Ray's 'Retin'

By RAY MARTIN
Every now and then this corner feels that it should be of some service to its readers (both of them), so this is that day when this columnist gives out with information he has collected here and there.
Such things, for instance, as how to get your fall chrysanthemums to bunch out (in case you prefer them bunched out instead of growing vertically. The trick is to pinch off the tops once or twice during the summer.
Or, to keep your tomato plants husky, don't let the soil near your plants become very dry. Or if you want to change the flavor of popcorn to something new, add ground parmesan cheese while the corn is popping.
Just little helpful tidbits like that to give the column an intellectual flavor.

And along that same line, yours truly went over to the post office the other day and copied down a few of the "zip" numbers which we thought might interest you. The return on your letter now should say Muleshoe, Texas, 79347.

The post office is most optimistic if it thinks John Q. Public is going to use those zip numbers except for addresses frequently used. Of course if you write Aunt Minnie in Canyon a weekly letter, telling her the progress which your rheumatism and petunias are making, you probably will learn that canyon has the zip number of 79015. Or that installment on the house which you sent to Clovis every month should be zip-numbered 88101.

Of course it's difficult enough for me to remember that the kinsman who lives in a suburb of Oklahoma City has zone 21, much less that O. C.'s zip number is 73100. Of course I won't have much difficulty remembering that the postoffice which serves the daughter and her husband — Big Spring — is 79720 since we write that number rather often.

Incidentally, one of the interesting things about this zip number business, I discovered, is that the big towns have code numbers ending with two zeros. Then the different zones within a city take off from that basic number. For example, Oklahoma City is 73100 (the central postoffice) but the branch office of the kinsman who lives in zone 21 would have the code number 73121. Which makes it fairly easy to figure out.

Of course Oklahoma City has 48 zone offices, plus six branch offices to add to the confusion, and the same thing is true of most of the larger cities. Austin, for instance, is zip number 78700 with zones going off from that basic number. Confusing, isn't it? But if you just want to remember something simple, Bula has the number 79320 and Maple 79344 in case you frequently write to somebody in those "towns." Naturally there are no zone numbers, too.

Most of the towns in this area, (See RAY'S, page 6)

Huge Fun Fiesta Booked Here; Profits to Boost Library Drive

Muleshoe will stage a huge "Fun Fiesta" starting Thursday July 31 and running for five days, as a library fund promotion project. It was announced Saturday by Muleshoe Jaycees, sponsoring organization.

Although the big downtown show will be sponsored by the Jaycees, virtually every organization in Muleshoe will have an opportunity to participate in the program, J. C. Spain, Muleshoe Jaycees president, says.

Highlight will be the world's biggest portable midway. Sutton Imperial Shows which will come to Muleshoe from a week's engagement in Albuquerque. The show will feature 15 rides. There will be no gambling games or "girlie" shows, and the entire event will be of family type fun. "It's good, wholesome, clean fun throughout," Spain promises.

Concession stands will be offered civic clubs, churches and other groups may contact Spain or Roy Davis at the senior chamber of commerce headquarters. Thirty-five concession stands will be available for local sponsorship. There will be no racket games of any kind, and games of skill can be operated by local organizations. These organizations may either keep their profits or turn them over to the library fund, he explained.

Advance ticket ride sales will start tomorrow with a $2.50 book of rides offered for the bargain price of $1.50.

A kick-off luncheon is planned

8 Tech Coaches On Raider Tour

Eight coaches from Texas Tech, together with two other faculty members, will be here Tuesday for Red Raider day in Muleshoe, Chief Jones, local arrangements chairman, said Friday.

The Raider boosters and coaches will speak at a joint meeting of the Muleshoe Rotary and Lions clubs at noon Tuesday. That afternoon they will play golf here, and then in the evening will be on hand for an informal barbecue supper. The Journals will be hosts for the barbecue.

Jones says these coaches are to be here Tuesday: Polk Robinson, Tech athletic director; J. T. King, head football coach; Harry Buffington, newest member of the Tech staff; Lynch and Clyde Prestwood, Jones says. Dr. Harris and a Dr. Maddox of the Tech staff also are to accompany the coaches to Muleshoe.

The trip to Muleshoe is part of a series of such meetings being held this summer, sponsored by the Red Raider club, composed of more than 1,000 persons interested in Texas Tech athletics who help support the college's athletic scholarship program.

All alumni and interested parties are invited to the country club that afternoon for golf and for the barbecue to follow. The program is for men only.

for Paul's restaurant next Thursday noon when the Jaycee officers will explain the Fun Fiesta to organization heads, the chief of police, sheriff's officers and other civic leaders, Spain said. Jimmy Woods, advance man for Sutton shows, will be here to describe the shows.

Organizations already are signing up for concession stands' rights. ESA sorority is one of the first organizations to get on the dotted line.

"We hope many organizations will come in for concessions privileges," Spain said, "as a means of boosting the library. We feel that the Fun Fiesta should be a city-wide program, and we believe we will have cooperation of everybody in making this project a huge success."

Sutton Imperial Shows are recognized as one of the finest of all road shows traveling America today, and the Jaycees feel fortunate in having such a high quality show play in a town as small as Muleshoe. Already this season they have played in Wichita Falls, Midland, El Paso, Dallas, Phoenix and Plainview.

Admission to the show area will be free.

City Council Meets Monday

Muleshoe city council will meet tomorrow afternoon for their July session, postponed from last Monday, Albert Field, city manager, said Saturday.
A new plumbers' code is to be studied by the councilmen. The proposed code has been examined by plumbers. Field said, and at a recent meeting with the plumbers. Field went over the proposed ordinance step by step.
No action is to be taken tomorrow on the code since the councilmen will be given time to study the proposal, Field said.

Post Office Announces 'Zip' Code Numbers for Post Offices in Area

Spencer Beavers, postmaster here, has released zip code numbers for area post offices and for post offices frequently used by Muleshoe patrons.
A book containing the new zip numbers for every post office in the United States is available at the post office for persons who desire zip numbers for offices used in correspondence, Beavers explained.
Meantime, zip number for Muleshoe — 79347 — should be used on return addresses of letters sent from Muleshoe, Beavers said. Many firms are having their letterhead and envelopes "overprinted" with the new zip number. Beavers explained that big cities which have zone numbers have separate zip numbers for each post office. However, the city offices' zip number ends in two zeros and the different zones fall in sequence in place of the last two zeros.

All post offices in this area have the prefix 79 except New Mexico towns which have the prefix 88 in this region.
Below are a list of the nearby and frequently used post office code numbers. The postmaster suggested that patrons clip the numbers here for future reference in addressing mail.

Rabies Threat?

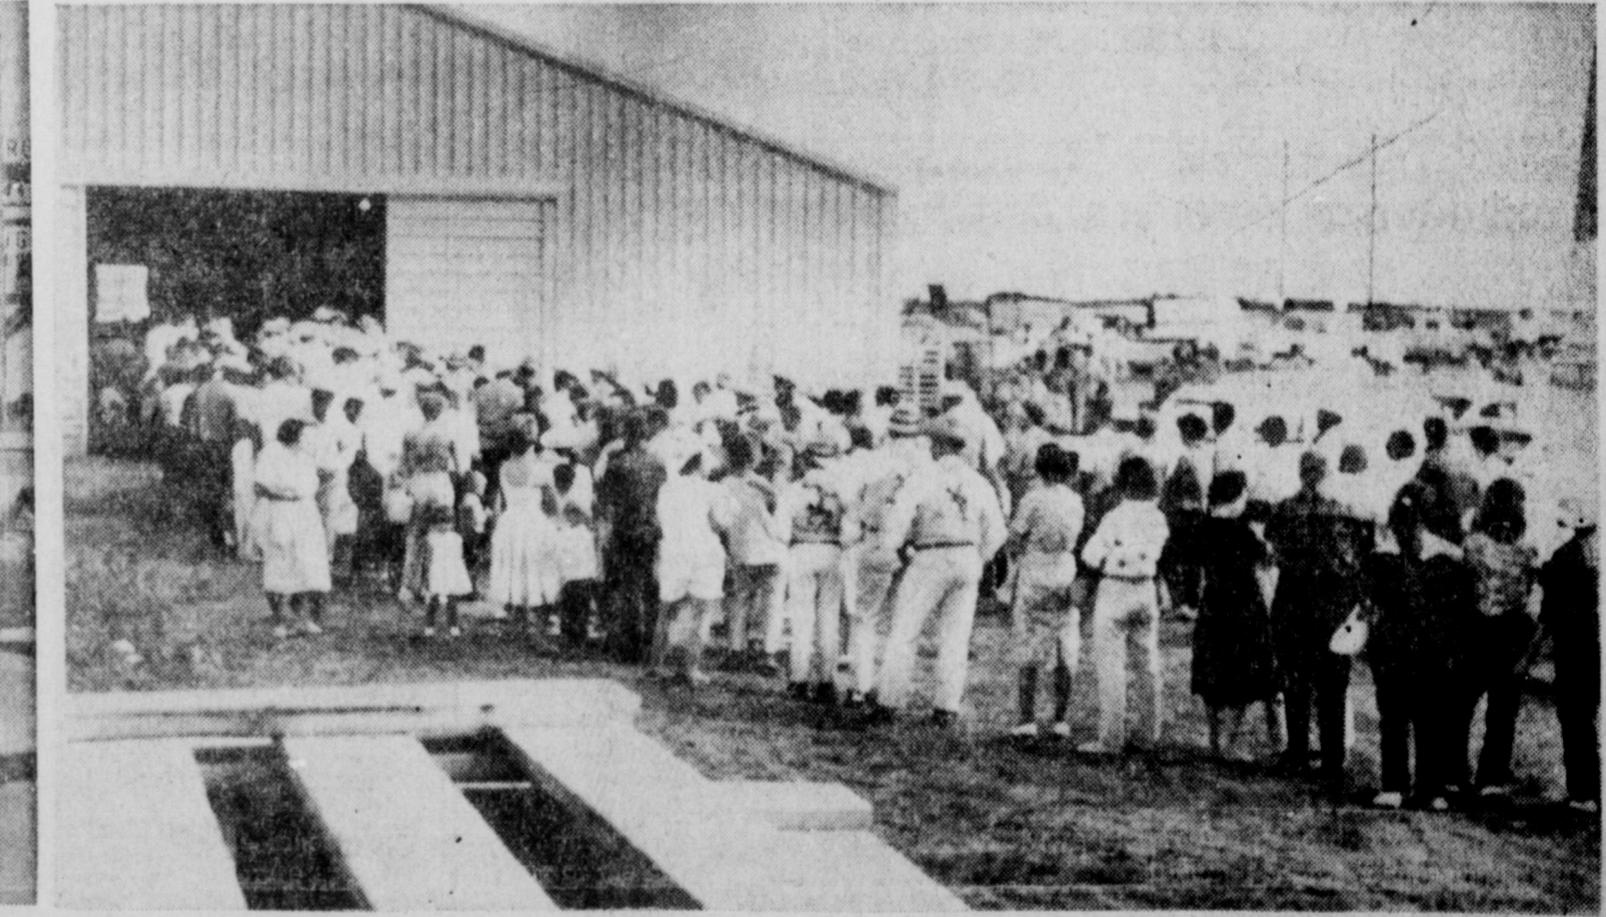

Rabies! That's a frightening word to everybody. But rabies is a distinct possibility in Muleshoe this summer as the thermometer climbs and the roving dog population increases also.
There are literally hundreds of dogs — ownerless, un-cared-for roaming the streets of Muleshoe these days, raiding garbage cans, creating unnecessary noise and — worst of all — offering a constant rabies threat.
Not 90 percent of the Muleshoe roaming dog population has been vaccinated, much less city-licensed. Many of the dogs are owned by no one. We are indeed fortunate that a rabies epidemic already hasn't broken out. We are fortunate, too, in that no children have been bitten by these wolf-pack creatures.
Fewer than 100 dog licenses have been issued by the City so far this year, and the City admits "this is not half enough". In a one-day vaccination and tag session earlier this spring, 65 dog licenses were issued.
The city ordinance dealing with dogs says owners "must keep the dogs under control at all times."
A dog roundup to eliminate this constant rabies threat is needed.
Get them vaccinated!

Schools' Summer Crews Kept Busy

Muleshoe school plants are being put into condition in a vast summer maintenance program which has seen a number of projects completed so far, a report made to the board last week revealed.
Neal Dillman, superintendent, detailed the maintenance program, which included such projects as:
Renovation of two rooms in the senior high school which is now complete except for the floors.
Doors to the fire escapes in the West DeShazo building have been installed, and the south entrance doors replaced. Entrance doors to DeShazo gymnasium also have been replaced.
Dressing rooms in DeShazo gymnasium have been cleaned and painted as another summer project, the board was told.
At junior high school, eight classrooms have been painted, and at Hilltop school, a flag pole and sidewalk have been installed. (See CREWS, page 6)

During the afternoon the most common comment on her work from professionals in the field was concerning the "misty look" which was carried in each piece, sometimes to some extent and in others only hints of it appeared. She was told that all artists had painting characteristic which could be found in all their work. Although she had not noticed this until it was brought to her attention, Mrs. Phelps was pleased with favorable comments and with the sale of some of the paintings.

THE SALAD ON A CLOUD

It's the season to splurge on salads. Plentiful summer fruits become sparkling jewels when combined in this spectacular molded salad. It's as good to eat as it is handsome to look at and easy to make too. A favorite of the busy hostess, it can be made a day or two ahead and unmolded on crisp greens right at serving time.

Here are a few tips to guarantee success with the salad: To assure ease in unmolding the salad it's a good idea to oil the mold lightly with salad oil. Although this towering shape is most impressive, any 2 quart container can be used — a ring mold, loaf pan, or round mixing bowl.

To speed up the preparation time, set the bowl containing the gelatin and fruit juice mixture in ice water and stir occasionally until the syrupy consistency is reached.

To unmold the salad, run the tip of a narrow knife around the edge of the mold, loosening the salad and then invert the mold on a plate. The deluxe dressing is a combination of marshmallow creme, sour cream, lemon juice, and a dash of nutmeg. A quivering salad calls for a crisp cracker as a partner. GUSTO CRACKERS by Nabisco provide the needed contrast in texture and robust flavor.

- Shimmering Fruit Salad — With Fluffy Dressing
- 3 (8-ounce) packages lemon-flavored gelatin
 - 3 cups boiling water
 - 1 1/2 cups cold water
 - 3/4 cup lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 pint strawberries, sliced
 - 1 cup sliced green seedless grapes
 - 1 cup sliced bananas
 - Greens

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, add cold water, lemon juice and salt. Chill until syrupy. Stir fruits into chilled gelatin. Turn mixture into a lightly oiled 2-quart mold. Chill until firm. Unmold on crisp greens. Serve with Fluffy Cream Dressing, GUSTO CRACKERS and TRISCUIT WAFERS, Makes 8-10 servings.

- Fluffy Cream Dressing
- 1/2 cup marshmallow creme
 - 1/2 cup sour cream
 - 1 teaspoon lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg

Combine all ingredients; beat until smooth. Chill. Makes about 1 cup.

Karen Jones Thanks Jaycees

Karen Jones, Muleshoe high school 1963 graduate, who will go to college this autumn partly on scholarships, extended her thanks to the Muleshoe Jaycees this week. In a letter she said:

"I want to thank you so much for giving me the privilege of entering the Merit scholarship for Teaching contest. This $2,000 will help me so much in college.

"I believe the Jaycees is a wonderful organization to sponsor this contest and other worthy projects.

"I am very proud of our local club; you have sponsored many wonderful projects. If it were not for the local club and for their personal interest and work, I would not have entered this contest. Thanks also for the invitation to the banquet; I enjoyed it so much.

"I hope I can be a credit to your club. I am very grateful to you. If there is anything I can do to help your organization, please let me know.

"Again I want to thank you for the scholarship, your kindness, your interest and many more things."

UNUSUAL CAMPUS

Magann Lamb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lamb, writes her parents that City University, Los Angeles, Calif., presents many unusual experiences. A student there since mid-June, Magann said she was attending classes with Russians, Italians, Chinese and Japanese, and many other nationalities.

She has attended the plays at the Greek Theater and attended a ballet which she described as being fabulous. The dancers wore magnificent costumes.

Five Cultures Traced in Area Research Plans

The lore of the Llano Estacado, as compiled by J. Evetts Haley, lists five separate influences represented by the social divisions of what once was called "Great American Desert." Haley described the Llano Estacado as the last large area of the state of Texas to be settled.

Thus, the influences in Bailey County, one of the last counties in the state to be organized, includes the Indian lore, such as the Legend of the Sandhills written by Jess Mitchell; lore of the Mexican trader and hunter, the buffalo hide hunter, the Texas cowboy, and the farming settler. These stories are incorporated here, to convey some conception as to the field that this geographical region offers to folklorists.

The Indian influence that survives is comparatively small, but it may be observed in the place names of the region in the South Plains. The Sandhills and Coyote Lake, south of Muleshoe, serves to remind the modern plainsman that this was once the favorite hunting-ground of the "Plains children."

With one exception—that of the cattle people—the greatest contribution to Plains folk lore, is of Spanish origin, Haley said. "At first sight this seems remarkable, when one considers that, of the entire state, this region is today perhaps least touched by Spanish life. But over a century ago, across the Plains from the New Mexican settlements to the west, came Spanish, then Mexican, hunters and traders, poor in worldly goods but rich in legendary lore. They left a definite and enduring impress upon the Plains of Texas, particularly in topographical nomenclature."

A whole group of pioneer stories center around the origin of the name the Yellowhows. Near the source of one fork of the Brazos River is an alkali lake and an important landmark fifty years ago. The southern part of the XIT Ranch was called the Yellowhouse which were in the Yellowhouse Canyon. The lake is bordered by some tall bluffs, of yellowish hue, which may be seen at a great distance and which have somewhat the appearance of the walls of a great city. The caves, in which Captain G. W. Arrington, with a party of rangers took refuge in 1879 to escape being frozen to death in a blizzard, have been called the yellow houses—"Casas Amarillas."

BUFFALO HUNTERS

Haley lists the next social influence of importance, chronologically, as by the buffalo hunters. The period was short, as the great slaughter began in the Panhandle in 1874 and was practically done by the close of 1878. A story told by Haley is of a woman who heard talk about buffalo bones selling for $20 a ton. She said: ". . . You were saying there is not a stick of wood upon the plains for a hundred miles at a stretch. What do they burn?"

She was told that they burned buffalo chips. "Oh," she naively replied, and that's what makes the bones so high!"

"The most distinct social group to be found in Plains history is that represented by the cowman; the proudest of his vocation, the happiest in his past," Dobie continues. "His habits, his means of life, his diction, and his thinking are distinctive."

FARMER CAME NEXT

Muleshoe and Bailey County owes most of the lore to this group, including the many stories of the XIT and the later ranches, as well as of the naming of the Muleshoe Ranch, from which the city of Muleshoe derives its name. The stories were carried in separate articles in the Journal's Anniversary issue, June 30.

The next social group to be represented in the development of the Plains was the farming settler. "When the squatters, advancing with irresistible tread and a bunch of brindle cows, reached and desecrated the rolling, grazing lands of the country with their sod plows, the cowboys looked upon them with pity. They felt that anyone who tried to make a living in West Texas by farming was a fit object of pity. With the abandon worthy their generous souls they offered some advice to "the man with the hoe," Haley wrote.

When you bring that chef's salad to the table, arrange the strips of Swiss cheese and ham that go in it over the greens and garnish, if you like, with sliced hard-cooked egg. That way the offering will look good enough to eat! Do your tossing (with French dressing) right at the table and whet appetites.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

(Editor's Note: The following is the second of a series of letters from Maudine Barnes who is on a foreign tour with a church group.)

Dear Sir:

Since I wrote you last, I've visited Hong Kong and Bangkok. I will tell you about some of the things that impressed me most about each place.

While we were in Hong Kong we only had water for 1 hour each night. There was a terrible water shortage due to the fact that the annual rain fall of 88 inches is very scarce because so far they've had only 23 inches. In spite of this water shortage the people strive for cleanliness by washing their clothes and bathing daily. The people only get 4-8 gallons of water every four days.

One day we drove to look out point from which you could look over into Red China. As you stood there you could also see "No-Mans" Land. The dividing line or boundary is a river and it has been said that this is the line between "heaven and hell." The feeling which possessed me as I looked over into a country where there is no freedom was a feeling of thankfulness for the privilege of being born in America and in a Christian home.

In Bangkok we learned that all transportation in Thailand at one time was by boat because Thailand was a land of canals. On one of our tours we took a boat down the Klang (canal or river) and saw the life of these people who live on the boats or river houses. We saw how they used the water for nearly everything. They use it to wash themselves, their clothes, their dishes and cooking utensils, but they catch the rain water in crock jars for drinking.

We had a typical Thai dinner and attended a performance of the Thai Dancers.

Every country is different and exciting. You never know what you will find when the plane lands in a new place.

These are just a few things which we've seen or done. I could write much more but time is limited so I'll close and prepare for our landing in Delhi, India.

Maudine Barnes

Editor:

There is so much involved in life to live it without a purpose. For some the chief purpose is to make money and enjoy pleasures which the world offers.

Other have nobler purposes in life as intellectual attainment, high moral standards, service to their fellowmen and the like.

But the tragic thing we are sleeping decipels caught off guard as to what is happening in the world by letting our leaders cast aside the word of God. One of the best sellers "One World" written by Wendell Willie, one time nominee for the presidency, startled many readers, but many are now realizing it is "One World" or "No World" for what is proclaimed today may be rejected tomorrow.

But we must not delay. What matters most that we serve with all our ability for security of freedom, not the play of the grandstand, but to work that the word of God stand forever.

The distressing cause of our trouble nationally and individually is "Sin" and a haphazard attitude taken toward prayer, but our leaders drift us off into communism which is without knowledge of God, and not fight for freedom to ring out that God's worlds must stand forever. Vera Engelking.

Behind the Kennedy Visit

BERLIN — The truth behind the scenes in Germany — concerning President John F. Kennedy's visit — is that the real issues didn't come to the surface in the American President's speeches. In the current situation they could not.

The test for America today is the crucial fight to maintain U.S. leadership in the West, to maintain and strengthen the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance, to gain an outward-looking European Common Market and create a multi-nation nuclear force to head off German acquisition of nuclear weapons. President Charles De Gaulle and France oppose every one of these goals.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, whom Kennedy was so careful to praise at every turn, is not the key German in this effort. The key man is upcoming Chancellor Ludwig Erhard. Erhard has favored an Atlantic Community over an inward-looking, protectionist ECM. He favored British entry into the ECM. He is inclined to look more to Washington than to Paris for Western leadership.

Thus, the President's talk with Erhard was a crucial part of his European trip. Erhard will take over the leadership of the German Government this autumn.

Chancellor Adenauer has been largely following Paris' policy. He is doing it with subtlety but he is doing it. President Kennedy, playing the public relations game he must, made the best of that situation while in Germany. His speeches appealed to the mass of the German people and to German leaders, to follow the broad concepts of an expanded and strengthened Atlantic Community.

His appeal was effective and he enlisted new allies and stirred new enthusiasms.

Nevertheless, the fundamental issue, and the crucial test of the success of the President's visit, is whether the forthcoming Erhard Government will follow Washington's plan for an expanded ECM and lower tariffs, the building of a great Atlantic Community and creation of a multi-nation nuclear force or whether Bonn will rely largely on Paris' narrower lead in the ECM and her Franco-German treaty of alliance.

The French are already concerned over Erhard's policies. They seek to work against him in every possible way, lacking adequate assurances of a continuance of Adenauer's policies. But there is a limit to what the French can now do. For America, the current situation is as historic as it is decisive for West Germany. We are, in fact, faced with a developing condition in which we may have to replace Great Britain with West Germany, in large degree, as our special partner in Europe.

The British are about to elect a Labor Government which will oppose the basic foreign policy of the Kennedy administration. Harold Wilson, the prospective Prime Minister, opposes a nuclear arm for Britain. He opposes a multi-nation nuclear force. He opposes British entry into NATO — so vital to the building of a great Atlantic Community.

When Washington turns, once the Labor Government is in power, if the President's wishes are to prevail and if we are to remain in Europe? It cannot turn to France; it must turn to Bonn. This is logical, and is fast becoming a necessity. Bonn is making the greatest defense effort of any European country. It is the strongest and most popular European power.

Thus the critical event in the President's visit to Germany was not the oft-repeated pledge to defend Germany, the pleasanties exchanged between the U. S. President and the present German Chancellor. It was the progress made or not made with Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

Secondly, it is in the interests of U. S. policy for the Conservative Government of Harold Macmillan to remain in power until the autumn of 1964.

If the Conservatives remain in power Britain might somehow play its role in the multi-nation nuclear force (which was the number one object of the President's visit to Macmillan). She may even win a large economic role with five of the ECM members, if that effort is supported by an Erhard Government in West Germany.

British participation in the multi-nation nuclear force is vital because without her cooperation joint participation might fail. Rejected by Britain, then Holland, Belgium and Italy might fail to participate. If the President has won British cooperation, and if he has won the upcoming Erhard Government's primary loyalty, his trip will have been a successful counter to a divisive anti-American effort which has been steadily emanating from the De Gaulle Government in Paris.

This will be the true test of the Kennedy visit to Europe in 1963.

Oran Reaves Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stegall met them there Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jones and children, Texico, visited Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smyer.

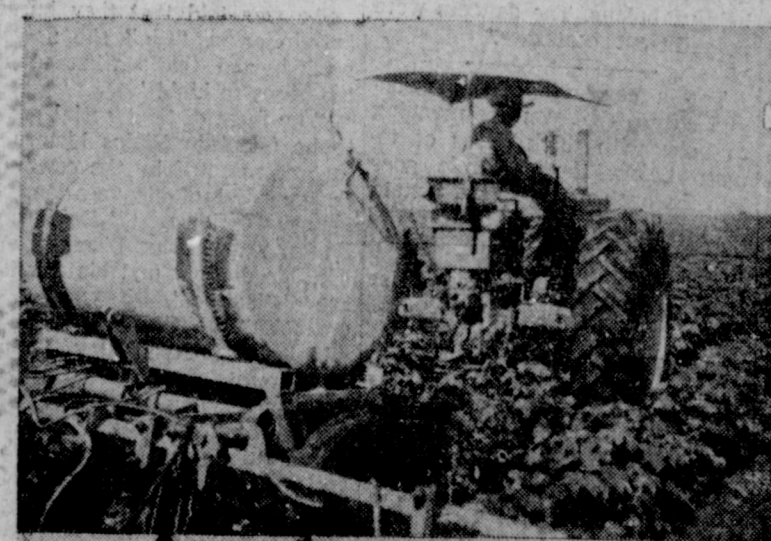

Mr. and Mrs. Foy Lewis and Marilyn spent the weekend at Snyder visiting with his sister's family.

Parade, Free Barbecue Kick Off Earth's 19th Annual Amateur Rodeo

BARBECUE BY THE TON — Earth staged a man-sized barbecue as the kickoff to its 19th annual rodeo this past week. Here are three of the cooks — Cecil Parish, Johnnie Murrell and Tuffy Dent shown with some of the open-pit barbecue.

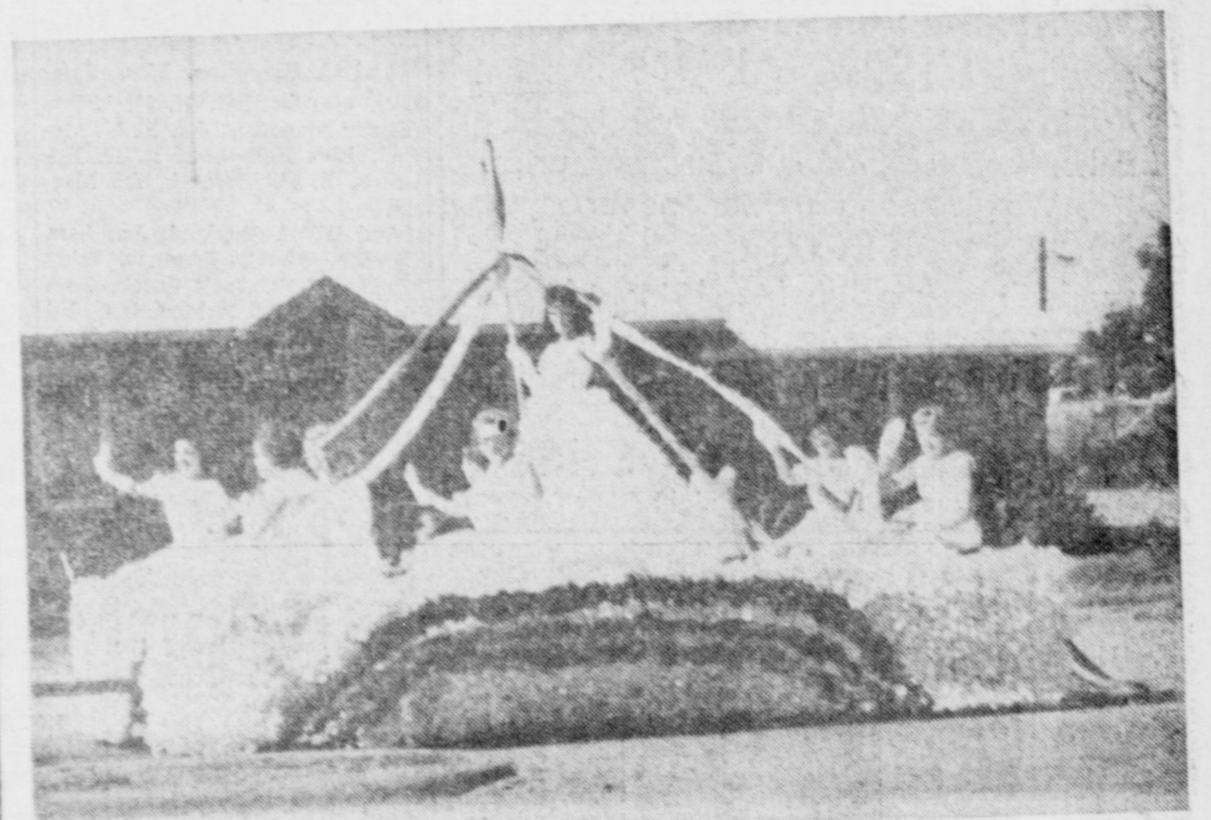

BICYCLES, TOO — The horse might be in any parade. Here are a few of the kids more appropriate for a rodeo parade, but who showed up for the Earth rodeo parade Thursday. The decorated bicycles always have a part.

COFFEE FOR BARBECUE — A barbecue would be no good without gallons of coffee. Presiding over the urns was Mrs. Minnie Pate, who has been cook for the Earth Lions club for five years. Her "customer" here is Jack Rylant.

EARTH'S MAYOR — Marcus Messer, mayor of Earth, chatted with Roy Davis, manager of Muleshoe's Chamber of Commerce, at Earth's 19th annual amateur rodeo.

RAINBOW FLOAT — Earth organizations turned out fancy floats for the rodeo parade. This is the Rainbow girls' float one of the more elaborate ones in the parade.

SERVING LINE — Here's a closeup of one of the two serving lines which fed more than 1,000 persons at the Earth barbecue Thursday night. Earth Lions did the serving job.

RODEO OFFICIALS — Stock for the Earth rodeo was furnished by Ratjen Rodeo Co. Here's Dick Ratjen with Chester Elmore (right), vice-president of the Earth rodeo.

DUNKING FUN — Springlake Lions club set up a little money-making project at the rodeo which resulted in several members getting dunked. Hit the target with the ball, and somebody got dunked. This is Don Hatley getting a sudden bath.

OLD-TIME RANCHER — Johnny McMurtry, long West Texas rancher, (seated) turned out for the barbecue. Here he chats with Red Murrell, chef for the barbecue.

THE CHEF — Red Murrell, chef of the barbecue, gives the meat a final testing.

BEAN COOKER — Lions club at Earth had charge of the barbecue, and Jarvis H. Angeley was the bean cooker. Here he's shown on the job.

ONE OF THE COOKS — Barbecue was cooked open-pit style, and this is one of the cooks, Gene Templeton, who called himself "assistant chef."

Newspapers have been asked to include the zip code number after the date line on their papers, but in looking over a large number of exchange newspapers which we receive, I haven't seen a single one yet that actually uses the zip identification. Personally, I think the post office department does a neat job of distributing the mail to proper sources. Except for the recent letter from Sweetwater which took four days to get here, the service is always very good. In fact, I think frequently it is too good; the bills reach me before I've even put that particular debt in the hat for its chance at being drawn out for payment. I can remember back in the old days when Aunt Sarah wrote us that she was coming for a visit on the following Tuesday and the old girl had already been here two days when her letter arrived. That was the kind of service we once got—but not any more. We get Aunt Sarah's letter so fast now we have time to think up a good excuse for why we won't be at home and so write her in time for her to get it before Tuesday, if you get what I mean. We save lots of vicarious that way, thanks to the fast P. O. service.

(Continued from page 1) The report said a new shredder had been bought ("the old one fell apart," the report said.) Doorways have been completed at East DeSahzo between upstairs classrooms, and fire escape platforms and doors have been installed. Metal steps leading to the platforms are yet to be installed. Grass progress has been slow at all campuses, the board was told, "but the grass is not growing fast enough." Post and cable fence have been installed at DeShazo and around the road between senior high gymnasium and the band hall. Three old school busses have been sold and new ones have been received.

A part of the business meeting will be naming of two new directors to replace R. E. Ethridge and Robert Byrd whose terms are expiring. Seminole Plans Golf Tourney Interest is mounting rapidly in the elimination tournament at the Gaines County Golf Club, Monday the event that will select two area golfers to complete a foursome with Gary Player and Sam Snead on July 22, according to Jim Terry, Club pro. The elimination tourney is open to area professionals and amateurs. Entry fee is $5. The two low scorers, whether pros or amateurs, will play with the two guest golfers Monday, July 22 at the Gaines County Club, located midway between Seagraves and Seminole. If the winners of the elimination tourney are pros, they will receive $100 or more each, in addition to the opportunity to play with Snead and Player. If the winners are amateurs, they will receive handsome trophies. Those interested in the tournament should contact Terry at the club. Richard Blackmore, ticket sales chairman, says advance sales of exhibition tickets are going briskly, since advance tickets are $1 less than the $6 gate ticket price.
