One Of Fugitives Started In Life Of Crime As Aide To Late Clyde Barrow; Pair Returned To Hobbs

Arrest of W. A. Turner and Bill Thompson near Colorado Monday morning by Police Chief Dick Hickman ended an intensified man hunt that during the past few days had extended over Texas and New Mexico. The pair, listed by State and Federal departments as Southwest bad men, were being sought to face charges of burglary at Hobbs, New Mexico.

Hickman received telephone message Monday morning at 9 o'clock that the fugitives had sped through Big Spring and were heading out Highway One toward Colorado. He drove out the highway west and waited. It was not long until the men drove by. The officer followed and crowded the fugitives' car off the road at the Humble Oil Company wholesale depot just west of town. They offered no resistance to arrest. Hickman stated that neither was armed but that he found a gun in the car.

Turner started on a life of crime as lieutenant to the late Clyde Barrow, according to information given Hickman and other officers here. He and the former Dallas desperado served terms together in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, on conviction of postoffice robberies.

The pair were wanted by Hobbs, New Mexico, police in connection with robbery of an office there a few nights before. A safe was taken from the building, trucked into the country and blown open.

Fear That Rabies May Spread In Iatan Community Expressed By Local Official

Fear that rabies may spread to envelop citizens, pets and livestock in the Iatan community unless every possible precaution is put into use was expressed Tuesday morning by Chas. Farris, city sanitary official.

Farris stated that a few days before a stray dog appeared at the Jennings farm south of Iatan and attacked another dog, a pet on the farm. After biting the dog the stray turned on Jennings and was not stopped until the farmer brought a fence post into play with telling effect, killing his antagonist.

Later the Jennings dog developed strange symptoms and attacked Mrs. Jennings' home, killing her small child. The animal then disappeared and had not been heard of since. The persons bitten are being given treatment to arrest rabies infection.

Farris advanced the warning that citizens of Iatan section should watch their dogs, cats and livestock carefully. "There is no telling how many of these might have been bitten by rabies infected dogs and the danger is not to be treated lightly," he declared. Persons seeing dogs acting suspiciously should avoid the animals, he stated.

Two weeks ago a stray dog was taken up at Magnolia Canyon, Iatan, after an employee of the oil concern had detected the animal acting as if under the spell of disease. The dog was killed by Farris and its head shipped to Austin where it was found to be infected with rabies.

DID NEGROES BEING HELD HERE KILL TOOTHMAN AND HAMEL, OFFICERS PONDER

Blacks Confess, Later Deny Responsibility For Double Slaying Last Thanksgiving In West Colorado

Members of the State highway patrol, sheriffs and police departments, working in conjunction on the gruesome Thanksgiving double murder at Colorado in which W. B. Toothman, 60, merchant, and Wilson Hamel, a youth of 16 years, were brutally slain in their living quarters, have not arrived at solution of the crime.

The three negroes being held in county jail may or may not have been implicated in the killing, it was stated at the court house Thursday morning. No charges had been lodged against the blacks, although they had been held several days.

The blacks accused, James Douglas of Colorado and Red Scuggs and Horace Manago of Marlin, were arrested after a Colorado negro woman made statements involving the trio. Confessions were obtained from some of the negroes when first questioned but they have later retracted implication of responsibility for the killings.

One of the negroes went so far as to describe in detail just how the double murder was staged. His account of the killings, however, was at conflict with accepted facts, officers believe. One statement was that he witnessed another black shoot the Hamel boy after the youth had gotten out of bed and walked into front room of the combination store and living quarters, firing from a distance of several feet. The authorities have held that Hamel was killed as he slept. His face was powder burned, giving credence to opinion he was shot at close range.

Officials of the State highway patrol were here from Abilene to assist local officers in the case but these offered no statement for publication as to their opinion of guilt or innocence of the negroes. It is generally accepted, however, that the men held know more about the case than they are now admitting.

$50,000 Exposition Hall of Religion

It's a long way from the "gospel riders" of early Texas, who carried a pistol in their holster and a rifle in their lap as they rode around their "circuit," to the $50,000 Hall of Religion now being built on the grounds of the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 World's Fair which opens in Dallas June 6. Religious lore of Texas over a period of 400 years will be housed in the building, which is being sponsored and built by stockholders of the Lone Star Gas Company. From the top of the building's 75-foot tower "The Eternal Flame of Life" will burn from the Exposition's opening until its close, November 29.

Very Nice for Old Honus!

Recognize the gentleman? He is Honus Wagner, greatest shortstop in history and now coach of the Pittsburgh Pirate baseball team. The photograph was taken when Rangerites from the Texas Centennial Exposition, $25,000,000 World's Fair opening at Dallas June 6, visited the team's San Antonio training camp. The girls invited President Bill Benavenger and the members of his team to attend the Exposition.

Name Chosen For 6th District Poetry Anthology; Will Be Delivered May 15

"Sheaves We Have Bound" has been chosen as the title for the poetry anthology of the Sixth district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and the book goes to press Monday, according to Mrs. Sam Majors of Colorado, Sixth district chairman of poetry. The book has been called the "Sixth district offering to the Texas Centennial bookshelf." Mrs. Majors was in Abilene Thursday to confer with printers. The book is to be ready for delivery on May 15. The anthology takes its name from the title of the opening poem, written by Mrs. Elizabeth Grubbs McCleary of Colorado, poet laureate of the Sixth district. It was originally planned to have the book begin with the past year's prize winning poem in the district but a rearrangement was made. The 1936 prize poem, "The Silver Years" by Beryl Leeson of Abilene, will head the division of the book devoted to prize-winning poems since 1927.

Hermleigh Residents, Past And Present, Held Reunion At Buffalo Gap On Sunday

A gathering which is to become an annual affair was held Sunday at Buffalo Gap when a large number of present and former Hermleigh citizens held a reunion and "home coming." Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Billingsley of Colorado were among those attending. Others present included George Holliday and family of Ballinger, R. F. Siddons and family of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Coker of Westbrook, Mrs. Jde Mobley and daughter of Snyder, Miss Claudia Bell and Miss Thelma King of Westbrook, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Balch and family of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. Rea and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rea and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rea and family, S. W. Barfoot, Mrs. Viola Barfoot Bailey, Lee Sturdivant, Miss Nell Caffey, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hammil, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Appleton, and A. T. Caffey all of Hermleigh; Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Minor of Snyder; Mrs. J. L. Breeden and W. Gentry of Anson. Reminiscences during the day revived memories of the time when Hermleigh residents had to drive three miles to Wheat, Texas, and get their mail from B. Y. Rea, who was assistant postmaster there in the early days. Old-timers recalled the time when Hermleigh was laid out for a town site. Among those remembering the most were George Holliday, Mrs. S. E. Balch, R. F. Siddons, J. R. Coker, A. T. Caffey, and B. Y. Rea. One hearer stated later that, judging from all George Holliday remembered regarding the birth of Hermleigh, he must now be at least 110 year old. Mr. Holliday was celebrating one of his birthdays Sunday. In addition to furnishing a great part of the remembering Mr. Holliday also furnished the barbecued goat and chickens for the crowd. The reunion will be held again next year on the third Sunday of April. All those who have lived or still live in Hermleigh are invited to attend.

SOIL CONSERVING PROGRAM AIMS TO PREVENT EROSION AND HOLD LAND FERTILITY

State Extension Agent Has Interesting Deductions To Offer In Article For The Colorado Record

America's latest farm cooperative program, termed the "Soil Conservation Act," should render effective service to the farmers and farm owners of Mitchell county during the months to follow, suggests Jack Shelton of College Station, vice director and State agent for the Extension Service. Impressed with the universal interest being reflected by farm folk of the county in plans for putting the Federal statute into operation, Mr. Shelton offers his cooperation in attaining the ends sought. "I feel that further comment on conditions to be met and results to be realized by the farmer will be timely, in view of that interest," he states in communication to The Record. He says: "Every cultivated crop takes a definite amount of original plant food out of the soil, and the necessary cultivation of such crops exposes the land to erosion. This results not only in additional fertility losses, but also in losses of soil.

"Some crops deplete the fertility of the soil more than others and expose the land to a greater amount of erosion. It is the purpose of the new Soil Conservation Act to put part of the land formerly devoted to such soil depleting crops into crops which will prevent erosion and will rebuild the fertility of the land to insure a stable supply of foods and fibres in the future.

"A brief review of figures determined by the Agricultural Experiment Station over a period of nine years shows clearly the extent of soil erosion.

"Land with a two per cent slope when planted in cotton showed an average soil loss of 7.95 tons per acre per year. Land in mlo lost 8.93 tons of soil. Land in buffalo grass lost 1.56 tons.

"These figures show that aside from the plant food used by the crop, farmers of the state pay more than two times as much washed away soil for a crop of cotton as they do for a crop of mlo. Similarly, they pay more than five times as much for a crop of cotton as for a crop of buffalo grass.

"The importance of crops in the conservation of moisture was also demonstrated at Spur, where it was found that the cotton plot lost 2.83 inches of water in run-off; mlo lost 1.76 inches; and the buffalo grass lost 1.03 inches.

"These results were obtained at the Substation near Spur in Dickens county, located in the Rolling Plains region of Northwest Texas. The soil on which this work was done is Miles clay loam and the results are considered as directly applicable to parts of 41 counties and approximately 14,000,000 acres of land of the Miles and Abilene and related series, and indirectly applicable to all of the sub-humid portion of Texas.

"Crops and practices which are best for preventing erosion in Texas and for rebuilding the fertility of the soil have been recommended to the regional director of the Soil Conservation Service by the State Conservation and Domestic Allotment Board which has been meeting recently at College Station. These crops and practices will be announced as soon as they have received the approval of the regional director.

"To qualify for payments under the new program, the farmer must take land from soil depleting crops and plant it in soil building and soil conserving crops or must use certain soil building practices on the land.

"Generally speaking, it will be necessary to have at least one acre of soil conserving or soil building crops to every five acres of soil depleting crops in the base acreage. This means that a farmer who has 100 acres of soil depleting crops in his base must have planted on his farm in 1936 at least 20 acres of conserving and building crops to participate in the program," Shelton said.

Perfect Record Is Broken By Illness On Eve Graduation

Mattie Beth Payne, College Senior, Never Missed Day Nor Tardy In School

Miss Mattie Beth Payne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Payne of near Colorado, has broken an outstanding school record, extending through the Colorado schools and Texas Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, only because she recently went down with the measles.

Entering first grade here in 1922 Mattie Beth had never missed a day from her classes nor so much as been tardy. She was graduated from Colorado High school in 1931 with honors, being the valedictorian of her class and has since been on the honor roll each semester at TWC.

Mattie Beth will receive her B. S. degree from TWC on May 25 with a double major in home economics and laboratory science and a double minor in social science and secondary education. She will have finished her four years college work in three years. She was elected to membership this year in the Alpha Chi, national honorary society.

During the past year she has been clothing assistant in the home economics department at the college. She is a member of the Kappa Omicron Literary Society, Y.W.C.A. and volleyball team. Along with her school work she has taken an active part in the Sunday school and Epworth League of Polytechnic Methodist church.

An outstanding record attained through hard work and sincere devotion to duty is broken on eve of graduation—not due to any fault of Mattie Beth, but simply because of the fact she was attacked by the measles and forced to be absent from her classes.

Daisies Are Fatal To Billions Flies And Other Insects

Gulf Refining Imports The Yellow Dust In Big Lots For Making Spray

Strange as it may seem, a beautiful red daisy closely related to our common field daisy with its orange disc center and white petals (the loves me—the loves me not) is the deadliest enemy of house flies, mosquitoes, moths and other perennial pests. Contact with this colorful field flower instantly gives the insects a nervous breakdown (no fooling!) and within a few seconds, unable to forage for food or water, they starve to death.

"Pyrethrum," scientists call the deadly daisy essence, which they now use as a powerful killing constituent in insect spray. And today, when flies, roaches, moths or whatnots get on the harassed housewife's nerves she gives them one better. She flies for the spray gun and gives the flies a swift and deadly case of nervous prostration.

It was a Jugo-Slavish hausfrau who accidentally discovered the insect-killing power of the pyrethrum daisy when she picked a bouquet of the bright red flowers and put them on a table in the house. Later she noticed a great number of dead insects around the withered bouquet. Subsequently, small European manufacturers ground the flowers into a fine powder and distributed it about the Continent as a dust to be blown at insects by means of small blowers. More recently, pyrethrum daisy growing has become an agricultural industry in various countries and the Gulf Oil Corp. of Penn.-Gulf Refining Co. imports vast quantities of the death-dealing yellow dust for use in its insect sprays.

According to Dr. William A. Stenon, entomologist at Gulf's Research Laboratories, the killing action of pyrethrum is very rapid, when mixed in proper quantities with an especially refined hydrocarbon carrier and sprayed as a fine mist into a room or cupboard. When the fine mist comes in contact with an insect, it penetrates into the insect's nervous system, destroying the nerve cells, causing paralysis. Within a few seconds death results from starvation. The organs and functions of insect bodies are decidedly different in many respects from those of the human body and those of animals and birds. Hence pyrethrum, so deadly to flies, mosquitoes, roaches, moths and other insects and their larvae, has no effect on human beings or their pets.

So if the dog or the cat or "the old man" gets on the housewife's nerves, the Gulf spray gun won't do much good.

BREEDING DOGS IS GOOD BUSINESS, DULIN STATES

In the estimation of some people a sound dog is just another dog, but Col. W. A. Dulin has an entirely different slant on the matter, especially if the dog is of pedigree breeding.

The other day Dulin received a letter from an insurance broker in Houston offering $100 cash for a pair of his Rant-Margaret cross bred hounds. The Colonel smiled and informed the Houstonian that his price was $100 each or $200 for the pair.

FERTILIZERS STUDIED BY BAUMAN HD WOMEN

By Mrs. Iva Barber, Reporter

"Fertilizers should never be put in direct contact with the roots of plants," said Miss Emma Gunter, Mitchell county home demonstration agent in a talk preceding a demonstration at "Preparation of beds for foundation plantings" given to the members of the Bauman Home Demonstration club which met with Mrs. Verna Present, April 8 at 2:30 p.m.

Fertilizers may be added either in preparation of beds or as a mulch when finishing planting. When added above or below the roots of the plant the fertilizer will furnish food without drying out the roots. Native shrubs and trees may be transplanted and so cultivated and trimmed as to lend a charm of natural beauty and color to our yards as protect.

Refreshments were served to eight clubmembers, four guests and Miss Gunter. Guests were: Mrs. C. O. Bennett, Mrs. Calvin Arnold, Mrs. E. F. McGowan and Miss Sylvia Brown.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Charles Land April 22 at 2:30 p.m. Club members will work on articles for the linen-exhibit April 20-May 4.

Notice to Those Who Rent

For the past several years, due to depression, droughts and other calamities, rent in Colorado as well as other towns in this section of the country has been below normal. We realize, of course that under such conditions it is difficult to make up your mind to purchase a home and stop paying rent, but there is a homely saying to the effect that, "the harder the ground, the harder the old hen scratches". The only question is whether you have allowed this situation to discourage you and allowed your efforts to let down, more especially since the time is coming when we all will certainly need to own our own homes.

To those who have a bonus bond coming up some time during this year, we are going to offer to those boys the opportunity of purchasing a home for as little as until the bonus bond is available for the cash payment with the understanding that at which time the difference between the amount paid monthly, after deduction of interest, and the 10 per cent necessary, as required by our regular sales plan, as the cash payment, shall be paid, then a deed will be given and the balance carried upon a regular mortgage loan contract at a very liberal rate of interest. We have a nice bunch of dwellings to select from, you can get the home you wish and determine the amount of your monthly payments by the kind of property you purchase.

$15 Down and $15 per Month

Rev. G. C. Farris Claimed By Death Saturday Morning

Life-Span Of Aged Preacher Had Included Nearly Forty Years Of Ministry

Closing a life which had included nearly forty years of ministry in the Baptist church, death claimed the Rev. G. C. Farris, 79, at his home here Saturday morning at 3.20. The Rev. Mr. Farris had been critically ill for more than two weeks and had been in ill health for several years.

During his ministry the Rev. Mr. Farris preached all over this section of Texas. Ten ministers took part in funeral services Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at First Baptist church. They were the Rev. N. G. Kinard of Big Spring, Rev. L. L. Trott of Lamar Street church at Sweetwater, Rev. A. C. Hardin of Loraine, Rev. M. C. Bishop of Post, Rev. A. A. Watson of Coahoma, Rev. W. D. Green of Knox City, Rev. W. H. Howell of Abilene, and Rev. P. B. O'Brien of Colorado, all of the Baptist church; Rev. Sam H. Young of Sweetwater, presiding elder of the Sweetwater Methodist district, and Rev. Cal C. Wright, pastor First Methodist church here.

Born in Cobb county, Georgia, on March 29, 1857, the Rev. Mr. Farris was the son of Dr. and Mrs. T. C. Farris. With them he came to Texas and settled near Paris, Lamar county, in June, 1872. He was converted and joined the Baptist church that same year. On October 23, 1873, he married Susan Hail in Paris.

In 1879 they moved to Sardis, Arkansas, and it was there that the Rev. Mr. Farris was ordained to the Baptist ministry in June, 1897. He served the first seven years of his ministry in Sardis.

In 1906 the Rev. and Mrs. Farris and their children came to Mitchell county, settling at Loraine. They have been continuous residents of the county since that time, with the exception of ten years, 1914-1924, spent in Sweetwater. They had lived in Colorado in recent years.

Among the churches which the Rev. Mr. Farris served were Loraine, Roscoe, Sweetwater (Lamar St.), Center Point, Nolan, Deker, Bethel, Spade, Salem, and others. He was active in the ministry as long as health would permit. He gave up his pastorate ten years ago but preached occasionally until two years ago.

Communities and towns all over this section were represented among the large number attending funeral services Sunday. Burial was in the Loraine cemetery with Masons in charge of graveside rites and the Rev. M. C. Bishop of Post reading the burial service. The Rev. Mr. Farris was a life member of the Sweetwater lodge.

Active pallbearers were R. E. Gregory, R. H. Barber, George Slaton, G. W. Whitaker, and J. Lee Jones. Listed as honorary pallbearers were Judge A. S. Mauzey of Sweetwater, J. M. Dorn, D. M. Logan, Dr. T. J. Ratliff, Fred Whipkey, John L. Doss, N. T. Womack, Judge W. P. Leslie of Eastland, J. C. Ethridge, and R. A. Hood.

Mrs. Farris was prevented by illness from attending funeral services. In addition to her, two sons, C. R. Farris of Colorado and T. W. Farris of Post, are survivors. A son, Jimmy, was killed in an automobile accident last year. Another son, Schuyler, died in Merkel four years ago.

Jones, Russell & Company had charge of funeral arrangements.

Cars Need Spring Tuning, Chevrolet Official Advises

Better Driving Service Will Result, Service Director Outlines In Statement

A spring cleaning is a spring tonic to an automobile, giving it renewed life and liveliness, and fitting it for the summer's season of heavy duty use, according to C. W. Wood, national service director of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

"Proper attention to an automobile when spring comes is just as important as winter preparations," says Mr. Wood. "Unfortunately, many motorists neglect the spring cleaning job, with the result that the car, and the engine especially, cannot perform at maximum efficiency and economy."

"One of the most important operations when freezing weather is no longer to be expected is a complete cleanings of the engine cooling system, and the installation of new rubber radiator connections in place of flabby old ones. If these precautions are neglected, overheating is the penalty. After a long winter, the radiator is likely to be partly clogged with sludge and scale, caused by the action of anti-freeze solutions on the metal of the engine block, and the rubber radiator connections possibly have deteriorated sufficiently to obstruct the circulation of water.

"As soon as the weather warrants it, heaters should be completely disconnected from the cooling system. That is, the fittings and valves and hose connections should be removed and stored carefully, and especially important, the heater itself should be emptied, by removing the drain plug at the bottom.

"The fan and its drive belt are a part of the cooling system, remember. In cold weather, a slipping fan belt may not be noticed, because the engine will run cool anyway—but on the first warm day the engine may overheat unless the belt is adjusted to get the maximum cooling effect from the fan.

"Actually, the best thing one can do for one's car in the spring is to have a complete tune-up of the engine, include a thorough overhauling of the entire cooling system, plus a change from winter to summer lubricants in the engine, transmission, and rear axle."

NATIONAL MUSIC WEEK TO BE OBSERVED HERE WITH VARIED PROGRAM

Extensive plans to observe National Music week, May 3-May 10, in Colorado are being worked out by Colorado musicians and members of the Colorado Music club, of which Mrs. W. R. Martin is president.

As in years past, the Colorado music club will present two twilight musicales as features of the week. One of these will be junior, the other senior. Out-of-town artists are to be featured on the two programs.

During the designated week school programs will have a musical theme. Plans are to have music featured in storewindow displays and to have numerous posters proclaiming the week and its slogan, "Strengthen Our Musical Resources," in prominent places over the town.

In telling of plans for the week Mrs. Martin said: "National Music week is an annual opportunity for America to step forward musically. . . It gives us an opportunity to enjoy the music we already know and love and to enrich our lives."

Members of the Colorado Music club have submitted these thoughts on music in connection with the observance of National Music week: "Music Week is dedicated to the concentrating on the values and power of music, and the many ways of producing it. In each year there should be Fifty-Two music weeks, and in each day of every week there should be music in every home. Music is the oldest and noblest form of expression. Birds sang long before man talked. Before the birds sang, there was the music of the wind in the great fern tree forests that created our coal beds.

"Music is or ought to be part of everything in life. Take music from life and you might as well take color from the sky, flowers from the field, and kindness from the human eye.

"Henry Ford's advice to fathers and mothers is: 'Let your children play some instrument.' He quotes the Bible: 'Be creators of music, not merely listeners.'"

Programs for the different affairs of the week will be announced in the next issue of the Record.

Vanished Industry Of Mitchell County Essay Subject Chosen By Nina L. Smith

One of Mitchell county's "vanished" industries furnished the subject on which Nina Laura Smith, Colorado High school student, wrote the following essay to win second place in the high school division of the Walter F. Woodul Centennial Essay contest which closed recently:

A VANISHED INDUSTRY Though it may be incredible to some people, an important industry once existed in our own Mitchell County which manufactured a product for every day use—salt. For years no one dreamed that the water of this territory contained valuable minerals, and even this fact was discovered by accident.

This very fortunate discovery was the result of a long search, by the citizens, for a water supply for Colorado. At this time water was scarce and those who had no wind-mills had to buy water at fifty cents a barrel which came from the historic Indian and buffalo watering place, Seven Wells. Some enterprising persons sold water from their wells, also. So, in 1885, on a hill west of the Colorado river, a group of men drilled a well in an effort to locate Artesian water, but the water was brine, and at a depth of 900 feet they struck a thick salt vein.

However, the well was deepened to 1200 feet, where they decided the salt deposit was unlimited. Naturally, the well was forgotten as it was unsuitable for domestic use, but little did these men realize what they had begun.

Shortly after the well was drilled, a pioneer settler of Mitchell county, Dr. J. W. Pearson, making an analysis of the water of the well, found it high in salt content. He later wrote an article concerning this discovery, which was read by two capitalists in Evansville, Indiana. These prosperous men, Blount and Parsons, afterward came to Colorado and finally succeeded in organizing the Lone Star Salt Company with a capital of about $50,000.

The plant, located on the hills west of Colorado, was, for a time, the only plant in a large area, and is said to have produced the purest salt in America. This brine, after being pumped from the wells was evaporated by the sun and also by steam. The coarse sun-evaporated salt was used to feed live stock, while the salt refined by steam was used for table salt. Often donkey or ox teams would call for salt to take it to outlying ranches. The patient brutes had to go long distances with their heavy loads, with very few water holes to quench their thirst. The plant from which this salt came operated continuously, employing from twenty-five to thirty men. Business was especially active during the dry, sunny summer months.

A short time after the Lone Star Company was organized, a group of citizens opened a rival salt works in the opposite section of Colorado, which operated until 1910. After some years, Messrs. Blount and Parsons sold their interest in the Lone Star organization to the Morton Salt Company, which operated it until 1905. At that time they decided it was best to abandon the salt works because the distance to the business centers caused high freight rates and local trade also was not sufficient for its operation to be profitable. In 1910 the rival salt plant burned and was never rebuilt. Those crumbling brick walls are the only remnant of an industry representative of a glorious period of Mitchell county history.

Mrs. J. S. McCall, Colorado Pioneer, Dies In Ft. Worth Her Late Husband Was One Of Colorado's Old Time Merchants

Another of Colorado's prominent pioneers passed Wednesday morning in Fort Worth when Mrs. J. S. McCall, about 80, succumbed.

Mrs. McCall's late husband, who died in 1930, was among the first merchants in Colorado back in the early eighties. The McCalls moved from here to Fort Worth over 25 years ago.

Funeral services were to be held in Fort Worth at 3:30 Thursday afternoon. T. W. Stonerod of Colorado was to be one of the pallbearers and he and Mrs. Stonerod left for Fort Worth early Thursday morning.

One daughter, Mrs. R. G. Davenport of Fisher county, and one son, J. C. McCall of Fort Worth, survive Mrs. McCall, in addition to some sisters whose names could not be readily learned.

DRIVERS CAUTIONED BE CAREFUL WHILE OUT ON PUBLIC THOROUGHFARES The Mitchell county motorist may lose one-third of his driver's license if he fails to stop when the man on the horse or driving the wagon signals.

That's a provision of the new license law applying to all of Texas, as explained in circular received Wednesday from Austin by The Record.

Radio Studios Started at Texas Exposition

This is an architect's sketch of the Gulf Oil radio studios, being built at the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 World's Fair opening in Dallas June 8. Here all programs from the grounds will originate for chain and local broadcasts. Glass-front studios line the court of the U-shaped building so visitors may watch the broadcasts. The largest public address system of history also operates from 250 speaker units. Twelve radio programs and 6 ground programs can be turned into 18 different speaker units, simultaneously, each of the 18 carrying any combination of the 250 speakers. The studios will furnish pre-opening broadcasts as well as those originating during the actual Exposition period. Radio and public address engineers from all over the country already acclaim the broadcast and speaker system as the most perfect so far devised.

THE COLORADO THAT USED TO BE 25 Years Ago 15 Years Ago

25 YEARS AGO "Wonderful Development Along the Santa Fe Cut-off" was the two-column headline of an A. H. Weston article which spread over two pages in the Colorado Record twenty-five years ago—Friday, April 28, 1911.

Spotlight of Colorado's social whirl that week was turned on the marriage of Miss Ophelia Arnett and Floyd Beal of Sweetwater. The wedding took place at the Arnett home.

Complimenting the bride-to-be, Mrs. Sam Majors and the Misses Coe had entertained on Saturday.

15 YEARS AGO A "light freeze" on the night of 10-Gallon Straw

There have been straw hats and straw hats but it took the Centennial Exposition, $25,000,000 World's Fair opening in Dallas, June 6 to produce an authentic 10-gallon straw hat. Lucy Ann Small demonstrated the hat, made at Laredo, Texas, at the Texas straw.

April 15 was chronicled in the Colorado Record for April 22, 1921, fifteen years ago.

The UDC had met with Mrs. F. B. Whipkey, the 1921 Study club with Mrs. R. E. Dolman, the Standard with Mrs. Marcus Snyder, the Bay View with Mrs. Jack Smith, the Heperian with Mrs. Everett Winn, the Christian Aid society with Mrs. H. B. Broadbush.

Hay fever sufferers take notice. Carveth Wells, popular explorer, author and star of Continental Oil Company's Sunday radio hour, says that hay fever sneezes are as rare as the Lodo bird in the beautiful lake regions of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan.

Local listeners who wish to tune in on Wells may do so any Sunday by dialing station WFAA, Dallas, at 12:15 o'clock.

The Texas Memorial Museum which will be built on the campus at The University of Texas at Austin from proceeds realized on the sale of Texas Centennial half-dollars will be mechanically lighted and ventilated, according to specifications. Texas Centennial Exposition officials originally intended to have 48 Ranges on hostess duty when the $25,000,000 World's Fair opens in Dallas June 8. When they found one of those selected came from Washington, D. C., they included Mexico to make an even 50. Now, not to overlook Canada, they have appointed Grace Louise Bailey, daughter of a Dallas publisher and born in Ojibwa, Ontario, near Windsor, making a total of 51.

Blind Fort Worth Woman Recalls The Beginning Of County Red Cross Unit

"I remember that it was a rainy Sunday afternoon during the World War."

Thus simply does Mrs. Wes Allen of Fort Worth, a former Coloradoan, open her story of the beginning of the Red Cross chapter in Mitchell county. Mrs. Allen, blind for years, recently typed the story for Mrs. J. Lee Jones' Red Cross scrapbook at Mrs. Jones' request.

"I was sitting alone in my cozy little sitting room by a fire when Leonora Waldo came in," Mrs. Allen's story goes on, "and of course we at once began to talk about war matters. I had recently come back from the Panhandle where Mr. Allen had taken our cattle on account of the drouth in Mitchell county. I was full of the Red Cross work people up there were doing, and I repeated for Mrs. Waldo a poem I had written for a mothers' meeting there.

"Leonora said, 'I wish we had a chapter here,' and I said, 'Why haven't you?' She replied, 'Well, you know we are doing a little work with Mrs. Van Tuyl through the needle-work guild. . . . Being a shut-in, she gets so much pleasure out of the work.'"

Mrs. Allen recounts how the organization of the Mitchell county chapter grew out of this conversation, the women interested following literature supplied by Mrs. Van Tuyl. Mrs. J. Lee Jones, Mrs. Waldo, and Mrs. Allen, riding in the car of Mrs. F. M. Burns, contacted business men of the town and secured the signature of ten of them on the chapter's first charter. Mrs. H. B. Smoot was another one attending those early Red Cross meetings. Mrs. Allen records that Mrs. Van Tuyl turned her needle-work guild work into Red Cross channels and said that she would "gladly help in any way she could."

"When we got the charter," Mrs. Allen's story continues, "we called a meeting to be held at the Methodist church. . . . It was crowded. . . . As I remember I was first elected chairman, but I felt that the position held too much responsibility for me. . . . Then they elected the late Rev. J. F. Lawlis, then Methodist pastor, to the place. . . .

"I was then made chairman of the membership committee. . . . Mrs. Jones was appointed chairman of county establishment, and there were nine other chairmen. . . . I remember that we got up the Womanless Wedding—what a lot of fun that was!

We did a lot of other things that made money, and in the end Mitchell county did herself great credit. . . . I cleared out a place in my house and got about twenty young people to take around the Red Cross stickers. . . . Everybody responded enthusiastically—it was a grand experience. I like to recall the grand time we all had. Do you remember what a nice box of quilts we sent down to Camp Bowie?"

"One day Mrs. Charlie Mann came to me and told me about women in her neighborhood making quilts. She said they needed lining and padding materials. . . . I thought the matter over and talked about it at the next board meeting. . . . What we finally did was to go around from house to house gathering up all scraps, then we asked the school children to bring a clean flour sack each, and pretty soon we had everything we needed. We bought $10 worth of cotton, and I gave $2 worth of thread, so we got to work. Before long we had 100 quilts to send to Camp Bowie. F. M. Burns furnished us with boxes, I remember. Charlie Brooks found the boxes for us, Mr. Womack took them to the train, and the railroad didn't charge anything for transportation. . . . We were soon notified that the quilts had arrived safely. . . .

"We stuck in the sand going down to Lorraine one time—do you remember? The harder we tried to get out the deeper we sank. . . . Finally one of us got some boards and we made a bridge. . . . We got to Lorraine in time for Mrs. Jones to make a speech at a great gathering in one of the churches, and afterwards we had a nice luncheon.

"It grieves me to recall the many brave fine boys we had to sacrifice. . . . Junius Merritt, Arthur Waldo, and Mrs. Cook's son were among the first. . . . There were others, but my life has been so different that my memory fails me. . . . I have been housebound all winter, spending most of the time in bed."

Mrs. Jones is adding Mrs. Allen's signed article to her Red Cross scrapbook, in which she already has an almost complete record of all work done by the chapter in those early days. She even has the signed reports of various chairmen. The reports are now yellowed and frayed from their nearly two-score years of existence. Mrs. Allen's article will go at the scrapbook's beginning.

Colorado Golfers Shunted To Third Place In Tourney

Locals Routed By Midland; Big Spring Swings Ahead In Win Over Lamesa

The Colorado linksmen who spurred ahead to claim first position in Sand Belt Golf association tourney as annual contests were opened recently were definitely turned back Sunday afternoon by the Midlanders. The score was 28 to 12 and left Colorado roosting in third place.

That Midland turned the steam on effectively is indicated in fact that the players there lost only two matches. Riley of the Midland club lost his match to Fred Dozier on the 19th, and E. C. Nix downed Hemp-hill on the 18th. Big Spring rendered Lamesa the most decisive defeat posted for the three games, running over the Dawson county golfers 30 to 10 and setting herself up in first place in tourney standing. Odesa defeated Stanton 22 to 18.

OLD FRONTIER REGIMENT STATIONED AT FORT BLISS

The 8th Cavalry, stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, possesses the unusual distinction of never having been stationed east of the Mississippi River. Its beginning was on November 23, 1866, seventy years ago, when the War Department ordered the Commanding General of the Military Division of the Pacific to recruit and organize the 8th United States Cavalry.

In its seventy years of existence, the regiment has spent four in Cuba, seven in the Philippines, twenty-one in the West and thirty-odd along the Rio Grande River. In 1919 the regiment was ordered to Fort Bliss where it has been to the present time.

In addition to soldering, the men of the regiment are good at sports. At baseball the 8th Cavalry team won the Post League Championship in 1927, 28, 30 and 32. At basketball they were the champions four years straight, 1932, 33, 34 and 35. At football they won the championship in 1931.

The 8th Cavalry and other branches of the War Department stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas, are taking recruits at this time. Men desiring further information regarding enlistment are directed to write or call the U. S. Army Recruiting Station, Sweetwater, Texas, which will be opened April 4th.

Better Soil Assures Better Citizens, In Belief Of State Extension Service Head

"Better soil—better citizens, is the way I see it," said Jack Shelton, vice director and state agricultural agent of the Texas Extension Service, in discussing the new agricultural program which concerns itself chiefly with soil conservation and good land use.

"It is provenly true that rural communities surrounded by rich farming lands are centers of prosperity, while those situated in the midst of lands that have lost their fertility and no longer produce bountifully are on the down grade and gradually lose, either through bankruptcy or moving away, many of the commercial establishments which prospered when the lands were productive," Shelton said.

"When you find people living on a fertile soil you find them living in the better type homes, riding in better cars, driving the best teams. On poor soils you find them in poorer homes, with very little paint on the buildings and fences. "The soil reflects itself on the people who live on it and on their crops and livestock. As soil becomes depleted you grow cattle on that soil that have small bones, lacking the weight and bloom that are found on cattle grown on good soil. If the soil is that important, why shouldn't it be one of the main objectives of the farm program to build up that soil? How are we going to accomplish that? With terraces, pastures, legumes and livestock.

"The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act gives Texas farmers and ranchmen a great opportunity to reorganize their business so as to rebuild the wasted lands and re-establish prosperity on the farms and ranches of Texas. "The reception given the program as it has been presented to the people by the county agricultural agents shows that the situation has been realized, and the new Act came at a time that it was very welcome," Shelton said.

"Make the new farm program table talk in every farm home in Texas," is the suggestion to rural home makers made by Miss Mildred Horton, Vice Director and State Home Demonstration Agent of the Extension Service. Miss Horton pointed out that the program being established under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act is one in which every home maker is interested, and that developing details of the plan would be of interest to the whole family as they meet around the dining table three times a day.

The better cropping plans and land use systems to be instituted under the Act include consideration for the farm family's needs of food for themselves and feed for the farm work stock, Miss Horton stated.

"It is probably the first national agricultural plan offered in any country which makes such definite provision for the welfare of the family. "No payments will be made for soil building crops planted on any land retired from soil depleting crops where the soil depleting crops were food and feed crops unless applicants for the grants show that the crops done away with were in excess of the needs of the family.

"The provision that corn evenly interplanted with peas may be counted as 50% soil building and 50% soil depleting is also favorable to the plans of home makers to provide ample supplies of feed for the poultry and livestock which are a part of the food budget for the family," Miss Horton said.

ARTICLES TO BE SOLD FOR 'AUCTION MONEY' AT NEXT TRADES DAY BEING SHOWN

Growing Interest In Feature Reflected Through Larger Distribution Of Coupons; May 11 Is The Date

Mitchell county's second monthly "Auction Money" sale, to be staged on Monday, May 11, as feature of the trades day program, gives promise of attracting citizens to Colorado in larger number than during the April event, held a few days ago.

Distribution of the auction coupons is so universal as to find its way into practically every home from which business is brought to the local stores, "and they are calling for their 'auction money' earlier than before," one of the cooperating business men stated Saturday.

Merchandise to be sold at auction in exchange for the coupons is going on display in windows of the Levy building at East Second and Elm, Saturday several of the items, donated by business men, were collected. The windows are expected to be practically filled by Saturday of this week. Patrons of the cooperating stores are invited to visit the display and note the collection.

Seventh Graders Present Program As Culmination Of Texas Day Study Unit

As the culminating activity in a Texas Day unit which has featured their study for the past few weeks, a program was presented by seventh grade pupils in the Junior High school auditorium Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Preparation of the program by the children was directed by Juan P. Mason and Miss Lenora Cook, teachers respectively of social science and English on the Junior High school faculty.

Charles Nuckolls was program announcer. Sara Guitart was pianist. Placards and posters used in program numbers were made by Pauline Simpson and Lucille Dockrey.

An original poem, "Pioneers," by Miss Gladys Miller of the high school faculty was read by Inez Rogers as the program opened.

Having what was probably its first audition in Mitchell county, the song "Texas Over All" was sung by Billie Arnold, Emogene Morrison, Harry Etta Landers, Cora Mae Bodine, Bobby Lou Cooper, Doris Flo-Doss, Helen Franklin, Florene Watson, and Nina Catherine Quinney. It was written by Gib Gilchrist, state highway engineer and cousin of Mrs. R. L. McMurry of Colorado and was only copyrighted this year.

Parts in the sketch, "Texas On Parade," were taken by Bobby Lou Cooper, Louis Bodin, Earnest Porter, Evelyn Vowell, Ray Elliott, Ernestine Moore, Robert Kirschbaum, James Cox, Mildred Towery, Jo Nell Jones, Bobby Dockery, Billie Chaney, Claudia Compton, Thomas Aycock, Weldon Hunt, Helen Womack, Oscar D. Roberts, and Pauline Simpson.

Eighty-one visitors were registered, the 7-A division having the greatest number of guests to its credit.

Only those students finishing work early in the afternoon were used in presenting the program.

COLORADO BOY TAKES TOP PLACE IN JUDGING AT FFA DISTRICT LIVESTOCK SHOW

Bill Gale Is First In Junior Division; Calvin Jarnigan, James Pritchett And Louis Bassinger Other Winners

Bill Gale, Colorado vocational student, showed the grand champion calf under 800 pounds at Fourth Annual FFA livestock show at Sweetwater Monday. Gale was entered for competition against 70 FFA boys from Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties.

The calf entered by Gale won grand champion in junior division at the recent Mitchell county show, held in connection with the trades day program and was also first in that division.

The calf entered by Calvin Jarnigan, given grand champion ribbon at the Colorado show, won third in the class of over 800 pounds weight. In the under 800 pounds weight division James Pritchett of Colorado won third and Louis Bassinger, also a member of the local FFA chapter, fifth.

Grand champion calf of the show was entered by Leonard Eotan of Divide, Nolan county. Thomas Kinder, another student of that school exhibited the champion lamb and Bruce Kent, still another Divide boy, won first place in the hog arena.

Doyle Williams, director of the local chapter and who has devoted much attention to work with the boys in feeding out the calves, accompanied them to Sweetwater. R. M. Hill-hollin of San Angelo and formerly of the animal husbandry department at A & M. College, did the judging.

Payment of five cents per mile per calf was made exhibitors by the Sweetwater Board of City Development to cover cost of bringing the calves to the show.

ESSENTIALS FOR LOANS LISTED BY SUPERVISOR

Nine of the requisite essentials for which farmers of Mitchell county may obtain loans under the Resettlement Administration law are listed by the district supervisor, as follows:

The farmer may borrow for payment of taxes, necessary farm supplies, livestock, household needs, feed, seed, fertilizer, rent and food. Included in the household needs is medicine.

Loans are made by the Resettlement agency also for items community owned. For instance, the district supervisor said, if more than 50 per cent of a community want to buy a cultivator or a head of livestock for community use, the Resettlement Administration will lend the money to the group as a whole or to an individual and let the others be indebted to the single borrower. The item, however, must be for the community use.

Loans are made for periods of from two to five years, depending on the purpose for which the money is used. A borrower may be given five years to return money used to buy a horse while money borrowed to feed the horse would have to be repaid in two years. Five per cent annual interest is charged.

New High Record In Factory Output Attained By Norge

Plants Operating 24 Hours Daily To Meet Demand, Is Claim Of President

DETROIT.—Norge set several new all-time selling records in March with sales totaling 56,585 units; aggregate sales for refrigerators, washers, ranges and ironers being 64 per cent ahead for March and 81 per cent greater for the quarter than the corresponding period last year, according to Howard E. Blood, president Norge Division Borg-Warner Corporation, who reported the following: March increase compared with the like month of 1935: Refrigerators, 37 per cent; ranges, 994 per cent; washers, 159 per cent.

"Norge Detroit and Muskegon factories have been producing at capacity, working three shifts, 24 hours each day, since the first of the year," said Blood. "March refrigerator production totaled 37,700 units and washer production was up 64 per cent over March of last year.

"First quarter demand for all Norge products has exceeded expectations built up from our measurement of 1936 buying intent established by Norge nationwide consumer studies. March refrigerator sales beat the previous high record of May, 1934, by 4 per cent. Records were topped for washers also.

"We are in an era of home enrichment in which there is greater buying desire, more positive in nature, for home appliances of the Norge type which pay for themselves wholly or in part from the use-savings they create. Some part of our refrigerator sales increase for March has been caused by the recently announced ten-year Norge warranty on the famed Rollator compressing unit, a marathon test model of which has already been running the equivalent of 37 years of household use," Blood concluded.

Cars Should Have Special Attention Oil Official Notes

Magnolia 'Summerize' Plan Being Offered Texas Car Operators

DALLAS.—Drivers of the many new cars on the highways this spring are learning the importance of a semi-annual check-up for summer driving protection, it is indicated by the large number of new automobiles receiving "Summerize" service at Magnolia stations, Fred M. Lege, Jr., vice president in charge of marketing for the Magnolia Petroleum Company, reports.

"Summerize," the 7-point protective service provided by Magnolia stations and dealers, safeguards new cars, whose long life and economical operation will depend largely on the care given them during the first six months," Mr. Lege said. "This service for cars of any age prepares them for smooth, safe operation all summer and eliminates many expensive hot weather driving troubles."

"Certain simple precautions are necessary to put any automobile or truck in condition for safe and economical summer driving," Mr. Lege said. "Thinner, quick-flowing winter lubricants are not capable of resisting the high temperatures generated under summer heat in the crankcase, differential, transmission and other vital parts of a motor vehicle. Heavier lubricants are necessary to protect the motor in hot weather, and gasoline adjusted for summer use, as Mobilgas is, should also be employed for best results.

"Summerize" service includes seven distinct operations worked out by Magnolia automotive engineers as those most necessary to protect a motor vehicle against the high temperatures of summer driving," Mr. Lege said. "In addition to draining the crankcase of dirty, winter grade oil and refilling with summer Mobiloil, the transmission and differential are drained of winter lubricant, cleaned and refilled with Mobil Gear Oil for summer driving. A thorough grease job of Mobilubrication is performed according to manufacturer's charts and recommendations. The radiator is drained of anti-freeze solution and cleaned. The battery is checked and filled with distilled water, corrosion is removed and terminals are greased. The gasoline tank is filled with Mobilgas, which has been adjusted for summer driving."

A SALES TAX

This column writer is in favor of a sale or excess tax of 3 per cent and will write a series of articles on the why of a sales tax. It is the only way we can ever pay the old age pension and it will make everybody alike pay this tax.

Why does Texas need a sales tax? Because we want our 6,000,000 population to become tax conscious, thereby resulting in more economical government. Of these 6,000,000, we have approximately 3,000,000 persons who pay their direct ad valorem taxes, and 3,000,000 more who are deadheads.

These 3,000,000 deadheads enjoy the best of government. Most of them have cars, and when they pay the gasoline tax they think they have done their duty by the State.

The people voted for the Old Age Pension by a decisive majority. By that vote they said in unmistakable terms that they wanted the Legislature to provide for the payment of $15.00 a month to everybody over 65 years of age.

310,284 have become by age eligible for pensions. If we add 236,690 and one-half of the 310,000 or 155,000, we have 391,812 people, if living, would be eligible for the pension.

So the question is how are we going to pay this enormous sum? This continued and contemptible discussion of a little old measly million dollars to be derived from drinkers of high priced liquor is the most stupendous admission of ignorance.

Some in the Legislature want to pay this pension by a tax on natural resources, oil, gas and sulphur. Let me call their attention to the fact that natural resources are already paying over one-half of all taxes and besides there is an over-draft or deficiency note in the general revenue of some fifteen or twenty million dollars and it will take every dollar that any honest man would want to take away from the natural resources of the state to pay this debt.

MICHIGAN SALES TAX. Michigan has a sales tax and W. Goodrich Jones, a banker and financier of Waco submits this letter: There was published recently in the papers report of a discourse by Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan, wherein he stated that Michigan had got out of the red and was now on a cash basis.

"The Michigan 3 per cent sales tax has been of much benefit to the State. When the real estate delinquent tax was mounting fast and such tax did not provide the revenue necessary for the operation of State Government, the sales tax not only raised such revenue when needed, but additional millions to match the Federal grant for welfare and still further millions for the State colleges and schools. It has entirely replaced the State real estate tax and without it many schools no doubt would not have been able to keep open for the full year.

"The sales tax is today supplying approximately 60 per cent of the general funds from which appropriations are made for schools, colleges, vocational institutions, welfare, old-age pensions, medical treatment for adults and children and various other State institutions. While it has its drawbacks, our sales tax is by far the best distribution of tax yet tried here. Merchants' organizations have agreed on the bracket system for the collection of the tax from the public and the one most generally used is as follows: Less than 17c no tax, 17c to 49c 1c tax, 50c to 83c 2c tax, 83c to $1.16 3c tax.

thousand persons, and which debt will run into many millions of dollars per annum. We believe that a majority of the citizens of this State see no way out of this financial tangle but in the sales tax, which is fair and just and inexpensively collected and takes in everybody, especially that very large number of persons who are not now paying any direct ad valorem taxes and yet enjoy good government to the fullest extent.

The principles of Old Age Insurance is sound in principle, so realizing, the people voted this pension not as a matter of charity but as a matter of humanity and civilization of which we have so long boasted.

Great as Sam Houston was in his own time, he probably wouldn't get to first base in a political run around today. He would be called a reactionary, a horse-and-buggy democrat, maybe a secret agent of capitalism.

Happy days are here again, but we might be happier with a little more rain. F. B. W.

Stewart-Warner Refrigerator Has Leading Features

Colorado Drug Offering This Popular Home Equipment In Colorado Territory

In 1926 the management of Stewart-Warner Corporation began to give serious consideration to possibilities offered in the electric refrigeration field, and experimenting was conducted in our laboratories from that time until late in 1931.

The rugged, precision-built, Slo-Cycle Stewart-Warner Twin cylinder compressor first brought out early in 1934, almost overnight won the admiration and support of hundreds of dealers and thousands of retail salesmen—as well as the dignified respect of competition.

Why? Because it was soon discovered that this was a "money-maker" compressor; that first profits were not wiped out by a lot of subsequent service calls! Further, independently conducted competitive test proved that it was more economical in operation than any other refrigerator on the market.

The whole 1936 Stewart-Warner refrigerator line with the exception of the 4 1/2 cu. ft. job is designed around the new "old and trusted friend"—the Slo-Cycle Twin-cylinder Compressor. A competent, proven, single-cylinder unit of a similar design is used in the 4 1/2 cu. ft. model.

Outstanding convenience features have been incorporated in Stewart-Warner refrigerators prior to this year, but the new 1936 line far outshines anything of this type that Stewart-Warner has had previously. Here is a partial listing of the features in the new box now on display at the Colorado Drug Co., Sav-A-Step, Slid-A-Tray, Tilt-A-Shelf, lighted airplane type, cold control dial, Summer-Winter economy range, No-Tip diamond grid shelving, Jumbo vegetable freshener, Jumbo sliding fruit basket, Kontanerette (4 piece glass set on revolving base), baked dulux exterior.

Mahon's Fame Is Spreading, States Sweetwater Daily

Reporter Suggests His City Entitled To Some Claim In Colorado Congressman

Editor Millard Cope of the Sweetwater Daily Reporter offers the following comment in his newspaper on George Mahon. A picture of the Coloradan is carried along with the news story:

"Rep. George Mahon of Colorado on whom Sweetwater residents like to feel they have some claim in that before going to congress he was district attorney of the 32nd judicial district of which Sweetwater is the principal city, is making a name for himself as a speaker in Washington. He is one of the youngest members of the House.

"Though his remarks in the House rarely are extended, and he has taken part in but few debates, it has become known that he is a speaker of ability.

"As a matter of fact, Mr. Mahon is known throughout West Texas as a brilliant orator. He added to this reputation while serving as district attorney.

"Almost at the end of his first term in congress, Mr. Mahon had started campaigning actively for the New Deal.

"His first public out-of-Washington address was recently at a Democratic rally at Danville, Va.

"Mr. Mahon was asked to fill the engagement by the Democratic National Committee, indicating that he might be asked to lend additional aid as the campaign swings into full force."

Oldsmobile Sales To Highest Figure Noted In History

Factory Output Stepped Up Twenty Percent To Supply Demand For Cars

Oldsmobile retail sales in March were greater than for any month in the long history of the company.

Oldsmobile production scheduled for April is the highest ever set up by the company.

Retail sales in the last 10 days of March were 26 per cent greater than Oldsmobile's best previous 10 day period.

More than twice as many Oldsmobiles were sold at retail in March as in February.

These were the statements today of D. E. Ralston, Oldsmobile vice president and general sales manager.

"Oldsmobile dealers delivered 11.5 per cent more cars in March than in April of last year, the record month up to this time. March retail sales were 19 per cent above those of the same month in 1935.

"Sales for the first quarter set a new all time high, being 21 per cent greater than those of the first three months of 1935, the previous record.

"Because of the tremendous and growing demand for Oldsmobiles, the production schedule for this month has been stepped up 20 per cent over that of a year ago, when the month's output set a new high for Oldsmobile.

"Since the introduction of the new 1936 cars we had built 107,733 up to the end of March. Production for the first quarter was 11 per cent greater than that of the comparable period in 1935.

"Reports from the field reveal that with the opening up of the weather the sales record made in March is very likely to fall before this month is over.

"Public acceptance of Oldsmobile begins to out-pace production that again this year Oldsmobile will continue to advance and will break the records set in 1935, thus setting new all time highs in both production and sales.

THEATRE NEWS

BY SHERMAN HART "SOAK THE RICH"
Thursday—April 23
General suitability of this Hecht-MacArthur original depends on how much your audience likes satire of the ultra-modern school. It pokes fun, in a good-natured way, at activities of college radicals, the over-rich, and brings in a large chunk of political haterie—all on a high-brow scale. Millionaire Walter Connolly's spoiled daughter, Mary Taylor, runs up with a group of rioting students in her father's own college, becomes enamored with the leader, John Howard, and leaves a trail of grief behind her. Her love affair with Howard, a kidnapping by a lunatic and subsequent rescue by G-Men, and her efforts to be free of an engagement to a ne'er-do-well, comprise the brief and erratic action of the film, which goes somewhat overboard on conversation.
Players are Walter Connolly, John Howard, Mary Taylor, Ilka Chase, Percy Kilbride, Alice Duer Miller, Lionel Stander.

"FOLLOW THE FLEET"
Palace—Saturday Midnite, April 25 Sunday—Monday—April 26 and 27
A naval broadside of mirth and melody, loaded with smash entertainment aimed directly at the box office for a sure-fire hit. Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers sail to a new high on a frothy sea of fun and frolic. Yarn deals with Astaire and Randolph Scott, shipmates, romancing Ginger Rogers and Harriet Hilliard. Boys check out with the fleet and plenty of fun takes place on board, but it gets funnier when the boys land again to continue romancing. Complications follow with the lovers far and against until everything is eventually straightened out. Good photography and a number of fifty tunes from Irving Berlin, plus top-notch dancing of Rogers and Astaire. Directed by Mark Sandrich.
Players are Fred Astaire, Ginger Rogers, Randolph Scott, Harriet Hilliard, Astrid Allwyn, Betty Grable, Betty Berberford, Russell Hicks.

A Sol Lesser production with George O'Brien out of chaps and into overalls as a railroad. Swell combination of action and comedy. Yarn deals with the son of a railroad president, anxious to make good on his own. Starting with a small railroad, he falls in love with the girl operator; saves her from the hands of sharks who would buy her line for peanuts because it lends to property loaded with valuable ore which cannot be hauled out over any other line; beats his father to the deal; eventually makes good in a big way, and wins the girl as a business associate and bride. Exceptional scenic background and production value and some excellent comedy situations. It moves at a fast pace and should entertain in any spot. Directed by David Howard.
Players are George O'Brien, Irene Ware, Kenneth Thompson, Mando Allen, Spencer Charters, Vic Patel, Edward Keane, Frank Sheridan.

"MELODY LINGERS ON"
Ritz—Sunday-Monday, April 26, 27
This production will win its chief distinction because of the inspired artistry of Josephine Hutchinson, whose fine restraint lends complete conviction in many tense, poignant scenes which might easily have been ruined through over-emphasis. George Houston, a recent screen find, has a fine voice, and shows promise. The story: Hutchinson, a young pianist, studying in Milan, falls in love with Houston, famous Italian operatic star, a captain in the World War. On the night of their declaration of love, with their marriage planned for the morning, the German lines are advanced and Houston is killed, leaving Hutchinson an expectant mother. The child, left at a convent, is adopted. Later, his mother, now famous, finds him, heroically conceals their relationship and aids him to become a famous singer. David Burton directed.
The players: Josephine Hutchinson, George Houston, Helen Westley.

P. O. BUILDING IS KEPT SPICK AND SPAN UNDER CARE OF TWO JANITORS

The postoffice building is being kept spick and span under strict departmental regulations and through continued attention to duty upon the part of Alex Free, fireman janitor, and W. H. Goodrich, chairman.
"I just want to take you through the building and let you see for yourself," Postmaster J. Y. Fraser bawled Saturday after telling a reporter how well the janitors were doing their jobs. And it was as the postmaster had said. There were no evidences of dust, grease or other foreign matter to be found.
Down in the boiler room one could brush the walls, boiler and other surfaces with white gloves on and not find one single trace of stain. In the store rooms, men's lounge and throughout the building a similar condition was very much in evidence.

Loraine Business Leaders Smiling After Rain Falls

Merchants There Looking To Another Good Season, The Record Is Informed

Business men at Loraine Saturday were giving expression to the popular belief that another year of progress was ahead for Mitchell countians, the optimistic outlook having been brightened by the recent rains. A representative of The Record spent some time in Loraine visiting the merchants and citizens of that territory who were crowding the stores.
"Business with us is good and certainly the outlook is encouraging," was statement coming from manager of Thornhill's, one of the larger stores there. Grocers, druggists and other merchants were found to be in similar mood.
Farmers seen on the street reported rain from one half to one inch. The fields are in condition for Spring planting.
As to the religious realm, Rev. Ham Wright of the Methodist church announced that Loraine was not lacking in this most important duty. Wright, for several years outstanding in the field of journalism, took the visitor in charge and pointed out a number of factors that were calculated to indicate good times in that town and section.

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Theford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. . . . Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Theford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

[QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING]

"What is the best measure of a Bank's strength?"

The strength of a bank may be judged by the following 3-ply yardstick:—

1. The known honesty and skill of its management in making sound, useful loans and investments.
2. Its reputation and standing in the community, particularly in the confidence it has built among its depositors.
3. The adequacy of its capital, surplus and reserves.

To those who understand figures, bank statements when compared with those of preceding years, are a good standard of measurement. But most individuals judge a bank by its good name among people they know, by the friends as well as by the loans it makes, by its record for economical methods as well as services rendered, by sufficient earnings to build up reserves as well as pay dividends, and by its usefulness to the community.

By these tests this bank is willing to be judged. We believe our record merits the confidence and respect of this community.

18 and 65 No Perfect Crime A Heavenly 400 Fighting Over Rivers

Arthur Brisbane

President Roosevelt in another opening speech of the 1936 campaign, addressing 20,000 Young Democrats of Baltimore and the nation on the radio, suggested that youth should begin work at eighteen and "old age" stop work at sixty-five.

In the murder of an unfortunate young woman, New York detectives think they see, at last, "the perfect crime," one in which the perpetrator cannot be identified.

Fortunately, there is no perfect crime except in the imagination of the criminal or the detective story writer, because criminals are dull, cannot keep their mouths shut, are vain, boast and the electric chair gets them. Also, they jump when a hand is laid on the shoulder; that helps detectives, and criminals are betrayed by fellow criminals.

Bishop Stewart, Episcopalian, of Chicago, thinks immortality may be limited. "Only those who have a definite relationship to God through the spiritual life may be eligible for immortality, and other souls cease to exist upon death."

This important suggestion of a celestial "four hundred" will appeal to many that might not care to meet, in heaven, the cave man with low forehead, protruding jaw, the bushman with a vocabulary of 150 words, or all the repentant thieves, murderers and trust magistrates.

It is conceivable that selection of the celestial few might be postponed a few million years, until real civilization shall have begun. This is the poison gas age.

Rivers have played an important part in the world's history and in wars. The Tigris and Euphrates, creating fertile Mesopotamia, and the Nile, with its rich valley, regularly contended with Nile mud, made the first civilizations possible.

Men fought through the ages about those two rivers, and today rivers still cause wars. In Europe the Rhine border may cause a repetition of the big war. In Africa, the Blue Nile, fed by Ethiopia's Lake Tana, breeds bitter hatred between England and Italy.

An African savage who gave all his ivory tusks for a gun was found later in the bush, on his knees, praying to the gun not to shoot him. He did not know how to use it.

This country is equally ignorant about using youth and its enthusiasm.

A Frenchman says truly "American digestion would improve if Americans made more and better sausages."

Voltaire, another Frenchman, said the same thing of England long ago. He found that England had many religions and only one sauce, whereas France had many sauces and only one religion, and he preferred France.

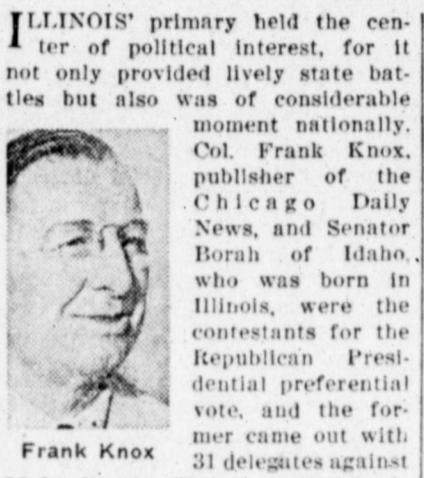

The new Zeppelin, in spite of engines out of order on her return from Brazil to Germany, kept on her way at 60 miles an hour, fighting winds over the Mediterranean. That is one advantage of a dirigible—she stays up. The heavier-than-air plane with engine trouble comes down.

Illinois Primary Results Interesting and Significant—New Tax Bill Drafted—President Roosevelt Favors Flood Control Projects.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

Frank Knox

ILLINOIS' primary held the center of political interest, for it not only provided lively state battles but also was of considerable moment nationally. Col. Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, and Senator Borah of Idaho, who was born in Illinois, were the contestants for the Republican Presidential preferential vote, and the former came out with 31 delegates against 25 for Borah. The senator's friends were elated, because, without organization, he carried a large part of the state outside of Chicago. This preferential vote is purely advisory and neither man has a slate of delegates to the national convention. The result makes it certain that Knox will make a respectable showing on the first roll call. It also adds to Borah's prestige and aids him in the coming Ohio primary.

Gov. Henry Horner, seeking renomination, was victorious in the bitter fight with the regular Democratic organization and the Kelly-Nash machine in Chicago, which had thrown him overboard and supported Bundesen for governor. The Democrats almost unanimously voted for the renomination of Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and the Republicans named former Senator Otis Glenn to oppose him in November.

Republican leaders in Washington were encouraged to believe the internecine warfare in the Democratic ranks would help the Republicans to carry the state. The Democratic sages, on the other hand, liked the showing of strength made by Borah, feeling his liberal following might switch to Roosevelt in November if the G. O. P. puts up a conservative candidate.

In Nebraska's primary only Borah's name was printed on the Republican preferential ballot, but about one-sixth of the voters wrote in the name of Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas.

For the Democratic preference President Roosevelt was unopposed in both Illinois and Nebraska.

DEFEATING the opposition by President Roosevelt's supporters, the state Democratic executive committee of Georgia ordered a Presidential preferential primary on June 3 and fixed the entrance fee for each candidate at $10,000.

"The New Deal has plenty of money to pay for a primary in Georgia, and I am in favor of letting them do it," said Will Mann, close personal and political friend of Gov. Eugene Talmadge, administration foe.

HAVING discarded the President's suggestion of temporary processing taxes, Chairman Sam B. Hill's house subcommittee completed its draft of the new tax bill. It calls for a new type of corporation levy, ranging from 1 per cent for corporations with net income up to $10,000, and from 4 to 42 1/2 per cent for corporations with net income over $10,000, depending on the amount of earnings that are not distributed. Preferential tax treatment is given to banks and insurance companies, to debt-ridden companies, to companies in receivership, and a new system of taxing non-resident aliens is created.

Railroads will continue to have the right to file consolidated returns but the committee refused to accept the petition of R. V. Fletcher, general counsel for the Association of American Railroads, that railroads as a segregated group of industry, be given a variety of special deductions in computing taxable net income.

IN HIS press conference President Roosevelt said government departments are concentrating on flood control problems and that if congress would pass a bill appropriating a billion dollars for that purpose he would sign it, provided the measure put men to work immediately.

Mr. Roosevelt said the Passamaquoddy project in Maine and Florida ship canal were eliminated because of the recent refusal of congress to make appropriations for continuance of the work. He said he did not contemplate doing out relief funds for the projects and that there would be no funds for the projects unless congress reversed its refusal.

On the same day the United States Chamber of Commerce issued a warning against encroachment of the federal government on flood control projects which are the primary responsibility of the states.

The committee also objected to the New Deal policy of expending large sums for dams to develop hydro-electric power and declared that the administration should follow a well-balanced program having as its foremost purpose the control of floods.

BY A vote of 153 to 137 the house rejected a resolution to permit Senator Black's lobby committee to pay $10,000 to special counsel in injunction litigation started by William Randolph Hearst to protect his telegrams from the press.

This action, which followed a bitter debate, doesn't halt the work of the committee, which has its own funds, but it prevents the payment of more than $3,000 a year, in accordance with general law, to Crampton Harris of Birmingham, Ala., former law partner of Chairman Black.

The lobby committee in a recent session brought out the fact that some wealthy men who are backers of the American Liberty league also have contributed to the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, though what this has to do with lobbying was not quite clear.

The Southern committee, which is headed by John Henry Kirby of Houston, Texas, is opposed to some of the New Deal doings.

SUDDEN death, due to a coronary thrombosis, came to James M. Beck at his residence in Washington, and all informed Americans mourn the demise of this public spirited citizen and eminent authority on constitutional law.

Though he was a sturdy and conscientious opponent of the present national administration, leading officials in Washington united with the Republicans in declaring that in his death the nation had sustained a great loss.

Mr. Beck was not only one of the foremost lawyers of America but for more than three decades was a public man of distinction, holding numerous offices at Washington, and an influential place in the councils of the Republican party. Born in Philadelphia in 1861, he first held office as United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania, as a Democrat. He left that party on the silver issue and was made an assistant attorney general by President McKinley.

Richard Yates, former governor of Illinois and former congressman, died in Springfield at the age of seventy-five years. The son of the Civil war governor of the state, Mr. Yates was for many years a picturesque figure in Illinois politics and an influential member of the Republican party.

MUSSOLINI'S armies in Ethiopia occupied Dessye, an important military base, and captured vast stores of war materials. Marshal Badoglio at once started an expeditionary force along the excellent road from there to Addis Ababa, and it was believed the capital city would be captured within a few days.

Stiffened by military successes in Africa, the Italian delegation went to Geneva for peace conversations, prepared to demand a peace on Italy's terms, including virtual Italian control of the entire empire of Haile Selassie. Settlement of the matter within the framework of the League of Nations seemed remote if not impossible.

WITH appropriate ceremony the cornerstone of the new interior department building in Washington was laid, the President handling the trowel. The structure, the second largest government office building there, is to be completed in December. It covers five and one-half acres and will provide 700,000 square feet of usable floor space. It will cost $12,000,000, about $5,000,000 less than the capital's largest, the Commerce department building.

The trowel used by Mr. Roosevelt was the one employed by George Washington in laying the cornerstone of the Capitol in 1793.

ABOUT six hundred men and women, members of the recently organized Unemployed Workers' Alliance, staged a big parade of "hunger marchers" in Washington, shouting demands, singing and waving banners. They sought to present a petition to President Roosevelt in the White House but the best they could do was to obtain an audience from Secretary Marvin McIntyre for a delegation headed by David Lasser, president of the alliance.

Lasser declared after spending 30 minutes with the President's secretary: "Mr. McIntyre gave us a lot of nice words, but nothing substantial. If nothing is done to give these people jobs there will be a hunger march on Washington next summer in which hundreds of thousands will take part. We are tired of Mr. Roosevelt's promissory notes."

Lasser and his delegation also called on Vice President Garner at the Capitol and got even less satisfaction from him.

"The jobless feel that we have been sold out by the Democratic party," Lasser declared, in presenting his petition.

"I resent that," snapped the Vice President, retreating. "I have been in politics for 40 years and I don't think anybody has ever been sold out by the party."

PLUTARCO ELIAS CALLES, former president of Mexico and for long the most powerful figure in that republic, was forcibly exiled to the United States, together with three other once prominent citizens, by the Mexican government, which declared their presence there was dangerous to the welfare of the country.

Summarily ousted with Calles, who for 11 years ruled Mexico with an iron hand, were Luis Morales, former minister of labor and leader of the regional confederation of workers and peasants; Luis de Leon, former minister of the interior and agriculture; and Rafael Melchor Ortega, former governor of Guanajuato.

The four men were, by order of President Cardenas, placed aboard a plane at Mexico City and taken across the border to Brownsville.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, attended Easter services at St. Thomas Episcopal church, after the First Lady had witnessed the Knights Templar sunrise service at the Arlington amphitheater. Next day the President went to Baltimore where he addressed the Maryland Young Democratic clubs.

Mr. Roosevelt accepted an invitation to speak before the annual convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution which opens in Washington April 20. He also will deliver an address on April 25 at the Jefferson banquet of the National Democratic club in New York.

FOLLOWING a conference with Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, who was removed from command of the Eighth corps area for criticizing WPA methods, President Roosevelt took the soldier back into his good graces and appointed him to the command of the Sixth corps area with headquarters in Chicago. He will replace Maj. Gen. Frank McCoy and the assignment takes effect May 2. General McCoy is transferred to the Second corps area at New York to succeed Maj. Gen. Dennis E. Nolan, who is retiring.

SOMETHING new in Spanish history took place in Madrid, the parliament, by a vote of 238 to 5, ousted Niceto Alcalá Zamora from the office of president of the republic. This action, accomplished by a coalition of Socialists, Communists, Left Republicans and ten minor groups, was taken on a Socialist motion that the president had acted illegally in dissolving the last parliament before the elections and that therefore he should be expelled from office.

Diego Martinez Barrio, speaker of parliament, was made temporary president to serve until elections are held.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington.—It has been several months since the administration farm relief program, the agricultural adjustment act, was declared dead, but like the words of the song, "the memory lingers on." And it is quite apparent that mistakes as well as memories of the AAA will continue through the heat of the coming Presidential campaign and probably considerably longer, for it is only necessary to recall that the stepbrother of the AAA, the federal farm board of the Hoover administration, still is the butt of much criticism and many pointed paragraphs.

One of the main reasons why the memories linger on, where those memories involve AAA, is Michigan's Republican Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg. Senator Vandenberg never did get enthusiastic about the merits of AAA as they were expounded by Secretary Wallace, Administrator Chester Davis and other New Deal spokesmen, and when the Supreme court of the United States threw out the processing taxes upon which the law was predicated, Senator Vandenberg was in a delightful spot from a political standpoint. He has not found it necessary to say "I told you so" and has had, I imagine, a great deal of personal fun in simply hinting to or reminding others of his previous stand.

But it was not until the Michigan senator began pulling figures out of his senatorial hat, showing how benefit payments from the AAA had gone to great and wealthy corporations in sums as high as a million dollars or more, that he held a key to the New Deal skeleton closet. They know now, however, exactly what he meant when he announced in the senate several weeks ago that no such plan as the AAA could be administered without vast sums being distributed in what he termed unwarranted payments—unwarranted from the standpoint of help for the smaller farmer.

Secretary Wallace stalled off Senator Vandenberg's demand in the senate for a complete list of beneficiaries who received checks from AAA in excess of one thousand dollars for quite a while, but there were too many senators who believed as Senator Vandenberg did, that the truth ought to be known. Of course, as the procedure usually goes in Washington, many things are done without actual force being used. It was thus in the case of the AAA payments. Democratic senators who foresaw their inability to prevent a senate vote demanding a list of AAA payments persuaded Mr. Wallace to make public the list voluntarily and it was done just in advance of senate action. So, we now have for the first time, at least, an indication of the grotesque results of the agricultural adjustment administration program that was hailed from the Atlantic to the Pacific as an ideal plan.

The dynamite in the situation lies in the fact that there were dozens, even hundreds, of corporations which received AAA checks among the big bounties paid to induce curtailment of basic forage crops. This would not be so bad except for the fact that the brilliant planners of the AAA continuously stressed its value to the small, debt ridden farmer. Throughout the time the law was under consideration and through the two years of its operation, never did Mr. Wallace or Mr. Davis fail to point out in their numerous speeches how great sums of money, collected in processing taxes, were being distributed to thousands of farmers and that these payments were in time going to put agriculture on its collective feet.

Now, however, the truth of their statement has been proved, but when the whole truth has been exposed on the floor of the senate, it was found to go far beyond the small, debt ridden farmers.

The whole truth disclosed, in fact, that several million dollars had been paid even to corporations chartered by the British government and with home offices in England. Wall Street, that home of "entrenched greed," received its share, and its share was substantial. On top of all of this there lately has come a disclosure that a great wheat farmer in Montana received something like $50,000 for agreeing not to plant wheat on land which he had rented from the Indians through the Federal Department of the Interior for the specific purpose of raising wheat.

The list of huge benefit payments is much too large to include in this letter, but the fact remains that it showed how even the best laid plans of mice and men aft go astray, even when those men are brilliant brain trusters who themselves claim to know all there is available for human understanding. Beyond that, the Vandenberg disclosures have set in motion discussion that will come pretty close to continuing into every farmhouse in the land. Unless I miss my guess, and I am no Doctor Twiggell, thousands of farmers are going to bitterly resent the fact that their payments were small, whereas gigantic corporations received sums ranging from ten to a thousand times as large.

In behalf of the AAA officials, it must be said that there will be as, indeed there has been already, considerable unfair criticism. The criticism to which I refer is of this type: that they should have discovered in advance of the payments that funds were going to these corporations. Assuming that they could have discovered that fact in advance, there was no alternative for them except to pay the checks authorized by law. Congress made the law, or rather, congress passed it under the lash of the administration, but it was on the statute books and administrative officials are not supposed to disregard such provisions.

If there is to be criticism it should be directed at the initial framing of the statute that brought about the condition. The results that have attracted so much attention since Senator Vandenberg's exposure constitute one of the curious coincidences and queer quirks of planned economy.

And a further word about the criticism. A great many people are likely to forget that while their check was in three figures and some corporation received one in six figures, the condition results wholly from the fact that one owned more land than the other. You may properly say this should have been foreseen and I believe you will be making a correct statement. But surely this is a fact: the AAA officials cannot be blamed for sending out the checks when the law said they should do it regardless of the name or nature of the beneficiary. The fault lies solely and completely with those who, from their professional desks, conceived the whole scheme and gained President Roosevelt's approval of it.

Out here they've found a mill-order theological mill which, for $10, ordains you to preach, christen, marry, bury, and—oh, goodie—take up collections. Mickey Mouse lately lost his commission as a Kentucky colonel, but on behalf of Joe Penner's duck somebody wrote in and he became the Rev. Drake Googoo, D. D. Thus are heroes balanced in this world.

Recently, when the present bumper crop of Kentucky colonels was plowed under, we natives stayed calm. Nobody takes away our titles—we were born with 'em. In my youth, anybody good at guessing the weight of hogs was called "Judge," and a man who cured warts with stump water was "Doctor," and all the rest of us automatically were colonels, except one chap who was a major on account of having so many major operations. Poor fellow, he died before he attained his life's ambition. He wanted to run a general store and be a general.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—Maybe the English have the right idea. The Reds spout as they please—so long as they stay off the radio and take it out in spouting.

There's a story in point: In Hyde Park where the crackpots and clack-jaws speak their pieces, an impassioned radical is in full eruption. Being a hater of kings, he would drive the royal family forth and set fire to their official London residence. A heckler quarrels with the orator; the crowd joins in, about equally divided, trouble impends. A large calm policeman plows through the jam.

"Ere, now!" he commands. "All them as is going to burn down Buckingham palace form on this side, please. All them as is not going to burn down Buckingham palace kindly form on that side."

When you start people laughing at an agitator you've killed him colder than though you used an ax. I wish we'd club in and laugh some of our half-baked Communists to death. But for desperate cases we might keep an ax or two handy.

Rise of Landon Boom

AS ONE state delegation after another swings toward Landon, his campaign managers are as optimistic as a seed catalogue. To be sure, taking the first heat doesn't necessarily mean your nag will win the county trophies, but it certainly does cheer up the stable-hands—and sometimes starts a stampede for front seats in the grandstand.

For once in G. O. P. history the rank and file shun a brother from the Atlantic seaboard as though he were a pesthouse.

At the ensuing convention it looks as though all the easterners will get will be the seconding-the-motion concession.

And yet I can remember when, if you called a fellow a Wall Street Republican, you didn't have to smile as you said it.

War Debt Specters

FIVE and a half million European troops are drilling and seven million more are practically ready for service, more by one million and a half than there were in 1914, when the last big mess broke out.

Those Americans who are being grievously taxed because the powers won't pay back what they have owed us since the armistice for refinancing and rehabilitating their own lands—and that, one way or another, includes every living soul in this country—are invited to save up these statistics for use next time they meet one of those gentle souls who'd cancel those mounting foreign debts. Not war debts, mind you, but peace-time debts.

Idlers on Relief

AT LAST we know wherein the League of Nations really functions. It keeps a good set of statistics. It says that in the world are 24,000,000 unemployed, and of this total more than half are in the United States. Since we are spending more government funds to aid the idle than any other country, can it be there are persons among us who prefer staying on relief projects to taking regular jobs?

Next time I pass a public works undertaking I'm going to put the question to some able-bodied party who, if he's following the frequent custom, will be whiling away the hours between meals by gently fanning himself with a shovel.

Historic Williamsburg Rises Anew

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON RECENTLY press dispatches chronicled the news that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., who has already spent $14,000,000 for the restoration of Williamsburg, Va., to its original appearance as a Colonial American town, had made another magnificent contribution toward its becoming a living museum of the glamorous past. This time it was not a gift of money. Instead it was something more priceless he had presented to Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., one of the organizations directing the restoration, a collection of 10,434 manuscripts, comprising one of the largest and most important sources of colonial military history, the like of which could not be duplicated anywhere in the world.

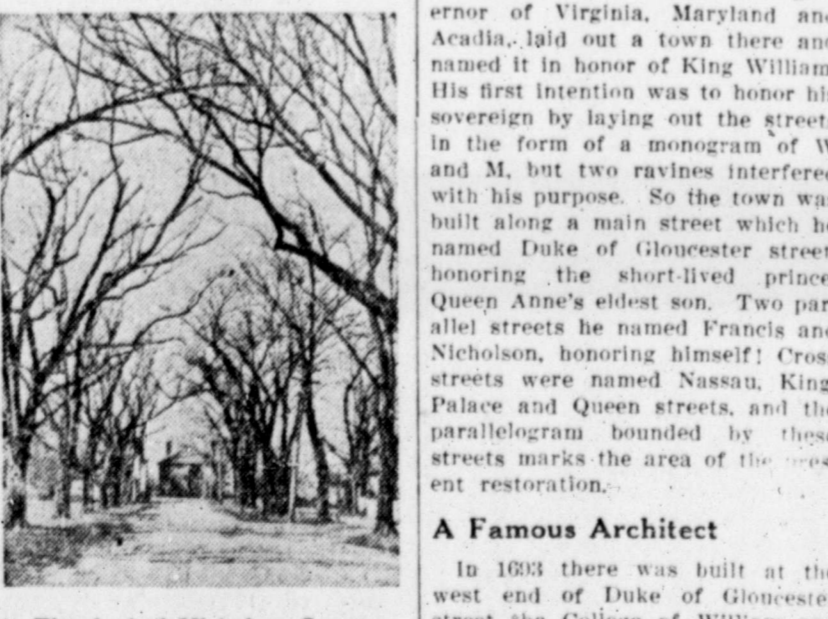

This drawing, made from an ancient French map, shows how the city of Williamsburg will look when the restoration is complete.

Interior of the Restored Raleigh Tavern.

The collection, known as the British Headquarters Papers, came to Mr. Rockefeller's attention nearly six years ago after it had been bought in England by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the famous collector. At that time the restoration of the Colonial capital of Virginia was in its early stages, and Mr. Rockefeller's purchase of the collection was made with this work in mind. It will augment the historical resources of the restoration and will also mark a further step in the plan to make Williamsburg a center and repository of Colonial American historical records, works of art and other collections identified with this period. The collection comprises the records of the British headquarters during the entire Revolutionary war. The earlier years of this period are represented by official copies of documents of Gen. Thomas Gage, Sir William Howe and Sir Henry Clinton, successively commanders in chief. The body of original papers falls in the years from 1779 to the evacuation of New York in November, 1783.

There are a great many military reports of Gen. George Washington written by his aides and signed by him in regard to exchange of prisoners and other matters, including the capture of Maj. John Andre as a British spy. The War Ends! George Washington's letter of April 21, 1783, addressed to Governor Clinton, a mistake for Sir Guy Carleton, one of the British commanders, notes the cessation of hostilities and provided for the release of prisoners. The letter is noteworthy for its courtesy of expression. An excerpt follows: "Respecting the other subjects contained in the enclosed resolution of Congress, as they may be discussed with more precision and dispatch by a personal conference than by writing, I have to propose a personal interview between Your Excellency and myself at some convenient time and intermediate place such as may be agreed upon by Your Excellency. . . . I would only suggest that in point of time the earliest date that Your Ex-memory is a land without a hope" was to offer the money for the restoration and to give Doctor Goodwin a free hand in bringing it about. As a result, over an area of something like a mile square, all that is new has been, or is being, removed and all that is old put back as nearly as possible as it was more than a century and a half ago. More than 440 modern buildings have been razed, 67 old ones restored and 87 rebuilt on old foundations.

A Famous Architect

In 1633 there was built at the west end of Duke of Gloucester street the College of William and Mary which was chartered by the joint sovereigns of England after whom it was named. At that time a building designed by the famous Sir Christopher Wren was already standing, as was the Bruton Parish church. In 1699 the government of the colony of Virginia was moved from Jamestown to Williamsburg and the day of Williamsburg's glory began.

tion resulted in the house of burgesses being officially dissolved. Then the legislators went down the street to the Apollo room in the Raleigh Tavern.

Besides the capitol and the college, the most important building in Colonial times was the governor's palace which stood at the head of the "Palace Green," a broad avenue running north from Duke to Gloucester street. It was begun in 1705 and completed during the governorship of Col. Alexander Spotswood, founder of the romantic "Order of the Golden Horseshoe." About 1751 it was reconstructed on a more spacious scale. This was during the governorship of Robert Dinwiddie—the Dinwiddie who sent a certain young Maj. George Washington on the mission to the French on the Ohio river which led to his taking part in the Braddock tragedy and the Fort Mifflin adventure.

The next occupant of the palace after Dinwiddie was Francis Fauquier of whom Thomas Jefferson, then a young student at the college, was a prime favorite, not only with the governor but with the belles of Williamsburg as well. Another participant in the gay social festivities at the palace was George Washington, who took his bride, Martha Dandridge Custis, on a honeymoon trip to Williamsburg.

Washington also dined there with Lord Dunmore, the last British governor of Virginia, before the break came between the colonies and the mother country. When that break came "My Lord Dunmore" collected his men, went to the Powder Horn (built by Colonel Spotswood in the Market square and still standing), took the colony's supply of powder and muskets and silently stole on board ship under cover of night.

Whereupon a certain Patrick Henry led a party of militia from Hanover, King William, New Kent and Charles City counties to demand the arms back again. He didn't get them, but he did force from the governor a payment of 320 pounds for the munitions, which he took with him to Philadelphia later and deposited in the treasury of the Continental congress. And after Dunmore had finally fled the colony it was Patrick Henry who occupied the palace as governor.

"Hair Buyer" a Prisoner To him in 1778 came another young Virginian, George Rogers Clark, to lay before him his daring scheme for conquering the vast region of the Old Northwest. History has recorded how well Clark succeeded but it is not so well known that his vanquished enemy, Gov. Henry Hamilton, the "Hair Buyer General of Detroit," after the surrender at Vincennes, was sent to Williamsburg as a prisoner of war and was confined in the old jail there which still stands, having done its duty as a prison for more than 200 years.

In this prison, too, had been confined some of the associates of the notorious pirate, Blqck Beard, who were executed in 1718. Incidentally these pirates were contributors (unwillingly probably) to the cause of higher learning, for on the account books of the College of William and Mary stands the fact that 300 pounds of the original subscriptions for founding the college are credited to "certain pirates."

One of the famous buildings of Williamsburg, which already has been restored, is the Raleigh Tavern. The "ordinary" in this tavern was operated in Colonial times by Henry Wetherburn, whose wares were so favorably known that William Randolph sold 200 acres of land to Thomas Jefferson's father for "Hen-

Prehistoric Bones Found in Southern California

Bits of bone have furnished scientists with evidence that man may have roamed southern California in the glacial epoch—nearly 25,000 years ago. Prehistoric remains of an imperial elephant, largest of all land mammals, and what appeared to be a human being were unearthed by WPA workers, digging 12 feet below the surface of the Slouson avenue drain, Los Angeles. In a closely assembled group were fragments of tusks, two teeth, and parts of a large vertebra. Near by were smaller bones, including a skull.

CHAPTER VII

THEY were a curious inert little group for a minute or two after the revelation.

It was like a play, Barry thought; curtain down on a climax, and the actors relaxing until it should rise again for the next scene.

After a time, Barry crossed the room to the pair.

Pat turned on him.

"Well, now you know," she said. "You know about us, but remember we know about you, too."

She was herself again; hard and defiant.

Ignoring her, for the moment, Barry asked the Judge, "Do you want to tell me what happened?"

"I wrote my opinion in the Jefferson street proceedings, and then, again as you say, I couldn't go through with it. I'd never done a crooked thing in my life. I don't know how I ever made that speech at the Astor. The instant it was finished, I telephoned Kelly. You'd better come down and talk it over, he said.

"Of course, it would have been fatal for anyone to learn of that meeting. That's why I got out of the taxi at Twenty-third street. As I told you, Kelly admitted me himself. He was drunk, and in a bad temper. What's the matter with you? he asked, when we'd gone into the drawing room. 'White-livered? Here; take a drink, and forget it.'

"There was a bottle on the table, and two glasses. Both of 'em had been used, but he half-filled them, and gave me one. I needed it, but I can't drink Scotch—never could. I told Kelly so, and he blazed out at me. 'You're too good to drink with me—is that it?'

"No, I answered; that's not it. But I can't hand down that decision. I simply can't, Mr. Kelly. I've rotten, and everyone knows it. I've got the cursed thing in my pocket, and—

"And I've got something in my pocket," he shouted—

"Father!" Pat intervened.

"For over an hour, I pleaded and argued. And Kelly kept drinking, and getting uglier. He was a big man, with a bull neck, and huge hands. At last, he said, 'Shut your damned mouth, and get out of here!'

"I said, 'I'm not going.'"

"No?" he sneered, and got up from his chair. He stumbled across the room to a great, old-fashioned desk, and got a revolver. Now, heat it," he yelled, 'and damned quick!'

"All right," I said, 'but I won't file that decision.'

"I walked into the hall, and Kelly stood, leaning against the door, with the pistol in his hand, so furious that I half expected him to shoot before I could get my hat. You think you can scare me, he shouted. 'You and the Globe. You think you got something on me, Witness. Squelch. Well, I know how to take care of them, by God! Beat it! And, if that decision ain't filed by noon, today, I'll—'

Again, Pat said, "Father!"

"I know," Hambridge interrupted himself.

Pat's admonition had come just in time, Barry thought. The Judge had risen, tense, and so excited that he seemed on the verge of collapse.

"And that was that," Barry calmed him.

"Not quite," Judge Hambridge continued, but in a lower tone. "When I got to the bottom of the steps—the stone steps. I mean—I stood thinking. If I left that way, there was no telling what Kelly might do. I've got to go through it. I thought, 'It's ruin either way, but if I obey orders, ruin only for me. I'd bet my life on it. I couldn't make up my mind, though. I kept looking back, half-decided. And, suddenly, a queer thing happened. The front door swung open.'

"The Judge mopped his hands again.

"I'd shut it carefully," he resumed. "But there it was, wide, almost like an invitation. I walked into the hall. The glass doors to the drawing room were closed, but I could see the light through them. When I put my hand on the knob, the lights went out. I turned the knob, and pushed, but the door wouldn't open. Not latched—it was as if someone was holding it. 'Kelly,' I thought. 'He won't let me in. I've got to act quick now.' Almost in a daze, I wandered up to the avenue. At nine o'clock, I gave the decision to my clerk, and told him to file it immediately. A few hours later, I learned that Kelly was dead. The papers said his body was found stretched across that door to the hall. I knew then it was there when I left the house, and that was why I couldn't open the door."

Pat said, "Are you satisfied?"

"Are you?" Barry asked. "Or would you rather that I tried to find who killed Kelly?"

"What does it matter—" Pat began, hotly.

"I think Mr. Gilbert's answer to that question," the Judge interrupted. "We've got to clear your name. At any cost, Pat, we've got to clear him."

"Mr. Gilbert's our friend," her father went on. "He says so, and I believe him."

"What do you want to know, Mr. Gilbert?"

"How long did you stand at the foot of the steps before that door swung open?"

"Five minutes. Maybe, a little more."

"Do you think some one opened it? Some one who, then, went in to Kelly?"

"You mean, the murderer?"

Barry nodded.

"No. That's the last thing he would have done. The door probably didn't latch when I closed it."

"While you were in the house, did you see anyone but Kelly?"

"No. We were shut in together."

"Did you hear anyone?"

"Since you mention it, once I did think I heard the front door close. I may have imagined it, but now I remember Kelly asked, 'Who's that in the hall?' It was about half an hour after we went into the drawing room, and I looked out, but there wasn't anyone."

"He—or she—may have gone into the dining room," Barry said.

"Whoever killed Kelly came out of the dining room; I'm certain of that."

"Why?"

"Because the drink Kelly offered you was Scotch whisky. Was there anything else in the room?"

"If there had been, I'd've asked for it."

"Exactly. And the weapon that crushed Kelly's skull was a cut-glass decanter containing rye whisky."

"In the five minutes you were standing on the pavement," Barry reasoned, "some one came out of that dining room with that decanter, and struck Kelly. There was no time for a quarrel. That man—or that woman—knew what he—or she—was going to do."

"Why do you say 'she'?" Pat asked. "This wasn't a woman's crime."

"It's not a criminal's crime, either," Barry answered. "A criminal would have brought the weapon, and it wouldn't've been a cut-glass decanter. A criminal might have worn gloves, to prevent leaving finger-prints. But, since this wasn't a criminal, the fact that there were no finger-prints suggests that the murderer just happened to be wearing gloves."

"And?" Pat inquired, tensely.

"And men don't often wear gloves on a warm night. Women do. It was a warm night."

"It was very warm," the Judge said.

"You are a shrewd young man," the girl glibly at him. "But your assumptions are ridiculous. Gloves! Anyone might have worn 'em. Anyone might remember the risk of leaving finger-prints, and wipe them off a bottle with a handkerchief. Anyone might've come in through an unlatched door—any time after my father left."

"But," Barry objected, "Kelly was dead then."

"How do you know that? How do we know my father wasn't right when he thought Kelly was keeping him out? All our conjectures lead nowhere, Mr. Gilbert. The only discovery you've made is that father saw Kelly after young Ridder did. And, as I told you, that's merely implicating one innocent man instead of another."

"And you—"

"Naturally, it's the second innocent man I care about. Especially since his innocence—of murder—wouldn't keep your disclosures from disgracing him."

Her voice broke.

"Ridder'll be free in a few weeks," she pled. "Wait, Mr. Gilbert. You don't know how many innocent people you may drag into this."

Barry hesitated.

He now remembered that he had told Pat he loved her. "It didn't get me anywhere," Barry thought. "It never will. I'm not even sure that she heard me, but I'm glad I spoke, all the same."

Aloud, he said, "I'll wait, Pat."

She glanced at him gratefully.

"Not until the trial, though," he warned her. "I won't take that chance. I won't let this girl, Peggy, go on suffering until then. But now I believe I know who murdered Kelly. Someone who came into the house while your father was there. Someone so full of the thought of it that she bungled the new lock on the front door."

"You think—" Hambridge began.

"I think that's why it blew open. And I think, too, that revealing your visit—now—would be merely 'tipping our hand.' The person I suspect has already covered her tracks pretty well."

"Then," Pat said almost incredulously—"Then you're not going to repeat this story?"

"Not even to Winslow. He hasn't much more faith in my 'sleuthing' than you have. We'll leave him to work out Ridder's defense. For the present let's agree on an armistice. Mutual silence. If the time arrives when I feel I must speak, I'll come to you first. Is that fair?"

"Quite."

"From the very beginning, Barry had suspected Mrs. Kelly. "She sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case," Peter Winslow had told him. "Do you think that might indicate that she killed her husband?" Barry did, and one discovery after another confirmed the idea. "But," as Barry had reminded his city editor, "Mrs. Kelly was in Harlem. She went to a dance."

"Ever hear of faking an alibi?" Harwood had asked, advising a "check up."

That sounded promising until, as the first move in his investigation, Barry dug up The Herald Tribune of the morning after the body was found. Mrs. Kelly had told him that paper contained a full record of her social activities, and it did. "At the time of the murder, Mrs. Kelly, who sued for divorce recently, and withdrew the case, was awarding prizes at a fancy dress ball of the Cross-town Chowder and Outing club in Harlem Gardens. This was at midnight, and the other judges were..."

"Kelly wasn't killed at midnight," Barry realized. "He wasn't killed until two hours after midnight. If Mrs. Kelly got through with her prizes—"

"Well," Barry exclaimed, climbing into the subway. What next? Say nothing, and saw wood—that's what."

Monday morning Barry dropped in on Peter Winslow. Obviously, he was doing a great deal. "Got the defense all planned," he declared, showing Barry a thick sheaf of memoranda. "Loose-leaf" memoranda it was, in the most literal sense—scrawled on waste paper and the backs of envelopes. Order may be Nature's first law, but it wasn't this lawyer's.

"No, I'm not neat," Peter smiled, intercepting Barry's glance. "Except personally, and that is Julie's achievement. Julie's Mrs. Winslow, of course, and she buys all my clothes. Lays 'em out for me, too—even the buttonholes. I often ask her if she wants me to look like a gigolo. Don't worry about this stuff, though,"—indicating the sheaf of memoranda. "Miss Clark'll have that straight by night."

Miss Clark was his secretary. "Women keep you in order," he went on smiling; "that's about the only thing I have against 'em."

"There's nothing to this case," he continued. "It'll come to trial in a few weeks now, and be over in a few hours. Want to hear what I'm going to ask that Filippino?"

Listening, Barry felt again that his own activities had been merely foolish. A dozen questions disposed of all the evidence the butler had given so far, and made it apparent that what he actually knew of young Ridder's visit was actually nothing. "You heard a quarrel? A violent quarrel? And you were alarmed? That's why you came upstairs? Rogers left then? And the lights were still burning in the front room. If you were alarmed, why didn't you knock at the door to make sure your master was all right? Not so very much alarmed, were you? In fact, you weren't alarmed at all until you saw what had happened." This was the beginning of an inquiry that twisted about, doubled on itself, and was likely to leave any jury on earth uncertain to convict anyone of a capital offense. "Particularly anyone with a wife and child," Peggy said.

"Peggy was in here Friday," he added. "She looks as though she'd been dragged through a knot hole. I wanted her to come to us for the week-end, but we're in town most of the time I'm going to talk to the Hambridges about having her out there."

"That would be great," Barry kindled. "They'd be company for each other. It wouldn't do Pat a bit of harm to learn how the other half lives."

"Right!" Peter exclaimed heartily. "I'll call Pat today."

In spite of himself, as he was leaving, Barry mentioned his Harlem theory.

Peter listened intently.

"Well," he said, "you are a Hawkshaw."

"You'd be surprised if I landed Mrs. Kelly, wouldn't you?"

"No," Peter replied, smiling again, "but I'd be terribly surprised if you didn't begin suspecting someone else ten minutes afterward."

CHAPTER VIII

THE more Barry thought of it, the more certain he became that the Judge's story, and the revelations in Harlem, removed the only reason for questioning Harwood's hypothesis. When the divorce action was filed, Kelly had promised not to see Betty Barclay again. That promise had induced the withdrawal of the petition. And then Betty Barclay had phoned, while Kelly was out, and just as Mrs. Kelly was going. In Harwood's own words, Mrs. Kelly "went wild." Falling to get legal counsel, she talked to Harlem, and there she got "madder and madder." Just after midnight, she drove home, and found Kelly alone—drunk, and with the accumulated wrath engendered by two trying interviews. There were two, and a handy decanter. The design began being almost too nearly perfect.

He found Peggy doing some mending until her dingy room. She had lost flesh, and seemed to be always staring at nothing. "It's Jacky," she confided in Barry. "I'm worried about him."

The youngster looked pale and ill.

"Look here, Peg; will you have lunch with me tomorrow at the Astor? I want you to meet some body."

"Miss Hambridge?"

"Yes."

"She'd turn up her nose at me like an elephant reaching for peanuts."

"I don't think so. Anyway, I want you to know each other."

The appointment was made, at last—some o'clock—and Barry called Pat.

"Well, the trail's hot, all right."

"Tell me about it."

"I don't dare over the wire. You know; operators. Come in and lunch with me."

"When?"

"Tomorrow at one."

Pat was eagerly anxious to hear his news, and there was no other way. But, if Pat's nose remained static when she learned she was to encounter Peggy, her mouth straightened. "Why? What have I in common with this girl?"

"Well," Barry answered, flatly, "you're keeping her husband in prison."

Pat flushed.

"You owe her something for that, don't you think? What're you being so high hat about? This girl's Mrs. John Clarke Ridder, Jr., your know."

"I'm not being high hat. Only, naturally, just now, I don't feel much like meeting strangers. Especially strangers with whom I have no community of interest."

Lunching together, however, it soon became evident that there was a "community of interest." Pat warmed to this painted chorus girl, fearful for her husband exactly as Pat was fearful for his father. Both heard Barry's account of his discoveries with regard to Mrs. Kelly.

"It seems pretty conclusive," Pat said.

"I never thought of that dame—I mean, woman," Peg added. "Would that get Jack off quick?"

Barry explained his understanding that, if there were definite proof of another person's having committed a crime, anyone in custody was released immediately. "The district attorney moves for a dismissal of the indictment, I believe," he told them.

"Gee!" Peggy said, with the tears in her eyes.

Pat was no fool, and she found herself respecting and liking this "night club hooper." She was Mrs. Ridder, after all. "Whoever the girl might have been, it was the tears beginning to dissolve the beads that stirred Pat. She had never seen anyone cry that way before—cry with her lips twisted into a smile.

"You're certainly stuck to your husband," Pat observed.

"Why not? When you really love anybody, you don't care what they do, or have done, or what they are. It's what they are to you that counts. You're not thinking what you're going to get, but what you're going to give. That is, the right kind of girl is."

Named Patagonia

When Magellan was on his voyage around the world he stopped at a place in South America, where he found large footprints in the sand. He named it Patagonia, and "land of big feet."

OVEREATING AND FAT ARE CALLED 'VICIOUS CIRCLE'

A "vicious circle" makes fat people fatter by increasing their appetites as their weight goes up.

This conclusion is reached in a thesis written for a master of science degree in dietetics at the University of Iowa by Miss Letta Houser, who studied a group of 40 persons ranging in weight from 124 to 322 pounds.

"I found," she said, "that obese persons have no more preference for rich foods than persons of normal weight and no greater propensity for nibbling between meals than ordinary individuals."

"But when the normal and obese groups were fed the same foods, those persons overweight always ate up to 20 per cent more, regardless of what was served, or the manner of its serving."

Miss Houser also discovered that both groups developed larger appetites when the entire meal was served at once rather than in courses.

She included a study of personalities of overweight persons in her research and concluded there is a tendency among them "toward emotional instability and submissiveness to the will of others— which, she said, may explain why fat persons are popularly regarded as jolly."

"There remains, however," she said, "a question as to whether this is a cause or effect of obesity."

Food and fat, Miss Houser said, form a "vicious circle," because the appetite apparently becomes greater as excess weight increases.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

When serving lettuce be sure that no water is on the leaves when french dressing is added. The water will spoil the dressing and the oil will not adhere to the lettuce. Do not put dressing on lettuce until it is to be served.

Soap improves with keeping, so when the stores offer sales of soap, it is economy to buy a quantity of it if you are able to store it in a cool, dry place.

Cold roast beef toughens if cooked for any length of time in hot gravy. It is better to heat gravy and pour over the meat when ready to serve.

When papering a room cut off the left-hand selvage on rolls before you begin to paste. Leave right-hand selvage uncut. The overlapping method of papering is far easier than trying to place two edges together.

Do not add dressing to a salad until just before salad is to be served. If salad greens are allowed to stand in dressing for any length of time, they will wilt.

Gelatin for fruit desserts should be whipped until the consistency of whipped cream, thick enough to prevent fruit settling to bottom of mold.

Don't keep gas stove burners turned on full after foods begin to boil. Turn burners down and keep down gas bills.

You can't kill plant lice with a poison. You must dose them with some kind of liquid that will smother them to death. Kerosene emulsion or tobacco dust will do this.

Smuggler Uses Novel Lives in Trying to Ship Live Calf

A novel attempt at smuggling took place recently on the Belgium-Holland border when a motorcyclist and a sidcar passenger arrived at the customs office. The passenger, whose face was concealed by his hat and coat collar, had nothing to say when questioned. Whereupon the suspicious inspector removed the "gentleman's" headgear and discovered that he was a gentle little calf.—Collier's.
