SUIT INVOLVING DAMAGES AGAINST TEXAS & PACIFIC SET FOR TRIAL NOV. 2ND.

F. C. Sloan of Loraine Seeks $38,000 Damages As Sequel To Coahoma Mishap

The F. C. Sloan damage suit against the Texas & Pacific railway, in seeking to recover damages in the sum of $38,000 as sequel to a train-car crash at Coahoma July 18, 1932, has been set for trial in 32nd district court Friday, November 2. This will be the third time the case has been called in the tribunal. Sloan resides at Loraine.

Sloan, in his petition filed in the case, alleges that on the date designated he was permanently injured when his car was demolished by a train of the defendant corporation at a crossing in Coahoma. He is represented by Beall & Beall of Sweetwater. Defense attorneys are Mays & Perkins of Sweetwater and Thos. R. Smith of Colorado.

In first hearing of the case here a year ago proceedings had taken up a day's time when mother of engineer operating the train featuring in the wreck was killed in a motor car accident. Judge Mauley continued the case in that the witness attend funeral services of his parent.

The case was again continued on July 12 after witnesses had testified that Sloan had been mentally unbalanced since the wreck. Dr. W. L. Hester of Loraine, physician of the plaintiff, testified that Sloan had the mind of a ten-year old child. Motion for continuance by defense on contention the plaintiff was insane was sustained.

In the cause to be heard early next month Mrs. Sloan, as best friend for the plaintiff, will prosecute the suit. Criminal docket is to be called Monday morning, Judge Mauley announced Tuesday. There are few cases of public interest pending. During the present week the court has heard non-injury matters, consisting largely of divorce petitions.

Division Of Texas Into More Than One State Would Present Perplexing Issue

Division of Texas, biggest state in the Union, again is under lively discussion.

Vice President John N. Garner, original advocate of dividing Texas, is silent now but the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has just presented arguments for and against in its official publication.

Legally the division is possible and may be accomplished with simplicity. Practically no one expects it, within a quarter of a century at the least.

When Texas, four times bigger than New England, was admitted to the union, there was a provision that new states not exceeding four may with the consent of Texas be fashioned out of the territory and be entitled to admission.

Present agitation is merely for creation of one new state to be known as "West Texas."

As Vice President Garner explains the situation, this can be done merely by an act of the legislature. The difficulty will be to get a majority of the legislature favorable to the division.

Any dividing line separating the state into East and West portions would naturally have the 100th meridian as its northern starting point. That is the meridian that separates the Texas Panhandle from Oklahoma. Extended through the state the meridian strikes the Rio Grande west of Laredo. Used as a dividing line it would place only about a third of the area of Texas in "West Texas."

The western territory would have only about 13 members of the Texas House of Representatives and three Senators or a tenth, instead of half of the votes.

If the dividing line should leave the 100th meridian at its juncture with the Red River and move eastward two tiers of counties before being projected south, "West Texas" would still be far short of the necessary votes for a division.

In the House there would be 20 members from territory that would be definitely in the proposed new state and ten in territory that might be either in Texas or "West Texas," depending on how the border followed east or west boundaries of existing counties in its general southerly trend.

No natural boundary is offered for a division. Streams flow from north-west to southeast at so great an easterly angle as to be impractical for an east and west boundary.

Another practical obstacle in the way of dividing Texas is the difficulty of agreeing upon a capital for the new state. Abilene, Amarillo, El Paso, Sweetwater, Brownwood, San Angelo or Vice President Garner's home town, Uvalde, might seek designation.

A sentimental but equally effective obstacle would be the reluctance of West Texans to sever their connection with the Alamo at San Antonio, a shrine of Texas liberty.

Nobody objects to the stock exchange. The objectionable feature is the hard cash-for-experience exchange.

DROUGHT IN TEXAS NOT SO DESTRUCTIVE AFTER ALL, CLAIM OF PRESS LEAGUE

Conditions Are Not So Bad As Pictured By Calamity Howlers, Is Report

The drought in Texas was not the calamity it has been painted, even though it was pretty tough, an exhaustive survey by the Texas Daily Press League of Dallas indicates...

"Here is an increase for 1934 of $117,116,913," the press league bulletin pointed out. "Of this amount, $24,463,737—or $136,642 daily, 30 days a month for every month since Jan. 1—has been going into the hands of royalty owners alone..."

Farmers of the state, directly affected by the drought, aren't in such bad shape, either, the league's statistics show. Value of the state's five major crops—cotton, wheat, corn, oats, and grain sorghums—is more than $202,000,000 greater than for 1932 and more than $140,000,000 greater than for 1931.

FEDERATED MUSIC CLUBS CONVENTION OPENS TODAY

MUSICIANS OF 9 TOWNS TO REGISTER AT HOTEL FOR SENIOR DAY MEET

Fine Arts Programs To Be Of Special Interest To Music Lovers

With two fine arts programs complete and all other plans in readiness, the Colorado Music Club awaits arrival tomorrow (Friday) morning of some 150 delegates to the annual Sixth District convention, Texas Federation of Music Clubs.

Music club members from Ozona, Snyder, Cisco, Eastland, Abilene, Sweetwater, Coleman, San Angelo, and Brownwood are expected to be in attendance, according to Mrs. W. R. Martin, president of the host club, and Mrs. Monroe Dawson, publicity chairman.

Features of the convention which will be of outstanding interest to non-club members are the fine arts programs. These will afford the best opportunity of hearing good music first-hand that Colorado has had in several years, according to Mrs. B. H. Meskimen, who urges the public to attend.

The first of these programs, which will be given at the high school auditorium Friday evening at 8:15, will climax the Senior Day division of the convention. The second on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 will climax Junior Day.

Registrations for Senior Day will take place at the Colorado Hotel, convention headquarters, Friday morning beginning at nine o'clock with Mrs. W. L. Doss, Jr., in charge. Formal opening of the convention and its business session will follow at the Palace theater. Miss Lucille Skinner of San Angelo, district president, will preside.

Mrs. I. D. Colgas of Amarillo, president of Texas Federated Music Clubs, will be a speaker at luncheon following the morning session.

Rehearsals for the fine arts program will be held in the afternoon until time for the seated tea at the country club at four-thirty. This tea, which is being given by federated study clubs of the city, will be the social feature of the convention.

Outstanding senior talent of the Sixth district will be represented on the evening program, which will have as its feature two massed choruses made up of talent from all over the district. The choruses numbers will be Mendelssohn's "I Would That My Love," and Chaminade's "Angelus."

Numbers presented by the Colorado Music Club on the program will be Rimsky-Korsakov's "Song of India," and Manning-Baldwin's "In the Luxembourg Gardens." Mr. Meskimen will direct and Mrs. E. L. Latham will accompany.

Members of the fine arts departments of Hardin-Simmons and McMurry, Abilene, will be among those having parts on the program.

Saturday, Junior Day, will be largely a repetition of Friday with junior club members in charge of all activities. Senior club members will stay in the background, directing and advising. It is estimated that some 130 juniors will be present.

Mrs. Grace Godard of Amarillo, corresponding secretary of the state federation, will be the Junior luncheon speaker.

'Rotten' One Dollar Bills Rout Workers At Postoffice As Strong Odors Diffused

"Phew! There must be something dead in here. I never smelled such a putrid odor in my life," exclaimed Miss Lottie Pritchett, employee at the postoffice as she gasped and rushed to an open window for a breath of fresh air.

"Must be a rat or something worse," chimed in Eddie Moser, chief clerk, as he sniffed and caught a bit of the offensive odor. Holding handkerchiefs over their noses and groping cautiously from place to place, source of the problem was soon found.

"Why it is coming out of this cash till," Miss Pritchett exclaimed. "Come and get the carcass of whatever it is out before I pass out completely."

Moser opened the till cautiously. He saw nothing but a pile of currency but noticed that the odor grew stronger.

"Well, believe or not, that scent is coming from these one-dollar bills," he shouted. "It is the first time that I ever heard of rotten currency." And sure enough there was source of the trouble.

Holding his nose at a safe distance, Moser gathered up the unwelcome bills and hurried across the street to the City National Bank.

"Give me some small change, please," he suggested to the smiling teller, and gathering up the pieces of silver hurried away.

"What did they tell you at the bank when you said the bills were putrid," Moser was later asked. "I did not tell them anything. I was too much concerned about getting rid of them to loiter around the bank and talk about the bills," he concluded.

And employees at the postoffice continue to ponder just how and why such an offensive odor should take up with perfectly otherwise good American greenbacks.

"Old Monarchs' Are Presented Awards Of Honor By Lions

Eight members of the Lions Club who have been active in the service organization, either in Colorado or elsewhere during the past ten years, Friday were accorded special honor by Lions International through presentation of chevrons to be worn on lapel of their coats.

John E. Watson delivered address offering praise to the men and presented the chevrons. The Lions honored were characterized "Old Monarchs."

Included in the number, each of whom, incidentally, are charter members of the Colorado Club, were C. M. Adams, W. W. Whipkey, C. H. Earnest, T. W. Stoneroad, Joe H. Smoot, J. H. Greene, L. B. Elliott, W. S. Cooper.

A feature of the Junior Fine Arts program will be a violin choir, composed of all junior club violinists. The choir will render Severn's "Black Smith" and "Wild Indian." There will also be a massed junior chorus, singing "Texas, Out Texas," and "Come to the Fair." Mrs. Meskimen will direct and Miss Frances Jones is to accompany on the piano.

Nancy Prize, representing Mrs. Latham's Mozart club, will play McDowell's "To a Wild Rose," and Nevin's "A Shepherd Tale." The Lorraine Juvenile Club, which is composed of pupils of Mrs. W. R. Martin, will contribute "School Days in Helms."

Mrs. Meskimen's McBowell Club will give "Carmen" by Bizet as a double-piano duet, with Jane Clare Meskimen and Virginia Rose Whipkey at one piano and Frances Jones and Frances Merle Cooper at the other.

Miss Virginia Stoneroad, and John McCleary attended the Texas-Oklahoma game in Dallas Saturday. Miss Stoneroad met friends from Austin, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Dyke, and spent the week-end with them.

SECOND CONFERENCE BOUT TO BE STAGED AT ANGELO STADIUM FRIDAY EVENING

Bobcats Favored To Win In Contest With Wolves; Game Begins At 8

SAN ANGELO.—San Angelo high school, beaten in three out of four non-district conflicts, opens the district 3 football schedule Friday night on the Concho field with Jim Reese's Colorado high school Wolves.

Despite their previous setbacks, the Bobcats are favored. Colorado lost to McCamey, 22 to 0, Friday night at McCamey in the district's first game.

If the Concho corps doesn't elude Colorado it can write off the season as a flat failure so far as winning the district title is concerned.

Two other district 3 teams go to East Friday afternoon. Sweetwater, tackles Big Spring in Big Spring. The Bristow-coached Big Spring clan is the district 3 favorite. This team, a fairly veteran and versatile combination, is doped to win through the district undefeated. Some of the critics, however, figure San Angelo is due to cause some trouble.

San Angelo plays Big Spring here Nov. 12. But in the meantime San Angelo has Colorado with which to worry next Friday night and the following Friday night is bracketed at McCamey. McCamey is liable to prove plenty tough for the Bobcats on the McCamey field.

The bobcats came out of their game with Ranger Friday in fair physical shape. Ranger, Oil Belt eleven, won by a 10-to-0 score. The San Angelo youngsters displayed considerable courage and stubborn fighting ability. None of the boys bobbed up with more than the usual bumps and bruises. The Conchoans are expected to be in comparatively good shape for Colorado.

PIONEER PREACHER HAS POWER OF OTHER DAYS PARISHIONERS DECLARE

Dr. B. W. Dodson, pioneer in West Texas Methodist and who in 1906 and 1907 was pastor of the local Methodist church, came back to Colorado Sunday to preach from the pulpit that he knew so well, over a quarter of a century ago. He is now head of the Bible department at McMurry College, Abilene.

Dr. Dodson, known throughout West Texas as a most forceful speaker, reminded parishioners here who heard him Sunday morning that he still possesses his eloquence of other days.

He spoke with feeling as he recounted that faces he knew so well when pastors here were not to be seen in the congregation any more.

"I do not see Brother Arnett, Brother Wulfjen, Brother Winn and others of the faithful back in those days, but we know where to find them," he commented.

'TOO MUCH PUBLICITY' GIVEN AS DEFEAT ALIBI BY LEADERS OF WOLVES

"Looks to me as if they were given too much publicity immediately preceding the contest," was alibi of C. A. Wilkins, principal of high school when questioned as to why Colorado failed to score against McCamey Friday night in opening conference contest.

"At any rate there was something vitally wrong. Perhaps the local boys were out-classed and unable to cope with the stronger McCamey eleven. We had gone to McCamey in high hopes of winning. However, there are other days on the calendar and we are going to put out the best we have."

REMINISCENCES OF WIRE CUTTERS ON RANGES OF THIS SECTION RECALLED

Reminiscences of bitter controversies attending the cattle industry in this country fifty years ago are recalled in a recent edition of the Dallas Morning News. In its "Dallas and Texas 50 Years Ago" column, the News reprinted the following news item:

"News was received in Colorado City, Mitchell county, yesterday that fifty miles of wire fence in Borden county, the property of the Magnolia Cattle Company, was cut Wednesday night."

Advocates of free range gave cattlemen considerable trouble during those days, pioneers of Colorado recall.

'NIGGER SHOOTER' USED BY BOY TO KILL COYOTE

A son of Zeke Smith of Seven Wells community is credited with having slain a coyote with a "nigger shooter." The boy accompanied his father to haul some fire wood and as they drove along through a pasture the wolf was seen hiding in some nearby brush. A well placed shot from the youth's arm brought down the animal.

UNCONSTITUTIONAL

The Hon. Geo. B. Terrell who has held public office nearly all his mature life, from congressman down in his later years, says:

In my articles on the nullification of the Constitution I have not asserted that the entire Constitution was destroyed, but its vitality and binding effect upon the consciences of the people are destroyed to the extent of such violations, and this creates disrespect for the Constitution, and causes men, especially lawmakers, to disregard their oaths to support the Constitution, and creates excuses for them to say that it is obsolete and no longer meets the requirements of modern conditions, and, therefore, may be disregarded.

It was not nullified then because it was affirmed by the strong arm of the Government, and the tariff taxes which Congress had a constitutional right to levy, were collected at the port of Charleston. But when the strong arm of the government turns against the Constitution and undertakes to collect a production tax, or an export tax on cotton under the Bankhead bill, which Congress has no constitutional right to levy, then it is nullifying the Constitution, in so far as protecting the rights of the people is concerned.

When the Federal Government goes into the factories, workshops and industries of the country and fixes hours of labor, wages and other conditions of a private and contractual nature, and permits an appointive officer by the executive branch of the Government to levy taxes upon the people, and permits one man to act as lawmaker, judge and jury, it is going far beyond any authority granted in the Constitution, and is nullifying the Constitution by striking down personal and property rights guaranteed in the Constitution.

No decision of the highest court, or opinion of writers on constitutional law, can be found to uphold the legality of the AAA, the NRA or the Bankhead cotton law; yet they are being enforced by bureaucrats sent out from Washington to tell the people how to run their private business. The men who put their minds and money into the businesses and built them up to their present high state of efficiency know how to run their business better than any bureaucratic adviser.

These laws were enacted as emergency measures and pretend to offer some temporary relief, and the people are prone to take everything the Government offers and ask for more, and this is why the objection to these obnoxious laws has not been stronger. The most daring assassin has never attempted to kidnap or kill Santa Claus and this hand-out will be upheld as long as the Government can borrow money to pay the bills, but when the hand-out stops, and the defenders and dispensers of Government "pop" are shaken from the payroll, the patriotism of the pie eaters will wane, and a different song will be put into their mouths.

Crop Conditions In Unimproved State, U. S. Report Shows

Texas farm crops remain at low levels in absence of effective drouth breaking rains, the United States Department of Agriculture stated in its October 1 crop report.

Rainfall during September relieved the acute situation somewhat, the department stated, but in only a few localities rain was sufficient to break the drouth. Additional moisture is needed in practically all areas.

September rains came too late to be of benefit to spring sown crops, and yield prospects generally are about the same as they were a month ago, the report stated.

The condition of ranges generally improved during September, but only a few favored localities along the coast and in South Texas have received enough moisture to insure winter grazing. Much of the late planted sorghums and other forage crops were benefitted by late rains, which came too late to mature grain.

A decrease of two pounds in the estimated per acre yield of cotton to 108 pounds was attributed to conditions in Northwest Texas, where the crop is not turning out as well as was expected. The crop was estimated at 2,345,000 bales.

Condition of Texas corn was placed at 33 per cent the lowest October 1 condition since 1925, with production estimated 54,084,000 bushels, compared with 74,827,000 bushels last year.

MRS. BENNETT RESTING AT HOME OF RELATIVE

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

Friends of Mrs. Lois Prude Bennett, who has been in the Methodist hospital in Dallas since September 10, have received word that she is now at the home of Mrs. S. A. Easley in Taylor, Texas.

Mrs. Bennett, said to be much improved, left the Dallas hospital last Saturday. She will rest at the home of Mrs. Easley for several weeks before returning here.

KNOWING HOW TO DRIVE SENSIBLY DOESN'T HELP THE DRIVER WHO LACKS SENSE

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

Much snobbish nonsense is written and spoken concerning illiterates. The art of writing and reading is nothing more than a substitute for speech. There would have been no reason for it if everybody had lived within reach of his neighbor's voice.

Picture making was slow work and in the course of time gave way to the making of little marks. This wasn't a difficult art. Anybody could make little marks on paper. The trick was in the general agreement that certain marks should mean certain things.

Three x's at the bottom of a letter have no meaning unless there is an agreement that cross marks shall stand for kisses. The little marks used in shorthand are meaningless to most of us, which means that we are illiterates in shorthand.

If literacy means no more than the ability to interpret little code marks on a piece of paper, why is it so important? As a matter of fact, it would be unimportant to an individual eager for knowledge if he could find some person willing and able to tell him, by word of mouth, everything that his race has learned.

The importance of the trick lies in the fact that it enables learned men to record their knowledge and vision and preserve it for others.

Thus a youth who learns to interpret these records has a kind of Aladdin's lamp by means of which he can call up the world's great men, both living and dead, and require them to tell him all they know. There is a trick indeed!

But knowing the trick is no proof of superiority. Any fool can learn it. The important thing is to use the trick after it is learned.

Does the ability to masticate food prove a man superior if he sits at a loaded table and is too lazy to eat? Many people who feel superior to illiterates read nothing at all or else limit their reading to useless and foolish matter on which an intelligent illiterate would not waste his time.

Knowing the rules of bridge and the value of the cards adds nothing to the social equipment of an individual who won't play.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Fred B. Whipkey, columnist of the Colorado Record, concludes a column article on the above topic as follows: P. S.—At the age of 14 this writer was left a penniless and homeless orphan. We had attended a few terms of a rural one-teacher school. With our Ray's arithmetic we had mastered the multiplication table. With our McGuffey's third reader we read it through, and with our Webster's blue-back speller we had gotten as far as "baker." This was an educational start was at the very bottom, and I have been at the bottom ever since.

"An honest confession is good for the soul," is an old saying, hence maybe the above is correct. And at the age of 74, most every editor is in a correct telling age. Editor Whipkey is still vigorous, however, as his writings clearly show. Here's hoping he will easily pass the century mark, and even more.

And so say Fred's many friends in Waco, West and other portions of good old McLennan county.—Waco Tribune.

The above is from the pen of Fred B. Robinson of Waco who with the writer fought, bled and almost died in the newspaper game together for more than forty years and at this late date we invite him to join our old man's club.

Wake up old boy and join our club. Don't sit and mope and act the duff—There's lots of fun in the old world yet. So come and join and your share you'll get. There are no by-laws, you pay no dues. Just so the bright side of life you choose. The first thing you do is to learn to play. Then grow old gracefully and enjoy each day. There's no holes for sunshine and cards for rain. So forget all your trouble and that old pain. We've now quit work, so learn to play. Let's join this club, now what do you say?

Relieves Headache Due To Constipation

"Theford's Black-Draught has been used in my family for years," writes Mrs. J. A. Lightower, of Carthage, Texas. "I take it for sick headache that comes from constipation. When I take a dose of Black-Draught, I feel as if my head gets easy. Before I knew of Black-Draught, I would suffer two or three days—but not any more since I have used Black-Draught."

Theford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable laxative and does not irritate the bowels. It is the only one that is safe for the young and old.

HIS TEETH ARE PERFECT!

...but how about his eyes?

At the ripe old age of three he was an expert at taking care of his teeth—brushing them carefully morning and night and so on. His Mother takes great pride now in his perfect teeth, as well she might.

But—how about his eyes? The chances are he has been allowed to read, study and play just anywhere he wanted to, without a thought having been given to whether or not the lighting in the room was right for his eyes—it may have been too dim, too bright, glaring or anything else that lighting is apt to be if it is not carefully studied and arranged to suit the user.

Here's a suggestion—before another day goes by, analyze your home lighting and see just what you should do to improve it. Eyes are far more precious than teeth—make sure they are not mistreated by improper lighting.
