

AUGUST 24-25 NEW DATES FOR PERMIAN BASIN CELEBRATION

ONE-DAY CHANGE MADE TO ENABLE PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS TO ATTEND GATHERING

In order to make possible the attendance of Congressman George Mahon, Senator Tom Connally, and other national law-makers who are scheduled to be central figures at the gathering, the Permian Basin celebration to which Colorado City will be host in August will be held August 24-25, rather than August 25-26 as announced recently.

Senator Connally is scheduled to be the main speaker. Other speakers will include Congressman Mahon, who is engaged to address the summer graduating class of Texas Technological college at Lubbock on the evening of August 25 and therefore cannot be in Colorado City on that date.

Invitations to all Texas congressmen were mailed out this week by H. B. Spence, manager of the Colorado City chamber of commerce. Leaders in the oil industry have also been invited and a number have accepted. Judge J. C. Hunter of Abilene, president of the West Central Texas Gas and Oil association, is assisting the celebration committee, which is headed by R. J. Wallace, in mapping plans for the meeting.

The celebration will mark the 19th anniversary of the striking of the first oil in paying quantities in West Texas. That strike was made near Westbrook in the summer of 1920. Settling up of permanent organization of oil men, industrialists, and land-owners of the Permian basin will be the main objective of the meeting.

THIRTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM RECALLS BEGINNING OF GAS SERVICE HERE IN THE WINTER OF 1927

Observance of the thirtieth anniversary of the incorporation of the Lone Star Gas company this week reminded Colorado Citizens of the fact that twelve years ago, in the summer of 1927, the Community Natural Gas company, whose mother company is the Lone Star, was perfecting plans to bring Colorado Citizens the long-looked-for-ward-to convenience of natural gas.

Laying of mains to serve Colorado City was begun in the city limits in August, 1927, after the big pipeline had been extended westward from Abilene. Most Colorado Citizens recall the construction headquarters maintained by the gas company in the building which is the present location of Jones & Russell.

Gas for private consumption was first turned into the newly-laid mains in December, 1927, and with that turning a new chapter of Colorado City's history was begun. The coal-scuttle and wood-bog era had passed.

The town has not been without gas service at any time since the gas was first turned into the mains. Thirteen pressure and measuring stations located at strategic points over what is known as the Colorado City district keep constant tab on the service rendered in the district. Any variation in pressure is immediately and automatically signalled in the home of the outside foreman.

FIRST COMPLETED PAVING UNITS TO BE IN USE SOON

BLOCKS ON 10TH AND 8TH STREETS SHOULD BE READY IN WEEK

Traffic will be going over the first completed units in Colorado City's WPA paving program in another week if weather permits, according to information given by J. N. Jordan, supervisor.

Units were being rushed to completion this week as paving crews went back to full-time work after having been pulled off for three weeks to do emergency flood relief work.

Asphalt topping on three blocks on Tenth street and on the two west blocks of the Eighth street paving is to be run within the next few days, Jordan said.

The next unit to be completed will be at the top of the East hill, where excavations were completed Wednesday and where base was to be put down Friday and Saturday.

Base will also be run next week on East Third street, after another foot of excavation has been made there.

Further lowering of West Third street has been found necessary to insure elimination of the drainage problem which has given trouble in the city hall and postoffice block for years, Jordan said. The street, already cut down several feet, is being lowered an additional one to four feet. The street west of the courthouse is being cut down to a level with West Third street.

Arrangements were in charge of Jenks Powell, Pete Ainsworth, H. L. Lockhart, Rance Dockrey, Irwin Terry, A. E. McClain, and A. L. McSpadden.

SPONSOR CONTEST ADDED TO FRONTIER ROUNDUP PROGRAM

ENLARGEMENT OF SEATING CAPACITY FOR RODEO IS APPROVED; ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN MAPPED

Addition of a sponsor contest to the program of the Colorado City Frontier Round-up on September 7, 8, and 9 was voted by directors of the association at a meeting Monday afternoon.

At the same meeting the directors set a budget for advertising purposes and mapped a general advertising program which will be worked out in detail by a special advertising committee.

Plans were also made to build additional seats in both the grandstand and the bleacher sections at the rodeo grounds.

A. E. McClain was authorized to investigate the matter of securing a well-known movie star as an added attraction during the celebration. He will work through the Robb & Rowley Amusement company.

Mrs. Ben Smith was elected hostess for the sponsors, with Pauline Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Jones of the Rendonbrook ranch, as her assistant.

Prizes and other details in connection with the sponsor division are to be worked out by a committee including Sam Wulfjen, I. W. Terry, and H. B. Spence, manager of the chamber of commerce.

A sponsors' dance and a chuckwagon dinner will be two features offered for sponsors. Towns and cities in this section will be invited to send sponsors to the celebration.

OFFICERS GIVE BRIEF BUT HOT CHASE TO NAB ACCUSED HIJACKER

The arrest was made by Dick Hickman, chief of police, and Constable Jack DeLaney less than an hour after the hijacking had been reported to Big Spring authorities. Hickman and DeLaney were driving out west of town in an effort to help apprehend the accused hijacker when he passed them going east at about 85 miles an hour. They

THREE NEW SCURRY WELLS MAKE GOOD PUMPING RECORDS

PAUL C. TEAS NO. 2 THOMPSON TESTS 216 BARRELS

Three new wells in the Sharon Ridge pool of Scurry county chalked up good pumping tests during the past week.

Best of the three was Paul C. Teas No. 2 Thompson, which pumped 216 barrels on a railroad commission test and which was making considerable gas. The well received 212 quarts of nitroglycerin on its second shot. Teas and his family were registered at the Colorado hotel this week.

W. E. Callahan's No. 2 First National bank of Snyder, northwest extension to the pool, pumped 104.19 barrels of 30 gravity oil in 24 hours.

H. C. Wheeler No. 1 Sims pumped 180 barrels in 17 hours after shooting with 690 quarts from 2,300 to 2,475 feet. Wheeler's No. 1 W. H. Sterling was having tool trouble which delayed its testing after a second shot with 230 quarts.

The No. 1 R. O. McClure of J. B. Stoddard, whose partner brother has been registered at the Colorado hotel for more than two weeks, was cleaning out after a shot.

Robinson Bros. No. 1 McClure is drilling past 1,200 feet. Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Robinson and sons, who formerly lived in Miami, Oklahoma, are at home in Mrs. W. W. Coffield & Guthrie's No. 3 First National Bank of Snyder was fishing for tools Wednesday at approximately 2,300 feet.

GENTLE RAIN WELCOME TO FARMERS THURSDAY; TEMPERATURES LOWER

A gentle rain which was apparently falling over most of Mitchell county Thursday morning was welcomed by farmers and ranchmen, although it brought to the farmers visions of possible insect and worm damage along with its benefits. Moisture had reached a total of around .30 inches in Colorado City by Thursday noon.

Lower temperatures which preceded the rain on Wednesday night and accompanied it Thursday morning were also welcomed in the interest of comfort, after the sweltering heat of the week-end.

Estimates on the cost of rebuilding the Highway 101 bridge washed out by the recent Colorado river flood are being made for submission to the state highway commission in the near future.

The bridge, which connects the main part of Colorado City with the south part, lay on the designated and approved route for Highway 101.

REA PROJECT IN COUNTY CONTINUES TO MOVE AHEAD

MEMBERS URGED TO COME TO TAX COLLECTOR'S OFFICE AND EXECUTE EASEMENT AGREEMENTS

The rural electrification project in Mitchell and surrounding counties continues to move with satisfactory progress, according to reports made this week.

Approximately 175 miles have been mapped by the field crew with approximately 550 families on the route. Of this number 300 have paid their membership in the Lone Wolf Cooperative Electric association.

The committee in charge urges all members to go to the tax collector's office and execute easement agreements. The collector's office will do the notary work free. This service applies to all members in Mitchell county or in adjoining counties.

The easement is for the purpose of granting to the R. E. A. the privilege of building and maintaining the line on or across the property of an individual for the purpose of serving that particular farm.

Maps of the area will soon be ready to send away for approval. All persons interested in securing rural electrification service are urged to see the committee in charge at the earliest possible time in order that the preliminary survey might cover as much territory as possible.

COUNTY WOULD GAIN SOME $14,000 YEARLY UNDER TAX REMISSION

According to figures based on Mitchell county's present property valuation and the present ad valorem rate of 35 cents on the $100 valuation, Mitchell county would stand to gain some $14,000 annually under the state tax remission bill enacted during the recent session of the legislature and signed by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel this week.

Bruce Hart, county tax assessor-collector, says that the county tax valuation this year will be approximately $8,000,000. If the state ad valorem rate should remain 35 cents, then the state would refund 17.50 cents on each $100 valuation.

The remission will not become operative until the taxable year 1940, payments of which will begin in October 1, 1940, and continue until early in 1941. The bill as signed this week authorizes the remission for five years in all but a few counties where exceptional conditions exist.

SATURDAY'S HEAT WORST BUT WASN'T THE HOTTEST

The humid heat which had Colorado City drooping Saturday and Saturday night apparently hurt worse than any heat which the town has had this year, but it lacked three degrees of being the hottest of the summer.

A temperature of 104 degrees was registered officially here Saturday. On June 16, a day of hot dry winds, the temperature went to 107.

Saturday's heat was oppressive, the atmosphere being so heavy that it pressed a dust haze low over the horizon and the lights of town. The only breeze was from the north, a direction which West Texans are not prepared to take advantage of in the summer time. The breeze stiffened into a high wind Sunday morning and brought clouds which promised rain for a time but dispersed without fulfilling the promise.

TANK CARS AND BRIDGE SALVAGED BY TP RAILROAD

SIX CARS AND ONE OF THURSDAY AM

Salvaging of eight wrecked tank cars and two 100-foot steel bridge spans which tumbled into the Colorado river during the recent flood will be completed this week by the Texas & Pacific railroad.

Two large wrecking cranes began lifting the tank cars Tuesday. The cranes worked on a spur of track built from the oil mill into the river bed for salvaging purposes. All the tank cars were filled with asphalt and most of them were half-embedded in mud and silt.

Colorado Citizens have gathered at the trestle and in the river banks in large numbers to watch the crews at work. The cars were first lifted from the river bed by the two cranes and deposited beside the tracks while the trucks were lifted from the river and placed on the tracks. Then the cars were lifted again and placed on the trucks and pulled up the track and out of the way.

Six of the cars had been salvaged Thursday morning and the crew of some 35 men was working one of the steel spans out of the bed and onto flat cars. The rain was expected to slow the work down considerably.

Meanwhile core-drilling crews were at work making tests for specifications on the bridge which the railroad will construct at this crossing in the near future. A temporary trestle has been in use since four days after the flood.

RECREATIONAL LAKE FOR COLORADO CITY TAKEN UP BY C OF C

LONG-SOUGHT GOAL SEEMS ALMOST IN SIGHT AS PLANS SUBMITTED FOR CAMP CREEK DAM

Attainment of one of Colorado City's long-sought goals, a recreational lake, seemed almost within sight this week as directors and officers of the Colorado City chamber of commerce studied plans for a proposed dam on Camp creek on the Chas. Thompson ranch seven miles south of town.

According to plans submitted at the regular directors' meeting, the dam would be located approximately 400 yards from where Camp creek flows into the Colorado river. The lake thus formed would be incorporated and operated on a commercial basis, offering boating, fishing, and other forms of recreation heretofore unobtainable in Mitchell county except on a few scattered, privately-owned sites.

Directors authorized Dr. W. S. Rhode, chamber president, to appoint a committee to investigate the possibilities, approximate costs, and other angles and report back to the directors in a called meeting in the near future.

Dr. Rhode later announced appointment of the following committee: Lay Powell, chairman; Dr. R. D. Bridgford, vice-chairman; Hugh Millington, Bob Fee, Dr. Oscar Rhode, Huse Shurtliff, Swede McGill, and J. W. Randle.

Announcement was made Tuesday by A. B. Kyle, head of the government soil conservation office here, that he and his men have secured permission to make a map of the proposed lake site, detailing specifications necessary for an adequate dam and calculating the area to be covered and the amount of water to be impounded by such a dam.

Sixty-three young women enrolled for the YWA houseparty here last week. This meeting resulted in two re-dedications and two volunteers for special service.

The G.A. houseparty in Lamesa drew 147 girls. Attending from here were Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Paul Cooper, Mrs. Chas. Farris, Hazel and Helen Farris, Dorothy and Vanita Cooper, Rev. FSA SERVICE RESULTS IN BUILDING OF SOME 97 FRAME GARDENS

The surprise of the summer in Mitchell county this year is the series of frame gardens built on some 97 farms under the sponsorship of the Extension Service and the Farm Security Administration. Vegetables are flourishing under the thin cloth coverings of the frames while outside gardens are drying up and blowing away.

One of the best examples is on the farm of Lem L. Soles located at Hyman. Lettuce, radishes, greens and carrots are being used from it regularly now and beets will be ready during the next few weeks. As rapidly as the soil is cleared of its present crop, the garden can be replanted, the owner said.

This device for outwitting the weather man has been used by a few progressive farmers throughout the Southwest for many years. Willie E. Lock, Home Management Supervisor for FSA, said.

"One instance is that of a prosperous Panhandle farmer who had two children to die of mysterious causes," she related. "Other members of the family were not well. They went to the Mayo clinic where their trouble was diagnosed as a mineral and vitamin deficiency in the diet. Fresh vegetables instead of medicine were prescribed. In order to raise the vegetables, the mother resorted to a frame garden. Her family became healthy. She now keeps a series of such gardens going the year around."

"Deficiencies in the diet do not always mean a lack of food," the home supervisor explained. "They frequently mean only the lack of the right kind of food. Few farmers in Mitchell county can afford to take their families to the Mayo clinic, but all of them can afford a frame garden to prevent the necessity of such expensive services."

A balanced daily diet of home-grown foods is one of the first objectives of the FSA program, she added.

The Thirty-third annual All Breed Dog show will be held by the Texas Kennel club at the State Fair of Texas on Wednesday and Thursday, October 11th and 12th; it has been announced here by M. C. Jenkins, President of the Texas Kennel Club.

The largest amount of premium money ever put up for Hereford cattle in Texas has been posted for the 1939 Hereford show at the State Fair of Texas. This amounts to more than $10,000, and the American Hereford association is paying one third of all premiums awarded.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY PARTIES COME AND GO IN COLORADO CITY, SANS PUBLICITY; ARTICLE EXPLAINS WORK DONE BY CREWS

"There's a new geophysical survey crew in town" or "Those geophysical survey families have left town"—such bits of news as these go about Colorado City at intervals every year. Usually the news has to get about by word of mouth alone, without newspaper aid. Most newspapers have learned that the survey crews have valid reasons for avoiding publicity and respect those reasons. If the crew is employed by a major oil development company, publicity about the work of the crew in a certain section might cost some responsible employe his job. Besides, most newspapers have long since learned that whatever significance there might be in the presence of a geophysical crew in a certain area usually lies too far in the future to be of any appreciable news value in the present.

Most of the geophysical crews which have come to Colorado City in recent years have included several families, with usually a number of single men. Various downtown locations are used as working headquarters, while the families live at boarding houses and hotels. A crew which included six or eight families and worked with one of the Earnest building offices as headquarters moved out of Colorado City this week for Eldorado and other points. Because geophysical crews are so frequently stationed here, the following Abilene Reporter-News article explaining the work of such crews will probably be of interest:

More than $20,000,000 annually is the bill which the oil industry has been paying in recent years for only one phase of its work of finding new oil fields, according to the Independent Petroleum association of America. That phase is geophysical work. The type of geophysical methods most commonly used is the seismograph. The accompanying drawings show the several units which make up a modern seismograph party's equipment. In communities where oil exploration has not previously been carried on, the first appearance of geophysical parties sometimes creates the impression that oil-finding instruments are being used. This is wrong, of course, as there is no instrument that finds oil. The best that can be done is to locate the places where there is a reasonable chance that oil or gas will be found by drilling.

Normally, oil and gas accumulate in rocks, usually sandstone and limestone, which are arched upward. This is particularly true of reservoirs in water saturated rocks. Being lighter than water, oil and gas naturally rise to the highest points in the underground beds. A true arching of the rocks, sloping away in two or more directions from the crest, is known as an anticline. The opposite of this condition, with the "edges higher than the middle" is called a syncline. Numerous other terms are applied to other forms of rock folding, but the two named are the most common.

It is the anticline, or some variation of it, that is looked for as a place to drill. Sometimes it can be detected on the surface by the position of the exposed rock ledges, much of the area of the United States, however, lacks these surface indications. Furthermore, most of the anticlines that can be plainly seen on the surface have been tested by drilling. Hence, the oil man is coming more and more to rely on other methods of finding out what the structural conditions are below the surface. The method which attracts the most public attention is the seismograph. This instrument has been used for many years to measure earthquakes. During the World War there was some use made of it to map the position of enemy artillery. Soon after the war it was adapted to geological work and is today in use in nearly all the oil producing states and some others, such as Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska, with either negligible or no oil and gas fields. The theory underlying the reflection method work is that an elastic earth wave traveling down at an angle will "bounce" or be reflected back to the surface at the same angle. It is assumed that the underground bed which reflects or "bounces" the wave is persistent over a considerable area. The operators measure the time that elapses from the starting of the wave to its return to the surface and, knowing the angle, they calculate the depth of the rock bed which reflected it.

The waves, or artificial earthquakes, are produced by dynamite. Thus, by firing shots over a considerable area, the depth of this key formation can be determined. Hence it will be revealed in which direction and how steeply it slopes. The seismograph locates the anticlines previously mentioned and, other conditions being favorable, a test well is put down on the structure thus revealed. In some areas, the seismograph has had a high percentage of success in locating structures found by drilling to contain oil and gas. There are several other geophysical methods in rather wide use, such as the torsion balance, the magnetometer and the gravity meter, but the seismograph is the most generally used. It also attracts the most attention, with its greater assemblage of equipment and the drama afforded by the setting up of "earthquakes" by dynamiting.

CHEVROLET SALES UP OVER 10-DAY PERIOD

DETROIT.—A record-breaking first-ten-day sales period—62.1 per cent ahead of the same period last year—was revealed by Chevrolet here recently, when a total of 23,653 new passenger car and truck sales from June 1-10 inclusive was reported by central office. This figure topped every previous first-ten-day period in 1939, reversing the usual trend of automotive sales during June. Sales during the same period last year were 14,592. A gain was shown also over the first 10-day period of last month. Chevrolet truck sales held their strong upward course, the total sales of 4,610 units being 49.6 per cent above the 3,081 retained during the same period last year.

Used car sales, too, showed substantial improvement, both over the first ten days of May, and over the corresponding period in June, 1938. A total of 47,218 used cars were sold during that period, as against 46,663 retained in the first ten days of last month, and 36,394 sold June 1-10 inclusive last year. The gain over last year's corresponding period was 29.7 per cent.

WEED ERADICATION URGED BY STATE HEALTH OFFICER

AUSTIN.—It will not be many weeks until a large number of Texans will be sneezing, wheezing and in other ways evidencing that they are victims of so-called hay fever. Many of these persons, either because of ignorance or carelessness, will endure their affliction, bolstered only by the distant hope of the "fall frost" which will mark the end of their ordeal for this year. On the face of it, these allergies have a rather hard row to hoe. However, for many of them, this situation could be altered most favorably," prophesies the Texas State Health department. "Indeed, science has developed a successful method of combating many forms of this seasonal affliction. For persons who possess this unusual sensitivity to the pollens of certain plants, weeds, grasses, and trees serums have been developed to counteract it. "Before this type of treatment can be effective it is essential that the particular pollen causing the disturbance be discovered. Guesswork plays no part in this investigation. The physician will make simple and painless tests with extracts of pollens that are suspected of causing the trouble. By way of a needle prick a minute portion of each of the pollens under suspicion is placed under the skin. And that extract which generates a slight local reaction points to the offender. Inoculation of that type of serum then is administered. The potency of this treatment depends upon its use prior to the pollen season. Immunity must be established early. Bodily reactions to this type of therapy are slow. In fact several months, involving several treatments at intervals, are required. While this preventive is not effective in all cases, the percentage of successes has been high. It is a fair chance. In some patients, the result while not totally satisfactory, has noticeably reduced the suffering. Also recommended for diminution of suffering is cutting of ragweeds from localities where hay-fever sufferers frequent. Vacant lots are a potent

STARS OVER YOUNG BILL'S FARM REALLY BUILT BIG OBSERVATORY

AUSTIN.—Texas was to boast the world's second largest and most perfect observatory today because seventy years ago a big red-headed youth was developing a great flare for the mysteries of science. The youth was William Johnson McDonald, to become one of his pioneer state's outstanding bankers, was born in Paris, Texas, December 21, 1844, son of one of the pioneer settlers of Lamar county.

His early days, young William spent on the extensive farm of his father with his two younger brothers, where, reports say, his interest in the science of nature was whetted. At the age of 16, he was enrolled in the then flourishing McKeville College, a small school at Clarksville, Texas. The outbreak of the Civil War interrupted the young scholar's interest in the scientific and he joined the Confederate Army as a private. Stationed in East Texas throughout the war, he saw no action, however, and returned to study at McKeville College for graduation in 1867.

A bachelor then and until he died, McDonald made up his mind to a business career which became a steady climb to financial independence and success. He was in succession, a printer, and then a lawyer in Mt. Pleasant. But the money from his first fees brought such good returns as loans, he deserted the bar for finance. There he remained for the rest of his life, founding in 1865 the Citizens Bank of Clarksville, first of his venture's outstanding bankers, which was followed by two more, which had brought him, by his forty-third year, a considerable fortune.

At first a student of the natural sciences in general and botany in particular, his interest shifted gradually toward astronomy. At one time he was said to have poked his remarkable eye into the telescope of a Negro barber that one day would be built a telescope large enough to see the gold-paved streets of the New Jerusalem.

That remark was later brought into court when relatives contested his will which left more than $1,000,000 to The University of Texas for an observatory. The contest was settled with the University receiving $800,000, however. That money, invested, made the fund from which was built a Texas contribution to science and a monument to the wisdom of one of its great pioneers.

TEXAS GOOD WILL TOUR OFFERS TRIP TO FAIR

At last the time has come to take that coveted vacation and perhaps, like a million other Texans, you haven't quite made up your mind when you will go. May we make a timely suggestion? Go to New York and see the great New York World's Fair, join the "Texas Ambassador's Good Will Tour," which leaves Texas August 1. It is a trip that will be pleasant to live over for years to come.

The President of the New York World's Fair has appointed Paul W. Curtis of El Worth to conduct the "Texas Ambassador's Good Will Tour." There will never be another trip to the fair to be compared with the features offered in the Texas Ambassador's Good Will Tour. Twelve days brimful of excitement, scenic wonders, new thrills and unusual places of interest that have been arranged for this party.

The Ambassador and party leave on the internationally famous Sunshine Special, meeting East Texas and South Texas groups enroute, Tuesday afternoon, August 1, in Longview and Texarkana. On the second day there is a short stop in St. Louis. The third day the Ambassador Tour arrives in Washington where special entertainment features have been arranged for the party. The Ambassador will extend an invitation to the people of Washington to visit Texas. A special tour of the White House, Capitol and other government buildings has been arranged. Also, a general sightseeing trip of the city of Washington will be made with guides explaining places of interest. While in Washington a special trip will be made to Mount Vernon and to the Arlington National cemetery, visiting the Custis Lee Mansion, then a drive over George Washington Memorial highway along the banks of the Potomac with a full hour spent in the home of George Washington. And then to New York where special honors will be given the Ambassador party by the New York World's Fair officials.

The next day the party will leave for Queens and Flushing and arrive at the World's Fair grounds to visit the different points of interest. In the evening the party will be entertained in one of New York's leading night clubs with dining and dancing. The sixth day the party will go to the famed Rockefeller church on Riverside Drive. In the evening a tour of the city will be made which will take in the Bowery and Greenwich Village, also Chinatown, and up through Broadway's famed and sparkling theatre district to Harlem, the renowned Negro center.

The seventh and eighth days will be devoted to individual activities with a theatre party on the evening of the eighth day at one of Broadway's hit shows.

The next day the party will leave New York by boat on a trip up the beautiful Hudson river. Dancing will be enjoyed. On the ninth day the party will leave New York for Niagara Falls and Canada. The sightseeing trip here takes the party on a long drive where they may see the falls from both the American and Canadian sides, and go down the gorge on the Canadian side to the Whirlpool Rapids. And then the Ambassador Tour will leave for Texas with a stop over in St. Louis, whence they step aboard the internationally famous Sunshine Special for home.

This is indeed a trip of a lifetime and, considering the very low cost, it presents an opportunity no vacationist can afford to miss. For further information and a folder describing trip in detail, write Ambassador Paul W. Curtis, in care of the Ft. Worth Chamber of Commerce, Worth, or Mrs. B. B. Maupin, Tower Petroleum Building, Dallas, or ask your nearest Texas and Pacific agent.

1939 PIG CROP TO BE LARGEST SINCE 1923

The 1939 pig crop is expected to be the third largest since 1923. The increase in hog production in prospect for 1939 over 1938 is larger than that of any other year on record, according to the June pig crop report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. A 20 per cent larger spring pig crop this year than last is estimated, and the number of sows to farrow in the fall season of 1939 is indicated as 16 per cent larger than the number farrowed in the fall season of 1938. The total number of sows to farrow in 1939—spring and fall is indicated as about 22 per cent larger than in 1938, but the average number of pigs per litter in 1939 will be smaller. Indications are for a total pig crop about 16 per cent larger than the 10-year (1928-37) average and about 4 per cent above the 5-year (1929-33) average. The June pig crop report is based upon information from more than 150,000 farmers obtained in cooperation with the Post Office department through the rural mail carriers.

"The Queen of Queens" Coronation and Pageant will be held as a special feature of Press Day and Chamber of Commerce Managers Day at the 1939 State Fair of Texas. These two celebrations will be held on opening day at the State Fair, October 7th.

33 PAYMENT TO BE MADE ON SCHOOL DEBT

AUSTIN.—State School Superintendent L. A. Woods said last week that $2 of the current $22 apportionment would be paid this month and another $1 in August of the $7 per capita still due. The second payment will be made not later than Aug. 20 in order that all remittances may be banked before the close of the fiscal year and scholastic year Aug. 31. These payments will leave a deficit of $4. Income between Aug. 20 and Sept. 1 will be applied to this year's apportionment and leave the net deficit at an estimated $3.80 a child.

That is the situation that will face the board when it meets here July 24 to make the apportionment. Some members want the 1939-40 apportionment fixed at the new law's maximum of $22.50 in spite of the current deficit of nearly $4, while others would fix it at $22, the present figure. That will be the controversy to be decided at the coming session.

SEVEN WELLS IS MITCHELL COUNTY'S ACE WONDER SPOT, HAVING COLORFUL HISTORY AND MOST UNUSUAL BEAUTY

For unusual beauty, for historical color, and for romantic possibilities and associations, there is no spot in Mitchell county to equal Seven Wells. Located six miles south and slightly east of Colorado City where the North and South Champion creeks unite to become Main Champion and flow on toward Colorado River, this half-mile of carved and carved sandstone earth has belonged to Urda Wulfjen, Mitchell county ranchman, for the past 40 years, ever since the state stopped leasing it to various individuals and decided to sell it. Wulfjen has never attempted to fence it in, however, and has never restricted its use by the general public. There is a fence, but it is

In those days camp meetings were held under brush arbors built on the sandstone each summer. These would last for 10 days, and many Colorado Citizens and others farther removed would drive out and stay with Seven Wells residents for the duration of the meetings. Many cowboys were converted there. One summer the preacher was a woman, a Mrs. Houghton whose husband lived in Midland. She was a Quaker. A three-day meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held there one time, and numerous "reformations" of cowboys and others resulted. Many of the wells, all of which are circular in formation, are nearly one where the gate is always down. In this half-mile square of earth, nature has for ages been on a carving rampage, using sandstone as her material, rushing waters as her tools. The carving goes on unceasingly and will probably continue for ages to come.

Even within the memory of Colorado Citizens now living the carving has worn and changed amazingly. For instance, the present generation is inclined to smilingly discount stories about "buffalo tracks" at the wells. Their discounting is fairly logical because the so-called tracks today are worn, smoothly round and could easily have been created by hard rocks caught in swirling waters.

But reliable old-timers give their solemn word that when they first visited the wells some 60 years ago, these holes were unmistakably buffalo tracks, with hoof imprints showing plainly. The explanation given is that when the buffalo went to water their hoofs wore stepping places which they always followed carefully. Even the skeptical can see the trail-like pattern of today's "hoofs."

One of the markers placed in Mitchell county under the Texas Centennial program was erected at Seven Wells, describing it as "the last watering place of the buffalo."

With water flowing abundantly and unceasingly from far under the earth into many more than the seven wells from which the spot originally got its name, the spot was a precious one to Indians as well as buffalo. Half a century ago, old-timers say, Indian carvings in the sandstone were plainly visible. They are mostly worn away now.

The water of the round sandstone wells and the clear creeks was also precious when cattle herds roamed the open ranges of West Texas. It was still precious when Colorado City was born, and much of the town's early water supply was hauled into town and sold. At one time definite plans were made to pipe the town's water supply from the wells, but this was later abandoned.

In the days of Colorado City's beginning, more than one attempt to establish a pleasure resort at Seven Wells was made. At one time there was quite a little settlement there, including a school, a store, and several homes. Homes were built on lots up and down the forking creeks. Among those maintaining homes there were the A. A. Bailes, Ed Dales, Albert Wulfjens, D. N. Arnetts, L. W. Dellings, Ed Halls, Furmans, Foxes, and others.

Mrs. J. G. Merritt of Colorado City, oldest daughter of the D. N. Arnetts, recalls particularly the beautiful maidenhair fern which used to grow so abundantly up and down the creek banks and around the wells.

that of the waters and the carved sandstone. Seven Wells has always been a favorite spot for moonlight picnics, even back in the days when a six-mile drive via horse and buggy over rutted dirt roads was a matter of hours.

The romance of Seven Wells is past, present, and future. There have been very few Mitchell county courtships in the 60 years of the county's existence that haven't included at least one moonlight picnic at Seven Wells. Moonlight adds rare and fantastic beauty to the majestic sandstone carvings. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of linked names and initials are carved on the rocks. Some of the carvings are so old that they are no longer readable. Others are wearing swiftly away. Still others are new, their edges sharp and distinct. Many belong to people who have been married for years, others to people who married somebody else. Both the living and the dead are represented. Each set of initials could tell a story but it doesn't, unless one just happens to know. They stay as silent and wear away as steadily as the buffalo tracks and the Indian carvings did. The life patterns which they represent change as unceasingly as the sandstone canyon walls and the water-etched patterns of Seven Wells.

GUITARS STILL AWAY

Mrs. J. H. Guitard and children, Don and Sara, were still away from home this week after having been called to Arizona some two or three weeks ago by the sudden death of Mrs. Guitard's sister-in-law, Mrs. Hunt. Friends believe the Guitards may have gone on to California, since they were planning a trip there before receiving word of Mrs. Hunt's death.

RECENT FLOOD DID BETTER JOB THAN STRONG SOUTH WINDS DO IN REMINDING
CITY OF ITS SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

Although there are seasons of south winds when Colorado Citizens cannot forget their sewage disposal plant as completely as they would like to, it took the recent flood to really bring the plant into the limelight of current public attention.

The plant was back in full operation Saturday for the first time since the flood, and once more Colorado City disposal was running into Colorado river and Lone Wolf creek 98% pure in spite of its odor.

Located near where Lone Wolf creek runs into the river, the plant bore the brunt of flood waters from both streams. Water covered it so completely that it stood nearly hip-deep at the most elevated point.

Biggest part of the repair job on the disposal plant was getting the "drying" bed and settling pit back into operating shape. Situated in a deep, wide excavation north of the mechanical portion of the disposal plant, this bed is used to drain the last bit of moisture from the pulpy mass of solids left after the aerating plant has finished with the sewage. It consists of a 30-inch layer of gravel above a network of concrete tile which carries the purified liquid into the creek and river. The dried solid matter which gathers on top of the gravel layer is hauled away by truck at regular intervals.

Mayor J. A. Sadler and his crew of emergency WPA workers put 165 cubic yards of gravel into the drying bed and laid 138 feet of new concrete tile. The work had to be carried on carefully and was slowed down by the fact that the wind was constantly from the south during the working period, blowing the odor of the raw sewage on the men and giving them headaches, since they were unaccustomed to it.

Few Colorado Citizens are familiar with the process of purifying and caring for the town's sewage, Mayor Sadler believes.

The raw sewage flows at the rate of some 1200 gallons per minute into what is known as the "emhawk" tank. This is an open concrete tank within an outer tank, set into a deep circular excavation. The raw sewage flows through the outer circle and into the aerating unit east of the emhawk tank.

In this aerating unit three large upright drums measuring some eight feet in diameter whirl swiftly, churning the water until it is permeated with fresh air. All solids are picked up in the drums and returned to the inner division of the emhawk tank. The water which runs out of the aerating tank and into the river and creek is 98% pure, according to tests given each 30 days by the state health department.

When the wet solid mass in the inner portion of the emhawk tank has stood a sufficient length of time to permit the destruction of as many bacteria as possible through natural processes, a powerful suction valve is turned on and draws the solid mass into the drying bed and settling pit for the removal of all moisture.

The emhawk tank and aerating units of the plant went back into operation eight days after the flood. During the eight days that they were not operating, however, all of Colorado City's sewage was carried off raw by Lone Wolf creek and the river, the sewer main having been cut at the foot of Chestnut street during the flood to prevent sewage from backing up into homes and business houses.

The raw disposal was so heavily chlorinated that few citizens were aware that such a process had been resorted to. Ordinarily such a procedure is illegal, Mayor Sadler says, but the state health department permitted it in this emergency. The flooded streams were already heavily laden with germs, anyway.

"Our little plant does a good job," Mayor Sadler said Saturday, "especially when you consider that its capacity is just half what it should be. It was designed for a town of 1,800 people, and is badly overtaxed to take care of its present load."

Heavy though the damage was at the plant, it would have been much heavier if John Shurtleff, plant manager, and Mayor Sadler and others had not waded flood waters before dawn on June 20 to save all but one of the powerful motors which drive the aerating drums. The motors were carried to Shurtleff's home for safekeeping.

Considering the importance of the disposal plant's operation to the town's welfare, it is perhaps a minor point that the flood waters ruined a vegetable garden near the plant, uprooted young trees, and ravaged the flower beds for which Shurtleff has made the location famous.

The rose bushes in their triangular, chrysanthemum-bordered rock garden, are again beautiful, however, standing nearly shoulder-high and blooming profusely. Nearby Shurtleff is gradually getting another beauty spot back into shape. It is a

WATER FACILITIES DEVELOPMENTS
FOR 34 MITCHELL AND NOLAN FARMS
APPROVED AT END OF FISCAL YEAR

Water facilities plans for 34 Mitchell and Nolan county farms had been approved at the close of the government fiscal year on June 30, according to A. B. Kyle, conservationist with the water facilities office of the soil conservation service at Colorado City.

These approved agreements include the following developments: 18 windmills, 24 windmill towers, 30 storage tanks, 15 storage tank towers, 6 wells to be drilled, 354 feet of well casing, 7,200 feet of pipe, 9,900 feet of garden tile, and 9 stock watering troughs.

Loans for these developments total $7,669, with repayment periods ranging from 5 to 20 years. The loans draw 3 per cent interest and are financed through the Farm Security Administration.

Coupled with the water facilities development program on these farms will be the construction of 80 miles of new terraces and the building up to specifications of 92 miles of existing terraces. Strip cropping will be practiced in combination with all terracing to prevent soil movement by strong winds and to furnish protection for newly constructed terraces. Contour furrows will be constructed on 540 acres of pasture land for moisture conservation.

Farmers living on the watersheds of Champion creeks and Lone Wolf draw are eligible for the program being carried on through the Colorado City office of the soil conservation service.

Kyle urges farmers who need developments on their farms and technical help for soil and water conservation measures to make application to the water facilities office at Colorado City.

IN SPENCE HOME
Mrs. J. J. Spence and Mrs. Wm. Bartholomew of Brownwood spent Friday night with the former's son, H. B. Spence, and Mrs. Spence while enroute home from a trip to California.

RETURN FROM COAST
Mr. and Mrs. Ed Jones, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Jones and son returned last week after a 10-day trip to Houston and other coastal points.

When the wet solid mass in the inner portion of the emhawk tank has stood a sufficient length of time to permit the destruction of as many bacteria as possible through natural processes, a powerful suction valve is turned on and draws the solid mass into the drying bed and settling pit for the removal of all moisture.

The emhawk tank and aerating units of the plant went back into operation eight days after the flood. During the eight days that they were not operating, however, all of Colorado City's sewage was carried off raw by Lone Wolf creek and the river, the sewer main having been cut at the foot of Chestnut street during the flood to prevent sewage from backing up into homes and business houses.

The raw disposal was so heavily chlorinated that few citizens were aware that such a process had been resorted to. Ordinarily such a procedure is illegal, Mayor Sadler says, but the state health department permitted it in this emergency. The flooded streams were already heavily laden with germs, anyway.

"Our little plant does a good job," Mayor Sadler said Saturday, "especially when you consider that its capacity is just half what it should be. It was designed for a town of 1,800 people, and is badly overtaxed to take care of its present load."

Heavy though the damage was at the plant, it would have been much heavier if John Shurtleff, plant manager, and Mayor Sadler and others had not waded flood waters before dawn on June 20 to save all but one of the powerful motors which drive the aerating drums. The motors were carried to Shurtleff's home for safekeeping.

Considering the importance of the disposal plant's operation to the town's welfare, it is perhaps a minor point that the flood waters ruined a vegetable garden near the plant, uprooted young trees, and ravaged the flower beds for which Shurtleff has made the location famous.

The rose bushes in their triangular, chrysanthemum-bordered rock garden, are again beautiful, however, standing nearly shoulder-high and blooming profusely. Nearby Shurtleff is gradually getting another beauty spot back into shape. It is a

LARGE SUM LOANED
LAST FISCAL YEAR
BY FSA IN COUNTY

Low-income farmers of Mitchell, numbering 133, received loans totaling $115,760.16 from the Farm Security Administration during the fiscal year which closed June 30, according to County Supervisor Milton A. Stinson, Acting.

Stinson said that in Texas loans of $7,190,995 had been made for the fiscal year just closed compared to $4,279,952 last year. "The FSA is serving more and more farmers every year," he said, "but rehabilitating our rural population is a big job. We have just made a good start on the solution of the problem."

He explained that farmers who are unable to get adequate financing from any other source are the only ones who may receive loans from FSA. "Loans are made," he stated, "only to those who work out an 'improved farm and home plan', raising as nearly as possible all the family's food and all feed for the farm animals. They must also develop more than one source of cash income."

Personal guidance in good farming practices is furnished by FSA field workers.

The work sought for West Texas would be done in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture's Cotton Ginning and fiber laboratory now existing at Stoneville, Mississippi. The laboratory there was established in 1930 and has done considerable valuable work in the improvement of cotton fiber and ginning methods in areas characterized by damp atmospheric conditions. It was pointed out to Secretary Wallace that an altogether different situation exists in the western cotton area where atmospheric conditions are dry and often result in static electricity, which is a serious handicap in the operation of gins and at the same time is a serious fire hazard. The Texas Extension Service has estimated that gins in the West Texas area lose an average of four days per month during the ginning season from this cause, and also that 59 out of 3,498 gins in Texas burned last year.

The greater benefit from experimentation under such a project would be expected from the improvement in the cotton fiber, thus enabling the individual farmer to benefit directly from the higher price value of better staples. Importance of improved ginning methods was stressed as a necessary part of the cotton improvement campaign sponsored by the Department of Agriculture through one variety cotton communities, etc. The Department has estimated that cotton staple last year was increased 1/32 of an inch, which added approximately three million dollars to the cotton farmers' income through increased staple value. The committee urged Secretary Wallace to give special consideration to the proposed laboratory as a means of bringing greater benefits of the cotton improvement campaign to the farmers of the western cotton area.

Several weeks ago various conferences were held with Department of Agriculture officials by members of the Texas Delegation Committee and the State-Wide Cotton Committee of Texas, including Hon. Burris Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman, and Professor Earl Heard, Head of the Textile Engineering department of Texas Technological college. The meeting with Secretary Wallace Saturday was for the purpose of emphasizing directly to him the need for the project and urging his recommendation of the project in the Department's budget for the next fiscal year.

Representative Mahon, Chairman of the Texas Delegation Committee, explained that no new legislation would be necessary since the Act establishing the Stoneville Laboratory authorized establishment of branch laboratories when their need was evident. He also pointed out that the availability of facilities at Texas

LESLIE HOWARD STARRED IN SHAW'S "PYGMALION"

SEEN ON PALACE SCREEN IN RIB-TICKLING COMEDY OF PHONETICS PROFESSOR WHO TRANSFORMS LONDON GUTTERSNIPE INTO A DUCHESS WITH HILARIOUS RESULTS

"Pygmalion" film adaptation of Bernard Shaw's famous rib-tickling stage farce, comes to the Palace screen Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday with Leslie Howard starred in the role of the phonetics professor who on a bet transforms a London guttersnipe into a duchess with hilarious consequences both for himself and the girl.

Howard comes to his new role fresh from his successful work in "Stand-In" and "It's Love I'm After." The part of the Cockney flower-seller who is made into a lady almost against her will is played by Wendy Hiller who became an overnight sensation as the result of her performance on the London stage in "Love on the Dole." "Pygmalion" introduces her to American audiences for the first time. The picture is unique in respect to being the production which persuaded Bernard Shaw to change his mind regarding the filmization of his stage plays, for four years ago the celebrated playwright vowed he would never again part with the screen rights of any of his dramas.

The man who persuaded Shaw to relent in his attitude against film versions of his plays, after Hollywood had long given up trying, is Gabriel Pascal, producer of "Pygmalion." The direction was in the hands of Anthony Asquith and Leslie Howard, who in this production, made in England, combined his acting talents with that of direction. Featured in prominent supporting roles are Wilfrid Lawson who scored in the Broadway hit, "Libel," and Marie Lohr, one of London's best-known character actresses.

Leslie Howard

The story of "Pygmalion" revolves about Professor Henry Higgins, world-famous expert on phonetics, who is convinced that his method of teaching can turn the most ill-bred, untutored person into a suave sophisticate, and gets an opportunity to prove his point when a Cockney flower girl, Eliza Doolittle, asks him to accept her as a pupil in elocution and deportment. He does so on condition that she obey his orders implicitly, and ultimately passes her off as a duchess at an ambassadorial reception. In the interim, however, Eliza falls in love with her professor, bringing about unexpected and hilarious complications.

The picture was filmed on a lavish scale, with scenes duplicating London's famous Covent Garden, the Thames embankment, street scenes, the brilliant reception and a wide variety of interiors contrasting the luxury and poverty of a big city.

"CALLING DR. KILDARE" COMING TO THE PALACE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Young "Dr. Kildare" goes through another whirlwind adventure, this time solving a murder case in "Calling Dr. Kildare," second of the medical-detective series, playing at the Palace theater, Friday and Saturday with Lew Ayres and Lionel Barrymore.

In the second picture based on Max Brand's stories, Ayres becomes infatuated with Lana Turner, hides a wounded fugitive from the law for her sake, clears him by finding the real murderer, only to discover that by doing so he has lost the girl. The wise old Dr. Gillespie, played by Barrymore, solves his problems in a unique dramatic twist. Harold S. Bucquet directed with deft skill.

Players include Laraine Day as a nurse, a new heart-throb for Kildare, Alma Kruger as the hard-boiled superintendent of nurses in the big hospital in which most of the action is laid, Nat Pendleton and Marie Blake as the comedy team, Bobs Watson as the crippled boy Barrymore heals, Samuel S. # STATE FAIR PLANS HUGE FARM SHOW

DALLAS.—Another gigantic portrayal of Texas Agriculture will be presented during the 51st annual State Fair of Texas, October 7th to 23rd. Featured in this agricultural picture of Texas is chemistry—this new road to cash crops on Texas farms.

Counties showing credible exhibits will again be awarded $125 and there will be no competition between such exhibits. This innovation in the Agriculture Show at the State Fair started in 1933, enabled counties to show these things which brought funds into the farmers hands, or enabled the county to show their main resources to better advantage.

Competition will take its place in individual exhibits, in 4-H Club and Future Farmer exhibits. The main feature of this program will be the Chemurgic exhibits. Officials of the State Fair of Texas, the South Texas State Fair at Beaumont and of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce are cooperating in the building of this exhibit. The chemurgic possibilities of all Texas will be shown.

Last year a total of 64 counties exhibited at the State Fair of Texas. Under the new program it will only be possible to take care of a like number for the 1939 Fair. Arrangements have also been made in the plans to care for an equal number of 4-H clubs, Future Farmers and individual farm exhibits.

The Chemurgic show will be the first ever held for the public in Texas, and those in charge hope to make it a revelation of the possibilities offered in this state for development of farm crops by this means.

STATE FAIR PLANS HUGE FARM SHOW

DALLAS.—Another gigantic portrayal of Texas Agriculture will be presented during the 51st annual State Fair of Texas, October 7th to 23rd. Featured in this agricultural picture of Texas is chemistry—this new road to cash crops on Texas farms.

Counties showing credible exhibits will again be awarded $125 and there will be no competition between such exhibits. This innovation in the Agriculture Show at the State Fair started in 1933, enabled counties to show these things which brought funds into the farmers hands, or enabled the county to show their main resources to better advantage.

Competition will take its place in individual exhibits, in 4-H Club and Future Farmer exhibits. The main feature of this program will be the Chemurgic exhibits. Officials of the State Fair of Texas, the South Texas State Fair at Beaumont and of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce are cooperating in the building of this exhibit. ## JESUS THE PERFECT MAN

There is no other character in history like that of Jesus. As a preacher, as a doer of things, and as a philosopher, no other man had the sweep and the vision of Jesus.

A human analysis of the human actions of Jesus brings to view a rule of life that is amazing in its perfect detail.

The system of ethics Jesus taught during His earthly sojourn 2,000 years ago was true then, has been true in every century since and will be true forever.

Plato was a great thinker and learned in his age, but his teachings did not stand the test of time. In big things and in little things time and human experience have shown that he erred.

Marcus Aurelius touched the reflective mind of the world, but he was as cold and austere as brown marble.

The doctrine of Confucius gave a great nation moral and mental dry rot.

The teachings of Buddha resulted in mental and moral chaos that makes India derelict.

Mohammed offered a system of ethics which was adopted by millions of people. Now their children live in deserts where once there were cities, along dry rivers where once there was moisture, and in the shadows of gray, barren hills where once there was greenness.

Thomas Aquinas was a profound philosopher, but parts of his system have been abandoned.

Francis of Assisi was Christlike in his saintliness, but in some things he was childish.

Thomas a Kempis' Imitation of Christ is a thing of rare beauty and sympathy, but it is, as its name indicates, only an imitation.

Sir Thomas Moore's Utopia is yet a dream that cannot be realized.

Lord Bacon, writing on chemistry and medicine, under the glasses of the man working in a twentieth century laboratory, is puerile.

The world's most learned doctors until a hundred and fifty years ago gave dragon's blood and the ground dried tails of lizards and shells of eggs for certain ailments. The great surgeons a hundred years ago bled a man if he were wounded.

Napoleon had the world at his feet for four years, and when he died the world was going on its way as if he had never lived.

Jesus taught little as to property, because He knew there were things of more importance than property. He measured property and life, the body and soul, at their exact relative value. He taught much as to character, because character is of more importance than dollars.

Other men taught us to develop system of government. Jesus taught us as to perfect the minds of men. Jesus looked to the soul, while other men dwelled on material things.

After the experience of 2,000 years no man can find a flaw in the governmental system as outlined by Jesus.

Czar and kaiser, president and socialist give to its complete merit their admiration.

No man today, no matter whether he follows the doctrine of Mills, Marx or George as to property, can find a false principle in Jesus' theory of property.

In the duty of a man to his fellows no sociologist has ever approximated the perfection of the doctrine laid down by Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount.

Not all the investigation of chemists, not all the discoveries of explorers, not all the experiences of rulers, not all the historical facts that go to make up the sum of human knowledge on this day in 1912 are in contradiction to one word uttered or one principle laid down by Jesus.

The human experiences of 2,000 years show that Jesus never made a mistake. Jesus never uttered a doctrine that was true at the time and then became obsolete.

Jesus spoke the truth; He lived the truth; and truth is eternal.

History has no record of any other man leading a perfect life or doing everything in logical order. Jesus is the only person whose every action and whose every utterance strike a true note in the heart and mind of every man born of a woman. He never said a foolish thing, never did a foolish act and never dissembled.

No poet, no dreamer, no philosopher loved humanity with the love that Jesus bore toward all men.

Who, then, was Jesus?

He could not have been merely a man, for there never was a man who had two consecutive thoughts absolute in truthful perfection.

Jesus must have been what Christendom proclaims Him to be—a divine being—or He could not have been what He was. No mind but an infinite mind could have left behind those things which Jesus gave to the world as a heritage.

This was written for July 4th:

"OLD GLORY"
All for You, "Old Glory,"
Proud Banner of our nation;
Gladly would our lives be given
For your perpetuation.

Reposing safely in a depository in the Library of Congress at Washington, D. C., is the most precious document ever conceived and written by an American people. That document is the original manuscript, faded by years but undaunted in spirit, of THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE adopted by the American Colonies on July 4, 1776, one hundred sixty three years ago, at Philadelphia, Pa. It was signed by President John Hancock of the Continental Congress, and Secretary Charles Thompson. A copy of the Declaration was signed by members of Congress beginning August 2, 1776.

Paragraph Two of the Declaration: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness, what greater amount could a people ask? What smaller amount could a people ask?

God grant that the tenets set down in that glorious old document, and brought to fruition by the shedding of the precious blood of our forefathers, may live on and on in the hearts of generations of Americans yet unborn.

EDITORIAL

The borrowing of money to pay the farmer not to raise a crop and to pay him for what little he is permitted to raise has no tendency for permanent improvement. If there is any one group which should be able to get along without starving and government subsidies it is the farmer. Of course, if everyone else is to receive aid the farmer must receive his share; but it does not lead to permanent improvement. In the great rural or farming sections, it has taken many of the renters off the farms and placed them on relief work projects.

Insisting on each home owner and each institution borrowing money for improvements or for original costs does not lead toward permanent improvement. There is always a pay day. Interest always adds to the principal. It does make the lender of the money practically the dictator. Since the government is guaranteeing the return of all this money, it points toward a financial dictatorship by the Federal Government. Should the condition become sufficiently widespread over the nation then it will become necessary for it to become a personal dictatorship instead of a mere financial one.

Neither will the continued increase of government pay roll by increasing the number employed by the government bring about the desired results. The entire alphabet has been exhausted to name the different commissions and boards which have been created. Each one requires offices, employees not only in Washington but in each state and county in the nation. None of these people is in productive labor except in a limited sense. All are a drain upon the Treasury of the nation and thus a burden upon the pocketbooks of the people.

There isn't an honest citizen who is not interested in this vital question. All can see some of the faults of the present system. Perhaps no one has been able to visualize an adequate remedy. Certainly no claptrap method which snares of the old-time medicine showman will avail. There are some great fundamental principles which will have to be observed if improvement is desired.

Foremost among these is honesty. The price must be paid for mistakes even though it requires suffering. A man has a car wreck which leaves him with a broken leg and a wrecked car. He wants recovery. It can be had. But it takes suffering in the hospital and also in the region of the pocketbook. America has had a moral as well as a financial wreck. She needs moral hospitalization more than she needs an AAA program.

To this must be added work which is productive. Much of the work of the last few years has been to kill the cows and pigs, plow up the wheat, corn and cotton and destroy the over-production in other lines. If the hungry are to be fed and clothed, there must be more produced. If the same argument were used concerning gold and silver which has been used in the agricultural field, America would have dumped its gold and silver in the depths of the sea. Man does not create, he takes from the earth the things which are stored there for use. He may manipulate, change or combine them for various purposes, but he must return to the Creator for the original production.

This production needs to be of the type which is self-sustaining. Ninety-five per cent of the work which is being carried on at present by the government would stop immediately if the government stopped its pay roll. But there are self-sustaining industries: Farming, stockraising and the poultry business are a few of these. If a man is helped to tide over one year in either of these, he should be able to make a go of it the next year without assistance from the outside. At least the people need not starve and they can be taken off the government pay roll.

By reducing government employment to the bare minimum for efficiency, the pay roll can be cut, not thousands, but hundreds of millions of dollars. This contemplates doing away with many of the alphabet agencies as well as reducing the office force in every government building and office.

The above would produce millions of idle people who would have to be transferred to the farm. This would mean that the brakes would have to be taken off of production so that each family could produce enough for its own consumption for one year and perhaps lay up enough in foodstuff to last part of the next year. That is the way it was done when the majority of this nation were children.

This program would no doubt necessitate the subsidizing of each new family on the farm for one year. Let it be definitely understood that state assistance will be cut off completely at the end of that year; that each family must raise and store sufficient food for the next year. Thus after one year, relief work could cease and the nation would be headed toward a permanent recovery.

"MAN IS OF FEW DAYS"

Man is of a few days and full of trouble. He laboreth all the days of his youth to pay for a gasoline chariot, and when at last the task is finished, lo, the thing is junk and he needeth another. He tilleth it diligently, and when the harvest is gathered into the barns, he oweth the landlord eight dollars and forty cents more than the crop is worth. He borroweth money of the lenders to buy pork and molasses and gasoline and the interest eateth up all he hath.

He rearth sons and daughters and educateth them to smoke cigarettes and wear a white collar, and lo, they have soft hands and neither labor in the fields nor anywhere else under the sun. His children are ornery, and one of them becometh a lawyer and another sticketh up a filling station and maketh whoopee with the substance thereof.

He goeth forth in the morning on the road that leadeth to the city, and a jitney smiteth him so that his ribs project through his epidermis. He drinketh a drink of liquor to forget his sorrows and it burneth out the lining from his liver. All the days of his life he findeth no parking place and is tormented by traffic cops and goeth forth until he cometh back. An enemy stealth his car; physicians remove his inner parts and his teeth and his bankroll. His arteries hardeneth in the evening of his life, and when at last he is gathered to his fathers, the neighbors sayeth, "How much did he leave?" And lo, he hath left it all. And his widow rejoiceth in a new coupe and maketh eyes at a young sheik that sticketh his hair and playeth a nifty game of golf.

Woe is man! And from the day of his birth to the time when earth knoweth him no more, he laboreth for bread and eateth the devil. Dust he was in the beginning, and now his name is mud.

Mayor Maury Maverick, and his assistants have promised to clean up San Antonio; to run gamblers and other shady characters out of the city. They have entered upon a difficult undertaking. San Antonio is a city of many crooked streets and crooked characters. Sam Jones, the great Methodist evangelist, held a meeting in San Antonio many years ago, and he said the "only difference between hell and San Antonio was that San Antonio had a river running through it."

It looks like the world powers have about run their course. They are spending millions upon millions of dollars for means and methods to destroy each other, rather than to be helpful to each other.

LONG DISTANCE HEARING
Recently the following testimonial was received by a patent-medicine concern: "For nine years I was totally deaf, and after using your ear salve for only ten days I heard from my brother in Nebraska."

MEDICAL INDEPENDENCE

"How is your brother getting along, Pete? You know, the one who became a doctor?"
"Oh, fine, thanks. Why, he is so prosperous now that he can even afford to tell some of his patients that there is nothing wrong with them."

NECESSARY EVIL

"So you desire to become my son-in-law?"
"No, I don't. But if I marry your daughter, I don't see how I can get out of it."

"Can't the democrats of this town get together?" inquired the political exhorter in Kentucky.
"Get together?" answered the man with adhesive tape on his ear, "why it takes 11 deputy sheriffs to keep 'em apart!"

Housewife: "Look here, my man, why do you always come to my house to beg?"
Tramp: "Doctor's orders, madam."
Housewife: "The doctor's orders?"
Tramp: "He told me that when I found food that agreed with me I should stick to it."

Nevertheless, if half we hear is true, certainly no traveler of desert wastes ever looked for a spot of green more eagerly than the experienced Texas motorist looks for the oval Humble sign! So we call the Humble Service Station a highway oasis, a refreshing stop for both the car which is your modern beast of burden and yourself. . . . Wherever you see the sign of a Humble Service Station, you can stop with the confident expectation of finding a place equipped and manned to keep your car running right and looking good, to speed you on your way. Products for your car—motor fuels, motor oils, lubricants, tires, batteries, accessories—are second to none in quality; and as for yourself—well, stop next time at a Humble Service Station and see. Note the cleanliness of the rest rooms, the abundance of ice water, the cool shade, the grassy lawn, the flowers, the shrubs. And above all, note how the neatly uniformed salesman services your car. You'll discover that he's a friendly fellow who knows his business; he's genuinely anxious to be helpful to you; he's prompt, courteous, efficient. . . . are long-stemmed and bluish-orchid in color, something like a cross between a gentian and a small poppy in appearance. . . . Berry says he has never been able to determine the species, but he calls them Indian wildflowers because he has found them growing frequently on old Indian camping grounds. . . . The ones he had Monday he had gathered from an old Indian camping site up the river. . . . Some years the flowers are scarce, while other years, they are profuse, Berry reports. . . . They grow in moist places only. . . . The Berrys have been successful in growing most other wildflowers but they have never been able to keep these alive in their yard, no matter how much native earth they dug up with the plant and no matter how much moisture they managed to provide. . . . When cut with long stems, the flowers last nearly a month if properly cared for. . . . There is an old tale, Berry says, that the Indians used to paint their faces with the petals of these flowers. . . .

As if reluctant to surrender the limelight which its record rampaging of June 20 brought to shine upon it, the Colorado river has been going on a rise every few days since then. . . . Laying of the pipe line to restore city water service to South Colorado City was held up by not less than four rises, and when it was finally completed Mayor J. A. Sadler and his crew of WPA workers had to work in muddy water waist deep to get the job done. . . . The new main swings several feet west of the former route so as to insure its being out of the way when the river bridge is replaced. . . . The water main which the flood destroyed was enclosed in a wooden case beneath the bridge. . . . There's a new way of designating time in Colorado City, incidentally, since the river's big performance—any given event, either happened "before the flood" or "after the flood."

Some impressive signatures were collected by the Promising Oil company in regard to the annual barbecue and what-have-you which the company held, stag style, at the Rensselaer ranch Sunday. . . . Two railroad commissioners, Lon Smith and E. O. Thompson, sent regretful letters over their inability to be on hand. . . . Signature of the third commissioner, Jerry Sadler, is missing only because he wired his regrets. . . . These "regrets," along with those of Ex-Governor James V. And, speaking of the Round-up, let's not forget that the reason last year's celebration was such a gratifying and enjoyable success was that EVERYBODY got behind it and worked to make it that way. . . . SMATTERINGS: Sam Arnett, who was a Colorado Citian long ago and who is now president of the Citizens National bank at Lubbock, has been elected president of the Panhandle South Plains Fair association. . . . Wyliene Thompson, who taught at Dorn last year and who has been reelected for the coming year, was pictured in a Fort Worth Star-Telegram late last week as Miss Stephenville for the Mineral Wells Texas Health Festival this week-end. . . . An out-of-town woman, stopping over here Friday night after a trip to California, went into ecstasies over our Ruedick park amphitheater, even with California's famous beauties fresh in her mind. . . .

Biggest show in town this week has been down at the railroad bridge, where giant cranes have been salvaging the wreckage of the flood-tumbled bridge and tank cars. . . . You were likely to find most anybody, at one time or another, standing in the shade of the trestle or along the river banks to watch the cranes at work. . . . There is something fascinating about the scope of railroad work and the way railroadmen work, giving their unobtrusive yet always significant signals, going in and out of danger spots without hesitation (at least, they looked like danger spots to us). . . . Even the tank cars had acquired a certain something by virtue of having been tumbled into the deep, dark flood waters. . . . In addition to acquiring a sunburn and the squint-eye, this writer thoroughly embarrassed herself by nearly jumping into the river when one of the cranes let off steam unexpectedly. . . . Always the calm and collected one, that's me!

We are told that the medicine show which has been playing on West Second street recently is in charge of Roy E. Fox, the same man whose name in other years headlined the tent show business in West Texas. . . . Folks who have lived hereabouts for a quarter century or more recall that Fox got his start in the medicine show business. . . . His little shows used to play at a stand near the passenger depot. . . . Later he advanced to the tent show business. . . . Harley Sadler got his start in Fox's show, then went out on his own, and a few years ago Fox and his family were working for Harley

APPORTIONMENT OF $22.50 WOULD BENEFIT SCHOOLS BY $1,635

If the state per capita apportionment is increased to $22.50 for the 1939-40 school year it would mean $1,635 to Mitchell county schools, according to Roy Davis Coles, county superintendent. . . . Mitchell county's scholastic census has been approved by the state department of education at a total of 2,270. The apportionment would be 50 cents higher than it was last year. . . . This year's $22 allotment lacks $7 being paid. The end of the fiscal school year is August 31.

BROKEN PIPE FLOODS BASEMENT OF BANK

Break in a water pipe some time Friday night put water eight inches deep in the basement of the City National bank by Saturday morning. . . . The fire truck and a hand pump were employed to empty the basement, while plumbers worked through the night and into Saturday morning to repair the break, which was on the bank's side of the city water meter. No great damage was done by the water, according to bank officials.

LACEYS ON VACATION
Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Lacey and children, accompanied by Mr. Lacey's sister from Austin, are vacationing in Colorado this week.

GO TO CANYON
Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Foster and Maedell left Tuesday morning to spend a few days with Mr. Foster's people in Canyon.

Both Need Safe Food
Both Need to Save Money
Both Need Ice, Ice Cream

BOTH GET IT ALL FROM

Says MRS. R. L. MILSTEAD, RT. 3, HAMLIN, TEXAS:

"Would not sell our Servel Electrolux for twice what we paid for it, if we could not get another. We milk several cows, and live 12 miles from town. We don't have to carry our cream off but once a week, and always get the top price. It costs us only 35 cents a week to operate; and gives us all the ice cubes a family of four can use. I make ice cream most every day. With it we can have fresh meat as often as we like; also fresh vegetables are better after being in the Servel Electrolux a day or so, than when purchased. It is the greatest blessing that ever came on to a farm or ranch."

The kerosene Servel Electrolux requires no water; no electricity. It is fully automatic, requires little attention; just fill the kerosene tank weekly. And it is the same in every important detail as the famous gas Servel Electrolux giving health and pleasure in one million city homes.

Says MRS. L. E. PYEATT, OLNEY, TEXAS:

"I have had my Servel Electrolux for 6 years. I have a large family, and company is always coming in; but I am never without plenty of ice for drinks, and plenty of fresh meats and vegetables, because they can be kept fresh and wholesome so much longer in the Servel Electrolux. I buy my groceries on week-end specials for the next week, and have certainly cut down my grocery bill. And all this for so little cost we can hardly notice the difference on our gas bill. It does not cost a bit more to run today than when new—in fact it is as good today as the day I bought it."

No moving parts in its freezing system means nothing to wear. Nothing to cause noise and costly repairs—and operating cost stays low. You're paying for Servel Electrolux—why not own one?
