Those enrolling for extension work Monday evening included Miss Laura Martin, Mrs. Reese Jones, Miss Alwilda Crosthwaite, Miss Beatrice English, Miss Eunice Loecker, Mrs. Dean Headstream, Miss Lois Price, Miss Pauline Jones, Miss Hilma Joyce, Miss Jennie Fae O'Neal, Miss Winnie Fae Gressett, Miss Lenora Cook, and Miss Cora Ott.

The class is being held open for enrollment this week, Miss Jennings states, and anyone interested in it is requested to get in touch with her at once. Miss Jennings is head of the home economics department of Colorado High School.

The class will take a course in education and one in English during the year, but both courses will not be offered at once as they were last year. The course offered first will be the one which is the choice of the greater number of those in the class.

Organization of the class will be completed at another meeting at the high school next Monday evening. At that time the member of the Texas Tech faculty who is to teach the course chosen will be present and work will be launched.

Sixty New Books Added To Library During Summer, Librarian Reports

Sixty new books were added to the Mitchell County Library at the City Hall during the summer months, according to a report made by Mrs. Fred Dozier, librarian, to the Mitchell County Federation this week. The federation began the library several years ago and is still its sponsor.

Since October, 1933, 154 books have been added to the library, Mrs. Dozier's report stated. Memberships paid during the past year totaled 203, those during the summer months 88.

Some of the books added in the past few weeks are: Margaret Widener's "Pre-War Lady," Florence Ward's "Women May Learn," Edwin Green's "Secret Flight," Pamela Wynne's "Delight," Mavis Greig's "Cake Without Icings," Olive Wadley's "Flood Tide," Jennie Loring's "Hilltops Clear," and Katherine Brush's "Other Women."

For those who like their fiction packed with action, western and otherwise, there are Jackson Gregory's "The House of Opal," George M. Johnson's "Trouble Ranch," Lawrence Keating's "The Deputy of San Iano."

Mystery lovers will like Agatha Christie's "Peril at End House." For younger readers there are several books of the "Bomba, the Jungle Boy," series and of the "Tahara" series. One Edgar Rice Burroughs' book, "Tarzan the Terrible," and a Laura Lee Hope book, "Boodsey Twins at the Sea Shore," complete this division.

Bible Schools Of County On Climb Report Indicates

That Bible schools of Mitchell County are on the upgrade was shown in reports given at the meeting of the Mitchell County Bible School Association at the Methodist Church last Sunday afternoon.

Reports from at least two Bible schools were deemed worthy of special mention in the report given by W. W. Porter, county superintendent. These were the one from Bauman and the one from Looney.

Bauman Bible school, under the leadership of its superintendent Claude Willis, showed a gain of 28 in its attendance for the year. Looney, led by O. H. Thompson and Miss Arline Morris, reported a 100 per cent gain in attendance.

Porter states that complete reports from all Bible schools in the county have not yet been received in his office. He announces that Bible schools of Colorado have invited those of the county to attend a general Bible School rally to be held in November and requests that schools let him know what they think of taking part in such a rally and give their suggestions as to a convenient time for it to be held.

MONDAY FOUND LOCAL PARSON IN A PICKLE

A "bar of a pickle." That's what the Rev. Dick O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was Monday morning. And here's why: It was the first Bill collectors were too many for comfort or peace of mind. It was his wedding anniversary. And the first was arriving on another birthday. "If I live through Tuesday I may make it," he stated. And he did.

Dear Fred and Walter:

I notice what a big fine looking paper the Colorado Record is this week, note the big "AD'S" in the paper and enjoyed the write-up of Mrs. Snoot and of the by-gone days; it is always interesting to me to read about the past days and of those who were good citizens and who have passed on. Never was a better collection of good citizens than were in Colorado in those days.

I wish to help celebrate your 30th birthday by asking you to move me up another year, and for which I hand you check for so doing.

With best wishes for the Colorado Record for another 30 years I am Yours very truly,

Determined Fight By Scott Against River Bill Is Appreciated By Colorado C of C

The determined fight by Will H. Scott of Sweetwater, representative in the Texas legislature from this, the 11th district, against final passage of the Colorado Valley Authority, has brought praise for him from officials of the chamber of commerce.

Jim Greene, chamber secretary, stated Monday that attitude of Mr. Scott to protect interests of people in this area of the State should be sincerely appreciated. "We have received him every support in his fight at Austin and recent developments have proven him to be an unwavering friend of the people directly affected," Greene declared.

The Sweetwater Daily Reporter for Sunday carried the following story of the bill and work of Mr. Scott in holding its final passage in abeyance.

Will H. Scott, representative from this legislative district, has become one of the central figures around whom one of the greatest legislative battles of Texas history is raging, with likelihood of another special session to be called to thresh out the matter.

Fighting desperately to defeat passage of the Colorado Valley Authority—a four-and-a-half million dollar development project on the Colorado River near Austin—as defender of rights of Texas in other parts of the state, Mr. Scott and two other legislators prevented consideration of the measure.

Preservation of water rights to West Texas ranchmen and farmers was sought by Mr. Scott when he refused, in conference, to place his name on the measure, preventing its being reported back after the House had passed the measure time to time.

Mr. Scott was opposed with having stopped the measure. D. A. Bann, dean, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, as he called a meeting of directors of the regional body, for Oct. 9, at San Angelo. A special invitation is to be extended to Mr. Scott to attend, it was said.

While Mr. Scott decries the measure as not urgent enough to necessitate calling another special session of the legislature, it appears that Governor Ferguson, strong advocate of the Colorado River bill, will call another session within the next 30 days, principally to consider this measure, and relief needs.

Three-fifths of the Colorado's water, already has been given away for hydro-electric purposes, Mr. Scott said on his return here from Austin, following adjournment of the special session.

Mr. Scott's contention in the Colorado project is that in ponding of the Colorado's water for hydro-electric purposes should be subordinate to expanding of flood waters for municipal and irrigation purposes within the watershed and its tributaries.

This was agreed to in the House. But Senate members declared the FWA would not lend money with such a contention by the state.

Mr. Scott was frank to predict Governor Ferguson would call another session of the legislature to consider the measure. "I don't believe the people will want this bill to go through, when they know about it," Mr. Scott told The Reporter.

"I did what I could against the bill because I believed that passage would severely injure West Texas ranchmen and farmers, as well as South Texas rice growers, and I thought I was casting my views with those of the people," he added.

The local legislator sets out three main defects of the Authority as he sees them:

1. Perpetuation of existing water rights which are now held by the owners of the so called Buchanan Dam Site, to the detriment of any future development on the tributaries of the Colorado, which of course include the Concho, San Sab, Llano, Pedernales and other rivers and streams.

2. Involved financing indicates a corporation, with small capital stock would get big profits for its part in the transaction.

3. One of the principal arguments advised for the passage of the measure where it would set up a public agency to own and operate the properties, thereby supplying cheap power to a large section of the state. This would have been very desirable, but the measure was so drawn that after the government had supplied a loan of $4,500,000 (of which $1,350,000 would have been a direct grant to a public agency and never have to be repaid), and completed the project, had there been a default in payment of interest or principal due on any of the obligations issued by the authority the holders could foreclose on the property, take it over and operate it for private gain under a 50-year franchise.

"The house members insisted that safeguards be thrown around the measure so as to preclude it from getting into private hands, but the senate conferees on the bill and the attorney for the PWA would not agree to amendments which the house members felt were absolutely necessary in order to provide this protection."

The original bill gives this agency the right to condemn water rights or other property not only within the counties of the district but also in the other counties of the entire drainage area, thereby endangering all water rights on the Colorado and its tributaries, said Mr. Scott, citing the terms of the original measure as follows:

"Section 3. The said district shall have and be recognized to exercise, in addition to the hereinbefore mentioned powers, for the conservation and beneficial utilization of said waters, the power of control and employment of such waters of the Colorado River and its tributaries, including the storm and flood waters thereof, in the manner and for the particular purposes hereinafter set forth: (a) To provide through practical and legal means for the control and coordination of the regulation of the waters of the Colorado River and its tributary streams.

(k) The right of eminent domain is expressly conferred on such district to enable it to acquire the fee simple title to, or easement or right of way over and through any and all lands, waters, or lands under water, existing works or other property, private or public, within and without such district."

When it went to the conference committee, three members, Mr. Scott, Mrs. Sarah Hughes of Dallas and Olan VanZant of Grayson County, refused to sign the conference report with the amendments taken off. Thus the bill died.

The receiver for the Mississippi Valley Utilities Company, one of the Insull units, now holds a permit for the appropriation of a total of 1,300,000 acre feet of water from the Colorado at the dam sites and the total flow of the river is only 1,850,000 acre feet, leaving only 450,000 acre feet for the entire rest of the river above the proposed dam. The permits held by the receiver, are for hydro-electric plants, however, whereas the Colorado River authority bill would have allowed the water to also be used for irrigation projects.

In refusing to sign the conference report the three representatives not only held that the water rights of West Texas were not protected under the original bill but also that the water rights would not be in the hands of the public had it been allowed to pass.

McCamey, Among Class A Clubs To Face Wolves, Routes Alpine Gridders 26 to 6

The McCamey gridders, among the Class A clubs to be met by the Wolves in annual conference clashes, ran rough shod over Alpine at McCamey Thursday night to register a 26-6 victory. Following account of the game was written by Bill Collins, sports writer on the McCamey News:

With L. K. Trodgen, elusive McCamey halfback scoring four touchdowns, three of them in the final quarter and two of which were on intercepted passes, a greatly improved McCamey High School football team downed Coach Russell Dugan's Alpine High Bucks, 26 to 6, here last night on McCamey's new, eight-light gridiron in the second exhibition game of the season for the locals.

Another exceptionally large crowd saw the Badgers outplay the Bucks throughout the tussle. McCamey making 14 first downs to Alpine's 5. The Badgers completed only two passes out of ten attempts while Alpine completed 3 out of 7.

McCamey's initial counter came midway in the first quarter when Harding, McCamey end, recovered Sullivan's fumble on the Alpine 20-yard marker after which Trodgen and Belcher entered the ball to the Bucks. Second time with Trodgen and Belcher, kick for extra point blocked.

The Bucks tightened up considerably in the second and third quarters and it was obvious that Trodgen and Belcher were doing the work. Early in the fourth Trodgen took the ball on the Alpine 33-yard line and behind perfect interference passed it through for a safety. Knight kicked goal. Only a few seconds later Trodgen again intercepted Sullivan's pass and ran 30 yards for the final touchdown. Knight converted from placement.

The lone Alpine counter came very late in the game when Sullivan passed 15 yards to Stovell who raced 55 yards for the counter, outlasting several Badger tacklers.

The playing of Harding, McCamey end, was sensational. Defensively, Cain, Ray, Green and Echols looked good. Belcher and Knight starred.

State Relief Board Asks Federal Fund To Continue Work

The State Relief Board Monday sought approval by the Federal Relief Administration of an application for a $2,000,000 fund to carry on relief until state bond funds are available.

Claude T. Foy, chairman of the board, telegraphed Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, that need for the fund was urgent and that relief in some counties had been discontinued.

Foy said the board was investigating to determine if money set aside for collateral relief purposes could be transferred to the direct relief funds. Relief officials were preparing a financial statement for presentation tomorrow.

"The total fund does nothing unless it has funds," Foy said. "It appears that funds from state of Texas relief bonds will not be available until the latter part of the month. Several counties have exhausted their allotments. We are in hope the federal government will act immediately."

Hugh Johnson, NRA Chief, In Emotion As He Quits Office

Hugh S. Johnson said good bye to NRA employees in Washington Monday and urged them in an emotion choked voice to give unqualified support to those who succeed him.

Two thousand workers jammed the commerce department auditorium and both at the beginning and close of Johnson's speech gave him a thunderous ovation.

"It is now time to say goodbye," he said. "I can't."

Johnson's voice broke. His lips trembled. Tears came into his eyes. For a minute Johnson tried to control himself, but could not and ended with: "God bless you."

In his address Johnson spoke of the criticisms and "dead cats" aimed at him, but asserted forcefully that the principles of NRA were right and would continue to prevail.

He praised highly the loyalty given him by his fellow workers in the 16 months that he has been administrator and likened the employees to an "army that fought so well together."

Johnson disclosed that the barrage of criticism hurled at him last May caused him for the first time to consider a plan of reorganization which would mean elimination of himself as the directing force.

COTTON PLANTERS IN THIS AND OTHER DROUGHT STATES LIKELY HOLD EXCESS TAGS

Cotton farmers holding excess certificates estimated officially to re-possess around 1,700,000 bales—may be unable to sell more than a third of that number.

This was disclosed Wednesday by the administration officials at Washington who said the supply was expected to be three times the demand.

Thus, the growers in excess of short crop caused by drought, particularly in Texas and Oklahoma, are likely to have on hand at the end of the season two-thirds of all their unneeded certificates. The total excess in Texas has been estimated at 1,000,000 bales, and that in Oklahoma at 700,000.

The administration has said those who hold the certificates will be able to sell only a third of the total supply. The rest will be held by the government.

Out of that declaration there grew reports today that some proponents of continuation of the act were not paying to the program of the excess certificates in seeking support, particularly in Texas and Oklahoma, and the other drought stricken states, the impeding reason the desirability of a farmer's protecting his interest in his certificate.

The question, whether the act is to be carried over next year, will be determined in a referendum to be conducted sometime before January.

Meanwhile, further conference on the present problem of administering the act probably will be held by congressional leaders after the AAA has made a final statement as to what it plans to do. Chairman James (Texas) of the house agricultural committee closed.

A rough situation now stands the administration has promised to give a 10 per cent unutilized reserve of the total national allowed production to eliminate "hoarding" and to allow generally a liberal policy in dealing with the small growers.

President Roosevelt was urged Friday by Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. of Georgia to speed the adjustment of cotton production allotments of the 1934 crop retained by the AAA under the Bankhead law. Many small producers have complained their original allotments are short and have asked adjustments which the department has agreed to make. Secretary Wallace has indicated a referendum of the growers would be taken in December as to continuing the law for 1935-36 crop.

Mr. Roosevelt is said to be convinced that the program of the AAA has done as much as it can, and that any other feature of the new deal.

Another White House call Friday was Representative Wright of Texas, who told the President that 96 per cent of the cotton producers are for the Bankhead act.

Senator J. B. Jones of South Carolina joined in the request of Senator Russell that machinery for applying the 10 per cent reserve allotment to the small producer be speeded.

THIRTIETH CONSECUTIVE YEAR BEGUN BY THE RECORD

HUNDREDS OFFER LAURELS TO PUBLISHERS ON ANNUAL CELEBRATION LAST FRIDAY

Twenty-Ninth Anniversary Is Occasion For Pledges Of Continued Support

Twenty-ninth anniversary of The Record, celebrated Friday of last week, is to be remembered as a red letter event by the publishers, F. B. Whipkey and his son, W. W. Whipkey. During Friday and Saturday hundreds of citizens of this territory called at the office to personally pledge their continued support and good will. Through the mails from many parts of Texas and other States came similar messages.

Three hundred and seventy six citizens called to take advantage of the special anniversary subscription price of one dollar per year, offered by the publisher as an expression of appreciation to the public for loyal support ever given the paper. A large number of other friends announced that they would take advantage of the special offer were it not for the clubbing rate to be available later in the year through which this newspaper and their favorite daily will be offered at reduced prices. 69 of the patrons paying for the paper were new subscribers.

One thousand extra copies of the special anniversary edition, issued in three sections of eight pages each, were printed for distribution complimentary by the publishers. Scores of the papers were sent to friends and acquaintances in this county and other parts of the country by readers of The Record.

"The legion of abiding friends of this newspaper, many of whom have remained through a number of years brings to the publishers a heritage so never forgotten," W. W. Whipkey, manager of the Whipkey Printing Company, stated Wednesday morning. "To have statement from hundreds of the splendid citizens of this territory that they appreciate the paper can only inspire us to set our goal even higher as we cross the threshold of our thirtieth anniversary."

F. B. Whipkey, senior publisher and who until a few years ago was active manager of the business, joined with his son in expressing sincere appreciation of strong friendship as evidenced through Friday and Saturday by the public. "It made me feel good to have scores of citizens who soon after we came to Colorado in late September, 1905, had their name entered on our subscription list to offer congratulations and pledge continued loyalty to what they were gracious enough to term 'one of the best newspapers published in Texas.' Spurred by such a reward for confidence and friendship of the people, after all, is the

Second Non-Conference Tilt Staged At Cantrill Field On Friday Afternoon

The Wolves were defeated again Friday afternoon but they were not outfoight as they battled against a much stronger grid club to hold the Roby Lions to a 13-0 victory at Cantrill field.

It was the second non-conference tilt played by the charges of Coach Jim Ross and it was the second consecutive time the local boys had gone down in defeat before an overwhelming foe. The Friday afternoon before Roscoe took victory from the Wolves by 6 to 0.

Headstream, Roby fullback, outstanding both in offense and defense, scored the first tally in the second quarter after a 15 yard gallop around end. After blocking a punt from the five yard line late in the game, Farley, guard on the Lion club, fell on the pigskin back of the goal line for the second touchdown. Beene, Roby quarterback, virtually bottled up the Wolf passing attack, intercepting five passes and accounting for much of the yardage gained.

The battle was stung in enemy territory until the third period when the Wolves offered their first serious threat to score. Returning a punt to their 25 yard line, the Wolves marched with little interruption across the field to Roby's 10 yard marker where they were finally held and the ball went over on downs.

Starting the parade substantial gains were registered by pass, Red Moon Morrison to Priestler, line penetrations and a long end gallop by Connell, who carried the ball ahead thirty yards before being downed on the 20-yard line. Another ten yards was advanced before the Lions galloped and held the locals.

Another threat to score was registered later, during the third period, when the Wolves staged their second parade toward pay stripe of the Lions. They were stopped when Roby intercepted a long pass, Red Moon Morrison to Priestler.

Accompanied by his mother, Antonio Lameli, blind Mexican youth, came to the Lions Club Friday to personally thank members of the service club for sending him to the State school for the blind in San Antonio.

"I was privileged to attend school six weeks because of your help and while there I learned to run the typewriter, make mattresses, mops, read and do other things that will aid me in making my own way in life," the boy stated in perfect English. "I appreciate what you Lions have done for me."

Specimens of work done by the youth were passed among members of the club.

'EVERYTHING PAID' GOAL SET BY METHODISTS AS DRIVE OPENED MONDAY

"Everything paid in full." That, so officials of First Methodist church state, will be report given by the Rev. Cal C. Wright at annual meeting of the Northwest Texas conference next month.

Such reports have ever been in order by pastors of the church. And the year of 1934 is to be no exception to that rule, H. E. Grantland, chairman of the board of stewards and other church leaders have announced.

Monday groups of church officials were detailed to call on members owing unpaid pledges on the annual budget. Collections were reported satisfactory.

DORN SCHOOL BEGINS ANOTHER YEAR'S WORK

The faculty of three teachers includes only one who taught there last year. This is Mrs. Joe Dulin, who is beginning her twelfth year with the Dorn School. Trustees of the school are J. C. Sheppard, W. B. Franklin, and B. W. Daughtrey.

Thos. R. Smith To Leave Soon For Episcopal Meet

Thomas R. Smith is leaving the latter part of this week for Atlantic City, where he is to represent the North Texas district at the triennial of Episcopal Churches of the world. The triennial opens October 10 and extends through October 21. During this time Smith will sit as a member of the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies, representing his district.

Smith has attended the last two triennials, the one held in Washington, D. C. in 1929, and the one in Denver, Colorado, in 1931. He will probably be the only member of All Saints' Episcopal Church in attendance this time.

SCHOOL CHILDREN COMING FROM RELIEF HOMES WILL BE PROVIDED HOT LUNCHEES

Plans For Launching Service Discussed At Conferences Held Here Saturday

Among the major objectives of the State Relief Commission in meeting the emergencies of today is to see to it that the school child coming from homes of indigent parents or guardians receive a wholesome meal once daily. Jim Howze of Austin, field representative for the commission, stated here Saturday following conferences with school and other officials on plans for inaugurating such a program in this county.

J. E. Watson, Clyde Bennett and F. H. Patterson, superintendents of the Colorado, Lorraine and Westbrook schools, respectively, designated as committee to supervise this program in the larger schools, was one group to confer with the relief official. Another comprised Mrs. Ruby Dodge, county school superintendent; Miss Emma Gunter, home demonstration agent, and members of the county relief set-up, to whom responsibility for looking after the rural school child has been given, was another group to confer with Howze.

Tentative roster of children to be included on the special rolls is being compiled. In the meantime plans for the project, have been submitted to Austin for final approval.

MOVE MADE BY LIONS TO PROVIDE ROOSTER FOR 'GOAT' MEMBERS

It is apparent that President Dave Bridgford of the Lions Club means to sustain his recent ultimatum that unless the two goat members bring in application from a prospective Lion they will be called upon to entertain a large rooster during program of the club. Friday he named Howard Rogers, Bill Randle and Virgil Moser members of the "rooster" committee.

Alex Hanson and John Watson are the two club goat members. Under rules of the club they are to bring in a new Lion before claiming privilege of passing the medal to custody of another member.

LOYALTY

To most high school students loyalty is just a simple word, but to the students of C. H. S. loyalty means something else, something greater, something that makes a school.

Each student must have that loyal spirit to feel that he is a part of the school. It will help him to make friends, to keep friends and to be a friend.

The bids fail to be a bid year for our football team, and it's going to take the cooperation of each individual to help these boys get back on their feet.

So come on, boys, students and teachers, it's time to take your loyal spirit and help your school.

WOLVES VS. MIDLAND

The Wolves are scheduled to go against the Midland Bulldogs at Midland Friday night. This will be the last game of non-conference play by the Wolves. Last year the Bulldogs were downed 65-0 but it is expected to be a different thing this year according to Midland. The Wolves are going through hard practice in preparation for the game and will be in good shape for the battle.

WOLVES LOSE TO ROBY

The Colorado Wolves had their record date of defeat when they were handed a 1-0 beating Friday by the Roby Lions. This was a hard fought game and improvement by the Wolves over last week's play was seen.

The Roby counting line was never seriously threatened during the first half, for full defensive plays were carried out by Roby in putting on first down when the ball was on their side of the 50-yard line.

In the second half the Wolves neared the market several times, but were never able to carry it over. Billie Mann suffered an injured leg in the second quarter and his position was taken by Greener at the half. Greener also was hurt but both are expected to play Friday.

This was Roby's first victory over the Wolves in three or four years. The San Angelo Bulldogs also enjoyed victory against the C. H. Lobos 12-7. Both San Angelo's scores came from passing by Young, quarterback. A 55-yard pass produced the Lobos' tally. First down favored San Angelo 10 to 1.

Big Spring defeated Austin High in the South royalistic and that the ultimate result of a successful secession would be a southern monarchy!"

Before the Civil War, and after, the tournament was one of the most popular and mainly sports in the South. As early as 1850, the tournament, in conjunction with the barbecue, was a gala occasion in such a representative Texas community as Montgomery County, and it is likely that the tournament was "run" in this state at even an earlier date, the custom no doubt having been brought from older Southern states. People went thirty and forty miles to take part in the Montgomery barbecues and tournaments. After the Civil War the sport was resumed in Montgomery as in other places and was exceedingly popular all over the South.

The tournament course, or track, was 200 yards long in a straight line. There were three posts fifty yards apart; the first one fifty yards from the starting point. They were set on the right hand side of the track and stood about ten feet high. From the top of each post a horizontal beam projected out three or four feet over the track. From this beam a wire was dropped to the shoulder height of a man. On this wire was hung a ring which was of different colors. The man running the tournament had a cue with which he caught the ring. The object of the tournament was to see which person could catch the highest number of rings. Each entrant was only allowed to run three times, so time was the highest number of rings a person could get.

The intrants were called "knights" and in their costumes represented, according to their ideas, and means the dress of King Arthur's Court. Brightly colored jackets, breeches and breeches, tightly fitting trousers and high heeled boots with quilted tops were all in style. Anyone who wanted to ride could, but he had to pay a small fee to defray expenses.

The first prize was a crown and the second and third prizes were wreaths. As the prizes were announced, the knights rode or stepped forth to receive them. Then each in turn presented his querdon to the lady of his choice craving her gracious acceptance. Mr. Branch Isbell ran in the tournament once and this is what he said: "I was once fortunate enough to win a wreath. I gave it to a lady some years' my senior with the original lines quoted below, which I had in anticipation burned the midnight oil composing:

Fair lady, take this wreath,
 And though its flowers may fade
 Upon thy marble brow,
 The day on which I gave it thee
 Shall ever be as fresh within my memory as now.

"I can't say how the lady felt at that moment, but I opined that the world was at my feet and that my greatest earthly ambition had been attained."

Rev. Wright gave us a story to illustrate his point. In the course of this story he told of a very beautiful girl. This girl was so beautiful that she would make our girls look rather dull. After assembly some of our prominent Romans asked Mr. Wright for her phone number.

It is certain that the whole program was enjoyed by all alike. We are anxiously waiting for his next talk.

On Wednesday we had another assembly with Rev. Jones as speaker. His address was on making a success. He urged that we work hard at some one subject suited to us and Pampa looks, smells, and sounds like Texas. Life on the Pampa is not always prosperous. The drought is dreaded more than anything else since it burns the crops and leaves the common class of people penniless. Next to the drought, the hail is the most devastating. A hailstorm is usually preceded by a swarm of locusts which covers everything in sight. But these misfortunes do not always last, and the Pampa grows and prospers.

The Senior class met Thursday morning and elected the following officers:

The Sophomore class met Thursday morning to elect officers for the year. After simmering things down we found that the officers were as follows:

President, Annetta Lacy; Vice-president, Etta Fern Harkins; Treasurer, Doris Wayne O'Brien; Yell leaders, Ed Morrison and June Cox. Annetta Lacy, our president, wishes to state that she hopes to pep the Sophomore class up, and also that there are big doings in the future for the Sophomore class.

The Fish had a class election Thursday morning in the auditorium. The following were elected:

President, Shirley Kiker; Vice-president, Adelaide Harvey; Secretary, George Mallard; Treasurer, George Gilley; Yell Leaders, John Colson and Marie O'Brien; Reporter, Boon Jackson.

Wednesday of last week an inspiring talk was given in assembly to the students by Rev. Cal Wright. His talk was on "Getting Ahead," in which he gave us some fine points on how to get a little further ahead in this world. He urged that we not be satisfied by just "getting by," but that we try to always do better.

The Baptist school and church was well attended. There were 198 in Sunday school with more than that number attending church. Four new pupils and ten visitors present. We are glad to have visitors every Sunday.

A program was rendered in which Mrs. Bill Martin played several selections on the piano; Miss Winnadell Rowland sang in her most charming way.

Toast to the bride was given by Mrs. Virgil Henderson, and one to the girls led behind by Miss Margaret Ruth Edwards.

Mrs. Reeder then passed slips of paper to all the single girls to make as many words out of "Wedding Bells" as they could. Mrs. Snyder, being the winner received many beautiful and useful gifts.

SENIOR RINGS ORDERED

The Seniors experienced one of their many great thrills the other day when they were told that the "ring man" was here. The class all agreed on two rings but had a slight difficulty in choosing between the two. The ring selected is very unusual and the first we've ever seen like it. It may not be the most beautiful ring that a class ever had but no class could be prouder of their selection than we are.

We selected our invitations too, we will not order them yet. In about three or four weeks the Seniors will really be feeling their importance for they'll have their rings.

The school now has a football team and it is the duty of the class to get behind the team and encourage them. We should realize, since we are the oldest class in school, that no school can be a success without a school spirit that backs all sports. Let's do our part and set an example of cooperation with the team that the other classes will follow.

NEW BUILDINGS OCCUPIED BY TWO COLORADO MOTOR CAR DEALERS THIS WEEK

Moves Made By Davis Motor And Pritchett-Leineweber To Improve Service

Two Colorado motor car dealers, the Davis Motor Company and Pritchett-Leineweber Motor Company, are occupying new homes this week. Both of the concerns announce that the change was made in order to offer better service to the public.

Davis Motor Company, distributors for Oldsmobile cars in this territory, have moved from the Jack Smith building, 301 East Second, to the Mills Chevrolet Company building, corner East First and Elm. W. C. Davis, manager, will continue in charge of the business.

Pritchett-Leineweber Company, dealer agents for Hudson and Terraplane motor cars, have moved into the building vacated by Davis. They had previously occupied the Jones building at East Third and Walnut streets.

In their new home Pritchett-Leineweber Company are to add a service department, featuring Col-Tex gasoline. A parts department is also to be added.

A section of the Mills building is to be partitioned off for exclusive use of the Davis Motor Company. Joe B. Mills stated Wednesday morning, Davis, for several years associated with Mills, has been in business at the East Second street location two and one-half years.

The firm of Pritchett-Leineweber is new in Colorado, being formed a few months ago to take over agency of Hudson and Terraplane cars in this territory. Leineweber, manager of the concern, however, has been identified with the garage and motor car business here several years.

EMPEROR CONSTANTINE

Last week this column was asked to give some historic facts concerning Christianity and the Roman Empire which we did but not in full.

The Emperor Constantine, who is credited with taking the Roman Empire out of paganism into Christianity, had to fight his father-in-law and his brother-in-law in order to secure himself on the throne of his father.

At a fortuitous moment he saw a cross outlined in the sky, with Greek lettering on it saying, "By This Sign Conquer." Accepting it as a miracle and not doubting that Greek was the language of heaven, Constantine raised the Christian standard and after a series of battles prevailed over his warlike opponents.

The latter fought under the old pagan symbols, under which the armies of Rome had so many times been victorious. Constantine came into full authority about 312 A. D. and after stabilizing his empire toward the east, he was so successful in this that he transferred his official residence from Rome to Byzantium, which thereafter took the name of Constantinople, or Constantine town. Himself a vigorous and understanding ruler, Constantine's successors were less able.

The empire began having its troubles by reason of repeated invasions of marauding armies from beyond the Alps. At first these invaders were defeated, but finally they wore the Romans down, the latter being self-weakened by internal feuds and strife, the contentions of ambitious warriors and the inability to sustain the ancient grandeur on the resources available. The Dark Ages set in and for centuries Rome flourished in the twilight between the pagan tradition and the artistic renaissance.

Throughout all the period of Rome's Christianizing, the church and its successive Popes carried on as best they might. The Popes became temporal as well as spiritual rulers, but were more successful in the latter capacity. The convents and monasteries preserved much of the ancient art, and the church in fact employed many of the great artists of the various schools and periods. This accounts for the multiplicity of pictures depicting sacred themes, notably that of "The Last Supper," sometimes called "The world's greatest painting. Perhaps it once was, but hardly is it so now. The art treasures in the Vatican galleries and St. Peter's, as well as in other great cathedrals and palaces are priceless, but owing to the similarity of the themes they appear to be repetitious, even superfluous, in the view of the casual tourist. To the trained observer or student, the various and successive schools of painting, gradually emerging from the medieval mists, are instructive, no doubt, and perhaps amazing.

Constantine did not long remain the capital of the Roman Empire after Constantine, and after the transfer of political power back to

Died At Family Residence In City Tuesday Following Illness Of Few Days

James T. Farmer, 56, senior member of the firm of J. B. Farmer & Company, pioneer Colorado merchants, died at the family residence here Tuesday morning at 4:44 o'clock following a brief illness. Mr. Farmer became ill eight days before his death and after detained at home a few days returned to his place as manager of the store Friday. He relapsed Saturday and sank until the end came.

Mr. Farmer was born in Ft. Worth and grew to manhood in Hill County, Texas. In 1870 he came with members of his family to Colorado and had since resided here as an active member of the Farmer firm.

Surviving are, one sister, Miss Maud Farmer of Colorado and four brothers, Roy Farmer of Colorado; C. W. Farmer of Dallas, John Farmer of Lamesa, and M. J. Farmer of Ogilby, California.

Funeral rites were conducted at the family residence, 530 Ying street, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning with the Rev. Wallace Jones, minister of First Christian church, assisted by the Rev. W. M. Elliott of First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial was in the city cemetery.

Active pall bearers, the same friends of the family who acted in this capacity during services for father of deceased, J. B. Farmer, last February, were J. B. Holt, Jack Smith, Edd Jones, Fred R. Hutchinson, E. L. Latham, Ralph Beal, G. W. Whitaker, and H. E. Broadbent.

Funeral plans were under the direction of Jones, Russell Company.

These cool nights and crisp mornings give a gentle reminder that Fall is here, and old man Winter is just around the corner. With the advent of cooler weather, naturally one's thoughts turn to wearing apparel fit for the season. It will pay you to read the advertisements in the Record where you will find bargains offered where a dollar will really buy a dollar's worth of merchandise.

Colorado merchants have met the issue fairly and squarely. Read the ads. They have for your inspection large stocks of reasonable merchandise, the latest in workmanship and style, and at prices you can afford to pay.

So you better read the ads and buy from those who are asking for your trade.

An optimist is the fellow who can see only the ring around the doughnut, the roses among the thorns, and the honey which the bees make. The hole in the doughnut, the thorns among the roses and the stings which the bees wear on the end of their tails don't bother him a bit.

This columnist prefers horseshoes to golf and the reason why is that when you see a golfer rigged up for a game he looks like a titled foreigner, while the horseshoe pitcher in riding costume looks the part of an old-fashioned Democrat looking for a post office and yearning for an opportunity to fling a few gems of profanity at the wicked Republicans.

When you hark to the voice of a knocker As you list to his hammer fall Remember the fact that the knocking act Requires no brains at all.

When a good excuse was wanted by a golfer in the past For his failings in a role for which he clearly wasn't cast He was forced to fret and fumble for an alibi to fit And it consequently varied in accordance with his wit.

Heretofore he blamed his backswing or his grip or "follow through" For the many fundamental things he never seemed to do. But it's now another story when his "back is to the wall All the blame is placed quite fiercely on the new and lighter ball. F. B. W.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE

What a difference fifty years make. I can remember back fifty years (1883) women wore hoop-skirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings, high buttoned shoes, ruffled cotton drawers, flannel night gowns, puffs in their hair and did their own cooking, baking, cleaning, washing, ironing—raised big families—went to church Sundays and were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square hats, ascot ties, red flannel underwear, big watches and chains, chopped wood for the stoves, bathed occasionally, drank 10 cent whiskey and 5 cent beer, rode bicycles, buggies or sleighs, went in for politics, worked 12 hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

Stores burned coal oil lamps, carried everything from a needle to a plow, trusted everybody, never took an inventory, placed orders for goods a year in advance, always made money.

Today women wear silk hose, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear, have bobbed hair, smoke cigarettes, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge,

ANNUAL 'BEEF CAMPAIGN' SPONSORED BY SAFEWAY TO CONTINUE ONE WEEK

Quality Beef Is Still To Be Had, Store Official Says In Announcing Plan

The annual Beef Campaign—aimed to help the cattle grower by reducing surpluses and improving prices—will be held this year from October 5th to 12th, according to an announcement by Safeway Stores. With prospects exceeding last year's record movement of ten trainloads of beef, the company has placed orders both locally and throughout its territory for the finest cattle available. Supported by cattle growers' associations and having the interest of both the producer and consumer in mind, the event is expected to be one of the greatest of its kind ever accomplished.

The purpose of the campaign is threefold: first, to relieve the cattle surplus, which will remain larger than the 1928 figures, even in the face of enormous government slaughtering projects; second, to prove to the consumer that quality beef is still available in spite of the drought; third to improve and stabilize the market for the first quality beef.

According to government statistics, and allowing for the drought cattle already slaughtered, there are now approximately 65,000,000 in the United States. This figure is 8,000,000 above the total in 1928, when the supply was ample to meet boom-time demands.

"There have been so many reports of cattle lost through thirst or starvation," said Mr. J. V. Nuckols of Safeway Stores Incorporated, "that the public may have naturally reached the conclusion that good beef is not obtainable. However, there are many fortunate stock growers who escaped the drought entirely, and their herds are of the finest quality. It is our intention, through the beef campaign, to make this fact known to the public," Mr. Nuckols continued. "We also want to emphasize the government's statement that none of the meat from drought-affected animals is to be sold through retail markets. Government-purchased meat is canned and labeled 'Not to be Sold.'"

The prosperity of the entire cattle industry, important as it is in this section of the country, we believe depends to a great extent upon the public's knowledge of the true situation. For that reason, the beef campaign this year is especially significant, and we feel that Safeway Stores are in a position to render a splendid public service through the benefits which will be brought to the stock grower as a result of our plans."

Local Safeway officials announce that shipments of the choicest beef are now ready for distribution through the company's meat markets in this vicinity.

Built Up Strength By Taking Cardui

Here's her own account of how Mrs. T. W. Hardin, of Greer, S. C., was benefited by taking Cardui: "I suffered a great deal from weakness in my back and pains in my side and felt so miserable," she writes. "I read of Cardui and decided to try it. I felt better after I took my first bottle, so kept on taking it as I felt such a need of strength, and it helped me so much."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If you are not benefited, you consult a physician.

E. Keathley has recently given to the high school library a valued addition. The gift is a complete file of The Record since 1905 and was kept by the donee because of the strong historical value of the paper and the interesting reader appeal, Mr. Keathley states.

The local hotel operator called at the office Friday to announce that he had not missed reading one copy of this newspaper "through and through" since the Whipkeys took charge of the publication twenty nine years ago.

DEPUTY SHERIFF LOSES COUPLE NEW SHIRTS TO THIEVES IN POSTOFFICE

Deputy Sheriff H. A. Cook Wednesday morning was doing double time as he made first one alley and another in quest of a sneak thief who a few minutes before had stolen a couple of new shirts from the office.

Cook breezed into the postoffice for his mail and along with other things received package containing two mail order shirts, purchased recently from a factory representative. Some one called the officer and he deposited the package on a desk in the office lobby. When he went to get his shirts they were gone.

"That was a mean trick and I would be much pleased to get my hands on the bird who stole those shirts," Cook mused later.

Furnace heat for homes without a basement Natural Gas FLOOR FURNACES When you add the comfort of circulating heat to your home you are adding value to the home you live in. It makes no difference whether it has a basement or not, you can have circulated heat from easily installed, low-cost natural gas floor furnace. This unit splendidly exemplifies the comfort of a gas-heated home as it provides for one or two rooms the same luxurious warmth of central heating plant—but without the expense of furnace and piping installations. It's installed beneath floor and nothing shows except smart grill. It's vented to eliminate wall sweating, and the flame never touches the air it circulates. When equipped with thermostat desired room temperature is automatically maintained. Look over the new gas heating equipment now. Besides the floor furnace there are other heaters which circulate warm air and are vented to eliminate wall sweating. They're available this month at attractive discounts and unusually low monthly terms. (National Housing Act takes in gas floor furnaces.) Extra! This month is an opportune time to bring your heating up-to-date. In addition to above "Specials" an unusually attractive saving can be effected by buying two or more radiant-type heaters. Investigate, and be ready for winter comfort. Gas heating equipment is available also from your dealer. See his displays. Community Natural Gas Co.
