Further expressing the wish to extend every consideration to pioneers of Mitchell county during their visit in Colorado September 10 and 11 during the Colorado City Frontier Round-up, the general celebration committee Tuesday afternoon announced a more liberalized rule affecting invitation of those citizens to the barbecue.

All citizens meeting those qualifications are invited to call at the chamber of commerce and register.

TENTATIVE PLAN TO BUILD LARGER AMPITHEATRE FOR NEXT YEAR GETS SUPPORT

City, C-C Interested, States Director Barber; Cash To Purchase Public Address Equipment Is Sought

Facilities at the Ruddick Park open air theatre have proven inadequate to care for the thousands of people attending the weekly entertainment programs and plans looking to enlarging the terraces before opening the 1938 season are already being considered, Director R. H. Barber stated Monday morning.

Barber announced that the city, through Mayor J. A. Sadler, and the chamber of commerce, through President C. C. Thompson and Manager Carl Blasig, had pledged cooperation in such a campaign. Seating capacity of the terraces would be practically doubled under the plan as now considered.

Barber estimates that between 6,000 and 7,000 people converged at the park last Friday night to attend the program. "I do not know whether this was the largest crowd present during the Summer but I do believe it was one of the greatest gatherings of people I have ever seen there. We had seats for about one-half of the visitors," Barber said.

Purchase of a new public address system of sufficient power to carry programs to all parts of the large amphitheatre is goal announced by Barber. Friday evening he will have collection boxes placed at convenient places about the terraces and girls will be present to accept donation that any citizen might care to offer for this fund.

"This financial effort is absolutely a free will proposition and no park visitor will be high-pressured or otherwise caused to feel embarrassed in event he does not care to have a part in raising this much needed money," Barber continued. "Had each person present last Friday night donated a nickel we would have received ample money for this purpose."

Barber recalled that the equipment at present in use at the park was antiquated and not powerful enough to carry programs audibly to all parts of the large terrace. It is hoped to obtain the needed funds within the next few days in that the equipment be bought in time for use during the Frontier Round-up September 10 and 11.

RURAL COMMUNITIES PLAN LEADING ROLE IN PARADE OPENING PIONEER ROUNDUP

Historic Past, Present With Intervening Events Will Be Pictured As Colorful Pageantry Is Staged

Rural communities of the county out of which has come much of the colorful history attending development in this section, are to have an important role in parade here Friday afternoon, September 10. Special sections to be organized and entered in the long line of march will come from both the farm and ranch sections.

At conference of the parade committee Tuesday-afternoon it was accepted that this feature of the Colorado City Frontier Round-up should be the largest and most colorful ever staged here. Loraine and Westbrook, the public schools, civic groups, boys and girls clubs and all other organized units of the county are to be invited to place entries in the parade.

Antiquated wagons, carriages and other vehicles in vogue fifty years ago will offer striking contrast with the decorated floats and automobiles of 1937 vintage. Scores of cowboys and cowgirls, assembled from ranches in this and other counties of West Texas are to be seen as the long line of pageantry passes through the streets.

An impressive section of the parade—one that has been observed during other years—will be that in memorial to pioneers who have gone to the last round-up. Riderless saddle horses with upturned stirrups and carrying name of the deceased citizen, are to be seen. In this connection the parade committee wishes it understood that any deceased pioneer, man or woman, rancher, farmer, business man or otherwise engaged during their lifetime, is entitled to recognition in the memorial section. The only requirement is that the horse and saddle be furnished. And white or paint horses are preferred.

All individuals and organized groups expecting to enter the parade should register at the chamber of commerce office not later than 5 o'clock on afternoon of Thursday, September 9.

A prize of $10 will be paid for the best decorated float, car or other vehicle division and a similar prize will go to the most unique parade entry.

The parade is to be formed in Oak street between Third and Fourth opposite the court house. Starting at Oak and Third the procession will proceed west to Cypress and then south to Second. Passing east along

Gins Humming Daily As 1937 Cotton Crop Starts Moving; 69 Bales Received Here

The hum of gins is becoming a familiar sound these days as the harvest of Mitchell county's 1937 cotton crop gets well underway. Sixty-nine bales had been received by Colorado gins up till Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Very little cotton is being sold, according to Bill Dorn of the Farmers Gin company, because farmers are waiting to see what action will be taken by the government in the matter of farm loans.

Continued dry weather and hot sunshine have caused early opening of cotton all over the county. This year's first bale was received in Colorado a week earlier than last year's.

Loraine received its first bale a few days ago and reports cotton coming in regularly, although no figures were obtained from there or from Westbrook in compiling Thursday morning's cotton report for The Record.

Nineteen bales had been ginned up till Thursday at 10 o'clock by the two Colorado gins and the Buford gin of the Farmers' Gin company. Farmers' cooperative had received 21 bales. Lambeth gin was opening its season Thursday morning with four bales waiting in the yard. Nineteen bales were reported by Concrete gin and six by the Colorado Gin company (Williams-Miller).

Death Of R. B. McEntire, Sr., Ends Life Connected With Ranch History Since 1879

A life which had been closely connected with West Texas ranching history since 1879 was ended Wednesday morning at 7:20 when R. B. McEntire, Sr., 69, formerly of Colorado, died at his home near Sweetwater.

Mr. McEntire, known to most of his friends as "Uncle Billy," suffered a stroke a week before his death. Funeral services were held from First Presbyterian church here at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Dr. W. M. Elliott, pastor of the church, came from Kerville, where he had been vacationing, to conduct the service.

Active pallbearers were Jack Smith, Jule Henderson, B. T. Daugherty, Harry Rathoff, Ed Majors, Les Terry, Irvin Terry, and Chester Jones.

Honorary pallbearers were: J. W. Reynolds, Tom Brennan, Bill Conger, J. S. Cole, J. T. Davis, Oscar Ratliff, John Phillips, Jeff Glass and Walter Sparkman, all of Sterling City; Jim Hubbard, Henry Morris, E. P. Noblett, Bill Turner, Sam Aycock, Bill Hubbard, J. P. Majors, and Walter Carter, all of Sweetwater; Clint Penston, Miles O'Daniels, and Bob Hewett, all of San Angelo; Bob Powell of Coahoma; Will P. Edwards and Walter Hightower of Big Spring; Cap Gray of Fort Worth; Bob McNairy of Mineral Wells; Matt Allen of China Grove; Harry Landers, Dick Pearson, Otto Jones, Earl Morrison, I. K. Galey, L. W. Sandusky, Bob Price, Frank Kelley, and Bob Brennan, all of Colorado.

Born in Floyd county, Georgia, on November 20, 1868, Mr. McEntire came to Texas when only two years old, settling at Dallas. With his father, the late W. R. McEntire, Sr., he came to what was then Tom Green county but is now Sterling county in 1879. The older McEntire bought land around the headwaters of the North Concho river and also other holdings which extended from within 12 miles of Garden City to Grierson's springs on the west, J. B. Slaughter's ranch on the north, and the Seven D's on the south. Most of these holdings lay in Glasscock county, and they were sold by McEntire to J. B. Slaughter in 1889, along with 3,000 steers and "enough saddle horses to take them to Kansas." All this is recalled by Bill Conger of Sterling City, who went to work for Slaughter at that time.

At an early age R. B. McEntire, Sr., went into the ranching business for himself, filing on land which joined his father's on the headwaters of the North Concho. He also bought the Peacock-Kellogg Horse ranch. Originally the McEntires were cattlemen. They bought their first sheep in 1898, and now all their ranches are devoted to sheep.

As a boy Mr. McEntire stayed six months with the late Judge Lynch of Shackelford county and Tom White on Hubbard creek where the trail to Kansas crossed. In the nineties he fed cattle in the Cherokee nation of Indian territory before driving them on to market in Kansas. He remembered seeing the famous "Cimarron" of Oklahoma in 1893. In the winter of 1893-94 he fed cattle in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, and there met and married Eudora Fowler. They were married in February, 1894.

Mr. McEntire continued ranching in Sterling county until he moved to Colorado about 25 years ago. He and his wife moved to their ranch near Sweetwater about ten years ago. He sold the Sterling county ranch to his boys.

In addition to his wife he is sur-

Tonsillectomies were performed on two persons at Root hospital this week. Edwin Hayes of near Cuthbert had his tonsils removed Wednesday. Mrs. Ira Lauderdale of Westbrook had hers removed Tuesday.

Persons who have reached 65 years of age cannot collect Old Age Benefits, but if they are working for an employer who is subject to the Unemployment Compensation Act, they are eligible for unemployment benefits and should obtain Social Security Account Numbers in order that wages received by them can be properly credited to their individual accounts by the Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Texas employers contributing to the Unemployment Compensation Fund should keep an accurate record of all payments made, since the amount of such contribution payments may be deducted from the Federal excise tax due January, 1938. This permits Texas employers to recover 90% of the Federal tax for their State Unemployment Compensation fund.

Student Aid Will Be Continued To NYA Boys and Girls Of Texas Another Year

NYA student aid program, under which thousands of needy Texas boys and girls have been enabled to earn a part of their expenses while going to school, will be continued through 1937-38, J. C. Kellam of Austin, Texas youth director, announced this week. Inquiries received at the state NYA office from all parts of the state indicated that again thousands of youths want an opportunity this year to work their way through school.

The number of part-time NYA student aid jobs available in Texas this year will be about 75 per cent of the quota allotted to schools and colleges last year, Mr. Kellam said.

A youth who wishes to obtain a NYA student aid job should communicate with the president of the college or university or the principal or superintendent of the school which he wishes to attend. Mr. Kellam said that it is the function of officials of institutions approved by the National Youth Administration for participation in the student aid program to select the youths employed.

The quota for each participating college and university will be calculated as eight per cent of the total number of resident undergraduate and graduate students under 25 years of age enrolled at the institution on October 1, 1936, who were carrying at least three-fourths of a normal schedule of study. Students employed on college aid jobs are enabled to earn an average of $15 a month.

The quota for each participating secondary school will be determined by the State Youth Director who will be guided by recommendations of the county school superintendent and a committee of local school officials. The county committees will consider the youth relief loan and the availability of school facilities in making recommendations regarding the allotment of jobs within a county. Students employed on school aid jobs are enabled to earn as much as $6 a month.

To be eligible for employment under the NYA student aid program, a youth must demonstrate to the satisfaction of officials of the institution that he is in need of such assistance in order to enter or remain in school. He must be a citizen of the United States or have filed a declaration to become a citizen. He must be of good character and possess such ability that he can give assurance of performing good scholastic work. He must continue to do good scholastic work as a full-time resident student, carrying at least three-fourths of the normal schedule of work. Students must have reached their 16th birthday before they can be assigned to student aid work, and those who have reached their 25th birthday are ineligible.

Mr. Kellam said that a supply of copies of the rules and regulations concerning school aid will be sent soon to the county superintendents for distribution to local school officials.

Requests for duplicate Social Security Account Numbers by applicants who have lost their cards should be accompanied by a new application marked "Duplicate requested," with a supplementary statement as to the reason, such as "card lost," and the place and approximate date of filing the original application.

One hundred and fifty persons are now employed by the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission. Included in this number are the three members of the Commission, who direct the policies of the organization, accountants, field men, file clerks, stenographers, legal representatives, and mail clerks.

After 1940 an employer in Texas who has had comparatively stable employment in his organization may obtain a reduction in his contribution rate to the compensation fund. The Commission will fix the rate based on each employer's record, after 1940. The rate may be as low as .9 of 1 per cent or as high as 3.6 per cent of his payroll.

BAPTIST NOTES

Sunday school, preaching service and B. Y. P. U. were well attended last Sunday considering that a number of our members were on vacation.

At the 11 o'clock hour our pastor, Rev. W. H. Capps, brought us a message on "The Righteous Judgement of God," and made an earnest appeal to the unsaved.

Mrs. Capps sang a special number entitled "What If Today Were the End of the World." There was one addition by letter at the close of the service.

Rev. Capps resigned as pastor of this church Sunday. He and family left that afternoon for Vance, Texas, where they spent the night with Mrs. Capps' parents. They were going to San Antonio Monday to visit a near relative who is very ill in the hospital in that city. They did not know just what day they would return.

We appreciate the faithful work of this pastor. He is sincere in the cause he professes and we feel that he and his wife have not only endeared themselves to our church but the entire community. We pray that our loss be their gain and that God will ever be with them and bless them in the work he has called them to do.

The W. M. S. met at the church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. They are ordering books this week to begin a new course of Bible study. We urge every lady in the church to come.

Remember to be in Sunday school next Sunday morning at 9:45. We are to study "The Place of Religion in a Nation's Life." Blessed is a nation whose God is the Lord.

Second street the march will be to Hickory and turning north into that thoroughfare will go one block to East Third. From that point the parade will proceed west to Oak, place of beginning. The parade is to start at 3:30 and be over in ample time for the old timers to be taken to Ruddle Park for the barbecue.

Mayor J. A. Sadler, general chairman of the parade, stated Wednesday morning that he had never met with such universal cooperation in plans to make the spectacle one of the celebration highlights. "Every business concern in town that I have contacted will have a decorated float or car in the parade. And citizens from the rural sections are equally concerned in the general objective of making the celebration one of two gala days and nights," he said.

ATTENTION W.O.W.

We regret more of you were not at the meeting the 17th. Put it in your plans to meet with us at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 24th. Come.

If a person is in employment covered by the Unemployment Compensation Act, and has a Social Security Account Number listed with the Commission, that employee is assured of credit for the work he has performed. The employee's Social Security Account Number remains the same as long as he is employed in the United States, regardless of the number of jobs he may hold. Errors in names will not result in work records being credited to another as records are based on the individual's Social Security Account Number.

RETURN FROM VACATION

Mr. and Mrs. Huse Shurtieff and children returned Wednesday night after a 10-day trip through New Mexico, Colorado, and Wyoming. They also went to the Yellowstone.

VISIT RUIDOSO, CAVERNS

A group left here Sunday morning to go through Carlsbad Caverns and visit in Ruidoso and Old Mexico several days. In the group were Mamie Lou and Elizabeth Bedford, Ted Morris, Mary Louise Whiskey, Mrs. F. B. Whiskey and her sister, Mrs. Lulu Wolford from Cincinnati, Ohio.

Model for eight states is the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Chairman-Director Orville S. Carpenter was called to Washington early this month to tell of the Texas set-up as it is regarded so favorably by the Federal Social Security Board that it will be used as a guide in forming the organizations of other states.

Sixty thousand employees, or one-tenth of the covered workers in Texas, were listed with inaccurate or no Social Security numbers for the past three months. Unless their employers supply these numbers, the employees will receive no credit with the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission for work performed.

The Texas State Employment Service will seek positions for the unemployed in lines befitting their individual experience and talents, and in which the wages are average for employment of that class. Location of work and healthful conditions will also be considered.

Unemployment Compensation can never entirely take the place of relief. Compensation is to pay the employee who normally works in a covered classification, when he becomes unemployed. It is not intended for those who are unable to work, or those who have been unemployed for an extended time.

Contributions to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission for the month of July are due on or before August 25, 1937. After that date, penalties for delinquency amount to one per cent per month.

When Unemployment Compensation benefits become payable on January 1, 1938, the payments will amount to one-half the normal weekly pay of the unemployed worker, but not more than $15.00 a week, for not more than sixteen weeks in a year.

The Unemployment Fund of Texas is now $13,232,486.88, of which $6,500,000 was collected on 1936 payrolls. Weekly deposits to this fund amount to about $400,000. The Commission estimates a $20,000,000 fund by January 1, 1938.

To be eligible for unemployment benefits, payable January 1, 1938, an employee must have worked for a "covered" or subject employer for a period long enough to have earned sixteen times the amount of his weekly benefit payment.

Eleven thousand and nine hundred employers are now contributing on the wages of 750,000 employees under the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act.

Normal unemployment, exclusive of those idle because of accident or illness, in the United States is greater than in any other industrial nation.

Texans Expressing Little Interest In Constitutional Vote

Special Election Slated For Monday; Absentee Vote Reported Negligible

The Mitchell county electorate, in keeping with policy of their neighbors over the State, are reflecting little interest in the constitutional election set for Monday. Six proposed amendments are to be asked or rejected at the ballot box.

Absentee voting here and over the State is reported to be unusually negligible, indicative of a small vote at the polls. This being "off-year" when there are no candidates to "heat the bushes" and arouse interest, is, too, accepted as proof that only a small per cent of qualified voters are to exercise their rights of suffrage.

The six proposals are:
Authorization of financial assistance to the needy blind.
Authorization of financial assistance to destitute children.
Elimination of double liability for State bank stockholders.
Providing for fixed compensation by the legislature of district, county and precinct officers.
Providing that property shall not be assessed for taxes at more than its fair cash value.
Permitting Harris county to adopt a road plan and levy taxes for construction and maintenance of roads, rather than the present bond system.

TOURISTS ESCAPE WHEN THEIR CAR IS WRECKED

A. J. Pinkerton and party of Troup, Texas, escaped with only minor injuries when their car became lost from control and overturned on Highway One near Loraine Tuesday night. The machine was wrecked.

Pinkerton bought a new Ford V-8 from the Arnett-McLarty Motor Company here. They were registered at a local hotel from soon after the accident until Thursday morning.

PRICE INCREASE ON THE OLDSMOBILE ANNOUNCED

Increase of $45 in the price of all Oldsmobile models, effective Monday, August 2, was announced recently.

"The increase in Oldsmobile prices at this time partially reflects the rise in costs of labor and material that has been experienced during the past six months," said D. E. Ralston, Oldsmobile general sales manager.

FARM IMPROVEMENT

Here are some excellent brief and timely reminders for farmers, which we quote from "The Progressive Farmer":

1. When there is a boll weevil infestation of 10 per cent as shown by punctured squares, start poisoning at once according to instructions from county agent.
2. Cultivate shallow to keep down weeds and grass and to conserve moisture.
3. Mow pastures regularly to keep down obnoxious weeds and keep fences in repair.
4. Keep terraces in repair. Watch outlets and use best methods of erosion control. Suitable grasses and shrubs planted here at the proper time will provide food and cover for wild game such as quail in addition to preventing gullies.
5. Continue farm and home improvements; permanently dispose of worn-out machinery piled up about the house or in the driveway. Some should be wrecked for its useful parts, bolts, and nuts. Repair doors and windows.
6. Check cost accounts to find amount invested in various farm enterprises. Small leaks have sunk great ships. Systematize the farm business and keep an eye on small expenses.

ABOUT UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Every state and territory of the United States now has an Unemployment Compensation law which conforms to the Federal Social Security Act. The Federal government has well over $350,000,000 contributed by various states. Nearly 21,000,000 persons are covered by the fifty-one Unemployment Insurance laws which provide compensation to employees who lose their jobs through no fault of their own. The amount of compensation and the length of time for which it is given varies in different states.

Only one state—Wisconsin—is now paying benefits to eligible unemployed. The Wisconsin law was passed in 1931. From a reserve fund of more than $23,000,000, Wisconsin has been called to disburse less than $1,000,000 since it began payment of benefits more than a year ago.

Twenty-nine more states, including Texas, will begin to pay benefits next year.

Trucks On Which Tram Cars Rolled In Colorado City Streets Long Ago Found

An interesting reminiscence of the Colorado City of more than fifty years ago has come into possession of W. C. (Bill) Berry of Cuthbert. Berry has located and purchased a set of trucks in which street cars rolled from one side of the city to another during the eighties.

The old relic was found on a farm in Scurry county, not far from the Colorado river. Berry told a representative of The Record. He stated that identity of the flanged wheels had been traced to Colorado and to the mule-drawn cars in operation here from soon after the city was founded until about 1886.

Berry suggested while in town Monday afternoon that these and other interesting relics of early days in Colorado and Mitchell county should be preserved in a historical museum. During the past several years he has collected relics from ruins of Indian villages and other spots over a wide section of the southwest.

"I have ridden in those small, mule-drawn street cars many times and the information that a set of the trucks has been recovered brings interesting recollections of early days in Colorado City," John T. Doss, in business here since 1882, stated as Berry discussed the relics with this pioneer.

The line came along Oak street and turned into Second, extending east to the hill some two miles distant where a recreation park and fashionable residence district were located. Some of the small rails were found a few years ago buried underground as excavations were being made for the new Lone Wolf Creek bridge.

Texas Cotton Now In Third Week Of Condition Decline

Excessive Heat Is Increasing Shedding, Forcing Early Opening Of Bolls

Texas cotton continued to show marked deterioration at the start of the third week of excessive heat, characterized by more than average shedding of squares, absence of normal blooms and premature opening of old cotton over wide areas. The Dallas News summary for the week ended Friday indicates:

The decline in condition from the end of July has been progressive and covers all of Central, North, West Central and Northeast Texas as well as the western counties of Northwest Texas under the Cap Rock. On the South Plains above the Cap Rock cotton condition is generally satisfactory because of better distributed rainfall, absence of pests and a fair reserve of subsoil moisture from the big rains of early summer.

In all parts of Texas cotton harvest has been speeded by the intense heat which is popping bolls soon before they are mature. Picking is now nearing completion in South Texas, where the Lower Rio Grande Valley reports the best crop in five years with conditions above average in much of the Gulf Coast region. Cotton harvest this week has begun in a big way in Middle Central Texas and by next week is expected to reach North Texas and perhaps Northeast Texas.

Insects are not an appreciable factor at this writing, although on the South Plains there may be leafworm damage to late cotton which previously lost fruit due to flea hopper attack, and from bollworms in North Texas it rains come soon. Leafworms are widely scattered but not a serious factor at present.

Oklahoma cotton went into a decline from excessive heat and drying soils, with outlook somewhat below average at this writing. About 35 per cent of the crop is late and has been growing too rank until it encountered the heat. Western Oklahoma needs a general rain.

New Mexico cotton is average to slightly below.

CONDITION OF MRS. ARNETT IMPROVED

Condition of Mrs. D. N. Arnett, who has been critically ill ever since falling and fracturing her hip nearly two weeks ago, was reported Thursday morning to be "about the same."

Her life was despaired of Saturday, but she later showed some improvement. She had a restless night Wednesday, but was resting some better Thursday morning. Her ten children have been in and out all week, Dick Arnett coming down from Kansas City to spend Sunday with her.

RA SUPERVISORS CALLED TO ATTEND CONFERENCE OPENING ON AUGUST 23

Resettlement supervisors of Mitchell county have received authorization to attend RA's annual rural rehabilitation conference August 23 to 27, according to Vernon Slocumb. Making the trip, in addition to Mr. Slocumb, will be Miss Willie Lock, Supervisor Home Management Plans.

The local supervisors have been asked to prepare suggestions which will be discussed at the conference. "It seems that this is to be a truly democratic conference, with discussion by all rather than speeches by a few," the local farm supervisor said. "Every committee will have a county supervisor as chairman. The committee findings will not necessarily be adopted by the Dallas or Washington offices, but they will certainly have influence."

Prominent Resettlement officials from Washington, as well as from the regional office, are expected to attend.

For the first time, the annual meeting is being held at College Station, where it will be more accessible to the agricultural specialists who will take part. They will join RA workers in small committees which will report later to the main conference on methods of developing the live-at-home program which is required of rehabilitation borrowers.

Federal Loan Plans Grips Local Cotton Growers' Interest

Roosevelt's Signal To Go Ahead All Required To Launch Aid Program

Local cotton producers are centering considerable interest about the National capital these days as word is expected momentarily that government machinery for making loans on cotton and other farm commodities has been set in motion.

Officials at the department of agriculture announced Tuesday that the program would be put into effect as soon as Secretary Wallace or President Roosevelt says "go ahead."

They said experiences gained in three seasons of cotton loans and two of corn loans would speed action whenever terms and conditions of the price-supporting program are determined.

At the same time they warned winter wheat growers to keep in mind the crop control program which was the other end of the bargain between Mr. Roosevelt and farm state senators.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration said not more than 80 per cent of the "base acreage" should be planted for harvest in 1938. The advice was given now, officials said, because winter wheat will be in the ground before Congress can enact farm legislation.

The President agreed at a conference with Southern senators to make cotton loans, but exacted a promise that general farm legislation would be the first order of business when Congress convenes again.

Exceptional Market In Sight For Texas Feeders This Year

Outlook Promising Here And Over Large Sections, In Opinion A. & M. Official

Feeders in Mitchell county and over large sections of Texas have prospects for an exceptional market for such hives as they can finish out by the end of this year and the first two months of 1938, according to W. G. Barnes of College Station, animal husbandman of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service.

Barnes, who has recently completed a tour of the major grain and livestock areas of the State, reports that the grain crop is good over a major portion of Texas.

"The good grain crop over a large part of the State, in combination with the shortage of grain for early feeding in the corn belt, makes this an ideal year for Texas feeders," Barnes said. He warned, however, that feeders should start their operations at once in order to get their animals well finished and on the market before corn belt hives begin to move.

The excellent grain prospects in the corn belt have strengthened the demand for feeder and stocker animals, Barnes pointed out. Texas normally sells two million feeders and stockers each year, he said and feeds out around 150,000 hives.

If hives are placed on feed as soon as the grain supply warrants, so that the animals can be marketed before early April of 1938, Barnes believes that Texas feeders could profitably finish out from 200,000 to 500,000 animals.

'WILDEST HERD OF ROODED CATTLE IN TEXAS' TO BE BROUGHT TO CELEBRATION

Double-Heart Ranch Animals Contracted For Attraction September 10th and 11th H. F. Ward Announces

H. F. Ward, chairman of the rodeo attractions to be given on September 10th and 11th as a major entertainment feature during the Colorado City Frontier Round-up, announced Monday morning that he had signed contract to bring "the largest herd of wild Brahma show cattle in Texas" to Colorado.

The herd will come from the famous Double-Heart ranch in Nolan county, where wild and trained show cattle have been featured in rodeo events several years. They will be brought to Colorado and put into the rodeo arena under personal direction of Gaston Brock, for several years recognized as one of the leading Wild West showmen in this territory.

"The people of West Texas may rest assured of a rodeo attraction second to none now that we have contracted for this famous herd of cattle," Ward said. "I do not believe we could have obtained a better show herd in the State. My department feels that we are going to meet every expectation in doing our share in making of this the initial Frontier Round-up to honor men and women of the long ago all that the most ambitious might look for."

The herd will be moved into Colorado well in advance of date for opening the celebration. Ward accepts that scores of cowboys and cowgirls from a wide section of West Texas will be entered for competition in the competitive events.

Trench Silo Offers Farm Citizens One Of Their Most Valuable Investments

The trench silo, about which much has been said in news columns of this newspaper, has never been overestimated as to value and as time continues to pass on into history more of these containers are to be put in use, according to prediction advanced by local and state officials of the Texas Extension Service.

That the trench silo has been demonstrated to be the safest and most economical way to store feed in this county is attested by Ben J. Baskin, county farm agent and scores of farmers and ranchers on whose places the silos are in use. Many agricultural agents of the State are supporting contention that the number of these containers will be doubled before close of the year.

The Lamb county agent, quoted in communication received by The Record Monday, noted that at the beginning of 1935 only 4 trench silos were in use in that county. One hundred and eighteen of the underground feed storage bins were filled during last year and it was indicated that the number would go to 200 for 1937. Similar reports are available from scores of other West Texas counties.

S. O. Wulfjen, Gus Chesney and others that might be mentioned would not part with their trench silos for nothing less than a premium consideration. They, like hundreds of other Texas citizens, have found that feed placed in those containers will keep indefinitely and increases in feeding qualities with age. All livestock feed the ensilage do better. This is especially true in reference to dairy cattle.

Houston Ward, Stonehall county rancher, put down 500 tons of silage in the fall of 1936. He fed out 300 steers for market and received $9.50 a ton for his silage in that way.

One-Armed Pitcher Leads Standard Oil Into Series Victory

Score Is 9 To 6 In Final Lions Club Contest At Cantrill Field

Cunningham, the one-armed pitching star on Standard Oil's softball club, led his team mates to victory Thursday night to win pennant in the Lions Club softball league. The lead of 9 to 6 over Young Business Men gave the oil crew three wins out of four played during the final series.

First two games of the play-off series, staged Monday and Tuesday nights of last week, were won by Standard. On the card opener Standard won by the marginal lead of only one run. Tuesday evening's victory was registered on the scoreboard at 9 to 4.

YBM defeated their opponents by third of the games, played Wednesday night, however, rolling up the topheavy lead of 12 to 5.

Standard won first half of the series and YBM took that honor during the second. The contests were played at Cantrill Field and during final engagements attracted an ever increasing aggregation of fans. The dime admittance charge will go into benevolent fund of the Lions Club after expenses of the league have been paid.

Mitchell Woman Is Arrested As Lamb Killed In Arkansas

Lorene Feaster With Texas Desperado When Police Ends Life Of Crime

Lorene Feaster, Mitchell county young woman well known at Colorado and Buford, was with Alfred (Sonny) Lamb, youthful West Texas desperado, when police and rangers surrounded him in a house at Hot Springs, Arkansas, Sunday night and shot Lamb to death as he reached for a gun.

The following account of the shooting and subsequent statements by the Feaster woman are reprinted from the Abilene-Reporter News for Monday afternoon:

Assistant Superintendent Robert LaFollette of the Arkansas State police, who headed the raiding party, said that as officers crept toward the building, Lamb moved for his gun. The officers opened fire, killing the young Texas fugitive instantly.

A woman taken into custody after the shooting—she had escaped injury in the gunfire—admitted today she had been married to Lamb since August of last year. She first gave her name as Florine Reynolds, and the couple had been registered for several days in Hot Springs as "Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds."

But today she admitted she was Lorene Lamb and said she was married to Alfred at Walters, Okla., August 22, 1936. She said her name was Lorene Feaster, that her home was San Angelo, and that her mother lives at Colorado.

She denied, said State Ranger William Armstrong, any knowledge of her husband's criminal career other than that she knew he was "wanted for murder."

Armstrong said she told him she had never asked Lamb any questions about his past and that she didn't know anything about nine guns and a pistol recovered at the scene of the shooting, except that Lamb was carrying them "in case something happened."

She told Armstrong, he said, that she and Lamb had been in Hot Springs for the past two months, but had lived at the scene of last night's raid only about a week. He said she told him she met her husband in June in Big Spring, after he escaped from the Tarrant county jail at Ft. Worth, while awaiting to be transferred to Stintet, to face burglary charges.

West Texas officers were not surprised at her statements. They had expected Lamb to meet his wife, and had kept a close check at Colorado. However, she eluded them, and for two months neither they nor her mother had been able to locate her, said Captain S. O. Hamm of the State highway patrol.

SOCIAL SECURITY OPENS AREA OFFICE AT ANGELO

The San Angelo field office of the Social Security Board is one of a number being established at strategic points throughout the United States to bring administration of the Federal Old-Age Benefits sections of the Social Security Act close to the people affected by it. The office is located at 412 Rust Building with W. O. King in charge as manager.

One of the duties of this field office will be to provide employers, employees, and all other interested persons with accurate information regarding their rights and obligations under Federal Old-Age Benefits provisions of the Act. The services of the staff of this office will be available to the public at all times for interpretation of this section of the Act.

Functions of this office are to facilitate the Social Security Board's relations with the thousands of persons in this field area for whom Federal Old-Age Benefits began to accrue on January 1, 1937, as well as to assist in the administration of other aspects of the social security program. Until personnel is recruited for the San Angelo office, no clerical work will be handled; however, the manager will be in the office to answer all inquiries regarding old-age benefits. Issuance of account number cards by the San Angelo office will begin within a few days, or as soon as the necessary typists can be assigned to this work.

The San Angelo field office has at present three employees. As the volume of work increases, additional personnel will be added in accordance with civil service requirements. Local persons having the necessary civil service status and otherwise meeting the requirements of the Social Security Board will be given preference. The Social Security Act requires that all personnel of the Board be employed in accordance with civil service law and regulations.

The San Angelo office will have nothing to do with the collection of taxes under any title of the Social Security Act, since this is a function of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department.

Lump-sum payment provisions of the Federal Old-Age benefits plan became effective January 1. Until monthly benefits become operative in 1942, only lump-sum payments will be made. Persons receiving these lump-sums will be (1) workers who have been in covered employments after December 31, 1936, and have reached the age of 65, or (2) estates of persons who have been in covered employments after December 31, 1936, and have died. Lump-sum payments now payable amount to 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages earned in covered employments after December 31, 1936.

In order to avail yourself of making payments monthly on these delinquent taxes it will be necessary that these payments be started before September 15, 1937, and a stipulated amount be paid each month, otherwise it will be necessary to proceed with some tax suits.
Please give this your immediate attention and make your arrangements on these delinquent taxes as the City Council has set the dead line on September 15, 1937.

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY OF COLORADO
Colorado, Texas
August 18, 1937
Several months ago notices were sent out to all delinquent tax payers advising them of this delinquency.

Quite a few paid their taxes, and in many cases the tax payers agreed to pay an amount monthly upon the back taxes. In some cases this was done and in others nothing has been done at all.

In order to avail yourself of making payments monthly on these delinquent taxes it will be necessary that these payments be started before September 15, 1937, and a stipulated amount be paid each month, otherwise it will be necessary to proceed with some tax suits.

Please give this your immediate attention and make your arrangements on these delinquent taxes as the City Council has set the dead line on September 15, 1937.

MAHON WANTS CASH FOR BUILDING REA PROJECTS

WASHINGTON. — Representative George Mahon of Colorado, Texas, has urged the Rural Electrification Administration to act on seven applications for projects in his district totaling $1,400,000.

The proposed projects are in Terry, Lubbock, Lamb, Hockley, Floyd, Garza, Lynn and Bailey counties. One project would jointly serve Lamb and Hockley counties.

Mahon said REA officials would give him no indication as to when they would act on any of the 23 Texas projects they have under consideration.

"They pointed out that Texas' share of the $3,000,000 appropriated for the administration this fiscal year would total $1,682,000," said Mahon. "And that all applications from the state total a little over $7,000,000."

YOUR LOCAL NEWSPAPER

The Colorado Record is classed at the top in the country weekly. The paper is purely local and is read and appreciated by 3,000 readers and here are some of the reasons why:

When you married "the finest girl in the county," where did you get that notice that meant so much to you—and so little to nearly everybody else? In your home-town paper.

When your home was invaded by a blue-eyed girl, or a bouncing boy, to whom did you immediately give details about the time of arrival, sex, and weight? The editor of the home paper.

In after years, when some young fellow took the blue-eyed girl to a home of his own, or the boy, now a man, was given a partnership in your business, to whom did you tell the news—which once meant much to you and so little to everyone else? To this same editor of that same home-town paper.

When trouble invades your home, and you add to your earthly possessions that desolate bit of real estate in the cemetery, and somehow the sun doesn't seem to shine as brightly as it did, and there's a flutter of crepe on the front door, and the chair that has been beside you for years is vacant—when this happens, who is it that makes it his business to "write up" the obituary? Again—it's the editor of the home paper.

Did you ever stop to count the times you begin conversation with the words, "I see by the paper . . ." Staying at home, you may not appreciate your home-town paper; but just take a trip, and he away from your intimate friends for several months, and then pick up a copy. You will welcome it as you would your closest friend.

I have always disliked publishing information about misdeeds or misfortunes of others. When I could do so, I have left such matters out, or have given the main facts, without going into details. To my way of thinking, there is something wrong with a journalism that brings tears to the eyes of an old man, or causes a mother to feel stabbed to the heart by publicity given to an erring son, or wayward daughter.

I do not, however, mean that a newspaper should entirely suppress crime news. A hard and fast line between what news to print and what to omit cannot be drawn. The mitigating circumstances, and the far-reaching effect, must be studied and decided upon.

In the main, it is the province of a newspaper to print the so-called crime news as it occurs. In so doing, it provides a safeguard to the community at large, which is invaluable. Men are deterred from criminal actions by fear of publicity. Judicious use of printers' ink can do more toward law enforcement than a dozen peace officers.

Newspapers, like all human agencies, make mistakes, but such errors are generally traceable to misinformation given the newsmen. I remember one such instance which happened to me in my early reportorial days. During the absence of the editor a communication came telling of the marriage of a young couple in a near-by community. The letter was apparently in the handwriting of one of our correspondents, and in good faith I published the story. A few days later, a sandy-haired citizen, accompanied by his older son, his wife, and daughter, stormed into the office.

"I've come here to see the rascal who put a notice in the paper about my daughter's marriage," he shouted. In his hand was a long, old-fashioned "blacksnake" whip, held at a dangerous angle. Before I replied I stepped to the door leading to the shop and asked the two men at work there to come up front. Then I told my visitor that I had edited the item and, summoning all my nonchalance, casually inquired whether anything about it was wrong.

As he cooled down a little—helped perhaps by the sight of a stove poker in the hands of our Irish foreman-printer—he explained that the report was false, and that his daughter was not married. I had saved the letter which told of the marriage, and showed it to him. It then developed that it had been written in spite of a young lady who had been going with the same fellow as the man's daughter!

Another apparently gross error, charged to me, happened when my make-up man transposed two handfuls of type. When the paper came out, an irate hostess called me and wanted to know why I had put the name of her bride-party guests in the "Farm News" column—just under an account of a sale of registered bulls!

I am confident that all newspaper editors will go to heaven. No matter how eloquently the editor may boast for the development and progress of his community, no matter how diligently he may labor to build up his home county, no matter how loyally he supports a friend in politics, extolls the virtues of a famous native son, stretches the truth to praise a local prima-donna-to-be, or gently lays a metaphorical wreath on the graves of the departed, he seldom hears a "Thank you." Rarely does anyone say, "Well done." Almost never does he hear, "We appreciated that."

But let him make a slip. Let him say that Sam Jones did something he didn't do, or Mrs. Smith Brown said something she didn't say! Everyone in town then takes a whack at him. And that is why I believe that all newspapermen go to heaven—they get their share of hell on earth.

It is surprising how much people expect a country newspaper editor to know. A week never passes but what there are many calls for varied information, facts and figures, and if they are not instantly supplied the editor is put down as an ignoramus. Typical are the following, noted in the course of a few ordinary days:

One woman called by long distance to know if her husband had divorced her. A boy wanted to know how to get an agency for a magazine. A farmer wanted to know if a man summoned for service on the petit jury had to serve on juries in criminal trials. A woman called for the address of the District Public Works Administration director. A tourist wanted to know the best route to a distant city. Six school children in succession came in for the names of the members of the President's Cabinet. One man wanted to know the address of the division engineer of the State Highway Commission; the next asked about the Governor's salary.

So it goes. Coming in contact intimately with every business and profession in his territory, the successful editor has to be well informed intelligently to handle the news of the day. Too, he must—or should—know the peculiarities and the family relations of everybody.

Fifty years ago, the newspaperman was largely regarded as a necessary evil, sometimes was the object of charity. The fault was all his. Instead of conducting his business on a businesslike basis, he was content merely to exist on the gratuities of the community. Nor was he judged by any higher standards than those by which he judged himself. Advertising carried in his sheet was generally conceded by his fellow businessmen as a sort of a donation, necessary in order to keep the paper alive.

Today that is no longer true. Your successful home-town publisher is a keen businessman, recognizing the value of the commodity which he sells. If he is asked to bid on printing, his figures are submitted on a business basis in most instances. He knows his costs, and his work is figured accordingly. If his competitor underfigures his bid—well and good. A job taken below cost is worse than no job at all. Efforts to build up a circulation, the newspaper's main stock in trade, have caused more hard feelings between rival newspapermen than any other thing, politics included. The home-town newspaperman is jealous of his subscribers, and will fight to hold them. A story is told of an oldtime editor who lay dying. The pastor had been called to administer spiritual comfort. The physician bent over the prone form of the editor, placed his ear on his chest, and said, "poor man! Circulation almost gone." The dying editor's eyes opened. He rose in his bed. "You're a liar!" he shouted. "We have the largest circulation in the county!"

But rivalries are today less acrimonious. In years not so long past, newspapers were judged by the amount of bitter and cutting invectives that they hurled at competitors. The editor who said the most mean things was the one who, generally, had the largest following. But a better day has dawned in small-town journalism. Editors recognize the value of competition, and they have their own codes of ethics. They recognize that their competitors are pretty good men, as worthy of a place in the community as are they themselves.

THE FARM PANTRIES

Hopelessness is fading from the lives of ambitious tenant farmers. With just a little encouragement and help, they have found a way out from under the depressed feeling that dominated so many of them in the past. There was a time in the years preceding 1933, when it was an unusual thing to find a productive garden, a cow, chickens or a hog in possession by tenant farmers. They depended upon their share of money crops, mostly cotton in Texas, to buy eggs and bacon and butter and vegetables in cans from the crossroads store. Now it seems that those conditions are about over. They are so nearly over that D. P. Trent, regional director of the Resettlement Administration, after examining the report on the work of this agency has taken official notice of it.

The report referred to was one in which was revealed the results of a canvass of tenant farm pantries. It showed a wealth of food-stuffs conserved for family support throughout the coming years. It is not easy to understand why Texas tenant farmers should dwell in despair, or suffer privations such as test human endurance. The ground is still fruitful. Hens still lay eggs. Cows yield milk. The tenant farmer is not deprived of these assets, if he insists upon having them. He has a good deal of spare time from his field crops. He can fence a garden. He can provide a run for hens. He can have pasture for a cow. Then, why doesn't he? The answer is that in some cases he hasn't had full co-operation from the landlord. In the last analysis, it comes down to the tenant's lack of initiative. We say initiative because it's a nicer word than "industry." All tenant farmers are not industrious. But this is being remedied among the more progressive types, partly by example and partly under the inspiration of the county agent and the home demonstrator. The wives of tenant farmers, as well as of land-owning farmers, are exhibiting more enterprise and more capability than the husbands, in a thousand cases.

REMEMBRANCE

A recent cartoon in the Dallas News reminds us of the celebrated debate which took place in Washington about 1873 between Bob Toombs and Alex Stephens of Georgia. Toombs, a man of powerful physique, rose to the floor and, looking down on Stephens, a small man with twisted limbs, said, "Why I can pin your ears back and swallow you."

Whereupon Stephens, with the aid of his crutches, arose and said, "Maybe you can swallow me but if you do, you will have more brains in your belly than in your head."

The writer of this column visited the Jim Bodine dairy farm this week and among other things we found this tacked on the dairy barn:

The Bodine cow is always pampered
She lives a life of joy unhampered
By worries over this or that
As long as she makes butterfat.

Bodine watches over her feeding
Makes sure she gets what she's needing
Sees that she's healthy every way
And that his milk is all Grade A.

In the year 483 the Emperor Zeno made the following law: "We command that no one may presume to exercise a monopoly of any kind of clothing, or of fish, or of any other thing serving for food, or for any other use, whatever its nature may be; nor may any person combine or agree in unlawful meetings, that different kinds of merchandise may not be sold at a less price than they may have agreed upon among themselves.

"And if any one shall presume to practice a monopoly, let his property be forfeited and himself condemned to perpetual exile.

"And in regard to the principals of other professions, if they shall venture in the future to fix a price upon their merchandise, and to bind themselves by agreements not to sell at a lower price, let them be condemned to pay forty pounds of gold."

Probably Zeno could help us just now.

"Love in a cottage" is no romancer's fancy. It is the realist realism that was ever born of human heart and hand. It doesn't mean spooning; it means living and rejoicing; it means honest labor and just reward; it means the sweetest service and ministrations, the answering touch of appreciation, the full satisfaction of healthy appetite, the normal growth of mind and soul, the unfettered way to peace, the unclouded sunset of the last day and the smiling entry into the land of shade and sleep this side of the everlasting morning—Clarence Ousley.

West Texas Ass'n To Convene Next Year In Seymour

Editors Elect Mary Dunbar Of Palo Pinto President As Closing Session Held

Mary Dunbar, Palo Pinto publisher, Saturday morning was elected president of the West Texas Press Association during closing session of the annual newsmen's convocation at Sweetwater. Mrs. Dunbar has been prominent in affairs of the association several years and last year was the organization's first vice-president. She is the first woman to head the regional press unit.

By unanimous vote of the registered delegates Seymour was chosen as host for the 1938 convention. Colorado, through W. W. Whipkey and W. S. Cooper, had previously planned to register bid for the convention but withdrew in favor of the North Texas city a short time before nominations were called for.

The Pecos Enterprise, published by Barney Hubbs, was adjudged the best weekly newspaper in West Texas. The Seury County Times at Snyder, of which Jake Smythe is editor and co-publisher, won second place and the Memphis Democrat, published by Claude Wells, won third. The Colorado Record was not entered for competition.

Smythe, secretary-treasurer of the association several years, was reelected for another year. Douglas Meador of the Matador Tribune, was named first vice-president; Sam Roberts of the Haskell Free Press, second vice-president, and Cedric Harrison, Baylor County Banner, and George Bennett, Sweetwater Daily Reporter, directors.

The Community Natural Gas Company, represented by Will C. Grant of the Dallas office and resident district manager at Sweetwater, entertained the convention delegates at a barbecue at Lake Sweetwater Friday afternoon. This gesture of hospitality was among the convention high spots.

A banquet was served visitors Friday noon by the Sweetwater Luncleon Club and Saturday morning a complimentary breakfast was given by the West Texas chamber of commerce. A dance on the Blue Bonnet hotel roof Friday evening and a golf tournament that afternoon for the Bill Parker Trophy were other convention features to attract delegates.

Addition Of Vocational Agriculture One More Step Forward For Westbrook School

Moving a step nearer its goal of furnishing a practical curriculum for boys and girls of western Mitchell county, Westbrook High school will open its 1937-38 term on September 6 with vocational agriculture added to its course of study.

With this addition the Westbrook school system also strengthens its position, fast being recognized, as one of the best schools of its size in this section. A new gymnasium and auditorium, constructed at a total cost of some $13,000, is nearing completion on the Westbrook school grounds, adjacent to the 13-room brick building in which some 289 students will be taught this year.

Realizing that Westbrook school children, coming as they do from a vast agricultural area, need practical education in agriculture, the board of trustees began working for a vocational agriculture department some two years ago. In this they received the wholehearted cooperation of their superintendent, Ira Lauderdale, who was coach and teacher in Westbrook High school for seven years before he was made superintendent over a year ago.

Claude Cox, graduate of A. & M. and formerly a student in John Tarleton college and Breckenridge High school has been elected to head the new vocational agriculture department. A progressive school board accounts for many improvements made in the Westbrook school system in recent years. Van Boston, who is also mayor of Westbrook, is president. George Dawson is secretary. Other members are Albert Young, Burton Hines, Charley Moore, and George Bacon. The place left vacant by Sam Taylor's recent removal to Iatan is to be filled in the near future.

In improving the Westbrook schools, the school board and Superintendent Lauderdale have had the interest of all Western Mitchell county at heart, for Westbrook's high school students come from all of five common school districts—Conaway, Carr, Hyman, Spade and Iatan—and part of two others, Dorn and Rogers. Three buses will bring in more than 100 students daily.

The high school added 6 1/2 credits during the past year, Lauderdale's first as superintendent. In the lower grades the unit system of teaching is used. All but one of the ten teachers in the school have degrees, and that one lacks only a single summer's work. Lauderdale, who formerly lived in Cisco, is a graduate of N. T. S. T. C. in Denton. He taught in Stephens county before going to Westbrook.

Other high school teachers are R. G. Crouch of Sterley, Miss Anna Speights of Hemphill, R. G. Fowler of Plainview, Claude Cox of Stephenville, and John Hood of Canadian. Grade school teachers are Miss Norcene Ingle of Longview, Miss Rosalie McMurry of Denton, Miss Mary Kent of Plainview, and Miss Winnie Fae Gressett of Westbrook.

An example of the tenacious way in which Westbrook goes after things was its acquisition of the new gym and auditorium building. Plans had to be revised time and again to meet requirements for getting a WPA grant, and $4,000 worth of bonds had to be voted by the town. But the coast was finally clear for the building, construction of which has given over six months' employment to 28 men with C. M. Kitchell of Anson as superintendent. Built of concrete and natural stone, the building measures 82x80. The entire school ground is enclosed by a natural rock fence built as a FWA project nearly two years ago.

An active Parent-Teachers association, working with Mrs. Foy Castleman as president and a membership of fifty, is a distinct asset to the school. In addition to serving its primary purpose as an educational center, Westbrook school also fulfills the need of a community center for Westbrook's 500 inhabitants and residents of neighboring communities. Westbrook takes its basketball more seriously than any other sport and, with its new gym completed in time for the basketball season, is looking with confident eyes toward some county and district championships this year. Four plays are staged at the school each year, and while school is in session there is hardly a night when something is not doing "at the school house."

MRS. LATHAM LEAVING

Mrs. E. L. Latham and daughter, Mary Ann, are leaving the latter part of this week to get John Latham, who has been visiting in Groesbeck all summer. They will return home via Dallas so that Mrs. Latham can buy musical supplies for her music classes, which will open Sept. 1.

Blow From Skillet Results In Death For Negro Porter

A. T. Thompson, Negro Cook, Is Held In Jail After Richard Hall Succumbs

A skillet wielded in the kitchen of the Colorado hotel coffee shop Friday morning about 8:30 resulted in the death of Richard Hall, 25-year-old negro porter at the hotel, Friday night about 9:30 at Root hospital.

A. T. Thompson, negro cook at the coffee shop, was placed under arrest by Dick Hickman, chief of police when Hall's condition grew unexpectedly serious Friday afternoon. Thompson was formally charged with murder after Hall's death. Hall was able to walk to a car after he was hit, witnesses said, and his condition was not regarded as serious until paralysis set in about noon.

Hall was one of Colorado's best-known negroes. He was reared here, the son of Helen Hall Moffet. He had worked as porter at the hotel for a number of years. Thompson, who came originally from Groesbeck, had been cooking at the coffee shop about a month, having come here from the Irvington hotel in Dallas. According to Police Chief Hickman, Thompson was acquitted of the murder of one negro in 1930 and convicted of the murder of another in 1931, receiving a 5-year suspended sentence in the latter case.

Funeral for Hall was held Sunday afternoon with Kiker & Son in charge.
