WHY ARE SO MANY MOTORISTS CHANGING TO SUPER-SHELL?—IT GIVES MORE MILEAGE, INSTANT STARTING, RAPID PICK-UP, NOISELESS PERFORMANCE AND ECONOMICAL OPERATION—THAT'S YOUR ANSWER—

The Perfect Pair--Super-Shell Gasoline--Shell Motor Oil

Super-Shell Gasoline is supercharged by a special reforming process that packs up to 6900 extra firing charges into every gallon—Firing charges makes the wheels go round—Extra firing charges means more miles to the gallon.

Shell Motor Oil is developed in the same great laboratory as Super-Shell Gasoline. Careful refining retains only that substance of the crude that holds body, stands up under hard driving, lubricates to the last drop and gives more mileage.

MUNICIPAL HEAD FINDS PLENTY TO DO AS TWO JOBS ARE ATTENDED TO

Mayor J. A. Sadler admits that he is finding plenty to keep him on the go through long hours daily after having annexed duties formerly held by A. B. Blanks, utilities, street and parks superintendent. With resignation of Blanks last week, who has accepted a position with the Shell Pipe Line Company, the mayor offered to function in the dual combination as mayor and head of the departments previously under supervision of Blanks. "Looks as if my loafing days are over," mused the mayor Monday morning as he was seen on the street with a list of delinquent water customers. "I have no time to spend in idle moments now."

Circulating Library Makes Hundreds Of Good Books Available To Rural Schools

Giving rural school children of Mitchell county access to hundreds of good books which each individual school would be unable to buy, the rural school circulating library established last year in the office of Mrs. Ruby McGill Dodge, county superintendent, is proving a success.

The library was launched about this time last year, upon recommendations made for state aid schools of the county by Miss Sue B. Mann, deputy state superintendent and district supervisor.

'Last year there were some 1500 books in the library. They were checked out to the school principals on the basis of ten books for each teacher, and could be kept out a month, then returned and exchanged for more books.

This year with the same amount of money per school as was spent last year. Teachers make out a list of the books desired, and orders are sent in from these.

Having purchased most of the standard library books on state approved lists last year, the library this year will be able to buy many of the latest and most approved books for children of school age.

Both last year and this the library, which includes many volumes of fiction appealing to children in their teens and adults, has been available to adults in the various school districts as well as the children.

Metz Bishop Drops Dead While Hunting Deer Sunday Noon

Relief Clients To Be Penalized For Their Dereliction

Derelictions on the part of relief clients will be severely penalized, according to a statement from Adam R. Johnson, state relief administrator to county administrators.

Spending of money gained from relief work for alcoholic liquor, gambling and similar derelictions will have the effect of stopping that client's cash payment and he will be titled to only commodity pay.

He must work for these commodities which will be given for absolute needs. If the client steadfastly refuses to work when not paid in cash as a result of his derelictions, he will be charged with vagrancy.

Conviction in police court or frequent arraignment before any local court will immediately bring the client within the scope of the instructions, said Johnson.

Sunday School Class Honors Recent Bride

To shower Mrs. Clifton Yater, who was Miss Opa! Alexander until her recent marriage, members of her Sunday School class, which is taught by Mrs. J. H. Greene, entertained her friends at the home of Mrs. Jack Smith last Thursday afternoon.

Fall flowers, with chrysanthemums and roses predominating, were set about the entertaining suite. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Smith, and after their arrival the following program was presented:

Piano, Miss Josephine Chesney; reading, Miss Lillian Bean; quartet, "I Love You Truly," Misses Frances Merle Cooper, Marie O'Brien, Betty Hodge, and Jane Clare Meskimen, accompanied by Miss Chesney; piano, Miss Maurine Wade.

Presentation of the gifts, which were piled in an adjoining room, was made by Miss Bean. Three toasts were given, one to the girls left behind by Mrs. Jva Lee Pennington, one to the bride by Miss Cleo Sheppard, and one to the groom by Miss Memphis Porter.

Punch and mints were served by Misses Pennington and Sheppard in the candle-lit dining room. The punch bowl, surrounded by ivy, stood on a lace-covered table where two pink tapers burned. Two more tapers burned on the buffet.

Guests registered in a book presented over by Mrs. Dick O'Brien.

Former Colorado Boy Marries Midland Girl

An account of the marriage of Charley Blalock of Midland, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Blalock, Sr., of Colorado, to Miss Lois Brunson of Midland appeared in the "Sunday Midland Telegram" as follows:

In a ceremony of quiet simplicity and dignity, Miss Lois Brunson became the bride of Mr. Charles W. Blalock at 7 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Zant, 1405 W. Illinois.

The Rev. W. J. Coleman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated, using the ring service.

Attendees of the couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Zant.

Guests included members of the bride's family and close friends of the couple.

An informal reception, during which the two-tiered wedding cake decorated with orange blossoms and cydhils was cut by the bride, was held at the Zant home following the ceremony.

The bride wore a becoming gown of Burgundy crepe with fazzotted trim on yoke and sleeves and black accessories. Her going-away dress was of rust-color wool with accessories of brown.

Mrs. Zant wore brown crepe. Mr. and Mrs. Blalock left soon after the wedding for a short motor trip after which they will be at home at 201 E. Michigan.

The bride is a member of a well-known Midland family long prominent in ranch circles. She was reared in Midland and is a graduate of the Midland high school. Recently she has divided her time between the family home here and the ranch southeast of Midland.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Blalock Sr., of Colorado, is a graduate of the Colorado high school and attended business college at Austin. He came to Midland where he is connected with the Hughes Tool Company, several months ago.

Highlights of the recent Episcopal Triennial in Atlantic City and the regional meeting in San Angelo a week ago Sunday were given by Mrs. Thomas R. Smith at the Woman's Auxiliary of A. S. Saints' Episcopal Church Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Smith was assisted by Mrs. Alex B. Hanson and Mrs. Stewart Cooper, the former sketching the Triennial proceedings as given in "The Living Church," and the latter telling of interesting items about it in the official missionary organ.

Plans for the review of Stark Young's "So Red the Rose," given by the Rev. Alex B. Hanson on Wednesday afternoon were perfected.

No meeting of the auxiliary will be held next week. The one on December 3 will be an important business session, covering the election of officers and delegates to the convention in January.

A piano solo by Robert Wulfjen, music pupil of the hostess, was a program feature.

Routine reports were heard during the business session. Mrs. T. J. Ratliff and Mrs. Ralph Beal, former members of the club, were guests.

Sandwiches, potato chips, olives, fruit cake topped with whipped cream, and coffee were served. The club meets this week with Mrs. J. Ralph Lee.

Mrs. Pritchett Leads 1921 Study of Montana

Under the leadership of Mrs. J. T. Pritchett, the 1921 Study Club studied the state of Montana during its meeting Friday with Mrs. C. C. Thompson.

She was followed on the program by Mrs. Ray Wasmace, who told of "Charles M. Russell, the Cowboy Artist," Miss Mabel Smith, who reviewed Grace Stone Coates' "Black Cherries"; and Mrs. W. L. Doss, Jr., who gave facts about Will James, artist and author.

The song, "Montana," was rendered by a group of fourth grade pupils with Miss Margaret Cook accompanying and directing at the close of the program.

Climaxing their week of prayer for home missions, women of the Presbyterian Auxiliary met in an all-day session at the home of Mrs. A. E. Maddin last Thursday.

Opening the program, which was led by Sara-Ann Pond, Evelyn Moore discussed dance forms in music. Then the following dance numbers were played: "Invitation to the Dance," Margaret Cary; "Spring and Summer," Martha Jane Watson; "Gavotte," Betty Lou Whipkey; "Minuet," Freddie Watson; "Tarantella," Willie Grace Doss.

Officers of this club are Jane Clare Meskimen, president; Frances Merle Cooper, vice-president; Betty Hodge, secretary; Virginia Rose Whipkey, treasurer.

Refreshments of sandwiches, stuffed celery, olives, home-made candy, and coffee were served to the members and these guests: Mesdames Carl Smith, Homer Winnett, Johnny Dector, Charles Taylor, Jr., Luke Thomas, W. D. McClure, and E. B. Wilbanks; Miss Katherine Rose.

Mrs. Mike Smith and children left last week to join Mr. Smith in San Angelo, where he was recently transferred by the Safeway Stores.

Mrs. W. L. Reese returned last Wednesday night from Corning, Arkansas, where she was called by the death of her mother some time before.

CAUTION MUST TEMPER POWER

The fruits of political victory are sweet—but, after the rejoicing is over, they bring to the winner a grave responsibility. That is the responsibility of maintaining intact, for future generations, the ideals, principles and fundamentals of government that have made our country great.

That thought is particularly applicable to the men who hold high office now, after an election in which the party-in-power has emerged with the greatest congressional majority any party has had in our history. It is possible for the best intentioned and most patriotic men to go astray, especially when their power is almost absolute. The smaller and less aggressive their opposition, the greater care they must take in considering their acts.

No form of government could be more malleable than is ours under the Constitution. It is not a hide-bound document, as some would have us believe, that precludes the possibility of needed reform and change. It does not tyrannically maintain a status quo. Dealing as it does with permanent, not transient matters, it contains within its framework machinery for meeting soundly and swiftly every problem and issue that the nation may from time to time encounter.

No public duty is so great as that of maintaining American democracy. Nothing is so vital to our future welfare as the preservation of the basic principles upon which the country was founded. Besides these matters, the troubles of the present, important as they are, loom small indeed.

YES, WE WONDER WHY

Announcement from Sweetwater that formal opening of the new $150,000 overpass spanning the Santa Fe railroad on West Broadway is to be celebrated December 10th, leads some of us to wonder why something has not been done to protect life and limb at rail crossings in Colorado.

The Sweetwater project was financed with PWA money. A similar project has been authorized in Abilene and other West Texas cities. Yes, we wonder why Colorado does not get down to sincere thinking on this matter. Something ought to be done in the premises.

Arrival of another batch of checks to pay off government acre control contracts with Mitchell county farmers is serving to blend with the recent rains in restoring confidence generally. When people have money in their pockets and conditions ahead are looking up, we have better times.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. J. T. Adams of Westbrook wishes to express her sincere appreciation to her many friends who helped her to celebrate her Eightieth birthday, November 9. Especially did she appreciate the dinner Mrs. Bostler and Mrs. Jim Moore prepared for her.

PICTURES OF MEMORY

As we grow older we live and think more in the past. This writer sometimes sits and thinks of his childhood days and on through the years of other days.

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes that start
When memory plays an old tune on the heart."—Eliza Cook.

Possibly the greatest boon vouchsafed to mankind is that the future is veiled. A blessing it is, and a precious mercy. Almost as great a blessing is that the magic artist of memory brings to our view where desired hallowed pictures of the past, awakening thoughts of younger, and in some cases happier days.

The veiled future is kind in that it prevents us from magnifying the misfortunes awaiting us beyond our ability to bear them with courage and endure them with fortitude. To recall the beauties and joys of the past aids us in making tolerable the unpleasant things of the present.

How distressingly sad, how sweetly consoling and yet heart-breaking, were the memories of the Holy City and their beloved homeland to the Jews who were carried away captive to Babylon. Their mental attitude and heart griefs were beautifully and impressively told by the Psalmist, "By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down, yea, we wept when we remembered Zion."

Such memories are always "cruelly sweet," and we all have just such memories. But also we have many that are not cruel, but only sweet. It is comforting and consoling that we may, when an undesirable scene from the past presents itself, order it cut from our minds. However, it is not always that they can be cut out altogether. They may be made dimmer and less distinct entirely. With their hearts bowed down with sorrow, with memory bringing to their mental view the holy places of the homeland, the Sacred City, the humble homes, the familiar scenes of their everyday life, it is small wonder that the Jewish captives "wept when they remembered Zion."

When we watch the scenes of the past as shown when life's thoughts pass over the light of memory, there naturally is presented to us incidents which cause varied emotions, joyful and sad, sweet and bitter, happy and unhappy, these from the past life. Yet when we undertake to reject from our minds things objectionable we hesitate to eliminate them all, for the reason that it seems to require for the past, as for the present, some of the sad to augment the joy of those we recall with delight. The contrast seems to be a degree necessary.

Just as we are tempted to wrongdoing, so are we tempted to allow the ghosts and specters of past sorrows to come stalking down the corridors of time and present themselves to our mental visions to harass us and make us miserable.

We allow ourselves to conjure up the spirits of the departed, to mentally draw forth from their tombs the shrouded dead, and have them pass in review before us, while we agonize with remorse because of the wrongs we have done them, or shrink with terror while beholding specters which conscience awakens for the moment in order that they may make miserable one who is just as they were before their departure.

Why do we allow memories of misdeeds, of years, of departed opportunities, to tear open old wounds to inflame into new hurts old scars long since at least partially healed.

We can just as well bring into mental visualization the bodily presence of friends and loved ones who were always a joy to us, those who proved true to us, and dwell upon tender memories of precious association. It is a sweet, though sometimes sorrowful meditation.

Memory makes it possible for us to turn from the new faces of today, and summon from the dust of the past old-time friends.
Again we look into the love-lit eyes. Again we feel the tender touch of a vanished hand. Again we see the cheery smile of greeting. Again we hear the sweet voice of love as it repeats its assurance of faithful and tender affection for us. Again we live over some of the sweet incidents and look upon some of the never-to-be-forgotten scenes made sacred by fond and lasting memories.

How precious such moments, although cruel in their sweetness, which remind us of the days that are gone. They are cruel in their sweetness because of the memories and the consciousness that the fair earthly faces we shall see no more.

And we wonder why it is that we should know them and love them and have to part from them.

Then there comes the comforting assurance "They shall hunger no more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

Let us eliminate the heart-breaking and nerve-racking scenes from our lives. How much better to dwell upon the sacred memories of loved ones, upon days of old that were happy and bright, than upon the haunting weariness of experiences and scenes wherein our hearts are made again to bleed.

What a heart tragedy it is to undertake to furnish mirth and merriment with broken hearts, troubled minds and discontented spirits. It can't be done. And yet some of us have to undertake to do this occasionally.

A backward look at childhood days brings a smile to us because of recollections of childish pranks and pastimes, of funny little questions asked as children of shady nooks and nurdling brooks.

There is one experience which should be an occasion always and only for rejoicing, from which memory cannot recall any "cruelly sweet" echoes. This is the experience one has when he resolves that notwithstanding misfortune, suffering, sorrow, lying tongues or threatening future, he will henceforth be no more "mangled in the yoke of bondage," when he resolves to follow the Good Shepherd into the heavenly fold, even though every footstep be stained with blood.

This is the greatest of all human experiences, when one can say with sincerity and truth, "I know that my redeemer liveth" and that "He is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day." These refresh us and make us tend to forget for the moment those things which disturb us. This because they harm, without malice or hate, just

Lubricants To Suit Temperatures Used In Chevrolet Cars

The use of light oils as recommended by car manufacturers will, besides giving better lubrication, end one of winter's chief annoyances, that is, difficult starting. In sub-freezing temperatures, when the starter fails to turn over the engine fast enough to start it, or can't turn it over at all, it failure is because the engine oil in the bearings and cylinders has become so thick that it binds the parts. In cold weather, too, battery power is reduced; and light oil, therefore, is a great battery saver for, to start the engine, the battery need work but a short time and at a reduced output.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES

Rev. and Mrs. D. A. Ross and Miss Claudia Bell returned home Monday from Abilene, where they attended annual conference. We are glad to have Bro. Ross sent back to us as our pastor for another year.

Missionary society met at the parsonage at the usual hour, 3 o'clock. Mrs. L. E. Gressett led the concluding lesson of our study. This is our last study for the year. We feel that we have profited greatly by our study this year. There will be a program arranged for next Monday.

The hour for our group meetings has been moved up to 6:30. This enables us to finish in plenty of time for the preaching service.

Don't forget that there will be church services next Sunday, morning and evening. We are very glad to say that the time is near when we shall be holding services in our own building.

"Dear 'ole C. H. S." (as some poor "sap" once termed it) is again thrown violently into the regular "six weeks turmoil." Everyone is fairly in a nervous panic over the thought of the coming exams, and the teachers look on as if they were perfectly contented to deal the misery, which they are destined to cause. However, what sympathy they may feel, they are forbidden to express in any shape, form, or manner; so the "dreaded ordeal" is gradually closing in on the school, where pleas are useless and mercy is forbidden.

Nevertheless, some kind-hearted soul has said that every cloud has a silver lining, or sumpin', so the student body still has some hopes of a welcomed termination of this misery in the near future.

HALLS OF COLORADO HIGH SCHOOL AT THE END OF THE FOURTH PERIOD

Go with me and witness, if you can, in your mind what the halls of Colorado High School are like at the end of the last period, just before noon.

The first bell rings; it is the signal for wild confusion. Books are stacked in utter disorder; every student sits on the edge of his chair ready for the dash down the hall to his locker. The moment is tense with expectation; the bell rings. Every door flies open as if by magic and out pours a stream of whirling humanity. Then comes the wild dash, or scramble, down the hall, as if each life depended on the race with time.

Wham! What is that? Oh, don't get excited it's only the sudden impact of human flesh and bone colliding, as opposite going, crushing human tides make sudden connections.

Any harm done? No, only five down, ten bottles of ink broken and possibly a trail of blue and black ink tracks denoting the direction of the heavier group (Seniors) as they rush on leaving death and destruction in their wake. Only about fifteen or twenty text books, torn or totally demolished between the ink, and kicked down the hall. Of course no one minds.

Then is heard at a little greater distance, a clatter and bang as of musketry and bombs, then a terrible shriek. What's that? Nothing much, only someone got pushed in the charge downstairs, and landed at the gottom without any effort of his own.

Out at the front entrance the great tide flows, pushing, yelling, holding, screaming. Into cars, down

FRESHMAN PROGRAM

The Freshman program was introduced by Mr. Williams. He said that even though the Freshmen were not noted for brilliance they were noted for variations in size. The class has members who range in size from Raymond Fuller to Van King. It is noticed that the sponsor has no peewee himself.

The first musical number on the program was given by Bettie McCree, Shirlee Kiker, Betty Hodges, Frances Cooper, and Jane Clare Meskimen singing "An Old Fashioned Garden" and "Caroline," with Frances Jones at the piano.

Evelyn Hamer gave two readings: the first, a sad story about her Inglesol, and the second, not quite so sad, but more disastrous in the end, about "Me 'n' Ollie." The lighter entertainment was provided by Joe Lee who can really make a French harp talk.

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM

Thursday Rev. O'Brien brought to the high school assembly Rev. James, pastor of the First Baptist church in Cisco. Before the serious part of the program was started a few wisecracks were made by Rev. O'Brien and Rev. James. The best joke pulled off by Rev. O'Brien was about a little boy and his definition of a lie. When asked by his Sunday School teacher what a lie is, he replied, "It is an abomination in the sight of the Lord but a very present help in time of trouble."

Rev. James claimed to know Rev. O'Brien well, so he told the following from Rev. O'Brien's life. When Rev. O'Brien first moved to Colorado he had all his sermons in a barrel. As the furniture had not yet been placed in the house the barrel was left in the yard one night. That night a tragic thing took place. A cow ate about half of the sermons. Rev. O'Brien hated to lose the sermons, but his neighbor hated more to lose his cow for she was perfectly dry from then on.

After this display of wit on both sides, Rev. O'Brien finally quieted down enough for Rev. James to make the following serious talk. Rev. James chose as his topic "A Building Program for Life." In this talk he declared that we must all have an ideal in order to accomplish anything. Jesus had high standards and ideals in his life on earth. If we would only take Him as an example our lives would be much more full. Jesus lived a full life because he took advantage of every opportunity. The only people on earth that have ever lived a full life are the ones that took advantage of every opportunity as Jesus did.

Jesus not only lived a full life but a beautiful life. Jesus had no beautiful surroundings, but yet He was beautiful. Take the lily for example. It is beautiful in any surrounding, beautiful or ugly. If we live the right kind of life we shall be beautiful in any surrounding. It is not the color of the lily that makes it so beautiful, but its purity. People do not have to be dressed beautifully nor have beautiful features in a physical way. It is the purity of a person that makes him beautiful. To illustrate that point Rev. James told this story: "One of the most beautiful persons that I have ever seen was my old school teacher. Her shoulders were bent and stooped. Her face was old and wrinkled but kind. Her beauty came from her heart, where beauty really counts. It was her heart and her purity that made her beautiful."

Jesus lived a pure life always. If people were only able to be like him in this respect. A pure life will repay one in many ways. To keep one's life pure one should live in the sunshine and always face the sun. The sunlight is clear and wholesome, so long as one faces the sun he will keep away from the lowliness and the dark and evil. The sunshine of our life is Jesus and His father, God.

HOME ECONOMICS I B

Half of the girls in the first year clothing class have finished their class projects, and are quite proud of what they have accomplished. Their class project was the making of a slip; this seemed very hard at first but now they believe they could make another slip more easily than the first one. Their next class project will be to make a school dress.

WILLIE BELLE KELLEY.

HOME EC. II B

The second year clothing class is making good progress on their class projects and soon they will have finished them.

They have been given a list of things to remember while planning and making their next home projects. Housekeeping duties have been assigned to each girl. These duties teach the girls to keep the laboratory clean and also their homes.

THIRD YEAR H. E. NEWS

The Third Year Home Economics class is still studying "Entertainment." They are studying this subject in their text books and some of the girls have given interesting reports from magazines and books. Each girl must give some sort of entertainment while they are taking the course.

The next Friday night the Home Economics girls and Vocational Agriculture boys are going to a weiner roast out at Ruddick Park. They are planning on having a very good time.

ARABELLE SORRELLS.

LA TERTULIA

La Tertulia met Tuesday, November 13 instead of Monday, the regular club day. The pupils answered roll call with current events pertaining to Spain or Spanish America.

The reports given were a continuation of the imaginary trip through South America. Charles Hutchison gave a report on "Through Brazil's Great West." This portion of Brazil is noted for its production of gold and herba mate, which is a tea made out of boiled herbs. George Kiker reported on "The Chicago of the South," which is Buenos Aires. It has many similarities to Chicago, resembling the North American City in its location, its buildings, and its inhabitants. The location of the stockyard is so like that of Chicago that it is called "Nuevo Chicago." Juanita Long reported on "Cities of the Pampa" and "The Dreary Southland." By far the most important city of the Pampa is Buenos Aires, which means much more to Argentina than New York does to our country. It is the home of one-fifth the people of Argentina, and no other city of that country compares with it in wealth, business, or society.

Monthly Pains Relieved

Women who take CARDUI have found that severe monthly pains have been relieved and that by continued use of it for a reasonable length of time their strength has been renewed and their general health improved.

"I am glad to speak a few words for Cardui, the medicine I have taken for a weak, run-down condition, for bad pains in my side and back and for irregular periods," writes Mrs. Roy Chandler, of Coosada, Ala. "Cardui straightened me out and I feel 100 per cent better. It certainly helped me."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere gratitude to the Senior Class and sponsors, and also to the student body and faculty for the beautiful floral offerings and sincere expressions of sympathy to me in my great loss. Each of you has proved a friend in need and has helped to make my burden lighter.

SENIOR NEWS

It seems that several Seniors are hunting thirty cents lately. Could it be that they would go to a picture show? Oh, sure, a good way to get points in English!

Poor crippled Buster! Some say a mule became angry with him, others say it was the result of a bar-wire fence. We wonder.

Juanita Long has acquired several pieces of jewelry of late. Information is wanted!

What a quarrel! Now Lena, would you need some help.

Six week examinations, seniors, study hard!

It seems that a few "red hairs" were found tucked under the button on Buster's shirt collar. Wonder who the "dame" is.

At last the rest of the Senior rings have arrived. Up with your hands Seniors!

FIRST YEAR H. E. NEWS

 Grapefruit
 Cream of Wheat Butter and Sugar

HOME ECONOMICS I B

Half of the girls in the first year clothing class have finished their class projects, and are quite proud of what they have accomplished. Their class project was the making of a slip; this seemed very hard at first but now they believe they could make another slip more easily than the first one. Their next class project will be to make a school dress.

HOME EC. II B

The second year clothing class is making good progress on their class projects and soon they will have finished them.

They have been given a list of things to remember while planning and making their next home projects. Housekeeping duties have been assigned to each girl. These duties teach the girls to keep the laboratory clean and also their homes.

THIRD YEAR H. E. NEWS

The Third Year Home Economics class is still studying "Entertainment." They are studying this subject in their text books and some of the girls have given interesting reports from magazines and books. Each girl must give some sort of entertainment while they are taking the course.

The next Friday night the Home Economics girls and Vocational Agriculture boys are going to a weiner roast out at Ruddick Park. They are planning on having a very good time.

LA TERTULIA

La Tertulia met Tuesday, November 13 instead of Monday, the regular club day. The pupils answered roll call with current events pertaining to Spain or Spanish America.

The reports given were a continuation of the imaginary trip through South America. Charles Hutchison gave a report on "Through Brazil's Great West." This portion of Brazil is noted for its production of gold and herba mate, which is a tea made out of boiled herbs. George Kiker reported on "The Chicago of the South," which is Buenos Aires. It has many similarities to Chicago, resembling the North American City in its location, its buildings, and its inhabitants. The location of the stockyard is so like that of Chicago that it is called "Nuevo Chicago." Juanita Long reported on "Cities of the Pampa" and "The Dreary Southland." By far the most important city of the Pampa is Buenos Aires, which means much more to Argentina than New York does to our country. It is the home of one-fifth the people of Argentina, and no other city of that country compares with it in wealth, business, or society.
