers to procure a poll-tax receipt, believing they knew their business best, and that they had received bushels of advice along that line from the dailies and semi-weeklies, but as the last days dawn, we just wish to ask how a man feels without one?

Mayes and Thomas have capitulated and Lane is hanging on for terms with the Rankin-Gambrell combine. Still there are candidates, and will be other candidates, who will stand up and smell powder all during the campaign. Come to Terry.

The big financiers and manufacturers, like J. Ogden Armour and others, say the business outlook for 1914 is rosy, and money matters are easy. Pres. Wilson has got all the old boys a grinning like a coon at a circus. If the big bugs are cheerful, us chiggers ought to be satisfied.

Some people imagine that one teacher can teach a school of twenty five pupils covering every grade from primer to the eight. Just as good as one teacher can teach each twenty five pupils all in one grade. They also can't see why it is just as easy to teach twenty five pupils in one grade, as to just teach one by himself. We imagine if they would try teaching one term, these facts would suddenly dawn on them.

If you are just developing a case of siloitis, go to some feed pen where they have it in a virulent form, then go back home and treat as follows: If you are a rich man and can stand a high class operation, order a big steel fellow; otherwise, just dig a big round hole in the ground. While you will never recover from the disease, but will gradually grow worse, you will recover your mortgaged property, your bank account and 95 per cent of your cheerfulness, and you'll have to admit that these are worth something. Get the siloitis.

Society

Mrs. W. G. Hardin, Ed.

The Baptist Home Mission Society entertained at Mrs. J. W. Welch's last Thursday p. m., and the writer failed to put in her appearance in time to enjoy the good religious speeches which they claimed had been the dawn of entrance. It was told that Bro. Dixon had given them a talk which was both beneficial and instructive; also quite a number of the ladies had made good talks about their hopes and aspirations in regard to church work for the coming year. We wish we might have been present to hear them, but we enjoyed a lot of religion while devouring the delicious refreshments cake and—we forgot to ask the ladies whether it was rousse or mousse desert of some kind—which the ladies were bountifully serving with punch. I don't think under the circumstances, I would be termed too feminine, if I said it was perfectly lovely. These ladies certainly know how to entertain and I always feel at home in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Welch.

Mrs. Walter Gracey was given a shower at Mrs. E. B. Wright's last Friday evening. Quite a number of Brownfield ladies were present, as the bride has many friends. She was the reipient of many beautiful gifts, and she admired each one in that sweet, gentle way of her's. Making some pleasing comment, as she read on each article the name of the donor, and passed it to the circle of friends to admire. Jennie Lee, as she is familiarly known, says she is not going to get old, but by association with cheerful companions and friends of former days, she will remain the same care free girl, and we have every reason to hope she will find it so. Mrs. Wright, our charming hostess, when all the gifts had been admired, served delicious sandwiches and chocolate, after which we took our departure, being loath to break the good old Texas style conversation—all talk at once—and we thank our hostess for a very pleasant afternoon, and wish for our little friend and her esteemed husband, many, many happy years.

Well, did you ever witness basket ball? The writer had the pleasure of attending one game last Saturday afternoon, and—well there is something in our make-up that makes us yell for the girl who makes a good play—and we want to say we hope in the near future to see our girls play better, as they were outplayed by our Gomez neighbors. The girls, though defeated, took it quite pleasantly, behaving toward their victorious opponents in a way that would have done credit to girls twice their age. They hope to be able to interest them next time. Our girls have not been practicing long. After the game, the players were entertained by Mrs. R. H. Banowsky, assisted by Mrs. Esther Harris.

The young people's Dramatic Club met with us Tuesday evening, and formulated plans for the coming month's work. Watch the columns of the Herald, you will hear from them soon.

The young folks enjoyed a party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Herald, last Saturday night. The old game of candy pullin' was found to be as great enjoyment as in yegood old Grand mother days. We always have a good time in that home for their friends always find a welcome and the latchstring outside the door.

Well Robbie Marien teased me for quite a while to "make her a mule" (her favorite potrait) but being dissatisfied will all my attempts at art, she at last succumbed to drowsiness, and one by one the members of my family have followed her example, until I, like Robinson Crusoe "am monarch of all I survey" So I suppose I had best do likewise and bid the world "Good Night."

RADFORD'S PLATFORM

Ex-President of the Farmer's Union Outlines Legislative Needs of Farmers.

MARKETING AND HELPING THE TENANT FARMER THE PARAMOUNT ISSUES.

Fort Worth, Texas.—Replying to many requests to run for Governor, Peter Radford gave out the following statement:

"My duties with the National and State Farmers' Union, I consider, present a wider field for rendering public service than that afforded by the Governorship of Texas. Many things are possible through mutual co-operation that can not be accomplished through legislation and I consider it my duty to work in this broader field.

"Our government has been run by city men and agriculturists whose knowledge of farming has been acquired by looking through the windows of Pullman cars and while the farmer bears the brunt of taxation, owns the larger per cent of property and seventy-six per cent of our population lives in rural territory, he has little voice and receives comparatively small benefits from government. The farmer asks no favors, but he is entitled to the same consideration from government that is accorded other lines of business.

"I follow the plow for a living and my views are gathered from actual contact with the soil and are acquired from association with the great body of organized farmers of this State, and I think fairly represent the consensus of opinion of the farmers of Texas as a whole and embody the elements of constructive legislation needed in Texas today.

Agricultural Legislation Needed.

"The laws of Texas relating to business are wholly unsuited to the transactions of the farmer. While primarily based and admirably adapted to the needs of commerce and industry, they work a hardship upon agriculture. We must give the same care and consideration to a system of co-operative laws extending to the farmer the facilities adapted to his business that is now afforded corporations. We need to enter vigorously this unoccupied and fruitful field of legislative activity and install the legal machinery adapted to permitting and encouraging co-operative business concerns and facilitating co-operation between different lines of industry.

"In glancing over our statutes I find that most of our laws are aimed at the punishment of individual and corporate criminals and while approving the wisdom and applauding the efficiency of these laws, I do not believe government can hope to fully perform its duty toward all the people by addressing itself to the suppression of crime alone. I want to plead for the able and law-abiding citizen that consideration from government that is now accorded the incompetent and criminal classes. We must not relax for a moment our efforts to restrain the avaricious and protect the weak, but let us extend the functions of government into developing new regions of agricultural, industrial and commercial activities for the honest, energetic and law-abiding citizens. There should be breathed into our statutes the spirit of the builder and hope and encouragement for the conscientious and ambitious should abound in our laws. New areas of opportunity should be opened up for the home-owner, the laborer and the investor. Legislation should be based upon the needs of that large body of intelligent and progressive farmers that constitute the great bulk of agricultural population as well as assisting the incompetent.

Co-operation the Remedy.

"To meet the expectations and necessities of the farmers we must develop a co-operative system of rural credits that will make money, at reasonable rates of interest, constantly and easily available to maintain and expand their business. Farm tenancy is the greatest menace now confronting the State and can only be checked by affording the tenant and the laborer facilities for acquiring property and by reducing the high rates of interest which are now sapping the vitality of agriculture.

The curse of farm peasantry now confronts us and our farmers are fast becoming agricultural gypsies, wandering from farm to farm. We now have 219,575 farms in this State operated by tenants which is fifty-three per cent of the total and the tenant farmers have made a net gain over the farm owners of thirty per cent during the past decade. At the present rate of gain in tenant farming, the home owner will entirely disappear in thirty-four years. Our homes are the cornerstone of government and legislation that contains building material should be provided for the tenant farmer. This should be the paramount issue during the present campaign as the safety of the nation lies in the preservation of its homes.

"Our methods of preparing cotton for the market are wasteful and our holding plans inadequate to meet the imperative needs of the farmer. Legislative facilities should be provided for co-operative ownership and operation of cotton gins; the establishment of a warehouse system and securing funds on storage cotton. Every movement and transaction from the field to the spinner should be carefully studied and methods of co-operation and assistance extended.

"The marketing of farm products should receive the diligent attention of the legislature. A marketing bureau should be established under the department of agriculture and marketing given equal attention to that of production. The bureau should be properly equipped for providing information and studying and assisting in the solution of the many intricate problems connected with the business of farming.

Anti-Trust Law Needs Strengthening.

"The farmers have felt the iron heel of the trusts and illegal combinations and the vigilance of our state officials in policing industry is to be commended, but the benefit of these laws has so far been confined principally to lawyers, competitive concerns and politicians with inordinate ambitions. While we should hold all we have I favor extending the benefits of these laws to the producer and consumer and increasing their efficiency to a point where the trusts can not collect their fines from the farmers through increasing the price of their products.

"The combination of capital is universally recognized as necessary to develop the commerce and industry of the country and when properly managed, large business concerns are conducive to efficiency and economy and all conscientious and law-abiding capital should be encouraged to do business in Texas.

"The trust evil can be reduced by legislation, but it must be finally overcome by organization and co-operation of the farmers. These powerful corporate organizations dealing with the individual producer and consumer, place the farmer at their mercy and to satisfactorily cope with present conditions the farmers must acquire power through organization.

Railroads.

"Our railroad facilities should be improved and our mileage increased and I favor such amendments to our laws as in the wisdom of the railroad commission may hasten these results. I believe that all power conveyed to the railroad commission should be exercised exclusively by them and that neither the legislature nor the Attorney General should take the initiative in any matters within the control of the Railroad Commission. I consider dual jurisdictions confusing and unbusiness-like.

"The Railroad Commission, the railroads and the farmers should cooperate in moving farm products and especially waste products. Certainly our mutual interest and combined intelligence can evolve a plan for moving the tons of fruit, vegetables and semi-staple crops that rot on the ground each year. The loss of a crop is, I think, a tragedy of sufficient importance to justify the consideration of State government and the common carrier.

"The service of the common carrier fulfills every need of the merchant and manufacturer and transportation system is built around them. They are shrewd traders with facilities for locating the best market, controlling its supply and presenting convincing arguments for rates that will move the traffic, but the requirements of the producer are vastly different from those of the trader and the business of farming will never adapt itself satisfactorily to their necessities. The farmer must have a co-operative system of business that extends the usefulness and utilizes latent powers of the carrier in assisting in the marketing of products.

"The problem is a monumental one, but probably no greater than the many difficulties that have been surmounted in handling the business of the merchants and manufacturers and I ask for the producer the same thoughtful consideration to his requirements that has been given other lines of business.

Opposed to Woman's Suffrage.

"It is the hand that shuffles the cards rather than the one that rocks the cradle that wants to cast the ballot. The home is the great contribution of women to the world and the hearthstone is her throne. Our social structure is built around her and social righteousness is in her charge.

beautiful life lights the skies of hope and her refinement is the charm of twentieth century civilization. Her graces and her power are the cumulative products of generations of queenly conquest and her crown of exalted womanhood is jeweled with the wisdom of saintly mothers. She has been a great factor in the glory of our country and her noble achievements should not be marred or her hallowed influence blighted by the coarser duties of citizenship. Southern chivalry should never permit her to bear the burdens of defending and maintaining government, but should preserve her unsullied from the allied influences of politics, and protect her from the weighty responsibilities of the sordid affairs of life that will crush her ideals and lower her standards. The motherhood of the farm is our inspiration, she is the guardian of our domestic welfare and a guide to a higher life, but directing the affairs of government is not within woman's sphere and political gossip would cause her to neglect the home, forget to mend our clothes and burn the biscuits.

No Liquor Legislation Needed.

"I am a state-wide prohibitionist, have always voted against the saloon and do not use liquor in any form and I will always remain a life-long enemy to the liquor business. The home of the farmer is the hearthstone of morality and the fountain-head of all that is pure and noble in life and the farmer should ever stand for civic righteousness and the reduction of all forms of vice to the minimum. Not more than twenty-five per cent of our population ever tastes liquor and less than one per cent drink to excess. The delinquents we will always have with us, but the liquor habit affects so small a per cent of our population that I do not think it should be considered to the exclusion of important problems that affect the welfare of all the people. Where liquor sends one man staggering home to his family, our system of marketing and of rural credits sends thousands of families reeling down the thoroughfares of poverty.

"Each year 2,400 farmers become victims of an inadequate and brutal system of credits, cover their hearthstone with the ashes of failure and as many mothers, drenching the family altar with the tears of despair, cry aloud for help as they close forever the door of the home. Let us turn our attention temporarily from the delinquents and incorrigibles to the worthy and ambitious citizen struggling to feed and clothe his family, educate his children and own his home. Let government assist those who plead for opportunity rather than consume all our energies upon those who scorn the privileges of manhood. Experience has proved that when legislatures become involved in prohibition discussions much important legislation is abandoned and the business affairs of government neglected.

"I favor the rigid enforcement of all liquor laws now on the statute books, but am opposed to any state-wide legislation of any character on this subject by the next legislature.

Education.

"I favor compulsory education extending over the entire school term. Our rural school system is inadequate to meet the requirements of our children. The difficulty of properly educating the children of tenant farmers who move from farm to farm is readily apparent. No matter which way we turn in dealing with the problems in our rural districts, we are confronted with the condition that one-half the population of the country is a floating one. The home and the school are closely allied and their success interdependent.

"Our system of education from rural school to university should receive the careful consideration of the legislature and efficiency and economy instituted wherever possible.

Labor.

"Labor is honorable whether performed by male or female. Skill and ingenuity should be rewarded, but no class of labor that uses energy, practices economy and lives a moral, upright life, should receive a lesser wage for their services than would enable them to lay up for a rainy day, for old age, to educate their children and place them in society to the best advantage to advance the citizenship and improve the same in the community in which they live. The farmer's family, as a rule, is the poorest paid of any laborer in proportion to the service they render for the general welfare.

"I favor conducting government on a strictly business basis and the proper care for our wards, humane treatment and character building of our convicts, encouraging road-building and the full performance of all the functions of government."

Value of Advertising

By W. Holt Harris, Chairman of Mercantile Committee Commercial Sec. Assn.

Friendship in business is as necessary as advertising, and they are inseparable companions. All advertising must be backed up by the truth and truthfulness is the first requisite of friendship. Kind words, when spoken over the counter, are business getters and trade holders and they are an excellent publicity medium. The successful merchant realizes that when friendship dies off the face of the earth, business too will go by the board and he seeks no better form of advertising than by making friends.

The merchant whose ads appear in this paper are offering you the glad hand of friendship, and the truthfulness of their statement is affirmed by their business reputation, based upon many years of successful selling.

introduced, in Texas, for the following reason:

It is the greatest drouth resisters; yield from three to four crops each season, consequently yields more hay per acre.

The hay is of the very best feeding quality, and all kind of stock like it.

It does not become a farm pest, as it has to be planted each year—does not come from the root the second year.

A small amount of feed was brought over from Sudan three years ago, and all the seed there in the United States was raised from that small amount. It is now scattered over about 15 states of the Union, in small amounts—just enough to advertise it and make a strong demand for the second year.

There cannot be any amount of seed imported from Sudan, for the reason it is a wild growth there, and the native do not save the seed.

To get the best yield of seed, it should be planted as soon as the danger of frost is over in the spring, in rows three feet apart, with a two horse planter, six holes to the plate, of the right size to let a seed drop through nicely.

One pound of seed planted in this way will plant an acre of ground.

Cultivate the same as kaffir, maize, cotton or corn.

It is the greatest known crop to stand dry weather and produce a crop. Also the greatest known crop to stool one seed often makes one hundred stems.

A CONFESSION

Hopes Her Statement, Made Public, will Help Other Women.

Hines, Ala.—"I must confess," says Mrs. Eula Mae Reid, of this place, "that Cardui, the woman's tonic, has done me a great deal of good."

Before I commenced using Cardui, I would spit up everything I ate. I had a tired, sleepy feeling all the time, and was irregular. I could hardly drag around, and would have severe headaches continuously.

Since taking Cardui, I have entirely quit spitting up what I eat. Everything seems to digest all right, and I have gained 10 pounds in weight."

If you are a victim of any of the numerous ills so common to your sex, it is wrong to suffer.

For half a century, Cardui has been relieving just such ills, as is proven by the thousands of letters, similar to the above, which pour into our office, year by year.

Cardui is successful because it is composed of ingredients which act specifically on the womanly constitution, and helps build the weakened organs back to health and strength.

Cardui has helped others, and will help you, too. Get a bottle today. You won't regret it. Your druggist sells it.
