LEND US YOUR gas tank for 3 weeks

GULF

*750 did it—
Not long ago we "borrowed" the gas tanks of 750 motorists for 3 weeks.

They bought That Good Gulf— compared it with their regular brands for (1) mileage, (2) starting, (3) pick-up, (4) power, (5) all-around performance.

555 won to Gulf!
More than 7 out of 10 motorists chose Gulf on one or more of the 5 points—and many on all 5.

Gulf's secret? Controlled refining makes it 5 good gasolines in one! You get not 2 or 3 ideal qualities from Gulf—but five.

Try Gulf 3 weeks in your car. We're certain you'll stay with us.

GULF REFINING COMPANY

Q. How fast should you drive to get the most gas mileage? You'll find the answer in this Gulf Booklet, plus 14 other valuable economy hints. Free—at the Sign of the Orange Disc.

We dedicate this column to Dr. Geo. W. Truett of Dallas whom we believe is a second Paul. He has been pastor of the First Baptist Church at Dallas for 38 years and recently that church voted him a two year leave of absence to evangelize the world. He goes on a missionary journey first to the foreign countries. The following is an editorial from the Dallas News:

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.—Matthew xxviii, 19.

WILL BE SIGNIFICANT JOURNEY

Dr. Truett will carry with him on his extended visit the prayers of Christians everywhere, especially in this country, and more especially those in Dallas and Texas. Long ago his fame as an earnest and eloquent preacher preceded him everywhere he went. More recently was added the fact of his being a past president of the Southern Baptist Convention, the largest body of Baptists in this country. Supplementing these distinctions is the fact that at the present time he is President of the Baptist World Alliance, an organization of 12,000,000 Baptists. It is the highest official eminence of that denomination, which office was bestowed on him last year at Berlin, Germany.

There is probably no one better equipped for the work of the ministry than is this native son of North Carolina and adopted son of Texas. But as Charles Phillips said of Washington, "It matters not what immediate spot may be the birthplace of such a man. No people can claim, no country can appropriate him. He is a boon of Providence to the human race."

Dr. Truett's imposing personality, combining dignity with humility, modesty with courage, timidity with resolution, suggests leadership. When these are added scholarship and good common sense, experience and good judgment, logic and eloquence, it is easy to see why his auditors are impressed by his sermons, and his qualifications and capacity for the great work to which he has devoted his time and talents.

His personality suggests his mission. When he calls upon his hearers to "give reverent heed to the reading of the Holy Scriptures," he invests his admonition with a seriousness that bespeaks the solemnity of the responsibility he feels. His manner of delivery and voice impress one with his absolute conviction of the truths contained in his messages and the obligation on his part to impress them indelibly upon the minds and hearts of those listening. Evidence of his faith and fearlessness is apparent. Paraphrasing slightly Goldsmith's words: Truth from his lips prevails with double away. And men who come to scoff remain to pray. Unquestioned sincerity and unshakable faith, earnestness of appeal and anxiety for the salvation of souls invest his pleading with a power and impressiveness that are hard to resist.

UPWARD AND ONWARD

When a youth in his North Carolina farm home, he settled the matter for himself to a Christian life. He set his face toward the light, and with determination and courage, inspired by solid conviction and a solemn sense of duty, he has traveled the road leading upward. No condition could discourage, no circumstance could alter his course or purpose.

Every incident of his life, whether helpful or hinderful, only served to increase his zeal and intensify his efforts. If it was such as would discourage others, he redoubled his efforts to overcome it. If it was helpful and gratifying, he felt that because it was such he should do still more, that he might show his gratitude and appreciation.

"Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," said Jesus, and it is this faith in God and love for mankind that brings to this splendid preacher both the desire to save the sinner and convert the evildoer from the error of his way, thus magnifying Him whose he is and whom he serves.

It is usual to call one who becomes a Christian a "child of the King," and Jesus is spoken of by the prophet as being "the Lion of the tribe of Judah." Continuing the Bible spiritual symbolism, the thought suggests itself to speak of this courageous preacher as "a whelp of the Lion of the tribe of Judah."

WORLD CITIZENSHIP

When a man attains to the position where his usefulness is worldwide, where he exercises an influence to a degree upon world affairs, he becomes a world-citizen. Such a one owes to humanity in general whatever time and effort it is possible for him to give. There is no question that the realization of this fact impelled Dr. Truett's decision to present the matter of his globe-girdling preaching tour to his congregation.

It is indeed a far cry from a farm boy in Carolina to the world eminence this man has reached as a minister. Unlike many men who have gained world-wide fame through military achievement, the extraordinary factor of this man's fame rests upon his victories over the forces of darkness and evil. Unlike those who have led in the struggles wherein men have killed one another, he came not to "open the purple testament of bleeding war" but his mission has been to open the New Testament of war on sin and evil, wrong and injustice.

GREAT MEN—GREAT OCCASIONS

It was said by James Russell Lowell that "A great man is one made up of qualities that meet or make great occasions." This standard holds good in the long trip this great Texas preacher has planned and to which his church has given approval. Shakespeare's statement that "Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them," does not apply in the case of this Dallas pastor.

Those who know him know that world renown in his case was simply an incident—he "didn't go to do it," as the small boy said of an accident for which he was responsible. It was a sort of by-product, as it were. He was too intent upon his work to discover merit as it lay in ambush for him and running him down to place the laurel wreath upon his worthy brow. It was hardly fair to take advantage of him in this way, but Merit demands recognition for her sons.

No one who is acquainted with Dr. Truett would undertake to flatter him, knowing that he would resent it. But what in the cases of most men would be flattery in his case is simply recorded and unrecorded facts. It is an impressive feature of his career that so well he is known and so effective his work, so unselfish his labors and so well he is loved, that no feeling of jealousy, no spirit of envy in other good men is aroused because of it.

GRACIOUSNESS OF CHURCH

It was gracious of the congregation of the First Baptist Church of Dallas to approve Dr. Truett's plan and inspire him with the cordial support which always means so much to a preacher. This is not surprising, however, as naturally enough he has imparted to his church family some of the self-sacrificing spirit and burning zeal for the spread of the "good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people."

On August 29 next he begins the thirty-ninth year of his pastorate with the Dallas church. Time has depleted the ranks of those who were present when he began, while at the same time adding thousands to the membership of the congregation. At the meeting mentioned at the beginning of this article there were almost a dozen of those who were present when he delivered his first sermon. Their heads have been whitened by time, but their hearts are still thrilled by the pastor's messages of love and faith.

FIRST IN MANY THINGS

Besides being First among America's and the world's Baptists it will probably be agreed that Dr. Truett is the First Citizen of Dallas and Texas. The Chamber of Commerce some years ago gave a banquet in his honor as the city's most valuable citizen. After a number of addresses in which expressions of appreciation of his labors were voiced, he arose in much embarrassment and said, "If any of you can tell me just what I should say at this time I shall be glad if you will do so."

Thus it has been that whether as a farm boy in his home in Carolina, or teaching school in Georgia; whether as a young man raising money to lift the debt from Baylor University, or energetically pursuing his pastoral duties in Waco or Dallas; whether on tours of evangelization, or addressing citizens on important civic questions; whether dining with Lloyd George, Great Britain's Prime Minister, in London, or on his knees in prayer with a wounded soldier in Flanders, his energy has not slackened, his love for mankind has not diminished, and his faith in God has not wavered.

It is to be hoped that those who read this modest testimony as to this man will not consider it anything but just that. All know well his dislike for anything that would unduly magnify him or his work. This article does not intentionally do either. This writer knows that the great preacher is happier when he is testifying to the multitudes as did Paul that "This Jesus whom I preach unto you is Christ."

All who know him are sure that in due time he will hear the welcome plaudit, "Well done, good and faithful servant... enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

By C. W. Wood National Service Director Chevrolet Motor Company

Alertness is the chief requirement for the driver on a vacation tour. He doesn't know the road and its hazards, he is unfamiliar with local traffic customs, and at any moment he may be called upon to cope with a situation that he is not accustomed to meeting in his ordinary driving. Therefore, if he does not concentrate on his job, he is much more likely to have a mishap than when he is traveling the old familiar roads around his home.

Most driving over accustomed routes is done sub-consciously; the driver slows down for curves and busy intersections, halts at stop streets, and observes the traffic lights, without giving thought to them. This is the safest condition of driving, because it permits the man at the wheel to be on the alert for any unusual development. Since he does so many of the necessary things from force of habit, he is better able to act when the unexpected happens.

On the summer tour, over strange highways, the driver must consciously direct his mind to warning signs, crossings, curves, steep grades, etc. And it is on this kind of drive, when he needs all his attention on the road, that he is most subjected to distraction. He has to observe the scenery, keep an eye on the youngsters, converse with his wife, see that the baggage remains in place, and look after a dozen things that in ordinary driving cause him no concern.

The first rule of safe touring for the driver, therefore, is to keep constantly on the alert. The rule for the passenger is to avoid distracting the driver from his main job. Passengers could be a positive help if they tried. They can call out "Green" or "Red" as the car approaches a traffic signal, just as the locomotive fireman calls out the signals to the engineer; they can do the watching for and reading of the road signs, and follow the printed log of the journey, and call attention to warnings and stop signs, and in many ways relieve the driver of some of his burden.

Inexperience is a frequent source of trouble, but ignorance is no excuse. The good driver will take special precautions that may not be heeded, rather than to go ahead and trust that none will be necessary. For instance, if he is starting down a grade in mountainous country, he will shift to a lower gear in advance. If he is entering a curve, he will slow

COLORADO LION OFFERS CIGARS IN RECOGNITION RED-HAIRED DA-DA BOY

Jim Greene, charter member of the Lions Club, Friday presented members of the service organization with two boxes of cigars in recognition to a recent addition to his family. Such has been the custom for several years.

"Following the custom of presenting cigars to our membership when and upon the increase in one's family, I present these cigars, but before doing so I make the following observation," Greene stated in letter addressed to the club and read by John Watson, chairman of the program committee:

"It is usually customary to have a physician with the mother upon arrival of an addition. In this case, however, it was necessary to have the physician with the father, and although we have only had him two weeks, this addition to our family has a full head of red hair and can say 'da-da.'"

The red haired youngster referred to was Joe Pond, past president of the Lions Club who recently married Miss Nell Harper Greene only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Greene.

down and be prepared if the road suddenly takes a sharp bend. If he parks his car on a stiff grade, he will leave it in low rather than trust to his hand brake.

"Take nothing for granted" is an excellent rule for the tourist driver. He should not assume that all is clear around the bend of the road or just over the crest of a hill—he should not even count on what other drivers will do. The one safe assumption about drivers, in fact, is that they will do the wrong thing. If you anticipate that they will, you'll save a lot of trouble.

Cotton Acreage Is Higher Than Total Reported In 1934

Cotton in cultivation July 1 was reported Monday by the department of agriculture as 29,156,000 acres, or 104.6 percent of that a year ago when the total was 27,883,000 acres.

No estimate of indicated production or of the condition of the crop July 1 was announced, the law requiring those figures not be gathered until August. Of the area in cultivation a year ago, 26,987,000 acres were picked, yielding 170.9 pounds of lint cotton to the acre and a total production of 9,636,073 bales of 500 pounds gross weight. Two years ago 40,852,000 acres were in cultivation, and 27,883,000 acres picked, yielding 208.5 pounds to the acre and a total production of 13,047,262 bales.

The average abandonment of acreage between July 1 and time of picking during the 10 years from 1925 to 1934 was 2.4 percent.

The cultivated acreage in Texas was reported at 11,357,000 and condition of the crop 105 percent of that a year ago.

Black Widow Held Captive In Glass Jar Attracts Visitors To The Record Office

During the past few weeks stories replete with interest centered about the black widow spider have been printed in weekly and daily newspapers. The spider suddenly swept into prominence as news after some two or three people had died due to her bite, so it was charged.

One of the spiders has been busily engaged in the routine of bringing young into the world and dispatching grasshoppers and other insects from her glass jail at The Record office several days. She was brought into this office by "Smokey" Merritt of the Alcovy Drug Company, after the first litter of little ones came.

Speaking of widow spiders, the following story out of Oklahoma City should be of interest, especially to those citizens who have been calling at The Record office several times daily to inquire how her majesty is making out:

A coy black spider displayed strategy in keeping with her sinister reputation Wednesday to take a decided advantage in a mortal battle-royal with a tarantula and a centipede.

Thrown into a glass jar with the other pests, the black widow, much the smallest of the trio, ran quickly to the top of the arena. From that vantage point she watched with cool detachment the elimination of her first enemy the tarantula.

In constrictor fashion, the centipede wrapped its six inches of green and orange body around the tarantula, a monster furry spider. Timekeepers awarded the centipede the first and deciding fall in 17½ minutes. The tarantula was crushed to death.

Then the black widow went into action. The little spider, the mourning colors for the husband she reputedly disposed of by eating, relieved only by the orange hour glass marking on her front, proceeded with guile rather than rashness.

With the deftness of a rodeo performer, she entangled the centipede ten times her size, in web-threads of her own spinning.

Hindered and surly, the big centipede threshed about the enclosure, its many feet failing to give it as much traction on the slippery glass floor as the eight wily legs of the spider. It paused now and then to rest.

The black widow retired to a corner and began weaving a net, pausing at intervals in efforts to entice the centipede into it.

Victor of a battle with a scorpion a few days ago, the spider appeared to be content for the time to remain outside the reach of the centipede, which was unable to pursue her up the slick walls of the cage.

Observers guessed the fight probably would continue for several days.

Mrs. E. M. Conrad and son John, of Colorado, and Mrs. J. C. Taylor of Fort Worth, were Albany visitors in the city the past week the guests of Judge and Mrs. J. A. Matthews. Of course, the Shackelford county folks wander away from their old habitation, but like the range horse and the range cow, when springtime comes they have a hankering to get back on the old range, hills and dales and trails, see the babbling brooks and hear the bird songs.—Selah."

Death Breaks Up Familiar Team Of A Crippled Negro And His Muzzled Dog

A crippled, lovable old negro and his inseparable companion, a muzzled dog, will not be walking the streets of Colorado together any more and a great many people will miss them. Death broke up this familiar team last Friday night when it claimed Walter Mitchell, 75-year-old negro, who has been associated with Colorado's history since the town's earliest days. He is best remembered for his years of service as janitor of Mitchell county's courthouse. None seems to know exactly how or why he first came to Mitchell county, but he was here to help build the old courthouse—and cried, some say, when it had to go years later to make way for the present structure. There are two stories about how he suffered the leg injuries which caused him to need two canes for walking. The one most people tell is that he fell from a scaffold when the old courthouse was being built and broke both legs. The other is that he suffered a similar accident when the old St. James hotel was under construction. Old-timers say that the Ware family took an active interest in Walter's welfare. He served as janitor of the courthouse during Dick Ware's term as the county's first sheriff. When Mrs. M. Carter, who had been Della Ware, died, Walter was accorded a place at her funeral. He used to say he knew her when she was a little girl. Until he became so handicapped by advancing years and his crippled legs that he could no longer get about to do the work, Walter continued to serve as courthouse janitor, with the exception of a few years spent in Austin and Houston. For the past eight years he has made his home in the H. B. Broadus ser-

Mahon After Vets' Hospital For This Section Of Texas

Congressman George Mahon appeared before the Federal Board of Hospitalization Friday, making an appeal for a Veterans' Administration Hospital for West Texas. Hearings are being held by the Board to determine the need for new facilities throughout the country.

The proposed hospital would be a general medical and surgical facility. It would include approximately 500 patient beds. Construction would be under the direction of the Veterans' Administration, and it is estimated that an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000 would be involved.

Facts presented by Mr. Mahon at the hearing disclose that there is a larger area centering in West Texas which does not now have access to a general medical facility than exists in any other section of the country. This area would include approximately 1,200,000 people and an estimated number of veterans exceeding 36,000.

There are several facilities in Texas now, but not one of them is used wholly for general medical purposes. There are only 235 beds available for this type of cases in the entire state, and these serve only 29.8 per cent of the general medical and surgical type cases arising within the State.

Mr. Mahon emphasized the need for the hospital from the standpoint of service for the veterans in the area who need medical attention, from the standpoint of the cost of transportation, and from the standpoint of its value in establishing definite medical records for individual claims with the Veterans' Administration.

Build Trench Silos For Storing Feed And Grain, Is Suggestion By Williams

Doyle Williams, director of the vocational agriculture department in high school, suggests that the most economical and yet dependable means of storing feed is by use of the trench silo. Williams Tuesday morning offered the following statement for publication:

"Outlook of the early feed crop is not as promising as it was a few days ago. We still have prospects for lots of roughage with some grain. Farmers should be interested in the most economical means of storing this feed supply for future use."

"For a cheap place which is wind proof, fire proof, convenient, and one that can be constructed in short time, there is none better than the trench silo. Why not use this method of storing your first cutting of feed this season and conserve two years' feed supply. Corn, milo maize, and any other grain sorghum will make good silage which at the present will be cut short by the July drought and if cured will be an inferior grade of feed. The stubble will make a high quality feed next fall that can be cured and stored in the ordinary way."

"A silo of this kind can be constructed by every farmer in the country and it does not call for high priced equipment to cut the feed up as it can be placed in the silo in the bundle without the extra expense of cutting. And he can have the equivalent of green feed when it is too dry or too cold to have green pastures. A trench silo is more than a container in which to store feed for use in a drought year. It can be filled during adverse weather conditions eliminating the hazards of curving and insect damage to stored grains so common in West Texas.

"The importance of storing a two years feed supply can never be more vivid than now after the experiences of last year. The farmer with a few head of cows and work stock can well afford to construct a trench silo on his farm and thus insure ample feed supplies for the next two years. Plans for the trench silo can be procured from the county agent or the vocational agriculture teacher."

Mitchell Students Expected To Enter All-State Contest

School students of Mitchell county will be expected to offer competition in contest to be staged under direction of the Texas Centennial board, details of which were announced Monday at Austin by Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul.

Woodul said he and friends interested in Texas history would offer the prizes. The money would not be paid from state funds appropriated for Texas Centennial celebrations.

Competition would be organized through classes of schools, Woodul said, and trial competitions held in each county. Prizes would be arranged for locally by county advisory boards to the Commission of Control for Texas Centennial celebrations, of which he is chairman.

"As chairman of the commission," Woodul said, "I am vitally interested in a successful Centennial year. Under the law there are no funds for these student competitions, and that is the reason my friends and I are going to organize these competitions throughout the state."

He said he knew of no better way to "sell an appropriation" of Texas history to every one "than to get the students, in our schools studying, talking and writing Texas history."

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

PLAINVIEW WOMEN ARE TOLD OF SHRUB CARE

The proper preparation and cultivation of soil around yard shrubs were discussed by Miss Emma Gunter, county home demonstration agent, in a demonstration and talk to women of the Plainview Home Demonstration club meeting at the home of Mrs. T. W. Daughtrey Wednesday afternoon.

"Loosening up the top soil," Miss Gunter said, "makes a mulch which holds moisture. Let water run slowly into ground so prepared and one good watering will last at least a week."

Reporting on her bedroom improvement work, Mrs. R. K. Howell said that, with the help of her husband and Mrs. L. M. Jones, she had papered the walls and painted the ceiling at a cost of ninety-one cents, had built a clothes closet, and had made a mattress and spring cover.
