Mrs. Dallas Entertains

In honor of Mrs. Merriwether, a former member of Presbyterian Aid society, but now of Clovis N. M. Mrs. Dallas invited a number of friends from the other church societies in town to meet in her hospitable home Monday at regular Aid meeting.

The regular lesson was conducted by the President, Mrs. Dallas, a study of Prophets of Old and New Testament was lesson topic. Each member responded to her part and the visitors also gave some helpful comments. After the lesson the Aid adjourned to meet next with Mrs. Shelton. An hour was then spent socially some brought needle work. The mingling of friends together, and pleasure of having our dear friend and co-worker again with us, made our hearts glad.

The hostess then served delicious ice cream and cake. The guests and members after giving Mrs. Merriwether a most hearty welcome, on her visit here and warm in praise for their hostess, with whom it is always a pleasure to meet, repaired to their respective homes.

COTTON COMING IN

Although the bad weather of the past few weeks has caused a lack in the fleecy staple, but nevertheless, every day that will permit the pickers to enter the fields, sees a large number of bales on the streets of Ralls. At this time last year there had been something over 600 bales ginned here, and the total yield was estimated at 2500 bales, while this year something near 5000 have been ginned and the yield is estimated at anywhere from 10,000 to 15,000 bales.—Ralls Banner.

Married

Mr. Chester Gore and Miss Ona Walker pulled one over on their many friends last Sunday by getting married. Of course this affair was not altogether unexpected, but still very few of us knew the date that these popular young people had set.

Chester is our popular marketman, attends strictly to business and is making good in his profession and trade.

Miss Ona is one of our sweetest and purest maidens, and will make Chester a true and efficient helpmeet.

Both are of excellent families of this county, and the Herald hastens to join their many friends in congratulations.

Another Marriage

There was almost an unexpected marriage here Wed. afternoon, when Mr. Bob Alberding and Miss Lela Hill were quietly united in the holy bonds of wedlock.

The bride is a charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hill of the Tokio country, and was attending high school here. She was reared in Brownfield, and we are not so sure but that she was among the first babies born in Brownfield. Any way, she is well known here, everyone likes her and has a good word to say about her, and being Terry raised, she will not fail to make the husband an ideal wife.

The groom is new here, having recently moved here with his parents from Wichita Falls, but his family comes well recommended.

The Herald joins the many friends of the happy pair in congratulations.

BROWNFIELD TEACHERS ARE PLEASED WITH SUPT. FARRAR

We, the teachers of the Brownfield School rest assured that all people who are interested in the school have noticed long ere this that we have in charge of our schools, a superintendent, who is always on duty, and what is more, he does not stop until every pupil is on duty. We wish however, to give you our opinion of Mr. Farrar since we have had even better opportunity than you to find out just for what things he stands.

We find his quick step just as typical of his alert mind, for he is an efficient instructor, arranging at the same time for the various phases of training necessary for the pupil in every grade.

Fear of gaining disfavor of any one when he is urging action never enters his mind, but he rather pushes forward until his suggestions are acted upon by the pupil.

We have found him a most congenial and cooperative superintendent. We certainly do not assume that you do not appreciate our superintendent, for we have heard such a large number of patrons express their appreciation, but we merely wish to add our good word as a special Christmas Greeting.

FOURTEENTH DECENNIAL CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES

By the President of the United States of America.

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas by the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1919, the Fourteenth Decennial Census of the United States is to be taken beginning on the second day of January, 1920; and

Whereas, a correct enumeration of the population every ten years is required by the Constitution of the United States for the purpose of determining the representation of the several States in the House of Representatives; and

Whereas, it is of the utmost importance to the interests of all the people of the United States that this Census should be a complete and accurate report of the population and resources of the Nation;

Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby declare and make known that, under the law aforesaid, it is the duty of every person to answer all questions on the census schedules applying to him and the family to which he belongs, and to the farm occupied by him or his family, and that any person refusing to do so is subject to penalty.

The sole purpose of the Census is to secure general statistical information regarding the population and resources of the country and replies are required from individuals only to permit the compilation of such general statistics. No person can be harmed in any way by furnishing the information required. The Census has nothing to do with taxation, with military or jury service, with the compulsion of school attendance, with the regulation of immigration or with the enforcement of any national, state or local law or ordinance. There need be no fear that any disclosure will be made regarding any individual person or his affairs. For the due protection of the rights and interests of the persons furnishing the information every employee of the Census Bureau is prohibited, under heavy penalty, from disclosing any information which may thus come to his knowledge.

I therefore earnestly urge upon all persons to answer promptly, completely and accurately all inquiries addressed to them by the enumerators or other employees of the Census Bureau and thereby to contribute their share toward making this great and necessary public undertaking a success.

In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

DONE in the District Court of Columbia this tenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and nineteen, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty- (Seal.) fourth.

WOODROW WILSON.

William Phillips
Acting Secretary of State.

It is necessary for the Banner to collect $250 on subscription during the next two weeks. Some of our readers are as much as four years in arrears, and as we have carried them through the dull years, and as we are now at a point where the money is imperatively needed we feel that our subscribers should and will respond to this appeal.—Ralls Banner.

How do you do it? If a Herald reader gets a year behind, he has to do some tall talking. We don't believe we have a name on our books over four or five months behind. We can't carry them at the present prices of everything.

And now the labor unions propose to put out a candidate for president. Such times as are now have brought about many changes, and we have extremes on most everything. Ingratitude too, seems to rule the day. Labor avows that it will wipe the Democratic party from existence, and in turn will relegate the Republicans. Wonderful, beautiful dreams, mirage, of the future as seen by radical minds. Never before in the history of the world has labor been granted the privilege it holds today, and yet it is not satisfied, but craves more. We wonder what the people will say who are suffering for coal, when a labor man comes out for president. We are curious to know what the farmers—those who have suffered most from Labor demands—will say. It would be very amusing should Labor break into the "sacred" and "holy" realms of politics.—Ralls Banner.

THE FIRST PROFITEER (By J. H. Lowery)

Jacob was perhaps the world's first profiteer. He is the first profiteer we read of in Holy Writ, and if there had been profiteers before him, I am sure the Good Book would have handed their names down so that posterity might have anathematized the old scoundrels. Jacob did just what the profiteer of today is doing. He caught somebody that had to have something and socked the price to him good and strong. Opportunities for skinning strangers and the public were not as good then as now, and so Jacob, a profiteer by nature, skinned his brother. Esau was hungry, and it was with him as it was with the thirsty individuals of today—not a question of price but of getting the goods. Esau was hungry and Jacob had some pottage. Esau offered a fair price, plus twenty per cent, but Jacob said there was nothing doing. Finally Jacob was asked to name his price, and Esau was told he could have all the pottage he could devour if he would sign a quit claim deed to his birthright and his position as head of Iseral. Esau declared the price unreasonable, but Jacob told him he could pay the price or leave the pottage alone. There was no other pottage stand within a day's journey, so Esau signed on a dotted line and ate the pottage.

Periodicals Halted by Gotham Strike Resume

New York.—Sixty New York periodicals have arranged to resume publication, printing outside of this city, some of them permanently and others until the local printing labor situation is strightened out. The Literary Digest has secured several additional converts to its method of printing from plates photographed from original typewritten sheets, and several trade papers are being mimeographed.

The out-of-town printing work is being done with the consent and assistance of the Printers' league, which helped the publishers to make the necessary connections in many shops east of the Mississippi river. The cities helping out are: Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, San Francisco, Dayton, Yonkers, Albany, Jamestown, Stamford, Worcester, Cutztown, Scranton, Baltimore, Schenectady, Springfield, Paterson, Scarsdale, Hartford and Poughkeepsie.

While the situation is still tangled it was announced by the Printers league last week that several shops had reopened with union compositor and pressmen. Efforts are still being made by the Pressroom Expressmen, foremen, to compose the difference between the international and local unions of the pressmen, but success had not attended the negotiations to date.

TERRIBLY SWOLLEN

Suffering Described As Torture Relieved by Black-Draught.

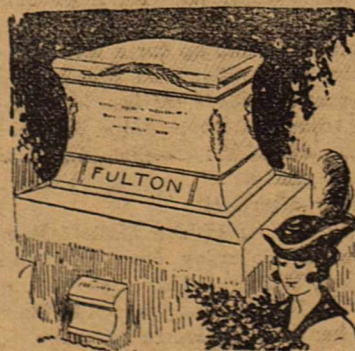

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks.

He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Thedford's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Thedford's Black-Draught."

Thedford's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it! NC-131

PIANT TEXAS GROWN COTTON SEED.

The supply of really first-class cotton seed for planting the 1920 crop in Texas is somewhat limited. More limited this year than normal because of weather conditions in the Eastern half of the State which cut the 1919 crop for many of the producers of the best seed. The boll weevil has been bad, boll rot has been prevalent and a great deal of cotton has been left in the fields until the seeds have become damaged and often rotton. Weather conditions have made it difficult also to store cotton seed in large bins without damage from heating. These facts have caused apprehension on the part of many people. Many inquiries are being received as to the source of planting seed. It is the main purpose of this letter to advise Texas planters to look for Texas grown seed and to warn them against the indiscriminate purchase of cotton seed from states east of Texas. Most of such seed is the inferior to standard Texas varieties for planting under Texas conditions. The staple will be shorter, it will be less storm resistant, and the yield will usually be less, if this eastern seed is planted. Triumph, Rowden, Lone Star, Truitt and other selection, such as Mabene, Kasch, Belton, Bennett, etc., represent early large boll, high yielding varieties that should be largely grown. And under some conditions Acala, Snowflake, Foster and Meade, representing varieties with better staple, but usually smaller bolls.

There are two sources of Texas grown seed of the better varieties. One source is to buy the best seed in the cotton breeding sections in various places in the Eastern half of Texas from the breeders whose business it is to produce seed; have a germination test made by the Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station and then plant enough of the seed to obtain a stand, planting a double amount for 50 per cent seed, etc. Choice seed should not be thrown away because of low germination. It still carries the factors for producing superior cotton.

The other source is to get good farm run seed from Texas counties which have suffered least from weather conditions.

West and Northwest Texas has produced a very large crop of cotton this past season and the seed is usually very sound. This seed may not be as pure as if purchased direct from the seed breeder, but it is far better than seed of inferior varieties grown at too great a distance from the place where it is to be planted. This is a good source of seed and makes importation as unnecessary as it is undesirable.

THIS EDITOR HAS REAL ADVERTISING FORESIGHT

Springfield, Ill.—Clipped from an Illinois newspaper the following article of the accidental shooting of a small boy in that city indicates a depth of advertising foresight in describing the account.

"Billy Dingbats, 10 years 2 months, 1 day 17 ticks old (Wilson time), son of old Hiram Dingbats, the well known and popular junk man, had his hide fully punctured while playing in front of Hawkins' large and up to date lumber yard, by a 22 caliber revolver just bought of Al McClain, the good-looking and accommo dating clerk in Charley Auer's complete hardware store.

"The bullet, entering his left side, made a bad powder burn in a new suit recently purchased at Reinheimer's big sale now in progress (advertised elsewhere in this issue.)

"The lad was attempting to open an 11-cent box of Mike Poulos' delicious crakerjack with the barrel of the gun when the sad accident happened. As Billy fell to the ground he almost busted an expensive never squirt fountain pen, sold only by Engle, it being saved only by a triple composition rubber case, furnished each purchaser without extra charge.

"The funeral was held in the commodious undertaking parlors of our well-known and flowing-haired Sipes and the services were in charge of that eloquent and tear producing pulpit pounder and sob artist, Rev. I. M. Mournful. It was a very sad affair and many handkerchiefs were in evidence, among which were several of those beautiful lace-edge ones which Sully is now selling at $1.38. The remains were laid to rest in one of Goggin's imperishable concrete vaults north of John Hall's alfalfa patch, which, by the way is one of the finest pieces of alfalfa ever grown on the chin of any human being."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Author and Poet, Dead.

New Haven, Conn.—Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox, author and poet, died at her home, "The Bungalow," in Branford, the other day. Mrs. Wilcox had been ill for some months having had a nervous collapse while engaged in war work in England. Her death was not unexpected to those who shared the seclusion of her home.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox was probably the most prolific woman writer of verse this country has had. She was sixty four years old when she died, and she began her writing 50 years ago, when she was a fourteen-year-old child, in Johnstown Center, Wis., where she was born in 1855. She was a graduate of the University of Wisconsin.

The first poem she sent out was accepted. By the time she was twenty-nine, when she married Robert M. Wilcox, in 1884 she had had four books of verse published, including "Maurine," a novel in verse, and "Poems of Passion," which has remained perhaps the best known of her books. Her last book, "The World and I," an autobiography, was published last year. She wrote 31 books in all. The first collection of her poems was called "Shells," and was published in Milwaukee.

Her first paid poem was sold to Frank Leslie's publishing house for $6. From that time she had little trouble in making her living by writing.

A Doctor to Old Shoes.

To reduce the high cost of walking, the United States Department of Agriculture has become a doctor to old shoes—not a general practitioner, but a consulting specialist both in diagnosis and treatment. One of its most recent prescriptions, evolved by the Bureau of Chemistry, has to do with a pair of last winter's shoes that, about this time of the year, are pulled out of the closet all full of mildew and looking hopelessly done for. The prognosis is that the disease is not fatal, but that the shoes are good for a month or two anyhow. The treatment: Brush or rag, applied externally; castor oil, small quantity vigorously rubbed in; sunshine, one or two days.

ORGANIZED PATRIOTISM

The Bolshevist-minded, the sossins of government, the enemies of society (name the element as you) display practical virtues which they use to serve their bad purpose. They believe in organization. They never worry in propaganda. Headed off in one direction, they find another. They are ceaselessly active. They are not satisfied to leave the future to evolutionary development. They rant, they cajole, they intimidate, when ever they have the opportunity. They resort to every known species of falsehood and misrepresentation to win converts. Except, perhaps the Mormon Church, there is no company so persistent. It is time for the majority to take a lesson from theminority and look to its organization. Sometimes by maleficent missioneries from abroad and sometimes by the product of native zigzag brains no inconsiderable number of persons have been weaned from a just and living comprehension of American ideals. There is need to blow the fires of liberty once more into flame, to scatter the ashes of indifference which have accumulated.

We possess schools of patriotism. There are the army and the navy. No boy or man can long serve in either without catching something of the spirit which gives the flag its meaning. There is the National Guard. Its contacts are wholesome and stimulating. There are the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts; no lad or girl can be in either and not come out something of an American.

But existing agencies need supplementing. The call of duty comes also to the civilian. Membership in some patriotic society should be universal. And the membership should see that not all the time is consumed in consideration of immediate problems—there should always be emphasis on fundamentals.

The words of Lincoln came down the years, "Let every American" he said, "every lover of liberty, every wellwisher to his posterity, swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others."

Americans have too much been sneered into keeping quiet about the principles on which the country was founded and which are as pertinent today as in 1776. The baggart American, who was forever boasting of the institutions of his country, may have been somewhat of a nuisance, but more can be said for him than for the flabby American who does not know or care—who enjoys blessings coming from the past without doing anything to protect them for the future.

Patriotism should become more organized; not only more organized but more earnest, more militant, more intelligent. We have been eulogizing Colonel Roosevelt because he shook the country out of its materialism. Who will deserve as well by shaking it out of the sloth of indifferentism—out of the fatal notions that all the questions are solved and that it is no longer necessary to be active in defence of the general welfare.

Most of our political, social and industrial problems would be solved if organized self-seekers met counter organizations. At the threshold should be met those who do not reverence democracy and conceive of government as an agency to advance their private interests without regard to the effect on general interests.

WHAT AMERICAN HOSPITALS ARE DOING.

A summary of excerpts of the address by Mr. Cornelius S. Loder of New York on "the American Hospital as a National Asset" at the Lubbock Methodist church on Sunday evening November 30th, 1919.

The value of hospitals to the American nation and their sacrifices during the period of the war in the interest of humanity was presented through an address at the Lubbock Methodist Church on Sunday evening last, November 30th, by Mr. Cornelius S. Loder of New York City. Mr. Loder showed a familiarity with his subject and his statements were listened to with profit and benefit by those who were present.

It was clearly proven that the American hospitals are monumental in all aspects, especially in investment, buildings, persons engaged, and services rendered. The total investment in lands, buildings, equipment and furnishings exceeds $2,750,000,000.00. The average daily population of doctors, nurses, employees, and patients is more than 1,250,000. The number of men, women and children admitted annually is about 8,000,000.

There are 8500 hospitals in the United States containing 850,000 beds. Of the above institutions 1500 are public; that is, institutions operated by the state, county or city in which they are located and including also those operated by the Federal Government. The remaining 7000 hospitals are privately owned and operated and included are those institutions financed by persons who are philanthropically inclined.

When church hospitals were mentioned, Mr. Loder showed how Protestants, Catholics and Hebrews conducted their work on a strictly non-sectarian basis. A person needing a hospital bed is never questioned on their religious faith and belief except for the purpose of compiling the required history of a case. There is no other one line of activity that is so broad and generous in this respect although splendid examples of this principle was shown continually in connection with the Red Cross work and other activities made necessary on account of the war.

There are today hospitals specializing in one class of service only, such as those admitting mental and nervous cases, women's and children's institutions, incurable hospitals, tuberculosis, surgical, etc. making in all about 16 to 20 classifications.

There has been wonderful growth in the hospital work. Forty five years ago there was 149 hospitals with a total bed capacity of 35,453 beds. Today there are 25 hospitals beds to one bed forty five years ago. Within the coming few years the growth will be more rapid with more interest shown in the institutional work by a larger number of persons than at any previous period in our history. This progress is traceable directly to the war for the hospital work was brought most closely to the hearts of all our people on account of the splendid service performed.

The sacrifices of the hospitals is something worthy of special comment and is a thing that should be remembered always by the American people and also by them cordially appreciated. On every side and in every way the hospitals sacrificed without stint or limit. No other activity of national scope can compare proportionately with the splendid work done by the hospitals during the war. The professional workers, namely the doctors and nurses, answered the call to the service. Many physicians and surgeons relinquished highly and profitably their own work. But these women nurses did not know what they might expect because of the atrocious conduct of the enemy toward all womanhood, yet they answered the call largely. Food values advanced and the bills for surgical supplies were greatly increased. The kitchen, laundry and cleaning helpers left the hospitals in large numbers seeking employment where wages were larger than those paid by the hospitals. It would seem as though the above losses would more than suffice in breaking the spirit of the institution but in addition to all of the above, many thousands of persons accustomed to supporting local institutions ceased helping them so that their available funds could be used for national causes where great needs were shown. The climax came when the influenza epidemic crowded in upon us to an hitherto unknown extent. Everyone can recall its effect on our lives and interests and we recall those days with great sorrow. But what would the loss of life have been if we had had no hospitals. They saved us, for what we needed most was organization. It has been estimated by reliable authorities that in connection with our war work and when facing this epidemic that the life savings exceeded 1,000,000. Our hospitals stood the test; they squarely faced every obligation and to day they are stronger and we as a people are better informed on their work and the benefits to be derived through their use due entirely to their great heart service in the interest of us all.

It is therefore right that we should recall with feelings of deepest gratitude of how we were saved and helped through these thousands of health centers in our land. They represent the conservation of health and the better control of disease.

In closing, I would like to urge on you people of Texas that you show more largely your interest in hospitals and that you support them generously. It should be noted that in Texas there are about 350 institutions with a total bed capacity of about 16,000. But your state is backward and its volume of work does not compare favorably with many other states. Throughout the United States there is one hospital bed for every 170 of population, while in Texas there is one hospital bed for every 468 of population. Other States are engaged now in increasing their bed capacity and it is time for this great State to arouse herself and go into this work in a modern way.

H. L. Taylor, of Lubbock, will preach at the Christian church, Sunday and Sunday night. All are invited to hear him.

WHAT is the use of going or sending to New York and paying from $15 to $25 for a pair of spectacles, when you can get them from Geo. Awalt, at Hill Hotel for just half that price, and a fit guaranteed; try him.

The city of Lubbock has voted thousands of dollars for paving and waterworks. This is a great move ahead, neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spear left this week for Knox City, where they will spend some time visiting their daughter.

WHAT CHRISTMAS SEALS ARE DOING.

Austin, Texas—Red Cross Christmas seals built the Children's Hospital at Galveston in 1912. The sale of these seals in 1917 enabled the Texas Public Health Association to donate later $1,000 for the upkeep and additions for the hospital which was decided to the state, and is now connected with the John Sealy Hospital.

"The 1919 Red Cross Christmas seal sale is 'going over' strong," declared O. M. Lowry, campaign director, and I predict that the sale, held Dec. 1 to 10, will provide funds for much more health work over the state. When all reports are collected at headquarters, I believe we will find that over 20,000,000 of the little seals of good health have been sold. The ninety per cent of the $200,000 raised will remain in the Lone Star State for the benefit of Texans."

The Children's Hospital cares for crippled and deformed children, especially those with glandular and bone tuberculosis. Many cases are cured every year, and the little tots are brought back to a healthy, happy life, and are made as strong and well as ever.

Such work is only one phase of the health activities of the Texas Public Health Association in its fight against tuberculosis. Field workers, public health nurses, and other staff workers are sent among every race and class of people in Texas. Open air schools, free clinics, preventoria, dispensaries, tuberculosis hospitals and other anti-tuberculosis institutions are being worked for; and with a successful seal sale an extensive health program is planned for 1920.

Another year is coming to a close, and while the fact always brings a lot of solemn thoughts, we consider that our community has every reason to rejoice. We have had our days of trial and difficulty, but we now look forward to another year of prosperity and contentment.

The war is over and the boys are home again—the drouth is almost forgotten. Let us hope our internal troubles will soon be settled; that capital and labor shall meet on a common plane and that justice and a "square deal" shall prevail. And while we have fond hopes for the future, and are glad for our mutual prosperity let us not forget that all these blessings bring responsibilities. The officers and directors of the Brownfield State Bank, when we look at the wonderful business we have enjoyed at the hand of the community, can only humbly and gratefully thank everyone who has in any way, contributed to our success. We want you to know that we appreciate your support, and we will try harder than in the past to serve you and will try to be a factor in the upbuilding of Brownfield and old Terry county. We operate a State Bank because we believe it is good business to furnish the public absolute, honest-to-goodness dollars and cents security for its deposits. We are members of the Federal Reserve System, thus giving our patrons the same advantages that comes from the National System. We have one of the best Bank Buildings in West Texas, built at a time when the expenditure of the money was of greatest benefit to our community.

Our equipment, our resources, our expense and friendly advice are for our patrons. Do you have Liberty Bonds, Stocks, Notes, Deeds and other valuable papers which you would like to keep in a safe place? Deposit them in our large fire proof vault. We will be glad to handle them for you, and this service is free. We are thankful for 1919; we welcome 1920. Wishing all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year, we are,

Terry County Farmers Should Organize a Hog Raising and Shipping Association

I am a subscriber and constant reader of two of the best farm journals published in Iowa and Wisconsin and it is with much interest that I have learned of the successful workings of the Farmers growing and shipping associations as applies to their growing of dairy cows and hogs and the shipping of the same.

Just at this time I see just such a need for the very same thing on the part of us Terry county farmers.

At this time I have a few hogs to sell, some that I could ship, and a little later I will have more but as it is, not having a car load, I will be handicapped for a market. So it has occurred that it would be such a good plan for the farmers who are interested in good hogs to meet and there organize an association and let each man say that he will try to supply such a number of hogs each month and thereby we can ship out of old Terry County car load after car load of hogs during the next year.

I am not often in the county, not there nearly as much as I would like to be but I will agree to try to grow and ship a reasonable number of hogs each month.

Why cant we form an association that would have for its aim the shipping of one car of hogs each week? We can do it, we have the finest corn county in the state so why not boost our county by forming this association and let our motto be A CAR OF HOGS TO MARKET EACH WEEK?

I will do my part. All of my interests in the way of hog raising there has to be done with high priced hired labor but I am in strong for more hogs and better marketing arrangements, as I see it that can only be accomplished by a number of farmers agreeing on some definite plan.

In the next twelve months I will agree to furnish 100 head of GOOD hogs so lets hear from eight or ten, or better twenty or thirty men who would pledge enough so that we can send out of old TERRY a car of hogs every two or three weeks. The same could be done with the shipping of milk and cream if we would but cooperate and buy a few cars of fine milk cows. Then we could count ourselves farming in a manner that will mean money in our pockets.

GOOD OLD TERRY

It makes one's heart feel good to just go down to the local railroad yards these days and look what is being loaded out to the hungry world. It makes one love old Terry better every day and in fact we have come to the point where we almost adore the old girl and want to hug her blessed old "sandy" sides. Besides the thousands of pounds of poultry going out on every train, and the car after car of fat cattle, good mules and horses, and between seven and eight hundred bales of cotton, $140,000.00 worth not to mention the seed, there are from five to seven cars of corn and maize loading all the time. Besides this, there are thousands of bushels of corn being piled up to await the sheller, as car after car of shelled corn will go to the drouth stricken northwest.

Corn in the shuck finds a ready market in Texas and the southeast states, but it takes shelled corn to get a market in the north or northwest. One big warehouse 40x60 was taken over for storage of corn that was to be shelled, and in the first few days of the opening it was groaning with, and now a large space has been fenced in and several pens of corn 60 feet long, 14 feet wide and as high as a man can throw an ear of corn from a wagon are now being filled, and about three of them are now filled.

When one takes into consideration that there are some crops in the county that will run well toward and to 10,000 bushels, he can readily understand what we mean, when we tell you that there are some thirty or forty freight cars lined upon the track ready to carry this grain to the uttermost parts of the world.

Then, to think, that some railroad men, who do not want us to have a daily train service, as it will be a little more expensive, will put up the plea that this is a thinly settled country and drouth stricken, and "the tonnage will not pay."

Yes we are going to have a rousing Christmas here. Our people have worked hard; they have made the dough, and they are entitled to a good old peaceful Christmas with the "Merry" tide on good and strong.

Come to Terry; God love her "sandy" heart.

Lets hear from anyone who is interested.

Doctor Buchannan.

MAIL ON THE TRAIN

We had a letter from Congressman Marvin Jones one day last week to the effect that he had been busy with the post office department and had succeeded in getting them to have the mail brought to us on the train, and that will mean that our recently discontinued daily service will be restored.

Our efficient station agent, J. M. Shields has been notified that this will begin next Monday, and also Postmasters W. G. Hardin of this place, J. W. Peeler of Meadow, and we understand the Postmaster of Seagraves, have all been notified to the same date. This will give us direct communication by mail with a good settlement in southwest Terry, and a good little town, Seagraves, just over the line in Gaines county.

If you want something done in Washington, call on Hon. Marvin Jones; he is not only willing but keeps everlastingly on the job till it is finished. He is not there for the salary only but to serve the people in his district, and he might near do it if we know our selves. He keeps hammering on the railroad administration, who had all the cars concentrated in the east, till he got them to send them to the Panhandle of Texas to move the grain crop.

BRIDAL SHOWER

The beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Lewis was opened for a host of the Brownfield fair sex, on Friday afternoon Dec. 12th, for Mrs. Chester Gore, the honored lady being a recent bride. She was showered with many useful and beautiful gifts. In the handsome display were many pieces of silver and cut glass. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, recently constructed was a picture, being furnished in the newest and most elegant household necessities. A large Edison played throughout the entertainment hours, and the hostess and her assistants made the guests most welcome.

The large dining room was in exquisite taste. A huge center piece, a lovely basket of magnificent, imperishable fruit, was much admired.

Hot chocolates and wafers were served the guests surrounding the table, who not only enjoyed the 'cup' but the charm of the sweet character of the recent bride, who has many friends that wish her much joy.

The home is indeed the most handsome in many respects, and a proud possession of Brownfield. The true hospitality in this home is beautiful indeed, as the guests were heard to remark.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES.

Our next issue, which will be Jan. 2nd we will be ready for your announcement, and we ask that if you want your announcement to appear in that edition, so see us in the meantime, and hand us the cash, for no name will appear without the cash.

It is said that a debt on a defeated candidate or one who later decides to withdraw from the races, are the hardest debts in the world to collect, and our ten years experience in the business teaches us that this is nearly correct.

So if you wish for your announcement to appear in that number of the Herald, get the cash to us in the meantime, and the first come, first served.

The fees for announcement will be the same as heretofore: $10.00 for county officers, $5.00 for precinct officers and $15.00 for the district officers.

HERALD GREETES ITS READERS AND ADVERTISERS

This issue of the Herald will close the work of the paper for the year 1919, the next issue to appear January 2nd, 1920, and we hope regularly from then on for another year—you know the flu got us for three or four issues last winter.

Our readers have been real niceto us through the drouth, the war and the epidemic of flu, and we want you to know that we appreciate it. It is the habit of too many people that they pay the editor when everyone else has been satisfied, but the readers of the Herald have seen fit to kindly whack when they had the money, and as a consequence, mighty few names on the book will show but a few weeks or a month or two in arrears, and a great majority of them will show up in advance. We appreciate this, and wish each of them continued prosperity.

Our advertisers have stayed with us nobly throughout all the adverse conditions that have prevailed for the last few years, and if they did anything, they increased rather than cut down there spaces, and not a whimper did we hear when we recently raised our advertising rates. People like this are worth working for and with for the upbuilding of the country.

We wish each of you happiness, health and prosperity, for 1920, and a very Merry Christmas.

PAPER TRUST THREATENS LIFE OF SMALL PAPERS.

Unwarranted advances of from fifty to one hundred per cent in the price of news print, one advance following closely on the heels of another, have during the past few weeks pushed the price of news print to such an altitude that the very existence of the local weekly and small daily newspaper is threatened. These advances have amounted to so much as a total that a double advertising rate and a double subscription price today would not bring a sufficient amount of revenue to overcome it.

And this action can be almost directly traced to an unsigned agreement between the news print mills and the owners of the largest city dailies, perhaps in retaliation for the zone postage law which has been of such material benefit to the small newspaper and at the expense of the larger.

Under the zone system the large city dailies can no longer so freely enter the territory of the smaller newspaper and bring in a larger paper for less money. Neither can the magazine and big weeklies do this as formerly.

The manufacturers of the print paper, the big jobbers, brokers and metropolitan dailies are not being injured by the advanced prices, for their contracts were placed by the year or two years and usually call for the entire output of their own mills.

One year print paper sold for four cents per pound. It is now predicted that it will reach 20 cents per pound within a short time, and probably more.—Slaton Slatonite.

ARE YOU GENUINE OR A CAMOUFLAGE PATRIOT---WHICH?

Analyze yourself!

Are you a real, red-blooded American or are you a camouflage patriot? Do you really appreciate the great victory that our Government and our boys won for you? Do you realize that everything you have would be worthless or taken away from you and that you would have been little more than a slave if this victory had not been won? Have you stopped to think that thousands of men—big, strong, able-bodied men—have gladly died on the battlefield to give you the blessing of peace and victory? They gave everything—life, home, loved ones. Do you realize that there are thousands of mothers and sisters in our country who are broken-hearted today because they have lost their loved ones, but who proudly gave their sons and husbands to protect you and yours and bring victory?

How, then, are you showing your appreciation? Are you holding your War Savings Stamps and Liberty Bonds? Are you saving your money and lending it to your Government through the purchase of 1919 War Savings Stamps in order that the victory bill may be paid and the boys brought home?

Every time a War Savings Stamp is cashed that much money is drawn directly out of the United States Treasury—money that the Government had counted on using to pay the victory bill—a bill contracted in order that this would be a safe country for you to live in—money that it expected to use in feeding a soldier or sailor and bringing him back to the home-folks in Texas, Louisiana, New Mexico or Oklahoma.

A wise Government has made it possible for the owners of War Savings Stamps to cash their War Savings Stamps at the postoffice after giving ten days' notice. If one has had misfortune and has urgent need of his money all he has to do is ask the Government for it and back his money will come with interest for every day it has been left to the Government.

As an American, a patriot, one who loves his country, do you think the person is a real patriot, a sur-enough American, who at this time of the Government's great need cashes his War Savings Stamps if it is possible for him to hold them? Do you think he shows the proper appreciation of victory?

It was easy to be patriotic when the boys were in the thick of the fight, when the drums were booming the battle call, but the real test of patriotism is what one does now.

TRUTH ABOUT THE SOUTH PLAINS COUNTRY

Those of us who have lived in the West are pretty well satisfied with our country, but the easterner who knows nothing of the West has an idea that the country is just one great wilderness. He has never seen the country, but he has read a good many articles describing the country, and without a doubt believes everything that he sees in print.

A few weeks ago a small booklet describing the Panhandle and Plains of Texas was published. These booklets have gone into many states and will be much in setting the people right. The Fort Worth Record editor, after reading one of the booklets made the following editorial comment:

Creators of rattler and coyote literature for the metropolitan papers of the North and East are reminded by the authors of the little booklet, "A Home for Every Man," that E. F. Arnold is a farmer near the town of Happy, in the Panhandle. They are reminded that he came to Texas in 1906 with $200 in his pocket. He made a small payment on 160 acres of land. He now owns a farm adjoining the town of Happy valued at $25,000. They are reminded that the first crop of wheat raised on 440 acres of this land was sold for $18,328.05. They are reminded that one thirty acre field of summer fallow ground yielded an average of fifty bushels and twenty-five pounds of wheat per acre and was sold for more than twice the amount of money the land cost the wheat was grown on. Gotham newspapers give tales of Texas rattlers, Texas coyotes, Texas cowboys, Texas lynchings, Texas bad men, Texas movie heroes and Texas as it was in the days when the Indian and buffalo roamed the plains. They should be flooded with photographs of Panhandle wheat fields and Plains orchards and flower gardens. Tell it to them now.

The Record man is right. Texas has the goods and the right class of people. In the end Texas will win.—Amarillo Daily News.

FOR SALE—1917 Model Ford. See E. M. Flemming, Gomez, Texas.

The editor of the Higgins News has received notice from Washington that his application for patent on an electric neutralizer attachment to a printing press has been considered favorably, and the patent will be issued in due time. In speaking of the appliance, the inventor said:

"Since the middle of January last the little appliance has been on our press, and it has been doing the work every week that has rolled along. We believe that this is all the trial necessary to convince any ordinary man that we have solved the static problem. 'Static' has given so much trouble that its mastery may be a matter of septicism to printers who have been fighting it for a lifetime. We are going to try and do this, however, and we believe that we will succeed."

A WEIRD STORY.

Traveling men coming to Fredrick tell a harrowing story of the narrow escape one of their profession recently had from being burned alive by a lunatic near Childress, Texas. The salesman, it is said was traveling in a car, when he overtook a lonely pedestrian, whom he invited to ride. The stranger accepted and the two rode along quietly for a time when the passenger suddenly said to the salesman: "I believe I'll just burn you alive."

At the same time the man produced a pistol which he thrust against the traveling man's body and forced him to stop the car and get out of it. He backed the drummer against a tree and took some baling wire and secured him to the tree, then proceeded with great deliberation to prepare his victim for a burnt offering.

Quickly he gathered sticks and pieces of wood and placed them at the foot of the terror stricken traveling man. Next he opened the gasoline tank of the Ford car, took some gasoline out of it and poured it on the wood. He struck a match to light its pile, and start the fatal fire, when some gasoline which he had spilled on his own clothes caught fire from the match and it seemed for a while that he would be the victim of his own diabolical plan. It so happened that the place where the near tragedy was taking place was alongside the railroad, and trainmen on a passing train witnessing the weird sight, arrived on the scene just as the carzy man's clothes were blazing. They extinguished the flames, released the traveling man and took the two to Childress.

The man who had tried to perpetrate this unique killing was discovered to be an escaped lunatic and was sent back to the asylum. The traveling man spent the night in a Childress hotel but did not go to bed his extreme nervousness because of the experience through which he had passed having made sleep impossible for him that night.—Frederick (Okla.) Leader.

"A SPLENDID TONIC"

Says Hixson Lady Who, On Doctor's Advice, Took Cardui And Is Now Well.

Hixson, Tenn.—"About 10 years ago I was..." says Mrs. J. B. Gadd, of this place. "I suffered with a pain in my left side, could not sleep at night with this pain, always in the left side..."

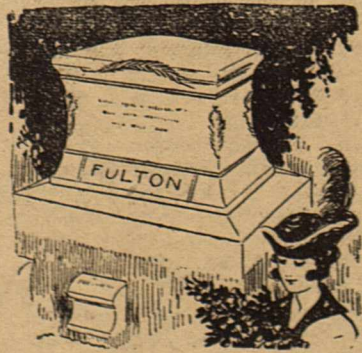

My doctor told me to use Cardui. I took one bottle, which helped me and after my baby came. I was stronger and better, but the pain was still there.

I at first let it go, but began to get weak and in a run-down condition, so I decided to try some more Cardui, which I did.

This last Cardui which I took made me much better, in fact, cured me. It has been a number of years, still I have no return of this trouble.

I feel it was Cardui that cured me, and I recommend it as a splendid female tonic. Don't allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. It should surely help you, as it has so many thousands of other women in the past 40 years. Headache, backache, sideache, nervousness, sleeplessness, tired-out feeling, are all signs of womanly trouble. Other women get relief by taking Cardui. Why not you? All druggists. NC-132

SUGAR SUBSTITUTES IN FOODS MUST BE STATED ON LABELS

Substitutes for sugar or for other normal ingredients of foods should be declared on the labels of the packages of foods in which they are used, if the packages are shipped within the jurisdiction of the Federal Food and Drugs Act, say the officials of the Bureau of Chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of that act. Only substitutes which are harmless are permitted in foods under the terms of the law, and those that are permitted should be stated clearly on the labels.

The object of the regulation requiring that substitutes be declared on the labels is not to limit in any way the use of wholesome substitutes, the officials state, but to let the consumers what they are getting. A purchaser of any food product, of which sugar is a normal ingredient, will naturally expect to get sugar in that product unless advised to the contrary. As the substitutes are usually cheaper than the substance for which they are used, it is only fair both from the standpoint of the purchaser and from that of fair trading, that a clear distinction be made on the labels between foods that contain all normal ingredients and foods in which one or more of the normal ingredients is replaced by a cheaper substance.

Substitutes That May Be Used

There are a number of substitutes for sugar which can very properly be used in manufactured foods such as jams, jellies, marmalades, pops, soda waters, confections and the like. Among the substitutes which may be used, if properly declared on the labels, are malt sugar sirup, glucose, corn sugar, corn sirup, honey, and high-grade refiners' sirup.

Saccharin, a coal-tar product which has been widely advertised by its manufacturers as a sugar substitute, it is not a proper or legal substitute, since it is held to be injurious to health, and it has no food value whatever it lowers the quality of the food in which it replaces sugar, which has a high food value. The use of saccharin, whether or not declared on the labels, in foods coming within the jurisdiction of the Federal Food and Drugs Act is prohibited. The laws or regulations of most of the States also prohibit the use of saccharin in foods. A number of food manufacturers have been convicted for shipping into interstate commerce foods adulterated with saccharin. A criminal prosecution is now pending against one of the manufacturers of saccharin for shipping it labeled as harmless within the jurisdiction of the Federal Food and Drug Act.

Liable to Seizure

Foods in which harmless substitutes have been used and no mention of the substitute made on the labels, if shipped within the jurisdiction of the Federal Food and Drug Act, are subject to seizure and the party responsible for the violation of law is liable to prosecution.

U. S. FLEET TO BE BIGGEST IN WORLD IN NEXT YEAR

Washington, Nov. 3.—Predictions that ships flying the American flag will be almost equal in tonnage to those of Great Britain by the end of 1920 were made in the senate today by Senator Jones of Washington, Republican, chairman of the senate commerce committee, in introducing his bills proposing an alternative for the permanent federal ship building policy.

Both bills were referred to the commerce committee for future consideration. With prospective ship building program by Dec. 31, 1920, Senator Jones said, the United States, including coastwise vessels, would have a mighty fleet of 18,000-000 tons, nearly the same as that of Great Britain, and that the two nations would control about two-thirds of the world's tonnage.

THEY NEVER STRIKE

After diligent search the editor of the News has unearthed a great discovery.

Among the laborers of the Pecos Valley there is a class that receives the same pay that they did years and years ago. Not only that, but they work at least ten hours a day. Their employers, however, have increased the price of the article which they produce until it is twice what it sold for four years ago. These hard work ing laborers have never yet gone out on a strike, and their employers have an agreement with them that they never will. Just the same, they are organized, but all they ask is that they be given raw material, a place to stay and just a little to eat.

Have you guessed who they are? They are the honey bees. We don't believe there is any person who puts in as much honest labor and gets as little return or it as do the bees. But every apiarist in the valley is enjoying an era of unprecedented prosperity.—Ward County News.

Rev. M. D. Williams and wife left week for a short visit to old friends in Oklahoma, before going to their new home in western New Mexico.

J. W. Hastings and family moved in one day last week to the home recently purchased from Rev. M. D. Williams. We heartily welcome them to Brownfield and old Terry.

Remember the Christmas party at the Presbyterian church Dec. 24th, at 2:30 in the afternoon. Program of Splendid music and readings, and "tree"

Ed Moore returned this week from Fort Worth, where he purchased one of the largest well drills made. He described it to us as one of the latest models of the spudding machines, and makes no loud and unnecessary noises in running. It will be here about the first of January, at which time he will be ready to put down a well for you in the quickest time possible. Ed is an experienced driller, and probably has better success than any other driller in this part of the country, but the main reason for that is easily explained, when it is remembered that Ed never starts in with old and run down machinery. He says it does not pay him to have to work on his machine half the time, and it is not satisfactory to the man he is drilling for.

Fortunes are not made as quick in old Terry, probably, as they are in the oil field, but at any rate they are more sure, anyway the good part of the business is that every one has a chance in the good race in old Terry. We had a conversation one day this week with our good old friend, Mrs. J. T. Hamilton, to find out just how she had come out this good year 1919, as the year is about up. She informed us that her turkeys had brought her the neat sum of $155.00, she had recently sold them, and her chickens eggs and butter added to that ran considerably over $600.00. Now this is to say nothing about what the "old man" has raised on farm and in the hog pens, and of the many good things they have had to eat from the cows and chickens. Come to old Terry and live like white folks ought to live, and put money in the banks for a rainy day besides. Mrs. Hamilton is 53 years old.

Mrs. S. V. Wheeler and children left this week for a visit to her parents at Miles, Texas, during the holidays.

TRIPPING UP "CY"

Job Is Done to Entire Satisfaction of His Hearers.

Spinner of Yarns, Always More Remarkable Than Those Told by Others, Is Beaten at His Own Game.

Sour John Marvin glanced out of the window of the shop where he was making an afternoon call. "Cy Pelton is headed this way," he announced, "and I will make a prediction. If anyone here present ventures to speak of anything out of the ordinary that he has heard or read about, Cy will follow with something in the same line, only a little more remarkable, that he has been an eyewitness of, and he'll be sure to place it in some place pretty far from this town. But Cy Pelton needn't flatter himself that he ever fools me. I have sense enough to know that he always makes up his story as he goes along, and I live in hopes of seeing him tripped up some day."

At that moment the door opened and the reputed spinner of "yarns" walked in. At his heels came Uncle Noah Briggs, the acknowledged oldest inhabitant.

"I've just been reading an interesting piece about Abraham Lincoln," Uncle Noah began, as he accepted the easiest chair.

"When he was a young man clerking in a store, someone stumped him one day to pick up a barrel of rum off the floor and hold it up to his mouth and drink out of the bung-hole; and he did it. But after he laid the barrel down again, he spit every drop of the liquor out of his mouth. That goes to show how strong Mr. Lincoln was in his arms and also how strong temperance he was."

Uncle Noah would have continued, but he made a fatal pause, and Cyrus Pelton got the floor.

"I had an uncle, on my mother's side," he said, "that I guess was full as strong in his arms as ever Mr. Lincoln was, and even stronger in temperance. He was a blacksmith in the town of Industry."

"One time, when I was a small boy, Hiram Quint, one of Uncle Life's near neighbors, was building a big barn, and he had asked a lot of men to the raising."

"In those days almost everyone drank hard cider, and thought nothing of it, but Uncle Life was dead set against it. When he came along that day and saw the big barrel of cider that Mr. Quint had provided for refreshment, he says, 'Hiram, your raising would come on full as well, and some chaps here would be better off if you would carry that cider down to the brook and dump it.'

"I saw Hiram wink at the bystanders, and says he, 'I'm hardly strong enough. But if you are,' says he 'you're at liberty to do it.'

"All right," says Uncle Life, and he made for his blacksmith shop. In a few minutes back he came, bringing a horseshoe that he had hammered out in such a way that he could make the heel calks fit into the bung-hole of the barrel as it lay there on the ground. Then, with the horseshoe as a handle, he lifted that barrel of cider as if it had been a carpetbag and carried it to the brook and emptied it."

"Now, if you will give me a chance I should like to put in a word," said Uncle Noah, with a show of impatience. "It so happened that I was at the raising of Hiram Quint's barn."

"I didn't know that you were acquainted in the town of Industry," said Cyrus in evident surprise.

John Marvin's eyes sparkled. "So there was such a raising," he said "Well, that bears out Cy's story, so far. I suppose the rest of it was equally correct, Uncle Noah?"

"No, it wasn't," replied the old man emphatically; whereupon one of John Marvin's rare smiles lighted up his grim features.

"Now, I always try to be accurate," said Cyrus, hitching uneasily in his chair. "but I was only a little shaver at the time, and maybe my recollection is a little at fault."

"No, you were wrong, Cy," said Uncle Noah firmly. "When you broke in on me, I was about to tell the story and tell it as 'twas. It wasn't a barrel of cider that your uncle carried down and dumped in the brook in the way and manner that you described it. It was two barrels of cider—one in each hand."—Youth's Companion.

The Alamo.

The Alamo is a mission church at San Antonio, in what is now Bexar county, Texas. In 1836 it was occupied by about 150 of the revolutionists in the Mexican war. Though attacked by 4,000 Mexicans under Santa Ana the Texans held it from February 22 to March 6, when Santa Ana took it by storm. All but seven of the garrison perished, six of these being murdered after their surrender, and one man escaping to report the affair. In this garrison were the celebrated Davit Crockett and Col. James Bowie, inventor of the bowie knife. The memory of this massacre became an incitement to the Texans in subsequent encounters, and "Remember the Alamo!" became a war cry in their struggle for freedom.

COTTON CLASSING BUSINESS HAS GAINED 100 PER CENT

The best estimates obtainable at this time is that for every day this week, between one hundred and forty, and two hundred bales have been classed and marketed in our city. Cotton prices are steadily rising; middling selling at 40 and a few points above on the average this week.

Since the past few days of dry cool weather the cotton has opened and the grade is improving. More than one thousand bales or nearly fifteen hundred bales have been classed by the Government Cotton Classifier. Nearly every mail is now bringing samples from towns in adjoining counties to the Classifier, among those being, Floydada, Crosbyton, Lamesa Brownfield and many more. Farmers of Abernathy are sending many samples in and receive this service. "The classing business has gained 100 per cent over the past few weeks," says Mr. Williamson, and accounts for that only by the acquaintance made by publicly informing these men of this service.—Lubbock Avalanche.

More About Concrete Houses

We see by the papers that Thomas A. Edison is building concrete houses in Union, N. J. He is doing a wholesale job, building a complete house in ten days. The frame is erected the concrete poured in, and left to harden in two days. The frame is then removed, and the house is ready for the finishing touches.

Just exactly how great a part of the house is concrete is not stated, but it is said that they rent for $23 a month. That the concrete house has great possibilities cannot be denied. Any scheme of quick building and cheap renting ought to be a success and it might pay other sections, including our own, to get in touch with the concrete idea.—Ward County News.

BEGIN MAILING PACKAGES EARLY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

There is going to be a tremendous mail business from now on till after Christmas, and Postmaster Robb suggests that patrons of this office begin mailing their packages early so they can be handled before the final rush reaches the postal channels.

Not only are the post offices all over the country short on help, but the trains are crowded and running behind schedules and if you wait till the very last day, you may be disappointed in getting your packages mailed and even if you are fortunate enough to do that they may be delayed so much in route that they will reach their destination several days after Christmas.

Begin now. Mail your packages and write on the outside: "Do not open till Christmas.—Lubbock Avalanche."

A good suggestion for any town to follow.

Culberson of Texas is Now Senior Senator

Washington, Nov. 13.—With the death today of Senator Martin of Virginia, Senator Charles A. Culberson of Texas, becomes the senior Democratic senator in point of service. No one remains on the Democratic side who was there when Senator Culberson first took the oath of office on March 14, 1899. On the Republican side, the only senators senior to Senator Culberson are Senators, Lodge of Massachusetts, Warren of Wyoming, Nelson of Minnesota, and Penrose of Pennsylvania.

CARLSBAD CHOSEN FOR SOLDIERS' HOSPITAL

Austin, Nov. 30.—Dr. C. W. Goddard, State Health Officer, and chairman of the buildings grounds committee of the Benevolent War Risk Society of Texas, returned Saturday from San Angelo where the committee examined a prospective site for the hospital to be erected for the care and treatment of tubercular soldiers. The committee is unanimously of the opinion that Carlsbad is the best possible location for the hospital and will make a recommendation to the board of directors to that effect.

Dr. Goddard said that the committee is extremely anxious that no time be lost and that every energy be exerted to the end that the hospital buildings be erected at the earliest possible moment so that the approximate 300 soldier boys afflicted with tuberculosis who need hospital attention at once, shall be accorded it without further delay. At this time there are 4,000 Texas soldiers who are afflicted with tuberculosis.

5,000 NORTHERN CATTLE TO TEXAS PLAINS

About 50,000 are being sent to Texas from Montana, Wyoming and Utah because of the severe drought, E. P. Spiller, secretary of the Texas Cattle Raisers Association, says.

The drought in these states has completely destroyed the hay and feed crops, Spiller says, and cattle raisers are looking to Texas ranges to help them through the winter. The ranges in this State are in good condition for winter feeding. All the Texas ranges have had plenty of rainfall this year, and cattle in all sections of the State are fat.

Spiller says that most of the cattle from the three drought stricken states are being shipped to the South and Central Plains section of Texas. Ranch owners will reap big profits as a result of the importations. The cattle will feed all winter and be shipped out in spring. While many of the cattle will be sent back to the states from which they came for the winter, Spiller believes.

Senator Kendrick of Wyoming, who is a big cattle raiser in that state, has already shipped between 7,000 and 8,000 head of cattle to Texas because of the drought.

Texas ranges have ample room for the thousands of cattle coming in," Spiller said, "as the drought happened in a year when the Texas ranges were in especially good condition."

The losses to the states where the drought is the worse will be comparatively small, Spiller stated, as the cattle raisers are shipping their stock to this State before a loss has sustained.

HARRIS HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Turner and children were at Harris Wednesday.

Mr. McMillan went to Brownfield Friday after freight for Mr. Harris.

Most every man around Harris is hunting up his grubbing hoe and sharpening his ax. Guess there won't be many mesquites left in the country. The men, at least, may keep warm while they grub but they are solemnly hoping there will be no coal shortage next winter.

H. P. French and wife went to Brownfield Friday.

Mr. Benson from New Mexico, stayed at Harris Friday night. He was taking a bunch of cattle to Meadow to ship.

Rev. Olson stayed at Harris Friday night. He intended to preach Sunday but the weather was too cold.

Mrs. Walter Frazier spent Wednesday and Thursday with Mrs. G. W. Alexander while Mr. Frazier went to Brownfield.

Roy Fitzgerald and family were trading at Harris Thursday.

G. W. Alexander and family were at Harris Saturday to trade.

Roy Harris and family from Brownfield were visiting home folks Sunday.

Millard Elington and wife accompanied by Miss Fern Harris came down Friday and spent the night. Misses Grace Ellington and Ethel Harris returned to Meadow with them Saturday by way of Brownfield. The young ladies expected to go on to Lubbock Monday for Teachers' Institute. Miss Fern Harris remained at home for the holidays.

TOKIO TALKINGS

By Grasshopper.

Mr. George Armstrong sold the last of his Terry County property last week. We understand that they are leaving for Tennessee soon after Christmas.

Tokio school closed Thursday afternoon and the teachers left Friday for Lubbock where they will attend the institute.

Although it was rather cold Sunday a good crowd was at Sunday School because we had Sunday School in the new school building and no one wanted to miss.

The Taylor girls came home Friday evening to spend the holidays.
A singing was enjoyed by the young folks at Mr. B. M. Wade's Sunday night. Most too cold for the old folks to be out.

Miss Lela Hill surprised not only her parents but all the Tokio community by coming out last Wednesday and introducing her parents to their new son-in-law, Mr. Bob Alberding. We all wish them a happy and prosperous married life.

The public school was dismissed last Friday until after the holidays in order that the teachers could attend the Teachers' Institute at Lubbock, this week, and some of them went up Saturday, some Sunday, while a few teachers from other portions of the country did not go up till Tuesday. There are a lot of rotted educators listed to address the institute, and we guess the teachers will greatly enjoy the week and come home more determined than ever to push the schools of the county to the forefront.

WINN ITEMS

Our school was dismissed for the holidays last Friday. In order to have a program that afternoon the School Literary Society called a special meeting, and though they were only two weeks preparing it, they rendered a splendid program.
We feel justly proud of both teachers and pupils.

Mr. Gray carried another bale of cotton to the gin Friday. Mr. Smith accompanied him to Brownfield and returned by train to his home in Knox county. He will be back later on as he bought land here.

Last Monday evening Mr. Chester Gore of Brownfield surprised his folks by bringing his wife out to see them. They didn't know he was married. But of course they didn't mind the surprise seeing that he had married such a sweet lovable girl.

Mr. Scott, of Knox county, an old friend of Mr. Gray's family, visited with them from Friday till Monday morning.

Last week we wrote of Mr. Smith of Knox county buying the half section of land from Mr. Armstrong in the Tokio neighborhood. We learned later that his son-in-law, Mr.
Hoyt Gray, bought one half of it.
So they each get one fourth section.

LEWIS BROTHERS & COMPANY

Christmas Greetings to Old Friends and New

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and all the joys that naturally attend a well rounded out year.

We have been blessed with a season of prosperity, and it is natural and befitting that we should rejoice and make merry; remembering at the same time to thank the Kind Hand of Providence from which we are so bountifully fed.

To our Friends and Neighbors, who are spending their first Christmas with us and intending to cast their lot with the citizenship of the community, we extend you a cordial welcome and good wishes for a Prosperous and Happy New Year.

SEASON'S GREETINGS

We wish the Good Will and Cheer of the Holidays may prevail throughout the year and mark your endeavors with extraordinary success.

We wish that we may have the same opportunities and pleasures of serving you in the future as in the past.

When all is said and done we come back to the time honored toast, which is just---

“Everybody in our place, wishes everybody in your place, a MERRY CHRISTMAS and a HAPPY NEW YEBR.”
