Sale Of Cheese Plant Stock Here Is 'Encouraging'

Sale Of Nearly $2,000 Worth Of Preferred Stock Reported

Business and professional men of Colorado City have responded liberally to the sale of preferred stock in the Loraine Cooperative association, according to J. W. King, secretary of the association, who was a visitor here Wednesday.

"We do appreciate the response which Colorado City people have made to our efforts in selling preferred stock," King said.

Sale of preferred stock in Colorado City and vicinity was endorsed last week by the Colorado City chamber of commerce.

About $1,900 worth of preferred stock has already been sold, King reports. Only $3,000 worth can be sold.

King explains that the association has 245 farmers throughout Mitchell, Scurry and Nolan counties who have subscribed for stock in the association in order to sell their milk to the cheese plant. It is a farmers cooperative organization and each producer must purchase a minimum of 25 shares of stock in the association before he can sell his milk to the plant.

Milk is to be picked up all over the county by a regular truck service, officials of the association explained last week to the local chamber of commerce, and checks are to be delivered from the truck on its regular run or mailed.

There Must Be A Bridge---

There really should be no doubt about the outcome of next Thursday's city bond election. After all, there must be a bridge of some kind to span the river to South Colorado City and southern Mitchell county. This cannot be denied by the most "economy" minded tax-payer.

In agreeing to construct an $85,000 bridge to replace one swept away by flood waters last June, the highway department has required the city and county to furnish $30,000 on the cost. Colorado City's portion is $7,500—the amount of city bonds to be voted on next Thursday.

If these bonds should not be voted and if the highway department should subsequently withdraw from the picture, then it would be up to Colorado City to build some kind of crossing to connect it with South Colorado City. Any kind of crossing that would begin to serve would cost nearly the amount of the bonds.

and would cost far more in the long run. The state highway department is offering to give Colorado City both the bridge and the long-promised underpass at the foot of Chestnut street if the town and county will "play ball."

The underpass will not be built unless the bridge is built—that's what is being said by men who know the situation. They also say that Colorado City and Mitchell county are extremely lucky to have gotten any part of the bridge cost assumed by the highway department. Frankly, the highway department would just as soon build Highway 101 over some other route—one which would miss Colorado City all together.

Another thing property owners should remember, too, when they go to the polls Thursday—$1,500,000 of the proposed underpass-bridge project will be entirely within the city limits. But the main thing is—there must be a bridge.

FSA Blocks War Speculation In More Cash Crops

The Farm Security Administration will discourage its farmers in Mitchell county from speculative expansion of cash crop enterprises because of the European war, county supervisor Milton A. Stinson said today.

"Every effort will be made, in cooperation with other representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to retain the gains which have been made during the past few years in sound land use practices," he stated, reminding that uncontrolled speculation and expansion in agriculture during the last war resulted in many of our current agricultural evils.

The supervisor said he had been advised from Washington that there would be no change in present policies of FSA until further developments justify. "However, if the time ever comes when our country needs to increase its food and feed production, FSA is ready to go into immediate action," he said. "We have the machinery already set up."

"The Farm Security Administration's system of rural credit is based on a plan which is as sound in times of emergency as in normal times," he continued. "FSA loans are made on the basis of improved farm and home management plans, which include diversified farming and provide a job for every member of the family every day in the year. This is accomplished by the farm family's growing as nearly as possible all their food, all their livestock feed, and by having more than one substantial source of cash income."

Agriculture, Livestock To Share Fair Spotlight

ABILENE—Agriculture and livestock shows will share interest with recognition for pioneer days among the top attractions at the annual West Texas Fair, Jack Simmons, Fair president, said recently.

Livestock will take the spotlight daily during the West Texas exposition, October 2-7.

A sheep and goat show, an innovation, on October 2, the opening day, will have a special Karakul division. Perhaps 200 entries in all are expected. Knox Parr, livestock superintendent, said.

The annual Hereford show, with more than 100 head to be shown in a new building, will be held on Tuesday, October 3. Entry lists will exceed those of 1938. Ernest Grissom, President of the Taylor County Hereford Breeders and Feeders Association, and Hereford show superintendent, said. The association will hold its annual meeting and banquet, for all West-Texas Hereford enthusiasts, that night.

The All-Palomino Horse show, to be held on Thursday, October 5, will be the first of its kind in America, with more than 200 entries. H. B. Cox, San Angelo, President of the Texas Association for Palomino horses, sponsoring it, said. Entries have been received from states as far distant as California.

The dairy show on Wednesday of fair week, with the horse and mule show on Friday, along with 4-H and

ADVICE IS GIVEN ON TREATMENT OF COLDS

AUSTIN.—Loss of hundreds of school days during the approaching school year could doubtless be saved with some advance home teaching in connection with prevention of colds and other respiratory infections, according to the Texas State Department of Health.

A considerable reduction would result in school time lost if parents would instruct children regarding proper use of the handkerchief. School children should be taught to cover the mouth and nose when coughing and sneezing. Both channels must be covered to prevent spread of infectious material.

The common cold virus is conveyed in secretions of the mouth and nose of infected persons. Colds are the most common of the infectious diseases, outnumbering any of the other communicable diseases about twenty-five times, according to some estimates. Other diseases spread by respiratory discharges are influenza, scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles, whooping cough, smallpox, and meningitis.

The State Department of Health advises that school children go to bed at the first sign of a cold and stay there until at least twenty-four hours after the temperature is normal if there has been fever. At school, children who have recently had a cold should avoid conversing with others at close range, and should take care to use a handkerchief whenever they cough or sneeze. Because of the complications of the common cold, it is a disease of major importance; among possible complications are sinus infection, middle ear and mastoid infection, throat infection, bronchitis, and pneumonia.

Traffic Safety Being Taught In Colleges

AUSTIN.—In the past three years Texas has been awakened to the huge social and economic losses growing out of the failure of motor vehicle operators and pedestrians to accord to motorized transportation the respect to which it was entitled from the beginning. And now, at last, the schools of Texas are showing promise of repairing their educational facilities to the problem of safety. How they are meeting the increasing demands for safety education is explained in an article on "Safety Goes to College" by Charles E. Simons in the September issue of Texas Parade.

"It has taken the leaders in the scholastic field several years to come to a full appreciation of the safety problem," writes M. Simons, "and to inaugurate measures which, in time, are certain to be a potent factor in reducing the needless slaughter on our streets and highways. This might be construed as an indictment against leaders in the field of education. It is—but the scholastic leaders are no more vulnerable in this respect than other official agencies charged with the protection of life and property. Not only the schools, but official units and the public generally, too long have assumed a nonchalant attitude concerning traffic safety.

"It is encouraging to safety leaders to note that during the past summer, teacher training in traffic safety has been offered at the leading institutions of higher education. This is a major step along the path to traffic safety. The efforts of the colleges to provide teachers with instruction in traffic safety, particularly in the safety of motor vehicle operation, should command the support of the entire public. To be sure, the schools for years have told the school children to look before you cross the street; never run from behind a parked car; be sure you have plenty of time before you leave the curb and scores of other admonitions. They have organized safety patrols manned by school boys and these have done a wonderful work in decreasing the number of school children killed and injured. But the schools have been somewhat lax in carrying on safety education in the broad sense. We spend thousands of dollars on these children educating them to take a place in the world and ignore the need for educating them in the most common of the dangers and pitfalls they must encounter in their everyday lives in getting about to make a living. We have for so long accepted the motor vehicles as an incidental to our modern way of living that we have lost sight of the fact that driving a vehicle is the most common operation performed by the average citizen. Our schools have failed to lay sufficient emphasis on this phase of life, and to take corrective action.

"There is no reason why Johnny Jones should not be instructed as thoroughly in the fundamentals of motor vehicle operation as he is instructed in the art of making a cedar chest in the school shops. In the good old days, the younger generation 'picked up' the art or technique of driving. The problem of driving in 1939 is far different from the problems that were presented in 1919. There were far fewer vehicles; these vehicles were far less powerful and traveled at a snail's pace as compared to the average speed of today's fast and vastly multiplied traffic.

"Because of the fact that virtually all children of school age actually attend school, our system of public education is given an unusual opportunity to make important contributions to society by grounding pupils in traffic laws and motor vehicle operation. Comprehensive instruction in the mechanics and use of motor vehicles, the social and economic benefits that can flow from proper usage of vehicles, the misery, the suffering and economic loss that can result from their improper use should be a part of every child's education. If the schools undertook such a program at this time, in the course of 10 years we would have on our highways thousands and thousands of drivers who would contribute immeasurably to traffic safety. Having had the benefit of sound education in safety, these drivers would be big assets in the move to make all safety conscious.

"The foundation for such courses is being laid by many colleges and universities through their teacher training courses in safety. The personnel for such courses is being supplied by the institutions of higher education. It is up to the local school administrative authorities to take action now and provide the necessary courses and equipment for these teachers to begin to teach safety to the school children. The chief equipment needed would be one or more automobiles for use as student demonstrators and training cars. We believe the automobile manufacturers would be more than glad to co-operate by furnishing the schools which established adequate safety programs with student training vehicles at no cost whatever or at a nominal cost. The increase in the overall cost of school operation would not be too heavy for most of our school systems to carry. The economic benefits that would be derived would more than offset this small expense.

"Teacher training courses in traffic safety were offered during the past summer at Texas Technological College, East Texas State Teachers College, North Texas State Teachers College, Southern Methodist University and Southwest Texas State Teachers College. Approximately 270 students enrolled in the courses. This is a rather small number when one considers the thousands of school teachers in Texas and the thousands of schools in which they teach. But it is the beginning which, with attention, can be made to grow to more worthwhile proportions. Texas Tech was one of the pioneers in the field of teacher training for safety and offered the course for the third consecutive year. The course was offered for the first time in other schools. From reports, it would appear, these courses were offered more as an afterthought than anything else. So enthusiastic was the response, however, on the part of the students and so important is this work regarded by the heads of these institutions that plans are being made to give more attention to these courses next year so that enrollment can be expanded several times.

West Texas Fair Boosters To Parade Here Tuesday Morning

Goodwill boosters for the annual West Texas Fair, to be held in Abilene, October 27, a motor caravan of trippers will parade here in Colorado City next Tuesday, September 26, at 9:25 o'clock.

The visit here will be made on an all-day tour, to cities and towns South of Abilene. Four such goodwill trips, one in each direction, are planned to boost the 51st annual edition of the West Texas Fair, gala yearly exposition. They are set on successive days next week.

A quota of sixty-two enlistments has been assigned to the United States Marine Corps recruiting district of Dallas, headquarters for Texas and Oklahoma. Postmaster Joe Y. Fraser said this week, according to information received from Captain J. D. O'Leary, officer in charge.

The new recruits will be selected from applications now on file and on passing their final examination will be enlisted and immediately transferred to the Marine Corps Base, San Diego, California, for training, the postmaster said.

Young men of good moral character who have had high school training and are between the ages of 18 and 30 are eligible to make application. Applicants applying for enlistment now will be placed on a waiting list or be called for final examination and enlistment during the early part of October, he said.

Although there will be sixty-four separate county farm displays at the State Fair no two will be alike. New ideas in displays will put each county's idea over in a different way. Every Texas product grown in commercial quantities will be on display.

Big Show Restyled To Astound Crowds

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus Air Conditioned and Abreast of Times With Mighty Features

The Big Show—Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey—moving on four long railroad trains and carrying 1600 people, 50 elephants, 1009 menagerie animals, hundreds of horses and Gargantua the Great, world's largest and most ferocious captive gorilla, now displayed for close-up views in the menagerie, will exhibit in Big Spring Monday, Sept. 25th, with its huge big top air conditioned and restyled in rainbow hues.

Performances will be given at 2:15 and 8:15 p.m., the doors opening at 1 and 7 p.m. Twenty-two air conditioning units, installed at intervals around the circumference of the world's largest tent, make it comfortable for the thousands who attend the big show. Drapes and gold tassels, gold and silver poles make the interior something new under the circus sun.

The new inaugural spectacle, produced by Charles Le Maire, former designer for the Ziegfeld Follies, is a streamlined pageant of almost unbelievable splendor. It is titled: "The World Comes to the World's Fair," and 2000 people and animals take part in its enactment.

Terrell Jacobs, renowned trainer, presents the largest group of performing wild animals ever assembled in America—50 lions and tigers in an amazing display.

Dorothy Herbert, madcap rider of rearing and fire hurdling horses, back from European triumphs, heads a number with 70 girl riders on 70 Kentucky high school horses, all four-year-olds.

Under a blue big top ceiling, lighted as is a big New York musical show, the displays of The Greatest Show on Earth surpass all the massed attractions of former years.

There is a heavier contingent of stellar European features with the circus than ever before, for John Ringling North, its president, scoured the Continent with an open purse last winter. The more important newly imported attractions are: The Great Arturo, breath-taking dare-devil and comic of the high wire; the Plades, sensational leapers over elephants and camels; the Zerbins, the Ortans and Paludis, Europe's greatest teterboard somersaulting acrobats; Albert Powell, contortionist star of the flying trapeze; the Aicardis, jugglers de luxe; the Iwanows, thrillers on the aerial bars; Hubert Castle, England's wonder comic of the tight wire; the famous European clown Albertino, and Lulu, most famous of woman clowns.

The horse numbers of the show are extraordinarily appealing, with William Hever and Tamara Hever featured in new and sensational numbers. Tex Elmhardt again stars with new liberty horse acts.

The world famous Riding Christian, bareback thrillers, with Lucio and Belmonte starring; the two Flying Concello troupes and the Flying Comets, with Antoinette Concello, only girl triple somersaulters; the Walkmers, aerial perch marvels; the Torrence Dolores, flying perch performers; the Pallenbergs and their performing bears; the Rooneys, stellar double trapeze artists—these are some of the other outstanding features.

A great new horse fair tent adjoining the mammoth menagerie is open to patrons before the main performances commence.

415 One-Variety Cotton Associations

COLLEGE STATION.—There are 415 one-variety cotton community associations in operation in Texas during the current season, almost double the 1938 total. There were 62 such organizations in 1937 and 213 in 1938.

Cee Vee is the only one-variety community in Cottle county. Involved in the 415 associations are 27,066 farmers and 397,358 acres. Thus almost 11 per cent of the estimated 8,980,000 Texas cotton acres is included in the one-variety blocks. These figures do not include a number of large plantations and cotton breeding blocks planted to cotton of quality varieties, according to the announcement made by E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service. Such blocks will bring the total acreage well over the 1,250,000 mark.

Twelve counties are organized on a county-wide basis. This, the agronomist believes, is the next step in the one-variety movement. He expects to see regional one-variety blocks in operation within the next few years.

Most of the cotton improvement associations are pooling their cotton in even running lots and holding sales days where the lint is bought on the basis of quality. Uniformity and inch or better staple are bringing handsome increases in prices.

It's got to be good to be advertised.

Wolves Fail To Click Or To Score In Season's Opener With Stanton Buffaloes

Clicking and scoring were both out of the picture when the Colorado City Wolves made their first 1939 appearance Friday night with the Stanton Buffaloes on Cantrill field. The game was non-conference.

Although the Wolves penetrated nearly to the Stanton goal line several times, and although the greater portion of the game was played in Stanton territory, the end of the game found Stanton with only one less first down than Colorado City. Colorado City had 11 first downs, Stanton 10.

Wolf fans took what encouragement they could from the passing ability shown by Jack Smith late in the fourth quarter, when he put the ball near Stanton's line twice with long tosses, one of them completed to Ballard for 35 yards, the other completed to Wood for 20 yards. But the team was never able to follow up the advantages gained by the passing.

The Wolves carried the ball all during the first quarter but lost it on downs early in the second quarter when they were in "goal to go" distance of the Buffalo line. The Buffaloes pushed down the field for five first downs. Sprawls, their 170-pound halfback, began to show up as a threat and remained so during the rest of the game.

Second half of the game was uneventful except for the spurts of interest occasioned by Sprawls' ploughing and running for the Buffaloes and Smith's passing for the Wolves.

Starting lineups were:
Wolves—Junior Cox and Horace Wood, ends; Paul Boyd Hunter and Clifton Caffey, tackles; Murrell Blasingame and Sam Majors, Jr., guards; Sam Coker, center; Burl Ballard, quarter; Jack Smith, full;

Jack McCorkle and Ross Glover, halves.
Stanton: Wobby and Purser, ends; Howell White and Lloyd White, tackles; Clinton and Wilson, guards; Crow, center; Chandler, Sprawls, Hay and McIlvain, backs.
Substitutions were Bodzin and Grubs for the Wolves, Spinks, Thomson, and Blackford for Stanton.

Mahons Return To Washington For Special Session

Congressman Predicts Success For 'Cash And Carry' Policy

Their stay in Texas cut short by the special session of congress which convened Thursday (today), Congressman and Mrs. George Mahon and daughter, Daphne, left for Washington, D.C., early Monday.

Before leaving Mr. Mahon predicted that the cash and carry neutrality policy advocated by President Roosevelt will be enacted into law during the session, which is a result of the war in Europe.

The Mahons spent Sunday here with friends and relatives, coming from Lubbock where the congressman had opened his district office two weeks earlier. The office was closed Monday, although Mr. Mahon's secretary, Lloyd Croslin, remained in Lubbock this week to attend to business matters.

Mr. and Mrs. Croslin are due to arrive the latter part of this week for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Jones, at the Rendon-ranch.

In speaking of the neutrality policy Mr. Mahon said: "I voted for the cash and carry provision last session and I expect to do so again." Mahon explained that it is not possible to tell in advance how long the special session would last. It might possibly last until late in the fall, he said. The regular session of Congress will convene on January 3, 1940.

Geo. Otis Witten, assistant secretary to Mr. Mahon, left Monday morning to open the Washington office. Witten will act as Mr. Mahon's secretary until such time as Croslin shall arrive in Washington.

Westbrook Wildcats, Having Played Well Against Forsan, Will Meet Garner Friday

Showing made by Bill Fletcher's Westbrook Wildcats in their season opener with the Forsan six-man football team at Forsan Friday afternoon has quickened Mitchell county interest in six-man football to the point where a big turnout is expected for the Garner-Westbrook game at Westbrook Friday afternoon.

Grantlands Returns From Expense-Paid World's Fair Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Grantland returned Friday night from a two-weeks expense-paid trip to the San Francisco World's fair and the 1939 Field Clubs convention of the West Coast Life insurance company. Grantland, district West Coast representative, was one of five Texans with a sales record sufficiently high to receive the trip. He also had enough sales to qualify for Mrs. Grantland.

The convention was held Sept. 8-11 in the Palace hotel at San Francisco. Grantland was on the Monday program for a 15-minute discussion of "Hit the Mark With Direct Mail." The program was carried on a radio broadcast.

Mr. and Mrs. Grantland made the trip by car, visiting Grand Canyon, Boulder dam, and other points. Their sons stayed here, James with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Grantland and Vaughan with Mrs. Raymond Gary.

Beulah Robinson Is 'Experienced' Class President

When Beulah Frances Robinson finishes Colorado City high school next spring, she can rightfully claim an "experienced" rating on at least one score—that of being a class president.

Miss Robinson, who lives with her aunt, Mrs. J. B. Pritchett, has been elected president of the Colorado City senior class, marking the third time she has served the class in that capacity since it entered high school. She was president during the freshman and sophomore years.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Burl Ballard; secretary-treasurer, Harvey Cook; yell leaders, Cora Mae Bodine and Jean Morrison. Sponsors are Juan Mason, who has been with the class since it was in the seventh grade; Lenora Cook and Newby Pratt. Lea Swope is honorary sponsor.

Red Cross Authorized To Take War Donations

Local officials of the American Red Cross have been authorized to receive, but not to solicit, donations which the public may wish to make for aid to countries now at war.

Those making donations can specify the country whose Red Cross work they wish to help, according to Dr. W. B. May, Mitchell county Red Cross chairman. The Red Cross simply acts as a receiving agent and sees that donations reach the Red Cross organization working in the country specified, he points out.

Wolves Undergo Hard Training For Game With Steers

Second Game Of Season To Be Played At Big Spring Friday Night

A week of training concentrated on weaknesses revealed in their opening game with Stanton last Friday will be behind the Colorado City Wolves as they go to Big Spring Friday night to play the Steers in a non-conference game.

The Wolves have been undergoing intensive work-outs this week under Coach Jack Christian and Assistant Coach Newby Pratt. The Stanton-Colorado City game was scoreless.

Last year the Wolves' wrestled a thrilling and unexpected 7-0 victory from the Steers. The Steers dropped their opening game to Mineral Wells last Friday, the score being 7-6. The Big Spring tally was made in the first minute of play, the Mineral Wells tally in the final second.

Coach Christian said this week that the probable starting lineup for the Wolves at Big Spring will be: tackles, Paul Boyd Hunter and Clifton Caffey; guards, Murrell Blasingame and Sam Majors, Jr.; center, Sam Coker; quarter, Burl Ballard; full, Jack Smith; right half, Earl Neal; left half, Ross Glover.

WESTBROOK SCHOOL NEWS
GENERAL SCHOOL NEWS
The football boys did not win as we hoped they would, but don't be discouraged, you can win next time. The score was 22-7 in Forsan's favor. The Westbrook team will play Garner on the home field Friday. So come on boys pep up we have got to win that game. All of you boys be ready to go at 2:30. We want all you people to come out and support the players. Of course Valerie we know you could not miss that game if you wanted to.
As for the Senior ice cream supper we made a great success. We sold all the ice cream we had and could have sold more but did not have it made as you know the football boys had to go to Forsan early. We are sure glad you people thought enough of us Seniors to come. We had a big crowd and we hope you liked the way we served you.
Mr. Fowler's gym class will present a tumbling act Friday at 12:45 in the Colorado Junior high school. We are hoping all the pupils will be present so that they might become interested in gym and take it more.
The Home Makers club met today, Sept. 15, and elected officers. They were: President, Thelma Sweett; vice-president, Verlynn Milliken; secretary-treasurer, Jo Bollin; reporter, Sara Bollin; parliamentarian, Melba Ruth Adams; song leader, Louise Schaefer; Mary Julia Black acted as temporary chairman and Florence McCullough as temporary secretary. Our next meeting will be Thursday Sept. 21.

INTRODUCING—
You can ask Ruth why I forwarded a resignation (or maybe Skippy will tell you sometime). Anyway, yours truly is handing his pen to another. Thanks for helping me the first time Ginnie. I think a guys don't right swell when he can get someone to write his reports for him.
Take it over, Helen.
Studiously yours, (ahem) Van.

The Seniors find they are starting the year off just fine. We cleared approximately $12.00 on our ice cream supper last Friday night, and to our surprise one of our most "legal" Seniors tried to pass a foney nickel on the Senior class.
We have a new pupil in the Senior class, Joe Wenne. We hope she will enjoy being in our class as much as we are expecting to enjoy her.
Our girls arrived this week and instead of acting like Seniors we resembled the Freshman class.
Some of the Senior boys are awfully careful about watching the girls who eat in Literature class. All I ask is just be careful about getting "the tables turned," for remember next time it might be a boy, and the penalty is just twice that much.
Asst. Reporter.

HOME MAKERS CLUB NEWS
We elected officers for our Home Ec class Tuesday, Sept. 19. Mary Catherine O'Conner was elected chairman to help elect officers. Trudell Carlisle was elected vice-president, Juanita Byrd secretary, Mary Beth Butler reporter, Neva Brock parliamentarian, Nell Bullock was elected song leader. Our first meeting will be Monday, Sept. 25.
Mary Beth Butler, Reporter.

JUNIOR NEWS
The Juniors are progressing very rapidly in their lessons, and are learning to shoot paper wads. We are going to have a test in history today so everybody hand in his History book.
Since the grammar school is playing in the gym we can hardly keep our classes together.
We are proud to say that we have a playground supervisor now. He is Tom Murphy. Everybody will be good now, because he is a little giant.
Some of the Juniors went on a hay ride last Saturday night and reported a very good time.
Reporter, Kenneth York.

SOPHOMORE TINKLINGS
The second week of school brings the Sophomore class to having their second class meeting of the year. ("Right good if you ask me!") The girls were very disappointed during our class meeting, we were planning on a picnic-show party, when all of a sudden the boys went against us. We fussed a while and Mr. Cox said if we would hush he would take us to the Sweetwater Lake sometime. Class dismissed! Thank goodness.
Mr. Fletcher must think us Sophomores are awfully mean or he sure thinks a lot of his Geometry class. He took our study hall and gave it to his Geometry class. ("That Man") and "Ann".
Ruth Alma has a new name. If you hear "Carry May", don't run and think a new girl is here, for its only Abbie's same Ruth Alma.

THE DO'S AND DON'T
Maxine quit making eyes at Thomas. Winnie might get jealous. Gessie quit thinking of Tommie during the 6th period S. H. All of us can't keep them with us.
Oley V. had to move to Midland, and just as he had found a girl. Even if she was in the 7th grade. Oley V. has a good idea of her. "We wonder." Maybe it was a fuss.
Reporter, Joan Hines.

Friday, our Home Ec class held a class meeting. We elected the following officers: President, Fay Nell Gilliam; vice-president, Yvonne Horner; secretary, Virginia Young; reporter, Joan Hines.
Monday was our first day to cook, and my what dishes we did fix!! Baked apples, baked bananas, apple sauce and baked pears. We still feel O.K., but we still have our medicine handy.
In our laboratory we have two kerosene stoves, two electric stoves, a supply table and a Frigidaire. We are very proud of our lab and plan to keep it very neat and clean so our parents and other people will be proud of it.
Each girl or pair of girls, has a duty to perform each day. We have duties all the way from housekeeping to emptying slop buckets.
Miss McKenny is our Home Ec teacher and let's hope she has plenty of patience for we fear she will need it. Even if she has all the patience one person needs she may be gray headed anyway.
Reporter, Joan Hines.

SEVENTH GRADE
The seventh grade has been enjoying school very much, especially the girls, because they have started their basketball team.
Miss Neola Eastman is their coach. We enjoy having her as our coach. The team is: Captain Ida Davenport, Christine Kite, Theresa Lowry, Dorothy Conaway, Louise O'Connor, Cora McMillan.
Mr. Tom Murphy is the coach of the junior basketball team. The

Charter Presented To New Boy Scout Troop At Fairview

Charter was delivered to the new Fairview Boy Scout troop at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the Fairview community house with W. W. Porter, district scout chairman, presiding.
Commissions were presented by M. L. Kirschbaum, master of troop 21 at Colorado City, to Claude Willis, Fairview scoutmaster, and Claude Campbell, his assistant. Kirschbaum also presented commissions to the Fairview Boy Scout committeemen—J. C. Womack, L. A. Strain, and O. L. Simpson.
Presentation of the charter was made by S. P. Gaskin of Sweetwater, scout executive of the Buffalo Trails council, who substituted for Chas. Paxton of Sweetwater, council president who was unable to attend. The new Fairview troop, already one of the most active Boy Scout units in the county, will be Troop No. 76.
Gaskin outlined the purposes and advantages of scouting. Other short talks were made by Jack Penrose of Big Spring, field Scout executive, and Lee Langley of Sweetwater.

Mechanical Facts On 1940 Chevrolet Given

DETROIT — Chevrolet's service and mechanical department this week set in motion machinery which will furnish more than 27,000 Chevrolet service mechanics, all over the United States, with complete knowledge of the company's new 1940 product before the latter's introduction to the public next month.
The program, believed to be unique in several respects, opens with the schooling of nine product representatives by the service department personnel and the Chevrolet engineering staff. This initial phase of the operation is now in progress, and will last eight days. It takes place here and in Flint, and covers not only every detail of the new models' design, but the whole field of servicing and adjustment, with emphasis on special equipment available for proper servicing of the cars.
The second phase of the program opens with these men's return to their respective territories, where each will hold a two-day training session for the zone service personnel. The latter will then conduct meetings with a still larger total attendance, covering, among them, the entire field of dealer service managers. Finally, the service managers will return to their dealerships and school their respective service shop personnel.
Training of the countrywide service organization through a series of progressive steps, each class of "graduates" dispersing to train a much larger group in the field, will enable Chevrolet to accomplish in one month a program of tremendous scope. Ed Hedner, national service and mechanical manager, pointed out. Every dealer's service mechanics will be familiar with the car from bumper to bumper before a single unit reaches the public's hands.

"THE WIZARD OF OZ," MOST FABULOUS AND ORIGINAL SCREEN MUSICAL EVER TO COME OUT OF HOLLYWOOD

Famed L. Frank Baum Fantasy Filmed in Technicolor With A Cast Of Thousands

Story of Little Farm Girl Who Is Blown by Cyclone to the Magic Land of Oz Comes Saturday Midnight, Sunday and Monday to the Palace Theatre, with Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke and Margaret Hamilton in a Cast of Stage and Screen Headliners

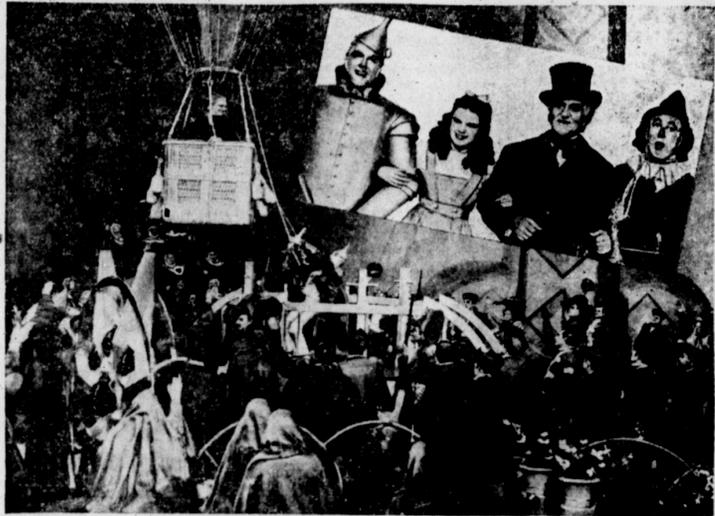

SPECTACULAR SONG AND DANCE INTERLUDES AND MOST FANTASTIC SETTINGS EVER SEEN ON SCREEN!

Successfully combining for the first time adult and juvenile appeal in a motion picture fantasy, "The Wizard of Oz" comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday.

The book has been read by eighty millions since it was written in 1900 and has always had as many grown-up readers as children. L. Frank Baum wrote to entertain children and to give grown-ups philosophy which would delight them. This has been transferred to the screen.

The Wicked Witch, Charley Grapewin as Uncle Henry, Pat Walshe as Nikko and Clara Blandick as Aunt Em. Practically every member of the cast is from musical comedy and all were stage celebrities.

The story has been maintained intact and no Oz reader will be disappointed in the screen version. With increased realism to make Dorothy's trip to Oz more believable, the story tells how the little Kansas farm girl gets caught in a cyclone and believes she is carried to Oz where she meets a Scarecrow who wants brains, a Tin Woodman who wants a heart and a Lion who seeks courage. They all go to the Wizard to ask him to grant their wishes. Dorothy's wish is to go home again. After many thrilling experiences they finally get what they seek because the Wizard shows them it was within their own power to have

HEART DRAMA STARS DUNNE, MacMURRAY

New Wesley Ruggles Production Is Standout For Emotional Sweep, Vigorous Action Human Appeal of Story

Drama that is poignant and close to the heart, told in a story that is notable for its emotional sweep, its moments of vigorous action, and its downright human appeal will unfold on the screen of the Palace theatre when Paramount's "Invitation to Happiness" is presented on Friday and Saturday to local audiences for the first time. Starring Irene Dunne and Fred MacMurray, featuring Charlie Ruggles, Billy Cook, William Collier, Sr., and Marion Martin, the picture was produced and directed by Wesley Ruggles.

The fine touch of Ruggles, and his writing collaborator, Claude Binyon, is clearly evident in this picture. This team, which has come through with a long line of hits including "Sing You Sinners" and "I Met Him in Paris," has taken an everyday story and translated it into dramatic terms which will be clearly understood by every audience.

The story starts to unfold with Charlie Ruggles, manager of Fred, going to his old friend, William Collier, Sr., father of Irene, and asking him for a stake to help his young fighter along. Always a sucker for an investment, Collier decides to help him, but Irene intervenes to make certain that her father is not being cheated.

When Irene meets Fred she is impressed with the difference in his outlook on life as contrasted with that of the men whom she has known in society. Fred is restrained, tells Irene that he'd rather spend his time with Marion Martin, entertainer in a night club. This only serves to spur Irene on—and so they are married.

Fred is determined to pursue his career as a fighter, and Irene has to resign herself to long periods of loneliness. During one of Fred's barnstorming trips, a son is born to the couple. Irene is heartbroken at Fred's absence, but forgives him.

"The Girl and the Gambler" Romantic Drama Of Bandit's Plot To Kidnap Beautiful Dancer

Leo Carrillo, Tim Holt and Steffi Duna Head Cast in Thrill-laden Story of Love and Adventure on Colorful Mexican Border

Action, romance and comedy are thoroughly mixed in "The Girl and the Gambler," exciting story of Mexican border life which comes to the Ritz theatre next Sunday and Monday with Leo Carrillo, Tim Holt and Steffi Duna in the top roles.

Giving the Latin-American star a notable opportunity for one of his colorful characterizations, the film presents Carrillo as a combination Robin Hood and Casanova of the border who alternates his robbing-of-the-rich-to-give-to-the-poor with a carefree pursuit of the ladies.

So when he makes a wager with one of his buffed aides that he can win the heart of a dancing girl in a border-town resort, he expects little opposition. Unfortunately for his plans, the dancer isn't at all impressed, for she is in love with a young American who operates a dice table in a casino across the street. And when the bandit becomes insistent, she tells him that she and the young American are going to be married.

But the bandit interferes with this scheme by maneuvering the American into a gun duel with one of his own followers, the affair ending with the death of the latter. "This gets the American safely tucked away in jail, which is just where the bandit wants him, for he makes the American's life the price of the dancer's acquiescence to his plan.

How the young gambler upsets the plan forms the unexpected climax to the story, and makes for some thrilling moments in the concluding Carrillo is said to have one of his finest roles to date as the swaggering and vain but highly likeable "bandido." Miss Duna portrays the dancer and Holt is seen as her American sweetheart. Lew Landers directed the RKO Radio picture which was produced by Cliff Reid.

The picture is replete with amazing settings including the Emerald City, the buildings of which are great emerald domes and spires, the Land of the Munchkins with giant Hollyhocks larger than men, the Palace of the Wizard and the fantastic streets of Oz, all filmed in Technicolor.

IGNORANCE DOESN'T MEAN HAPPINESS

Occasionally one is heard to assert that the most ignorant person is the happiest, because he doesn't know enough to worry. If one should assume that to be a fact, the logical deduction would be that the jellyfish being so low a form of animal life, must be the happiest of all creatures.

Even were such a one the happiest creature in terrestrial existence, he would not know it; and if he doesn't know he is happy he is not, as paradoxical as that may sound. No creature, from the highest to the lowest in the scale of existence, can be happy or unhappy that has neither reason, emotion nor sentiment.

And if the jellyfish were the happiest thing in existence, who wants to be a jellyfish anyway?

What good does one's possession of a thing do, if he doesn't know he has it?

It requires conscious realization of what produces and constitutes happiness, and the realization of its presence, to make one happy. Simply knowledge and intellectual capacity do not have so much to do with making one happy as do reason and consciousness of duty to relieve distress, pain and sorrow. There have been many wonderfully intellectual men who have been brutal. Their intellectual capacities only enabled them to be more cunning and cruel in their heinous activities.

There are many people who are quite intelligent who do not seem to realize that they are living under conditions that should make them very happy. They might realize their blessings if they would take the time from their everyday affairs to discover them.

Unquestionably happiness is derivable principally from moral and spiritual sources.

A VISIT

We visited in the home this week of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Broadus and here is what we heard.

While Mrs. Broadus' Aunt was in the guest room packing her things, (and everything of ours that she could take, and still come back next summer.) Mrs. Broadus came in where I was and said to Mr. Broadus:

"Here is a letter that just came from your wealthy uncle out in Boise, Idaho."

"Boise, oh Boise," he said, "I'll bet the old nickel nurse is sending me something. Maybe a check for a couple thousand snackers, and it will certainly come in handy to apply as part payment on the grocery bill. Don't just stand there, open it up and read it."

The little woman's hands shook so that she could hardly break open the envelope, and she finally started to read:

"Dear Nephew,

Now that your cousin Lincoln, (we call him Link for short,) is eighteen, your aunt Dolie and I think that he should see some of the world, so we are sending him to spend the shank end of the summer with you. If he does not get off the train before it gets there, he should arrive Friday afternoon. If you feed him well, buy his tobacco and give him all the spending money he wants, you should have no trouble keeping him. Meet him at the train as he hates to walk even a block. You will know him for he is wearing a brown checked suit, tan derby hat, tan shoes, gray spats, pink shirt, red necktie with a tie pin set with a twelve carat genuine petrified Irish potato.

Your cousin Lena is in bed with the measles. Trusting you are same.

Your loving uncle, Skink.

"So your cousin Link is coming on a visit," said the little woman. "And from the description, I'd say that he is the Missing Link that scientists have been searching for all of these years."

"And someone once said that lightning never strikes in the same place twice," he said.

"Today is Friday," said the little woman, "and he will be in on the same train that Aunt Militia is leaving on, so you can pick him up when you take Auntie to the station. You can kill two birds with one stone."

"If I fail to kill them with a stone, will it be alright to push them both under the wheels of the train?" he said.

You point out the guy who said:
"Lightning never strikes the same place twice."
And I'll give him a sock in the eye,
And give you something nice.

WITH OUR EXCHANGES

What the Weekly Papers are Talking About

Beaumont Journal: The United States has always been fond of reading statistics showing how it led the world in various fields. America is proud of the longest bridges, the biggest banks, the grandest movies. Unfortunately bigness has two sides. Now the United States has the biggest deficits, the biggest debts, and the longest unemployment rolls. But in yet another field it has now been found that the United States leads the world. It has the greatest "propaganda density" of any country, according to Prof. Harwood L. Childs of Princeton. "There is more propaganda in this country even than in such propaganda-ruled countries as Germany, Russia and Italy," says Professor Childs. This is not an unmixed evil. As long as the right to propagandize is freely given to all, there will be more of it, but the citizen can take his choice. It does mean that everyone must learn to think and to weigh, so as to make an intelligent choice. The sheer volume of it is nothing to worry about, so long as its channels are open to all on the same terms, and the people have learned to resist and to choose.

Jacksonville Progress: A White Leghorn hen, named Scrapy, is the world's champion egg layer. The record, 376 eggs in 359 days! This hen epitomizes the growth of the poultry industry in the United States. In the agricultural field only the cattle, hog and milk industries surpass poultry in monetary importance. Mass production in the poultry field began with the development of modern incubators. Trapping served to intensify breeding efforts. As a result, the average production of eggs by hens moved from 65 a year in 1930 to 100 in 1939. In fact, good hens are now expected to lay 200 eggs a year. Fifty years ago, it is estimated, egg production averaged about nine dozen per capita a year; today it is twenty-two dozen.

Harvey Smith in Lometa Reporter: Have you ever heard a screech owl in the timber country—or in a lonely creek bottom? If not you will probably have no conception of the weird experience the Smith family enjoyed the other night when we heard our first coyote howling. J. H. Hubbard, who resides five miles south of town, has this to say about the coyote howl: "They're just hungry." But we are more inclined to agree with Mr. and Mrs. Spruill, Hubbard has only lived here fifteen years. Coming out from Bowie county, Hub may be a little susceptible to agree with the folklore of the East Texas Negro relative to their conception of the screech owl's weird sound, the folklore being it's a warning of sorrow or death. The Rev. T. C. Willett, pastor of the Methodist church and a native West Texan, says coyotes howl when they are full and see a change in the weather, most likely at a change or the approach of a norther, he concluded.

Denton Record-Chronicle: There isn't much excuse for going thirsty in Texas. The reason? There are nearly 1,000,000 sources of drinking water, says the Associated Press in an Austin story. The State Department of Health, which keeps a close check on many of these supplies, reports there are 640 city water systems, 3,200 roadside supplies, 12,000 school supplies and an estimated 900,000 private sources for man's best beverage. It might be added that, with as dry and hot a summer as Texas has put up with this summer, plenty of water is just about the most ameliorating circumstance that might be imagined.

Stamford Leader: The country that is out in the cold rain without an umbrella, barefooted and only a BVD on is Japan. She listened to the siren song of Hitler. He carried her along, tickled her under the chin and made her think she was the prepared mustard. Then, when that brute of a Hitler thought he had her so mixed up in the Chinese war, which Japan has not and very likely never will win, he turned his back on Japan and took up with her arch-enemy, Russia, whom Japan was also fighting. And that after Hitler told Japan to never have anything to do with Communists, meaning Russia. Japan is making overtures to the United States and other countries for friendship. But she has played too long with ugly and sinful playmates for most any country with self-respect to pay any attention; therefore Japan is simply still out in the cold, with the wind blowing colder and rain falling heavier.

Greenville Banner: The Banner has a nice, practically empty waste basket for the earned editorials distributed by various agencies that have been hired by the Republican party to spread its poison. Why the agencies spend their money the Banner can understand; they are reimbursed, and they receive a fat fee for sending out article after article that hits subtly at the Democratic party and the administration. These items try not to appear too obvious; but a trained newspaperman can read between the lines, and when he does each contribution hits the waste paper basket with a loud bang. According to some of the hairbrained articles sent out by agencies that claim to have no axes to grind, the country is fast going to the dogs, business is bad and getting worse, the wheels of industry are slowing down, the stock markets are in their worst condition in years and everything that the government undertakes is wrong. When you read this tripe just put it down that the author is getting paid heavily by the Republican party, or the agency he serves is drawing down a nice slice of the coin claimed to be so scarce.

Madisonville Meteor: New Yorkers, some of them, wonder how people live in a town like Madisonville, away off here in Texas. We explained it to the New Yorkers this way: When a New Yorker gets a holiday he makes a beeline for the country and does the things we folks in Madisonville can do every day in the week—enjoy the open air, live quietly, see the open country, breathe fresh air. When a man in New York gets rich he buys a home in the country. In Madisonville we buy a home first and never trouble to get rich. It's the same thing except you don't have to wait so long in Madisonville to live in a house with a front and a back yard. As for entertainment, we get the same news in Madisonville as the people in New York, filled with just as many inaccuracies; we see the same movies, only we see most of them first; we hear the same radio programs; we read the same magazines and books, etc. And we do it all more enjoyably and, if you ask us, in a more civilized manner.

Greenville Banner: Since inauguration of the Farm Security Administration tenant loan plan, enabling deserving farm tenants to secure loans for the purchase of their own farms, more than 700 loans have been made, and not one beneficiary is seriously delinquent in his payments. This is indeed a remarkable record. When the government took this step toward elimination of a serious and undesirable question of farm tenancy it was somewhat of an experiment, but federal officials felt that it would be a program which the passage of time would prove successful. The program, although young, is no longer in the experiment stage; it has already been proved successful and valuable.

Clifford Teer in Sulphur Springs News-Telegram: Well, at last I am in China and located on the Parrott, which is a destroyer. I believe I will like it very well. I get along fine most anywhere. We went to Chimantoo yesterday on a sight-seeing tour to the Great Wall of China. It was something to see, winding up the mountainside and across the top to the other side. One wonders how the Chinese ever built a thing like it. They are very filthy and ignorant. I do not mean to say they all are, but a large percentage of them. The situation at Tientsin still looks bad but I believe it will be settled without serious trouble. Japan is sure getting the bad end of the fighting with the Mongol-Russians.

Stamford American: Besides being a great builder, as was Solomon, Brigham Young must have possessed of greater wisdom than that of the Hebrew King and of wealth approaching that of Solomon. Young had nineteen wives and fifty-six children. We wondered how he ever managed them until we learned the secret during a visit to his former residences and offices. The wives and their children lived in the Lion House, each wife having her own sitting room on the first floor, her own bedroom on the second floor and the great family dining together in the basement. Young himself resided in the Bee Hive House and between the two are his offices which he used in filling his double office as president of the church and territorial governor of Utah. The matron in charge of the Lion House showed us pictures of the wives. The writer observed that they were not selected for beauty—with one exception. The matron told us that she (the beautiful one) was the youngest, the latest, an adventuress and caused a lot of trouble. We thought, but did not say, "An old man's folly."

Beaumont Journal: To Luren D. Dickinson, Michigan's 80-year-old Governor, the nation is indebted for a lot of good-natured hot-weather fun. People have inclined to go along with the Governor, either in sympathy with his moral views, or just for the ride. When he attended a conference of state Governors in New York and returned to tell tall tales of terrible depravity, debauchery and dissolute ways, people of similar point of view applauded while those of the opposite point of view generally applauded, too. It was all good, clean fun. But if it is true as reported, that the Governor has objected on moral ground to the appearance of Boy Scouts in the customary shorts of their summer uniform, then it is very hard to believe that this venerable old gentleman is not spoofing. Could he have been spoofing all along? It's been fun, Governor. Good-by, and thanks for the buggy ride!

United Press Dispatch in Tom Bean Times: Wind chargers have changed political technique in Texas. The little revolving blades seen whirring over Texas farms and ranches are a constant reminder to the office-seeker that a radio receiving set is in the house, its battery kept active by the Texas winds. Former Gov. Dan Moody was the first to use the radio in political campaigns in this state, persons here recollected. Moody depended principally on his platform addresses delivered at the rate of three or four a day to crowds who could both see and hear him speak and throw their hats in the air when he talked about Jim Ferguson.

The HOWL

EDITED BY HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

STAFF

Editor.....Sue Simons
Reporters—M. A. Webb, Freddie
Watson, Nancy Price, Lucille Dockrey.

EDITORIAL

Mr. Foster and the faculty have expressed their pleasure at the way the student body has settled down to school routine this year. As Mr. Foster put it, we are either eager to study again or anxious to start and get it over with. It seems that in the past few years the students have been restless and unwilling to get down to business.

Our school enrollment this year totals three hundred and fifty-three. In a school of that size, it is unusual for the students to cooperate with the teachers to make the beginning less tedious. Perhaps the loss of the freshman element this year has helped us in this respect. With this good start on another school term, we should find the remainder of the year more pleasant. Keep up the cooperation. It is appreciated.

A SUCCESSFUL 1940 LONE WOLF?

Yes, the success of the 1940 Lone Wolf is in question. Its success depends upon one thing... student cooperation. That means that you, and you, and you will have to cooperate with the annual staff in editing a better, more beautiful year-book than ever before.

Nancy Price has been made the editor of the Lone Wolf this year. She is handling some school stickers to be sold, the benefits of which go to the annual fund. This is your first chance to show you are behind our annual, so why not buy one or two stickers for your car. There are several students selling them, and they cost only a dime.

The remainder of the staff has not been decided upon yet. It will be disclosed at the earliest possible date.

FROM THE SIDELINES

It seemed that the Wolves had just about all they could handle last Friday night when they collided with the Stanton Buffaloes. Some half dozen times throughout the game all the Wolves lacked were those last ten yards. But when they started that short drive, they met an immovable wall, or vice versa. . . . Sometimes when that pigskin was uncovered it seemed that the wall had met them.

Better luck next time Wolves. I feel quite certain that your next game will not end in a 0-0 tie. . . . ?

As for those who saw the Stanton-Colorado game last year and didn't come to see this one because you thought it would be one-sided just don't know what you missed. . . . It was worth the price of your ticket to see those new uniforms Coach Christian had his boys all dolled up in.

Those uniforms are only skin deep though because under them Coach Christian has nine lettermen from whom we expect much, and all of the others have had plenty of experience. Let's all go to Big Spring next Friday night and let them prove it to us. . . . It is rumored that they intend to do the same thing this year that they did last year except they are gonna do it worse!

PRESENTING

Miss Jane Oliver
I always thought a librarian was a person buried so deeply in his books that he didn't have time to think about anything else. But not Miss Oliver. She's very interesting. Jane Oliver was born in Winters, Texas, and lived there until she finished high school. Then she went to Denton, Texas, to attend T.S.C.W. for four years. When Miss Oliver entered college, she had decided to take a business course. At the beginning of her senior year, however, she changed her mind, and took a year in library-ing (Original term, isn't it?)

Miss Oliver is interested in debate, and speech of all kinds. She likes to watch football games, and to play tennis.

With a pleasing appearance, and a striking personality, Miss Oliver is certainly going to be an attraction in our high school library.

PRESENTING:

Harold Cook
"Well, who is Harold Cook?"
"Oh, don't you know? He is a new senior."

Harold has lived in Colorado City two weeks. (He likes it fine. He was born in Morgan, Texas. Harold's hair is sandy, he's tall, has brown eyes, and wears glasses.

"Where have you been all your life, Harold?"
"Texas! I've never even left the Lone Star State. But, I've been around. I have lived in twenty-one different towns. It gets to be a habit."

We welcome you to Colorado High, Harold.

ROBINSON HEADS SENIOR CLASS

At a meeting of the senior class last Thursday, Beulah Robinson was elected president. This will make Beulah's third year of class leadership. In her freshman and sophomore years she was president and was succeeded by Burl Ballard her junior year.

Other officers elected were Burl Ballard, vice-president, Harvey Cook, secretary-treasurer, and Jean Morrison and Cora Mae Bodine, class cheer leaders. Miss Oliver was presented as our new sponsor to replace Miss Swope who has gone to Junior High.

SATISFIED?

Are you dissatisfied with this issue of the Howl? Can you think of anything you would like to have put in? If you have any ideas along the lines of an article, short story, or gossip, just drop them in the box on the door of Room 25. You have been neglecting it.

PEP SQUAD DISBANDED

The pep squad has been temporarily disbanded pending the success of a student cheering section. This cheering section is composed of the entire student body and five cheer leaders sitting together in one section. The cheer leaders are Jean Morrison, Mackie Lovine, Tommy Rathiff, Walter Grubbs, and Johnny Botvidson. This plan met with some success at the Colorado City-Stanton game, but the students have not yet enrolled one hundred per cent. Come out at the next game and back our cheering section.

TEACHER ILL

Miss Cole has been unable to teach her home economics classes this year due to an appendectomy operation. Mrs. Sanders has taken Miss Cole's place until she is well enough to be back with us. We hope that time is soon.

CAMPUS CAMERA

Hold your hats—here we go again. It's around the campus with the C. C. reporters jotting down some superstitious hazyahards for your benefit or bedazzlement. . . . Loyal supporters of the Red 'n' Black are wisely investing their pieces of silver in purchases of those stickers the annual staff have been circulating. If stickers can have yomph, they certainly have it. For a sticker with definite appeal, buy several. . . .

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

Front page of the society section of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal last Sunday carried a large picture of Mrs. Geo. H. Mahon and the two Lubbock women, Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson and Mrs. J. H. Stiles, who honored her with a luncheon at the Hutchinson home last Saturday. . . .

Here's what Hank Hart's Sports Parade column in the Big Spring Daily Herald had to say Sunday about the Big Spring-Colorado City game which is coming up Friday night at Big Spring: "Of course, we always reserve the right to be surprised, but we forecast the first victory in two seasons for the Steers when they play Colorado City here Friday evening. . . . Colorado City could only tie with Stanton last Friday. . . . P. S.—The Wolves, however, didn't scare so easily last year."

Big finance is an old story to Warren Shropshire, little son of the Willis Shropshires. . . . He bought a penny's worth of candy over at the Earl Hunter store the other day and calmly gave a muchly-scratched-up check in payment. . . . Mrs. Hunter accepted it in the same spirit in which it was given—and then took her penny's worth out later in laughter. . . .

Sure enough, one of the Colorado City girls who was supposed to go to college didn't leave as per schedule. . . . She wasn't among the ones we were watching closest, but that's neither here or there. . . . The wedding's to be in November. . . . The ring, you'll notice, is a beauty. . . .

Along with the rest of the children and the child-minded, we can't wait to see "The Wizard of Oz," which will be showing at the Palace this Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday. . . . A few weeks ago we started out to read the book to our daughter in preparation for the coming of the movie, and we've been surprised to find it just as charming as it seemed when we first read it, many more years ago than we like to think about. . . . When we first read it we loved the Cowardly Lion because it was so exorcruatingly funny for a lion to be always wiping his eyes with the tip of his tail. . . . Now we like him because of his quest for courage to keep him from roaring to drown his fear. . . . Years ago we delighted in the Scarecrow because a walking and talking scarecrow was food for imaginations. . . . This time we liked him best when he became the ruler of Oz with the explanation that he was the "first stuffed man to ever rule—at least in Oz."

Long ago the Tin Woodman captivated us with his elaborate precautions to keep his joints from rusting. . . . But now we shall remember him for the truth of his explanation that one who has no heart to guide him must be very, very careful of his actions. . . . You know people like that—people who cultivate perfect manners, many charities, an ever-

Noted at the football game Friday night was an amazing couple—amazing because they haven't extinguished that Old Flame yet even if it has wavered more than once. The two are juniorites Clay Smith and Mog Thompson. . . . Elated sighs of "At Last" shook the rafters of CHS band hall when 'twas reported measurements for new uniforms were in order. Maybe there is a Santa Claus after all. . . . An aftermath of the Stanton-Colorado game was Archie Caffey's date with A. G. Purlow. If some fems were given a chance, they might try scratching her eyes for such a thing. . . . The student cheering section has been inaugurated for the betterment of school spirit. With a few improvements and additions, the studies should help make the games much more interesting. . . . "Doc" Rhode has made a few attachments to his already numerous she-scalps. His knack for being the L. K. O. C.H.S. (the Lady Killer Of C.H.S.) is astounding and often envied. . . . A person we could do without is the helpful lad who cracks your teeth enamel on the drinking fountain. . . . Junior Cox's escapades definitely dub him as a regular jitterbug. 'Cmon, ickie, les' live. . . . Some of our progressive students have had post mortem examinations on their scholastic brainwork. It's surprising what three months can do to concentration. . . . Friday night is the time the Wolves clash with Big Spring eleven. As real backers of our team, attend the game. . . . Every minute will be thrill-packed. . . .

ready smile to cover the fact that they have no heart, no real feeling about anything. . . . To get down to more concrete matters, Colorado City is lucky to be getting "The Wizard of Oz" while it is still so new on the nation's screens. . . .

There's rumor about that a wedding of much local interest will take place in January. . . . Both the boy and the girl are native Colorado Citizens. . . .

The home talent kid movie drew quite an attendance at the Palace theater last Friday and Saturday (and the Palace theater, has not bought this column, either, no matter what the indications may be). . . . Because we've heard so many wondering, and because we wondered ourselves until we asked, we'll tell you that Frances Jean Dockrey was the kidnapped heroine. . . . Ivay Barber, Jr. was a good master of ceremonies for the program closing the show—a program on which Sara Carter, Barbara Barber, Joan Hamilton, and J. J. Pierce had individual parts. . . . Around 75 local children took part, and most of them had "words" to say and fleeting close-ups. . . . Rud-dick park made a nice setting for most of the action. . . .

Names of three sets of twins who marched in the twin section of the Frontier Roundup parade were unintentionally omitted from the list of names published last week. . . . They were Isabelle and Vernell Vaughn, Isla Fae and Ira Fair Lord, and twin daughters of a Mr. and Mrs. Warden. . . .

Several names have been added to the college and university list which The Record published last week. . . . We explained in the article that the list was incomplete and that we would welcome additions and corrections. . . . We do appreciate the ones which have been made and we'll be glad to have any others which may remain to be made after the additions are published this week. . . .

It seems to be agreed among the local statesmen and news interpreters that England and France should go ahead and "lick" Hitler, no matter how thoroughly he may have accomplished the Polish destruction which they originally set out to prevent. . . . But we wonder what the ideas would be if Colorado City were in three hours' flying distance of Berlin? . . . There's nothing like a few thousand miles of ocean to bolster convictions. . . .

The most pleasant thing we can recall about the season's first football game with Stanton last Friday night was the way those tricky little drum majors, Verma Campbell and Billie Margaret Gregory, have learned to strut and twirl. . . .

Since the city paving program began little David Sanders Merritt has heard his dad, City Secretary Ford Merritt, discussing the matter so often that he is now undertaking to "pave" all the Merritt flowerbeds. . . . He concentrates his efforts, so we hear, on the excavation phase. . . .

This week's Record carries the first issue of "The Howl," which is several columns devoted to school news as prepared by the students themselves. . . . Sue Simons is editor this year, with M. A. Webb, Freddie Watson.

Sponsored jointly by the Farm Security Administration and the soil conservation service, an educational tour of Mitchell county farms where both programs have been in effect is to be held Friday.

Abilene Group Here Tuesday Morning To Boost W. Texas Fair

Goodwill trippers from two Abilene civic organizations, the Booster club and the Exchange club, visited Colorado City Tuesday morning at 9:30 to advertise the West Texas Fair in Abilene all next week.

Mayor J. A. Sadler and H. B. Spence, manager of the chamber of commerce, met the group east of the city limits and led them into town. Mayor Sadler made the official welcome address.

E. G. Wood was in charge of the delegation, which included about thirty persons traveling by bus and car. All were dressed in colorful western regalia.

Entertainment included song interpretations by Marijohn Nelson, with music by Dr. Jack Estes, Claude Young, Dave Henry, Clyde Nichols, and Everett Haney.

The group went from here to Big Spring and then turned south to visit Sterling City and other points before swinging back into Abilene.

Cut in Pensions Will Mean $1,000 Loss To County

The $6 flat reduction in October old age pension checks ordered by the Texas public welfare board late last week will mean a monthly loss of over $1,000 to Mitchell county pensioners, a checkup at the county clerk's office this week revealed.

Based on old age pension checks received for August, the county's monthly loss would be $1,176, counting a reduction of $6 on each of the 196 checks received in the county for that month. Hereafter checks will not be recorded at the clerk's office, according to notice received by Herrington recently.

Police Chief Warns On Matter of Taking Checks From Strangers

With the town full of transient persons at this time of the year, Police Chief Dick Hickman has issued his usual warning to merchants and others in regard to taking checks from unidentified persons.

"No matter if the check bears a familiar signature," Chief Hickman pointed out, "the amount may have been tampered with."

He added that merchants will find it a simple matter to contact some local officer before cashing checks presented by strangers, especially checks in unusual amounts.

Hard to Believe, But Fire Was at Berry-Fee's

It was practically unbelievable, but quite true, nevertheless—the fire Wednesday noon was at the Berry-Fee lumber yard.

The average citizen didn't know there was anything left to burn after the big fire which entirely destroyed the yard on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 3, with one of the biggest fire losses in the town's recent history.

What did burn Wednesday noon was a big pile of scrap lumber, kindling, and old posts being used to heat tar in re-roofing the old Radford building which stands to the north of the lumber yard location and which is used by Berry-Fee as a storehouse. The pile was near the wall of the brick building and evidently caught from the fire beneath the tar heater when the wind got up.

Quick work by the fire department extinguished the fire before it caught the roof of the building or did any great amount of damage.

Sale Of Livestock Auction Ring Stock Launched This Week

Move Results From Joint Meeting Of Stockmen, Business Men, and CC Officials

Establishment of a corporation-owned livestock auction ring in Colorado City moved into the stock-selling phase after a joint meeting of Mitchell county livestock men with chamber officials and Colorado City business men in the district courtroom Tuesday evening.

Before the meeting closed $725 worth of stock had been sold at $25 a share. When $2,000 worth of stock shall have been subscribed stockholders will elect an executive board and select a site. Several sites are said to be under consideration.

Stock will be negotiable and the corporation profit-sharing. H. L. Hull is to be manager of the commission and the ring. Hull managed an auction ring at Henrietta for several years, and has had experience as an auctioneer of registered Herefords in Iowa and other points.

Selling of stock in the proposed corporation was launched on the adopted recommendation of a special investigating committee including Chas. C. Thompson, D. H. Snyder, Sr., and P. K. Mackey.

Those wishing to buy stock should contact either Chas. C. Thompson or H. B. Spence, managers of the chamber of commerce, according to information given after the meeting. Checks will be held in escrow until the success of the undertaking is assured.

Wolves To Engage Monahans' Green Wave Friday Night

Game Will Be Last One Away From Home For Several Weeks

Playing their last game away from home until the closing day of the football season, the Wolves will go to Monahans for a non-conference encounter Friday night.

With local grid interest heightened by the way the Wolves held Big Spring's Steers to a 7-0 score last Friday night, a large number of fans are expected to accompany the Wolves.

Monahans' Green Wave downed the Wolves 19-13 last year. Last week Monahans downed Grandfalls 47-0, but in their season opener they lost to Midland 6-0.

After the Monahans game the Wolves will have all games at home except the final game with Snyder on November 30.

Conference Games For Wolves Set To Begin October 6

Colorado City To Be Site For Five of Wolves' 6A Games

Listed in the favorite bracket after their stout defensive game in Big Spring last week, the Wolves will begin their 6A race in a game with Merkel here next Friday, October 6.

Five of the Wolves' six conference games will be played on the home field.

The Wolves' conference calendar is as follows: October 6, Merkel here; October 13, Lorraine here; October 20, Roscoe here; Nov. 11, Rotan here; Nov. 17, Roby here; Nov. 30, Snyder there.

For the first time in several years, except for last year when they were ineligible for play, the Roscoe Plowboys do not present a serious threat to whatever championship hopes the Wolves might have. They lost to the Sweetwater Mustangs last week 50-6.

Merkel dropped a 26-0 decision to Baird last week and Roby was defeated 13-0 by Stamford, both games being non-conference.

Snyder's Tigers and Rotan's Yellowhammers, the latter having been last year's champions, are the biggest threats. Rotan was impressive in a 52-0 win over Clyde last Friday, while Snyder won 13-6 over the usually powerful Spur Bulldogs.

Snyder plays Slaton this week and Lorraine will play Roby at Roby, while Roscoe and Merkel are to tangle at Merkel.

Cotton Harvest Is At Peak As Total Reaches 9,000 Bales

Gathering of Crop Said To Be More Than Half Done In Many Sections; 4,431 Bales Ginned Here

Belief that the Mitchell county cotton harvest has reached its peak, and in some places passed its peak, was expressed by Mitchell county gin men this week as the county ginning total neared the 9,000-bale mark.

Ginnings in Colorado City, Buford, Westbrook, and Lorraine had reached 8,971 bales Thursday morning. No report was available from gins at China Grove and Valley View.

Because of prevailing dry weather, the harvest over the county has been much more rapid and brief than was expected. The harvest estimate has fallen consistently since early August, when a 30,000-bale crop seemed to be in sight.

Ginnings in the county to date are distributed as follows: Colorado City, 4,431 bales; Buford, 810 bales (over half through); Westbrook, 1,477 bales; Lorraine, 2,253 bales.

Colorado City gins reported as follows: Farmers Gin, 414; Producers Cooperative, 1,150; Colorado Gin, 433; Mitchell County gin, 530; Concrete, 1,140; Browning, 764.

The staple was selling for 8.60 to 8.75, with seed bringing $25.

Colorado Citizens Are Voting Today On $7,500 Bonds For New Bridge

Property owners of Colorado City began voting Thursday morning on the issuance of $7,500 worth of city bonds to apply on the construction of an $85,000 bridge over the Colorado river leading to South Colorado City.

At 11:30 Thursday morning a total of 55 votes had been cast, with the noon and after-work rushes still to come.

The state highway department recently agreed to rebuild the south river bridge, which was swept away in the June flood, if Mitchell county and Colorado City would supply $30,000 of the $85,000 cost. The county is to supply $22,500 of this amount.

Department officials have promised that the bridge, which is on the highway 101 route leading to San Angelo via Sterling City, and the long-promised overpass at the foot of Chestnut street a short distance to the northeast of the bridge will be built at the same time, giving Colorado City a construction project of $160,000 within the city limits and assuring it of the ultimate paving of a south outlet to the Sterling City and San Angelo country.

Move To Secure Recreational Lake Gaining Momentum

Committee Named Monday Night To See About Securing Site For Camp Creek Dam

Move to secure a recreational lake for Colorado City gained momentum at a meeting of the Colorado City chamber of commerce lake committee Monday night. Lay Powell, chairman, called the meeting.

Immediate result of the meeting was appointment of Dr. Oscar Rhode and Dr. R. D. Bridgford as a special committee to confer with Chas. C. Thompson, owner of the proposed lake site, in regard to securing the land. Thompson has expressed his willingness to either sell or lease the land for lake-building purposes.

This committee is to report back to the general committee at a meeting Thursday afternoon (today) at 5 o'clock. Members of the general committee in addition to Powell, Dr. Bridgford, and Dr. Rhode are Swede McGill, Huse Shurtleff, Hugh Millington, and Bob Fee.

The plan is to dam Camp creek 400 yards from where it flows into the Colorado river about seven miles south of Colorado City.

According to a survey made by members of the local soil conservation service force and submitted to the committee by R. L. Thigpin, engineer, such a dam would impound 700 acre feet of water, backing water for a mile a quarter over 80 acres of land. The dam itself would require 40,000 cubic yards of dirt, and would cost approximately $5,000.

Total cost of the project would be around $20,000, which would include construction of a club house, a dance pavilion, boat houses, boat docks, and other recreational facilities. Cabin sites along the lake shore would be leased or sold. Operation of the lake and its concessions would be on a commercial basis.

The lake would be financed and operated through the formation of a local stock company in which some 200 shares would be sold for $100 each. The stock would pay dividends, and figures have been compiled to show that similar projects elsewhere in West Texas have paid themselves out and shown profits within a few years, according to chamber of commerce officials.

Thigpin stated that investigations by the soil conservation service have revealed the proposed site to be ideal for a lake, the soil content being such that there would be no trouble with silt for at least 50 years.

Thrift Still Found In Some Sections Of Texas

AUSTIN.—Thrift still is a virtue in some American communities. This encouraging observation is made by John Porter Byram in an article in the September issue of Texas Parade. There are some places still left in Texas where the leaders of the community are not constantly looking to Austin or to Washington for paternalistic "relief," points out Mr. Byram in "Where Thrift Remains a Virtue," an enlightening story on Fredericksburg, Texas.
 "All the spots have not vanished where home ownership, where hard work and honest endeavor still are regarded as high ambitions in life," he writes. "Fredericksburg is not alone in being a happy, progressive, productive and thriving community. There are many other similar communities in Texas, any one of which is worthy of the attention and emulation of other cities and towns."
 "In investigating the status of this little town we find that 90 per cent of the families of Gillespie county, in which Fredericksburg is located, own their own homes. This figure doesn't mean much until it is compared with the percentage of home ownership in other parts of the State. According to figures in the Texas Almanac, the percentage of all Texans owning their own homes is only 40.4 per cent. Fredericksburg and Gillespie county citizens standing out a little better than two to one in the comparison.

"Of notable interest also is the fact that Fredericksburg business is almost exclusively home-owned. Of the 165 firms doing business in Fredericksburg, 158 are owned and operated by local residents.
 "An indication of the sound condition of the city and county is shown in the percentage of tax collections. For the last year for which figures are available, Gillespie county reported tax collections of 98.5 per cent. The average tax collections over the state was 89.5. Perhaps the reason for the high tax collections might be found in the careful administration of the community's fiscal affairs. Unlike some other cities and counties Fredericksburg and Gillespie county have not embarked on periods of extravagant expenditures. The total public debt of the city and county is only $438,797, the average per capita debt being $39.81. The total debt of all Texas political subdivisions is $694,078,960, giving the state an average per capita debt of $112.29, or roughly three times as much as the per capita debt of Fredericksburg and Gillespie county.

"Or maybe the reason for the fine position held by this community is the interest taken in their local affairs by the residents of the city and county. We find that the county issues 4,000 poll tax receipts for its population of 11,020. This gives an average of one poll tax issued for each 2.75 residents of the county. Contrast this with the state average of one poll tax for each 5.44 residents and you may find the answer to the riddle of how to achieve better local government. Apparently it pays dividends in sound administration when the people of a community take an interest in their government, demand the best services possible of their public officials and keep in close touch with the fiscal affairs of their local governments.
 "The interest the citizens take in their community affairs also may be responsible for the low tax rate enjoyed by the property owners. The rate of 1 cent per $100 valuation is one of the lowest in the state. And, it should be emphasized, the residents of Fredericksburg and of Gillespie county enjoy all of the refinements and conveniences of more heavily bonded and heavily taxed communities.
 The thrift has marked the personal progress of the citizenship has undoubtedly had its effect on the governmental operations of the community.
 "In 1915, before the advent of good highways, the community felt a pressing need for a medium of transport for its products. Instead of going heavily into debt by issuing bonds or crying for governmental relief, the citizens of the county donated money with which to construct the Fredericksburg and Northern Railroad, of which Fredericksburg still remains the terminus.
 "The city owns and operates its own waterworks and sewer systems and is constructing facilities for distribution of electric power.
 "The county has a good system of local roads. In addition, it is served by four main highways, all of which intersect at Fredericksburg, State Highways 16 and 81 and U. S. Highways 87 and 290.
 "Fredericksburg, with a population of 3,087, is located in the valley of the Pedernales River and is surrounded by the broken Hill country of Texas. Its population is 90 per cent of German extraction. It was founded in 1846 by a group of colonists who came direct from Germany under sponsorship of the "Adelsverein," a company of German noblemen organized for colonization purposes in Texas.
 "The community combines the charm of the pioneer days with the advancement of modern times. Two modern granite works are located in Fredericksburg. The famous pink Texas granite is quarried four miles away at Bear Mountain. One of the best licensed wineries of Texas is located there. All wines manufactured are made from grapes and berries grown near the winery. Other exports of Gillespie county include wool and mohair, which has become one of the leading industries, and peanuts, turkeys and pecans.

 "Of course farming is still one of the major occupations. There are 1,461 farms in Gillespie county, the majority of which are occupied by tenant farmers in the county. The farmers and ranchers each year also derive much revenue from leasing land for hunting. Hundreds of sportsmen come to the county from all sections of Texas and other states during the annual deer and turkey season."
 Mr. Byram recalls many old traditions still observed in the little German-American community and concludes:
 "Thus the years have rolled by and the once tiny colony has grown into a thriving city, one of the most important in the hill section of Texas. In all probability it never will be a metropolis. In fact, its citizens don't want it to be. But they are supremely confident that their community will experience a steady, sound and conservative growth on the sturdy base that was provided by their pioneering forefathers. They know also, that it always will be a fine place in which to live, to raise children and to work for their daily bread in an atmosphere of peace and contentment. And, after all, that's a pretty bright outlook for a happy life in this troubled old world.

PWA Has To Return 586 Applications

The Public Works Administration Regional office in Fort Worth recently announced that it had completed the job of returning 586 applications for PWA financial assistance in buildings projects with an estimated cost of $211,085,022 to applicants in seven states.
 The applications were returned on orders of Federal Works Administrator John M. Carmody because no funds for additional PWA allotments were provided by Congress during its last session. Applicants were told that they were now free to make other arrangements if the desire to proceed with their projects.
 The number of applications and the amount involved in each of the Fifth Region states is as follows: Arkansas, 22, $1,417,176; Colorado, 32, $14,200,032; Kansas, 55, $4,943,730; Louisiana, 117, $32,433,684; New Mexico, 23, $10,845,965; Oklahoma, 75, $36,269,227; and Texas, 262, $110,975,208.

For the nation as a whole 5,043 applications were filed in the summer of 1938 when the large construction program now being completed was begun. Although the returned applications did not receive allotments many of them had been passed on favorably by the PWA examining divisions.

FHA STANDARDS HAVE BEEN SET FOR BUILDING IN 48 STATES

The Federal Housing administration has set standards in each of the 48 states to eliminate "terry-building."
 Through FHA's land-planning activities, it is assisting in setting up hood blight and the development of future slums. These activities, carried on for the purpose of protecting the mutual interests of the borrowers, the lenders, and FHA's mortgage-insurance fund, are largely responsible for the insistent and constantly increasing demand for the services of the FHA.

What Is And What Is Not Allowed In Contests By Law Discussed For Merchants

When Colorado City merchants decide to give business a boost—or try it, at any rate—by the contest route, here are some facts as outlined by the Southwest Retail News on what they can and cannot do legally if use of the mails is to be involved.

There seems to be a lack of clear understanding of the limits within which prize contests may lawfully be operated and conducted, on the one hand, and that class of contents which is absolutely contraband and prohibited, on the other.

It may be stated, as a general proposition, that all contests in which the element of chance is present always violate the lottery provisions and are therefore illegal, and that the attempt to circulate advertisements thereof through the mails will inevitably lead to a denial of the use of postal facilities, and the liability of fine and imprisonment.

It becomes important, then, to point out the things that, in the official eye, constitute the element of chance.

Guessing Contests Out

In the first place it may be said that all guessing contests contain practically 100 per cent of chance and therefore as a class are outlawed.

In this category may be included the number of pennies or beans or anything else in a jar or other receptacle; the kernels of corn a chicken or other fowl or animal can eat, or amount of food in general; the number of empty Kodak spools in a store window; the number of visitors at a fair, store or other gathering on a certain day or group of days; the number of cigars or cigarettes on which revenue taxes are paid during a given period; the length of time a clock will run or the time at which it will stop; how long a candle will burn, the number of seeds in a watermelon, pumpkin or other vegetable or fruit; all these and all others of a similar nature are lotteries, simon-pure, and those who launch such campaigns invite trouble with the authorities.

Masquerading Contests

We find a number of guessing contests masquerading as "estimates." That is because of the provision that where science or skill or labor enter in and thereby eliminate chance, the contest becomes unobjectionable. But unfortunately it is held that where the element of chance is present—that is, where chance may upset science and be the determining factor in the results—the contest is objectionable.

A single illustration will disclose the difference between the two classes. Not frequently a prize is offered to the person who will guess most closely the number of persons who will attend a state fair on a given day. In order to help the guessers, data is given the attendance at the fair covering a series of years and on the corresponding day of the week. As intimated such is not called a guessing contest, but the one who will "estimate" most accurately the attendance is awarded the prize.

While the data of previous attendance may be given out to furnish the ostensible foundation for mathematical calculations, it is perfectly obvious that no record of past attendance will serve with anything like scientific precision in definitely arriving at what will be a future attendance, but that the result is dependent entirely upon chance. The weather itself may greatly increase or decrease attendance, and this is held to be chance.

Another class of contests held to involve the chance element are those where the prize is given to the first one who submits the correct solution of a puzzle or problem. The element of chance may be entirely eliminated, and the result depends entirely upon the skill and knowledge, yet the element of chance enters into the contest as to who will be the first one to record the correct answer or solution, or whose letter will be the first to be opened among those giving the correct solution that arrive by the same mail. Here again is the element of chance.

The United States government does not take "I don't know" for an excuse when their "anti-lottery" laws are violated. Using the mails for "furtherance of a lottery" is rather serious procedure and every precaution should be taken before conducting a contest.

SOME DON'TS FOR HUNTERS

With the dove season in full sway some pertinent DON'TS which may save sportsmen considerable trouble with state federal game wardens have been formulated by the Game Department's executive secretary. They include:

Don't shoot doves before 7 a.m. nor after official sunset.

Don't shoot from a car or from, on or along a public road.

Don't shoot doves with any gun except a shotgun not larger than 10 gauge.

Don't forget to plug your gun to a three-shell capacity.

Don't forget your hunting license if you leave the county.

Don't kill more than fifteen doves per day and do not have more than fifteen in your possession.

Don't shoot when you cannot see; there might be another hunter behind those trees.

Don't leave gates open and always get permission to hunt on private land.

Don't forget that the quail season does not open until Dec. 1.

Bargain rates on subscriptions now on. Don't wait.

Another class of contests held to involve the chance element are those where the prize is given to the first one who submits the correct solution of a puzzle or problem. The element of chance may be entirely eliminated, and the result depends entirely upon the skill and knowledge, yet the element of chance enters into the contest as to who will be the first one to record the correct answer or solution, or whose letter will be the first to be opened among those giving the correct solution that arrive by the same mail. Here again is the element of chance.

The United States government does not take "I don't know" for an excuse when their "anti-lottery" laws are violated. Using the mails for "furtherance of a lottery" is rather serious procedure and every precaution should be taken before conducting a contest.

While the data of previous attendance may be given out to furnish the ostensible foundation for mathematical calculations, it is perfectly obvious that no record of past attendance will serve with anything like scientific precision in definitely arriving at what will be a future attendance, but that the result is dependent entirely upon chance. School Days Boost Sale Of Clothing

School days for Texas' 1,400,000 students—calling for new shoes, shirts, frocks and hats—boosted August sales of Texas department and apparel stores 22.9 per cent above July. University of Texas economists announced recently.

One hundred stores and shops reported to the University Bureau of Business Research that their August business more than doubled the usual 10 per cent seasonal increase from July to August.

Sales last month were almost 1 per cent ahead of those in August last year, and 1939 total sales for January to August were 0.9 per cent above those of the corresponding first eight months of 1938.

Red Cross Medical Supplies Sent To Poland

WASHINGTON — The American Red Cross is gearing its peace-time organization of 3,700 chapters to aid war-stricken European nations with medical supplies and to assist in the repatriation of American citizens fleeing from danger zones, Red Cross officials here announced.
Needs arising from the first two weeks of hostilities have resulted in the Red Cross setting up an emergency fund of $50,000 to assist the Polish Red Cross in immediate medical problems. Chairman Norman H. Davis announced that initial Red Cross assistance from this country would include the shipment of hospital tents, drugs and blankets.
Decision of the Red Cross to help reduce the suffering of the nations involved in hostilities came following an extraordinary session of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross which met here to deter-

Officials of the Red Cross pointed out that aid to Poland was given after an urgent request had been received from the Polish Red Cross which stated that grave needs existed among the injured and sick. Surgical dressings which are being produced by a limited number of Red Cross chapters in this country will be sent to the war zones.
The Red Cross forwarded $25,000 to the American Hospital in Paris to aid in evacuating American citizens to new quarters at Etretat on the coast. The funds also will purchase, in this country, a 100-bed hospital unit for shipment to the American organization.
Sinking of the British ship Athenia with several hundred fleeing American citizens aboard prompted the Red Cross to allocate $20,000 to aid in return of American survivors to this country.
Red Cross aid to belligerent nations was offered through the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva. Poland was the first country to respond. France and England sent word through Geneva that they would outline their needs soon. No reply has been received from Germany.
The first supplies to go to Poland include a shipment of 45 items of army type. Tents are being especially manufactured. Red Cross officials said, as the Polish Red Cross requested a type which would accommodate 50 stretcher cases.
Following plans for immediate war relief, the Red Cross Central Committee authorized the 3,700 Red Cross Chapters throughout the nation to accept contributions to assist the war-stricken populations in Europe. In the months to come, high of-

Southern City Lays 55 Blocks Cotton Paving

By Hodding Carter

Along shady Valliant street in Greenville, Miss., a crew of road workers rolled a huge, eight-foot wide belt of cotton fabric, white and coarse, and seemingly more suitable for curtains or dresses than for this strange use.

Housewives on Valliant street rubbed their eyes incredulously. What was City Engineer Frank Hall up to, spreading hundreds of square yards of cotton material on the street which had been a gravel one, and which had been scraped down for a new kind of hard-surfacing? They came out on the sidewalk, talking to each other and to the engineer who was putting down the first cotton-membrane streets on a large scale in the United States. Passersby fingered the heavy, loosely woven fabric which the workers were fitting upon the priming of asphalt, which had been laid earlier upon the prepared gravel.

Greenville was inaugurating this summer's day a road paving program which would result in the hard surfacing of 55 blocks of city streets with a cotton membrane filler between layers of asphalt. The work was being undertaken experimentally, on a large scale, in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture, which was supplying the fabric. The program had been envisioned by Mayor Milton Smith and City Engineer Hall. And it was fitting that in Greenville, in the heart of the long-staple cotton producing Mississippi Delta, this first large scale experiment in cotton paving should be made. Only 30 miles away, at Scott, Miss., Oscar Johnston, president of the National Cotton Council, and operator of one of the world's largest cotton plantations, had himself laid down a mile of cotton road some seven years ago.

The way in which that Scott plantation road had stood up under heavy trucking, automobile travel and plantation machinery had convinced his neighbors that cotton could make an ideal membrane in the building of enduring hard-surfaced roads. The National Cotton Council itself had become convinced this year of the potentialities of cotton in road building. To the task of experimenting in this new use for cotton it had assigned Dean Gilchrist of Texas A. and M. And upon his findings depend the possible use of a million bales of cotton a year in road making.

But Greenville hadn't waited for these findings, for the city officials had already been convinced by the mile laid down at Scott and by similar small scale ventures in New Jersey. The theory behind the proposed use of cotton in such roads is that it acts as a cushion between layers of gravel and asphalt, as well as a binding material, and slows down the deterioration of the hard-surfaced road. If cotton is proved to be an important factor in road-preserving, its use will be a construction economy, for in hard-surfaced roads, the upkeep rather than the initial cost is what burdens the taxpayers.

The actual laying of roads with cotton binder is a simple as ordinary blacktopping. The prepared base is first primed with asphalt, which is absorbed by the base in approximately 24 hours. The cotton membrane is then laid down, by being unrolled the length of the street, doubling and splicing where necessary. Asphalt is then applied to the cotton and covered with gravel, and the gravel cover is rolled and compacted. Finally, asphalt is applied to the rolled gravel, covered with coarse sand and broomed and rolled to a resultant dense, smooth surface.

Other cities besides Greenville are also experimenting in cotton roads, through the cooperation of the Department of Agriculture. But the drive to make the nation cotton road-conscious awaits the report of Dean Gilchrist.

Humble Will Again Broadcast Games

The Humble Oil & Refining company recently announced that it has again contracted with the Southwest Conference for the exclusive privilege of broadcasting conference football games. This is the fifth consecutive season in which the Humble company has undertaken to bring play-by-play descriptions of outstanding conference contests to radio followers of the game.

The broadcasts, it was explained, are designed to broaden the service rendered by Humble Service Stations and dealers, to increase interest in Southwestern football and attendance at games, and to enable the 14,000 Humble employees to follow the conference race as it develops.

Plans for the broadcasting of specific games are thus far only tentative, as actual games to be broadcast are decided on from week to week as the season progresses. These tentative plans, however, call for broadcasting approximately 35 games.

Extensive networks of Texas stations will be used to bring the games to interested listeners. Stations which will carry specific games will be announced on Fridays preceding the broadcasts. A capable staff of play-by-play announcers has been retained to handle the broadcasts. All are familiar to Texas radio football fans, all are thoroughly acquainted with the Southwest conference—the teams, the players, the coaches, the various styles of play.

Topping the list is Kern Tips, the fame of whose play-by-play descriptions of exciting Southwest conference football has spread from coast to coast. Tips brings to broadcasting a keen knowledge of football, an ability to describe what he sees on the field, a sharp reportorial sense, a ready wit, five years of play-by-play experience. He is acknowledged to be the peer of any football broadcaster in the land and the superior of most.

Number two man on the Humble announcer list is Cy Leland of Fort Worth. Everybody who follows Southwest conference football knows Cy Leland. An all-American football player and honor student at Texas Christian university a decade ago, Leland embodies the best tradition of this most red-blooded of American college sports.

Hal Thompson and Eddie Dunn, both of Dallas, complete the basic list of play-by-play men. Both are popular, active radio personalities.

Thompson is sports specialist of station WFAA. He has a pleasing voice, a good knowledge of the game and a telling ability to describe play on the field.

Eddie Dunn is one of the most versatile radio men in Texas and brings to Humble's broadcast a wide following of listeners.

These four announcers will be supplemented from time to time by other capable men as needed.

On the technical side, equipment this year has been improved to keep pace with the rapid technological progress of radio generally. The engineering staff which installs and operates this equipment is as competent and experienced as the announcers. Most of the technical men have been working with the Humble company on football broadcasts since the first year Humble undertook them.

Many Texas school children are entering an essay contest to be held at the State Fair of Texas. The subject is the "Importance of Preventing Stream Pollution." Elementary entries are due by October 7, and high school entries by October 14. Fifty dollars will be awarded three best essays in each division. Donor of the prize money is Wallace Jenkins of Dallas.

Texas-fed beef will be served at the Breeder-Feeder banquet, a feature of that day at the State Fair of Texas on October 10. The beefs were purchased in Ellis and Kaufman counties, and dressed 60 per cent, close to the high mark. Prominent breeders and feeders throughout the nation will be guests.
