CROP AND RANGE OUTLOOK BRIGHTER AFTER GENEROUS RAINS BLANKET TERRITORY

Cotton And Feed Yields Will Be Heavy, Unless Pests Or The Elements Intervene, Is Optimistic Note Given

The crop and range outlook in Mitchell county has been stepped up by long strides as sequel to generous rains that Sunday and Monday blanketed most of the territory. Farmers and cattlemen report conditions much better than at this time in several years.

Unless pests or the elements intervene to retard potential crop production, the fields of this territory are due to mature one of the best yields in many seasons. Row crops of both cotton and feed are growing off rapidly since the rains arrived. The earlier of these crops have sufficient moisture to assure maturity to good advantage.

Rain at Colorado amounted to one and one quarter inches. North of town and in Westbrook, Cuthbert, and Jatan communities the rain was heavier. A Westbrook farmer stated Tuesday that two and one half inches covered his community.

An inch and a half of rain fell at Buford, according to Jim Bodine. E. Barber of Spade reported Tuesday that farms and ranches in that part of the county were in excellent state with a "bottom" season in the ground and crops cultivated clean.

Rain was lighter at the Spade ranch and in scattered localities. Some damage to fields is reported. In Carr community where the rain was from two to three inches, gullies were washed through some of the farms and growing crops damaged.

The promising outlook was further advanced in Federal cotton acreage estimate issued at Washington Wednesday that sent quotations on the commodity to a thirteen-cent level. The jump was $3 per bale. The acreage estimate was 30,621,000 for 1936, 26 per cent decrease from the 1928-32 average. Prediction is being offered in some quarters that cotton may sell for 15 cents before end of the season.

HARDSHIPS ENDURED WHILE PIONEER CIVILIZATION HAD BEGINNING TO BE DEPICTED

Home Coming Pageant To Be Staged Next Month Will Be Strong In Traditions And History Of County

The life of rugged pioneers who in an early day pushed westward to the outskirts of civilization to establish homes in a new country are to be honored during annual home coming celebration to be held here next month, Mrs. W. R. Martin of Lorraine, director for the elaborate pageant being organized as feature attraction of the event, stated while here Wednesday afternoon.

Scores of cowboys, horses, range cattle and a colorful array of other historic features are to be brought into play as the pageant, depicting arrival of the first wagon train, the first Indian raid and the first victory by Texas rangers as the Red Man was driven out, are to be used in the scene. It will be the most elaborate program of its kind ever attempted in this county.

Tentative plans as outlined by Mrs. Martin Wednesday afternoon call for arrival of the wagon train, bearing the pioneers and their families to a land that in later years became known as Mitchell county. The caravan is halted for a night stop and camp is established. This scene is to be staged by the Self Culture and 1921 Study Clubs under direction of Mesdames J. B. Pritchett, M. J. Dawson, J. M. Doss, and A. C. Anderson.

Next, as darkness has blanketed the sleeping caravan personnel and the cattle have settled down for the night, with only a sentinel here and there doing guard duty, rush in the Indians. A fight ensues between the white men and their antagonists, the cattle are stampeded and driven away. Roy Warren and Harry Ragan are to direct this scene.

With J. B. Pritchett and Jack Helton in charge a company of Texas rangers now enter the arena, to drive off the attacking redskins, restore quiet in the camp and round up the scattered cattle.

Reminiscences of pioneer days are to be depicted in pageantry directed by the Business & Professional Women's club and Auxiliary to the American Legion. Miss Lillian Pond and Mmes. Rees Jones, J. M. Herrington and J. A. Ferguson are directing plans for this feature.

A typical pioneer Mitchell county ranch round-up, with Pete Ainsworth and Byron Byrne in charge, is to be the next portrayal as the interesting historical realistic picture continues.

Education and the important part the school played in pioneer days of the county is to be given conspicuous

Book Dealing With Reynolds-Matthews Clan History Is Of Interest Locally

Because the author is kin to several Mitchell countians and because Mitchell county characters and scenes come in for mention in its pages, the book "Interwoven," written by Mrs. J. A. Matthews of Albany, is of considerable interest locally.
Mrs. Matthews is the sister-in-law of Mrs. Ella M. Conrad of the Triangle ranch northwest of Colorado. Recently she and her husband, Judge J. A. (Bud) Matthews were honored with a luncheon at the Triangle ranch while visiting there from their own ranch home at Albany.
A review of Mrs. Matthews book appeared in the Abilene Reporter-News last Sunday. Excerpts from the review read as follows:
"It was said of us that those who were not kin to us were kin to our kinsfolk. . . ." writes Mrs. J. A. Matthews of Albany in the chronicling of the settlement in West Texas of the Reynolds and Matthews families.
Her first book—at 75—was published recently. It is "Interwoven," a detailed journal of the occupation of this section of West Texas by the two families whose history is particularly the history of Shackelford county. The Reynolds family, and before her marriage Mrs. Matthews was a Reynolds, established one of the first ranches in Shackelford county in late 1859. Sallie Reynolds was born two years after Barber Watkins Reynolds brought his family from east Texas to this frontier region and set up the "Rancho del Reynolds."
She was married to Bud Matthews—Judge John A. Matthews—on Christmas day of 1876. The intermarriage of the two families, the most prominent in the early ranching history of this part of the state, is used as the theme for the "pioneer chronicle." She writes:
"Again (in 1883) there was a gathering of the clan to celebrate the wedding of this, the youngest and the last brother. This was an unusual union of two families: two pairs of sisters, first cousins to each other, married to my four brothers, and I married to the only brother of one pair of sisters. We were surely being interwoven."

Tales of the Indian raids and massacres—and if you don't think there were wild Comanches in this part of the county, read this book—mix comedy and tragedy with emphasis on the latter. There were however, Indian incidents with no dire results.
"Ofentimes when Father Matthews would be away from home, a number of these Tonkawas would come down to the ranch and pitch their tepees near the house. They had come to keep the Comanches away from Caroline," they would say.
West Texas was described in the frontier days as a "fine country for men and dogs, but hell for women and horses." But the Reynolds and Matthews families seemed to thrive on its rocky ranges. They built up almost a kingdom of their own in ranchland through Shackelford, Stephens, Haskell and Throckmorton. They wandered west to the border, to Arizona, to Kansas and Colorado. They Reynolds and Matthews boys were "cattle kings" in the southwest.
But they were not only ranchers; they became bankers, gold prospectors and financiers. They were a dynasty.
Mrs. Matthews treats her material with a straightforward thoroughness. Any old-timer would enjoy the memories it recalls; any youngster would love its vivid description of actual happenings in the old west exploited by writers of ranch romances.
"Interwoven," by Sallie Reynolds Matthews, is published by the Anson Jones press at Houston for $2.50.

LANDERS GIRLS MEET WITH JUNE McADAMS

By Julia Dorene Adrian, Reporter
The Landers 4-H Club girls' last meeting was with June McAdams. Miss Emma Gunter, H. D. A. practiced us on our folk songs. Then she showed us her automatic steam pressure cooker and what kind of lids and rubber rings to use on glass jars. We then went to the kitchen and preboiled some carrots for five or ten minutes, removed the peeling, placed them in pint jars, filled the jar almost full of water in which the carrots were cooked, sealed the jar with lid and rubber ring, and placed it in the steam pressure cooker. When the gauge reached fifteen fifteen degrees, we let the carrots process forty-five minutes. We carried out a similar process with green string beans. We played several games.
The girls present were Misses Bonnie Belle and Sybil Holt, June McAdams, Eunice and Bettie Louise Compton, Ruby Fay and Julia Dorene Adrian, Katherine and Doris McAdams, and Letha Mathers. Our next meeting will be the twenty-first of July.

FURTHER REFERENCE TO JIMMIE GREENE BY C-C

The West Texas chamber of commerce, at its recent annual convention in Amarillo, announced that Jimmie Greene, secretary of the Colorado chamber of commerce, had during the past year been the most valuable chamber executive in the territory. In current edition of "West Texas Today," official publication of the WTCC, this additional complimentary reference is made:

"Mr. Greene (the J is for Jimmie) is a Georgia native but a West Texan for 32 years, all spent in Colorado. While in the undertaking business (21 years) he organized the Colorado chamber of commerce, serving as part-time secretary. In 1926 he took on those duties actively. He has been a pioneer in good roads building; was an organizer of the Broadway of America Association; was superintendent of his Baptist Sunday School for 21 consecutive years; is called the daddy of Colorado's beautiful Ruddick park. It has a natural stone amphitheater, a $15,000 swimming pool, is a beautiful place. It is named for Jimmie's wife's parents. Greene has attended 16 of the 18 WTCC conventions."

"Go down to the bridge some afternoon," admonished one item, "and watch the boys of the swimming club do some of their stunts."

Miss Dixon Roe, a missionary to Kashing, China, had been forced to return to the states for medical treatment and her friends here were concerned.

15 YEARS AGO

The negro population of Colorado had been cheated out of around $1000 by one Costella Bell 15 years ago, according to the Colorado Record for Friday, July 8, 1921.

Costella Bell, a full-blood Cherokee Indian, had come to Colorado from Muskogee, Oklahoma, and had taken Colorado negroes "into her confidence" to show them where they could get $10 back if they put $1 in her basket. The basket was, according to Costella Bell's plan, to be buried in the ground while she talked with "de spirits." She left town with the $1,000 she collected off of negroes who visioned themselves on easy street for the rest of their lives and was subsequently arrested in Abilene.

J. Lee Jones and members of his Booster band had played at Big Spring's Fourth of July celebration. . . . Ivy Webb had found the bone of a prehistoric animal on Lone Wolf creek.

Assembling on the courthouse lawn for a Booster band concert, Coloradans had heard speeches by Mayor A. J. Coe and Dr. P. C. Coleman. Mayor Coe pleaded for an "improved band shell" to afford a place for social gatherings during the summer months and Dr. Coleman spoke on damming Lone Wolf creek, laying a sewer system, and extending the water system. . . . After the concert the Civic League served ice cream and home-made cake. . . .

The wedding of Miss Annie McMurry and Homer McGregor had taken place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Y. D. McMurry on Tuesday evening. . . . Attendants were Miss Frances McMurry, Miss Mildred Coleman, and Miss Frank Ball Root; Douglas McMurry, Robert Brennan, and Maxwell Thomas. . . . Billie McMurry and little Julia Mae Root held the aisle ribbons. Mrs. Roland Burdick sang. Mrs. Thos. Dawes played. . . . Assisting Mr. and Mrs. McMurry in entertaining after the ceremony were Mesdames Page, Root, Coleman, Max Thomas, B. S. Van Tuyl, Ed Jones, Leslie Crowder, J. Riordan, R. B. Terrell, R. L. McMurry, J. A. Holt, Guy B. Duff, H. P. Saeel; Misses Mary Bell Brennan, Mary Terrell, Bernice Terrell, Marion Adams, Mary Lee Crowder, Elsie Lee Majors, Mammie and Nellie Riordan, and Clippie Bennett. . . .

Mrs. Thos. Dawes had entertained for the bride and groom on Monday. . . . Miss Mary Terrell had been hostess to a morning porch party honoring Frank Ball Root of Sherman. . . . Misses Lula Mae and Elnora Dulaney had entertained with a shower for Miss Annie McMurry. . . .

Miss Scottie Mae Hines was home from summer school at Simon University. . . . Bill Mooser, Paul Terrell, Aja Hickman and Charles Mooser had been fishing down on the Colorado river. . . . Mrs. D. R. Hardison and daughter, Louise, had gone to Los Angeles for the summer. . . .

Miss Pearl Pugh, "head trimmer" at B. F. Mills Millinery store, had returned from a visit to Mrs. Hall's parents at Rotan. . . . They'd also attended a meeting of county officials in Fort Worth. . . .

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Broadbudd and family and Marie Ferguson had been in Abilene on Monday. . . . Raymond Jones was spending that week with relatives in Big Spring. . . . Virginia Hooser of Sentinel, Oklahoma, was visiting her cousin, Marguerite Stoneham. . . .

Lorraine's Winning Spree Broken By Business Players

Col Tex Stepping Ahead As Play Tournev Continues At Cantrill Field

The winning spree given side line customers by Harold Bennett's Lorraine club in the county soft ball league was broken during the past week by the Young Business Men, who routed the formidable contenders from Eastern Mitchell county. Lorraine, however, continues in the lead with five games won and one lost.

Col-Tex, two weeks ago struggling in the cellar with the Shell club as a bedfellow, has been doing some sensational playing as various contestants in the league parade have been met. All of the last four games played by the refinery aggregation have been won, tying them with the Business Men for fourth place.

Patronage at the games continues to be lax, although several fans have taken it upon themselves to personally urge Coloradans to attend the contests, being staged at Cantrill Field.

Permanent Rodeo, Fair Property Is Goal Of Citizens

City Should Consider Such Project Seriously, Public Spirited Folk Are Saying

That Colorado should start plans now looking to actual construction of permanent rodeo and fair property, where the people of this and adjoining counties may better enjoy celebrations such as given on July Fourth, is being advocated by certain citizens here.

Attendance upon the Fourth celebration at Colorado was much larger than may be said of some of the other similar attractions in this part of the State and I noticed that hundreds of the visitors were from points outside Mitchell county," remarked Sheriff R. E. Gregory Tuesday morning.

SCHOLARSHIP GIVEN

AUSTIN.—The Board of Regents of The University of Texas has accepted an offer made by the Shell Petroleum Corporation through T. E. Swigart of St. Louis, vice president of that company, of a $600 annual scholarship to be given to some student in petroleum engineering at the University. In announcing its acceptance of the gift the board expressed to Mr. Swigart and the Shell Petroleum Corporation its appreciation of this manifestation of the interest which the donor has in the work that the University is doing in training men along scientific lines for the petroleum industry.

The results which the departments of petroleum engineering, geology, chemistry and physics are accomplishing in the matter of equipping young men of Texas for positions in the various phases of oil operations are attracting wide attention on the part of men connected with the industry, it is stated.

HOME OWNERS

By Austin Callan

It has long been conceded that the home owner is the best and happiest citizen.

The home is the Nation's citadel of strength.

Those who have made it easier to own a home and to keep a home, have rendered a distinct service to humanity. They have planted flowers along barren pathways.

The Nation's strength lies in the small homes because most homes are small. What affects modest domesticity not only showed its interest in good citizenship but in consideration for the hard pressed when it adopted Senator Carl C. Hardin's home exemption measure relieving from state taxes all homes up to the assessed value of $3000.

If Carl Hardin had rendered no other service than that he would be entitled to the gratitude of thousands of Texans.

Whoever makes it easier to maintain a place of habitation for a family confers a blessing, and adds a bloom and breath of fragrance to life. We want to see more home owners not only in the cities and villages of our state but out beyond the pavement in the rural communities. No home owner will become a communist. The blessings of a home will nurture in his heart love for his country and his country's flag. He will bring his children up to respect the worthy things of life; he will train them for good citizenship, and they will be an ornament to society.

Big Spring In Gala Carnival As City's Pool Is Dedicated

Lusty Cheers Greet George Mahon As Coloradano Is Presented On Program

Thousands of citizens of Big Spring and other West Texas communities gathered at that city's new $32,000 swimming pool and recreational center Saturday to have part in gala carnival dedicating the property. Congressman George Mahon of Colorado was received with demonstrations of enthusiasm as he came to the speaker's stand to deliver address.

Referring to the demonstration and address, the Big Spring Daily Herald for Sunday said:

A crowd estimated at nearly 5,000 cheered as George Mahon, Congressman from the Nineteenth District, and Julian Montgomery, State FWA engineer, formally dedicated the pool, and crowded close to watch the parade of pulchritude in which almost a hundred junior and senior girls participated.

Mahon complimented the city upon the opening of the modern natatorium and declared it a monumental achievement. In it he saw not only pleasure and recreation for thousands for years to come, but the means by which scores of jobless men had been given timely aid.

He praised the Federal Administration for its works program and pointed to the swimming pool as an example of permanent, beneficial improvement brought about by it.

JOHN ELLIS AND WIFE HOLD BELATED GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

A belated celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Ellis of Colorado was held Sunday when their children gathered here for an all-day picnic, which had to be held indoors at the Ellis home because of the rain.

The real anniversary date was passed March 6 but at that time it was impossible for all of the Ellis children to be here so the celebration was postponed.

Ellis children and their families here Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Seale and two children of Las Cruces, N. M.; E. V. Ellis of Pecos; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Ellis of Westbrook; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ellis and two children of Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wood and children of Colorado; Mrs. Beulah Callan of Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith and daughter, Edna, of Colorado. One son, E. B. Ellis of Fort Worth, was unable to be here.

Two granddaughters, Mrs. R. L. Busham and Mrs. Floyd Ritchie, and their families, all of Mitchell county, were also present. Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Seale were guests.

OLD AGE APPLICANTS URGED TO HAVE DATA READY FOR CHECKING

Old age pension applicants of the county who have not yet been visited by an investigator are urged to have their evidences of age, their marriage certificates, their tax receipts, and other necessary papers ready for the call of the investigator.

Mrs. Maurine Rees, investigator for this county, issued that request this week, saying that such action on the part of applicants will speed up investigations considerably.

Paragraphs About Mitchell County Given Space In San Angelo Newspaper Column

A historic old house near Colorado, tight land crops in Mitchell county, the Seven Wells road, the old McKenzieville store, and other Mitchell county and Colorado subject were dealt with in several paragraphs of "The Man With the Hoe" column of the San Angelo Standard-Times Sunday.

The paragraphs follows:

"A house with a history stands out in the country a few miles from Colorado. It was built in the early days of that town by a wealthy man who liked to entertain. Prime timber was used, the interior finished with the best hardwood. There are 16 fireplaces, and every room was at one time equipped with running water, piped from windmill and tanks on the premises.

"The feed-ruff is late on the tight land in eastern Mitchell and the western end of Coke. Along the road from Danville to Colorado there is little feed, and that is twisting in the heat.

"But on the Seven Wells road, a few miles to the south, crops are well along. The sandy land in these communities accounts for the difference, as crops on the sand ferre ahead during dry seasons, but lag behind in wet springs.

"The Seven Wells road and Seven Wells school get the name from natural wells or springs in circular holes through the rock in a creek bed near. There are more than that number, but seven of the largest are the more noticed.

"These water flows into a creek, a place of natural beauty and interest.

"Down the road are also good crops and attractive homes. At Lowe school the mail route enters the Spade pasture. Sixteen mail boxes in a row line the road where the turn is made.

"The Colorado River is usually the end of all roads in that country, and so it is with this.

"Six big gins in Colorado handle the cotton crop for much of Mitchell and a slice of Coke. Much maize is ground with cotton seed cake and hulls and feed in the county.

"The Gary gin has been rebuilt with new machinery since the fire that destroyed it.

"Frank McCabe has moved 700 head of sheep from the J. I. Murtishaw pasture to his ranch in Mitchell county.

"A Colorado pioneer is Ed S. Jones, barber. His sister was Mrs. Harve Adams, wife of the earliest cattleman known to have run stock in the upper Colorado river valley. Adams, with a brother, drove buffalo off the range to preserve it for their stock.

"The map of Texas, made of rattlesnake rattles by Will Berry of Cuthbert, has been taken to the Texas Centennial. It had been on exhibition in the Jones Barber Shop, where it attracted much attention.

"C. N. Stubblefield, just over in Mitchell county, has the only house near the old McKenzieville store building, which still stands, though no store is operated there. D. L. Buchanan, now of Colorado, built the building, not far from McKenzie headquarters. Mr. Buchanan later moved and did a successful grocery business in Colorado, where he now lives hale and hearty. R. B. Allen operated the McKenzieville store and moved the business down on the Colorado river, where the mail from Robert Lee, carried by Raymond Jay, reaches the farmers of the sand valley country after dropping off mail at Sanco, milling boxes along the way to Panther Gap, and winding along the bus route, with mail boxes

Horn's Chapel Baby Wears His Father's 40-Year-Old Baby Dress, 40 Inches Long

Some of these days Paul Eugene Oliver, 5-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Oliver of the Horn's Chapel section, can tell his grandchildren about how he, as an infant, wore a baby dress which his father wore 40 years before him.

The dress recently came into possession of the C. C. Oliver family after the death of Mr. Oliver's mother, Mrs. N. C. Oliver, near Canton, Van Zandt county, in March, 1935. She had kept it through the years since Mr. Oliver's infancy.

Measuring forty inches in length, the dress is of a white soft material somewhat thicker than baby dress material of today. It has a square yoke with back fastening. Around the neck are double rows of red-edged white braid, sewed on v-shaped in front and back. Double rows of the braid are on the sleeves and a single row around the top of the hem.

The petticoat which was made to go with the dress is still in use but was cut off ankle-length when Mr. Oliver was learning to walk. It matches the dress in design, but has much more handwork in tucks, ruffles, and rows of braid. It served as a walking dress for Mr. Oliver and his two younger brothers and for several of his nephews.

When Mr. Oliver's mother made the dress for him she was preparing for the coming of the ninth in a family of eleven children. That was when the family lived back in Alabama. They moved to Texas, settling near Canton, when Mr. Oliver was very young. He grew up there to be a soldier in the World War and to marry Sophia D. White of near Canton. Although they have lived in Mitchell county at various times in the past, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver have been here only three years this time. They moved to the Horn's Chapel community this year after living at Rogers last year.

Besides Paul Eugene he has four other children: Geneva, 15, Mary Jo, 12, Henry Clinton, 8, and Avenell, 6.

All of them except Paul Eugene missed the distinction of wearing their father's forty-year old baby dress because it was hidden away in Grandmother Oliver's trunk.

Specialist Will Give Actual Treatment July 14th and 15th, Baskin States

"Demonstrations in the use of Benzol and Pine-Tar Oil in the treatment of screw-worm cases will be held on the Chester L. Jones ranch near Vincent, Tuesday, July 14 and the S. O. Wulfjen ranch Wednesday, July 15. At these demonstrations Joe E. Clayton, screw-worm control leader of this area, will be present to actually demonstrate the methods of using the Benzol and Pine-Tar Oil," stated B. J. Baskin, county agent. "Benzol has several advantages over other screw-worm medicines in that it does not lose its strength upon exposure to light, will not cause swelled joints and due to its purity does not irritate wounds. Pine-Tar Oil, having been refined to remove all phenols and water, does not crack the skin, slip the hair or need any thing to get a good smear. Pine-Tar Oil is a fly-repellant, and also healing to a wound. All ranchers and farmers interested in screw-worm control and treatment are invited to attend one of these demonstrations while Mr. Clayton is in the county."

The demonstration at the Chester L. Jones ranch near Vincent will be held at the ranch headquarters at 10 o'clock, Tuesday morning, July 14 and the demonstration at the S. O. Wulfjen ranch will be held at the ranch headquarters at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, July 15.

Spending Day On Water-Marooned Train
Climaxes Willie Landau's Holiday

Spending twelve hours on the east-bound Sunshine Special which was marooned by washouts 14 miles beyond Odessa Tuesday put an unusual finishing touch to Willie Landau's Fourth of July trip.

Willie was returning from El Paso, where he spent the holiday week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Landau. Along with the 50 or so other passengers on the Sunshine Special he awoke Tuesday morning to find that the train had been at a stand-still since shortly after 4 a. m. with one washout behind it and three others ahead.

The washout behind had occurred just after the Sunshine Special passed by. Passengers considered themselves lucky not to have been involved in a serious wreck, Landau says. A freight train was marooned ahead of the Sunshine Special and a passenger behind it. Odessa was 14 miles to the east, Monahans 10 miles to the west.

The washouts were the result of a five-inch rain which had fallen during the night. In one place, Landau says, the tracks had been carried about ten feet out of line by the flood waters, almost reaching the highway, where traffic was also held up for hours.

Many of the passengers were frightened, Landau says, but others treated the situation as a lark. Landau and other young people got off the train and played ball. The train was without a diner, being due to pick one up in Big Spring. So all that passengers had to eat during the day was food they got from a little cafe and a small store at a nearby stop known as Penwell. All food in both places was gone long before the tracks were sufficiently repaired for the train to move on.

Probably the most nervous person on the train was a woman who was on her way to attend the funeral of a relative in Big Spring. One boy was going to Midland for medical treatment of a broken arm.

A father and mother and their three children got off the train and caught a truck ride into Midland after traffic began moving on the highway near the tracks.

Children got first chance at the food secured from the little Penwell store and cafe, Landau says. He had "some cookies."

The tracks were safe for the trains to move by 3:15 Tuesday afternoon. The Sunshine Special, due here at 8:30 Tuesday morning, arrived almost twelve hours later, about 7:30

TRIBUTE TO THE CHURCH OFFERED BY GAS PREXY

L. B. Denning, president of the Lone Star Gas System, recently offered the following tribute to the church:

"The constructive moral and spiritual forces of the world as represented by organized religion are the basis of civilization. Without the church the gigantic epic of empire depicted in the Centennial Exposition at Dallas could never have existed.

"Those early Texans who started a new State with nothing but their hands, their heads, their hearts and the bare earth were religious people. They left us a heritage of vision and religious faith as part of their great work in empire building. And now, in the bustle, the clash and the grandeur of material development, the church must be given a mark of distinction to its all-pervading influence."

LIBERAL ATTITUDE OF U. S. ROAD CHIEF IS SOURCE OF STRENGTHENED HOPE HERE

Address At Dallas Brightens Prospects For Highway To Robert Lee, Sponsors For Project Outline

Liberal attitude of the Federal Department of Public Roads, as outlined during an address by Thomas H. MacDonald of Washington, chief of that department, as he spoke before meeting of the Dallas Athletic Club recently, has strengthened hopes of county, city and chamber of commerce officials here in their objective of realizing construction of highway extending from Colorado to Robert Lee.

The road was recently designated by the State highway commission after these officials had conferred with members of the commission in Austin and pushed claims that the highway should be built. County Judge B. L. Templeton stated in a recent address here that he believed the route would be improved during the next year.

"I hold no fear for any proposed public road project because of size or possible financial cost," Mr. McDonald said.

"Public roads that are properly planned and built to fit public needs pay for themselves, almost as we go," he said.

"It is for the attitude of State and local bodies in which road programs must originate that I hold fear," Mr. McDonald declared. "There must be co-operation and there must be sound planning."

He praised the Texas Highway Commission for its able and far-seeing road program and said a set-up has been established in the State that promises the carrying out of its extensive road program without fear of interference by political bias or partisan manipulations. D. K. Martin and John Wood, commission members who attended the luncheon were named by Mr. McDonald as two men to whom Texas owes much for the rapid highway development it has enjoyed in the past and which it appears destined to receive in the future.

LOST SHIRTS AND HATS RETURNED BY RAILROAD

With "not even a cigarette missing," the shirts and hats which a group of Spade hands unintentionally shipped to Galveston beneath a carload of wool several weeks ago have been returned in good shape, according to Pete Ainsworth of the Spade ranch as quoted in the Sterling City News-Record.

Ainsworth and a group of helpers were loading out a car of wool one hot night and shed their hats and shirts for comfort's sake, piling them in the corner of a car. They were then forgotten until covered by several thousand pounds of wool-filled sacks. The railroad agent included the articles on the bill of lading and when the wool was unloaded at Galveston for water shipment on to New York the railroad company returned the items.

GRAVES OF HEROES ARE LOST IN FLOOD WATERS

The century old frontier settlement at Leesville where many of the pioneers living when Texas gained its independence lie buried was a scene of desolation Thursday night after peak of a raging flood had passed.

Graves of pioneers were ruined, headstones toppled over in the muck and some of the grave sites may be lost forever.

YEAR OF PROGRESS ENDED BY LIONS CLUB, REPORT BY RETIRING OFFICIAL SHOWS

Finances In Excellent State After Varied Benevolences Supported; Scouts, Blind Children Given Aid

Another year of material progress has been written into history of the Colorado Lions Club, it was shown Friday as Jack Helton, retiring secretary-treasurer, read his report for the fiscal year closing June 30. The report recalled that the service organization had been busy during the twelve month period in giving sincere attention to benevolent, civic and educational programs in the city and county.

That finances of the club continue in good condition is shown in fact that at close of the year a cash balance of $619.53 remained in the treasury. A total of $2,735.75 in dues, initiation fees, reinstatement fees and extra luncheon costs, was collected during the year. Disbursements were $2,786.01.

High spots in report of Mr. Helton: During the year the club, through its blind committee, furnished 15 pairs of glasses and replaced one lens for children of the county, who, otherwise, would not be enabled to have continued their studies in school, due to defective vision and inability of their parents or guardians to purchase the glasses.

Sent Boy Scout troops to Summer camp and to the annual encampment of the Buffalo Trails Council at Big Spring, in addition to entertaining them at a melon slicing and at several of the regular club meetings.

Assisted in entertaining and furnishing meals for a Future Farmers' band that visited in Colorado during the year. Paid expenses of sending two delegates to International convention in Mexico City and one delegate to the State convention in Brownwood. Spent time and effort in campaign to effect realization of the Wulfjen dam project.

Actively supported drive to light Cantrill Field for night football and other athletic contests. Entertained the coaching staff and team personnel. Donated $17.50 to the Racquet Club, an organization in junior high school. Sponsored a home talent play, donated fines for one month and assisted otherwise in bringing Christmas cheer to Colorado's poor. Through these efforts Santa Claus was made real to 127 children, the report stated.

The club answered the American Red Cross roll call one hundred per cent. Observed "Ladies Night" in joint meeting with the chamber of commerce, cooperating with the latter organization in entertaining Governor James Allred and Congressman George Mahon on occasion of the chamber's annual banquet. Sent out speakers to all rural communities of the county to address school children and others on the importance of safety.

The Lions Club organized an orchestra within its membership and furnished music for the same. Lunched a deserving boy $30 to purchase a horn in that he be privileged to join the band. Helton explained that the boy was meeting payments regularly in returning the loan. Purchased trees to be set out along Highway One and about grounds of a Buford church.

The club secured transportation from the Texas & Pacific for a Colorado mother who wanted to take her ill son to a Dallas hospital and donated $7.50 in cash to meet other expenses of the trip.

After Helton had read the report J. E. Watson offered motion that the club accept the same, "expressing our appreciation for the splendid manner in which it was gotten up and for the sincere service rendered this Lions Club by the retiring secretary during last year." The motion carried unanimously.

SOIL EROSION CHECKED BY TERRACES. CONSERVE CHIEF OUTLINES IN NEWS REPORT

Advantages Seen In Federal Objective Listed After An Inspection Made By Fort Worth Official

Farmers of Mitchell county who plan extending full cooperation to the government's soil conservation service may have assurance that their fields are to be protected against further erosion, according to Harold G. Anthony of Fort Worth, regional head of the division of information for the service. Anthony offered this promise after making an extensive study of farm areas where properly constructed terraces are already in use.

From an agricultural standpoint the manner in which the protected lands withstood the ravages of the rushing water and washing and gullying was prevented was "nothing short of miraculous," Anthony reported.

"Even more remarkable than the performance of the terraces was the manner in which strip crops slowed down the rapid runoff of the flood waters to such an extent that soil being carried in suspension was dropped behind the stripped areas," the official said. "When the water strikes strip crops these bands of close-growing, fibrous rooted crops offer regular barriers over cultivated fields to the water and cut erosion dangers to a minimum."

"I stood nearly knee deep in an 84-acre field and watched the strip crops work. I saw water, black with soil, enter one side of a sorghum strip. It spread out as it found its way through the good stand of sorghum and came out of the lower side of the strip as clear as if from a faucet. It did not the slightest bit of erosion damage as it flowed into the cultivated area."

From the flood control angle, Anthony explained, every phase of the co-ordinated erosion control program is directed toward holding water on the land so it will have an opportunity to soak in the ground and the excess water will run off more slowly.

"It is believed that if all the land in a certain watershed area was under a complete co-ordinated erosion control program a sufficient amount of water would be held on the land and out of the streams to minimize the hazards of floods," he said. "Lands unprotected with erosion control measures were literally ripped to pieces by the rushing waters."

Soil deposits of from two to three feet completely covered and wiped out many acres of growing cotton on the unprotected lands, he added. Files of productive top soil, washed from fields, were deposited along roads, ditches and in low spots. An irony said that many of the unprotected sloping lands were cut and gullied to such an extent that it is unlikely they will be fit for further cultivation.

TRAFFIC TIED UP AFTER FLOODS INUNDATE AREA

Traffic into Colorado from the west was tied up several hours Tuesday after heavy rains in vicinity of Penwell, west of Odessa, sent raging torrents of flood waters across the Bankhead highway and the Texas & Pacific rail tracks. Four trains, including the Sunshine special, were tied up for several hours. East bound Greyhound bus, due in Colorado at noon, arrived over three hours late.

REPLICA JUDGE BEAN'S OFFICE TO BE ERECTED

A replica of Judge Roy Bean's court and bar building in which the pioneer sage ruled as "law west of the Pecos" in the long ago, is to be erected in the Pecos business district as office of the chamber of commerce. Ben Smith, former Coloradoan and now secretary of the Pecos chamber, originated the idea and is said to be making good progress in plans for restoring the historic landmark.

'Railroad Week' To Be Observed Throughout USA

Colorado To Join Nation In Observance To Open July 13, C-C Announces

Observance of "Railroad Week" scheduled for July 13th to 18th, inclusive, is to be observed in Colorado, J. H. Greene, secretary of the chamber of commerce, stated Wednesday morning. Greene has been in communication with Harry G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives at Chicago, as to plans for the week.

"The railroads are pushing on again to new frontiers," said Mr. Taylor. "They have faith in their own capacity for still greater service to this country, and they have faith in the country itself. It has taken courage and resourcefulness to finance and construct the many improvements introduced by the Western Railroads in recent years.

"We are going to put on a great show," he continued. "A hundred years of progress in transportation will be celebrated in 500 towns throughout the West. Those celebrations will afford an opportunity for a public expression of appreciation for the indispensable place railroads occupy in American life."

FIVE KILLED WHEN CARS CRASH ON BOERNE ROAD

Five persons were killed in a head-on crash of automobiles on the San Antonio-Boerne highway, five miles from Boerne, Tuesday.

The dead were Mrs. J. F. Needham of Freer and her two children, Roberta, two, and J. P., Jr., four; B. F. Ferguson of Point Top, Mrs. Needham's brother-in-law; and Dr. T. L. Moody, head of Moody's sanitarium at Boerne.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Needham, Ferguson and the children were rushing to the bedside of her husband, who had been injured in a refinery accident.

Ferguson and Dr. Moody were killed instantly. Mrs. Needham's son died in a few minutes after the accident, and Mrs. Needham and the daughter succumbed a few hours later in a Boerne hospital.

The tragedy was witnessed by Hank Hart, sports writer of the Big Spring Herald, and by his brother, O. C. Hart of Corpus Christi, a former Big Spring resident. Neither car, they said, was traveling more than 30 miles an hour. As the cars approached, Hank Hart said, each seemed to veer toward the other.

The witnesses could suggest no explanation for the wreck unless a tire blew out on one of the cars.

Miss Bennie Montgomery, employed as secretary in the local State tax survey office, has been transferred to a similar position in the district office at Abilene.

COLORADO FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN REPORTS STRONG FINANCIAL POSITION
Colorado Federal Savings and Loan Association has just made its report to the Federal Home Loan Bank and reports a strong financial position and with plenty of money to loan for refinancing, repairing or building new homes in Colorado.

Loans made by the local association are secured by first liens on homes with provision for repayment upon monthly payments. The association operates on money obtained through the sale of shares of stock to thrifty citizens interested in safety of their investment as well as a reasonable dividend. The investment of each shareholder is automatically insured against loss up to $5000.00, similar to the manner in which bank deposits are insured. The dividends paid by the association are paid semi-annually and the rate will slightly exceed the rate paid by banks on time deposits, or upon postal savings accounts or government bonds.

While operating under a Federal Charter, the association is a member of the Federal Home Loan Bank system. It is under the direction of Colorado business men as directors, and operates much the same as banks are operated except that all loans are secured by first liens on real estate.

Report was recently made in these columns of the election of R. F. Fee as president of the association and of J. W. Randle as a director to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hayes Holman. Other members of the board of directors are R. O. Pearson, E. R. Bibby, T. W. Stone-road, Jr., Max Berman, and B. L. Templeton. Other officers are Thos. R. Smith as attorney and L. B. Elliott, secretary-treasurer.

District And Local FFA Officials Will Attend Convention

Doyle Williams And Boys To Stephenville For Gathering Opening July 24th

District and local officials in the Future Farmers of America association are to attend annual convention of the State FFA at Stephenville, to open July 24th for three days, Doyle Williams, director of the Colorado unit, stated Tuesday afternoon.

R. C. Siveley, recently elected for the degree of Lone Star Farmer, highest honor to which a Future Farmer may aspire in Texas, is to attend. John Colson, secretary of the Roby district; James Pritchett, president of the local chapter, and Duff Chesney, secretary, are other officials who are to have part in the gathering.

The following news store relative to the convention has been received by The Record from Stephenville: No convention city is this; but the town of Stephenville and John Tarleton College are getting ready to extend a cordial welcome and provision for comfort and fun to 1,000 or more Future Farmers of America, and advisers expected here July 24, 25, and 26 for the annual convention of the Texas F. F. A. Association.

State officers and members of the executive committee will be housed on the Tarleton campus. The Stephenville chamber of commerce and the local vocational agriculture department are cooperating with F. F. A. officials to provide for the official band. Many chapter delegates will camp in the City Park, having their meals at downtown cafes.

The Future Farmers are a hard working bunch, so advance reports at Stephenville indicate; and much of their time will be spent in business sessions. The executive committee will have a joint meeting with state officers to plan major activities of the convention Thursday afternoon and evening and Friday morning; and the entire convention will meet in business session Friday afternoon and Saturday morning.

Time off for fun is provided in the program of talks, music, and stunts Friday night and at a barbecue, with the chamber of commerce as host, Saturday noon. There will be a banquet Thursday evening at the College Dining Hall for Lone Star Farmers, state officers, executive committee members and distinguished guests.

Another auction sale due July 13. Get your auction money.

[QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING]

"What is an amortized loan?"

AN amortized loan is one which the borrower pays off on the "installment plan." At the time the loan is granted definite provisions are made for certain payments at regular intervals.

This form of loan has the distinct advantage of enabling the borrower to reduce his debt gradually in easy payments—instead of having the entire loan to pay when it becomes due. Another advantage is that the bank can depend on certain incoming amounts and is enabled to extend new loans to other borrowers. Since there is less likelihood of an amortized loan becoming "frozen," it offers safeguards both to the borrower and the bank. Hence it is usually a useful loan for the community as a whole.

The officers of this bank will be glad to discuss with you your loan requirements.

Knives, Guns Employed By Early Colorado Boarding House Keeper To Collect Bills

A boarding house proprietor who wielded knives and guns to collect overdue accounts and who brought grown panthers home alive back in the rip-roaring days of Colorado's beginning will be one of the colorful characters depicted in the historical pageant which is to climax Mitchell county's home-coming and Centennial celebration August 20, 21, and 22.

Hamilton held his gun on the boarder and made him struggle back and forth across the muddy street time after time. Then he let the fellow go, counting the mud-walking in lieu of money for the board bill.

"But at that," Mr. Doss says, "this Mr. Hamilton was a pretty nice fellow, likable and agreeable—until some fellow fell down on his board bill. That seemed to bring out the worst in him. He lived here seven or eight years, then went away, I don't know where."

On one of his numerous hunting trips Mr. Hamilton roped a grown live panther up the river north of Cedar Bend, Mr. Doss recalls. He tied the animal "hand and foot" and brought him in to town, just to prove that he could do it.

Not, it would seem from the foregoing accounts, that anybody would have disputed Mr. Hamilton's bare world without first being sure that he didn't have his knife or his gun handy.

THE GLORIOUS RAIN

It was all a liquid blessing of life-saving, crop-producing, nature-inspiring, worry-alleviating, soul-involving nature.

Temporarily disagreeable as the rainfall was for some social and business affairs, yet its imperative need greatly outweighed any inconveniences for the while. It came not by accident; but as a result of the workings of the laws of nature, according to previous plan of the world's economy.

It was born of the cloud, rocked in the cradle of the wind, entertained by luminous flashes of lightning, and sung to sleep by the deep melodious bass voice of the storm. It was not a bunch of the elements in a fit of angry passions, who when the rudiments seem inextricably mixed up, and the lightnings, like fractious colts, appeared to kick over the traces which pulled the universe, and started to smash up things; but in rather orderly and prearranged manner, as though Omnipotence had been carefully watching this part of earth all the time; had kept in mind his foreordained plan, previously proved numbers of times, of granting rain to West Texas "just before it is too late." He realized this was the crucial time and let loose this flying evangel from sky to earth.

How difficult human nature is to entirely satisfy only the Infinite fully knows. Notwithstanding all terrestrial things work together for His celestial glory and for the benefit of His human replicas, made in His own image and likeness, bearing His own impress of immutability—yet how often earthly murmurs go up because of certain climatic changes even though greatly needed for community or sectional welfare.

As a matter of fact, it takes all kinds of weather to make the world. Some folks cannot stand the sunshine and must have the shade; others leave the dusk of the forests for the glare of the desert country. Some prefer the prairies where zephyrs flit to and fro to the hill country where winds howl through woodland and creak down the gulleys.

There are many things in this world which we, with our finite minds, cannot understand. In olden times the falling of rain was an inexplicable mystery to the denizens of those days. They could never understand how the water got into the cloud, and getting there, how it remained suspended, or falling, why it should come in drops. Since that time, science has come along and told us there are two portions of air of different temperature, charged with moisture, and the decreasing of the temperature of one portion of this air makes it impossible for the water to longer float in the form of vapor, and condensing, it again falls to earth.

They tell us that some of these clouds which we see away up in the heavens, and which appear to be larger than a man's hand, are four or five thousand feet from tip to nose, and while to us they seem to be traveling along leisurely, yet in reality they are splitting the air with a rush of a mile a minute. After condensed have delved into the mysteries of the atmosphere and told us of their findings, there really are no more mysteries regarding them. It is just a matter of us accepting what we understand.

So it is with life, though we cannot always understand the meaning of the portending clouds which overhang us, nor the storms of destruction which sweep about us, laying low our fondest hopes and putting to waste our labor of years. Inevitably are our physical senses more acute than are our spiritual. Our thoughts should contain less interrogation marks and more exclamation points. More of the incidents of life should be punctuated with a period.

If we cannot understand such small things as a raindrop hanging like a pendant jewel on the tip of a green grass blade flashing its prismatic colors in the resplendent glow of the morning sun, how can we expect to dissolve the mystery of a tear-droplet? As the rains from heaven fall, relieving a serious condition of earth, so sometimes the rain of the heart quenches the burning condition of a soul.

As the showers replenish the earth, so tears replenish the soul. They soothe the heart and heal the aching breast. They bring peace to a troubled mind and rest to a burdened life. I espise them not. For aught I know they may be of divine origin. The Prophet of Uz said: "The rain hath a father," so it may be with tears. At any rate, should one take all the warm hearts that ever bent in all lands and all ages, and put them together, their united throbs would be very weak compared to the throbs of God's eternal sympathy. While we may not pause in our every-day hurry of life to be thankful for the flow of tears which is invariably followed by the flood of sunshine, yet we are grateful for the floods of rain to be followed by a refreshed and blossoming nature. They are much alike, both needed—the one mental-spiritual, the other physical. May we be grateful for each!

BILLY SUNDAY

In the summer of 1931 this columnist spent a four months vacation at Boulder, Colorado. Boulder is the home of the Chautauqua and they had secured Billy Sunday to spend the Chautauqua and Boulder Courier asked me to report it for them and this is as we reported it:

"America can't hand God the hot end of the poker and get away with it." With this thrust at frivolous living, and moonshine, Billy Sunday opened the 1931 Chautauqua season for an audience of close to 2,000 at the auditorium.

Sunday lambasted the forces of evil, and at the climax of his heated argument, threw off his coat, pulled up his sleeves, and showed boxes around the platform, declaring if he could, he would chase every evildoer in the nation out in the open and fight them round after round.

"Civilization rests on morals, and faces the country, is ruinous. This for laws and the dissipation that morals on religion. The discarded sime and tommyrot is breeding a race of flabby men. When virtue takes a joy ride, virtue never returns. They are trying to overthrow religion. Education can't save us. Build a red school house on every hill top and a college in every center of population and that won't save the country—forget it. Science can't save folks. Science gave us the weapons for the greatest war of all times. The Bible is still the greatest book for the people."

Sunday told his audience not to forget America is the land of greatest opportunity, and the arm which will not help protect it is unfit to live. Joy and sorrow look out of the same window. The hearse follows down the same street as the bridal party. The pauper and the rich rub elbows. Ambition battles for power. Vice associates with virtue, but the mother love around the hearthstone is one of the greatest influences for good. "If every cradle was rocked by a Christian mother the devil would sink the fire and hell would be for sent," he declared.

Sunday's super-thrust at evil was probably reached in the evening, when he delivered a strong broadside against the liquor traffic, the gangster and the bootlegger, speaking on the topic, "Crooks, Corkers, Bootleggers and Whisky Politicians, They Shall Not Pass."

The anti-Christ, some of the intellectuals, a lot of preachers, all the criminals, bootleggers, crooks, bur-geons, gangsters, and underworld characters are for repeal, and that's a good reason why any sane, upright, honest citizen should stand by the Eighteenth Amendment, according to his version.

"I wish they would leave prohibition and religion out of politics. I was against Al Smith, not because of his religion, for both believe in the same God, but because he is 'wet.' His man, woman or child will ever live to see the Stars and Stripes fly over an open saloon. The return of the saloon would overthrow civilization in America. If Bryan had been alive, Al Smith would never have received the nomination at Houston. These whisky-owned newspapers and magazines are doing more harm in America than Al Capone. There is nothing to do but fight. Prohibition at its worst is better than the saloon at its best. Seventy-four per cent of the trouble comes from these un-naturalized citizens. Every foreign law-violator should be deported. If they don't like the way we run this country, then they should get out."

Sunday delivered a scathing barrage at the crowd that wants to repeal the Eighteenth amendment. He told his audience to forget about the personal liberty argument. "Of course it interferes with personal liberty, if you want to break it. So does the law against murder, if you want to shoot a man. Why not repeal the Golden Rule or the Ten Commandments? They argue it isn't successful, it can't be enforced. Neither is the law against stealing successful. It has, however, closed every Keeley institution in the country, increased the savings accounts of the worker, bought life insurance policies, and saved millions of lives. Henry Ford says he would not attempt to make automobiles under saloon days again. There is nothing to do but fight."

VICE

Again, the evil of strong drink is apparently gaining rapidly. Taking the suggestion from the great tobacco corporations, which doubled the use of cigarettes by an aggressive, persistent campaign of advertising, the liquor traffic has evidently set out to make drinking common, as nearly universal as they are able to do. They are employing every legitimate form of advertising, handbills, newspapers and magazines, radio, and most insidious, and dangerous of all perhaps, the movies.

Alexander Pope expressed the idea in his lines: "Vice is a monster of such frightful mien As to be hated needs but to be seen; But seen too oft, familiar with her face

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

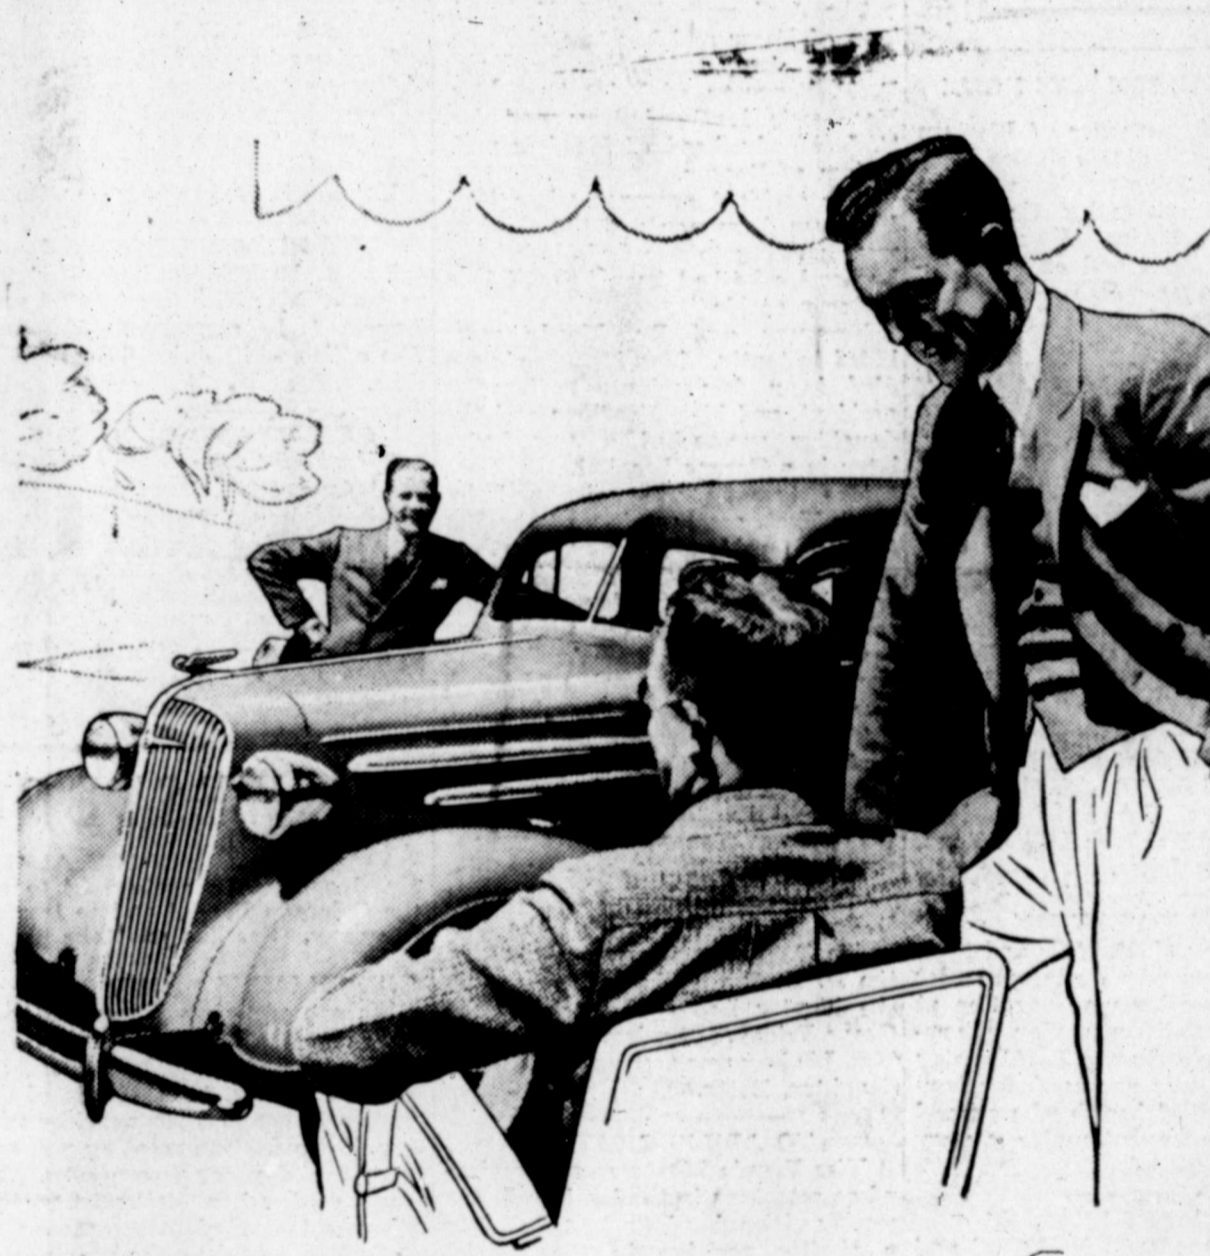

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Halleville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and so-lean. My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.
