Everybody come.

Grandma R. R. Lewis returned this week from a visit to her daughter, Mrs. Jim Huckabee, at Snyder. Her son-in-law brought her home.

MORE RAIN THIS WEEK

We are still having an abundance of moisture in old Terry. The precipitation for this week amounting to 2.75 inches, and the ground is wet deeper than it has been for several years if it was ever wetter.

With the rains that fell here two weeks ago, which amounted to over 5.00 inches, gives us about eight inches in the three weeks, and counting that each inch will wet a foot, and that is the proper estimate, we understand, the ground ought to be moist for the depth of eight feet at least.

Come to Terry.

Grandpa Randal Dead

J. L. Randal received a wire Wednesday morning that should have been delivered the day before that his father, L. Randal had died suddenly at the home of his daughter, who lives at Nocona, Texas.

The passing of this old citizen of Texas, will sadden the hearts of many here that knew him for his kindly heart and pleasant disposition. Although 80 years of age, the last time the writer saw him, his mind was as clear as a bell, although his health was fast failing him. He had always wished that he could pass suddenly from this vale of tears, and his request has been granted.

His body will be layed to rest beside that of his wife, who preceded him twelve years to the great beyond, in the city of Seymour, Texas. He leaves the following children to mourn his departure: Messrs. Charley, of Seymour, Texas, Horace, of New Mexico, John of this place, Robert, of Wilson; Mark, of Okla., and Paul of Balmorhea, Texas. Mesdames Wright, of Ivan, Texas, J. T. Hamby, of Roundtimber, Texas, Bal Morris, of Louisiana; Frank Farrar, of Yuma, Ariz.; Sallie McMinn, of Seymour and Frank Cooper, of Nocona, at whose home he passed away.

On account of getting the telegram so late, John did not get to attend the funeral.

The Herald joins the many friends of the family in sympathy in this their hour of grief.

FOR NEW tops and car painting, See Moore Brothers, Lubbock, Texas.

There are some places on the South Plains where sugar has been a scarce article lately. Only this week Barrier Brothers of this place assigned several sacks to a grocery firm at Hale Center Texas.

TOKIO TALKINGS

By Grasshopper.

And still it rains in old Terry.

The Tokio school opened Monday morning with small attendance on account of bad weather and that the new books have not come.

The Misses McWhoirters are the teachers for the Tokio school. We welcome these young ladies to our community, and trust they will be pleased and make a success of the school.

Mr. Whitford went to Brownfield with B. L. Thompson, Monday morning.

Mrs. Jim Key and children visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Holland Saturday night and Sunday.

We should have reported last week that Miss Pearl Rusing returned home with her father. She is much improved in health, but is not very strong yet.

Mr. J. S. Day and children will leave this week for the cotton fields near Post.

The election for voting bonds in this district carried and they will begin on the new building in the near future. School will be conducted in the old building until the new one is done, and then the old one will be converted into a teachers home.

A. V. Taylor went to Brownfield Monday morning after coal and other supplies.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS

By Sand Bur.

We are so situated that we can send in a few items from Harris and a few from the Winn neighborhood, and as there is no other correspondent in this district, we shall proceed to mix our items unless requested not to do so.—"Let us have the items from Winn, by all means.—Ed."

Messrs. McWhoirter and Jackson, of Lubbock spent last Monday night with Brit Clare. They were out to buy cattle but we did not hear of them buying any near Harris.

H. P. French, wife and baby made a trip to Lubock, Saturday.

A number of people are busy making syrup at W. D. Winn's several days last week. We did not see any of the syrup, but we heard one man say that it was the best syrup he ever tasted.

Mr. G. G. Gore, wife and the smaller children made a trip to Brownfield, Monday.

We understand that Mr. Ward has sold out but we haven't learned any particulars.

Millard Ellington and wife returned to their home at Meadow, Sunday.

The Winn school is making good progress under the management of Misses Sarah and Jossie Hudson.

We see some fine crops around the Winn school house, and the farmers work all the time gathering it in. There is lots of grain and some good cotton too, but both grain crops and cotton would have been better, in fact would have been enormous if it had not been so dry through the late summer.

Curley Gamble left yesterday for Lubbock where he will receive treatment for trouble in his ears, from Er. J. T. Hutchinson, a specialist of that city.

NEW GOODS COMING IN

Just received some pretty dresses, coats and suits.

Let us show them to you?

Cream is worth 62c per pound. This is the highest it has been in some time.

We are trying to keep what you want, and our prices are right.

THE IRON TEST

(Synopsis)

Bert Forde, adventurer, who is heir to the Bresford millions, is a performer in the Jenkins circus, in which his cousin, Lewis Craven, is manager. Both are in love with Edith Paige, a beautiful rider. Craven learns that old Bresford is dead and that ten millions await Bert. If Bert dies he (Craven) gets the fortune. Craven keeps the news from Bert, who becomes the victim of mysterious "accidents" bringing him almost daily near death. A stranger wearing a red mask figures in the accidents. One night a knife is thrust between a rope and a horizontal bar. When Bert and Edith are in mid air the rope parts and they are plunged into almost certain death.

Chapter 6.—"Fiery Fate"

Jenkins was overseeing the work of packing preparatory to the removal to another town that night when the horses of Edith and Bert came ambling across the grounds. He saw them and was alarmed. Going to Bert's horse, he noticed blood on the saddle where it had dropped when Peaky's lariat had cut into his wrist.

He immediately started for Craven's hotel to tell him of the newest turn of events. Craven and Peaky, standing on the hotel veranda, saw him coming and the former dashed into his bedroom. He quickly dressed shoes and coat and rewrapped his bandages which he had discarded. Jenkins came up to Peaky, told him his suspicions regarding Bert and Edith and hastened to Craven's room.

"Forde and Miss Page have met with foul play," he shouted.

Craven appeared shocked and grieved. He suggested that they might have been kidnapped, and Jenkins said he would pay $1000 for their return.

While this was going on, Bert and Edith were getting closer to death each moment. The water was up to their chins now, and Bert lifted Edith up on his shoulders to protect her further. Looking up to her he said: "It may be my last word, Edith, dear, but I want you to know—"

A cry from Edith halted him. She was pointing seaward.

"A launch and it is coming; this way, Bert. We are saved."

After moments that seemed ages to the marooned pair, the launch came up. Two masked men stood in the bow. Another, also masked, was at the wheel. The man forward lifted Edith into the boat and then dragged Bert aboard.

They drew near a piece of land and Bert whispered to Edith: "This is where I was marooned." But the boat continued on around the island until it reached a dilapidated landing. There two of the ruffians got out, hauled their captives ashore, and the third, the leader, pointed the launch toward the mainland.

Jenkins, Craven and Peaky arrived at overlook hill and the circus owner leaped to the road.

"Signs of a struggle here," he said. "And her's Miss Page's wrist watch," said Craven, picking up Edith's watch from the ground.

The three re-entered the car and drove back to the circus grounds.

Jenkins alighted at the circus grounds, asked for the news of Bert and Edith and, receiving none, told Peaky to drive Craven over to his hotel. The two alighted at the hotel, went into the bar and had a drink, then repaired to Craven's room to talk. They started to see the commander of the masked men on the motorboat seated in the room, calmly smoking. He greeted them with a wave of the hand and said: "Your two friends that we hung over the cliff seem worth a lot, according to that placard." He indicated a sign Craven had begun offering the reward.

"Where are they? What happened to them?" demanded Craven.

"They are where you won't find them unless you come across. Jenkins offers a thousand. What's your bid?"

"Two thousand," he said. The other shook his head. Then Craven three, four and, finally, five thousand dollars.

"All right. Five thousand for the girl. You can make your own bargain for the man with who ever wants him," said the visitor. He then explained that he would meet them at a secluded creek at five o'clock that day and departed.

Bert and Edith were seated near the fire where one of their kidnappers was cooking. The other, with revolver ready, stood guard over them. Suddenly an aeroplane appeared above them and began to descend. The ruffians kicked out the fire, dragged their prisoners behind a huge rock.

In a few minutes the aviator brought his machine to a halt on the island. He noted the fire and shouted, but got no reply. He examined his gasoline tank and found it dry. Again he shouted. This time Edith screamed for help. One of the guards smothered her cry, but young flyer had heard and he drew his revolver. He looked toward the rocks and he did so, fired. Another shot was heard and he fell to the earth dead. The third outlaw, returning from his ransome mission ashore, had just come on the island and had seen the other fire. Bert and one of the guards joined the leader beside the airplane.

"Know any thing about these things?" asked the outlaw leader.

"No replied Bert. "I couldn't run one but I can find out why he had to land."

He examined it and reported there was no "gas." Thereupon the leader ordered his man to get some gasoline from the launch.

The man with the gasoline was leaning over watching Bert fill the tank. Suddenly Edith screamed, Bert's watcher turned to see what it was. Bert struck him over the head with a wrench. Then he pointed the plane up in the air and rose quickly, the outlaw still clinging to the side. When they were more than 300 feet in the air, the man tried to climb into the car, but Bert, handling the controls with one hand, fought with the other to keep him out. He loosed one of the man's hands, ten the other and the unfortunate criminal fell toward the water below.

A launch was speeding to the spot where the outlaw had dropped into the water and in it was Jenkins, who had started to the island on a vague chance that he might find Bert there. As he gazed upward he saw the airplane start swiftly toward the water in a tail spin and as it neared the surface, the aviator jumped. Jenkins hurried to the scene and as Bert came up, swimming, he recognized him. Within a few minutes, he was along side of Bert and pulled him aboard.

About the time they started for the mainland, the two surviving bandits, who had made off with the girl, were fleeing for their lives. The girl placed in the cabin alone, had reached through an airport and lifted a revolver from the back pocket of her guard while the other was intent running the boat. Then she went on deck and commanded them to hold up their hands.

She was looking toward shore and there saw Craven and Peaky. She was so excited she forgot the wheel and suddenly the launch ran full into the shore, where the water was shallow. The two ruffians leaped into the water and fled. Craven and Peaky came out and took Edith from the boat. She sketched her experiences rapidly and told them of Bert's flight and the rescue after the fall from the airplane. Craven and Peaky then took her to the circus and soon they were joined by Jenkins and Bert.

Then a stranger joined the group and addressed Jenkins who, in turn, introduced him to the others. It was O'Doherty, the detective.

Whether it was O'Doherty's presence or something else, nothing happened that night and the circus was free of "accidents" until the night performance at Benham next day.

Bert and Edith were in the center of a tight rope, she on his shoulders and he feeling his way carefully across the thin line. Detective O'Doherty, looking up at the top of the tent at the moment saw a tiny flame and a pair of glaring eyes above a red mask peering through the hole at the top. He forgot the flame and rushed out side. He was in time to catch the Red Mask as he slid down a rope from the top of the tent. He grasped the man and the pair struggled, the Red Mask fighting like a demon.

Suddenly there was a wild scream as the tent fell. The audience, in a panic, was trying to find its way to the open air. The Red Mask wriggled free from O'Doherty by slipping out of his raincoat and fled into the darkness.

Bert and Edith, the last to realize that the tent was a fire, leaped from the tight wire and started to flee, but they were too late and the mass of blazing, crackling canvas and equipment fell on them.

Earl Alexander, of the City Drug Store, left this week for Dallas to lay in his stock of Christmas goods. Earl said the kiddies of Brownfield were short potted a little last year on account of the war, and he was going to see that every thing they might want was here for them this year. And he said the older kids would not be neglected either.

A couple of the hustling drummers that make their headquarters in Lubbock, were marooned here this week on account of the big rain, and left their car, taking the train to that city, Tuesday morning.

Oscar Campbell and sister, Miss Roxie, left Tuesday for Crosbyton, Texas, where they will pick cotton for their brother.

The Trouble Begins

Dr. Clements of Kosse, reports his boy with two teeth and he will have the chance to do some valuable dental work at home now. There is rejoicing when a baby cuts teeth and its a source of sorrow to the kid that there ever was such a thing as teeth. He must suffer until he cuts this bunch and then he must pull all of those out and cut another lot and then he must have the new lot gouged and scraped and bored and filled and pulled and most of the time he must work on them with a brush and buy much tooth dope. And they must ache weeks and months and all be pulled and then a new set bought which will be loose and sometimes get lost and the only way out of tooth trouble is absolutely to die and yet we rejoice when the poor kid starts his misery.—Lamesa Reporter.

Mrs. J. A. Darden left Tuesday for Grandfield, Okla., where she will visit her parents. While Mrs. Darden and the baby are gone, we guess Albert will get a taste of bachelorhood, if he he has not already done so.

Miss Vonnie Lee Ditto left Tuesday morning for Abilene, where she will enter the Abilene Christian College. We hope her much success and a great year's work.

A NEW SERVICE FOR HOME BUILDERS

The ever onward march of progress records another victory. The old fashioned lumber yard is fast becoming a memory, with its bleak unpainted and dirty office and in its stead is the Modern Building Store where in place of boards and timbers to greet the customers, we see extensive displays of actual photographs of homes and buildings, a large assortment of plans and helps to assist the builder in obtaining the complete building he desires. The material merchants have come to realize that the home builders are not interested in "How many feet of 2 x 4's it takes to frame a house or what that material is worth per thousand feet", but the information they seek is What will my new home look like? How will it be arranged? What will it cost completed?

In answer to this demand of the reading public an extensive building service has been established, known to the country over as the most practical, helpful and economical ever offered to home builders. This organization by name, "Ye Planry" Service furnishes its builder's advise and plans only through the local lumber dealers in each territory. They furnish their dealers, the local lumberman, with a display of modern home plans, suggestions, information etc. pertaining to every department of the building. The owner can go to this local dealer and buy a home or garage from actual photographs just like he would buy any other commodity. The designs they show are the same homes as featured in the Ladies' Home Journal, Holland's Magazine and others National Publications as well as larger city Home Building Campaigns. The citizens of Brownfield should welcome this valuable service as it will bring the latest and best in beautiful homes to our midst and will be instrumental in elevating our civic attractiveness by encouraging the building of more and better homes. The local dealer who has secured this service is the A. G. McAdams Lumber Co., where this display of Homes may be seen by all. You are invited to inspect it and the manager Mr. Prideaux states that every possible assistance will be rendered the builder, even to furnishing complete blue print plans and specifications. The advertising columns of a paper are as much for the benefit of the reader as the news columns and are very frequently more value as a matter of finance. Make use of all the paper.

You can depend on it: When a real settler, the kind that you really want to settle in your community, comes around you prospecting for a new home, the first question he asks you is: "Have you got good schools?" The second is about the churches. The very last question is—now don't get nervous—what is your tax rate. The kind of folks that you do not care to settle among you is the one that will ask the last question first.

There are a couple of Government Scientists here this week looking into the potash possibilities in the big lakes near here. This is an aftermath of the bill introduced in the U. S. Congress some time since by our Congressman Hon. Marvin Jones to have the Agricultural Department investigate the lakes, before they turn German potash on the free list into this country. One of the gentlemen was heard to remark that it "looked good to him."

Even a careless reader will learn a little occasionally. The pictorial section of the Sunday Fort Worth Record gave some ranch scenes in the Panhandle last Sunday, and lo! and behold, they begin in Parker Co. and on through Jack, ending in Clay county. Wonder "where the west begins." The same issue of that semi-metropolitan journal enlightened us to the fact that Olney was the county seat of Young county, and we were always under the impression that Graham was the capital of that sovereign province—but where ignorance is bliss, etc—

There has been a sugar famine in Lamesa for some time but this week the merchants received a lot of sugar that ye editor and a million flies were raised on. In those days most every who married had children and they had lots of them and they raised lots of them too. Just how they got through we don't know but they did.—Lamesa Reporter

TERRIBLY SWOLLEN

Suffering Described As Torture Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs. in two weeks. He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Theford's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Theford's Black-Draught."

Theford's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it! NC-131

My Auto, 'Tis Of Thee

My auto 'tis of thee, short road to poverty; of thee I chant. I blew a pipe of dough on you three years ago, and now you refuse to go or wout or can't. Through town and country you were my joy and pride—a happy day. I loved thy gaudy hue, thy nice white tires new, but now you're and out in every way. To thee, old rattle box, came many bumps and knocks; for the I grieve. Badly thy top is torn; frayed are the seats and worn; the whoping cough affects thy horn, I do believe. Thy perfume sweeps on the breeze, while folks all choke and wheeze as we pass by. I paid for the a price, 'twould buy a mansion twice; now everybody's yelling ice!—I wonder why? Thy motor has the grip, thy spark plug has the pip, and woe is thine. I, too, have suffered chills, ague and kindred ills, endeavoring to pay bills since thou wert mine. Gone is my bank roll now, no more 'twould choke a cow as once before. Yet if I had the mon so help me, John, I'd buy myself a car and speed some moore. —Walt Mason.

A CHANCE TO TRAVEL

There will be a recruiting party from the 19th U. S. Infantry in Lubbock for the next few days accepting applicants for all branches of the Regular Army, and a member of this party will be in Brownfield to give information to those who wish to enlist.

Lieut. L. L. Kotzebue, the officer in charge, is at present in Lubbock, but will be in our town some day this week, and he states that he has some wonderful openings for alert wide awake young men in all branches of the service, the Infantry, Artillery, Cavalry, Motor Transport Corps, Tank Corps, Medical Department, Quartermaster Corps, Ordnance Corps, in fact in any branch of the service. Enlistments are for three years for the first enlistment, and for one year for previous service men.

This affords an unusual opportunity to the ambitious young man between the ages of eighteen and forty years to travel, as one may, upon enlistment be given a trip to Europe, Alaska, Siberia, Hawaii, The Philippine Islands, or to almost to any part of the United States. Look up the recruiting sergeant in this city to day or drop a line to the Recruiting Office, Lubbock, Texas, and he will send a representative or come personally to talk the matter over with you.

Call For 100 Physicians

In order that every possible contingency may be provided for in the event of a recurrence of influenza in epidemic form, I am now calling upon the medical profession for 100 volunteer physicians who are willing, in case of the necessity arises, to serve as acting assistant surgeons of the United States Public Health Service, cooperating with the State Board of Health, at a salary of $200.00 per month, $4.00 per diem for subsistence, together with railroad fare.

It is the desire of the United States Public Health Service and the State Board of Health to enlist 100 physicians who are willing to go to any designated point in the State and do relief work during a possible epidemic of the influenza and without any charges for their services other than that above indicated.

Physicians desiring to enlist in this volunteer corps may do so by filing their applications in writing with me. All applications received will be duly recorded and given careful consideration in the order in which they are received.

Very truly yours,
C. W. Goddard, M. D.,

PLUMB PIAN PLUMB ROTTEN

According to our limited vision the Plumb plan is plumb rotten and is the entering wedge of Bolshevism in this fair country. To take property or the revenues earned by property, not your own, would be little short of what the outlaws of Russia have been doing for a year or more. If the Union men want a share in the earning of the railroads they work upon they should first invest their money in railroad securities. Those who own stock in the roads are the only ones who are entitled to profits earned by the roads.—Childress Post.

L. P. Adair Commits Suicide at Fort Worth

In Tuesday's edition of the Fort Worth Star Telegram, contained an account of the death by suicide of L. P. Adair, son of Mrs. Adair, who is at present residing with her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Crie, in Tahoka. The paper stated that Mr. Adair was riding alone in a boat on Lake Worth near the city, and was seen to jump over board by two persons at the widest part of the lake, which was something like 40 feet depth. Up to the time this is being written no particulars have been received of the death by the family here. Deceased leaves his mother and several sisters to mourn his loss.—Lynn County News.

NO POLITICS IN IT

The Clarendon News says if the question of dividing Texas ever becomes an issue, it will have something to say and some facts to lay on the table. Well, with all due regard to our Donley county exchange, facts are something that so far the opponents of division have not put forth in their arguments. The facts have been on the side of the divisionists. About all the anti-divisionists have said is something about the "empire state," and about the sentiment of the Alamo. There is on question if Texas was divided into two or three or four states the people would have better laws, taxation would be less and the states more prosperous. Editor Loomis of the Canadian Record has been writing some articles in favor of division that are unanswerable. The claim of the Clarendon paper that "political ambition" is at the head of the division is all bosh.—Plainview News.

Everybody's Doing It

The Baptist are making a drive for millions; the Methodist have been making a big drive for millions; the Salvation Army are on a drive for millions; then there is the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. white race, just that long will mob violence prevail. It makes no difference whether that home be in the Sunny South or in the frigid zone of the North Pole. People 'back north' may rave on about the treatment of the negro in the South, but we notice when their ox gets gored Judge Lynch usually presides at the trial of the defendant. Southern people understand the negro far better than his northern admirers and therefore have a better knowledge of how to handle the colored race than those across the Mason Dixon line. And it can be truthfully stated in this connection that the negro has more respect for the Southern people than he does for his Northern friends, for for down here in this country we a negro his place and he knows the result if he gets out of line. As long as negroes commit such unspeakable as the one alleged in Omaha, just that long will Judge Lynch hold office.—Taylor County Times.

The Weekly Paper.

Under the caption of "The Weekly Paper," several different newspapers have recently taken the following optimistic view of the future and importance of the home newspaper: The weekly newspapers of this country are coming into their own. The editors ask fewer favors and bring more into the store of common good than at any time in the past. They do not ask apologies, nor do they resent criticism. They are content to be judged by what they are and what they have accomplished. Closest to the people, nearest to their home life, its hopes and aspirations, the editors of weekly newspapers at this time are the real foundation of journalism in America.

The weekly paper has been cussed and boycotted and threatened, but it has gone peacefully on working out its own existence, and doing that which it felt was best for the general public. There are a lot of fellows standing around ready to tell the editors how to run the paper, but as general rule they are men who have made a failure of everything they have attempted in business way. The good thing a newspaper does and the favor extended are seldom heard of, and the "thank you's" are mighty rare. But the editor of the weekly paper knows he has the best people with him—and he drives straight ahead.

All of which leads us to remark that the Nanty-Glo man who indorses an institution intended primarily to help him and his town and his business is again cordially invited to prepare for his fall and winter reading. The office door is wide open to you. There is a hand-shake and a welcome for you on the inside. Come in and let's chat for a while and see if it doesn't leave both of us feeling better.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

WAR IS NOT OVER UNTIL BILLS PAID

American soldiers in Europe must be fed and brought home. Until that is done the war will not be over, declares Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury. Buying War Savings Stamps will help the Government in making its final settlement of war obligations.

"There are two million American soldiers in Europe," Secretary Glass points out, "and obligation is just as much on the Government today as when the guns were firing to see that they are maintained in comfort, to provide for their return home. It is just as important, and even more important, to impress upon the American people the necessity of cultivating the habit of thrift and saving."

"The war will not be over until the United States Government has honorably met every commitment made in order to win the war."

JULIUS HAD NOTHING ON CAESAR OF TEXAS

J. Caesar of Rome, Italy, who took everything in sight he wanted, is dead and has been for a long time, but Caesar, Texas, is just a little more alive than anything else on its section of the map.

The word "Caesar" seems to stand for action and they do things at Caesar, Texas. For one thing—they stand loyally behind their Government.

Like thousands of other cities and towns, Caesar was swept by the War Savings movement last year. Every citizen who could bought or agreed to buy War Savings Stamps. Postmaster W. J. Vaughn now reports that every pledge has been kept, that no applications have been made to cash War Savings Stamps and that the Caesarites are still backing up the Government with their money.

Julius Caesar had "nothing on" Caesar of Texas.

CANADIAN AVIATORS PROVED WISE BIRDS

When the members of the Royal Flying Corps, who trained in the Eleventh Federal War Savings District, returned to Canada, many of them had become enthusiastic buyers of War Savings Stamps. Having been given a taste of buying Government securities for small amounts, they became so insistent that the Canadian Government inaugurated a system of War Savings Stamps, similar to that in the United States.

"The leading men of the world today," recently declared a Canadian financier, "those charged with directing its affairs, realize that the exercise of thrift is absolutely necessary for the restoration of normal conditions in all countries."

"It is to be observed also that these men consider it as necessary for the people of the United States and Canada—countries undamaged by the war—to save as it is for those of France and Belgium to do so. It is the condition on which financial and industrial recovery is based."

Jimmie Green, our aimable and efficient County and District Clerk, has purchased a very fine section of land laying about three or four miles southwest of town, from a non-resident living at Leighton, Ala., by the name of C. Streit. Mr. Green has maintained from the time that he first became a candidate for the office of County and District Clerk that he would not be a third turner, and this purchase of a fine section of dirt in old Terry looks like he aims to keep the faith of the people.

Chock Hamilton handed us the price one day last week to keep the Herald headed his way another 12 months. Chock is one of our best young farmers, and is strictly a business man, for he never permits his paper to run behind.

J. W. Spear and wife returned on Monday's train from the Lubbock Sanitarium, where he was recently operated on for stones in the bladder. The old gentleman walked to the car from the train, and we heard a number say that they never expected to see him alive again, much less to walk around, and we believe Mr. Spear shared the belief.
