

RETURN OF LEGAL BEER IS SOUGHT AFTER 'DRY' RULE IN COUNTY FOR 34 YEARS

Voters Circulating Petition Calling On Commissioners To Order Election; Local Precinct Is Affected

Return of the old days in which sales of beer and light wines were legalized in Mitchell county is to be sought by citizens of this and other communities who are giving attention to circulation of petitions calling for another election on the controversial question.

The petitions should be filed with the county clerk within the next few days but will not be given consideration by Judge B. L. Templeton and members of commissioners' court until Monday, February 10, when the court is to be convened in regular session. The election request is being endorsed by a representative number of voters over the county according to statement given this newspaper.

Similar petitions were circulated a few weeks ago and after having been presented for consideration by the court were found to be irregular due to fact laws governing these referendum elections were changed by the last legislature.

In event proponents of the beer and light wine sales are successful at the polls, a "dry" rule extending through 34 years would be broken. Mitchell county was voted dry on March 4, 1902 and has continued in that category since.

In the last county-wide election, held April 21 1934, the drys won by the marginal lead of only 78 votes. Voters in the Colorado precinct were in favor of the beer and wine proposal by over two to one, but other boxes swung the county into the prohibition column.

In another election, held June 1, last year, and affecting Justice Precinct One, the issue was carried by sponsors of the sales and Colorado dispensed beer legally until January 1, when, under mandate of amended State laws, the traffic was not permissible.

Mitchell Veterans Already Planning On How Their Baby Bonds Will Be Utilized

Scores of Mitchell county veterans who within the next few months are to share in distribution of approximately $210,000 in Federal baby bonds are turning their attention to consideration of plans for utilizing the money.

The soldier bonus measure became a law Monday when the Senate voted 76 to 19 to override veto of President Roosevelt. A few days before the house registered a poll of 324 to 61 to accomplish the same ends. Vote in the House to override veto of the chief executive came within a few hours after the White House had blue penciled the measure.

Several veterans at Colorado announce that they are to either purchase homes for themselves and members of their families or make improvements to such properties already owned. There are others who will let the bonds "ride," taking advantage of the interest bearing feature as an investment. Still others are to pay up outstanding obligations.

The president late Monday issued orders to the treasury and veterans administration to speed up the task of paying the bonus without delay, now that the 16-year-old fight has come to a close.

Teachers In Colorado Schools Put Over 15 Percent Of Earnings Into Profession

That teachers in Colorado public schools put an average of more than 15 per cent of their salaries directly back into their profession is graphically shown in a report made out this week by John E. Watson, superintendent of schools.

The report shows items of professional expense incurred by teachers of the Colorado Public Schools for the year 1934-35.

According to the report, each of the twelve teachers in Colorado High school spent an average of $72.50 for summer school, $16.92 for other professional courses; $14.37 for professional books, magazines, and fees; $65.65 for professional trips to State Teachers' association, curriculum conferences, etc.; $5.85 for teacher's classroom helps, books, and supplies. These figures amount to an average total expense per teacher of $175.29 for the year.

The ten teachers of Junior High school averaged $187.55 each, the six in Hutchinson school $101.83 each, and the six in the Coleman building $92.96 each, making the average for the entire school faculty $152.03.

Figuring the average teacher's salary at $1,000 per year, this expenditure would represent more than 15 per cent of the salary. In reality, however, teachers' salaries come nearer averaging $945, making the expenditure percentage even greater.

GREENE BANQUET SPEAKER

Mrs. King, widow of the late W. T. King, came to Colorado about 1890. She was "Sis" Howard in those days and it was after coming here that she married Mr. King. She was born Jan. 22, 1850, in Tennessee.

M. Elliott, pastor First Presbyterian church. Pallbearers were Charles Moeser, Edwin Moeser, Luther Harrison, Ford Morris, M. L. Kirschbaum, and C. A. Barnett. TWO ARE INJURED WHEN CARS CRASH ON STREET

W. W. Whipkey, publisher of The Record, and Jack Newsom, manager of the U-Save-Grocery, were considerably shaken up when their motor cars featured in wreck at Elm and East Fourth Thursday morning.

Whipkey was taken to the Root hospital and later removed to his home. The cars were badly wrecked. The men were driving to their respective places of business when the two machines came together. Slippery streets, occasioned by a coating of sleet and ice, made the crash unavoidable.

Mrs. J. A. Sadler was on the sick list Saturday and Sunday.

Sunshine Tempers Severe Cold After Sleet Covers Area

The severe cold that during the past several days has held this section within its grasp was abating Thursday noon after bright sunshine arrived to take place of overshadowed sky. Sleet and snow that during Wednesday blanketed the territory, had begun to melt away.

Little if any damage resulted to livestock in the Colorado territory, ranchers stated Thursday morning. Sub-freezing temperatures have prevailed almost continuously during the past two weeks.

Orchardists continue to view the outlook with optimism. The severe cold has left the ground in such state as to retard early budding of fruit trees, they say, a condition that should assure good yields later during the year.

Cattle Not Injured, Ranchers State; Orchardists Looking To Favorable Fruit Year

The severe cold that during the past several days has held this section within its grasp was abating Thursday noon, it was reported from the office of Ruf E. Warren, collector. Slightly more than 1,000 of the voting requisites had been issued to citizens living within the two voting precincts at Colorado.

Loraine was leading all other voting boxes of the county in the ratio of poll taxes paid, it was stated. Indications suggested that the electorate there would qualify practically one hundred per cent.

Over five hundred of the certificates remained to be issued through Thursday and Friday if voting strength of the county reached the 3,006 total of two years ago, the last election year.

Poll Taxes Paid By 2,500 Citizens To Thursday At Noon

Friday Night Will Be Last Day Of Grace For Voter To Preserve Suffrage

A total of 2,500 Mitchell county citizens had paid poll taxes up to Thursday noon, it was reported from the office of Ruf E. Warren, collector. Slightly more than 1,000 of the voting requisites had been issued to citizens living within the two voting precincts at Colorado.

Loraine was leading all other voting boxes of the county in the ratio of poll taxes paid, it was stated. Indications suggested that the electorate there would qualify practically one hundred per cent.

Over five hundred of the certificates remained to be issued through Thursday and Friday if voting strength of the county reached the 3,006 total of two years ago, the last election year.

Annual Tourney Closed Last Friday At Rogers; Several Teams Entered For Play

The Rogers boys quintet won the championship of the boys division of the third annual Rogers Invitation Basketball tournament Friday by trouncing the Iatan Cats when Joe Smallwood sunk a field goal with less than ten seconds to play which untied the score. The final count was Rogers 15, Iatan 13. This victory gave the Rogers basketeers the championship, the second year in succession. This final game was hard-fought with the winners keeping the lead during the greater part of the game.

The closest game of the day was won by Iatan over Carr in a semi-final game by a score of 17 to 16. The other semi-final game was won by the Rogers five over Conaway 18 to 2. The other boys team entering the preliminaries were Silver, Fairview, and Westbrook Juniors.

The Westbrook Jr. girls won the cup by defeating the Carr sextet 14 to 9 in the final game of their division. The champions had previously whipped Conaway 10 to 5 in the lone semi-final game. Rogers, Looney, and Iatan sextets lost in the first round in hard fought games.

The all-tournament team for boys is as follows: Forwards, Sidney Jones of Carr and Joe Smallwood of Rogers; center, Cotton Barker of Iatan; guards, Jack Jones and Leroy Hightower of Carr. High scorer of boys was Joe Smallwood of Rogers with 20 points.

The girls all-tournament selections were: Forwards, Kathryn Black of Looney, Helen Moon of Conaway, Neta Daniels of Carr; guards, Errah Yarborough of Looney, Gladys Turner of Carr, and Elizabeth Young of Westbrook.

The high score for the girls division was Kathryn Black who made 18 points in one game.

Every player of the thirteen teams entering the tourney exhibited a fine spirit of cooperation and clean sportsmanship. A large crowd attended the games.

AGE OF MARRYING THE 'SECOND GENERATION' IS REACHED BY PASTOR

The age wherein wedding ceremonies are said for those of the "second generation" has been reached by the Rev. Cal C. Wright, pastor First Methodist church.

Twenty-three years ago the Rev. Mr. Wright performed the wedding ceremony for Oswald Everett, rancher of near Blackwell, and Miss Minerva Russell.

Last Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Everett ranch home he married the Everetts' daughter, Miss Mary Louise Everett, to Mr. Lee Alderman, a rancher of near Blackwell. Mrs. Wright accompanied the Rev. Mr. Wright to the Everett home for the ceremony. She was also present at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Everett twenty-three years ago, as were other witnesses of the ceremony Saturday.

Pictured above is Judge R. H. Looney, pioneer attorney, banker and property owner of Mitchell county, who died Sunday morning at his residence on Cedar street.

'Can You Prove Your Correct Age?' Old Age Pension Applicants Will Be Asked

Citizens of Mitchell county who are looking toward Austin in hopes of some day receiving financial return under provisions of the old age pension law, are to face problem, in many cases, when it comes to proving just how old they are. Of course, the applicant will be correct in the information given, but where will he or she be able to locate records or persons to sustain that fact?

"That is going to be one of the perplexing problems that must be met," Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the pension commission, stated at Austin Monday. He pointed out several methods whereby applicants might produce evidence to show their eligibility.

There will be other problems for applicants to meet, Carpenter said, such as proving income for the last two years, property owned and liens against same, cash or negotiable securities held, and citizenship.

First of all, however, age must be established. Application forms will be distributed to cities and towns over the state and will be available to all who want them Feb. 14, when the pension law goes into effect. As required by law, certain facts must be established by the applicant. The law grants assistance to the needy who are 65 years of age or more, and each applicant must definitely and conclusively prove his age.

Carpenter said the commission will consider any evidence that proves or helps to establish definitely the age of each applicant. He suggested as the kinds of evidence that may be used:

Birth certificates, marriage certificates giving the ages of both parties, birth certificates of children giving the ages of parents, ages of sons and daughters when these are sufficiently advanced, naturalization papers giving age at time of applying for same, newspapers, cemetery records and baptismal certificates, insurance papers, employment and school records, records of trade unions and fraternal societies, federal or state records in case of those who have been in civil and military service, hospital records or those of physicians, vaccination certificates, poll tax receipts that show actual age of the voter, local census records, old licenses of various kinds, family genealogical records.

MRS. WILLIAMS IMPROVES

JR. HI TATTLER CREED OF SEVENTH GRADE

After giving an excellent talk on "Honor," as one of the series to be given on the points necessary to win the American Legion award, Judge B. L. Templeton presented to the seventh grade no behavior of the American Legion, a creed. This was unanimously adopted by the grade for the seventh grade of 1936. We wish to express our appreciation to Judge Templeton and to the American Legion for giving us such a splendid creed and for their interest in our school. This is the creed adopted by the seventh grade:

"I believe in my school:
"First, because school life helps me to develop my best abilities and talents, and helps me to overcome my weak points.

Second, because schoolmates teach me how to cooperate with other people so I learn to be a friend to all.

"Third, because school books show me how many interesting facts and how much important knowledge there is to learn; thus my appetite for education is made keen.

Fourth, because school-teachers guide me in my growth and development day by day and I can become a strong, intelligent, loyal American citizen.

"And fifth, because by being faithful to school I am learning to be faithful to duty, which is one of the important lessons of life."

Have you seen Mr. Mason's three cent picture? . . . and the way he has it hung? . . . Miss Swope has the cleanest room in school. . . Craig Porter always has time to read the funny papers. . . Keep him busy from now on teachers! . . . From force of habit (we suppose) Miss Locker started giving 7B spelling during writing period. . . Too many failures this semester—for the good of those who failed! . . . We'd hate to meet "The Board of Pardons" . . . (P. S. It's a board about so thick, so long, and so wide. . . The seventh grade has heard of it!) Our report cards . . . with the grades that are on some of them! . . . What do you think of Weldon Hunt's room from so low to pretty high in Social Science? . . . Miss Crosswhite has some new pictures for her room. . . "The Bok Singing Tower" and some Venetian scenes. . . Mr. Glover has put up three basketball goals, some backstops, and has had the swines on the south side fixed. . . Thanks, Mr. Glover! . . . We have a new telephone directory. POEMS
In a recent poetry contest held by the Board of Editors for the best poem written by a seventh grade student on "Bicycles" we are proud to announce that first place winner was Lucille Dockrey and second place winner was Alice Womack. Their prize is a free trip to the picture show. Following is a copy of their poems:

BICYCLES
The bicycles in our hall at school, Give me pains in the side I wish they'd ride a horse or mule,

Or park their bikes outside. Bikes are parked outside our room. They're scattered here and there; I see them and almost meet my doom. Trying to fancy if our hall were bare.

Of course a bike is lots of fun, For pleasure and fresh air; But I wish at school there were none, When they're jumbled up in there. —Lucille M. Dockrey.

Have you noticed the new oil painting in 7B's room? In case you haven't it is of a football player on the bench waiting to be called into the game. The picture is so magnetic, it holds the eyes of the pupils; the result is poor attention in class.

A study of the Palmer method of writing has been started in the seventh grade. Everyone's delighted with the change.

We are happy to announce that 5A, Miss Swope's room, has the cleanest room in school. However the other grades are striving hard to have a higher standard of cleanliness so that they may be as clean and orderly as their example room.

A new reading room has been arranged in which repaired books are placed. The other books in the library have been put in orderly places.

Everyone, including students and teachers, has heaved a sigh of relief since the mid-term examinations are over.

Several new pupils began the new semester Monday morning. The sixth grade has started a creative unit on Texas history. This is in accord with the Texas Centennial. Very interesting notebooks are being made by the students.

A touch of spring fever has come and brought with it tennis playing. Jr. High students have started this sport again.

The Cubs basketball team played the Big Spring Brones Tuesday afternoon and came out victorious with a score of 26 to 6.

Mrs. J. G. Merritt will present to Junior High school a program next Tuesday afternoon in chapel. Everyone is anxious to hear this program since it is to be about the Texas Centennial.

The new Chief Patrolman, Charles Stevens, will be presented to the

A minor change in schedule has taken place in Junior High school. During the last semester 7C will study Health and Art and grades 7A and 7B will study penmanship.

In order that we may better carry out our safety program we have decided that no child should come to school on roller skates. Mr. Holman asks that the parents cooperate with him in keeping their children from skating to school.

CHAPEL PROGRAM (Held over from last week)
The student body was delighted to have Mr. Tommy Dawes and Mrs. Mercer visit Jr. High school Tuesday. Mr. Dawes played on the piano four compositions of his own; Mrs. Mercer sang several songs, one of which was "Texas." The music was written by Mr. Dawes—the words by a Texas poet. He stated that if Jr. High wished to learn the song as a special Centennial number he would be glad to leave the words and music with Miss Bradford. The students were elated when told of this privilege.

Mr. Dawes said the students were the most attentive audience he had ever played before. We consider this one of the highest compliments which could be paid to a student body.

Election returns were announced during the remainder of the period.

EDITORIAL
Why are all the students looking so serious? Oh so you've just heard from mid-term tests! Why, it was just like the week after New Year's Day—everyone trying to live up to their resolutions! If you will just keep on being so good (no, we're not talking about a certain boy in 7B), perhaps the finals won't be so hard as the mid-term's were. But most students will have to study very hard to pass, but cheer up, you can do it! Get to work!

Judge Looney Dies

Two horses, a buggy, and $130 were Judge Looney's sole possessions when he came to Mitchell county in 1881, the year the county was organized.

His first business venture here was with a Mr. Solomon in a real estate office. In 1882, the same year that he married Frances Elizabeth Prude, Judge Looney became Mitchell county's second judge.

His association with the banking interests of Colorado began when he assisted in the organization of the First National bank in 1885. In 1890, when that bank liquidated, he became interested in the Colorado National bank, serving several years as its president. He remained on the board of directors when that bank was merged with the City National Bank in 1931.

During Judge Looney's seven years as mayor the city hall was erected, the north water works developed, city streets paved, the sewer system installed, and other large-scale civic improvements made.

It is recalled that Judge Looney suggested the beginning of a Good-fellow fund in Colorado to supply toys for needy children at Christmas time. He made the first contribution to the fund.

Until advanced age and ill health forced him into inactivity, Judge Looney remained active in the management of his extensive ranch and farm properties.

Judge Looney was one of the two surviving charter members of the Masonic lodge here. John L. Doss is now the sole living charter member.

Judge Looney's first wife died January 31, 1919. He was married a second time to Gertrude Clemmie Chambers on July 4, 1926. Five children survive him in addition to Mrs. Looney. They are Hunter Looney of Loraine, Mrs. Marcus Snyder and Mrs. Ed H. Rowley of Dallas, Mrs. H. B. Lindsay of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. L. B. Thomas of Petaluma, California. All but Mrs. Thomas were here for the funeral Tuesday. Judge Looney is also survived by a brother, Dr. J. P. Looney of Honolulu.

A number of out-of-town persons, many of them early residents of Colorado, were here for the funeral rites. Arrangements were in charge of Kiker & Son.

Baskin And Williams Shy At Proposal The Legumes Are To Be Reckoned As Cash Crop In This Territory

The soy bean may be the backbone of rural stability in some countries of the Far East but Mitchell county farmers had better be slow in moving to go in for cultivation of the legumes as a cash crop.

That was the suggestion given Tuesday noon by Ben J. Baskin, county farm agent, and Doyle Williams, director of vocational agriculture in high school, as they addressed members of the chamber of commerce luncheon club on merits of the vegetable.

"The soy bean cannot be expected to assure profitable cash return to the planter in this territory for a number of definite reasons," Baskin said. "That being true, if Bill Jones elects to plant acreage to this vegetable he should be given to understand that he is doing so on his own initiative and without recommendation from us."

One of the conditions placing soy bean cultivation in the questionable category is in fact soils of this area contain too much acid, Baskin said. Another was given in inadequate annual rainfall. "It requires not less than 30 inches of rainfall a year to assure ample moisture for proper maturity of any legume and the soy bean requires as much or more than any other of this vegetable family," he stated.

Williams spoke to sustain charges against the legume as outlined in address of the farm agent. "There is a farmer up the creek who is maintaining that he can produce more feed value from an acre of cow peas than from maize," Williams said in somewhat of a qualifying mood. "But that condition will hold only in peculiar instances in which soil content and other phases are favorable," he said.

A bundle of soy beans that had been brought into the club dining room by R. F. Fee and W. P. Wilson was on display as the two men gave their discussions. The beans had been grown by D. P. Smith on his farm in Lone Wolf Creek valley a few miles northeast of Colorado.

"Mr. Smith is growing the soy bean as a dairy cow feed and his experiments have proven it most profitable for that purpose," Williams said. The bean, after being harvested, stalk and all, is run through a milling machine before used for feed.

PRECEDENT VOTED IN THAT LIONS PRESS CAMPAIGN TO SELL SCOUT FETE TICKETS

Friday Marked First Time In History For Sales Talk To Be Allowed; All Members Asked Attend Banquet

The Lions Club Friday voted a precedent in that a Boy Scout official be privileged to urge members of the organization to purchase tickets to the Scouts banquet on evening of February 7. It was first time in history of the club that a sales talk had been permitted, due to rigid local and International constitutional rules prohibiting the selling of anything at meetings of a Lions Club.

Loud "ayes" roared through the hotel dining room as President Benton Templeton put the question, sustaining that the one hundred business and professional men making up roster of the club are enthused over the Scout program.

"The fact that you Lions have voted me the privilege to offer these tickets for sale today indicates without reservation the fact you are in sympathy with program of the Boy Scouts of America and the high principles for which the organization stands," Jim Ferguson, Scout executive, stated during a brief address.

"It is not the purpose of trying to make money that we want every Colorado Lion to attend this annual banquet," Ferguson went on to say. "We are charging the small admission of 35 cents per plate and that amount will no more than pay cost of the dinner service. What we need and must have in our Scout activities is the moral support of you men, especially as to your presence at the banquet on February 7."

As Ferguson concluded his address he and other Lions offered the admission cards for sale. Practically every man present purchased one or more. Among visitors presented were President Joe Pickle of the Big Spring Lions Club and a delegation of other citizens from the Howard county city. Pickle spoke briefly on the factor of friendship as cultivated in the service club. Others in his party were Hugh Hannah, secretary of the Big Spring club, Lion Chas. W. Corley and W. R. Purser and C. J. Shultz. The latter two sang two Gospel hymns as feature on the entertainment program. R. A. McGee of Abilene, a guest of the club president, was another visitor.

ABILENE EAGLES DEFEATED BY ONE POINT IN CONTEST AT COLORADO LAST FRIDAY

Girls Also Take Victory In Clash With Dunn; Wolves Drop Count To San Angelo Bobcats Saturday Night

The Wolves took victory by one point over the Abilene Eagles here Friday night in one of the best exhibitions of basketball seen at the Colorado high school gym during recent years. The locals won by a score of 15 to 14 after holding marginal lead over the visitors through all four periods of the game.

In the first quarter the Wolves led 4 to 3 as Porter, playing at center position for the locals, pushed ahead to outclass all others on both teams in brilliant play. At the half the score was 8 to 5 in favor of Colorado; the third quarter ended with the Wolves leading 12 to 10.

The marginal victory for Colorado, however was not to endure for long. Saturday night Harry Taylor brought his San Angelo Bobcats here for an engagement with the locals. The score, again 15 to 14, was in favor of the visitors this time.

It looked like another Colorado victory as the contest started. At end of the first quarter the locals were leading 6 to 4 but the Cats came back fighting will all fury to push ahead and held lead through the last three periods.

San Angelo was able to make only one field goal in the second half. Cox with eight points was high scorer for Colorado and the field.

Another interesting feature on Friday night's card was game between the Colorado and Dunn girls. Coach Coffman used his second string during first half of the melee and came through with an even keel. First string girls came in during the last two periods and ran up a score of 31 to 20 in favor of the locals.

The Jackrabbits lost by one point to the Abilene freshmen Friday night. The score was 16 to 15. That afternoon the Jackrabbits dropped game to the Big Spring Devils, 22 to 20.

Second game on the program Saturday night was tilt between the Jackrabbits and Loraine, the latter taking long end of a scoring record of 22 to 10.

Millions have found in Calotabs the most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fifth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs is one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

Patronize Birthday Dance
Thursday Evening

The fact that out of every admission card sold for the President's Birthday Ball Thursday evening will come cash for aiding Mitchell county children who are sufferers from dread infantile paralysis, local civic leaders are suggesting on eve of the social affair to be given at the American Legion building that the public patronize the affair liberally.

Seventy per cent of all proceeds taken in by Jack Helton, general chairman of the ball and his aides, is to remain in Mitchell county for direct assistance to these unfortunate boys and girls.

"The merits involved are such that the house should be sold out with little effort on part of the directing committees," was declaration by Mr. Helton Wednesday afternoon.

ASSEMBLY
On the Tuesday chapel program Mrs. J. Ralph Lee and Mrs. J. G. Merritt presented an interesting program on the Texas Centennial. Mrs. Merritt related some of her early experiences in Mitchell county. Everyone gained much information from this program which can be used in writing essays later on.

NEW BOOKS FOR LIBRARY
Last Tuesday, after the interesting chapel program, Mrs. Whitmore representing the Self-Culture club, presented Junior High library with five new books. They are additions to a set of children's books by Brandeis. Mrs. Howell also gave the library two books which the F. T. A. meant to give last year but were delayed. These books also help to complete the Brandeis series. We greatly appreciate these kind gifts and know that they will be of much help to us.

Mr. Holman was in Lubbock Friday afternoon on school business and saw several Colorado boys who are attending Texas Tech. These boys included Bobby Wulfjen, Bunky Girvin, Brady Warren, Carl Shelton, Mumpsy Wallace, and John Morgan Hale. They complimented the Jr. Hi Tattler and said that they enjoyed reading it. We are very proud of this and hope that other Record readers enjoy our school news too.

CHAPEL PROGRAM
6A, under the direction of Miss Bradford gave a "hillbilly" program Friday at 2:30. It was very typical of life in the hills of Kentucky. The special feature was a square dance called by Donald Hall Burrus; the extra special was when Mr. Glover came in impersonating a German professor of music. His song was, "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round." It surprised the whole of Jr. Hi school to know Mr. Glover had taken voice lessons. The program was enjoyed by all the spectators.

SPORTS
Last Thursday on the Jr. Hi courts the Looney boys played the Iatan boys, with the girls of both communities playing later. Iatan won both games.

Last week the Cubs played Westbrook at Westbrook. Their opponents won by a small margin.

Monday afternoon the Cubs played the Freshman team at High school. We were victorious, winning 17 to 5. Ye editors attended the basketball games at the High school gym Friday night.

STRIP CROPPING AS AN AID IN THE CONTROL OF SOIL EROSION

The general opinion of most people of soil erosion control is that terracing is all that is necessary. Experiments for the past few years indicate that strip cropping is as effective in controlling erosion as terracing. Strip cropping consists of planting alternating strips of cotton and thickly planted fibrous rooted erosion resisting crops such as grain sorghum and small grains. Heavy rains of West Texas tend to carry off large deposits of soil of sloping land even though the land is terraced on the level. By combining strip cropping with terracing, present knowledge indicates that this is the most effective way soil erosion may be controlled in Mitchell county. The time has come when widespread soil erosion and decrease in soil fertility must stop, therefore, this department recommends strip cropping to the farmers of this county as a means of control until it is found convenient to terrace or it may be retained permanently on our more gently sloping land or combined with terracing on the steeper slope.

A number of Mitchell county farmers have indicated their intentions of carrying out this practice for the 1936 crop.

"GRAND EXIT"
Thursday—January 30th

An engaging and fairly suspenseful mystery drama done at a lively pace with emphasis on the witty antics of Edmund Lowe. Lowe's job as an investigator for an insurance company that has been severely hurt as the result of a number of fires on properties insured by its clients, brings him in contact with Ann Sothorn, whose appearance at each of the mysterious blazes causes her to be regarded with suspicion. A romance develops as Lowe seeks to identify the pyromaniac, and just when things look bad for Miss Sothorn he comes through with a solution of the case, bringing his affair and his company's problems to a satisfactory conclusion. Plot development is excellent. Amusing incidents are plentiful, giving Lowe wide range for a debonair and snappy performance.

One of Rogers' best and destined to be a sure-fire ticket-seller. Rogers as the trainer for a wealthy racing stable, encounters difficulties with the arrival of a college graduate in horse husbandry, gets fired and goes to work as a trainer for a girl owning a neighboring plantation. Both stables prepare for the big race and the only chance for Rogers' horse is a muddy track. The girl's father hires a rainmaker who manages to make the track muddy during the last quarter-mile by blowing up a water tank that floods that portion of the track and the girl rides to victory. Swell photography and hilarious situations. Bill Robinson is refreshing in three dance numbers.

Deals with a personal maid who quits a prominent social family; her acceptance of a position with the would-be socialites; her tactful manner of gradually educating them to the social set, and the resultant prosperity through business connections thereby gained. Result is delightful comedy. The social success of the family is assured through the wife's subtle acceptance of the servant's persuasiveness and her attention to suggestions against the apparent disapproval of the husband.

Deed Records of Mitchell County, Texas, and covering all of Sec. 40, Blk. 28, T 1 N of the T&P Ry. Co. Survey, Mitchell County, Texas. Plaintiffs alleging that the defendants and each of them, although bound and obligated by the implied covenants and conditions of said lease to fully, properly and adequately develop said land for oil and gas purposes, they and each of them have failed and refused to do so; that they have, since said lease has been in force, drilled a total of two wells thereon, during a period of sixteen years when they should have drilled to the present time a grand total of thirty-two wells as a minimum; that had said defendants drilled the proper number of wells to constitute reasonable development of said land for oil and gas purposes, that the royalties therefrom accruing to plaintiffs would have been not less than $10,000.00 more than they have been, to plaintiffs' damage in the sum of $10,000.00.

Plaintiffs further alleging that in event they are mistaken and said wells are not producing oil and gas in paying quantities, that said lease is automatically forfeited because the primary term has long since ended and these plaintiffs pray that their title be quieted and said lease and assignments be cancelled and held for naught.

In event plaintiffs are mistaken, and said wells are producing oil or gas in paying quantities, and it is found, for any reason, that plaintiffs are not entitled to have said lease and all assignments thereunder cancelled, these plaintiffs ask for a specific performance of said lease, under penalty of forfeiture to be decreed, and reasonable development of said lands for oil and gas under direction of the court and said plaintiffs herein now offer to do equity.

TOBACCO

This column writer smokes a cob pipe almost incessantly and helps produce the following figures:

If Mars were inhabited and the inhabitants could look down upon the earth, who would they think we worship? asks "Purity Crusader." The "great smoke-god," for morning, noon, and night, continually and without ceasing, great billows of incense arise in his name, and his devotees spend ever-increasing billions of dollars in his cause.

Surely we think more of tobacco than we do of education, for vast as the amounts are that we spend each year on our public-school systems—elementary, secondary, and college—yet we spend more for tobacco. Neither is religion a competitor of the tobacco god, for we spend much more for smokes and chews than we do in the name and cause of the true God.

America's tobacco bill runs close to $3,000,000,000 annually. This is only the direct cost, and does not take into account the impaired health, the medical attention, and the funeral expense that tobacco using entails.

Do we offer human sacrifices to our "smoke god"? Oh yes, the worshippers of the fiery Moloch were not the only ones who placed their young in his arms to be consumed, for the Tobacco Trust has said that it must have twelve hundred beginners each day to keep up the ratio of increase in the use of tobacco. Twelve hundred human sacrifices—twelve hundred boys and girls—demanded daily to appease the tobacco god. Moloch never had so insatiable a maw for human life. Think of it.

Twelve hundred boys and girls who, by the use of the cigarette, will dull their senses of right and decency. And our devotion to tobacco is increasing at an unparalleled rate. In the matter of cigarettes, for example, here are some significant statistics as to the number reproduced in the United States during recent decades:

Table showing number of cigarettes reproduced in the United States for years 1902, 1910, 1920, and 1930.

In other words, we smoked forty-one times as many cigarettes in 1930 as we did in 1902, fourteen times as many as in 1910, and twice as many as in 1920.

These figures include only the "tailor made" cigarettes, and do not take into consideration those that are rolled by the users. These "home-made" cigarettes probably offset the number out of the above that are exported and therefore not used in this country.

This prodigious total of one hundred twenty-three billions of cigarettes means that on the average each man, woman and child in the United States uses more than one thousand cigarettes annually.

States uses more than one thousand cigarettes annually.

These cigarettes, if placed end to end, making a line 5,338,542 miles long, would reach to the moon and back eleven times, and would girdle the earth at the equator two hundred and thirteen and one-half times.

At an average price of fifteen cents a packet, the American people, spent $922,500,000 for cigarettes in 1930. That means that each minute of the year 234,000 cigarettes were lighted, and $1,755 went up in cigarette smoke—$105,300 each hour, $2,527,200 each day.

This amount of money would buy 6,150,000,000 loaves of bread at 15 cents each; 184,400,000 pairs of shoes at five dollars each; 922,500 automobiles at $1,000 each; 184,500 homes at $5,000 each; and would give each of 92,500 young people a $10,000 education. It would build two and one-half Boulder Dams. And these staggering sums, bear in mind, do not take into account the huge amounts spent for cigars, pipe tobacco, chewing tobacco, and snuff.

FOLLY

This column writer is in dire need of alimentary stimulation and will impose on a suffering public some epigrams.

"Folly is joy to him who is destitute of wisdom." That is why it is true that there are those who, by their deeds, "exalt folly."

"He knew men, and needed not that any should testify of man, and He knew what was in Man."

BRYAN AND DARROW

It was the popular thing to ridicule William Jennings Bryan for his "monkey trial" in Tennessee which marked the close of his life. Clarence Darrow came in for a great deal of praise. Of course the double statement could be turned around. Bryan died and died gloriously with head up and with face forward. He died a Christian and with the light from another world lighting up his countenance. In his last fight he may have been trying to stop the onward march of thought, but in his heart and mind he was defending a cause that was dearer to him than life; a cause for which he did give his life. Mr. Darrow is sitting in his rocking chair today with the sands of time fast slipping from beneath his feet. He says, "When I die—as I shall soon—my body will decay. My mind will decay and my intellect will be gone. My soul? There is no such thing." The New-York Sun says: "This then is Mr. Darrow's obituary, and it is a pitiful one. A surrender of the spirit is tragic, and Mr. Darrow has surrendered. If he is a materialist he also is a defeatist, conquered by age and hugging his philosophy close to his heart as he waits for nothing." What a tragic failure? What a shipwreck of brilliant intellect? We are made to think of the old man of Ecclesiastes as he exclaims, "Vanity, vanity, all is vanity." Before actually retiring, however, the writer of Ecclesiastes tugged to the youth of the land and besought them: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say I have no pleasure in them" and then "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man." May the light of God's countenance ever yet illumine the face of the poor old defeated man. Bryan and Darrow, Jacob and Esau, the godly and the godless. Mark the end and choose your pathway.

ONLY A RUMOR It is now rumored that Mr. Roosevelt will soon propose a plan that will out-Townsend Dr. Townsend. The new plan will provide for each married couple in the United States to receive one million dollars from the Federal treasury upon their presenting proof of the arrival of a new baby.

A Mr. Taylor out at El Paso endorses the plan and is organizing a clan to promote the plan. Now as for the rumor I believe Mr. Taylor knows it is only a rumor. Such a rumor is so absurd that only the most gullible would believe it. The nation isn't trying to increase its population, it's trying to take care of it. A rumor of this sort is just a gag concocted by some political enemy to amuse his audience, and not intended to be taken seriously.

An administration such as Mr.

THE COLORADO THAT USED TO BE 25 Years Ago 15 Years Ago

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

News of a picture show, "The 101 Ranch," filled an entire column of the Colorado Record for February 3, 1911, twenty-five years ago. The picture was brought to Colorado by the Colorado Film Exchange and was called in the Record the "greatest educational picture ever shown."

A party of hunters had returned from a week's stay at the mouth of Silver Creek, laden with "big stories but no game." In the party were Brooks Bell, Wes Allen, Tom Smith, Charles Mann, Ben Plaster, Earl Morrison, "Friday" and Cal Frank Johnson, the last two being "gentlemen of color" and cooks.

Colorado High school and Loraine high were to meet in athletic contests on the "old fair grounds" one mile northwest of Colorado. . . . Etta Elizabeth Ross, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Ross of near Westbrook and niece of Mrs. Harry Landers of Colorado, had died of pneumonia on Jan. 31. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Foster were closing the Alamo hotel and moving to Dallas. . . . Bruce DeGarmo was out on crutches after falling from an awning in front of the Colorado Mercantile. . . . Kirk Ratliff had sustained a head cut while playing "shoot the shoot" on his bicycle on a Colorado river bluff. . . .

The Sunday school class of Mrs. W. L. Doss had met with little Ruby Schroeder. . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wulfjen were moving from their ranch to town, occupying the J. E. Hooper home. . . .

Over in Loraine Miss Ann Stelle had celebrated her 93rd birthday at the home of her niece, Mrs. C. M. Thompson. . . . Mrs. Hubert Toler and Miss Isophene Toler had left on Saturday night for Fort Worth to see "Ben Hur." . . . Material had been unloaded for a steel bridge over Champion creek. . . .

The A. L. Scotts were rumored to be about to share in several million dollars left to Mrs. Scott's father, Prof. Gregg of Stephenville, Arkansas. . . . Misses Greenwood and Thomas had entertained members of the Girl's forty-two club and their escorts at Mrs. R. O. Pearson's. . . . Prizes went to Miss Mabel Ratliff, Mr. Gardner Harness, and Mr. Gamble. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Crowder, who at that time lived in Sweetwater, had lost their little 10-month-old daughter, Leslie Claudine. She had been buried here on Sunday from the A. J. Coe residence. . . .

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Fifteen years ago advertisements were still run on the Record's front page. On the front page of the issue for January 28, 1921, were the ads of the Charles and Gertrude Harrison company to appear at the opera house and of the Best Theatre, then managed by Charles Taylor, Sr., "next door to the postoffice."

One of the pictures showing was "Neptune's Bride," featuring Pluvia, the "most beautifully formed woman in the world." Another was Will Taylor seems to endorse will tear down all that the new deal has succeeded in accomplishing and be the death to prosperity. And since Mr. Taylor states the new deal has fifty-two jokers in the deck I'll take the joker in preference to the ace of spades.

POLITICS

I am not permitted to discuss politics or political matters in this column and have no desire to do so, but please permit this observation and warning. When you play with Socialism you soon find yourself in company with Bolshevism, and by the time you have gone a mile with Bolshevism you find yourself trotting beside full-fledged anarchism.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Nobody seems to know what to do with the unemployed. But the land now, as always, has a job for every man willing to apply himself diligently and intelligently to it. There are millions of acres of untilled land within a few miles of every American city. Yet we see our benevolent but purblind Government shipping Minnesota farm families to Alaska, to give them a new start in life. We see tens of thousands living on public relief in New York while a million acres of unused land lie within fifty miles of that metropolis. Can't philanthropy be practical? Can't sympathy be sensible?

Rogers' "Cupid the Cowpuncher."

Colorado at that time had three producing oil wells and a visiting refinery official was quoted as believing that they "bordered a large commercial pool." . . . W. J. The Junior boys and girls entered the invitation basketball tournament at Rogers Friday. The Junior boys were defeated by Carr in the first game 20 to 8.
The Junior girls first game was taken from Iatan 22 to 4. The next game was not such a snap. However after four quarters of hard playing they won the game 8 to 5 from Conaway. They defeated Carr 14 to 9 in the last game for the title of that division.

The Senior girls enter a tournament at Roscoe Friday. Westbrook drew a bye in the first round and they play the winner of the Divide-Ira game Friday evening. Good luck girls. Bring back a cup.
The Senior boys did some good playing last week. They won games from Rogers, Iatan, and Colorado Jackrabbits. Both teams, Senior boys and girls, lost to Colorado last week.

Senior News
My dear friends we have news this week—lots of news.

The Seniors were entertained with a leap year party at the home of Miss Virginia Bell Friday the 24th night of January. After sitting around the fire awhile we started the pleasant pastime of playing games which were very entertaining. Later in the night delicious popcorn and candy were served, after which we paid our due respects and went home.
And now, my dear readers, the following is for the benefit of the Juniors only.

So the Juniors have condescended to give us a "blowout" at the end of the year. From what I have heard, the Juniors have no option in this. It belongs rather in the class of established precedent with the valedictorian baccalaureate. It is a time honored tradition and if it is broken the departed alumni of Westbrook High school will rattle their bones in their cold and dark graves. Now that we have decided that this is an obligation of the Juniors we would like to know where is the entertainment we are due for the picnic we gave you last fall.

That, my dear ones, is all for this time.

Junior News
Time for more Junior News from the Junior Noisey News reporter. It seems that our editor-in-chief is getting to be quite intimate with a black-haired Sophomore. Your guess is as good as anyone's. And here more gossip. Glynn Hindman is feeling the same way about a blond that sets four seats from the back on the run now.

It seems that our English teacher, Mrs. Tullins Pearl Hardeman Hugh McAfee got her hand cut with some glass. We are all sorry to hear about this. 'Twas so sad. And that's all.

Sophomore News
Well, here is another week when Sophomore reporter has been lying down on the job. But he's looking forward to next weeks news from an exciting report from the Sophomores.

Freshmen News
The Freshmen must all be about frozen from the looks of them. No one ever hears a word from them. But nevertheless Iris still has that grin. June the same weight (?), Bonnie the same blond hair, and Ramelle the same colored eyes. That's about all the news for this week as the reporter has on a lazy spell.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardul, I was better. I kept taking Cardul and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardul to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right."

Thousands of women testify Cardul benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Perhaps Poor Lighting Causes the Difference

Lounge Lamps, sometimes called floor reading lamps, are not as tall as floor lamps, and are designed to be placed by a chair or table to provide the proper light for reading or studying. Price $6.45 and up.

If your child dislikes to study at home . . . if he seems unable to concentrate on his lessons, perhaps poor lighting is to blame. Science has proved that reading in a poor light causes drowsiness and unnecessary strain on the eyes. No wonder children can study only a few minutes at a time, and no wonder report cards at the end of the term show the result.

Exhaustive tests of children who must study under poor lighting and a similar group who have proper lighting revealed a startling difference in the quality of work done. Be sure that your child isn't handicapped at home by having to study or read under inadequate light.

A new Better Sight Lamp, either a Reading-Study Lamp for the desk, or a Lounge Lamp to be placed by the table, will give the proper amount of glareless light for safe seeing.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for February 2 JESUS ENLISTS HELPERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11, 27, 28. GOLDEN TEXT—They forsook all and followed him—Luke 5:11. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Finds Some Helpers.

The work of Jesus had now progressed far enough to make more workers necessary. He, therefore, called and trained the helpers needed.

1. Jesus Teaching by the Seaside (vv. 1-3). His fame was now so widespread that the people pressed upon him to hear the Word of God.

2. The Disciples' Hesitant Obedience (v. 5). Peter as spokesman explained that they had a night of disheartening failure.

3. Reward for Obedience (vv. 6, 7). By Jesus' guidance they were able to take such a draught of fishes that their nets broke and the boats were in danger of sinking.

4. The Disciples Called to Higher Service (vv. 8-11). The effect of the miracle upon the disciples (vv. 8-10). This miracle was so manifest that Peter acknowledged himself to be in the presence of a divine being.

5. Response to the Call (v. 11). They left all and followed Jesus. They had such a marvelous demonstration of wisdom and power of Christ that they were now willing to give up their temporal interests.

6. The Calling of Matthew (vv. 27, 28). Matthew was a despised tax-gatherer. He was called from a remunerative position to give up all and follow Jesus.

An Affectionate Nature
A sweet disposition, a lovely soul, an affectionate nature, will speak in the eyes, the lips, the brow.

ASTOUNDING DETAILS IN THE CONSPIRACY TO POISON ROVER

FROM every angle and in every sense of the word this is a dog story, built on heroic lines, introducing heroic measures, to say nothing of great expectations and major plans that came to naught; as well as scheming that was frustrated by unseen forces beyond the control of mortal man.

Rover, the hero of this tale, is a St. Bernard, brought to these shores from his home in the high Alps in the first year of his life. Rover became the property of a suburbanite whose son, George, a lad of ten, took the dog over, lock, stock and barrel, as a steady companion.

Had it not been Rover's misfortune to pick up a case of contagious eczema, which in due course communicated its evil influence to more than one-third of Rover's exquisite coat, making him not only unsightly but unsanitary, and as such an unfit associate for young George, all would have gone well with dog and boy, so affectionately were they disposed, one toward the other.

Patient Gets Worse.
After a session in the hands of a high priced veterinary, Rover took a turn for the worse and became an object of pity to all save George, his friend and companion.

Before these disciples were called into the Lord's service, it was necessary that, in a most concrete way, they be shown the wisdom and power of Jesus Christ.

1. Christ's command (v. 4). It was to launch out into the deep and let down their nets for a draught of fishes. It was necessary for them to learn that if fish were to be caught they must cast their nets where the fish were.

2. The disciples' hesitant obedience (v. 5). Peter as spokesman explained that they had a night of disheartening failure. They had given themselves to a whole night of exhausting toil, with no success.

3. Reward for obedience (vv. 6, 7). By Jesus' guidance they were able to take such a draught of fishes that their nets broke and the boats were in danger of sinking.

4. The disciples called to higher service (vv. 8-11). The effect of the miracle upon the disciples (vv. 8-10). This miracle was so manifest that Peter acknowledged himself to be in the presence of a divine being.

5. Response to the call (v. 11). They left all and followed Jesus. They had such a marvelous demonstration of wisdom and power of Christ that they were now willing to give up their temporal interests.

6. The Calling of Matthew (vv. 27, 28). Matthew was a despised tax-gatherer. He was called from a remunerative position to give up all and follow Jesus.

Rover Wise to Cyanide.
With all the skill of a gangster administering a sleeping potion to a fellow stew, George's father spilled the cyanide into the rich fluid, shook the greenish crystals beneath the surface and placed the mixture on the floor under Rover's nose, while the co-conspirator eased George out of the barn.

A dozen flops of his massive tongue, a grateful look in his almost human eyes and Rover was soon outside the cream and cyanide facing sudden death. To the bewilderment of the two scallwags who had plotted the annihilation, Rover did not die; nor did he show the slightest symptoms of internal distress.

The grave digger was called off. The two plotters left Rover and went to supper, wondering. The next morning our hero was up with the lark, scouting around for breakfast at the kitchen door, death being the least of his concerns.

For some reason or other, however, Rover resisted all offers of cyanide, keeping his tongue tightly between his teeth. George's father, familiar with subterfuges for administering unwanted medicines, called for a quart of milk in which to pass the knockout dose to the victim. Again George was summoned to play the courier. Willingly, the lad, all unconscious of the part he was called upon to enact, hustled to the spring house and was back in a jiffy with a pan of grade A milk.

CAUGHT IN THE WILD

Instead of turning back at the girl's cry of appeal, Garth quickened his stride to a run. A severe blizzard would thicken the skim ice and close the water lane out from the stream mouth. That would mean a wait until the stream ran dry with the freeze-up of the glacier.
Above the site of his old camp Garth halted and signed for his companion to listen. Down through the snowy stillness came a clear ring of metal on metal.
"They're drilling below the frost-line to blast a shaft," he said. "Richer gravel on bedrock, at the foot of the glacier trough."
Dillon forged into the lead. "You'll trail me now, sir."
Without any protest, Garth fell in behind. The Law was now in command. A few strides brought them to the dyke of igneous rock that walled the lower end of the glacier trough. From behind a stunted spruce, they peered across the treeless width of rock to where a large fire was flaming at the edge of the matted timberline scrub.
Over the fire hung three big iron kettles. Beside it stood a small cradle for rocking gravel. But there was no one working the rocker, nor was there anyone in sight. Even the ring of sledge on drill in the newly dug pit, just beyond the fire, had ceased.
"Not so good," Garth murmured. "I'm not so sure it's a surprise."
"You'll stay here, sir."
"No."
Constable Dillon spoke with cool logic: "If it's a surprise, I need no assistance. If he is warned and prepared to resist, better for you to support me from cover."
"Well—perhaps."
"The only way, sir. You stood responsible for bringing the young lady."
"Very well, Dillon," he agreed. "Wait till I take position."
He shifted to the left side of the stunted spruce and crouched down where he could peer between the lower branches. At the other side, the constable stood up and stepped out into the open. Hardly was he clear of cover when a harsh shout came from the scrub beside the fire:
"Halt! Throw up your hands."
Constable Dillon paused. But he did not put up his hands. The Northwest police do not surrender. Dillon merely swung the barrel of his carbine backward under his arm, and made quiet reply:
"I have here a warrant for the arrest of Vivian Huxby for theft and assault to murder. Any persons who interfere with his arrest will make themselves liable."
"Hah, you cock-capped red jay, you can't bluff me," Huxby glibbed. "You're covered. Move, and you get a bullet through you. Drop that gun and shove up your hands."
A sideward jumping down-thrown would have put the constable back in cover. But he was a member of the Northwest Mounted Police. Retreat could no more be considered by him than surrender. Also, he had no authority to shoot his man. The warrant called only for the arrest of the accused. He had to do his duty at whatever risk.
"You will be well advised not to resist," he said.
With that, he raised his right snowshoe and slid it up a low cross-drift in a forward step. As he bent forward to bring up the other web, a rifle roared in the dense scrub.
Garth fired into the faint haze-puff of smokeless powder. Back came a bullet that clipped a branch at his left elbow. He shifted sideways towards the tree trunk, and rose to peer through a higher opening. A slight movement of a spruce spray in the scrub brought his rifle to his shoulder.
Another twitch of that spruce twig. His finger tightened on the trigger—Crash! He hurried down on his right side. The first thought that flashed into his mind was that his rifle had burst. His right arm had gone numb as if broken by the shock.
Luckily, he did not at once try to spring up. As he paused to feel at the numb arm with his left hand, the bark flew from a limb close over his head. The scar of white wood showed that the bullet had been fired from off to his left.
He flattened down and crawled into the snowless hollow alongside the tree trunk. In the hollow lay his rifle. It had not burst. But that was no consolation. The first shot from off to the left had struck square against the side of the breech and smashed the magazine.
One look at the weapon showed that it was ruined. He wormed past foot without a wince or groan and bent to slip her moccasins under the toe thongs of the snowshoes. Deceived into thinking her sprain not serious Garth slued around her and ran on at his best gait. He would get the body of Constable Dillon aboard the plane and mush back for the girl. If she followed even at an ordinary walking pace there might yet be time to get away.

He made the plane in short order and got the dead policeman to the cabin by way of the wing. Leaping off, he rushed back at top speed to meet Lilith. He had to go all the way to where he had left her.
She had slung the snowshoes on her back, floundered through the first drift, and collapsed. When he came up, she was rubbing snow on her bare ankle. She looked up at him, white-faced with pain and despair.
"I tried, Alan. I can't even walk," she said. "Go back. It's all my fault. Hurry and save yourself. Maybe I can—delay him."

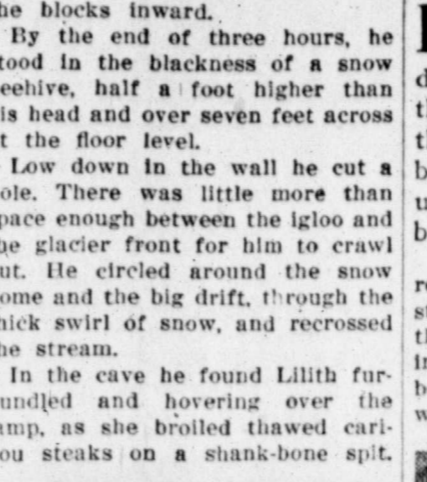

For reply, Garth swung her up across his shoulders and headed again for the plane. There still might be time. He put all his strength into another burst of speed.
They came to the glacier stream, with no sight or sound of the pursuers behind them. Garth lifted the girl from his shoulder and set her on the front edge of the monoplane wing. He grasped hold to vault up beside her.
A bullet fanned the girl's paint-whitened cheek. Another bullet struck the wing edge between her and Garth. He jerked her down off the wing. The firing ceased.
After murdering Constable Dillon but before starting to trail Garth, Huxby must have sent one of his men running along the foot of the tundra slope to take possession of the planes. Garth had outrun the miner. But the man had come with in easy ride range and clear view of the plane—at least of its upper parts.
Garth did not hesitate a split second. He carried Lilith to the mooring tree and slashed the line with his knife. Then, taking the girl pickaback, he set off up the stream bank.

His one backward glance showed him that the plane was drifting out into the lake. But, the cross-wind had died down. The lessened stream current could be counted upon to carry the plane out beyond reach before it was stopped by the skin ice.
The rifleman up on the edge of the tundra was off to the right of the stream. Garth knew he had a thick screen of spruce trees and scrub all the way to timberline. As he climbed, the man above began to yell and halloo. Garth had no doubt that the fellow was shouting about the outfit of the cabin plane.
Before long, other yells came from the lake shore. They were followed by rifle shots. It was easy to guess that one or more of the pursuers had sighted the plane and opened fire, on the supposition that Garth was hiding in the cockpit.
Garth moderated his rush. Even so, his steady uphill slogging brought him near timberline before the four men got together down at the lake shore.
For the first time since leaving the plane, he spoke to Lilith: "Try holding out farther from my neck, Miss Ramill. We're safe enough now. We're climbing faster than they can wade the drifts."

With less than a hundred paces, Garth saw a whitish pall surge out from the down-rolling clouds on the western mountain side. A snow-splitting wind-gust whooshed aslant the tundra slope. He turned sharp to the left and headed uphill towards the foot of the glacier. Before he had covered another hundred paces, the air was thick with snow.
Fortunately for Lilith, the storm was not an early autumn blizzard, not a 30 or 40 below zero gale of the subarctic winter. The rabbit-fur undersuit inside the buckskins saved her. Though greatly chilled, she was only slightly frostbitten when Garth reached the brink of the lateral moraine, a little below the foot of the glacier.
He went out across the rock-strewn gulch bed. Within a few moments Lilith suddenly found herself out of the wind and snow and the white gloom of the storm. She could not see.
A match flared in Garth's upraised hand. The light glinted and sparkled on ice walls. She was in the mouth of the cave, up inside the glacier-stream tunnel. The rock floor was heaped with the caribou meat. At the side of the entrance lay the pothole stone that Garth had made into an Eskimo lamp.
He pointed to an outspread caribou skin. "Crawl in on that. Then rub your face and pound yourself."

She scrambled to the skin mat, her teeth clenched on her lip to keep from crying out from the pain of her ankle. Garth had struck another match and held it to the moss wick of the stone lamp.
Lilith had already rubbed her frost-whitened cheeks and nose into a glow. He laid his belt-ax on a hind-quarter of caribou, and smiled at her in the growing light of the wick.
"Chop off a shank or two. We'll need bone splints," he said. "But first warm some of the other skins and wrap them around you. Also put more fat in the lamp. I'll be gone two or three hours."
Over near the far end of the glacier front, he found a drift with a four-inch crust packed by the drive of the wind during the previous snowstorm. He went at it like an Eskimo, slashing out big domino-shaped blocks with his knife.

After he had gathered a high pile of the blocks on a fairly level spot just beyond the drift, he started to cut others and lay them edgewise in a circular wall around the pile. Two feet up he began to lean the blocks inward.
By the end of three hours, he stood in the blackness of a snow beehive, half a foot higher than his head and over seven feet across at the floor level.
Low down in the wall he cut a hole. There was little more than space enough between the igloo and the glacier front for him to crawl out. He circled around the snow dome and the big drift, through the thick swirl of snow, and recrossed the stream.
In the cave he found Lilith fuddled and hovering over the lamp, as she broiled thawed caribou steaks on a shank-bone spit.

For the First Time Since Leaving the Plane, He Spoke to Lilith.

He picked the girl up in her skin wrappings, and carried her out and around to the igloo, then went back for the rest of the skins, the lamp and some of the meat.
While she went on with her cooking, over the re-lighted lamp, he cut more blocks and built a low entrance tunnel from the door to part way around the curve of the igloo wall. When he backed in, he blocked the mouth of the tunnel with a snow slab.

The inside of the igloo was already so warm from the lamp heat that the inside of the dome roof was beginning to soften. But Garth knew there was no slightest danger of it falling in. As fast as the snow melted, the moisture was sucked outward. It met the cold of the outside air and froze hard.
The girl had a stack of caribou steaks broiled for him. He sat down, without a word, and began to eat. In the midst of the meal the smoke and heat became so stifling that he had to cut a two-inch ventilation hole in the roof.
All the time he gave no sign that he perceived the look of misery in Lilith's eyes. But when he had eaten his fill, he spoke a sudden order: "Bare your foot."

She obeyed, tensely silent. He looked close at the swollen ankle in the lamplight and felt it with his finger tips. Easy as was his task, Lilith gasped with pain. But he smiled his relief.
"No broken bone or dislocation; only a sprain. You'll soon be all right. Start packing it with softened snow. Keep it as cold as you can without freezing."

At that, all her pent-up emotion burst out: "Oh, how you must despise me! Get you into this frightful danger—then go lame! A helpless, useless drag on you! That beastly coward—he'll hunt you out... murder you like the poor policeman. And all my fault!"
Garth shook his head. "You take too much of the credit, Miss Ramill. So far as regards Constable Dillon, the result would have been the same if you had stayed at Fort Simpson."

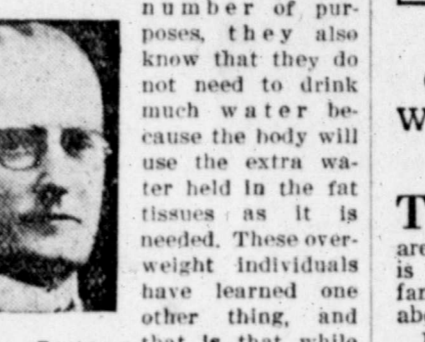

"But—but you can't get away!" Garth's smile hardened. "Neither can they. Now tend to your ankle. I'm going for meat."
He dressed and crawled out into the storm. When at last he came back in, he had brought nearly half of the caribou meat from the ice cave and stacked it around the igloo. He had also set up blocks of snow-crust to shape a drift of new snow in a certain way.

Radium Salts for Healing
Strange to say, it is not the pure elemental radium that is sold and bought. This, a white, glistening solid, visible in the dark, was first prepared only after the greatest difficulty in 1910 by Madame Curie. Fortunately it is not radium metal that is necessary for cancer treatments. In hospitals, it is grayish salts of radium, that looks like dirty table salt, which is used; radium bromide, perhaps, which contains chemically combined about 54 per cent of radium, or it may be radium sulphate. From the radium speed extremely penetrating rays more penetrating than X-rays, destroying morbid cancer cells, fibrous tumors and birtumars.

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON

Overweight as a Menace
EVERY overweight individual who has given the reduction of weight any serious thought or study has learned that starch foods—potatoes, bread, sugar, and pastry—store up most of the excess fat on the body.
It is only recently that they are realizing that liquids, while not storing fat, nevertheless are held in the body by the fat and so greatly increase the total weight of the body. Thus, while knowing that water is needed by the body for a number of purposes, they also know that they do not need to drink much water because the body will use the extra water held in the fat tissues as it is needed. These overweight individuals have learned one other thing, and that is that while fat foods—butter, cream, fat meats, fat fish, egg yolks—do not store fat in the same manner or to the same extent as starch foods, nevertheless they do help to store fat, and prevent the tissues of the body from being worn or used as rapidly as they otherwise would be.
But one of the big points overweighters have not fully realized is that if they cut down on the fat foods by as much as 90 per cent, just eating a little butter or cheese or drinking a little milk, the body will use for its needs the fat they have stored in the body, thus decreasing gradually their store of fat and so their weight.

How Nature Uses It.
Striking examples of how nature uses stored fat can be seen in animals such as the bear whose body is covered with fat in the autumn and while it sleeps during the winter this stored fat supplies the body with nourishment. By spring the bear is quite lean again. Another example is where a very fat fish, during certain periods of its yearly life, eats nothing whatever, yet is kept alive during these periods because its body uses up this deposit of fat which it has accumulated.
It is agreed by nutrition experts that the average individual who does not do hard physical work should eat about one part proteins—meat, eggs, fish—to two parts fats—butter, cream, fat meats, egg yolks—to four parts starchy foods, vegetables and fruits.
When real hard outdoor work is being done the amount of meat, eggs and fish should be increased.
What about the overweight individual who, of course, does little or no work of any kind? Instead of eating two parts of fat foods to one part of proteins he or she could cut down the fat foods by half and also cut down the starch foods by half.

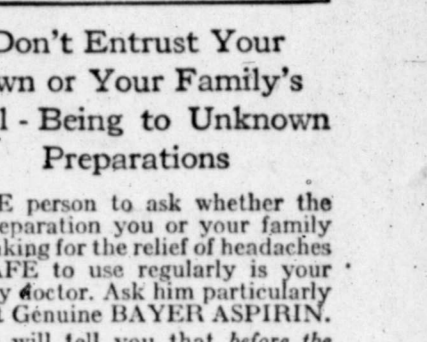

Cutting Down Fat Foods.
This cutting down by one-half on fat foods can be done safely by overweighters for the same reason that animals can do without any food at certain times; that is because the body processes can make use of the stored fat for their various needs.
The point then is that with the knowledge now in possession of overweighters there is no reason why every one of them (except the 2 to 5 per cent whose overweight is due to a gland disturbance) should not get down to normal weight in from three to twelve months. I have seen a girl weighing 180 pounds get her weight down to 150 pounds in three months by cutting down her liquids by one-half, her fats by one-half, and her starches by one-quarter, keeping up, however, her full amount of meat, eggs, and fish.

Foods That Disagree.
Now that it is generally known that certain foods cause skin irritation, others pain in the abdomen, others hay fever, asthma and eczema, a new word—allergy—has come into use. Allergy means being sensitive to certain foods. Patients often, however, avoid foods because they "disagree" with them when it may be other foods or circumstances that cause distress.
Drs. Walter C. Alvarez and H. Corwin Hinshaw, Mayo foundation, Rochester, Minn., point out that the patient may well be mistaken when he states that he cannot eat some particular food. Perhaps the fish was blamed when really the culprit was the tartar sauce, the cottonseed oil in which the fish was fried, or the pie that was eaten for dessert. Or the food eaten at dinner was blamed when really the offending substance was taken into the body with luncheon or breakfast.
The point then is that because a food has disagreed under any of the above circumstances it should not be condemned until it has been found to disagree a "number of times."

PEACE IN AGE
Elder people have peace of mind because they have quit trying to reform themselves.

Do You Ever Wonder

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?
Ask Your Doctor and Find Out
Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations
The person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.
He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.
Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.
You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this—and see that you get what you want.

Get Them in Trouble
Adam and Eve were vegetarians and never cooked anything.
Black-Draught Good Laxative
Black-Draught has been kept on hand for all the family in the home of Mr. W. A. Lemons, of Independence, Va., since twenty years ago. Mr. Lemons writes that he takes it as a laxative in cases of "headache, dull, tired feeling, biliousness."
"and I take it if I feel uncomfortable after a heavy meal." He adds: "I especially use it for sick headache. It certainly is good."
When a man says "Black-Draught is good," it is probably because he remembers the prompt, refreshing relief it brought in constipation troubles. It is a simple, herb laxative; natural in composition and action.
