

SUBSTANTIAL CASH PRIZES TO BE GIVEN IN FAT STOCK SHOW

FINANCE COMMITTEE WILL STAGE DRIVE TO RAISE NECESSARY FUNDS NEXT WEDNESDAY

Cash prizes totaling nearly $200 are to be awarded in the second annual Mitchell County Fat Stock show Feb. 23-24, according to the prize list which has been mapped out by show officials and representatives of the chamber of commerce, which sponsors the show.

Members of the finance committee announced this week that they will make a drive Wednesday among Colorado business men to raise money for prizes and other expenses incidental to the show, which will be held in the new livestock exhibit barn now under construction on the Colorado City Frontier Round-up grounds.

Dr. R. D. Brumford has agreed to substitute for J. Ralph Lee as chairman of the finance committee. Lee is in the hospital convalescing from leg burns sustained three weeks ago. Other members of the committee are O. F. Jones, Jack Richardson, Max Berman, Lee Carter, and Lay Powell.

This year the 4-H and FFA division of the show will include a class for milk fed steers, with prizes running $7, $5, $4, $3, $2, and $1. Dry lot steers will be divided into those weighing over 800 pounds and those weighing 800 pounds and less. These prizes will also range from $7 downward, with three prizes of $1 each, making eight prizes in all in each class.

The champion dry lot steer will be awarded $5, and the grand champion steer, determined by matching the champion dry lot steer against the champion milk-fed steer, will win $5. Prizes of $5, $3, and $1 will be awarded the boys showing the best steers of three steers.

In the lamb show, where all animals are to be fine-wool, dry-wool wethers in full wool, there will be two groups of prizes. The first, ranging $4, $3, $2.50, $2.00, and $1.50, will be for fat fine wool lambs. The second will be $5, $3, and $1 for the best group of five lambs fed and shown by one boy.

Barrows will be divided by weights into those weighing over 225 pounds and those weighing less than 225 pounds but more than 180 pounds. Prizes in both classes will range from $4 to $1, there being seven prizes in each class. The grand champion barrow will win an additional $5.

There will be only one class in the ranchers' division which is being added to the show this year. These prizes will be $5, $4, $3, $2, and $1.

The show is to be limited to 4-H and FFA boys of Mitchell county and ranchers of the county. H. M. Millhollin, head of the soil conservation service at San Angelo, will be judge. John Simpson, livestock agent for the Texas & Pacific railroad, is to be head of the sitting committee.

CONOCO WANTS TO LEARN REACTIONS TO 'ZIGZAG' ADS

What do you think of "zig-zag" reading?

That is what the Continental Oil company, which uses the famous Conoco trademark, wants to know.

Several weeks ago this company ran its first "zig-zag" advertisement. In this ad the reading matter was set so that one line read from left to right and the next from right to left on the theory that time is saved when the eye does not have to travel back to the beginning of each line.

The "zig-zag" portion of the advertisement was arranged beside a similar portion set in the usual left-to-right fashion in that the reading time required by the two methods could be compared.

EFFORTS STILL UNDERWAY TO SECURE CITY PAVING

A final effort to prevent the city WPA paving project from being cancelled is being made by civic leaders. Unless a unit of paving is signed up in the near future the project will be cancelled by WPA authorities, it is said. A 15-block unit was nearly ready to go two weeks ago but property owners failed to pay in their portion of the cost.

Under the project terms, residential streets are to be paved at a cost of $1.15 per foot to the owner.

AROUND 50 LOCAL MEN PLANNING FOR DINNER AT LORAIN

EACH COLORADOAN TO HAVE LORAIN MAN AS GUEST TONIGHT (THURSDAY)

Around 50 Colorado men are planning to play host tonight (Thursday) to as many Loraine men when the fourth in a series of good-will get-togethers being sponsored over Mitchell county by the Colorado chamber of commerce is held at the schoolhouse in Loraine.

The Colorado group is to gather at the chamber of commerce office at 6:30 and leave from there at 6:45. The dinner is set for 7 o'clock. It will be served by women of the Loraine Methodist church.

Dr. W. S. Rhode, president of the Colorado chamber, is to preside during the dinner. Each Colorado man has been assigned a Loraine man as his individual guest, according to H. B. Spence, manager of the Colorado chamber.

The program will be entirely informal since the purpose of these meetings is to promote closer relations and wider acquaintance among Colorado business men and other citizens of Mitchell county.

Community dinners have already been held at Carr, Valley View, and Buford. Others are being planned for remaining communities in the near future.

RECORD WILL BE SET AS 5 SCOUTS GET EAGLE BADGES

ONLY FOUR OTHER BOYS HAYS ATTAINED HIGH RANK IN PAST

Something of a record in general scouting annals as well as in local scout history will have been established when Eagle awards are made to five Colorado Boy Scouts during the National Boy Scout Week banquet Friday night.

The five who are to receive the award at the banquet are Robert Kirschbaum, Earnest and Craig Porter, Curtis Erwin, and Louis Bodzin. Kirschbaum is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kirschbaum. Earnest and Craig Porter are grandsons of Mrs. C. H. Earnest, with whom they live. Curtis Erwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Erwin, Sr. of Stanton. Bodzin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Bodzin.

Records show that only one scout out of every 700 ever meets the rigid Eagle rank requirements. Five Eagle Scouts at one time would therefore be the proportion for a group of 3,500 scouts.

In all the years of Boy Scout activity in Colorado, only four boys have attained Eagle ranking. These were Weldon Skinner, Russell Soper, Riggs Shepperd, and Harvey Cook.

All five of the boys who are to achieve the Eagle rank Friday night have been scouts from two to four years. They started in as "tenderfoot" scouts, and from there advanced steadily through second class, first class, star, life and finally Eagle ranking. To do all this each had to earn 21 merit badges, 11 of which were in required subjects.

Two of the five are from M. L. Kirschbaum's troop No. 21 and three are from Dr. W. B. May's troop No. 20.

Arrangements are complete for the banquet with which Colorado Boy Scouts and their sponsoring organization, the Colorado Lions club, will observe National Boy Scout week and the 29th anniversary of scouting on Friday evening.

Boy Scouts from all points of the Colorado district, which takes in Westbrook, Loraine, and other places in Mitchell county, will be present.

Dr. W. B. May, master of scout troop No. 20 at Colorado, will be master of ceremonies. Rev. A. B. Haley of First Christian church will give the invocation. Following the introduction of guests, Al J. Stiles of Sweetwater, area scout executive for the Buffalo Trails council, will review scouting in Colorado during 1938.

Five Colorado scouts are due to receive Eagle Scout awards during the court of honor which will be held by Rev. T. A. Patterson of First Baptist church, chairman of the court of honor committee. ONE SUSPECT HELD IN LOCAL ROBBERY HICKMAN REVEALS

One suspect is being held in the Mitchell county jail on suspicion of having been connected with the burglary of A. A. Herrington's auto parts store Tuesday night, according to Dick Hickman, chief of police.

Chief Hickman declined to reveal the identity of the suspect, other than to say that he is a local man. The safe at the Herrington place was unlocked, it was reported, and the burglar or burglars prized open the cash box after taking it from the safe. Herrington said the box contained over $100 in cash.

COLORADO METHODISTS HONOR BISHOP HOLT AND HIS WIFE ON VISIT HERE

Visiting in Colorado on his tour of Methodist churches in the Northwest Texas conference, Bishop Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas was honored by members of First Methodist church Saturday evening.

Adult members of the church arranged a six-o'clock dinner for Bishop Holt and his wife at the Colorado hotel while nearly 200 Sweetwater district young people had supper in the church basement. The young people were gathered here for a quarterly rally.

Also present at the hotel dinner were Methodist pastors from Loraine, Westbrook, Coahoma, Big Spring, Roscoe, Sweetwater, and Snyder. Many of them were accompanied by their wives.

Rev. C. M. Epps, pastor of First Methodist church, presided at the hotel dinner. Rev. C. R. Hooten of Sweetwater, district presiding elder, and John E. Watson, president of the Colorado board of stewards, made brief talks. Rev. Mr. Hooten introduced Bishop Holt, who discussed his plans for church work and outlined church needs.

It was brought out during the dinner that Bishop Holt is the first Northwest Texas conference bishop who has ever attempted to visit all his connections. He presides over two other large Texas conferences and a New Mexico conference in addition to the Northwest Texas conference.

Bishop Holt was elected at the general conference last year. He was formerly pastor of St. John's Methodist church at St. Louis, Mo., for 20 years before becoming bishop.

After the hotel dinner he made a special address for the young people's organization at the church. Ruth Gilliam of Big Spring, district director for young people, introduced him at this time. He spoke on the youth crusade and urged the young people to study and avoid the errors of his generation.

At the close of this address the bishop went on to Big Spring, where he was to speak Sunday morning. He came here after two days at Sweetwater.

Plans for the campaign were outlined at a meeting of interested persons in the county courtroom Monday afternoon. The meeting was arranged by B. J. Baskin, county agent.

POEM BY JUAN P. MASON APPEARS IN 'TEXAS OUTLOOK'

"Saturday in Town" is the title of a poem by Juan P. Mason of Colorado in the February issue of "The Texas Outlook," official organ of the Texas State Teachers' association.

Mason, a member of the English faculty of Colorado High school, evidently based his poem on impressions gleaned in downtown Colorado on a typical Saturday afternoon.

The poem follows:

SATURDAY IN TOWN
A PARADE:
New dresses;
Clean overalls;
Rouge and curls;
Stogies;
Cream cones;
Cheering gum;
Tired, determined faces;
Friendly nods;
Curious glances;
Chatter;
Children crying!

Bees buzzing bountifully
Searching for bargains.

Neighbors of the past,
Now touching finger tips—
Lovers meeting!

Men, discouraged,
Discussing crops;
Government loans!

Youth yonder
Reliving
Recent escapades.

Weary women
Gossiping about;
Mary's toothache;
The chickens;
Jersey and the bitter weeds;
- - - "Well,
Y'all come over tomorrow."

Aimless wandering;
Passing the day!

Tight shoes;
Sneak, squeak;
"Only to sit down—
To kick these shoes off!"
—Juan P. Mason.

MOTHER OF BOY MOVIE ACTOR VISITS WITH RELATIVES IN MITCHELL COUNTY

An interesting visitor in Colorado and Loraine this week was Mrs. Stella Duncan of Los Angeles, mother of Charles Duncan who is playing the role of "Monk" in the Palace theater picture, "Newsboys' Home," this Thursday.

Mrs. Duncan is the sister of Mrs. John Johnson of Loraine and the aunt of Mrs. Bruce Hart of Colorado. Mrs. Johnson's daughter, she visited in both the Johnson and Hart homes while here Wednesday and Thursday. She was enroute from Los Angeles to New York on business, the business having to do with a play which she is producing on Broadway.

Reared in San Antonio, Mrs. Duncan was on the stage herself for years. Her stage name was Bobbie Duncan, and she appeared in a number of Broadway shows and in vaudeville. For the past 13 years she has been a producer of Broadway shows. Although she never lived in Mitchell county, Mrs. Duncan used to teach in Abilene and Sweetwater. When a questioner commented on the unusual combination of "teacher and actress," Mrs. Duncan's sister, Mrs. Johnson, remarked, "She's always been able to do anything."

Mrs. Duncan's son made his stage debut three years ago, creating the original "Spit" in the play, "Dead End." He had been in boarding school up until that time. After appearing in that play and others, he was given the chance to go to Hollywood. The Duncans have been on the west coast only since September, but he has already worked in three pictures. One was "Little Tough Guys in Society," which played here some time ago. Another, "Code of the Streets," is to be released soon. He is now working on a picture in which Lionel Barrymore appears.

Charles is just 18, so his mother and relatives here are counting on his having a "future" in Hollywood.

J. Ralph Lee continues to recover from leg burns which he sustained at his laundry on Jan. 19 and is to be moved home in a few days.

Hilton Morgan of near Cuthbert underwent an appendectomy on Feb. 1 and is given a satisfactory report.

A son, Billy Ray, was born to Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Walraven of Route 1 at 6:45 a.m. on Saturday. He weighed an ounce over eight pounds.

Suffering from a broken thigh, M. C. Fry, 79, was admitted to the hospital at 1:10 Monday and died at 5:20 a.m. on Tuesday.

Stricken with a heart weakness while convalescing from major surgery, Hugh Daniel of Carr was readmitted to the hospital Monday afternoon at 4:15 and died at 4:40.

A son, Joe, Jr., weighing six pounds and three ounces, was born by Caesarean section to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gunning at 9:10 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Ruby West of Dunn was admitted on Tuesday as a medical patient.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Windham of Colorado at 5:45 Wednesday morning. Weight was 10 pounds, 9 ounces.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Smith of Route 1 are the parents of a girl born at 5 a.m. on Thursday.

All members of the hospital staff are deeply concerned over the illness of Dorothy Carter, who has charge of surgery. Miss Carter was stricken with a severe headache on Wednesday and her illness has been regarded as serious. She was sent to Fort Worth for the attention of a specialist Thursday morning in Eddie Pylant's ambulance with Dr. W. S. Rhode in attendance.

CUSTER CHILD 'THE SAME'

Reports from Abilene on Wednesday night were that Kenneth Custer, son of Mrs. Sid Custer, is "about the same." The child, 9 years of age, was moved to Hendrick Memorial hospital in a Kiker & Son ambulance last week. He has been seriously ill for the past two weeks. His trouble has been diagnosed as a blood clot on the brain. Woodie Holden, minister of the Church of Christ, came in Wednesday night from Abilene, where he has been staying to render all possible assistance to Mrs. Custer. Very little hope is held for the child's recovery.

THIRTY APPLICATIONS ALREADY FILED ON WATER FACILITIES DEVELOPMENT IN COUNTY

Thirty applications have been filed to date for water facilities developments on farms located on the three Mitchell county watersheds affected by the water facilities program, according to D. C. Lerner, who has charge of the soil conservation service's water facilities office here. Fourteen agreements will be complete as soon as loan applications are approved by the Farm Security Administration, through which the water facilities program is being financed. These agreements involve farms of the following: Cecil Castro, O. B. Barrett, J. J. Donnell, H. W. Beights, G. W. Sinclair, Frank Jones, Malone Thomas, H. Cranfill, E. C. Boyle, J. H. Richey, R. L. Bankhead, J. P. Jones, A. Shepherd, and Robert Barkley. Developments planned on these farms include 13 storage tanks, 7 windmills and towers, 3 stock watering troughs, 2 wells to be dug, 1,200 feet of sub-irrigation tile to be laid on 12 farms. Loans asked for these developments total approximately $2,500, averaging $180 per farm. Repayment periods range from five to ten years, the loans drawing 3% interest. Lerner says that he expects to sign up at least 50 agreements on water facilities developments, and soil conservation practices by June 30.

KING COTTON WINS WAR OVER RAYON FOR TIRE CORD MARKET

Announcement that license has been issued to an English cotton textile manufacturer to produce the patented Bibb Heat Resistant Cotton Cord for consumption in the British Isles marks a milestone in the victory of cotton over rayon for use throughout the world in automobile and truck tires. The information given out by W. D. Anderson, President of Bibb Manufacturing company, at the annual banquet for the salesmen in Macon, Georgia, last week is of vital interest to cotton farmers and others concerned with the welfare of the fleecy staple. Cotton interests have been greatly disturbed recently by reports that the use of rayon would cut heavily into the 300,000,000 pound market previously supplied by cotton for use in the manufacture of tires. This figure represents roughly 10% of domestic production. The new patented method of processing cotton, which shows performance strikingly superior both to rayon cords and cords made of cotton by old processes, has been shown by actual service tests over a period of three years to outlast any rubber tread the tire makers have been able to produce. Tires do not get as hot in heavy duty service, do not grow in size, and regularly outlast two or more retreads.

GRAPE CULTURE IN TEXAS LOOMS AS MAJOR INDUSTRY

COLLEGE STATION—Texas has more kinds of wild grapes than any other state, says U. A. Randolph, horticulturist, grape investigations laboratory, Texas A. & M. Agricultural Experiment Station at Montague. Commercial varieties, many of them developed from these native grapes, thrive over a wide area. The research program of the grape investigations laboratory has two main objectives, namely, widening the market possibilities for grapes by developing a variety of products, and a reduction of cost per bushel through an increase in the efficiency of production. At present two possible solutions of the juice marketing problem are presented. One is the development of superior, distinctive blends of Texas varieties and the other to find a Concordlike juice. As a first step in a study of blends 188 varieties are being grown at the laboratory and it is planned to make a number of additions this winter. Upon completion of the new laboratory building last summer juice of 11 varieties was pressed from fruit

Writing Home From Austin

By E. Temple Dickson

Members of the legislature are getting pretty well heated up against the measure introduced by Rep. Doyle Pevehouse and myself to reduce the size of the house, by constitutional amendment.

But while members of the house are objecting, people are writing in from all over the state in support of the plan. Our idea is to submit a constitutional amendment that would reduce the membership of the house from 150 to 62—two for each senatorial district.

That should save the state at least $250,000 per year. And at the same time the house would be made more efficient. As it is it is too large for smooth operation.

Much controversy is being raised over the matter of raising the load limit for trucks. Letters have been received on both sides of the matter, and legislators are giving full consideration to the matter.

The house public health committee approved a bill this week that would establish a new sanitary code for the state, regarding sanitation in eating houses and public places, and many other details. Proponents say it will make sanitary rules enforceable.

During the last few years, with everyone getting history-minded, we have been hearing a lot about the fact that Texas has been under six flags.

But it took Rep. Paris Smith of Bay City to get up on the floor the other day and say that "Texas has served under six flags and a flour-sack."

The dust is rising in a high fog from that flour-sack right down. In both house and senate, Governor O'Daniel was denounced for mentioning the word "flour" in a Sunday morning broadcast from the mansion.

Rep. Ross Hardin told the house he wanted them to pass a resolution asking the governor to read the constitution and learn that carrying on private interests—like selling flour—was illegal action for a legislator.

And in the senate, Senator Joe Hill just cursed the situation in general.

The house overrode the committee on appropriations the other day to order printed a bill to appropriate $20,000 to the attorney-general to conduct an investigation of monopolistic practices by cement companies.

The committee had voted the appropriation down.

Whereupon Chairman Thornton of the appropriations committee was made somewhat unhappy. A couple of days later he took the floor to declare that the committee was trying to be economy-minded, and that each bill was investigated thoroughly.

"We're working 12 and 14 hours a day," he said.

An operator of an Austin cleaning establishment commented the other day that the personnel of the legislature is improving every year. Said the cleaner: "I remember when a member of the legislature came in some years ago for a press-while-you-wait service. He crawled in a barrel and handed his clothes out to an attendant. We had to give them back to him unpressed. The trousers would have stood up by themselves and it would have cost us the price of a new press machine to have put steam on that affair."

BASKIN POINTS OUT VALUE OF TRENCH SILOS IN FEEDING FARM LIVESTOCK. Quoting from the 1938 reports of the Texas Dairy Herd Improvement associations, B. J. Baskin, Mitchell county farm agent, has pointed out some outstanding facts regarding the value of trench silos on the farm. In 1938, according to Baskin, the dairy association carried on some comparative tests regarding the feeding of silage to dairy cows. The 50 herds used were similar in size, weight of animals, management, normal production of milk, etc. Results of the tests were as follows: Item No. Herds Fed NO Silage Difference No. Cows 25 25 0 Ave. production butter fat 300 lbs. 268 lbs. 32 more Silage fed per cow 3077 lbs. 3077 more Ave. feed cost per cow $42.79 $46.74 Ave. pasture cost per cow $7.92 $5.72 Ave. days on pasture 277 days 323 days 46 less Value of products per cow $105.00 $93.80 $9.80 more Increase above feed cost $62.21 $47.06 $15.15 more. The above record shows, Baskin points out, that the trench silo does (1) increase the production of butter fat per cow; (2) lowers feed costs, and (3) increases profits per cow. In addition to the above mentioned advantages trench silos insure the farmer against (1) fire losses, (2) weevil losses, (3) rat losses, and (4) weather damage.

MORE LIVESTOCK POINTED OUT AS BEST ALTERNATIVE ON TEXAS FARMS. Because of the breeder-feeder degree of droughts. "The other major alternative is greater industrial and commercial development. Industrial wages are about 200 per cent of 1909-14, and prices of most industrial products are also well above the 1909-14 level." Texas farmers will receive $300,000,000 less from sale of cotton and cottonseed for their 1938 crop than they did before the depression, he predicted. Exports, which take nine out of ten Texas-produced bales, are only half what they were in 1927-29. The effect, says Leland, is like the sound of a moving camel caravan. The early bird gets the best seats to the rodeo and horse show in Fort Worth, March 10-19, Manager John B. Davis announced. Tickets now are on sale with a heavy demand expected for the two daily performances as a result of the billing of Paul Whiteman for a spot in the musical angles of the show. It's got to be good to be advertised.

WESTBROOK M. E. CHURCH
ANNOUNCEMENTS

Here I come again to warn you and to try to help you to see your mistake if you are not going to church and Sunday school and that you are missing a God-given privilege. For every time an opportunity comes your way and you fail to use it you are limiting and shortening the arm of God. He cannot do what he wishes to do unless we all cooperate with Him, and it will take all to form a complete corporation, and when we will He can and will do great things for us, and through us.

Now you remember that it is through the great mercies of God that we have the blessings that we have to enjoy day by day. Blessings of good homes, beautiful children, rain and sunshine, health and the promise of His hand to lead and guide us through all our sorrows, disappointments, and the unhappiness that we all have more or less to contend with. Then it is through His mercies that we have salvation free, for as He looked upon a sin-cursed and lost humanity, it was then that He sent His only begotten son, that He might suffer as we suffer only so much more, that we might have life and that we might have it more abundantly.

Seeing that this is a God-sent blessing how much should we do for Him for all He has done for us. He wants to be in our homes and in our hearts, and don't you see the great importance of attending the services of our church. It will make you love your wives and husbands, your children, your neighbors, mothers, fathers better. Now, won't you come and be with us in our services on next Sunday. We will be looking for you. Now come on all together repeat with me Ps. 103, 1 and 2: "Bless the Lord, O my soul; and all that is within me, Bless His holy name."
 "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits."
 Your friend and pastor,
 R. B. WALDEN.

GIRLS BEGIN VOLLEY BALL
 The girls basketball team concluded their season of basketball last Wednesday night in a close game with Pylon at Pylon. They won this final game by a score of 11-9. They had previously beaten Pylon at the tournament at Dunn one point.

The girls have had a very successful season winning three first places at invitation tournaments and one second place. Highland, Courtney, Gardner, Porsan and Blackwell were the only teams to which the W. H. S girls lost and they at some time won over all of these except Highland and Courtney. We won a total of 26 games and lost 6.

The girls will begin practicing volleyball soon. The team will be about the same as the basketball team except for Marjorie Harcastle who did not play the last part of basketball season. Marg. is your sore ankle well enough to last all of the rest of the year at volley ball!!!

FISH NEWS
 The wedding bells rang out in the Freshman room. We lost one of our classmates, Thelma Brown. She was married to Wayne Mottlock. It seems the Fish ran a close second in the race of marriages but beaten by a Senior, Lucille.

The Freshmen sold popcorn at the ball game Friday night. Joan and Virginia seem to go for twin boys. We wonder why? Virginia, we advise you not to be fooling around Roscoe because you might get the wrong twin and then Joan—well just beware!

4-H CLUB NEWS

The 4-H club girls met Thursday, Feb. 2, in Home Ec. room with Miss Vara Crippen. It was decided upon that we would have an amateur program, Saturday, Feb. 11, in the Westbrook gym. The admission will be 10c and 15c.

We elected the following officers: Vice-president, Maxine Ellis; reporter, Virginia Young. We are making aprons and soon will begin summer slacks. We have one new member.

SOPHOMORE NEWS
 The Sophs are very glad to report that Myriene Donaldson is back in school after a brief time of illness. We missed her.

The Home Economics girls have been visiting Miss Joyce's room to observe how small children carry on their work and play. We find it very interesting. Especially one girl. Why do you get so tickled, Eliza? Don't take up the habit of biting sugar that don't belong to you.

Verlyn has been going to the show very often lately. We wonder if it is with her daddy like she says or with a certain Sophomore boy. (What do you say, Verlyn?)

The Junior playground ball girls have begun practice and we are glad to have Miss Speights as our coach again this year. Here's hoping that we can do even better this year than we did last year.

Melba Ruth is absent today because she is attending the funeral of her uncle. The Soph class give Nita Bess and Melba Ruth our sincere sympathy.

C. E. is it true that you are dumb in Algebra, as Miss Speights says or is it that all your attention is attracted to one of the girls instead of your lesson?

We wonder why Ansel comes to school Monday morning all bruised up. Could it be true that a horse fell with him and he fell in a barbed wire fence? Ansel, if you need a nurse, I'm sure there would be a certain girl ready to apply.

Louise S., what's this we hear about you making eyes at a certain black, curly haired boy? Isn't this rather sudden?

The Sophs are hoping to have an entertainment soon. We want to go kodaking and then to the show. Nell Grace Hart.

CACTUS NEWS
 The Cactus staff is progressing nicely. We have completed the Staff, Faculty, Senior and snapshot pages. We are working constantly to publish a good and satisfactory annual.

BASKETBALL GAMES
 The Westbrook boys came out on the long end of the score in the first of our county games in the Westbrook gym Friday night.

They defeated Roscoe 51-17. Redwine took high scoring honors with 16 points and Jones was one behind with 15. Other players were Ogleby and Jackson guards and Davenport forward. Board and Moody the varsity guards were out getting up some back work.

Our club will play the Loraine boys Wednesday night at Roscoe and the Colorado Wolves Friday night at Colorado.

So far Westbrook has won 27 of the 34 games played and have 280 points ahead of their opposition.

JUNIOR NEWS
 The Juniors have their play and all the girls are fussing over who has to be grandmas. We wonder who the stuttering girl will be.

The basketball girls got in bad by having to go to Mr. Cox's study hall. Rena says if you were to sit in Cox's study hall and die Mr. Cox would make you have a written excuse signed by Mr. Lauderdale to get carried out.

The Juniors received a book on plans for Junior-Senior banquets. It has some good ideas in it and we are planning the banquet so we assure you Seniors that you will have a good banquet with plenty to eat.

Mattie Blanche Byrd visited in Plainview last week and said she had a real nice time.

We're beginning to worry about the Junior class afraid the girls are going to be old maids and we have just found out that old maids are "ungathered roses."

The Junior class wishes to express their sympathy to a Senior, Nita Bess Daniel during the sickness and death of her father.

SENIOR NEWS AT LAST
 The Seniors have at last completed their walk that they have been planning to fish for so long. We met up here at the schoolhouse last Saturday at 9 o'clock. There were about 20 present including 15 Seniors. The boys worked on the walk while the girls fixed them a lunch. We had 20 to eat here. There were some of the Sophs and Juniors here as the staff met and worked on the annual.

We had a nice lunch, Mr. Hood returned thanks and about the last of dinner, Winton Lee got a dose of pepper sauce that got some of the neighbors at the table had put on his cake. Of course there was much laughter and poking.

However there is always some bitter with the sweet. Someone thought

Mr. Daniel was married 26 years ago to Alburta Ellett of Carr, sister of Mrs. Dick Gregory of Colorado. They always lived at Carr, and were among the best-known citizens of Mitchell county.

In addition to his mother and his wife, Mr. Daniel is survived by two children, Elmo and Neta Bess, the former being employed at Iatan and the latter being a senior in Westbrook High school. Two sisters, Mrs. Clarence Adams of Carr and Mrs. Charles Dupree of Dallas, and a brother, Carl Daniel of Hobbs, N. M., also survive.

NATION-WIDE NOTE WON BY RADIO BUSINESS OF J. RIORDAN COMPANY

Nation-wide note has come to the radio business of J. Riordan and company since two full pages about the business appeared in the January 26 issue of the "Hardware Age," a national magazine for hardware dealers.
Basis of the story is the fact that J. Riordan & Company has done a $20,000 radio business in what the magazine terms a "small town." A sales map which Riordan and his radio service man, L. J. Taylor, have worked out furnishes the story with its lead, thus:
"In the radio department of the J. Riordan company at Colorado, Texas, is a blueprint map of Mitchell county, of which Colorado is the county seat. The map shows every tract of land on record, outside the city limits, and its owner."
"In this map are stuck a number of pins with large colored heads. All the red pins represent radio sets of the make which the firm handles. The pins with yellow heads represent radio sets of other makes."
"Nowadays the radio department uses the map frequently to prove its argument that the set it handles must be good because so many rural people are buying it."
"This sales map is one of several factors that have enabled this hardware firm to build up a profitable $20,000 radio business in a small town with a limited area."
The story goes on to explain that the map was originally built up for the store's own convenience in spotting customers and prospects, but that it is now excellent sales material, since prospects can't help being favorably impressed with the great number of Riordan-handled radios in the county.
J. Riordan is quoted in the story as believing that the real foundation of his radio business is his service department, however.
"It (the service department) is equipped with practically every modern unit necessary for testing and repairing any make of receiving set," according to the story. "It is in charge of L. J. Taylor, a practical radio technician who has spent his vacation the past four years taking special radio service training courses."

W. W. PORTER, DISTRICT SCOUT HEAD AND LONG-TIME COLORADOAN, TAKES PRIDE IN SILVER BEAVER AWARD FOR SCOUT WORK

Although framed certificates for one thing and another line the walls of W. W. Porter's insurance office in Colorado, there's a special aura of pride around the newest one, which signifies that he rated the 1938 Silver Beaver award in the Buffalo Trails council, Boy Scouts of America, "for distinguished service to boyhood."

With National Boy Scout week at hand, Porter's pride in this certificate, which was presented to him at the annual council banquet held recently in Big Spring, is intensified. "I wouldn't take the world for it, but I'll never be able to live up to it," Porter says. Only one certificate each year, the award being made by the national council.

When Porter went into Boy Scout work 11 years ago, he had a lot to learn about scouting, but he didn't have a lot to learn about boys. He has seven. All have been Boy Scouts. Arthur Allen, the youngest and the only one still at home, will be one of the scouts receiving badges during the court of honor which will follow the annual Boy Scout banquet in the Colorado hotel Friday night. Allen is 14.

Porter has been chairman of Boy Scout work in district 6 of the Buffalo Trails council for the past three years. This district takes in all Mitchell county.

Scouting is just one of Porter's varied activities, however. Some of the others are song conventioning, Odd Fellowship, Masonry, church work, and civic work.

The name of Porter is a familiar one in singing convention circles of all West Texas. He has served as president of the Mitchell County Singing convention a number of times since its organization more than 30 years ago, and he has held that office continuously for the past four years. He is a past noble grand of the local Odd Fellow lodge and is a past president of district one of the West Texas IOOF-Rebekah association.

An eldership in First Christian church has been his since 1907, the year after he came to Colorado. He is a past worshipful master of the Colorado Masonic lodge. He has been an active member of the Colorado Lions club for years.

Having come to Colorado in 1906, Porter rates among Mitchell county's "old-timers" if not among its pioneers. He was born on April 4, 1878, in Cooke county Texas, being the oldest in a family of 10 children. His birthplace was a log house where cooking was done on a huge fireplace.

After attending the Walling school as a boy, he entered Franklin college at Pilot Point for a few months before he began teaching at Walling. Later he attended North Texas State Teachers college at Denton for two years. The college then had 385 pupils with M. B. Terrell, who died over a year ago in Dallas, as president. Forty years later Porter's daughter, Memphis, who now teaches at Seven Wells, was to be a student in the same school.

Deciding that he wanted to go into the business world, Porter attended H. A. Ivy Business college at Gainesville, and then secured a job in the express service of the old Wells-Fargo company. His first job was at Gainesville, where he made 50 cents a day loading fruit. After a time he became transfer clerk at Cleburne, later being transferred to Beaumont as bill clerk.

In 1902 he went to work for the Pacific express in Fort Worth. Successive steps made him express messenger at Waco, cashier at Waco, agent at Corsicana, agent at Texarkana, and then special auditor for the company in a wide West Texas territory.

In those days, before the beginning of parcel post service, the express business was even greater than it is now, Porter recalls, since even small packages had to be carried by express. Fruit that is now shipped in special fruit cars was also handled by express. He recalls one time when honeybees and a race horse were in the same car.

In later years the different express companies—Wells-Fargo, Pacific, American, and others—were to become consolidated as the Railway Express company of today.

While auditing the express company in Colorado at the resignation of Pete Hensley in December, 1906, Porter decided he wanted to live in Colorado and asked for Hensley's place. He got it.

After two years in the express office, Porter became wholesale agent for the Texas company, at the same time maintaining a grain and fuel business for himself. His main office was where Berry-Fee Lumber company is now, and he had a sheet-iron warehouse alongside the railroad south of Burton-Lingo Lumber yard. Porter gave up this work after he was elected county and district clerk in 1916. He held that office four years, and has since been in the insurance business.

Porter was married on Nov. 7, 1903, in Waco to Memphis Bryan, who had been reared in Gainesville. They had met in Gainesville when he delivered an express package to the doctor's office where she was employed. He says it was "love at first sight." Their courting was done in a rented buggy drawn by a rented horse. Mrs. Porter was employed in the Gilcrest sanitarium in Gainesville when they married.

In addition to the seven sons mentioned earlier in this story, the Porters have two daughters—Memphis M. Porter, who teaches at

MACK FRY, FATHER OF TWO COLORADOANS, IS BURIED IN ANGELO

Funeral for Mack Fry, 78, father of Bert and Lon Fry of Colorado, was held in San Angelo on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Fry, who had been living with his sons in Colorado for the past six months, succumbed early Tuesday morning in a local hospital, having been admitted on Monday suffering from a broken hip sustained in a fall Sunday.

Born Nov. 16, 1860, in Hopkins county, Texas, Mr. Fry lived in Lone Oak for many years before moving to San Angelo over 20 years ago. He lived in San Angelo prior to coming here. His wife, who died three years ago, is buried there, and he was interred beside her.

Survivors include the following children: Bert and Lon Fry of Colorado; J. B. and F. J. Fry of Dallas; Jim Fry of Quanah; W. E. Fry of San Angelo; and Mrs. L. E. Patterson of Belmont. La. Two stepchildren also survive, these being J. R. Thornton and Mrs. V. S. Stevens, both of Lone Oak.

Kiker & Son had charge of funeral arrangements and carried the body overland to Ean Angelo for burial.

MRS. HESTER MILLER, PIONEER COLORADOAN, BURIED HERE TUESDAY

Funeral services were held here from Kiker Chapel at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Hester Miller, 85, early-day Coloradoan who died in an Amarillo hospital Monday.

Mrs. Miller was a charter member of First Baptist church. She and her husband, John Miller, who died a number of years ago, came to Colorado when the town was young and lived for years in South Colorado.

After Mr. Miller's death Mrs. Miller and a son, Frank, lived together until the latter's death a few years ago. During recent years Mrs. Miller had lived with her only daughter, Mrs. Frank Abrahamson, in Amarillo. She was born in Oneonta, N. Y., in 1854 and was married in 1870.

Nine children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Miller and four survive. They are Newt Miller, who recently moved from Colorado to Alba; Fred Miller of Cimarron, N. M.; B. F. Miller of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Abrahamson of Amarillo.

The funeral service was conducted by J. W. Watson, an elder of the Church of Christ. Burial was in the Colorado cemetery beside Mr. Miller.

Kiker & Son had charge of local arrangements.

(Regal) Porter of Beaumont; M. M. (Mike) Porter and E. E. (Earl) Porter of Houston; Arthur Allen Porter of Colorado.

LETTER FROM EARLY-DAY COLORADOAN INCLUDES INTERESTING MEMORY ITEMS

Several interesting memory items on early-day Colorado are included in a letter received recently by H. B. Spence, chamber of commerce manager, from I. H. Burney of Fort Worth, who lived in Colorado a number of years ago.

Burney wrote the letter after reading the "development" story which Frank Reeves, staff correspondent for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, wrote for his paper some time ago. Burney praised the story very highly and expressed keen enjoyment in the reading of it.

"(The story) mentions several names dear to me," Burney wrote. "That very great man, the original Dudley Snyder, was a friend of my father nearly a century ago and, later, was a friend of mine. Joe Smoot's mother and father, especially his mother, were very dear friends of mine when I so much needed sympathetic friends. I once paid court to Mrs. Smoot's sister, Miss May Figh, and to this day I consider that I never met a more attractive girl with a better or more philosophic mind and soul."

"Lay Powell once paid me a fee and I consider him a very fine type of American citizen. His father-in-law, J. S. Johnson, who built Colorado's courthouse, was almost my first client. . . . Jack Smith, my wife's relative, is a fine citizen and has as good a heart as ever pulsated. . . . You can see from the above who I was so interested in that article. . . ."

"Of course, even old-timers there have probably forgotten me because my life has been so quiet. . . . Even the public work I have done has been of the quiet sort. . . . I served as Red Cross chairman for my city and county for the whole period of the World War. . . . I served on the advisory commission for our county's first hard-surfaced roads. . . . I also was active on the advisory committee for the acquisition of Lake Worth. . . . For many years I have been president of the Fort Worth Library association. . . . I served many years on the T.W.C. board of trustees. . . . I never more or less unpopular because I never fail to take a positive stand on any important question that comes up. . . ."

Mr. Burney expressed his sorrow at the passing of such old-timers as John L. Doss, Mrs. Jim Plaster, Q. D. Hall, and others.

NEARLY 200 YOUNG METHODISTS ATTEND QUARTERLY RALLY AT LOCAL CHURCH

Nearly 200 young people from the Sweetwater Methodist district gathered in Colorado Saturday night and Sunday for their quarterly rally. Attendance was swelled by the presence of Bishop Ivan Lee, Holt of Dallas, whose visit with First Methodist church coincided with the rally date.

Walter Grubbs, president of the young people of First Methodist church, was in charge of local arrangements for the rally. Ruth Gilliam of Big Spring, district director for young people, presided at the gatherings.

The rally opened with supper served in the basement of the church Saturday evening at 6 o'clock by members of the women's missionary society. The young people then went into joint session with the church membership to hear Bishop Holt's address, which dealt mainly with youth movements and needs in the church today.

Miss Gilliam introduced Bishop Holt after Newby Pratt had presented a devotional on "Climbing With Christ." Mrs. N. H. White sang a solo.

After the bishop's talk the young people met in the church basement and were entertained with magic and chalk drawings by Rev. A. L. Haley of First Christian church. Later on the young people from each church in the district presented stunts.

Sunday morning's devotional continued the theme of "higher ground."

Mrs. E. B. Willbanks sang a solo. A talk by John E. Watson, president of the church board of stewards, on "What Does the Church Mean to Young People?" was described later as one of the highlights of the rally program.

At the Sunday school hour one young people's class, taught by Earl Cypert, had an attendance of 126.

Rev. C. M. Epps, church pastor, preached a special sermon for the young people at the church hour. A vocal trio was given by Mrs. Willbanks, Mrs. James Payne, and Mrs. N. H. White.

Dinner was served at the Legion hut by the women's missionary society under direction of Mrs. W. W. Rhode, president. A few committee meetings were held in the afternoon, after which the young people adjourned to meet next in Dunn.

ALL HONOR TO THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

"WINGS OF THE NAVY" ACTION-PACKED DRAMA OF U. S. NAVAL AIR FORCE

"Wings of the Navy," a Warner Bros.-Cosmopolitan production which is declared to be by far the best to date of the remarkable succession of smashing successful "service" pictures turned out at that studio, comes to the screen of the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday, Feb. 11, 12 and 13, with a cast headed by George Brent, Olivia de Havilland, John Payne and Frank McHugh.

The Warner studio's preeminence in the field of pictures dealing with life in the various divisions of the armed forces of the nation was first established several years ago with the production of "Here Comes the Navy." Since then such pictures as "Devil Dogs of the Air" and "Submarine D-1" have enabled this studio to continue its supremacy.

As its title so aptly indicates, "Wings of the Navy" is a story laid against a background of naval aviation. It is a powerful tale that effectively transfers to the screen the spirit and traditions of the aerial division of the nation's guardians of sea and coastline, and in the course of telling the story, the film production impressively unfolds scenes which give the onlooker a vivid conception of the strength and competence of the navy's aerial wing.

In obtaining such scenes, the studio was given the unstinted cooperation of the United States Navy, with the result that there are breath-taking shots of aerial formations and maneuvers which even the newsreel cameramen have never been able to photograph.

Aside from the mass flying scenes, there are a number of sensational shots of hair-raising stunts by individual pilots, and, as part of the plot, three marrow-chilling crash scenes.

The screen play, an original by Michael Fessier, is built around two naval fliers, played by George Brent and John Payne, who are sons of a pioneer naval flying officer who died in the line of duty. Brent, the elder brother, is an instructor at the navy's school for fliers at Pensacola when Payne, who is an ensign in the submarine service, decides to become a flier too, and gets transferred to the Pensacola training school.

Brent has designed a new type of plane which he hopes to get the navy to accept, but before he can pilot it himself in the test flights, he is plunged into a serious accident.

Unknown to his brother, Payne, resigns from the service and as a civilian, arranges to make a daring test dive in the plane Brent has invented. When he completes the test of the new ship successfully and the navy accepts his brother's plane, Payne also wins reinstatement in the naval air service.

Payne's unselfish devotion to the cause of his brother also brings to a happy solution a romantic situation involving Olivia de Havilland which has threatened dissension between the brothers. At the outset of the tale, Olivia is Brent's fiancée but when she and Payne meet they fall in love. After Payne has risked his life to prove his brother's new ship practical, Brent unselfishly relinquishes her.

Aside from the principals mentioned, other members of the cast who have important roles are Henry O'Neill, Victor Jory, John Lital, John Ridgely, John Gallaudet, Donald Briggs, Regis Toomey, Edgar Edwards and Albert Morin. The production was directed by Lloyd Bacon.

"NEWSBOYS' HOME"
Palace—Thursday, Feb. 9

Action is the keynote of this film which shapes as a satisfactory program picture. A matinee audience at the Central, New York, appeared to enjoy the sequences dealing with the battles over circulation. The story is about a young, headstrong girl, Wendy Barrie, who inherits a newspaper from her father and almost ruins it by introducing some of her own ideas on journalism. The rival sheet which is out to get the street sales, starts a circulation war, but doesn't count on Jackie Cooper and his newsboy pals who see it through with Miss Barrie. Edmund Lowe, as the managing editor, returns in time to help bring the paper back to its former standing. And the six Little Tough Guys prove good trouper, although inclined to overact. Harold Young directed.

Players are Jackie Cooper, Edmund Lowe, Irving Pichel, Wendy Barrie, Elisha Cook, Jr., Harris Berger, Hally Chester.

Mrs. Jones also read a delayed paper on "The Neurotic Person." Mrs. E. H. Winn, lesson leader, discussed David Seabury. Mrs. Bennett Scott gave a well-received review of his book, "The Art of Selfishness."

Mrs. Nat Thomas reported over $100 in the student loan fund, not counting that which is loaned out. The club institute to be held at Sweetwater on Feb. 16 was announced by Mrs. J. G. Merritt.

Fudge and divinity candy were passed during the afternoon.

Mrs. F. C. Shillingburg will be hostess this Friday.

Self Culture

Topics on Wyoming occupied the Self Culture club when it met Friday with Mrs. J. T. Howell. Leader was Mrs. Lee Phenix.

Main points of interest in the state were given during roll call. Mrs. Jeff Jones sang, "There's a Home in Wyoming," with Theda Howell as accompanist.

"History and Interesting People" was the topic of Mrs. Lee Phenix. A topic on Yellowstone National park was given by Mrs. C. P. Gary, who read Kipling's poem on the park. Mrs. W. L. Hester substituted for Mrs. Henry Pond in discussing the "wild west" as a literary field. Theda Howell sang "The Cow Boy's Prayer." Chili and coffee were served. The club meets this week with Mrs. Bun Pritchett.

Zetagathian

Eleven members of the Zetagathian club gathered at the home of Mrs. John Shropshire Friday afternoon for a program on speech arts.

"Hackneyed Expressions" were given during roll call. Mrs. James Cook listed some commonly mispronounced words, and Mrs. Jack Cox discussed parts of speech. Mrs. Carey Prude, Jr., had the topic on sentence structure.

The club elected Mrs. A. E. McClain historian and librarian. Mrs. Prude is to be hostess this week.

With Mrs. U. G. Hardison as leader, topics were handled as follows: "Assignment in Paris," Mrs. W. L. Doss, Jr.; "Return to Moscow," Mrs. W. W. Rhode; "What Sort of a World Have We Made?" Mrs. C. C. Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson is to be hostess this Friday.

REFRIGERATION IS SUBJECT AT HYMAN

By Mrs. Edgar Andrews, Reporter

Refrigeration as one of the most important problems in a home was discussed by Vera Crippen, county home demonstration agent, in a talk given to the Hyman Home Demonstration club when it met with Mrs. Carl Lowry.

Miss Crippen outlined that refrigeration was first used by primitive man, who buried his meats and other food in ice and snow. Later the system of evaporation was used when ice was cut from lakes in the winter and stored for summer use.

Types of modern refrigerators were discussed. Advantages of mechanical refrigeration and ice refrigerators were outlined.

Plans were made by the club to invite the Colorado chamber of commerce to the Hyman community for a supper.

Nine members, two visitors; and Miss Crippen were present. The club will meet with Mrs. Ilean Lowe on Feb. 17.

Palace—Friday and Saturday
Feb. 10 and 11

Abounding in the sweeping pageantry and spectacle characteristic of Producer-Director Frank Lloyd's efforts, this stirring story based on the saving of Paris by Francois Villon is elevated to epic heights through a brace of brilliant performances by Ronald Colman as the beloved beggar-poet and Basil Rathbone as King Louis XI. The latter's portrayal of the cold and calculating monarch with a redeeming sense of humor is exceptionally fine-grained and establishes the British actor even more firmly in filmdom's top flight.

Frances Dee contributes substantially with a sympathetic and winsome delineation. The feature's wide scope is tempered with a masterful filigree of tender romance and subtle humor. Which all adds up to make a superlatively fine film.

Players are Ronald Colman, Basil Rathbone, Frances Dee, Ellen Drew, Henry Wilcoxon, Heather Thatcher, Sidney Toler.

Chock full of action as the Three Mesquiteers gallop along at a bristling pace in a western that's better than par. There are ample background shots, plenty of fast riding and a plot more sturdily compounded than the average. In this, the Three Mesquiteers are the standard bearers of law and order and help rid a town of its crooked mayor and his henchmen. Before this happens, there is lots of excitement over saving John Wayne who has been framed on a murder charge. A lynch mob attacks the jail but Wayne gets out when a dynamite charge blows one of the walls down. Ray Corrigan and Max Terhune round out the trio and as heroes of the western sagas they rate with the best. Happily, the stint of Terhune's dummy Elmer is kept to a minimum. George Sherman's direction deserves credit for the film's brisk tempo.

EDITORIAL

W. M. Turner of Westbrook writes in to say:

To the Columnist:
A few weeks ago this column carried an article depicting the horrors of warfare and the ugly behavior of certain propagandists who profit by war. I have no wish or the ability to emulate the article referred to. But I believe that I have some worthwhile information relative to the world war, and the conduct of the European nations leading up to that cataclysm.

This writer feels inclined to apologize to the reader for indulging in the discussion of war, as so little has been gained by so doing. It has been repeated many times that Germany was well prepared for war and eager to demonstrate her military might on the battlefield. Just now we will present a few facts and figures. The chief French authority on military history, General Buat, has shown that on July 1, 1914, before a soldier was called to the colors because of the danger of war that year, the active French army numbered 910,000 with 1,250,000 reservist, while the active German army at this time numbered 870,000 with 1,180,000 reservist. The Russians lacked little of being twice as large as the Germans. The British navy was almost twice as large as the German, while the combined British, Russian and French navies made the German-Austrian combination appear insignificant.

Secret parleys had been going on with the Allied Powers for about two years prior to the great war. They had agreed on how the "goods" were to be divided.

From 1870 to 1912 the powers of Europe pretended to be friendly, and eager for continued peace. Between 1912 and 1914 Russia and France through their agents Izvolski and Poincare, about-faced in order to lay plans of exploitation in a manner as to intimidate the Central Powers which would bring to Russia the Straits and a warm water port on the Black Sea, and to France the lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine.

The Franco-Russian alliance was clever in causing England to become involved. The Russian, Izvolski, started his devilment as early as 1908, Russia was first to call a general mobilization of troops. Because the German troops were more efficient in battle the conviction that Germany was better prepared and more eager to fight should not enter the minds of well informed people. It is true that Germany sent out spies; so did other nations. War creates spies and spy hunters, resulting in serious injustice to many people. A lady here in this country was placed under arrest and sent before a "court of inquiry" for questioning relative to her spy activities. After listening to the court patiently for awhile, she said: "Gentlemen, this reminds me that I am being tried for witchcraft." She went back to work.

War does not only kill, it poisons the mind with "spy phobia" a dangerous mental complex. The learned Miss Mildred Wertheimer made a careful study of the blatant propagandist of Germany who were eager to take South America, and found these men to be scoundrels who did not represent the sentiment of Germany. Now let's review the records of France. Hear Clemenceau, "the French tiger." "In 1870 Napoleon III, in a moment of folly declared war on Germany without even having the excuse of military preparedness. No true Frenchman has ever hesitated to admit that the wrongs of that day were committed by our side."

Dr. Ewart said that "Alsace-Lorraine was the cause of a maze of military combinations and counter-combinations which had perplexed European diplomats for over forty years. . . . Not France only, but all Europe, kept in mind, between 1871 and 1914, with varying intensity, of the prospect—one might say the assumed certainty—of the recurrence of the Franco-Prussian war."

No nation has ever openly admitted guilt after victory or defeat. Many people think of war as being inevitable. War is no more inevitable than witchcraft and slavery. Witchcraft and slavery have passed; so will war. After war is declared the citizens of the nations involved may be allowed to speak against war but they will soon find themselves to be about as popular with a certain element as the fourth of July in London, England.

All great empires were built through fraud and conquest. And the same destructive forces caused their dissolution, with few exceptions.

War is savagery. Psychology of the battlefield is equal to the real history of the Apache Indians. Consider the battle of Waterloo.

The remedy for war, when found, will not have its origin with kings or presidents, but with the common people—about 85% of the citizens of any nation. The remedy will be demanded and placed in the ballot box. I believe the common people know when to fight and when to be peaceable. If I may digress, George Washington did not create the sentiment that drove the English soldiers off our shores! But Washington proved himself to be a master when called on to direct that sentiment!

I have reserved a horrid story of the world war for conclusion. In a special built cell in England lies a soldier who is limbless, deaf, dumb and blind. An explosive mangled his limbs, and the flesh was blown from his face. This poor fellow has no way of measuring time; he does not know his age. He is quite conscious when touched by his attendant. Suicide for this fellow is impossible. No doubt he would welcome painless extinction.

When civilization comes, war will be no more.
Westbrook, Texas.
W. M. TURNER.

BEHOLD THE WOMAN

A certain woman's club held a meeting recently. This was a meeting in which all the husbands were invited to attend and those who had no husbands were requested to bring some old bachelor. The object of the meeting was to discuss old-age pensions.

The meeting started off in a heated discussion and the speakers forgot all about old-age pensions until they called on a man who had his wife along. It all started when the secretary suggested attendance would be swelled if male members would bring their wives to meetings.

A well-known husband explained that the principle speaker could not be present and went on to say: Every man is subject to the wiles of women. Man is weak. Wives must enter into their pleasures and joys, and go with them, even if it is to a night club, else men will succumb to the wiles of other women.

First, make them want to come. For women will help only as they want to help. We think we are the bosses, but we are not. We think we choose our wives, but we do not. They choose us.

By all means bring the women, for women control the world. Another husband gained the floor and said, the speaker is right although I'm not talking about women, just my wife. I've been married more than fifty years (it seems longer) and most of that time I thought I was boss. But now I know I'm not the boss and that I never have been.

I'm a bachelor chimed in another speaker but I agree. It reminds me of a story about a little girl lost in a department store. The floorwalker was trying to find out her name. She said Baby, so he asked her what was her mother's name and she said Mama. What's your father's name and she said Papa. He was desperate, so he asked her what her father did and she said, What Mama tells him to do. Another husband who had been squirming in his seat jumped up in defense of the fair sex and said: Women are not the bosses, they have been enslaved, downtrodden for centuries. Not so many years ago the debate went on as to whether women had souls. For every henpecked husband in the world there are three roosterpecked wives.

Even now women haven't equal rights with men. I would like to see them share legally and socially every privilege. Every major phase of civilization is the product of women. I am not a henpecked husband.

Another husband opened his mouth to speak but was beaten by another who said: But women are still the bosses. The man is the head of the family, but the woman is the neck, and as the neck moves the head is inclined. It is said that God made the fishes and rested, then made the animals and rested, then made man and rested, then made woman, and since then neither God nor man has rested.

Bless their hearts, we can't live with 'em and we can't live without 'em. I don't think women will let either God or man rest until everybody gets an old-age pension.

It is true that all the decency of civilization had its origin in women, but also all bad things on earth have come from women. Poor weak man has been falling for pretty women for 6,000 years and doing wrong.

The writer of this column was asked to speak and I said the husbands here are boasting more than discussing. It reminds me of the toast—"Here's to our wives and sweethearts may they never meet."

I can't talk about women because my wife's here, but I think we ought to get our old-age pension message to the public. So-called newspaper correspondents are bigger lobsters than the men the utilities and other interests send to our Legislature and Congress.

If anybody is interested in knowing more about women: their tastes, their activities, their accomplishments, their looks, their beauty secrets, why they do this and why they do that, just attend one of these club meetings and satisfy a lot of curiosity, even if it doesn't answer the particular question you would like to ask about one particular woman.

THAT DOWN QUILT

During the Christmas holidays this column writer received as a present a Down Quilt. A down quilt is made entirely of goose down about three inches thick and made on the order of a thin mattress and light as a feather.

I have now straightened up the first time in six weeks. The wife said to sleep under a down quilt the first time and dream, that the dream would come true. Well, I tried it out and dreamed that I had died and the funeral was well under way when someone jostled the casket and nearly turned it over. I opened my eyes to see who it was, then the cry went up that he is not dead. The preacher said, "We have gone too far with it to stop now, so will proceed," and they did. I am not sleeping under any more down quilts until they get broke in.

I can understand how the preacher felt about it. He had gone to a great deal of trouble in finding out things for which I could be praised at the funeral. He had made up a sermon and came out in the cold to officiate, so naturally he wanted to get the assignment finished. On the other hand I can appreciate my reluctance to be buried alive. It wasn't customary and I am not one to flout custom. At any rate, it was all a dream. I had a tight time of it while the nightmare lasted, but I can now enjoy the new down quilt.

Good housewives used to accumulate feather beds for dowries to their children. It was a good idea. The material used to think of the children sleeping warm after leaving the old house. It was the same principle that made the old man hope to give his departing son a horse, bride and saddle, his departing daughter a cow and calf. What made the good old times good was the providence of families and the practical application of conservatism to family life.

MULESHOE

Muleshoe, a town upon the plains, says its citizens are not mulish but they write and talk lots about the mule. Our knowledge and observation about the mule is:

Mules like men, never make any headway while they are kicking. It is said the only animal in the world that has hind-sight is the mule, and he kicks about it.

Toby, a 59-year-old mule, owned by a man in Missouri still works daily. He was used in both the Mexican and World wars.

A farmer north of Colorado (some say it is Jim Bodine) has a mule branded U. S. but it was never in the army, and instead of standing for Uncle Sam means Unsafe.

A Mitchell county farmer south of town (some say it is E. Barber) has successfully trained a team of mules to drink gasoline instead of water and says he gets much greater mulepower and several extra miles per gallon since the new habit has been formed.

It is reported a certain Mitchell county farmer has asked his wife to marry a certain other farmer of this county (no names called as a matter of safety first) when he dies, because the suggested future husband once trimmed him in a mule trade.

Mules have lots of experiences. It is said that the first job Mark Twain had as a river pilot was on a boat propelled by a mule on a tread power.

A farmer in North Texas has recently sued a big oil company because a mule belonging to that company wandered into his yard and kicked him in the face.

Ain't nature grand, several thousand years ago it did for the mule what doctors every once in a while have to do for women who come to the hospital, and now 27 different church organizations have endorsed and recommended their operations.

Old Farmer Jones sat on a stool
Plattin' a whip to use on his mule
The mule got wise, backed out the stall
Took careful aim and that was all.

The mule laughed he saw, he saw
As Farmer Jones went by a tree
With naughty squint his northwest eye
He watched the farmer soar on high.

Gov. O'Daniel is the first of our chief executives to be a musician and composer and the singing of the hymn at the inaugural was a unique event. If there is anything in our training, our new governor should have a harmonious administration. It was certainly a big day at Austin. And certainly it proved that the Civil War is over, at last. The nephew of a Federal soldier was elected governor of Texas by a big majority. The more we read about other countries the more pride we have in our own country.

Whatever you are by nature, keep it, never desert your line of talent. Be what nature intended you for, and you will succeed, be anything else, you will be a thousand times worse than nothing.
—Sydney Smith.

The crowning fortune of a man is to be born to some pursuit which finds him in employment and happiness, whether it be to make baskets, or broadswords, or canals, or statutes, or songs.
—Emerson.

Credit is like a sharp knife. When properly used it is a big asset in the hands of the possessor. Improperly used it may become a very dangerous investment that leads to ruin.

That on the 17th day of August, A. D. 1931 Plaintiff was and still is the owner in fee simple of the following described property, situated in the County of Mitchell and the State of Texas, to-wit:

All that certain tract, lot or parcel of land, lying and being situated in the County of Mitchell, and State of Texas, known and described as all that the Half-Acre of the East part of Block No. Twenty-four (24) in Block No. Eight (8), in the Amended Addition to the town of Westbrook, Texas, as designated upon the map or plat of said town, a copy of which being of record in Book 46, Pages 442 and 443, Book Records of Mitchell County, Texas, being more fully described by notes and bounds as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the S.E. corner of Block No. 8, the intersection of Thorne and Fry streets; thence West along the South line of Block No. 8, a distance of One Hundred Fifteen (15) feet; thence North and along with the East line of Block No. 8, a distance of Twenty-five (25) feet to the N.W. corner of this lot; thence East and parallel with the South line of Block No. 8, a distance of One Hundred Fifteen (15) feet; the N.E. corner of this lot; thence South along the East line of Block No. 8 to the place of beginning, the South East corner of the lot herein conveyed.

That on the aforesaid 17th day of August, A. D. 1934, defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected Plaintiff therefrom, and unlawfully withheld from him the possession thereof to the amount of the sum of Eight Hundred & No/100 ($800.00) dollars; that the reasonable annual rental value of said premises be One Hundred Twenty & No/100 ($120.00) dollars; that defendants assert and claim some right in and to the aforesaid property, the legal nature of which claims and interests, if any, being unknown to this plaintiff, but that same is a cloud on plaintiff's title in and to said property, which he is entitled to have removed.

Plaintiff alleges that he and those under whom he holds claim the said property under deed or deeds duly registered and recorded in Deed Records of Mitchell County, Texas, having been in peaceable, able continuous and adverse possession, using and enjoying the same, and paying the taxes thereon for a period of more than five years prior to the filing of this suit, during which time plaintiff and those under whom he holds fee simple title have at great expense put permanent improvements on the aforesaid lot, using the same for business property.

Plaintiff by alternative plea would show the court that he has expended, and that those under whom he holds had expended, a sum for materials and improvements on the aforesaid lot to the approximate amount of Eight Hundred & No/100 ($800.00) dollars; that said improvements have been made and maintained by this plaintiff in good faith; that on account of the aforesaid cloud on his title plaintiff is unable to sell said property to any advantage, and he would ask the court, if the court should find against the claims and title of plaintiff in and to the aforesaid lot and premises, that he be allowed to give judgment in favor of plaintiff, and that the value of said improvements, and that said judgment be allowed against the aforesaid defendants for the said improvements placed and maintained by plaintiff on the aforesaid lot, in good faith.

Wherefore plaintiff prays the court that defendants be cited by publication for the time and in the manner provided by law, and that plaintiff be allowed to appear and answer this petition, and that plaintiff have judgment for the title and possession of the above described lot and premises, and that all claims of defendants be cancelled and held for naught, and that plaintiff's title to said property be quieted, for damages, for costs of suit, and that writ of restitution issue, and this said writ of restitution issue, and that the court give judgment against the defendants for the value of the improvements placed in and to the said lot by plaintiff and those under whom he holds, and for such other and further relief, general and special, in law and in equity, to which he may show himself entitled, as to duty bound he will ever pray.

Honorable J. H. Ballard, Clerk of said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same, GIVEY UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Colorado, Texas, this 16th day of January A. D. 1939.

Just Impressions? Heard often, "Aw, he's just trying to make an impression. I'm not going to do it!" These words are often made as an unfair criticism of the person under discussion. After all, what makes our grades in school? What causes us to hold our present rating with others? What causes us to stand as we do among others? Isn't it the impressions that we have made which cause it? How do others know us, rate us, think of us, if it is not by the impression that we have made? If the impression is really hypocritical, will it be found out without the aid of an unwanted critic broadcasting?

TWO TOURNAMENTS ON CAGE CARD

The Wolves won their first game of the round-robin county tournament from Loraine Monday night at Westbrook by a score of 43-13. Taking an early lead and hitting the basket from every angle the Wolves staged their widest scoring spree this season.

WHO'S WHO ABOUT THE CAMPUS

Mr. Mason's home town is Daincefield. He graduated from high school there and then attended McMurry college in Abilene. He received his Bachelor's degree at McMurry. He did graduate work in Nashville, Tennessee, and at the University of Texas in Austin. He taught in East Texas a few years and in Vernon, Eastland, Woodson, and other towns before coming to Colorado in 1935 to teach in Jr. High. He came to the high school in 1936 to teach English.

Clayton Henderson is the president of the Sophomore class. He did not win this distinction because he has a profile like Clark Gable, because he hasn't. His face is generously sprinkled with freckles and he is tall and slim—which justifies his nick-name, "Slim." There is nothing striking about Slim's appearance, but he is an outstanding personage because of his good personality.

Clayton is a good basketball player. (Ask the Juniors.) He is the kind of player who is interesting to watch. He's always good—smooth and quick; but when his temper is aroused, his cold calculation turns into white heat. This is perhaps stretching a point or two, but he is a temperamental player.

It is rumored that Clayton likes hunting, because he lives in the hills with the jackrabbits and squirrels, but I have no definite proof.

FARMER FACTS

The FFA chapter is now planning and working on the main event of the year, as far as the Future Farmer chapter is concerned; the Father, Mother, and Son banquet.

The chapter conducting team has one more week to practice before the district contest at Roscoe. The team is improving greatly and we think we have a good chance to win the district contest. The boys will meet at least three times this week to practice.

NEW SPORTS

A ping pong singles tournament is being held in the boys and girls Physical Education classes. The winners of the classes meet to determine the two finalists in both the boys' and girls' classes. These two finalists of both boys and girls will play for the Physical Education championship in assembly at a later date.

WIND IN OUR SAIL

The following letter came to The Sage staff last week. It should be of noticeable student interest. Mr. Willis is editor of the magazine, Southwester, a poetry magazine of the southwest published in Dallas.

Dear Mr. Mason, Do you smell that sweet fragrance, I asked a friend who was sitting in my office. Yes I do, was his reply. What in the world is it, he asked. I have smelled it before. I assured my interested guest.

We heard the steady beat of footsteps down the hall of the building; they grow closer, the odor is stronger and more pleasing. Yes—it's the postman. Ah—THE SAGE!! Rowena Autry, it would not be hard to decide that you are inclined to enjoy the great outdoors. Yucca—and Etching are very good. If you are not careful it will not be long before you friends will be saying, "Yes, I knew the writer—when." I think you will enjoy "Reina de la Noche" page 12; Southwester.

Mary McCordie, you take me back to my boy-hood days (many, many years ago), when I used to sit by the fireplace and wonder if I would ever "grow-up". No, you are wrong, my dear, that is a very strange thing; I never did grow up; I like the open fire even more now than I did then; only I don't have the pleasure of enjoying them quite so often. Your poem is lovely and I am sure all who know you are glad to recognize you as a friend.

Come out of that corner, Alice Womack, and stop taking life so seriously. Your poem is very true; entirely too true, but I am afraid there is not much we can do about it. Do you think we could arrive at a little more simple program? Let us say: how is this: Forget yesterday, because it is gone—forever. Live every minute of today the very best you can, for the interest of yourself and fellow man; then—tomorrow will take care of itself. Don't be afraid of life; if you are life will whip you.

Now aren't you ashamed of yourself, Hazel Laster, for making me so "hungry"? You jus' better quit talking about pumpkin pies and things the way you "does." You have a lovely poem, Hazel, but if Mr. Mason has you marked up for detention periods, you tell him to see me about it.

Louis Latham, I know just how you feel; in fact I have felt the same way more times than one. Don't let it all get you down tho, 'cause one of these days you will be glad you know art and languages; besides your poetry may be used very forcefully before long. WHO KNOWS???

Easy now, Bobby Ratliff, I'm surprised at you, calling those seniors "Jitterbugs." There are two things you are not supposed to understand until you get to be a senior. One of them is "why the heck you have to go to school," and the other is the "senior." You did a very nice job in "Woe Is Me," but snap out of it, kid. I think you will live through it.

Mr. Mason, you have many other fine contributions in THE SAGE but I will not have time to pay each of them a personal visit. Your paper is a very welcome and treasured piece of literature and I hope you will honor me with the next issue.

Your pages show evidence of fine talent and the pupils are fortunate indeed to have you for their sponsor. With highest personal regards, I remain

LEARNING/OR LADS AND LADIES

There's a wrong and a right to everything. What would you do if: 1. A boy is introduced to a girl who is seated—should the girl rise or not? 2. Should the boy or the girl walk first down a theater aisle? 3. In ordering in a cafe is it proper for the boy to order first as an example for the girl? 4. When a boy calls a girl for a date is it correct for him to give his name before asking her? 1. Optional. 2. If in a strange theater the boy precedes the girl, but if in the town theater the girl may walk down the aisle first. 3. Yes. 4. In the average case the boy should give his name—however if the boy is a frequent caller it is not necessary.

played Monday at high noon. The Juniors, Burl Ballard, Dookie Cox, Walter Grubbs, Lee Brown, Earl Neal, and Ross Glover played a hard fast game; but the Sophomore team consisting of Johnnie Grubbs, Clayton Henderson, Nat Mann, Clifton Caffey, James Paul Cooper, and Charles Watson, were too much for the tourney originating Juniors. The Freshmen won a dollar prize for having the best class attendance at the game. The Seniors and the Freshmen entangle on Wednesday and the winner will play the Sophomores for the crown. The winner of the inter-class games will play the faculty some time next week. The proceeds of the tournament, which is sponsored by the Juniors are to benefit the annual Junior-Senior banquet.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Prior to this week many, many CHS students have been unmercifully punctured—not by Cupid's perilous arrow—but by the doctor's needle a la horrors. The chief reason was a precautionary measure against smallpox. We are all doing well, thank you, except for perhaps slightly inflamed places on our arms or legs. The general attitude is: "It's worth it, though!"

What HAS happened to the Griffith-Weich affair d' amour? Another blond seemed to be the center of his ardent admiration Saturday night!

IT'S EASY TO HAVE PLENTY OF LIGHT—AND INEXPENSIVE, TOO!

You can enjoy plenty of light in your home at small cost. Bulbs, fixtures and portable lamps are cheaper than ever. Your electric rate is low, and the more electricity you use, the less becomes the unit cost.

FOR EASIER READING

Good light makes it easier to read and less tiring in your eyes. Use at least a 100-watt lamp for reading.

FOR BETTER WORK

Put in higher wattage lamps in the home workshop, in the kitchen and in other rooms where work is done. You'll find that brighter light makes work easier and enables you to work faster. A 150-watt bulb costs only 20c and its brighter light costs only about 1/2 cent more an hour.

FOR REAL RELAXATION

For real relaxation while reading, sit under a Better Sight lamp. You'll find that you can see better and read longer without becoming tired. Good light isn't a luxury—it is one of the smallest items of household expense. A good reading lamp costs only about 1c more an hour.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

M. O. Chapman's feelings are hurt, and the suspicious nature of J. Ralph Lee is to blame. . . . Lee, who is in the hospital convalescing from leg burns received when he fell into a hot water vat at his laundry several weeks ago, received a certain cartoon from an anonymous donor the other day. . . . You probably saw the cartoon in some of the daily papers—the one where the boss is in a hospital bed and his foreman is re-assuring him thusly: "Everything's going fine boss. The boys are having a domino tournament in the boiler room this afternoon." . . . Or something like that. . . . Mr. Lee makes no bones about his suspicions that

Mr. Chapman was the guiding genius behind that cartoon's appearance at his bedside. . . . It has Chapman all upset—he says it does a guy no good to live right and cultivate an open, innocent countenance!

Here's a paragraph about Chester Jones that appeared in Harry Holt's "Chousin' Around" column of the Abilene Reporter-News the other day: "Chester Jones, the mayor of Vincent, Mitchell county, says he is 'really living' since moving to the ranch last September, after having lived in Colorado for a number of years. He installed a wind charger with a set of batteries weighing 2,700 pounds, affording enough power for lights, radio, electric iron, refrigerator, etc. Jones has one of the good ranches of Mitchell county, and he, like all other cattlemen, is feeling prosperous in wake of the high prices."

Faithful readers of this sheet (Voice from the rear: "Are there any?") will recall that we had a story about three years ago on a certain J. H. Ozmun who was stranded here at a West Side filling station several days while making repairs on his vintage-of-1900 automobile. . . . As we recall—we haven't time nor the energy to look the story up—he was then doing a coast-to-coast from east to west. . . . Now he seems to be doing vice versa, but he slipped through Colorado unnoticed by our ought-to-be alert eyes. . . . Maybe he went through too fast, for Saturday morning's Abilene paper told him he "came racing into Abilene from the west . . . having sped the last 16 miles in a flat hour and 15 minutes."

Ozmun claims that his car is the oldest in the United States which still crosses the nation under its own power. . . . It averages 10 mile per hour. . . . Ozmun still claims for it an appraised value of $25,000. . . . It is a museum piece, buggy-like in appearance, motor underneath, rod for a steering wheel, four-foot wheels with thin tires of hard rubber, lanterns for headlights. . . . He was very proud of his vehicle when he was here, we recall, and the Abilene story indicates he still is. . . . Now he's taking it to the New York

World's Fair. . . . Nurturing a flowing mustache of dull red, Ozmun still matches his car, so to speak, and takes pride in so doing. . . . But it develops that he made one concession to the modern mode since his sojourn here—now there's a trailer attached to his prized "buggy-car."

We told you so—"it pays to advertise." . . . The "light red" heifer that Mrs. Mary Davis of Route 2 advertised as lost or strayed in last week's classified column of The Record is back in the home pasture as a result of that ad. . . . Incidentally, Mrs. Davis' daughter, Iola, and this writer had quite a time wording that little ad. . . . At first we tried to call the animal "pale red" but that sounded funny. . . . The only alternative seemed to be "pink," which is what a truly "pale red" cow would probably be. . . . But elephants have a corner on pink in the animal kingdom, so pink was out. . . . At last we had an inspiration—she should be a "light red" cow. . . . Anyway, "pale red," "light red," or just plain "pink," the cow is home again and the Davis family is, we hope, "sold" on advertising.

This double-shift system that the schools are using now brings out various opinions from the mothers, it seems. . . . One woman was heard lamenting the fact that she has one child at home all morning and one at home all afternoon, the result being that she is about to have a "breakdown." . . . But another mother is all pleased because her children are on different shifts and "now they can't fight."

There's small danger of our ever developing into a successful perpetrator of practical jokes, what with the way our small, infrequent attempts always backfire. . . . Take the other day, for example. . . . We came into the office and found that A. E. McClain and a sack of groceries had arrived during our absence. . . . Naturally we thought the groceries were his, and when he walked out without them we decided that he was absent-minded and we hatched the idea of "playing a trick." . . . Very carefully we put the bag of groceries out of sight and waited for Mac to come back so we could put on our act. . . . After a convincing interval of asking, "What bag of groceries?" we were going to suddenly recall something about a hungry-looking fellow who'd wandered in looking for the relief office and "come to think of it, I do believe he was carrying a big paper sack when he went out." . . . But time marched on and no McClain. . . . Lunch time came and all "the boys" went home. . . . One of them was back pronto, though. . . . He gave a look around the office and then said, very self-justified, "I told my wife there weren't any groceries down here. She swore she had some delivered for me to bring up." . . . Imagine our sensations when we had to drag those groceries out of their hiding place and turn them over, with apologies, to the rightful owner! . . . Our idea would be niftier if they'd work—but they never work!

An offer to "swap" a shotgun was run by George Black in a national "swap" column recently. . . . He got one offer of a kodak and a pair of ice skates. . . .

In the "Why Don't They?" column of the February issue of American magazine appeared this squib: "Why don't they equip every emergency brake with a little red light which would remind you that you had forgotten to release it?" . . . The signer is "Anne Blasig, New Braunfels, Texas."

It must have taken thinking to name the nine children of the W. W. Porters. . . . All of them, girls included, follow their father's example and have double identical initials. . . . Those who used to know the C. W. Simpson family will recall that the six girls in that family all had names beginning with "F" while the four boys' names started with "H" . . .
