

OUR REVIVAL WAS GREAT SUCCESS IN EVERY PHASE' METHODIST PASTOR AVERS

Nineteen Additions Resulted From Services Closing On Sunday Night; Others Of Community Reclaimed

Revival campaign closing Sunday evening at First Methodist church was "one of the most satisfactory in every phase to be considered that I have held in several years," the Rev. C. E. Jameson, pastor, stated Tuesday morning. The minister explained that he had reference to lasting benefits that would accrue to the cause of religion in this community as direct result of the services.

There were a total of nineteen additions to the church, eleven of whom were received on profession of faith and baptism, and eight on transfer by letter. In addition there were a number of reclamations, the exact total of which had not been tabulated, the pastor stated.

"I have held revivals under leadership of some of the greatest evangelists of our own and other churches and had the leadership of outstanding singers during my several years as a pastor, but to my mind George Tucker and his helper, H. E. Martin, formed the greatest revival team of them all," he said. "The congregation, too, is well pleased with the evangelistic party, the manner in which the services were conducted and the results obtained."

The largest congregation of the two weeks heard Rev. Mr. Tucker in his closing sermon address Sunday evening. Every available seat, after chairs had been placed about the auditorium, was taken. "The Tragedy of Indecision" was his text.

The Friday evening service was among the impressive high spots of the revival. Dedicated to the young people, a group that during the revival had held special services daily under leadership of Mr. Martin, this service was climaxed in several score boys and girls coming to the altar and dedicating their lives to Christianity.

"The Broken Home," built around story of the Prodigal Son, was sermon subject for the Saturday evening services. Sunday morning the evangelist talked from the subject, "The Supreme Question."

Rev. Tucker and Mr. Martin left Tuesday morning for Memphis, Tenn., their headquarters. They have been engaged for a revival at Loveland to open May 2, and at First church, Abilene July 4. Plans for a revival in Sweetwater to be held in September are being mapped.

FIVE YEARS PASTORATE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH IS BEING CLOSED BY O'BRIEN

Call Of United Churches In Stamford Effective May 2 Is Accepted; Family Will Remain In Colorado

Rev. Dick O'Brien, pastor of First Baptist church during the past five years, has resigned that position to accept call recently extended by the united congregations of First and Memorial churches in Stamford. The Colorado minister is to enter upon his new work Sunday, May 2.

Invitation that Rev. Mr. O'Brien accept pastorate of the Stamford congregation was extended on Wednesday evening, April 2, during conference at First church. 292 members of the united church units attended, voted by secret ballot and O'Brien received all of the votes. He had preached for them on the Sunday before and delivered address at church banquet on Monday evening, April 5.

The two Stamford churches were united on Wednesday evening, March 25 and appointed a pulp committee. On the following Sunday, Easter, this committee visited First Baptist church here to hear Rev. Mr. O'Brien preach. Rev. P. C. Williams, pastor of the Memorial church, and Rev. John Leaman, pastor of First church, tendered their resignations on Sunday, March 21, removing last obstacle that might have hindered plans to reunite the congregations.

The Memorial church had previously awarded contract for erection of a $15,000 plant. Excavations for the foundation had started when the consolidation move came into reality. $7,000 of the building fund had been raised in cash and this amount was later diverted to a $14,000 debt on plant of First church, leaving a $90,000 property with only $7,000 indebtedness.

During his pastorate in Colorado Rev. Mr. O'Brien has been an outstanding leader in religious, social and economic affairs. He has been an active member of the Lions club. He came to Colorado in May, 1932, from Floydada.

Mrs. O'Brien and the children are to continue their residence in Colorado until close of school. Miss Doris Wayne, their oldest daughter, is a senior in high school. Miss Marie is a member of the junior class and the twins, Robert and Richard, age 9, are in the third grade in wafd school.

NON-INTEREST IN AFFAIRS OF ROAD ORGANIZATION IS SOURCE OF CONCERN HERE

Citizens In This Section Of State Should Support The Broadway Of America, In Opinion Of C-C

Charge that Colorado and several other communities in this section of Texas were lax in support of the Broadway of America association to an "alarming degree" was issued Wednesday afternoon from the chamber of commerce. Continuation of such a policy might result in rerouting the international road around these communities, was challenge hurled by Jim Greene, manager of the chamber of commerce.

"I have just discussed the annual convention to be held in Memphis next month with chamber of commerce officials in important communities, both west and east of Colorado, through which the Broadway of America passes, and find that these, like our own citizenship, entertain little interest in the road organization and the meeting in May," Greene declared.

"I have an authoritative source on which to base my prediction, but I am going to say, nevertheless, that we are inviting inauguration of a move to reroute the Broadway around us," Greene continued. "Motion was offered before the State Highway Commission in Austin this week seeking to have State Highway 15 Federalized. It is a matter of common knowledge that this route, extending from Dallas west through Snyder, Hobbs, and Carlsbad to El Paso, is shorter than Highway One and that strong, organized effort is being made to improve the road from one side of Texas to the other. It is possible that officials of the Broadway of America might be influenced to consider that route for designation should communities in West Texas now being served by the road continue their aloofness."

Annual motorcade carrying delegates to the Memphis convention is due to arrive in Colorado from the Pacific Coast at 12:10 May 15. A stop of one hour and thirty minutes will be made for lunch. Whether or not Colorado enters cars in the caravan remains to be seen.

Greene recalled that Colorado was listed among communities of Texas from which delegates attending organization meeting of the highway association were drafted. "This community should continue to evidence strong interest in the association," he concluded.

Unique Setting For Birthday Party Held At First Christian Church On Wednesday

In a setting as unique as was the party itself, a "birthday" celebration was held for the entire membership of First Christian church in the church parlors Wednesday evening. The party was arranged by the Woman's Council of the church with Mrs. Sam Majors as general chairman.

Four units were arranged to represent the four seasons of the year, these units supplying the party setting.

First was the winter table, decorated in a Christmas motif. The table was covered in white linen and stood under a chandelier from which hung a large silver bell. Two strings of tiny silver bells hung from the larger bell to opposite corners of the table. On the other two corners stood silver poinsettias in pots covered with red cellophane. A silver Christmas tree centered the table.

The spring table stood under a tapestry depicting a spring scene. It was covered with a colorful linen cloth and centered with a silver stand filled with bluebonnets, standing on a large reflector. Vases of phlox and other spring flowers stood at each corner of the table.

A sand-table arrangement was used in the summer unit. It included a mirror pool with a china boat and a diving board, miniature bathing figures, two garden scenes with tiny chairs and doll figures, a bathing house, and a little tennis court. Small branches of cedar and wild flowers were used for trees and greenery.

Largest of all was the autumn unit. Standing against a realistic background of cloud-splashed blue sky was a farm scene, lighted from above. On one side of the tiny long house which centered the scene was a cedar covered hill, and at its base a pool of real water, with live fish (minnows) swimming about. A horse stood in a pasture near the pool. A tiny fisherman was on the pool's brink. On the other side of the house was a fenced field with tiny shocks of harvested feed, a tree, and a turkey.

When the more than 100 guests arrived they formed a circle and sang "Happy Birthday" to each other, with Miss Louise Hardison at the piano. Then they marched about the room and each one put a penny for each of his years in a jar on the unit representing the season in which his birthday occurred. Over $28.00 was taken from the jars after the march and turned over to the church treasury.

Stunts were then presented by each of the four seasonal groups. Mrs. Sam Majors and the Rev. and Mrs. A. L. Haley were in charge of the fall stunt. Mrs. Pete Pickens, Mrs. Leslie Crowder, and Mrs. Ed Jones, Sr., arranged the winter stunt. Julia Mae Root, Margie Carlock, and Frances Mackey had charge of the summer stunt. The spring stunt was in charge of Mrs. A. C. Anderson and Mrs. John Williams.

Most hilarious of all was the summer stunt—a mock wedding with W. W. Porter as the bride, Troy Erwin as the groom, the Rev. Mr. Haley as the minister, John Smith as train-leader and T. J. Goss, Allen Porter, and Bim Carlock as bridesmaids; J. H. Carlock was the ringbearer. The wedding solo was by Mrs. Leslie Crowder, with Mrs. Mary Lee Brown at the piano.

The spring group presented a skit called "The Man on the Street." Spookiness flavored the autumn stunt. Santa Claus came with "gifts for all" in the winter stunt.

Refreshments of sandwiches, potato chips, iced tea and cake were served.

DETAILED STORY GIVEN ON DEATH OF GEORGE N. McDANIEL, GEORGETOWN

Although The Record last week carried a brief story on the death of George N. McDaniel of Georgetown, brother-in-law of Mrs. Bert Wulfjen of Colorado, a more detailed story is available this week.

Mr. McDaniel died at his home in Georgetown on Thursday, April 8, after a long illness. He was 72 years of age. His wife is now here visiting her sister, Mrs. Wulfjen.

Born in Bagdad, 12 miles from Georgetown, on Feb. 25, 1865, Mr. McDaniel was a native of Williamson county. While he was still a boy his family moved to Burnett county, where his father had business interests. Later they returned to Bagdad. Mr. McDaniel received his business college training in Quincy, Ill.

He entered business in Georgetown in 1893, when he became the business partner of J. B. Salyer, brother-in-law of F. B. Whipkey of Colorado. Later he bought out Mr. Salyer's interest and also bought the Sutton & Sharpe hardware business, combining the two.

He remained in the hardware business until 1920, more than a quarter of a century. He was noted for his work in promoting good roads for Georgetown and Williamson county, serving as president of the good roads association and always donating generously for good road funds.

After his retirement from the hardware business Mr. McDaniel operated large wheat farms in West Texas, among them being farms near Colorado and Plainview. At one time he and Mrs. McDaniel lived for about eight months on their "Dollar" farm near Colorado.

In 1903 Mr. McDaniel was married to Miss Bertie Fowler of Georgetown, sister of Mrs. Bert Wulfjen of Colorado. Four children were born to them. A little girl, Martha Emmeline, died at the age of two. Three sons surviving are: George N. McDaniel, Jr., of Borger; Fowler E. McDaniel of Happy, and Moran K. McDaniel of Galveston. Other survivors in addition to Mrs. McDaniel and the three sons are a brother, Milton McDaniel of Georgetown, and two sisters, Miss Geneva McDaniel and Mrs. D. A. Wells, both of Georgetown. A half-brother, R. T. White, lives in Abilene.

Last rites were held for Mr. McDaniel at his home in Georgetown on Friday morning, April 9, with the Rev. Edmund Heinsohn of the University Methodist church in Austin officiating, assisted by the Rev. W. C. Childress of the Georgetown First Methodist church. Special music was given by Mrs. Frances Wright Hausenflug, who sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Active pallbearers were A. W. Sillure, A. W. Gray, C. C. Hamilton, T. W. Ilson, Eric Lundblad, M. F. Smith, D. K. Wilcox, and E. M. Grimes of Taylor. Honorary pallbearers were: E. H. Eanes, W. H. Davis, Fred Belford, W. H. Nunn, Sam Stone, S. A. Hodges, D. L. Noble, W. F. Sauer, R. T. Cooper, J. E. Cooper, Gus Munson, Henry Lundblad, Bob Stone, H. N. Graves, D. W. Wilcox, Henry Price, Tom Hughes, C. C. Cawen, Tom Fisher, Tom Keener, Lee M. Taylor, and Dr. A. L. Hawkins of Tulia, Texas.

Beautifully Appointed Shower At Ed Majors Home Honors Corinne Lupton

One of the most beautiful social affairs held in Colorado in recent months was the reception and shower with which Mrs. Ed Majors and Mrs. Byron Byrne honored Corinne Lupton, bride-elect of Merl Morgan, Monday evening at the Majors home.

The receiving room was a bower of spring flowers—bluebonnets, lilacs, poppies, wild leather, phlox. A white bowl of bluebonnets on the mantle was flanked by vases of asparagus fern. A floor lamp of bridal wreath and wild verbena stood against the registration table at the end of the receiving line.

Gifts were received on the veranda by members of the houseparty. Guests were met at the door by Mrs. Byrne. The receiving line included Mrs. Majors; Miss Frank Lupton, mother of the honoree; Miss Lupton; and Mary Frances Majors.

Frances Lupton, sister of the honoree, presided over the bride's book, which was made of white satin and adorned with hand-painted roses. It was tied with green and orchid ribbon and mailed.

The honoree wore an evening gown of pink mousseline de sole with cornflower corsages on either shoulder. Members of the houseparty were in evening dress.

The houseparty included Josephine Chesney, Mrs. John Houston Lupton of Gall, Annetta Lacy, Mary Belle Brennand, Hettie Adele Hutchinson, Mrs. Jamie Morgan of Monahans, Alice Morgan of Monahans, Mrs. J. H. Greene, Mrs. Oscar Majors, and Mrs. Harry Ratliff.

A program which included three vocal solos was presented. Mrs. C. A. Wilkins sang with Mrs. E. L. Latham accompanying. Mrs. Charles Mooser with Mrs. Frances Mackey accompanying, and Mrs. R. D. Buchanan with Mrs. Latham accompanying.

Piano selections were played during the evening by Josephine Chesney.

A May basket tied with pink and filled with bluebonnets and fern was brought in and presented to Miss

Burns Fatal To Little Tommy Banos At Root Hospital Early Tuesday Morning

Little Tommy Banos is dead. A few weeks ago very few Coloradans knew who 3-year-old Tommy Banos was. Now there are very few who don't know.

For the case of Tommy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Banos, has excited deeper sympathy than anything that has happened here in a long, long time.

Exactly a month ago Tommy, trying to help his mother in the little Oak street cafe which she was operating while Mr. Banos sought work elsewhere, carried a jar of gasoline to a stove which needed refilling. He dropped the jar, the flames from the stove leaped out to the liquid, and the floor of the little cafe became a mass of flame.

Little Tommy was burned deeply to the waist before his mother could rescue him. She herself was also badly burned about the legs. Both were carried to Root hospital. Mrs. Banos is still a patient there and will be for some time to come.

At dawn Tuesday morning little Tommy's overtaxed heart stopped beating. His life had been despaired of, hooded for, and despaired of again a half dozen times in the month he lived after the burns.

When he was well enough, Tommy shared his mother's room at the hospital. When the nurses came to dress his wounds Tommy always said: "Oh Mamma first, Tommy doesn't hurt—Mamma does."

A visitor at the hospital one day saw them lying on the same bed, mother and son, sobbing quietly together.

The father, a short, dark-haired man who wears horn-rimmed spectacles, had found a job—a good job—when the accident happened. He gave up the job and came home as soon as he learned about it.

Little Tommy was the light of his life. He came to the funeral parlor at Jones, Russell & company while they were preparing Tommy's body Tuesday morning carrying a paper sack. It was filled with Tommy's toys. A little book, some Easter dimes, a celluloid windmill.

He stood by Tommy's still little body and showed him the book. He showed him the Easter rabbit. He held and showed him the book. He "babbed" didn't reply.

Dinner Honored Corinne Lupton Saturday Night

A dinner arranged by Miss Mary Belle Brennand and Miss Hettie Adele Hutchinson Saturday evening honored Miss Corinne Lupton, who is to be married Sunday afternoon to Merl Morgan.

The affair was held at the Hutchinson home, which was profusely decorated with spring flowers featuring the bride-elect's color scheme—pink, orchid, and green.

Quartet tables were covered with white Madeira cloths and centered with bowls of sweet peas and phlox. At each plate stood tiny individual pot plants, the little pots wrapped in green and tied with pink. The pot plant flowers were orchid, completing the color scheme. Place cards were in the bridal motif.

Seated at the table with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. Frank Lupton; her sister, Mrs. Jamie Morgan of Monahans; and Miss Brennand.

The meal was served in three courses, including fruit cocktail; a main course of chicken croquets, molded salad, new potatoes, asparagus, and hot rolls; a dessert course of brick ice cream in the featured colors and angel food cake.

Bingo was played after dinner, each winner receiving kitchen ware which she presented to the honoree. Miss Lupton binged the fourth time and received as prize a surprise shower of kitchen utensils.

Those assisting the hostesses in entertaining were Annetta Lacy, Frances Lupton, Mrs. R. S. Brennand, and Mrs. Ralph Beal. Other guests included Mesdames Frank Lupton, Joe Pond, Henry Doss, Jr., Harold Bennett, Bruce Campbell, E. O. Hydson, and Jamie Morgan of Monahans; Misses Laura L. Pearson, Lois Swain, Josephine Chesney, Mabel Phillips of Rotan, Julia Mae Root, Loyce Price, Kack Price, Erdine Morgan, Laura Belle Grantland, Elizabeth Grantland, Mary Frances Majors, and the honoree.

'Rout Bootlegger' Slogan Coined By Beer Supporters

Business Interests Of City Insist That Traffic Should Be Legally Controlled

The question is not whether or not beer is to be sold in Mitchell county, but, rather that of collecting the stipulated State, county and city tax and placing the traffic under regulation as the law provides, contend a group of Mitchell county business men in advancing claim that voters should support proposal to legalize beer sales in Tuesday's election.

"Other reasons, as seen by these citizens, are listed in page advertisement carried in this edition of The Record. The present situation, giving exclusive sale of the beverage to the bootlegger, is catalogued as disgraceful and one that should be taken "out of the dark and placed in the light."

Figures are quoted to show financial income to the government through tax levies against beer dispensers. This money, it is pointed out, goes into the State school and old age pension funds.

Hermleigh Pioneers In Annual Reunion At Buffalo Gap Note Founder's Passing

Pioneers of Hermleigh who Sunday attended second annual reunion at historic Buffalo Gap near Abilene were made to feel sorrow as they missed George Holliday, organizer of the association from their midst. Holliday, remembered by all those attending the celebration as a man beloved universally in his home community, had died a short time before in an Abilene hospital from injuries received in a motor car wreck.

Another Hermleigh pioneer, who had looked forward with interest to the second annual meeting and who, too, was popular among citizens who in other years made their home in the Southwest Scurry county community, was not there. George Hamilton had followed Mr. Holliday in death and had been given last rites at Hermleigh only two days before.

West Texans from several communities converged at the attractive resort grounds to enjoy the reunion and reminiscence days of yesteryear. Many of them had not been brought together for some time. Others were newcomers, residing in the same communities. All were ushered into the spirit of fellowship that only comes when good friends of other days are brought together.

Among those attending were the following:

Mrs. George Holliday, Clyde Holliday, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Williams, G. D. Williams, Tommie Williams, Jaunita Williams and Sylvia Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Reed, Fay Kelley, Fern Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rea, Betty Ruts Rea, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stephenson, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Mobley, Charlot Mobley, Max Mobley.

Mrs. J. L. Breeden, Herbert Brock, Mr. and Mrs. D. Y. Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Will Cathey, Nelle Cathey, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Lemoir, Annie Rea, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rea, and Miss Hattie Rea, all of Hermleigh; Walter Gentry of Anson, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Billingsley of Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Fowler of Talpa, Miss Josephine Nally of Talpa, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Austin of Aspermont, Miss Nellie Mae Browning of Aspermont, Misses Gertie and Hattie Herff of Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Day of Stanton.

LEADED GASOLINE VS. UNLEADED GASOLINE

Extract from U. S. Department of Commerce Air Commerce Bulletin Issued Monthly by the Bureau of Air Commerce Vol. 7, Washington, Sept. 15, 1935 No. 3.

GASOLINE

The test was started with gasoline No. 1, an automobile gasoline, with octane rating of 73, using 2 cubic centimeters of lead.

The run-in of approximately 30 hours was made with this gasoline with satisfactory operation. The revolutions per minute during this period were gradually increased up to 4,000; thus the horsepower output for most of the run was low.

The 300-hour run was started with gasoline no. 1. At 24 hours of operation trouble started. The engine lost 200 revolutions per minute; wide open. Everything was checked and still the reason for loss of 200 revolutions per minute could not be found. The cylinder head was removed and a white deposit about one-thirty-second of an inch thick was found all inside of the combustion chamber. The exhaust valve had a heavy brown deposit on the top. Six new exhaust valves were installed.

During this period the engine was started and run up to wide open revolutions per minute at least 100 times. At 27 hours we started using gasoline no. 2, an aviation gasoline without lead, and ran for 7 hours. The white deposit left the exhaust stacks, and the engine did not lose revolutions per minute after running wide open.

At 35 hours no. 1 was again used. At 60 hours the same trouble of losing 200 revolutions per minute after running wide open began to appear. The same white deposit was found upon removal of the head and the 200 revolutions per minute regained upon cleaning away the powder.

At 69 hours the head was again cleaned of the white powder.

At 90 hours the same trouble started again and we decided to change to aviation gasoline.

Throughout the above 90 hours the valves seemed to stretch as the clearance became less, which apparently was caused by the excessive heat of the head.

Gasoline no. 3, which was another aviation gasoline without lead, was used from 95 to 103 hours. The white deposit did not form and there was no loss of revolutions per minute wide open.

From 104 to 108 hours no. 1 was again used and the white deposit started to form with the loss of revolutions per minute wide open.

From 109 to 143 hours no. 3 was used with no loss of revolution per minute wide open, no white powder, and no valve stretch.

From 144 hours to completion of the test, no. 4, an automobile grade gasoline, was used with no trouble whatsoever. Its performance seemed to equal that of either grade of aviation gasoline. At the end of the run, the valves were in good shape and the inside of the combustion chamber clean.

Octane Gasoline does not contain lead, and if your motor is properly tuned and adjusted it will not clatter in any car or truck. Lead is not a fuel. It will not burn. Why run something through your motor that causes excessive heat in the valves and gums up the combustion chambers? Octane Gasoline is made from sweet crude oil in one of the most modern refineries in the South.

MITCHELL ELECTORATE TO WRITE EDICT TUESDAY ON BEER SALES CONTROVERSY

Expected Light Vote To Be Registered As Question Is Settled At The Ballot Box Majority To Rule

Whether or not the sale of beer shall be legalized in Mitchell county will again be determined as voters mark ballots in special referendum election next Tuesday. Election to settle the issue was ordered Tuesday of last week by county commissioners' court on petition of over three hundred citizens.

This is to mark third time within as many years that the electorate of this county have written edict on this question. In both of the former elections the drys were successful by majorities ranging from less than 100 the first time to a larger lead in the second. A majority of the votes cast will determine the issue.

That a light vote will be polled is predicted by local observers. This rule is expected to follow with stronger emphasis in the rural communities where farmers are busy in their fields. However, interest in the issue, already growing at Colorado and others of the larger voting subdivisions, may result in disproving that prophesy.

All citizens of the county qualified to participate in general elections under the laws of Texas will be entitled to participate in the election. This includes "overs" and "unders" not required by statute to pay poll tax.

People Of Payne Baptist Church Solve Problem Of Activity In Rural Churches

The people of the Payne Baptist church believe that they have solved the problem of putting real life into rural Sunday school, B.T.U., and church activities.

When the quarterly meeting of the Sunday school and B.T.U. organizations of the Mitchell-Scurry Baptist association was held at Buford recently the Payne B.T.U. won all available banners but one.

The church has recently prepared a home so that its pastor can live among his members. The pastor is the Rev. H. B. Naylor, who has been living in Colorado. He has been pastor of the church since he entered the ministry, four years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Naylor has been anxious to move out and live among his people for a long time. He makes this frank statement:

"I believe the solution to the rural church situation is this—see that the pastor lives among his people, becomes one of them."

The Payne Baptist Sunday school has an enrollment of 107 with a regular attendance averaging 80. That is one of the best—if not the best—Sunday school ratings in the county.

Earl Cook is Sunday school superintendent. Miss Estelle Dossey is B.T.U. secretary. Recently she mailed out cards containing a list of fifteen B.T.U. members who had made a grade of 100 over a period of three months. On that card appeared the following names:

Hiram Duffer, Mrs. Earl Cook, Porter Hammons, Geraldine Walker, Margaret Naylor, Marie Duffer, Vernon Hays, Willard Welch, Novellene Naylor, Estelle Dossey, Earl Cook, Wesley Hays, Opal Lindley, Irene Dossey, and Grace Dossey.

The average staple length of Texas cotton, including the commodity produced in this immediate section of the State, is decreasing annually, a fact that is costing planters millions of dollars every year, E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas Extension Service at College Station, states in communication received by The Record and addressed to cotton growers of the Colorado territory.

The college official expressed satisfaction in the news that campaign looking to improving the staple had been launched here with apparent good results. The fact that cotton growers of this area are demanding an improved planting seed indicates that they are concerned as to future stability of the State's major farm industry and have entered definitely into program to remedy a deteriorating condition, he suggested.

Along with gradual decline in length of the Texas staple, cotton produced in this State through several years has been inferior to the general average of the South, Miller said. "The difference in the length of staple may not look like so much when expressed in terms of sixteenths of an inch, but in dollars it represents an annual loss that runs into millions," he declared.

That Mitchell county and other sections of Texas are paying attention to improving the length of its staple is indicated by the interest farmers, 4-H and FFA, club boys, ginners, bankers, merchants, brokers and others connected with or affected by the cotton industry are showing in the situation for 1937," to quote further from Mr. Miller's statement.

It has been but a few years that cotton produced in Mitchell county was rated high in staple qualities. Local brokers recall that back in the twenties premiums were paid local growers because they were offering on the market a superior product. Gradual decline in length of the staple has been registered during the past 12 to 15 years.

The speaker was expressing appreciation for cooperation during the revival by pastors of other churches and members of their congregations. "There is no reason to accept that religion should not attain progress in this community under their leadership," he suggested after offering appeal that parishioners here lend stronger support to their ministers and their church programs.

Candidacy Of Joe Pond Entitled To Support Of Lions

Whipkey 'Reads Riot Act' To Group Friday, Charging Negligence To Duty

"This Lions Club can do more voting to adopt some motion and then forget about the responsibilities involved quicker and more absolutely than any club I know anything about," charged President Walter Whipkey as he called members of the service organization on the carpet Friday when non-activity in support of Joe Pond for district governor was charged.

"Out of a membership of 66, I find that four of you Lions have interested yourselves to extent of addressing letters to a fellow Lion in another town, inviting support of our candidate," Whipkey continued. "Now if you Lions are not going to get down to work on this matter, we had just as well stop right now before we get our tail wet," he continued.

The Rev. George Tucker, evangelist in meeting at First Methodist church, amused the Lions with his humor, telling a round of stories that produced prolonged rounds of laughter. Mr. Martin, the evangelist singer and Rev. Cleveland Autry of Abilene, were other visitors to be presented.

STAPLE OF TEXAS COTTON IS DECREASING IN LENGTH LOCAL PLANTERS ADVISED

Difference Is Costing Texas Citizens Millions Annually College Station Authority Notes In Report

The average staple length of Texas cotton, including the commodity produced in this immediate section of the State, is decreasing annually, a fact that is costing planters millions of dollars every year, E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas Extension Service at College Station, states in communication received by The Record and addressed to cotton growers of the Colorado territory.

Colorado Pastors Are Given Praise By George Tucker

Their Sincere Cooperation In Affairs Of The Church Unique, He States

Congregations representing the several religious faiths in Colorado should appreciate the pastors who are leading them because "you have in this fair little city one of the finest groups of preachers that I have ever been privileged to associate with," Rev. George Tucker, Memphis evangelist, stated during closing service at First Methodist church Sunday evening.

The speaker was expressing appreciation for cooperation during the revival by pastors of other churches and members of their congregations. "There is no reason to accept that religion should not attain progress in this community under their leadership," he suggested after offering appeal that parishioners here lend stronger support to their ministers and their church programs.

'Bishops Crusade' Banquet Slated At Methodist Church

Justice Leslie Of Eastland To Speak; Affair Will Be Held Friday Evening

The "Bishops' Crusade" banquet, foreign missionary benefit program to be given in Southern Methodist churches throughout the country, will be held in Colorado Friday evening at First Methodist church, beginning at 8 o'clock. Plate reservations have been set at $1.

Chief Justice W. P. Leslie of the Eastland court of civil appeals, a former Coloradoan, is to deliver the principal address. Mrs. J. G. Merritt is to preside as master of ceremonies. A program of special music will be given.

The urge that every Colorado Methodist purchase one of the reservation tickets was advanced Monday by Mrs. Merritt. Ladies of the church are to donate items to be served on the menu and the funds received will go toward liquidating an outstanding debt of $365,000 against the church missionary department.

"I feel that our people are going to support this program liberally, and it is my prediction that not only will the $385,000 deficit be erased as Southern Methodist everywhere attend banquets of this kind Friday night, but that the church will have one million dollars for missions, after the plate sales have been counted," Rev. C. E. Jameson, pastor, announced Sunday morning.

The program is to be opened with music by the orchestra. Song, "The Kingdom Is Coming," by choir, will be sung after which the Scripture lesson and prayer will be offered by Rev. C. E. Jameson. A pageant, "The New Crusade," will follow, featuring Mrs. Farris Bass, Miss Hazel Grubbs and Gordon King.

Another song by the choir and then the address by Justice Leslie. "We Are Able," is title of a solo to be rendered by Miss Gladys Miller. A social hour in the church basement will close the program.

REMINISCENSES OF LIFE IN UNCLE SAM'S ARMY REVIVED BY RAIL CREW

"That brings back memories of World War days when the recruit, just to keep fit, would be called upon to move a pile of something from one location to another, and then move the stuff back again," suggested a Colorado vet Tuesday morning as he watched crew moving a pile of stone from one side of the T-P passenger station to another.

In instance of the pile of stone, however, the labor was not done to supply energy building exercise to the men. They were being taken from grounds east of the station as first stop looking to improving the property into an attractive park. Agreement to convert the unsightly arrangement into a beauty spot was reached a few days ago between the city and railway.

'COLORADO RECORD ONE OF CLEANEST SHEETS I HAVE NOTICED'—TUCKER

The Record is one of the best country newspapers of the country and one meriting the liberal consideration of the people of this city and section, the Rev. George Tucker, evangelist, declared during closing service of revival at First Methodist church Sunday evening.

"I thank God there are still newspapers appreciating the fact there is news in the events of religion. The paper is one of the cleanest sheets I have ever seen. You people who are not reading it should subscribe," he stated.

The evangelist offered tribute to the local press after the pastor, Rev. C. E. Jameson, had expressed appreciation to various individuals and organizations, including The Record, for support during the revival.

ALCOHOL AFFECTS MAN'S BEST FACULTIES, CHARGE

REV. HALEY GIVES FAIRVIEW PROGRAM

That alcohol is a deteriorating effect on man's better faculties was charged during an address at First Christian church Sunday morning by Dr. C. L. Root, local physician and surgeon. The speaker attacked usages of liquor in all forms as a beverage. Dr. Root addressed the church's assembly during regular preaching hour.

Featuring the chalk drawings and magic tricks of the Rev. A. L. Haley of Colorado, the Fairview Home Demonstration club presented a program at the community house on Thursday night.

The chalk drawings were "Home Sweet Home" and "Aloha Oe." Proceeds of the program will be used in the club budget.

A JUNIOR LOOKS AT OPPORTUNITY

Opportunity is a good chance. When we enter high school as Freshmen we are enthusiastic over the prospect of starting a new job that takes four years to complete and many hours of work to do it well. When the spring days roll around it is so hard to concentrate on our books instead of the swimming pool, but when we get our report cards we feel that it all has been worth the effort. We become interested in our lessons and grades after our Sophomore and Junior years have passed because we are Seniors! When Graduation Day comes, there are some happy Seniors and some unhappy ones too, because they failed to take advantage of the opportunity to work toward graduation. The happy Seniors have reason to be happy; they are ready to reap what they planted. They haven't failed to make the most of their opportunities. Therefore they are going out in life prepared! Is it not best, then, to make the most of one's opportunities?

SPANISH NEWS

On Tuesday night at 6:45 p.m. the members of the Pan-American Student Forum began a gala evening. First, at the Baptist church basement, a Mexican dinner was served. The menu consisted of rice, pineapple salad, tomato juice, enchiladas, Fritos, Spanish rice, beans, and Mexican candy. The president of La Tertulia, Jane Daniels, presided. Currently, popular songs translated into Spanish were sung, with Mary Frances Mackey at the piano and Elizabeth Pidgeon leading.

Then a scavenger hunt began, which lasted until 9. The articles to be found were an old white shoe, a pink shirt, a green elephant, an empty Campbell tomato juice can (try to find one), a rooster feather, and a burnt-out light globe. The winning group was Mary Frances Mackey, Mary Eleanor Rogers, Frances Elliott, and Rebecca Smoot. Prizes of small pictures were drawn by the first two.

The group attended the second show of "The General Died at Dawn" and climaxed a very happy evening by crawling into bed around midnight.

Those attending these three entertainments were Rheaudean Barrard, Myra Brown, Jane Daniels, Hiram Duffer, Frances Elliott, Martha Jane Majors, Mary E. Pidgeon, Mary E. Adrain Clark was leader.

After an assigned roll call, Mrs. James Logan discussed "The Development of Natural Resources" and Mrs. Bob May told about "Transportation."

Mrs. Dudley Snyder was placed on the year book committee in the place of Mrs. Fred Brown, who has resigned to move to Dallas. It was announced that the club will have its April 30 lesson on April 23, as it has accepted an invitation to visit the 1921 Study club on April 30. Mrs. Snyder will be hostess this week.

NEGROES APPRECIATIVE

I feel it my duty to take this method of expressing appreciation and gratitude to Supt. J. E. Watson, each member of local trustee board and all others, who have played vital parts in the acquisition of the new negro school building now under construction.

The Negro populace, as a whole, is thoroughly satisfied with that they have seen and will show that satisfaction by preservation and care of building and the making attractive of grounds immediately surrounding building.

The faculty will demonstrate their gratitude by teaching and developing objective, within the classrooms, that will tend to lead the coming generations of colored Colorado citizens to the more beautiful, more intelligent, cleaner and saner ideals of life and living, in order that they may better fit and be more in joint with the social and economic conditions of an ever increasingly progressive world.

Again I say we thank you!
FARLEY V. LEWIS, Principal.

ENGLISH CLASS

Miss Miller's English classes are taking up the study of magazines this six weeks. Just reading magazines is not nearly so interesting or so informing as a study of the magazines themselves. Among the questions that are being studied by the classes are:

What does the name reveal about the contents or policy of the magazines?

To what sort of reader, or to what characteristics of the reader does the cover appeal?

Is the appeal one of interest in human nature?

Is the content pastime reading?

Is the policy of the magazine obviously directed by certain ideals?

Is the general tone of the magazine conservative or radical?

Are the articles thoughtful and constructive?

Are the stories wholesome?

Is the magazine merely chatter or gossip about people?

To what type of people in general is the advertising directed?

Do the advertisements appeal to people of widely different interests and tastes?

Does it state that all advertisers have been investigated and their products found to be as represented?

Does the magazine guarantee its advertising?

All the questions are worth thinking over, and if more people would study these magazines, they would enjoy reading magazines more for the information instead of merely amusement.

THE CHORAL CLUB GOES WEST

Monday, April 19, the Choral Club went on their singing tour West. They left the high school here about fifteen minutes until nine and reached Westbrook a few minutes after nine where they sang first.

From Westbrook they went on to Cosham and from there to Big Spring. They arrived at twenty minutes after nine. The members of the club passed the time until one-thirty shopping and having lunch. At one-thirty, they sang over station KBST.

The numbers presented were: "Little Green Valley," "Pickaninn Sandman," "Carmens Waltz Song," "Chinese Lullaby," "Moonlight and Shadows," "Glow-worm," "Bells of St. Mary's," "Hymn of Love," Venetian Love Song, "Quartet," "Neopolitan Nights," "Trio and "Spanish Senorita,"—Trio.

ASSEMBLY BAND PROGRAM

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock on April 20, the High school band gave a concert of 30 minutes for the High school and Junior High school pupils. Also outsiders were invited.

The band opened the program with the two numbers, "34th Division March" and "Light Cavalry Overture." The other numbers were: "Popular Band Melody," "March Gloria," "Moonlight on the Nile" and closed with the "New Colonial March."

This concert was given to raise money for the band to go to the annual contest in Lubbock and to buy the band's drum major a uniform. The crowd attending the concert heaped the enthusiasm of the band members and their director because the band depends upon the support of the school and also the town to go forward.

BAND CONCERT OVER KBST

Sunday afternoon the High school band gave a 30 minute concert over the Big Spring radio hookup KBST. This was an honor for the band as well as an honor for the city of Colorado.

They played the following numbers: "New Colonial March," "Old Times Waltz," "34th Division March," "Panora Overture," "Trombone Blues," "National High School Band."

Telephone calls and wires were received all during the program and it made the band feel proud to know they were being boosted.

COMMERCIAL NOTES

Helm and Stenin, wholesale jewelers are certainly having a time this month. A recent financial statement showed a loss of five thousand dollars over a period of one month. Then the next day another statement was turned in to the proprietors and this one showed a profit of three thousand dollars above all expense. Yes, Helm and Stein certainly got busy to see what was the matter; that is, their business manager who is in control of their branch in this district did.

Do you like to argue? Well, the Commercial Law class seems to like it. Did you know that three plus nine equaled seventeen? I didn't either until the other day. Yes, it takes a mighty intelligent person to get along these days. And if you are intending to visit the Law class be sure not to make any absurd statement for if you're not careful you will be contradicting yourself in five seconds.

When we finish the unit on Negotiable Instruments we are planning on having a mock trial in which some of the principles of law relative to Negotiable Instruments will be used. Don't you think that Ed Morrison, Weldon Nuckolls, and Grover Buchanan would make good lawyers? Why they will even argue with a highway marker. And don't you think that Marybel Crosswaite, June Cox, and Elna Womack would make good witnesses? Why, they would get on the stand and never give the lawyers a chance to ask a question. And as far as the jury goes, it looks as if it might be hard to find 12 persons who could qualify as a juror, for as you know a juror must come up to several qualifications and is supposed to be a competent party.

Another peculiar thing is the desire to avoid the fair sex which is present in the Commercial Law class. If one will notice, one day the boys will be on one side of the room and the next day the girls move over on the same side. And then the next day the girls come in, sit down and the boys for some reason or other have shifted sides. What's the matter boys? Afraid the girls will bring suit for alienation of affections?

THIRD YEAR ENGLISH

After studying some short stories and analyzing them, the students of the third year English class attempted writing some. Some of the results were very interesting and showed application of previous study. Ideas were obtained from various sources. Dale Simpson obtained his inspiration in chemistry class. Some of the others were thrilling kidnapping plots. Characters were carried to foreign lands and plunged into exciting adventures.

This week "The Last Leaf" by O. Henry was dramatized. Different views were taken on the story. The best dramatization will be acted later in the term.

CHORAL CLUB ENTERTAINING

Monday afternoon at 1:35 o'clock, six girls rushed down the stairs with books in arms, and hurried over to Mrs. Millwee's to listen to the Choral club sing over KBST at Big Spring. They were very enthusiastic listeners and decided suddenly to call in to tell the group how much they were enjoying the program. It was excellent.

GLOOM?

Have you noticed the downcast look on each face of the Home Economics girls lately? You see, Miss Hargrove has resigned to become Home Demonstration Agent in Stone-well county. She plans to leave shortly after their trip to the State Rally in Fort Worth next week. Miss Hargrove has been here three years and has become an outstanding teacher and every pupil loves her.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Correction on last week's Campus Camera: Jimmie Harrison was saving the seat for Harriet Etta and Billie Chaney was saving one for Catherine Slagel in the meeting last week.

Cora Mae Bodine went for a swimming party Wednesday afternoon.

Gene Morrison, Beulah Francis Robinson, Harriet Ann Pritchett, Ella Jean Whiton, Kathryn Hodges, and Cooty Bodine went for a spring swim in the Bodine's swimming pool.

After the swim the "girls" returned to the house and tasted refreshments consisting of punch and cookies.

We have the pleasure of having some visitors in school on rare occasions. They are: Billie Mann, Charlie Carter, Lewis Hughes, Bonnie Jackson, W. L. Neff, Beeman Dockrey decided a few weeks ago that it wasn't much fun to be a visitor so now he is a regular member of the gang.

Julia Helen Burrows is advertising for a person to carry her unlimited supply of books.

Junior Cox doesn't like the modern way of riding so close and crowded together and neither does his companion Harriet Etta Landers.

Cooty, what a place to get stuck, down in a creek bed. Joe Robinson had a tough time pushing the car out but you know how strong he is, a second Popeye.

PHYSICAL ED OF GREAT INTEREST TO FISH AND SOPHS

The freshmen and sophomore girls have physical education classes two days each week under the direction of Miss Yates. The girls have learned folk dances of several lands, which they did not long ago in assembly, and several games. Now the classes are divided into two groups, one plays tennis and the other plays volleyball.

The girls are enjoying this kind of recreation and their activities have created a great deal of interest. Many of the girls play volleyball at noon and would enjoy playing all day, no doubt, for this is one class they seem really to enjoy.

SCOTCH INFLUENCE IN ENGLISH CLASS

The Senior English students were delighted Monday morning when they discovered a Scotchman in the class. It happened thus:

When Miss Barrett entered the room she beheld Joe Cox industriously exercising his jaws on a large wad of gum. She asked him to take it out or do something with it until after class; so he popped it behind one of those frocked ears of his and class proceeded. Toward the end of the class, the tutor happened to glance again in his direction and he had removed the gum from his ear, and put it back in his mouth. Thus, Joe is a real Scotchman, and the class is slightly conceited in having one. Maybe others will turn up as the year ends, but until then Joe is the only recognized Scotchman of the class.

KEEP MITCHELL COUNTY MONEY AT HOME

Vote to Legalize the Sale of Beer at the ELECTION TUESDAY, APRIL 27TH

Are We Powerful Enough to Control the Sale of Beer in Mitchell County

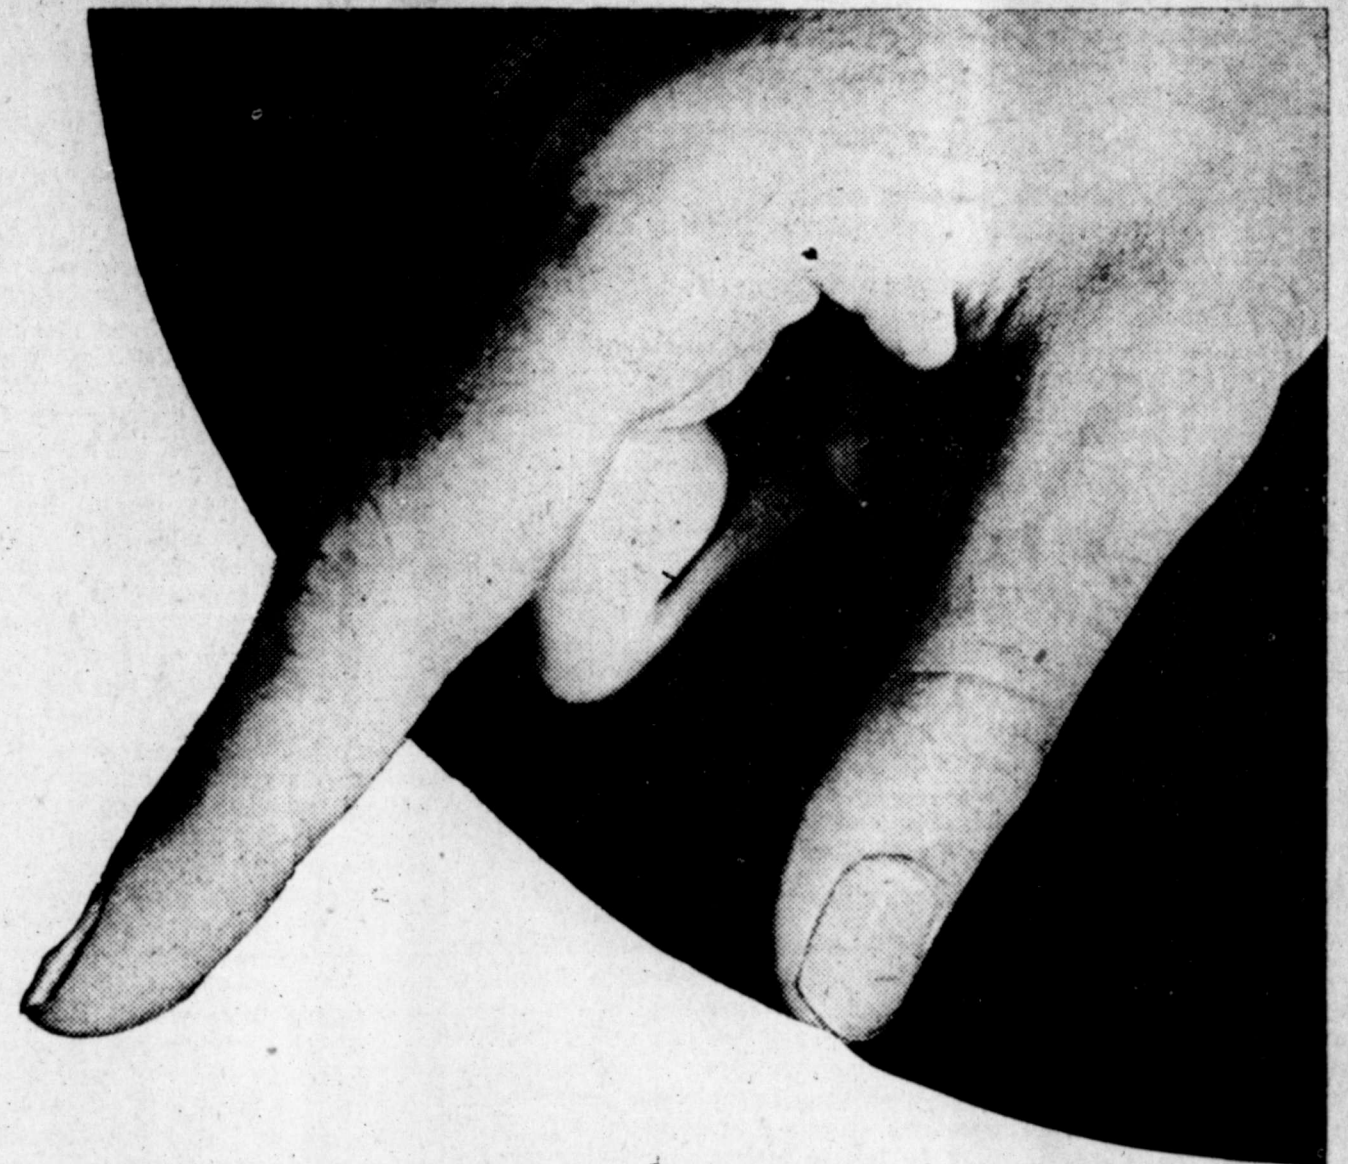

Shall we vote to make its selling legal in our county, thereby giving the law-enforcing bodies sufficient grip on the situation to control it with an iron hand or shall we turn our backs, admit defeat and let the present distasteful, law-disregarding situation continue?

That Is the Question Voters Must Decide in Tuesday's Election

It is not a question of whether or not beer will be sold but a question of controlling its sale. If we vote to legalize--to control--the sale of beer in Tuesday's election we would cut down at least three-fourths the number of dispensaries. Its price would be less than the bootlegger could profitably handle it. The bootlegger does not buy a license nor does he pay a penny taxes. To sell beer legally a merchant must have a state and county license and taxes would be collected from the beer so sold. Surely this would be a healthier condition than the one now existing. At least isn't it worth trying? That is all that is asked.

IF THE COUNTY AS A WHOLE VOTES TO LEGALIZE—TO CONTROL—THE SALE OF BEER AND SOME PRECINCTS DO NOT WANT IT—ANY PRECINCT CAN THEN CALL AN ELECTION AND VOTE IT OUT..

The present condition is bad. It is an embarrassing situation. It is one of which to be ashamed. Let us go to the polls Tuesday and vote for a change. Take it out of the dark; bring it into the light!

IN 1933 MESSRS. RAYMOND B. FOSDICK AND ALBERT L. SCOTT, TWO RECOGNIZED AMERICAN AUTHORS ON SOCIAL PROBLEMS, PUBLISHED THE BOOK "TOWARD LIQUOR CONTROL." THE FOREWORD WAS WRITTEN BY JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, JR. WHO PERHAPS HAS CONTRIBUTED MORE FINANCIALLY THAN ANY OTHER INDIVIDUAL TOWARD THE CAUSE OF TEMPERANCE. MR. ROCKEFELLER'S OPENING PARAGRAPH IS AS FOLLOWS:

"I was born a teetotaler and I have been a teetotaler on principle all my life. Neither my father nor his father ever tasted a drop of intoxicating liquor. I could hope the same might be true of my children and their children. It is my earnest conviction that total abstinence is the wisest, best and safest position for both the individual and society. But the regrettable failure of the Eighteenth Amendment has demonstrated the fact that the majority of the people of this country are not yet ready for total abstinence, at least when it is attempted through legal coercion. The next best thing—many people think it is a better thing—is temperance. Therefore, as I sought to support total abstinence when its achievement seemed possible, so now, and with equal vigor, I would support temperance."

Let This County Benefit As Others Do

Along with strong liquor, beer became unlawful in Texas after adoption of National and State prohibition. By amendment of the Constitution it became lawful in 1933, except where prohibited by local option. Immediately an important new industry sprung up in this State, the brewing and sale of wholesome beer, giving employment to thousands of workers, added profits to thousands of small businesses, profitable use for hundreds of previously vacant buildings, thereby stimulating business recovery in no small degree for many communities, and yielding State revenue which for the year 1935 reached the enormous figure of $1,710,563.08. The beer tax now goes to the School Fund and Old Age Assistance Fund. Legal beer is now available to more than 70 percent of the people of Texas. Best of all legal beer has encouraged the use of a temperate beverage and made large inroads upon the bootlegger and his criminal organization for violation of law.

To Legalize Beer Is To Promote Temperance

EDITORIAL

COLORADO APPRECIATES OUT-OF-TOWN BUSINESS Fifth article on Buy-at-Home

If you do not live in Colorado, but find Colorado the most convenient place to do your shopping, you are one among many similarly situated and we appreciate your business. We are convinced that your interests and ours are mutual, for areas without good towns are seldom prosperous, and good towns are not built in any but prosperous areas.

Keep your credit good—a good credit record is a life saver in a time of adversity.

Colorado stores buy from the same wholesale houses and factories patronized by merchants in larger towns. If you ever require an item of merchandise we do not stock we will gladly get it for you. The price will be no more, and often less, than you would pay elsewhere.

We have repeatedly urged quality and price being equal, that the people of this area buy from Colorado merchants. It is equally important, of course, that we buy our poultry, eggs and produce from the farms of this area, and cooperate in every other way possible.

Colorado stores disburse huge sums annually for salaries, rent, taxes, licenses, and other items of overhead. This money remains in this territory to provide the necessities and some of the luxuries of life for every man, woman and child. Quality and price being equal, it obviously behooves us to do business with one another, for money spent elsewhere is money definitely gone from this community.

If I were in the graduation class and was asked to write an Opu or Opuale or expository for graduation this about Texas, is what I would say:

TEXAS

Here is Texas, our Texas, following her head on the great plains, bathing her feet in the Gulf of Mexico, reaching one arm to the piney woods of Louisiana while with the other she takes hold of the desert sands of New Mexico, enfolding six millions of persons on her 265,000 square miles of territory, emptying her abundance of wealth into the coffers of the world, and asking from God's people the sincere milk of the Word. I ask again, what are we going to do about it?

If we are discouraged we have but to look at their discouragements one hundred years ago. If we have multitudes of adversaries they had legions of them. If the mountains ahead seem high let us remember that to them they seemed almost insurmountable. Perhaps we can best face our task by a comparison and contrast of the outlook a century ago and the outlook today.

They began with ardor and effort. We begin with assurance and comfort.

Billows of beauty, mountains of magnificence, glens of glory—these are what lovers of Nature find when they go out into the fields and woods, hills and valleys at this time of year.

The majority of the people of Texas have the privilege of gazing upon similar scenes near them. Let the poets sing of Spring and its flowers, of Summer with its fields of waving grain and burdened fruit trees; we all love these things just as the poets do. But for many of us the infinite variety of colors and blends, tints and hues, that greet the eye in the woods in autumn surpass the glory of the landscape at any other season of the year.

Monotony of color dulls one's appreciation, even of beauty, although beauty is none the less beautiful. Under such conditions it is a little less appreciated because of its abundance, just as the value of certain gems is enhanced by their scarcity.

He who has appreciation of things in life proportionate to their importance to us is fortunate indeed. He does not regard them less because of their abundant supply.

It must have been in Texas when Byron wrote, "There is a pleasure in the pathless woods. . . I love not man the less but Nature more." William Cullen Bryant supplemented this by saying, "The groves were God's first temples," and advised us to "Go forth under the open sky and list to Nature's teachings;" while Keats tells of "Those green-robed Senators of mighty woods, tall oaks branch-charmed by the earnest stars."

When we speak of woods and flowers there come involuntarily to us the gentle spirits of Muir, Burroughs, Burbank, who were not only lovers of Nature, but were scientists because they were lovers of natural beauty. Muir was the first to advocate conservation of forests and the establishment of National Park. Burroughs was a world-renowned naturalist. He criticized what is known as "sham natural history," and precipitated the widespread controversy about "nature-fakers." Luther Burbank was probably the greatest "miracle-worker" with trees, shrubs and vines of modern times.

George Louis Buffon, a Frenchman, was probably the greatest natural scientist of the eighteenth century. His work on "Natural History" in fifteen volumes created much popular interest in the subject. The great Rousseau was so impressed with this extraordinary and useful work that he kissed the steps of the pavilion in which Buffon had written it. Buffon was one of the pioneers of modern evolution. Poets, painters and sculptors, as well as thousands who do not claim genius or talent, love these things the poets and artists love but are not able to manifest their love of Nature in monumental works of art. Byron said it well when he wrote these words:

The rose that lives its little hour,
Is prized beyond the sculptured flower.

Whether the sea or the wood, the plain or the garden, Nature's work always appeals to great minds and those who love "the good, the beautiful and the true." Byron is represented to have been neither good nor true, but although a man, he was pronounced beautiful by some who knew him.

One thought that should inspire carefulness as well as admiration in the hearts of men for Nature's handiwork is that there can be no natural beauty without life. Mountains may push their summits many thousands of feet toward the skies, but there is no beauty above the timber line, except the snow on their peaks, which melts and supplies water for living things about their feet.

When one thoughtfully associates the works and beauties of Nature, her methods and manifestations, he finds a reason for the thoughtfulness, gentleness and quiet demeanor of those who are lovers of the great out of doors.

It may be asserted without fear of contradiction that he who is a lover of Nature, a student of her ways, an admirer of her works, will never be found an ingrate, an irascible, high-tempered individual—impatient and intolerant.

These reflections come to us while contemplating the gorgeous glories to be found in autumnal splendors.

There is a bond of friendship, subtle and unseen, but real and resultful, existing between the gardener and his flowers, the orchardist and his fruits, the forester and his trees.

Only man destroys Nature's beauties and bounties.

It is he who hews down her forests, muddies up the waters of her rivers, plows up her grasses and creates dust-bowls. In fact it may be said that man is the original creator of dust-bowls. Be it said to his credit that at last he has begun to realize the enormity of his wasteful neglect and willful destructiveness, and is making a belated effort to improve his tactics.

The trees as they stand in their autumnal glory present similarities of human beings other than those already mentioned. They look best as winter comes. Notwithstanding the flush of youth and the bloom of health, men and women to the thoughtful are most attractive when they have lived useful lives and attained to the allotted "three-score and ten" or more.

Quietly and serenely they finish their course. Their good deeds are like the perfume of flowers. Their endeavor to aid those about them remind us of the last effort for life of a tree that has felt the strain of storm and been abused by the vandal with his knife or the wanton gashes of an unemployed ax.

Only one strong limb remained, but it carried smaller branches full of leaves that made the one big limb look like a torch of glowing red fire lighting the way to a land where the beautiful is a joy forever.

A tree of beautiful and suggestive symbolism is found in that forest, the cedar, with its evergreen dress suggestive of Hope and Immortality. Go look on the Forest in autumn, and feast your eyes and comfort your soul.

I came to Texas nearly 60 years ago and I have witnessed with astonishment and delight the transition from the rail fence and covered-wagon period to this new day of achievement that utterly beggars adequate description.

I have seen our virgin, fertile lands expanding with the rapid march of improved farm machinery and modern methods until we now produce one third the cotton crop of the Nation.

I witnessed the discovery of oil in the Corsicana field and stood in sheer amazement at the new-found wealth at Spindletop and have watched the drillers' bit penetrate the deepest bowels of the earth in quest of oil and have watched this liquid gold flow like running streams, and this process has continued until we produce more than 38 per cent of the oil of North America and about 20 per cent of world production.

I have lost myself in the deep fastnesses of Southeast Texas, where the sighing pine, the aromatic magnolia and the long strands of swinging moss make of that section a veritable Garden of Eden, and have marveled at the vast wealth of those far-flung forests.

I have traversed the wide-spreading plains of West Texas and the great Panhandle region when the country was sparsely settled and nights beyond number slept on a blanket tossed on the grass, with no canopy but the blue dome of heaven, studded with stars as countless as the sands upon the seashore, and I returned later to see great combines harvesting golden grain and fields of cotton stretch as far as the eye could see.

I visited Galveston long before the great seawall was built, which says to storm-tossed waves, "thus far shall thou go and no farther." Now the ships of the Seven Seas carry their precious cargoes to and from our Gulf ports and along these shores is deposited one half the sulphur supply of the world.

I have climbed our rugged mountains and with uncovered head watched the great eagle soar to lofty heights and wield his scepter in the air and in exultation looked down upon cattle and sheep grazing "upon a thousand plains," and in my heart I said, as did Cortez when he scaled the heights of Chapultepec and looked down on the city of Mexico, "It is the promised land."

When I see this vast expanse of various soils, climate and untold natural resources, I realize that Texas is an empire as large as Germany, a land of wealth and grandeur surpassing the most sanguine dreams of all the conquering Caesars. I try to express my love and loyalty and appreciation of this glorious heritage but mere poverty of words cannot tell the glamorous story of the romance and chivalry, the heroism and foresight of those who "blazed the trail" that led us to this new and glorious day.

The rolling land, the grasses green,
The waters of the Gulf serene,
The largest State I've ever seen,
'Tis Texas.

The flags of France and Spain she flung,
From Mexico her freedom wrung,
As Lone Star State her praise is sung,
Brave Texas.

When civil war distressed this land,
With sister States she took her stand,
And none could boast a braver hand
Than Texas.

Among the forty-eight, this one
We honor for the wonders done,
For all the glory she has won,
Our Texas!

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

I am nothing more than a common old hay-seed, ain't supposed to know anything, and don't claim to know much. My sources for the accumulation of knowledge are confined to what I read in the papers, what I hear over the radio, what I learn while browsing around amongst my neighbors, and what I learn by observation. I learned of the President's court proposals and why-for his recommendations for his suggested changes as to the present procedure and set-up of the Federal courts, by reading the papers. I heard of the opposition to the President's court proposals while listening to political comedians over the radio; I didn't listen to these comedians because I thought they could think of any sensible reason for opposing the President's proposals, but I listened to them just to see how big an ass they could make of themselves in the estimation of the American people. I've learned by observation that the opposition against are the same old special privilege class, employer, henchmen, or, some little pee-wees whose personal egotism leads them to believe that maybe sometime they would become employees of the big boys.

I've also learned by observation that the only reason the oppositionist receive from the so-called yeomanry, is a hearty ha, ha, ha, the durn fools, they ain't fooling anybody but themselves by all that sen'sless palaver. What an ass the air-king of themselves, they make this we air still living back yard. The ox-cart days when knowledge and special privilege belonged to a select few. The great modern invention of facilities to carry information to all the people in all parts of the country, penetrating formerly isolated localities, and now, we know the truth as truth is therefore, we the people can no longer be deceived.

LONG LIVE ROOSEVELT, the people saver. We have learned, and now know, that, by degrees through connivance and by stealth special privileges have effectively placed themselves in dominating control over constitutional government, and are enabled to maintain this supremacy over the people, through the presently constituted supreme court who have by self assumed authority succeeded in over-riding both the executive and legislative branches of the government, and have thereby delegated to themselves a one man dictatorship, who is subservient to no authority. What about that four to five decision, if that ain't a one man dictatorship what the hell is it. Talk about the President wanting to set himself up as a dictator; what if such wild imaginings were true; we have tried our President, we know he is a wise and efficient leader, we know he is for the great masses of American citizens, we know he is the people's staunch friend, and we know he is trying to restore government back into the hands of the people where it belongs, therefore, we the people would much prefer our President for a dictator, over the present old fossilized mind that might have been brought up under the nurture and admonition of special privilege by virtue of past employment, or who's mind might be so old that it can't see any further than the two wheeled cart drawn by a yoke of oxen.

The President says, and truly, "there is nothing wrong with the constitution." It is sufficiently flexible to meet the needs of the people now; the stumbling block is ox-cart minds on a sit-down strike against the people.

President trying to establish a dangerous precedent? Hell no, he is trying to kick out one that was established in ox-cart days and is now tried to supersede the constitution; his method is to place younger minds on the court that would be capable of distinguishing the difference between the constitution and an old precedent.

cedent. Fifteen judges too many? According to the President's proposals the number of actual appointments would depend on the attitude of the present judges who are of retiring age now. The President is asking for authority to appoint one new judge to set beside any old judge who refused to retire. Suppose all the old judges who are now eligible to retire on a twenty thousand dollar a year pension should retire; then you would still have a nine judge court, composed of younger minds free from former decisions based on old precedents, therefore more capable of construing the constitutionality of the laws in conformity with present day needs. Supposing that none of the old judges should retire, then the president would appoint six new judges to balance the authority of the older less capable judges. If fifteen is too many, and events necessitated the maximum of fifteen, who would be to blame, the President or the Court.

The President's court proposals are not confined to the supreme court. He also calls for the correction of abuses of authority exercised by some of the Federal district courts. We find, when Congress passes a law not suitable to some of the big boys, they rush to the Federal district court asking for an injunction to stop the power and effect of the law as it applies to them. Some judges grant the injunction and some refuse, we have then, a law not applicable in one district and in full force and effect in another.

Bell survey, five miles southwest from Iatan, averaged ten barrels per hour for the first seventeen hours following a shot of 640 quarts of S and G Monday morning. Wallace stated Tuesday morning that test of the well had not been completed but he expressed satisfaction over its promise of being listed as a good commercial producer.

The well was shot from 2565 to 2807, bottom of the hole. The location is 1830 feet from the south line and 330 from the east line of the section. Wells Nos. 1 and 2, drilled in some time ago by Wallace on this lease have been producing under pump without interruption.

Wallace estimated that the well would be good for from 50 to 60 barrels after flush production following the shot has subsided.

Dry Forces Start Spirited Drive In Mitchell Campaign

Rally Staged In Streets Of City Saturday; Beer, Is Denounced By Speaker

Marshalled under leadership of the Rev. C. E. Jameson of First Methodist church, dry forces of this community Saturday afternoon launched spirited campaign to defeat legalization of beer in Mitchell county as the issue is brought to the ballot box Tuesday.

The rally had been extensively advertised and several hundred citizens came to hear address, delivered by Rev. George Tucker of Memphis, Tenn., evangelist in revival at the Methodist church. The speaker was introduced by Rev. Mr. Jameson. A truck, parked in Walnut street near the City National bank building, was used as the speaker's platform and his voice was carried audibly over the block by a public address system.

Tucker, who for five years operated a saloon in Chicago and a public dance hall in Hammond, Ind., for two years, denounced beer and other alcoholic drink in definite terms. He urged that the proposal to legalize beer in the county be "sunk so low by your ballots that it will never stick its slimy head up again."

Moseley, Jack DeLaney, "Swede" McGill, "Pink" Fuller, and Jack Helton.

PERSONAL TRIBUTE

Allow me space in your columns for a personal tribute to the sacred memory of J. M. (Melvin) Dorn, one among the best friends, relatives, and acquaintances that it ever was my privilege to know.

We have been acquainted and closely associated together for about 75 years, thus I know whereof I speak and I will now offer what I term the highest and noblest tribute that can be offered by any human being: That is to say he was a good man (as the case may be). It was said of him while he was still in his teens by a prominent neighbor, that Melvin Dorn had been a man all his life, and I feel disposed to verify the saying. To my knowing he has lived a long and useful Christian life and he is now through treading earthly paths and has launched upon heavenly paths that leads to the portals of eternal glory. Although being dead to this world he is alive in glory and his long and well spent Christian life will live on and on in the hearts of loved ones left behind and now may I say to all his surviving connections: Follow in his footsteps, practice his many virtues, emulate his worthy examples, live as under his influence, ever remembering that he has left you all a rich heritage—one that outweighs silver and gold and shines brighter than the glistening pebbles on the ocean wave and points farther than eyes can see as a guiding star that will lead you to the heavenly shore to end a well rounded Christian life.

Ninety Years Of Living Rounded Out By Mrs. M. McGuire Of Buford Today

Amid the congratulations of relatives and a host of friends, Mrs. M. McGuire is celebrating her ninetieth birthday today—Thursday, April 22—at her farm home near Buford.

Open house is being held at the McGuire home all Thursday afternoon, Mrs. McGuire's children being in charge of arrangements. A large number of relatives and friends are to call. Punch and cake are being served.

Rounding out 90 years of living, Mrs. McGuire is still very active—much more so than many women far her junior. She still looks after her chickens a lot of the time. She has retained an amazing use of her senses, especially her eyesight. She doesn't wear glasses, has never worn them, and she reads continually.

Incidentally, reading The Colorado Record is said to be one of her favorite pastimes. She goes through it from cover to cover while younger members of her family are hunting for their glasses.

Her hearing is the only sense which has failed her. The loss of it has made her more devoted to reading than ever. She always sewed a lot, her children say, until her right hand became partially paralyzed. Then she had to give-up piecing her beloved quilts.

As Maria Frances Jones, Mrs. McGuire was born in Anderson, South Carolina, on April 22, 1847. When she was twelve her family moved to Fayette, Alabama, and there she was married when she was 23 to Merry McGuire. The young couple moved on to Missouri for about two years, then came to Texas, settling near Hamilton.

The McGuire children recall the buffalo hunting trips which their father used to make into West Texas while the family still lived near Hamilton. He killed many buffalo near the place where Abilene now stands. The buffalo rugs were used as mattresses for the McGuire children to sleep on, real mattresses being rather rare in those pioneer days.

Having heard of Borden county farm land "where a man can plow a mile without hitting a stump," the McGuires gathered up their belongings and their herd of cattle and went to Borden county some 46 years ago. But the "land without a stump" proved unkind to them. They lost lots of cattle and made little or no crop that year.

So they came to Mitchell county about 45 years ago, when farms were just being carved out of the railroad lands in the southern part of the county. They settled in what later became the Dorn community and lived there until about 38 years ago, when Mr. McGuire moved to the Buford section.

Covered wagon journeys through virgin country are among Mrs. McGuire's vivid memories. Her family moved from South Carolina to Alabama via covered wagon. She and her husband moved from Alabama to Missouri, and from Missouri to Texas in covered wagons. The moves from Hamilton to Borden county and from Borden county to Mitchell county were made the same way.

But Mrs. McGuire has no Indian tales to tell in spite of all those covered wagon treks. She says she saw many Indians but never happened to encounter any of the hostile, massacring variety.

Although she was the daughter of a Baptist minister, Mrs. McGuire joined her husband in the Methodist church after she married.

Mr. McGuire died 15 years ago in July. He was 86 years old at the time of his death.

Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. McGuire. Of these eight are still living. One child died in infancy.

A son, Charley McGuire, died following an operation in Abilene 20 years ago. He was 28 at the time.

The other children are: Mrs. A. A. Dorn of McAllen, E. B. McGuire of McAllen, Mrs. J. W. Dorn of Colorado, Ewell McGuire of Buford, Mrs. Mack Holt of McAllen, Mrs. D. M. Stell of Colorado, Tom B. McGuire of Midland, and Mrs. Essie Blackard of Buford.

All but two, B. B. McGuire of McAllen and Mrs. Mack Holt of McAllen, are to be present at Mrs. McGuire's birthday celebration.

Mrs. McGuire lives with two of her children, Ewell McGuire and Mrs. Essie Blackard, and a grandson, Joe Leonard Blackard. Their home is one of the most convenient and modern farm residences in the county. Constructed of brick, it is piped with gas for heat and lights. Electricity is now available for the home and will probably be secured in the near future.

HERE FOR AFFAIRS

Mrs. Jamie Morgan of Monahans and Mrs. John Houston Lupton of Gail have been here this week for pre-nuptial affairs honoring Miss Corinne Lupton, who will be married Sunday to Merl Morgan.
