THEN AND NOW.

By the Society Editor.

Winter is sitting lightly on us so far. The warmth and glow of the sunlight is truly exhilarating, makes us want to do something for someone. The larks song seems to say Onward! Onward! everything is progressing, and we feel that we too must up and work if we would keep abreast of the times. Our opportunities are better than ever before.

We are often made to think of this town as we first saw it, a little grocery store, on the west side, owned by Mr. Rippetoe, while a three room Hotel, was being erected by J. R. Hill on the site where the Hill Hotel now stands. Who shall say if the owner had dreams of the handsome building which now covers the spot? A. M. Brownfield occupied what is now the printing office, then situated on the lot where his magnificent dwelling now stands. Afterwards the Court House was built and the school house, simultaneous with the coming of the settlers and old Terry County was born. The school house first mentioned was a one room building, at that time all that necessity demanded, now we have a commodious six room, well equipped structure.

In those days the boys and girls came from fifteen and twenty miles away to attend the round ups, roping contests and hoedowns, the former being the most important. Then we said "we had a time", now we say we were entertained by Mrs. so and so" The former expression tho' homely, was none the less lacking in spirit and fully expressed our appreciation of the occasion. Uncle Joe Hamilton usually came in for his part of the fun in those days, greatly to our amusement and entertainment, when he treated us to a "pigeon wing" performance, while dear old Aunt Laura sat by and looked her appreciation. Mr. Tiernan and wife were numbered with the young, he being then, as now, our peace officer.

Then too, there were such as Mesdames W. R. Spencer, J. L. Randal, J. C. Green, Adolphus Robinson and A. M. Brownfield, with whom I have stood by the bedside and witnessed the passing away of some pioneer life that was so much needed in those days, when we were such a little handful. Then together we have tacked the covering on the rude pine box, which was to be their last resting place, then we have wept over them as we followed them to our little cemetery, which tho' small, as yet, contains for some of us, a story of buried hopes as the years rolled on, and when we remember those trying times which have been, Thank God! supplanted by more favorable ones, we are led to exclaim with the poet:

"There's many a tie of the friendships knot
And the true lovers knot I ween
But there's never a tie, old friend like this

We have drank from the same canteen."

In those days Uncle Jake Adams came to cast his lot among us, bringing his good wife to be our neighbor.

M. V. Brownfield, for whom our town was named, had preceded us here, and his ranch six miles southeast of town, was the first place we visited.

W. G. Hardin and A. F. Small, were also here, but the writer was destined to know more of the former in the future, than we at that time dreamed, and we value the acquaintance enough to say our coming to Terry was a lucky stroke.

In the pioneer days Uncle Billie Howard, also Mr. Gist, came to Brownfield to meeting, now they have a meeting house of their own.

Then our nearest railroad point was Big Springs; now it is a great deal nearer, and we hope soon to hear the whistle of the locomotive in old Terry that we have all worked for, and love so well. With large well filled business houses, with thrifty business men at the helm, what, with our accomplishments against odds in the past, may we not be able to bring to pass in the future?

COMMISSIONER PRECINCT NO. 1.

J. F. Winston

Jno. W. Baker, of Lubbock, has announced himself a candidate for State Treasurer, subject to the Democratic primaries in July. Jno. W. Baker is one of the best business men in West Texas, having successfully guided to success one of the strongest banks in this part of the State, the First National Bank of Lubbock. Not only is he a splendid financier, but he is a gentleman from the top of his head to the bottom of his feet, never stooping to indulge with his fellow man in the little, low, dirty things that come up. He is a life long Democrat and as well fitted for the place as any man in Texas. It is a real pleasure to know Jno. W. Baker, and you'll always feel better after conversing him on business or pleasure, and we ask our readers everywhere to ask about this gentleman before the time comes to vote.

Juries vs. Good Roads

We heard an old and intelligent gentleman make a remark a few days ago that gave us a theme from which a good sermon might be preached. Did we agree with him? Decidedly no, but we didn't argue. His remark was: "We want a Commissioner who will sorter hold up so much money spending on roads; the first thing we know we won't have any jury money." We don't know just how the old fellow felt about the matter, but it seemed as though his thoughts ran "Juries Versus Good Roads." Surely though, we have no citizen that puts lawsuits and contentions among his neighbors about the peaceable pursuit a highway building? Lawsuits are one of the bad things modern civilization has almost been forced to adopt from the bloody ancients. Good roads is one of the few elevating and educational features we more or less voluntarily adopt. Sometimes it seems that lawing, and prosecuting is a necessary evil, but that is its only redeeming feature. They don't win renown for any community, and seldom ever money or satisfaction for the contestants, according to all precedents. We could name one suit in Terry county that has cost enough to build several miles of good clay roads—a benefit to all of us—yet the principals are not satisfied; they dislike each other and no doubt have caused some of their neighbors to take sides and become offended at each other. Oh that we could forever banish lawsuits and juries! Of course we recognize the fact that criminals have to be brought to justice, but good roads and schools are the educational features that are bringing great influence to bear against crime. When the Asplan way was built, Rome was in its flower, but when she sunk into violence and crime, good roads and morals took flight.

Good roads are the harbingers of of refinement, better education, prosperity and a patriotic, law abiding citizenship. Poor roads breed an inhumane feeling toward dumb brutes and cost more in taxes, harness, vehicles, time, money and pleasure. What man is there who will not lose his temper when stalled in sand or mud, lambast his team, tear his hair and cuss the country, one blue streak after another.

Did you know our county has received it hardest knocks on account of the almost impassable condition of our roads a few years ago, before our Commissioners got busy? Only this week we had a letter from a gentleman, who wanted a section of land close to Brownfield—"Providing we had CLAY roads to a railroad point."

Gentlemen our future prosperity and the settlement of our county is absolutely hinged on the condition of our wagon roads. Do we want prosperity? Do we want neighbors? If so then let us no longer knock the Commissioners Court on good roads. As stated heretofore, we don't want to see Terry county in debt, but no candidate for Commissioner need apply for our vote unless he favors good roads, prosperity and education. They all go together. We can do without lawsuits and the measly little jury fees, ($2.50 per day), but we must have roads. The lawyer only is interested in suits; all people should be interested in good roads. The lawyer can get another job—building new roads—but all the people must have roads.

Dear Herald

Kindly permit an expression of appreciation from us for the visit of the young people led by a few older ones, among whom were Bro. McReynolds and wife, Mrs. Welch and mother. The merry crowd slipped in on us unawares, and found the "Kid" sick in bed. Each one slipped into the parlor where Miss Mary and Ben met them and received the gifts brought. Bro. McReynolds entertained and cared for his fellow preacher, while wife, girls and Master Ben mixed and mingled with the jolly and much appreciated young people. January 30 will be long remembered by the entire household, the "Kid" and all.

This preacher has always appreciated the young people in all his experience. God bless each one who sought to bring gladness in our home, and may the joy brought return to each a thousand fold.

NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years, with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death."

Medicines patched me up for awhile but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and I began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken.

I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. There never has been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui. I believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles."

For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength.

If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others.

Harris

By Sand Bur

Last week some one handed us a copy of the Lubbock Avalanche bearing date of Jan. 29. Our attention was attracted to an article with the headlines, "Oh You Terry County!" and we read one half column of ridicule against Harris, Terry County. It seems that Mrs. Sarah K. Ellis, of Harris, Texas wrote the Interior Department and asked for a U.S. flag for her school, saying among other things that some of her pupils didn't know what Old Glory looked like. We don't know how much truth there is in the foregoing report, but we mean to give the editor of the Avalanche a few facts:

Mrs. Ellis is teaching the Cotton school in Yoakum county, and Harris, Texas is merely her post office address. She is an ex teacher in Terry county and never taught where the pupils didn't know what the U.S. flag looked like.

Yoakum county is on our west and we always supposed that her people were the equal of Terry county people for intelligence. We cannot understand why Yoakum county children should be so utterly ignorant of the Star Spangled Banner.

Well, they have their flag now and we actually heard the County Superintendent of Yoakum county advise another one of their teachers to get a flag the same way for her school. Her address is Harris also, and we asked her to please make it plain that she lived in Yoakum county if she wrote for one.

And now, Mr. Editor, we want you to please fight Mr. Avalanche with printer's ink, and make him correct those misleading statements about Harris and Terry county in general.—Well when you got last week's paper, you probably noticed that we cussed the Avalanche man all the mails will permit. Figuratively speaking, we spit over the mark we made with our left big toe, and double-dog dared him to cross it. Failure is good as an apology. All those within the sacred borders of Terry are safe; if anyone says anything mean about them, he is not only roasted by the editor, but comes in for a scalding by the correspondents.—Ed.

How Opium is Secured.
Opium is got by cutting the capsule of the poppy flower with a notched iron instrument at sunrise, and by the next morning a drop or so of juice has oozed out. This is scraped off and saved by the grower, and after he has a vessel full of it, it is strained and dried. It takes a great many poppies to make a pound of opium, and it goes through a number of processes before it is ready for the market. In a liquid state it looks like dark strawberry jam.

Munchausenisms.
A New York journal says there are cornstalks in Connecticut "as large as a small tree." How convenient! Now, in the Ohio valley bottom lands the chief drawback to corn raising is that the squirrels climb the stalks and when safely out of rifle range eat the ears, while the airship in its present development wabbles so that it is no good to shoot from.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Benefit of Wood Ashes.
I had one-eighth of an acre on a gravelly knoll, which bore only June grass, very small and thin at that, says a writer in an exchange. I put on three barrels of wood ashes and clover started well. The next year I put on more ashes and had a fair crop of clover. I put the ashes directly on the turf. A man bought a farm of some fifty acres adjoining mine, and as the old saying is "could not raise beans." He could only keep one cow and a horse the first year, but he made what manure he could and put on about four barrels of ashes to the acre. He followed this for three or four years and during his six years' stay he bought about $25 worth of manure. The last two years he cut a heavy hay crop, kept four cows and two horses, raised 60 bushels of oats, considerable corn and potatoes for his own use and some to sell. He paid $800 and sold for $1,200.

Lubbock Boosters Here

Three car loads of hustling business men of Lubbock, containing fifteen members, came down Monday just before noon, returning about four p. m. Those in the party were:

Jno. W. Baker, Pres. First Nat'l Bank; W. K. Dickinson, Sr. Pres. Grain & Coal Co.; K. Carter, Mercantile Co.; J. D. Caldwell, Jno. P. Lewis & Co.; S. C. Wilson, Western Windmill Co.; Jas. L. These gentlemen are the main hustlers from a hustling bunch, and all expressed themselves well pleased with the looks of everything in the Lubbock trade territory.

These gentlemen met with the Commissioners Court in the afternoon on good road's business, and especially to see if a road could not be run across sections to a junction with their road. While the court were very considerate of the claims of the Lubbock delegation, they declined to vary from the original route, which only lacks seven miles of a juncture, and good grounds for a road over the space intervening.

These gentlemen say their

J. F. WINSTON

Through the earnest solicitation of his many friends, the above gentleman has decided to offer himself as a candidate for Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, subject to the Democratic primaries in July. His platform briefly stated is: "I believe in good roads and good school, and above all in keeping Terry county out of debt. I always want to see her checks worth 100 cents on the dollar." We ask voters in his precinct to seriously consider his claims.

THE RURAL PRESS

The Local Paper a Most Useful Agency on the Farm—The Press, Pulpit and School a Trinity of Influence that Must be Utilized in Building Agriculture.

By Peter Radford.

A broad campaign of publicity on the subject of rural life is needed in Texas today to bring the problems of the farmers to the forefront. The city problems are blazoned upon the front pages of the metropolitan dailies and echoed in the country press, but the troubles of the farmers are seldom told, except by those who seek to profit by the story, and the glitter of the package oftentimes obscures the substance. A searching investigation into the needs of the farmers will reveal many inherent defects in our economic system that can be easily remedied when properly understood and illuminated by the power of the press.

The rural press, the pulpit and the school are a trinity of powerful influences that the farmer must utilize to their fullest capacity before he can occupy a commanding position in public affairs. These gigantic agencies are organized in every rural community and only await the patronage and co-operation of the farmers to fully develop their energy and usefulness. They are local forces working for the best interests of their respective communities. Their work is to build and their object is to serve. They prosper only through the development and prosperity of the community.

Every farmer in Texas should subscribe for the local paper, as well as farm periodicals and such other publications as he may find profitable, but he should, in all means, subscribe for his local paper, and no home should be without it. The local paper is a part of the community life and the editor understands the farmers' problems. It is the local press that will study the local problems and through its columns deal with subjects of most vital importance to local life of the community.

A Noble Task.

In too many instances the country papers mimic the city press by giving prominence to scandals, accidents and political agitation. The new rural civilization has placed upon the rural press renewed responsibilities and enlarged possibilities for usefulness. It cannot perform its mission to agriculture by recording the frailties, the mishaps and inordinate ambitions of humanity, or by filling its columns with the echoes of the struggles of busy streets, or by enchanting stories of city life which lure our children from the farm.

It has a higher and nobler task. Too often the pages of the city dailies bristle with the struggle of ambitious men in their wild lust for power, and many times the flames of personal conflict sear the tender buds of new civilization and illuminate the pathway to destruction. The rural press is the governing power of public sentiment and must hold steadfast to principle and keep the ship of state in the roadstead of progress. The rural press can best serve the interests of the farmers by applying its energies to the solution of problems affecting the local community. It must stem the mighty life current that is moving from the farm to the cities, sweeping before it a thousand boys and girls per day. It has to deal with the fundamental problems of civilization at their fountain head. Its mission is to direct growth, teach efficiency and mold the intellectual life of the country, placing before the public the daily problems of the farmers and giving first attention to the legislative, co-operative, educational and social needs of the agricultural classes within its respective community.

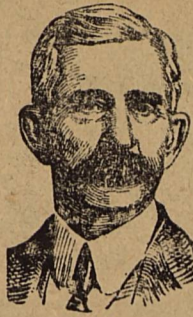

The Power of Advertising.

The influence of advertising is clearly visible in the homes and habits of the farmers, and the advertising columns of the press are making their imprint upon the lives of our people. There are ten pianos in the homes of Texas where there is one bath tub; automobiles are more popular than telephones, and more homes are supplied with patent medicine than with screen doors. The farmer possesses the things that are best advertised.

The farmer is entitled to all the advantages and deserves all the luxuries of life. We need more art, science and useful facilities on the farms, and many homes and farms are well balanced in this respect, but the advertiser can render a service by teaching the advantages of modern equipment throughout the columns of the rural press.

Heart Disease Almost Fatal to Young Girl

"My daughter, when thirteen years old, was stricken with heart trouble. She was so bad we had to place her bed near a window so she could get her breath. One doctor said, 'Poor child, she is likely to fall dead any time.' A friend told me Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy had cured her father, so I tried it, and she began to improve. She took a great many bottles, but she is spared to me today, a fat, rosy checked girl. No one can imagine the confidence I have in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy." A. R. CANON, Worth, Mo.

The unbounded confidence Mr. Canon has in Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is shared by thousands of others who know its value from experience. Many heart disorders yield to treatment, if the treatment is right. If you are bothered with short breath, fainting spells, swelling of feet or ankles, pains about the heart and shoulder blades, palpitation, weak and hungry spells, you should begin using Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy at once. Profit by the experience of others while you may.

Elder Lofton preached at the school house Sunday, to a large crowd.

The young folks had a basket ballgame Saturday evening, that was real interesting. Brownfield boys were expected to come and play our team, but failed, and the boys say they hope they will come soon.

Monday was quite a busy day here. We noticed Simp Currier, C. C. Short, W. E. Cherry, R. W. and Clint Rambo, Mr. Chalk, of the Will McPhaul place, Geo. Copeland, Jim Burnett, W. A. Fulton and Geo. Snodgrass; both the last named parties carrying out riding plows. These farmers sure intend to work this season.

A. P. Moore says his last week's coffee ad in the Herald is sure moving it out, and he says the way these people buys 'lasses beats the record.

Oscar Adams and wife came in from New Mexico Sunday night and left Monday to carry a sick baby to a Doctor at either Lubbock or Brownfield.

Mr. Lemley came in from Ohio last Saturday, to visit his son who lives six miles west of here.

Mrs. A. P. Moore spent last week visiting at Early Key's, and A. P. says he can't understand why she came back with her hair puffed.

Quite a crowd attended the B. Y. P. U. meeting Sunday night.

That Yoakum county teacher's call for flags, reminds us of a story in a New York Magazine, about four years ago, in which the writer described a ranch near the little village of Amarillo in the Panhandle of Texas, the ranch house being shaded with palm trees. The writer either didn't know or thought his readers too verdent to know the difference, and so colored things to suit his fancy. A large U. S. flag was fastened to our Tabernacle at the first OldSoldiers'Re union, and stayed there until the wind wore it out. I've been here ten years, and there was no here that ignorant then, and now take any grade of pupils out of either the Brownfield or Gomez schools, and their knowledge will equal any of similar grade any where in the State. I had twenty-two years experience in the public schools of Texas, and I know whereof I speak.

FREE WOOL.

Texas Sheep Herds Rapidly Increasing and Quality Improving.

The sheep has butted more political parties out of power and trampled more politicians under its feet than any other influence in public affairs. Congress has recently ejected him from legislative halls and, as he runs through the market places bleating for protection against the withering winds of Australian competition and seeks in vain, shelter from floods of free wool from foreign countries, he may arouse the sympathy of the American farmer. The sheep is a statesman of proved ability and wide experience in political affairs and he may make his fleece the paramount issue of the coming campaign.

Some of the most prominent sheep of the nation who are leaders of the ruling families will meet at the Ft. Worth Fat Stock Show on November 22-28 and talk over their recent political defeat and lay plans for future campaigns. Every candidate for office, student of political economy and voter as well, should attend the Fat Stock Show and study the issue which the sheep will present.

The sheep provides food and clothing for man and enjoys the distinction of being the only animal that renders a dual service. King Cotton is a strong rival of wool but, notwithstanding the humiliating competition of vegetable fibre, the production of wool in the United States has increased more rapidly than that of cotton during the past half century.

The 1910 federal census report shows 10,257,779 pounds of wool produced in Texas; 289,419,977 in the United States and 2,695,732,000 in the world. We furnish less than one-half of one per cent of the world's supply and 3.2 per cent of the United States production. Wool is produced in 207 counties in Texas. The farm price per pound of wool last season was 28 cents under an eleven cent tariff, which has since been removed. The annual production per capita in Texas is 2.6 pounds and the average consumption per capita is 5.75 pounds. The world's average consumption approximates one pound per capita.

The report of the United States Department of Agriculture shows we had on January 1st, 2,073,000 sheep valued at $6,012,000. During the past ten years our sheep herds have doubled in number and value per head.
