

KEEP COTTON SALES SLIPS PRODUCERS REQUESTED BY FEDERAL, NATIONAL HEADS

Records Necessary To Close Payments This Year, Is Reason Assigned; Baskin Urges Compliance

Mitchell county cotton producers were warned Wednesday morning by Ben J. Baskin, county farm agent, not to lose nor misplace their sales slips on their 1937 cotton already sold, or to be sold in the future.

Baskin based his suggestion upon information received at the time from Washington and Austin in which chiefs of the Federal and State governments had notified all persons concerned that the sales slips must be available when benefit payments are made for the 1937 crop next year, to bring the price up to the guaranteed price of 12 cents a pound, as approved by President Roosevelt.

Secretary Wallace announced in Washington Tuesday that he had notified all members of congress from Texas that the sales slips will be used as evidence when the benefit payments are made. At Austin J. E. McDonald, State commissioner of agriculture, issued a similar statement.

Any grower who does not have his sales slip or receipt will be in danger of losing the payment, which will range up to as high as three cents a pound on the 1937 sales. The payment, under present plans, will not be made until next spring after all farmers have had an opportunity to sign the 1938 control program and make themselves eligible for the subsidy.

"If farmers get these statements as they sell their cotton," McDonald said, "it will save them a lot of trouble later on. It would be a good idea for them to obtain the records in duplicate or triplicate."

The commissioner pointed out that growers must agree to abide by crop control legislation to be enacted by a future Congress if they are to obtain the subsidies.

FIVE PROPOSALS VOTED AS TEXAS ELECTORATE POLLS BALLOT BOX REFERENDUM

Mitchell County Favors Four Changes, Rejects Others In Unusually Light Vote Registered Monday

Incomplete returns from the State-wide election Monday show that all but one of the proposed State constitutional amendments were voted and that the poll registered represented one of the lightest in several years for Texas. The proposal defeated would have abolished the salary system for paying county officials.

With only 283 votes registered at the 12 election precincts, Mitchell county electors went to the ballot box to approve four of the proposals and turn thumbs down on two. The salary system proposal and one having to do with changing laws for financing roads in Harris county were rejected here.

The county vote was as follows: Bank amendment: 144 for; 121 against.

Children's aid: 176 for; 103 against.

Salary repeal: 110 for; 160 against.

Taxes: 180 for; 102 against.

Harris county bonds; 105 for; 147 against.

Blind aid: 184 for; 99 against.

The two voting boxes in Colorado having over 800 poll taxes to their credit, polled only an even hundred votes. Vote at the court house was 88 and 12 at the American Legion building. The vote here was in keeping with sentiment over the county, the salary repeal and Harris county bond proposals being defeated.

Westbrook, with only 17 votes registered, turned thumbs down on all of the amendments save one—that having to do with taxes. Landers voted against all six of the proposals. Carr favored only one amendment, the tax change.

Loraine polled 86 votes to approve four of the amendments and defeat two. The proposals turned down there were the salary repeal and Harris county bonds. Latan approved all of the proposed constitutional changes excepting that having to do with Harris county. McKenzie voted solid against the bank amendment and solid for the child aid and blind aid changes. The Harris county vote there was a tie with the others adopted by small leads.

Seven votes were polled at Spade with a part of the amendments receiving support and others being rejected. Three proposals were carried at Buford, two rejected and one received a tie vote. Ten votes were polled there.

Fifteen votes were polled at Hyman, all of which favored the blind aid amendment. The children's aid clause carried there by a solid vote of 14. The Harris county bond proposal found support there in a vote of 7 to 3. The salary repeal and tax change measures were voted down.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

Wonder how many readers of "The Colorado That Used To Be" noticed that last week's 15-years-ago story was 16 years old rather than 15. So far no one has brought it to my attention, and it's just by chance that I noticed it myself. . . . There's small danger of anybody's having a good enough memory to check up on me, unless it would be the Hall De-Garmos, who probably know that they were married 16 years ago and not 15. . . .

Ten years ago this week the writer of this column did her first story for The Record—yes, that amounts to giving my age away, but it can't be helped. . . . I yam, as Popeye says, what I yam. . . . I've hinted and hinted for a special anniversary edition or something but nothing seems to be happening! . . . I ain't appreciated around here. . . . I came across that first story of mine while browsing around for my old newspaper story this week. . . . It was on the razing of the old First Baptist church, and I recall that I wrote it twice in pencil and copied it painstakingly—and with a thumping heart—on the typewriter before turning it in with a prayer. . . . After a year of journalism I thought it quite the thing to get some practical newspaper experience before going back to college and continuing my study. . . . But it turned out like so many other interrupted college courses—it stayed interrupted. . . .

There's not any way to express in writing what little Mariet Robinson calls her paternal aunt, Mrs. Bun Pritchett, but it sounds like "Voof."
That's her answer to everything —who fixed your curls, who made your sunsuit, who gave you your bucket—everything's "Voof." . . .
Mrs. Pritchett has been mother to Mariet since her own mother died recently in New Mexico following the birth of a little sister, who is now with maternal relatives in Washington. . . .
Mariet has long dark curls—sometimes they're braided—and big brown eyes that never sparkle quite so much as when she says "Voof."

RETURNS TO WASHINGTON

Miss Maxine Dorn left by train last Friday noon to return to Washington, D. C., after a visit with friends and relatives here.

RIORDANS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. Jerold Riordan and Miss Nellie Riordan returned Friday night after a ten-day stay in Ruidoso,
New Mexico.

HERE FROM OKLAHOMA

Miss Dolores Berton of Cushing, Oklahoma, left Sunday for her home after a visit with her sister, Mrs.
Charles Parker.

HEARN IS VISITOR

Lesesene Hearn of Lubbock was looking after business here Saturday.
He received his M.A. degree from Texas Tech college at Lubbock Tuesday night. Hearn is principal of the Spring Lake school system in Lamb county. He formerly taught in the Silver and Longfellow communities of this county.

melons as one of his summer FFA projects. . . . The melon referred to above was on exhibit at the J. A.
Pickens grocery Saturday afternoon, and has been put on ice to preserve
it for exhibition at the Mitchell county fair during the Colorado City Frontier Round-up on Sept. 10 and 11. . . . It weighed 80 pounds, the Quinton modestly claimed only 77 1/2 pounds before its exact weight was established. . . . A likeable chap, that Quinton—and we have no designs on that watermelon, either. . . . cross our heart. . . .

It seems that H. F. Ward and the erstwhile motion picture cowboy star, Tom Mix, were pals up in Oklahoma in their younger years. . . . But you can't get "Doc" Ward to talk much about it. . . . Wonder if he and Tom made a part of the I-won't-tell-if-you-won't variety. . . .

The pluckiness which took her serenely through years of frontier living and the rearing of ten children seems to be clinging to Mrs. D. N.
Arnett, whose frail appearance has always belied her gentle strength.
Her life was despaired of time and again little over a week ago, but now she seems to be holding her own.
She's a mother who is openly admired by her own children, and there isn't a much nicer tribute than that.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
The Sunday school met at the regular hour Sunday morning with a small increase in attendance over last Sunday. But still we are not satisfied with this number and are still urging that more people come to Sunday school on Sunday morning. The Sunday school superintendent called the church in conference long enough Sunday morning to appoint a nominating committee to nominate officers and teachers for the Sunday school this next association year. Also a couple of letters of dismissal were granted.

After the short conference Bro. J. J. Strickland, the district missionary, preached a very appropriate sermon at the 11 o'clock hour.

You young people that are not taking a part in the B. Y. P. U.'s on Sunday nights don't know what you are missing. We had a very effective program rendered in a very successful way Sunday afternoon. The young people also send out invitations to the other members of the church to visit with them occasionally.

Bro. J. J. Strickland preached again Sunday night and a pulpit committee was appointed.

The Board of Deacons called up this committee. Bro. Narrell called a meeting of the deacons in order to see who they would have preach next Sunday. There will be services each Sunday. So come right on and even though the church is without a pastor let's carry the Lord's work on.

GLEANER'S S. S. SOCIAL
The Gleaner's Sunday school class staged a social apron and sock measuring party last Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon. We were delighted to have our sister class, the Willing Workers, and their husbands with us. Beautiful orchestra music was enjoyed by everyone present. We were also favored by several accordion pieces by Miss Johnson. Mrs. Homer Johnson also favored us with two very humorous readings. Several games were played which were enjoyed very much by all present.

After our games then the fun began. The ladies waists were measured, some of them regretting very much that they were so large. The mens' feet were measured. We found out that there were some men in Loraine that really had big feet. Dr. Johnson received the prize for being the biggest man present. After the measuring delicious punch and cake was served to about 70 or 75 people. Everyone left expressing themselves as having a very enjoyable time.

Doyle Williams
Livestock shows have been held by the local FFA chapter each Spring.

Williams and his FFA boys sponsored Mitchell county's first horse and mule show last year. Now the show is to be made a feature of the Colorado City Frontier Round-up each year.

Williams' judging teams have never failed to place among the high teams in both district and state contests.

This summer, as in all summers past, Williams has continued work with his boys at their farm homes over the county during "vacation" months. Each boy in his class chooses and carries out a summer project, such as raising cotton, grain sorghums, watermelons. Other projects, including baby beef production, poultry and pork projects, are carried on during the school term.

Evening schools for farmers of Mitchell county have been conducted by Williams in nearly every rural community of the county. At these schools farmers have selected for study the subjects in which they were most interested at the time. Williams has also held evening schools in two other high schools of the county, Loraine and Westbrook. Westbrook is to have a vocational agriculture department of its own this year.

The work which Williams will do in Denison will be in the midst of a Red River valley country devoted largely to dairying. One of the largest cheese plants in the world, owned by Kraft-Phenix, is located in Denison. Cotton and truck farms also lead in the agricultural field around Denison. Denison High school has been without a vocational agricultural department for the past three years.

Both Williams and his wife will be greatly missed in Colorado. Mrs. Williams belongs to the Hesperian club and takes an active part in the social and church life of the town. The Williams have two sons.

E. G. Graves of Fort Worth, president of the T. R. C. B. S. of Texas; W. S. Genaro of Mineral Wells and Dr. Buechel.

The delegates were entertained at a luncheon in the hotel dining room at noon. The afternoon sessions were given over to joint conferences and round-table discussions by the two organizations. Several men and women prominent in credit affairs of the State, including past presidents of the two associations, were in attendance.

Officials and other delegates pronounced the convention one of the most successful and interesting in the way of entertainment and educational features ever held. Cook and Carl A. Blasig, joint hosts to the gathering, stated Monday morning.

"Jack Helton, general chairman of the reception and entertainment committee and those serving with him, did a fine job and sent every visitor home with a kind feeling for Colorado and her citizenship," the local retail merchants and chamber of commerce officials declared.

"We assured delegates attending the last semi-annual convention in San Angelo six months ago that if they would designate Colorado as August convention host we would do all within our power to make the meeting successful from every angle to be considered, and in this I feel that the people of this community have made good," Cook stated.

Entire District With Total Of 52 Scholastics Transfers Boys And Girls There

The Dunn schools were opened Monday morning with largest student enrollment in history. The Independence rural district with scholastic population of 52 boys and girls transferred there as a unit, along with the two teachers previously employed to teach the school this year.

Cleo W. Tarter, superintendent of the school, is beginning his third consecutive year in that position. Previously he was principal several years under Claude Hooks, former superintendent.

The school offers a total of 17 1/2 affiliated credits. The increased student enrollment is being accommodated in the old Dunn building and the gym, the latter built last year of native stone.

Rains Cover Much Of County To Bring Relief From Heat and Benefit To Crops

Scattered rains ranging from light sprinkles to drenching downpours covered a considerable part of Mitchell county during the past week-end to bring relief to the public from effects of the prolonged torrid heat and assistance to crops. Cotton and late feed will be especially benefitted by the moisture.

One of the heaviest rains to fall in months covered the Seven Wells section, extending south, east and west from vicinity of the S. O. Wulfjen ranch headquarters. Wulfjen reports two and one-half inches of moisture Thursday afternoon.

Byron Byrne, rancher of southeast from Colorado, received a hard rain over his holdings, he stated while in town Saturday afternoon. From two to three inches fell there Thursday. Byrne noted that east of his place the precipitation grew lighter with but little rain falling south of Loraine.

Rain ranging from light showers to three inches blanketed much of the county Saturday afternoon. At Colorado and Buford the fall was three quarters of an inch. The rain was heavier north of Buford, soaking field and range lands over a considerable territory along the Mitchell-Scurry county line.

At Hyman approximately one inch of rain fell during the week-end. In Valley View community but little rain had been received up to Tuesday afternoon.

A good rain covered much of the Westbrook section, extending in all directions. But little rain fell at Itan and in this direction the precipitation was reduced to little consequence along Morgan creek. Carr, recipient of probably more rain during the past few weeks than any part of the county, received additional moisture.

BEST FARM YEAR SINCE 1929 PREDICTION GIVEN

Government economists predicted Tuesday at Washington that marketings of this season's principal crops plus government benefits will put $9,000,000,000 in the pockets of farmers, making it their most prosperous year since 1929.

This figure is over a billion dollars more than 1936 cash farm income, which was $7,865,000,000, and more than double the 1932 depression low of $4,328,000,000. The 1929 total was $10,479,000,000.

A. G. Black, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, said 1937 was more favorable in another respect—the larger income is more evenly divided over the nation because droughts failed to damage crops of extensive regions as in 1934 and 1936.

The income survey estimated government payments to farmers in 1937 would amount to $400,000,000 or $450,000,000, compared with $287,000,000 in 1936. Speeding up payment checks accounted for the gain.

Income from farm marketings will run $1,000,000,000 ahead of last year, the economists said, chiefly because of larger crops this year.

OLDSMOBILE DELIVERIES HIGHER DURING AUGUST

Oldsmobile retail sales during the first ten days of August this year were 63 per cent above the same period last year and greater than in any other similar period in the company's history, it was reported today by D. E. Kalston, Oldsmobile's general sales manager.

During the recent period a total of 6,386 Oldsmobile Sixes and Eights were sold, to top by 2,644 cars the 4,195 units sold during the first ten days of August in 1936.

From January 1, 1937, to August 10, a total of 136,558 Oldsmobiles have been delivered to retail purchasers, a substantial gain over the same period in 1936.

SNYDER PLANS RODEO ON SEPTEMBER 17 AND 18

WILKINS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wilkins and Sonny returned home Wednesday night after spending six weeks at Lubbock, where Mr. and Mrs. Wilkins attended the second term of summer school at Texas Tech.

CURRENT PRICES TO BE MAINTAINED ON CATTLE

WASHINGTON.—Department of Agriculture economists expect cattle prices to continue near present high levels the remainder of the year, the monthly livestock report disclosed Wednesday. Principal factors are reduced slaughter supply of grain-fed cattle and good consumer demand for beef.

Somewhat fewer cattle and calves will be slaughtered during the remainder of 1937 than in the corresponding period last year, it was estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. And the seasonal increase in cattle slaughter this fall is expected to be smaller than usual.

Usually there is a seasonal decline about this time of the year in prices of the lower grades of slaughter cattle. But this year, because of the likelihood of a strong demand for feeder cattle, prices are expected to decline less than seasonally and possibly not at all, the bureau said in its August beef cattle situation report.

Prices of the better grades of slaughter cattle during the fall months are expected to be maintained near present high levels, on account of the small marketings of grain-fed cattle in prospect. But next year marketings of grain-fed cattle are expected to increase.

Consumer demand for beef in the next year or longer is likely to be strengthened by the smaller than average slaughter supplies of hogs in prospect, the bureau said.

Although the number of cattle on feed in the Corn Belt States on August 1 was the smallest for that date in many years, a sharp increase is in prospect this winter over last. Factors making for such an increase are the favorable feed crop prospects and high prices for finished cattle.

Feeders will pay more money for stocker and feeder cattle this fall than last, but on account of the lower prices of feed in prospect the bureau said the combined costs of feeding in the 1937-38 feeding season probably will be somewhat less than in 1936-37.

Feeding operations are expected to be less profitable than in 1936-37, since prices of finished cattle in the first half of 1938 probably will average lower than in the same period this year, but prospects for profit are moderately favorable.

NUMBER OF NEW FAMILIES HERE

Approach of the fall season and the opening of school are credited with bringing a number of new families to Colorado within recent weeks, although several of the newcomers are connected with oil field work in this section.

Two employees of the Owen W. Murray oil company and their families are living in the E. McCurry apartments east of Root hospital. These are G. W. Dodd, tool dresser, and W. L. Liles, driller. Both came here from Gainesville.

The family of H. A. Wheeler, who works on a rock crusher near Stanton, is living at 118 West Fifth street. D. G. Harrison, a gin employee who lives here each fall, is living at 836 East Sixth street. The W. J. Everett family has moved to 557 East Seventh street after living near Colorado for some time.

Trucking is the business of J. P. Durham, formerly of LeFors, who lives at 625 Oak street. Lee R. Henry, rotary helper with the Standard Oil company, and his wife and child are in Mrs. M. P. McCall's apartment.

AIR CONDITIONING WILL BE PLACED BY KILLIAN

J. G. Killian, identified with business interests of Colorado for some time, announces opening of an air conditioning equipment sales agency at 840 East Tenth street. He will look after engineering and other matters relating to do with installation and operation of these plants.

Ford Agency Sold To New Interests By Arnett-McLarty

Wilkes Motor Co. In Charge Of Business, Effective On August 25th

The Arnett-McLarty Motor Company, distributors of Ford motor cars and trucks for this territory, announce sale of the business to Mineral Wells and Tuna interests, effective August 25. The concern will be operated under the firm name of Wilkes Motor Company with Sam C. Wilkes, recently of Tulsa, in charge. J. P. Williams and Russell Whatley of Mineral Wells are associated with Wilkes in ownership of the business.

The Arnett-McLarty company, owned by John Arnett and L. H. McLarty, acquired the business two years ago. McLarty stated Wednesday that they retained their used car stock and would probably remain in Colorado until January first, closing out those and other holdings. Their plans for the future beyond that time has not been announced.

The new motor car dealer has had several years experience in the Ford field, having managed a similar business at Tulsa before coming to Colorado. He stated Wednesday afternoon that Mrs. Wilkes and their daughter, Miss Erin Wilkes, would join him here at an early date.

TWO FORMER COLORADO FAMILIES RETURN HERE

Two former Colorado families have returned here to live.

Guy B. Formwalt and his mother, Mrs. C. C. Formwalt, a pioneer Mitchell county, are living at 828 East Sixth street. Guy has been in New Mexico, Mrs. Formwalt in Sweetwater.

Luther Terry and his family are living at 721 East Seventh street after moving back here from Coleman. He is employed at the Good Eats bakery.

MRS. ARNETT RESTING BETTER

Staging a surprising rally after her serious illness of early last week, Mrs. D. N. Arnett, pioneer Coloradoan, is reported to be "resting well" at her home here. Mrs. Arnett, who is 86, has been ill since fracturing her hip in a fall some three weeks ago. She is in the care of a practical nurse from Lubbock. A daughter, Mrs. G. G. Johnson of Abilene, came Wednesday and will stay until Sunday.

Oil Industry Celebrates An Anniversary

The world's first oil well comes in with the first gusher! That dramatic moment in history is re-enacted in this scene from the thrilling motion picture, "High, Wide and Handsome." The derrick shown above is an exact replica of the original. (Inset) Irene Dunne and Randolph Scott, the stars of the Paramount saga of the discovery of oil and the building of the first pipe-line.

By LATTIMER SHAW

THE oil industry—the industry that introduced the Machine Age and changed the course of civilization—was born 78 years ago at a small farm in Titusville, Pa.

It was August 29, 1859. Colonel E. L. Drake, a railroad conductor who held the title of "colonel" only by courtesy, stood gazing at the shaky pyramid of timbers he had built on the banks of Oil Creek. The derisive hoots of his neighbors were ringing in his ears.

Suddenly from the shadow of this primitive derrick, a bearded giant burst forth. He was Uncle Billy South, blacksmith and weldigger, who had cast his lot with the visionary Drake.

Uncle Billy, trembling with excitement, grabbed Drake and led him to the mouth of the pipe shaft. The pump began working. Then . . . liquid, dark and thick, gushed from the earth.

"There, Colonel," cried Uncle Billy, "is your fortune."

The true source of petroleum had been found. A new epoch in history had begun.

The fantastic boom that followed soon led to a violent conflict between oil-drilling farmers in West-ern Pennsylvania and powerful transportation interests seeking to wrest control of the industry from them.

The farmers fought back. With their enemies battling them viciously at every turn, they built the world's first oil pipe-line to carry the oil from the rich Pennsylvania fields across the mountains to tide water at Bayonne, N. J. These pioneers were the founders of Tide Water Associated Oil Company and their historic pipe-line laid in 1873 is still carrying the world's costliest crude, the crude that is used to make Vedol motor oil and Tydol gasolines.

The discovery of oil at Titusville and the exciting struggle over the building of the pipe-line is depicted in dramatic fashion in Paramount's new thrilling motion picture, "High, Wide and Handsome" which scored a smashing hit as one of the most stirring screen plays in years on its recent opening at the Astor Theatre, New York.

Written by Jerome Kern and Oscar Hammerstein II and filmed with a cast of several thousand, "High, Wide and Handsome" will be shown throughout the country in the next 11 months.

Randolph Scott, playing opposite lovely Irene Dunne, is cast as a Pennsylvania farmer experimenting with the first oil well which was reconstructed by Paramount in exact detail. Scott leads the oil-drilling farmers in their battle with the railroads—a conflict packed with rousing action scenes highlighted by hand-to-hand pitched battles between hired ruffians and the Tide Water pipe line workers struggling to bring the world's finest oil to the refinery at the lowest cost.

Critics have been unanimous in praise of the new picture soon to begin its tour around the world.

Continued Decline For Texas Cotton Noted Last Week

Small Bolls Shedding Parts Of State; Drought And Heat Harmful

Continued high temperatures, hot winds and lack of sufficient moisture caused a rapid decline in Texas cotton with more than average shedding of squares and small bolls and rather widespread, premature opening. The Dallas News summary for the week ended Friday shows. Scattered showers to moderate rains in portions of the north and east during the week were followed by cooler weather which has helped to check serious deterioration and opening of immature bolls.

From 10 to 50 per cent of the crop in the northern half of the State is still making and needs a general rain of an inch or more. In Northwest Texas on the South Plains cotton is holding up fairly well and making about average progress despite the extreme heat. Better land practices by many farmers in this region resulted in storage of subsoil moisture from heavy rains last fall which has maintained the crop in fair condition during a month of 100-degree temperatures. Some deterioration is reported.

In the North, Northeast, Central and East from 20 to 30 per cent of the cotton is open and from 5 to 10 per cent harvested. Picking will get well under way in these sections in the next week or ten days. In South Texas the crop is about made and from 45 to 50 per cent picked. Many counties report a scarcity of pickers.

Insect activity has been checked to a great extent by hot weather, but weevils, fleas, bollworms and leaf-worms continue to do spotted damage to young cotton and with too much cloudy, rainy weather could still become a menacing factor.

Oklahoma cotton deteriorated from dry, hot weather and hot winds. Much of the crop is young cotton still in the making and needs a general rain immediately. Heat has checked serious insect activity, but a few grasshoppers are still in the west.

New Mexico cotton declined slightly from extreme heat. A large per cent is still making.

PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM BOUGHT BY CC FOR VARIED LOCAL PUBLIC GATHERINGS

Equipment Will Be Used At Park Friday Evening; To Be Utilized At Frontier Round-up, Football Field

The chamber of commerce announces purchase of a modern new public address system for use during programs at Riddick Park at the Colorado City Frontier Round-up, football games at Cantrill Field and other attractions to be attended by the public.

The new system, said by R. H. Barber, manager of the amateur hour programs, to be modern in every respect, will be put into use for the first time Friday evening as another of the amateur programs are held at the park amphitheatre. It will also be in use there Sunday evening during cooperative religious services.

The Colorado schools are cooperating in purchasing the equipment, Carl A. Blasig, manager of the CC, stated Tuesday morning. Cash donated by citizens attending the park program Friday night of last week started the fund.

"There will be no further public collections, at the amateur hour programs or elsewhere, to raise additional cash for purchase of the equipment," Barber stated Wednesday morning. "The equipment has been paid for and will be put into use for benefit of the public without further reference to finances."

The system has two loud speakers, two mikes and new wiring equipment throughout. It was given final tests Tuesday in preparation for placing the service in use.

Gaited Horses During Frontier Roundup To Draw Eyes of Horse Lovers to Colorado

Horse lovers of all West Texas will have their eyes turned on the Colorado City Frontier Roundup on Sept. 10 and 11 as a result of special plans which have been worked out in connection with the horse, mule, and jack show which will be one of the four features of the two-day celebration.

Frank Kelley, chairman of the horse, mule, and jack show committee, announced this week that a showing of five-gaited horses will be held under the giant floodlights of Cantrill field at Colorado High school Saturday evening, September 11, the showing to take place during an intermission between rodeo events.

It will be the first feature of its kind ever staged in Colorado or vicinity. Among the horses which have already been listed to appear in the show are three from the Chappel Davis stables of Midland, these three being Rex Du Point, June Bride, and Sandman. Negotiations are in progress to secure a well-known Tulsa horsewoman to ride June Bride.

Also to be shown at that time are five-gaited colts under halter. Among entries in this division are colts from C. T. McLaughlin's Diamond M ranch and stock farm in Scurry county and still others belonging to P. K. Mackey, Earl Cypert, Dick Billingsley, and Frank Kelley of Colorado. Ribbons will be given as prizes.

These features will be in addition to the horse, mule, and jack show proper, which will be open only to Mitchell county animals and which will be held on Cantrill Field some time Saturday morning. Members of the show committee have mailed out entrance blanks to all known owners of outstanding animals in the county. Serving on the committee with Kelley are Mackey and Billingsley.

The horse, mule, and jack show is an outgrowth of Mitchell county's first horse and mule show staged last year by Doyle Williams, head of the Colorado High school FFA department and his students.

Love of horses and knowledge of them is second nature to Frank Kelley, leader in plans for the shows here. He was reared within 33 miles of Louisville, Kentucky, the heart of the horse country, and he has been showing them since he was 13 years old. Kelley came to Texas 20 years ago and to Colorado 13 years ago. He heads the land and lease department for the Magnolia Petroleum company in the eastern Permian basin.

Kelley keeps horses both at Midland and Colorado. He owns Clarendon Chief, sired by Admiral King out of Denmark Mare, winner of the $10,000 stakes at the Kentucky horse show twice in her life. He has seven young colts sired by Anacacho's Ruben. Sire of Anacacho's Ruben was Edna May's King, for whom W. R. Morrison of San Antonio paid $40,000 in 1932.

Also a horse-lover of long standing and considerable experience is P. K. Mackey, whose horse ranch near Iatan is headed by Mackey's Mack, sired by McMack of Doc Peasley's stables in Fort Worth out of Lovely Lady, a mare that won 43 ribbons in shows from Houston to Tulsa.

C. T. McLaughlin, owner of Scurry county's Diamond M ranch, owns some of the best brood mares in Texas. His ranch is headed by Anacacho's Ruben and Tennessee's Choice, the latter having been acclaimed two-year-old champion plantation stallion of the state of Tennessee in 1935.

Swim Pool Will Be Closed Soon After Successful Season

Paid All Operating Expenses With Cash Balance Left, Mayor Sadler Reports

The municipal swim pool in Riddick Park is to be closed within the near future, probably about September 1, after another successful season, Mayor J. A. Sadler reported Tuesday morning.

Operation of the pool has not cost the taxpayers any outlay due to liberal patronage given the recreational property by the public, Sadler stated. Some improvements have been made during the season and the pool, adjacent grounds and bath house have been maintained in good repair.

Along with operating at a good financial investment the public enjoyed facilities of the pool during the present season at reduced prices. Both season and individual admission duets were sold at the lowest price scale since opening the property.

Paralysis Scare Is Reason For Calling Off Scout Meeting

Annual Swim And Handicraft Planned At Midland This Week Not Held

Acting upon recommendation of the Boy Scout health and safety committee that Scouts of the Buffalo Trail council be protected against the possibility of infantile paralysis, the Scout water and handicraft meet scheduled at Midland Tuesday was not held.

The cancellation was made not because there was infantile paralysis in the territory of such extent as to occasion alarm, but rather because it was considered desirable to adopt ample safety measures. Only two cases were reported in the district.

Boy Scouts at Colorado and throughout the district received news of the cancellation with disappointment. An attendance of 500 boys had been expected by Area Scout Executive Al Stiles and throughout the district these boys had been busy several days in preparation for the competitive events.

COUNTY'S COTTON YIELD BOOSTED BY RAINS AVER THE LOCAL SPECULATIVE

Cotton production in Mitchell county from the 1937 crop will be advanced considerably through beneficial influences of the recent rains, according to optimistic prediction being offered by local citizens.

Stunted by prolonged drought and heat the crop had deteriorated considerably in all parts of the county. The crop, however, had begun to react favorably a few days before the rains came, due to abating of the intense heat.

Estimates on the seasonal yield are ranging all the way from 20,000 to 30,000 bales. Weather conditions for the next few weeks, including consideration of the weather man in setting date for initial killing frost or freeze, will have bearing on the crop yield.

STRONG SCENTS DUE FOR USERS OF GAS HERE, IS WARNING ISSUED PUBLIC

Strong and rather objectionable odors will be in store for several gas users in Colorado during about this date.

It will be due to injection of a strong malodorant into the mains to find out whether or not there are leaks in gas pipes or connections about the premises of the customer.

M. O. Chapman, resident manager for the Community Natural Gas company, said fuel mixed with the smelling content should penetrate mains here "about August 25." It may be a day or two later. At any rate the gas user having leaks on his premises will not require a statement from Chapman or anyone else to indicate there is "something in the air."

Wells in the Eastland county area from which gas is taken into trunk line main of the company began receiving injections of the malodorant Saturday. "It is purely a safety measure," Chapman explained, "and is done in compliance with a new Texas law.

Consumers were advised to notify the gas company, in event the odor is detected. Measures looking to making repairs should be taken up through your plumber.

PORTER IS TEMPORARY HEAD OF IOOF SECTOR

W. W. Porter has been named temporary president of the eastern sector resulting from the recent division of the West Texas association of Oddfellows and Rebekahs during the annual convention of the association in Wink August 11 and 12.

With Mitchell county in the eastern sector are Nolan, Taylor, Callahan, and Eastland counties. A meeting is to be held soon to complete organization.

VARIED FACTORS OFFERING CONTRIBUTION TO ABATING RESOURCE OF AGRICULTURE

Serious State Of Affairs Is In Offing, County Agent Baskin Declares In Lions Club Address Friday

Farm stability is being undermined to an alarming degree in this county and unless definite cooperative steps are taken to check further inroads of the contributing causes, there is trouble ahead, Ben J. Baskin, county farm agent, stated during an address at the Lions Club Friday.

Blame for the situation was placed directly at door of the people themselves and the Federal Government. That the Triple A had a conspicuous role in starting scores of tenant farmers along a road that ultimately led to reverses was charged. Production of an inferior staple cotton, glutting the feed market during seasons of good production and non-attention of the importance of soil conservation were among the other elements listed as the speaker pictured a retrograding agricultural industry in Mitchell county.

While charging that agriculture had been negotiating a down-grade stride during the past several years, entailing a declined annual income to the farmer and a lower value on his lands, due to erosion and other causes, Baskin offered praise to the cattlemen of this section for their "material strides of progress" during the time.

"The ranchers are the only rural industrialists in Mitchell county who have actually improved their properties and the commodities produced on them during the past decade," he declared. "We have today an improved type of cattle on an improved type range and managed under improved methods," he said.

More attention should be given to the production of sheep and goats on both the farm and ranch properties of the county, he suggested. "Going back over statistics for the past fifty years we find that sheep and goats run in cycles of seven years, as to the low and high peak in market quotations," was his statement. "Cattle, too, move in such cycles, but they proceed slower and require from 16 to 17 years to pass through the altering conditions."

The agent offered, as major inducement for more sheep and goats, the claim that during those years in which cattle were cheap, sheep and goats had been quoted at the top, and vice-versa. "And history will, we feel continue to run in that sphere as affecting our livestock industry."

That the sheep and goat industry is becoming more popular was indicated as figures were quoted by the speaker. In 1930 there were only 1,646 sheep and goats owned in the county, as compared with 12,402 in 1935, last year in which accredited government statistics are available.

During his address the agent gave some interesting data on Mitchell county. He stated that the county embraces 566,400 acres of land, 371,448 of which are devoted to grazing and 179,581 to farming. It was interesting to note that his figures listed 15,371 acres devoted to highways, townsites, school, church and other public properties. In 1935 there were 1,348 farms with an average of 413 acres.

Since 1910 the area of cultivated land in Mitchell county has increased 73,000 acres, he stated. Acreage planted to cotton has increased from 30 to 74 per cent. The cotton yield per acre declined from 154 pounds to 115 pounds per acre. The number of tenants has decreased materially, especially during the past five years, "due to increased use of tractors and other modern farm machinery."

The most effective program that could be put into operation if the people would call a halt to the conditions listed would be to terrace or contour every acre of land in the county—for preservation of soil and affording adequate water supply—and improving quality and variety of farm and garden products, Baskin stated.

He urged serious consideration of the value that the trench silo would have on the farm and ranch. "The cheap feed that is being harvested in this county today could be stored in a trench silo at fifty cents per ton and one ton of feed in this type of container is worth two tons in a stack. In 1935 a trench silo on the King ranch was opened after sixteen years and the feed was found in perfect state of preservation," he declared in effort to impress that silage will keep indefinitely.

BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL INAUGURATES NEW PLAN

On Wednesday evening, August 18, there was inaugurated by the Baptist Sunday school a new plan of work. In the past, the officers and teachers met at 7:30 on Wednesday evening with all departments coming together for lesson study. Under the new plan all officers and teachers are scheduled to meet at 7:00 in their own departments with departmental superintendents in charge. Time is given to the discussion of plans for the department and to study of the lesson.

In commenting on this new arrangement the Sunday school superintendent, Truett Barber, said, "We hope to build a spirit of departmental loyalty. It is our conviction that we can have an even bigger and better Sunday school than we've had in the past, and we are going forward with this desire in our hearts. Our longing for a greater Sunday school is not due to any desire to make a name for ourselves, but it is due to a desire to promote the work of Christ in Colorado."

Rev. T. A. Patterson, the pastor of the church, also stated that in his opinion the Sunday school is the greatest agency of the church for winning the lost to Christ. "Therefore," he said, "the better our organization and the deeper the spirit of consecration and loyalty, the larger will be the results. The Kingdom of God is advanced by the prayerful efforts of the redeemed."

WEST TEXAS HISTORY

Dr. Robt. T. Hill, history teacher in the State University, and one of the most widely known historical writers of this day contributes an article this week which we reproduce in our column this week:

Cibolo

And did you know that a part of the vast Texas region was once officially designated Cibolo, meaning buffalo land. This includes all of that portion of Oklahoma and Southern Kansas and Texas east of the Pecos, west of the great Atlantic timber belt (East Texas forests) and south of the Arkansas River and north of the Balcones line and the Colorado River. Although its borders were never surveyed it practically embraced Central Texas and the High Plains.

Cibolo was also the land of the Caddos or Taos, like the Wichitas and others of that language but the Comanche and Kiowas invaded and possessed its western part some 300 years ago. The use of the name for the Colorado Plateau country by Coronado and others was a mistake. No buffalo lived there. Buffalo in Texas was first noted and described by Cabeza de Vaca in 1523. He saw their tracks on Galveston Island, and the animals themselves on the Washington Prairies.

Although Cibolo probably belonged by rights to Spain its possession and occupation was practically left to the French, and, in the earlier records was known as the province of Cibolo. (See Pichacho's History.)

This region practically embraced the many belts of different Prairie Plains, the High Plains (Llano Estacado), the North Plains and the Pecos and Canadian Valleys, all of which were the ideal land of the buffalo, where it and the Indians depended upon it made their last stand, and were wiped out, almost in a flash, by the years 1874, '75 and '76, when the present writer was a boy on the western frontier of Texas.

Cibolo, indeed, was and still is a marvelous country. The buffalo are gone, most of the buffalo grass upon which they lived is gone, and the Indians who lived upon the buffalo are gone; but Cibolo is still there, and despite all that the White Men have done to despoil its former natural aspects, Cibolo is Central and West Texas.

There were several subdivisions of Cibolo in ancient Indian times about which I have told or shall tell in this and other articles. Quivera, for instance, was in Southern and Southeast Kansas, next to Harahey, which later was probably the land of the Osages, where Coronado and De Soto, coming from opposite directions came near to meeting each other although historians seemed to have overlooked the fact so plainly stated in the De Soto literature until 1937.

A Youth of the Frontier

In such times one cannot help but recall the happy days of youth when he spent his summers camping out in the once uninhabited wilds of the Prairie Plains of Northwest Texas which at that time had not been plowed over or seeded by farmer kind or had its grass chewed off by white-faced cattle nor left to grow up to broomweed.

Those were the days before the people of the old forest-covered South and East Texas had ever heard of West Texas, and before or soon after when they flowed into it and filled it just as water fills a new reservoir when a river is turned into it.

Preceding Days

Neither can I now dwell upon antecedent times which preceded the wild days upon the frontier.

The relatives who took me, a Civil War orphan at the age of 5, into the lovely Nashville home tried hard to make a little Lord Fauntleroy of me. Alas, my proclivities all ran Tom Sawyer way. At an early age I too became one of the old South who had "gone to Texas" but I had done nothing wrong to run away from.

Can you believe it that for three or four years during the most impressionable years of boyhood and youth I lived on a wild frontier with real live men with the bark on, who could shoot and rope and scout and fight Indians, who could drive four-in-hand or ride cross country where they pleased. That I lived with and camped with such men in the open on the ground and ate buffalo meat, boiled beans out of the same pot with rangers and surveyors, buffalo hunters and big boss cowmen; that I saw desperadoes too, that I saw in one way or other most of the wild Indian tribes of the Plains—the Cheyennes, the Kiowas, the Arapahoes, the Comanches, the Kiowa, the Pawnee Piets, the Wichita and those awful Chiracahua Apaches, although they were helpless prisoners at Fort Sam Houston.

In 1874 when railroads had penetrated as far west in Texas as Eagle Ford and East Waco this inexperienced tenderfoot arrived in Texas from the so-called bluegrass capital of Southern culture and aristocracy known as Nashville in Tennessee to begin life anew in the at that time uninhabited wild West Texas, where there was hardly a house west of Fort Griffin or Brownwood. He had been raised to sleep between clean sheets in a real bed and had never slept on the ground before, nor had he ever eaten anything less delicate than dainty waffles, strawberry jam, beaten bisentis, Virginia ham and jelly cake, nor who had ever seen a six-shooter or a frontiersman in his life.

Little did he dream that at times, when itching and biting of creeping things which infest all camp clothes and bedding, he would be obliged to abandon socks and underclothing. Neither could he imagine that at times for several years that his bed thereafter would be a rough blanket on the ground, often in wet nothings that made one's teeth rattle and bones quiver; that buffalo and other wild game meat would be his chief meat and yeast powder bread cooked in a Dutch oven would be his only bread, unless it was something worse—flapjacks tossed over in a dirty frypan.

As for those little things which we now consider necessities like bathtubs, butter, ice and most other dainties, I soon forgot that such things existed.

Exciting Events

But most exciting of it all was the fact that my arrival in Texas had been just in time to plump me down in the midst of the two most exciting events in West Texas history. The honest old-time frontiersmen, their patience strained beyond endurance, had risen in anger against the desperado hordes that preyed upon them, and in a single week exterminated five of the gang which hung out at old Comanche and whose leader was the most famous of Texas desperadoes and who was named after a famous Methodist preacher. Oh, it was a wondrous cleanout talked of until this day and of a kind which might be effective in these latter days in two not far away cities that I know of!

Likewise I plunged into the midst of another great West Texas event. Mackenzie and his Yankee soldiers from Fort Griffin were out on the plains chasing the Indians who until now had been in the habit of raiding our town monthly.

Oh, if gunplay and excitement were good for a boy I saw plenty of it, and perhaps the reader will excuse me if I first tell something of the settings of misadventure of the main wild event of which I wish to tell.

As a youth I was sufficiently close to the scene to be more than ordinarily interested, just as the Dallas people were deeply affected by the not far-away Galveston flood.

Old Fort Griffith lay sixty miles to the north of the old-time Comanche where I pretended to live and Fort Coneho 200 miles to the west. Between them all there were hardly any settlements. Jesse Hinson had a lone ranch in Eastland county. Old Rich Coffee lived somewhere way out west, in Coleman county some sixty miles away and loved to come to town on periodic sprints, and walk up and down the sidewalk yelling that he was the monarch of all the hills. Out in Brown county there were a few scattered pioneer ranches: Byrd's, Windhams, Baugh's, Williams and others. One or two were thought to be desperado hideouts where John Wesley Hardin's gang had friends.

Likewise, I saw the old-time army posts—Forts Richardson, Griffin and Coneho and the soldiers too. Of course I never mixed much at the time with the latter, for in those days it was not done—mixing of the soldiers with the Texas natives. But, I saw these then-hated bluecoats at their duties in the posts, at their play and better still when on the march or returning bedraggled from their campaigns.

Was it not a rare coincidence that in after years I should have been translated from this primitive environment to Eastern centers of learning and refinement and still later to Washington City where in the clubs of the East I met and talked with many of these officers of these campaigns, or that still later some of these old frontier friends like Henry Ware, once of old Comanche and later of Del Rio should have reappeared in my life and dragged me through the canyons of the Rio Grande.

Besides other things there were two experiences in these frontier days either of which would mark an outstanding event in an ordinary life. One of these was that of being a member of a large surveying party which went out from old Fort Griffin and surveyed and located certificates upon the unoccupied lands from which most of the Indians had just been driven, although a few still lurked about.

A second experience was that of going up the old Dodge City cattle trail in its halcyon days when men were the roughest and experiences the toughest. I shall not dwell upon the last mentioned experience in this paper inasmuch as it is more fully treated in others already published.

Going Surveying

Early in 1875 just as the last of the Comanches were brought in and two years after the battle of the Quitaque, in October, 1874, of which I am about to tell further, before the buffalo killers got into the Double Mountain country and almost before the soldiers had gotten back to their posts from the hard campaigns, I was employed by a large surveying party which spent the summer in locating land surveys in the unoccupied country between Fort Griffin and the easarpment of the Llano Estacado. Our work took us as far West as Initial Monument, where the 100th Meridian was supposed to intersect Red River and as far south as Double Mountain in Stone-wall county, or Kiowa Peak where Grotton Creek intersected the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos. In all of this vast territory there was not a single inhabitant and often we camped where the deserted campfires of some of the few bands of still holding Indians had camped the night before.

The Wilderness Beyond

But beyond Griffin all was wilderness where antelope, wild horses and buffalo grazed by the hundreds of thousands. Gaunt gray wolves, coyotes, prairie dogs and badgers, foxes and other varmints were always in sight. This was before those Kansas buffalo hunters had reached south of Red River and wiped the country of its native life.

I know it is so because, as a lonely, homeless, wandering boy of 16 I saw it all before it was spoiled, as well as the wonderful natural setting of flat-topped mountains; wide stretches of red soil and rock lands, varied by strata of snow-white gypsum; the big mesquite trees from which the tick pestered buffalo had rubbed all the bark in their endeavors to shed the pests. I was at one end of a surveyor's chain that we dragged over vast parts of Throckmorton, Haskell, Wilbarger, Knox, Childress and other counties.

It was in those days that I saw and learned of the queer and unusual geologic and geographic things of Central Texas and the Staked Plains so different from other features of their kind in North America, the belted plains, the escarpments, the lone mountains, the secret springs and other parts of the architecture of the wondrous West Texas country which is the true individualistic Texas region.

Conclusion for Today

Oh boy! What days those were for a kid of only 16, and the only boy on that wild frontier stage. The buffalo and its companions had not been dispatched by white-faced bulls and patches; before the buffalo grass sod given away to broomweed and cotton patches before the buffalo grass sod had been stripped away from the soil which it protected and blown away; before the cursed barbed-wire had been invented and before nesters and tradesmen had built their main street little towns or before there was a stage and a railway or an automobile within hundreds of miles.

Sometimes I mourn the loss of schooling during those years and it was never until now that I realized what a wonderful experience it was that a lone youth on the frontier had before I went to college. Come to think about it, I do not believe that any boy in America ever had such an experience as this. If you do not believe it true ask our noble Chief Justice C. E. Cureton how Arch Anderson, later Sheriff of Bosque county, who was my buddy on the surveying trip, told the Judge all about it before the latter ever knew me personally.

Visiting Artists On Amateur Program Here Friday Night

Entertainers Of Sweetwater Heard At Ruddick Park; Steakley In Charge

About 3,500 citizens of Colorado and neighboring towns Friday night jammed Ruddick Park's open air theatre and listened to an amateur entertainment program contributed to Colorado's regular series of amateur shows by eight entertainers from Sweetwater and Jack Armstrong's municipal band.

First prize and $5 went to Joe Storm, with a song-piano novelty entitled: "The Christening of McCorsley's Two Twins," an Irish ballad.

M. D. Chitwood won second and $3 with "Buffalo Gals" on the harmonica, or "French harp," as he preferred to call it.

Edwina Walker, accompanied at the piano by her mother, Mrs. H. A. Walker, won third prize, $2, with a whistling arrangement of "The Waltz You Saved For Me."

The band led off. Director Armstrong made an apology for the absence of a number of the members, who thought the program would be rained out. However, his musicians received heavy applause.

H. A. Walker, president of Sweetwater's Board of City Development, spoke briefly. Z. D. Steakley, Jr., announced and put entertainers on the spot, a la Major Bowes.

Little Miss Patricia Rose was almost left off the program, she was so tiny and unnoticeable, but came through for the final number with a song and dance to the accompaniment of "Boo Hoo."

Well-Known Radio Announcers Will Give Fight News

Edwin C. Hill And McCarty To Bring Tell Of Farr-Louis Fight Thursday

FLINT, Mich.—Announcement was made today by Thos. H. Cope, Director of Advertising and Sales Promotion of the Buick Motor Division, that Clem McCarthy, famed NBC sports commentator, who is known as "radio's fastest talker", and Edwin

C. Hill, noted commentator and newspaper writer, will join forces once again as announcers of the Tommy Farr-Joe Louis heavyweight championship fight, which will be broadcast from the Yankee Stadium, New York, Thursday, August 26, exclusively over the combined coast-to-coast Blue and Red Networks of the National Broadcasting Company.

The fight broadcast, the executive announced, will mark the fourth time that McCarthy and Hill have been paired in the NBC broadcasts of a heavyweight boxing contest. All of their fight broadcasts have been sponsored by the Buick Division of General Motors.

McCarthy, with his accurate and speedy (224 words a minute) description of the fight, and Hill, with his colorful description of what goes on between rounds, were selected because of the thousands of letters received by Buick and NBC on their performances in the three previous fight broadcasts.

The reporting of McCarthy and Hill on the Louis-Baer fight in 1935; the Louis-Schmeling fight in 1936, and the Louis-Baddock fight earlier this year brought thousands of favorable letters from fight fans all over the world, Corpe reported. Some of them came from sailors at sea and others from sports enthusiasts in out-of-the-way places.

The Louis-Farr fight is scheduled to be broadcast, beginning at 10:00 p.m. EDT, on Thursday, August 26, over the combined NBC-Blue and Red Networks. The broadcast will be short-waved to Europe.

CHURCHES

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
C. E. Jameson, Pastor
Now that vacation time is over and we are planning our Fall program let us find our place in the church and Sunday school on Sunday. If every one would feel their individual responsibility for the ongoing of the kingdom all our churches in Colorado would be filled each service. We will be looking for you in our services Sunday. At the evening hour we will co-operate with the First Christian church in services at the park. As it will be the last open air service this season let us make it the best.

The Cold Germ will

"bite you"

if you don't watch out

Too much praise cannot be given the formula of medical science that "it is better to keep well than to get well." Every effort should be made to prevent illness particularly during the treacherous months of winter.

Soon the common cold germ will wage its relentless attack to pave the way for such serious illnesses as bronchitis, sinus infections, tuberculosis and other health-wrecking diseases. Watch for that first "sniffle" . . . it's a warning that should not be overlooked.

For your health's sake, fight colds this winter with comfortable temperatures and adequate ventilation in every room of your home.

The cold germ is responsible for more than two hundred million illnesses each year. Any sudden change in temperature as you go from a warm room to a cold one makes you susceptible to "catching cold."

Common colds are dangerous. Don't gamble with them. If you should catch cold during the coming winter months, consult your family doctor before it has an opportunity to undermine your health.
