POPULATION OF KANSAS.

From the June report of the Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture is compiled the following table showing the population of Kansas by counties. The total population is 1,028,177, an increase during year of 58,438. The fourteen counties that decreased in population during the year, are, with two exceptions, confined to the western border, where a partial failure of crops for six successive years would seem to warrant a decrease. The counties lying in the eastern two-thirds of the State have increased steadily in population each year since their organization. Following is the table showing the inhabitants, decrease

The Next Presidential Campaign. About this time four years ago the Re-ublican family was badly divided on to promise an easy victory, and their organs talked as glibly of what the new Administration would be and de-Grant's nomination and election were a foregone conclusion. This "counting of chickens before they were hatched" continued up to the day the National Convention met, and not until the neck of the hen had been duly and truly wrung did the third-termers wake up to a realizing sense of their obstinate folly and its consequences. Even then they could not or would not understand the causes of the disastrous defeat, and the original sccessionists co-operated, persisted in attributing to "treachery and by this unnatural coalition Russell, and fraud" what was simply the logical result of eight years of Grantism. So, instead of accepting defeat gracefully and shaking hands with the victors, they grumbled and growled, kicked and cursed, and finally were only whipped into the traces by the dread of Democratic success. But they never force they grave those who had whose efforts and influence he never could have been President. The peculiar circumstances of his death temporarily suspended hostilities, but these were renewed before "the funeral baked meats" had grown cold. What the ballot box did not do for the Stalwarts, the assassin's bullet did; and they at the assassin's bullet did; and they at the most of subsisted. He is thus a claim-agent subsisted. He is thus a claim-agent once proceeded to make the most of subsisted. He is thus a claim-agent, their unexpected luck. As soon as Arthur had laid aside his mourning gloves and note paper, he dismissed all the his clients support him that he may have members of the Garfield Cabinet except Lincoln, who happened to be the only Stalwart that Garfield had admitted to his council board. When the big heads had dropped into the basket the little ones followed, and very few anti-Stalwart save row feeding at the mublic little ones followed. warts are now feeding at the public legislative morals, until the people erib, save in cases where the office is themselves in many localities are as

It demands popular that from present appearances an ocean of oil will be required to smooth the Republican ship safe and happy sailing. Meanwhile, we may observe, the Republicans have given up all hopes of breaking the solid South, and the experiment so fragrantly illustrated by periment so fragrantly illustrated by Mahone and Chalmers is a confessed failure. So the probabilities are that the Southern delegates to the Convention will be treated with much less consideration, and have much less weight than in 1880; which must, to some extent, assist the anti-Stalwarts. ever, the full strength of the Administration is likely to be thrown into the opposite scale, thereby restoring the balance and leaving the forces of the belligerents nearly or quite equal, which means a sharp contest, in which no quarter is given or asked.

Though Democrats are not as united as they ought to be, their union is com-plete and hearty compared with that of the Republicans, and the points of dif-ference can and will be easily recon-ciled. If the party will cut loose from self-appointed leaders, treat with con-tempt the dictatorial advice of self-ap-pointed organs, reaffirm its old principles for an all-sufficient platform, and nominate a ticket which unmistakably represents these principles, a Democratic triumph next year is assured. All the signs now look that way, and nothing but great and inexcusable blunders can neutralize the effects of Republican or pleasure he can spend. He states

The Policy of the Republican Party.

The policy and evident purpose of the o-called Republican party has been to the third-term question, and each side was vigorously preparing for the "bat-tle royal" which occurred at Chicago.

The high enthusiasm and thorough or-the high enthusiasm an against whom it may most successfully consolidate the North. Key was "an original, fire-eating before-breakfast secessionist." Woodcock, the Union soldier recently ejected from the Internal Revenue service at Nashville, has been supplanted by Hughes, a furious secessionist of 1860-61. John Hancock, a native Southern Unionist, who left Texas and went into the Union service, was pursued, as a candidate for Conwas pursued, as a candidate for Conerib, save in cases where the office is not worth having. So matters went on until the Administration candidate for Governor of New York was buried beneath a hundred thousand Democratic majority; the Republican ticket elsewhere faring little better. Since then Arthur has "gone slow," and the Stalwarts have contented themselves with occasional thrusts at their enemies, by way of reminding them of the wrath to come. There has been no compromise, and the two factions are practically as wide apart to-day as when the thirdater musiness fell at Chicago never to rise again.

leaders, this Republicanism confesses support because it "saved the Union," which it perpetually undermines and most contemned by the people. Absurd follies of twenty and twenty-five years ago are practically re-enacted. Then, when fanatical Joshua R. Giddings, of Ohio, made a most inflammatory sectional harangue he was most heartily congratulated by Lawrence M. The blessed Republican party so-called is never weary of this sort of well doing, and while polluting the morals of the whole country and organizing distinct classes of society, widely removed from each other, it still claims immortal renown for restoring the Union, although its sectional and partisan conduct produced the war with all its dire calamities, and the rupture in the Union whose parts it keeps asunder now by every moral and legal force which Federal power may exert.—American Register.

LOCAL SHORT STOPS.

THE Railroad Commissioners recently made two important decisions. The first was in relation to switch charges and was upon complaint of G. R. Anderson, of Mohon. The decision was that the "charge of five dollars per car made by the Missouri Pacific Railway for the switching of coal over one-half mile of their track at Fort Scott, from the junction of the Missouri Pacific Railway with the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf Railway, to be transported over the latter road, is excessive and exorbitant. The Board finds that, for the same service at the same place, the charge of service at the same place, the charge of fifty cents per car is made for the transfer of live stock and one dollar per car load for the transfer of fence posts. The Board further finds that no extra power or force is employed by the Missouri Pacific Railway to perform this service in addition to that employed in operating the usual that employed in operating the usual freight trains on their line." The Board decided that not to exceed two dollars per car was a sufficient charge for such service. The Board is also "of the opinion that such switching expense should not be borne by the shipper, but that the railroads, at points where they center and receive freight from connecting lines should provide such facilities for the transfer of shipments by connections otherwise as will in noway discriminate against shippers engaged in business on connecting lines of road."---The second decision related to the charges made to shippers who use elevators and those who do not. This complaint was from Eudora. The party complaining in this instance stated that he was charged on shipments of grain from Eudora to Kansas City, two cents per hundred pounds over and above the rate of grain shipped over the same line when consigned to elevators. His grain was Zenith mills. consigned to the railroad admitted the charge and justified it by showing that "where grain is promptly delivered to elevators it is, as a rule, promptly disposed of, requires less switching and less labor in every way at our Missouri River stations than when delivered on the track." The Commissioners reviewed the case at some length, and decided that these considerations presented a "possible state of things which is likely to entail great loss on the Company by impeding its business, and inconvenience on the public by abridging the Company's carrying facilities. It is, many accounts, highly desirable that shippers should avail themselves of the facilities provided for the rapid loading and unloading of grain off and on cars. * "Besides, it is not fair nor reasonable that the shipper who, to avoid and save elevator charge, unloads his grain by methods that detain the car upon the track at the place of delivery for twelve hours should be charged the same and no more than one who, by paying for the use of modern methods, detains the car but one-fourth of of that time." The practice of taxing sidetrack deliveries by an increased rate on shipment, the Board said was not sanctioned by the law. The Commissioners were of the opinion "that the more just method, and one more in consonance with the spirit of the law, would be to tax the detention of the cars by way of demurrage, beyond such time as the Company shall fix as reasonable, having reference to all the facilities available at point of destination." In this case the complainant shipped to the Zenith mill, and it does not appear that he was chargeable with unreasonably detaining the cars, and the Board thought the rate of two cents extra in the rate to him was excessive.

THE TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE.

About Eight Thousand Members of the Brotherhood of Telegraphers Forsake Their Instruments-The Strike General Throughout the Country.

New York, July 20.

The telegraph operators here have struck.

At precisely twelve o'clock yesterday, Washington time, several hundred operators in the Western Union Telegraph room laid down their utensils and started for the halls. Superintendent Humstone, who was present, said the number to leave was about what had been expected from the reports made to the company. In the operating rooms were stationed several policemen, and these, together with the officials who were present, asked the strikers tions. The majority were hilarious, but there were not wanting those whose features bore traces of uncertainty and fears for the future. Many were thoughtful, and evidently appreciated that the strike might mean long weeks of idleness, with a scanty salary. The general feeling was one of confidence, however, and determination to win was the catch-word.
As soon as the advance guard of strikers reached the basement, the hundreds of curious people, who were there and in the street about the building, sent up a shout, thus spreading the news. In a few minutes more a bulletin board posted the facts, and the long contemplated and much talked of strike had begun, and was fully known at all news There was no disturbance on the Associated Press wires, which tap Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia with their tributary territory, those wires being manned by Associated Press telegraphers, who have made no demand and have no

CHICAGO, July 20. The great strike of telegraph operators was inaugurated in Chicago at 11:05 yesterday. The majority of the operators at the Western Union, Mutual Union, and Baltimore & Ohio companies left their desks in a very orderly manner, and were received by crowds of spectators in the streets with cheers as they marched along. A good many of the lady operators joined the strike. The sirikers repaired to Uhlich's Hall, where they went into secret session. The chief operators and a few of the men staid in the operating rooms and managed to keep business going. A large number of the officials' clerks are telegraphers and were at once assigned to the operating-rooms, and a score or more of men from country offices were taken in to fill the places of the strikers.

Simultaneously with the marching out of the Western Union men the operators on the Board of Trade floor quit their instruments and went out on the street to greet their fellow strikers. The Baltimore & Ohio office was also deserted at the same moment.

By twelve o'clock communication was re-established with Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Toronto, Baltimore, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Indianapolis, Cincin-nati, Omaha, and St. Louis, which points are the most important telegraphic centers. It is understood more men are left in Chicago than in offices east of here. Almost none remained in New York. Pittsburgh had ten at noon, Philadelphia seventeen, Cincinnati twelve, and Omaha sixteen. The Chicago "C. N. D.'s" (commercial news department reports) were being sent hence on four wires, which will acquaint outside boards of trade with the condition of Chicago markets in fair shape.

WASHINGTON, July 23.

In this city twelve operators are at work instead of fourteen, the regular number. Nine of the day force worked through Thursday, and it is understood five of these promised to return to work to-day. Twenty men are employed during the day. At the American Rapid office the manager and struck.

The telegraphers' strike in the main office of the Western Union Company here occurred at 11:30 yesterday. At that hour the Local Chief of the Brotherhood gave the signal, three raps on the desk. The signal was obeyed by all members of the Brother-hood rising and going immediately out. There was no confusion, and no excitement. Only about half a dozen of the working force remained at their desks. Other operators will soon be put on.

At the main office of the Baltimore & Ohio every operator went out, and business is wholly suspended. The same happened at the main office of the Mutual Union. On 'Change no messages were received or sent by either of the three companies having offices there. At the Western Union Office a guard was immediately placed to prevent outsiders entering the operating room. All operators shout the office room. room. All operators about the office were sent to duty up-stairs.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 20.

FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Silver that is not in frequent use will not tarnish if buried in oatmeal. -The Maricopa Indians on Salt River. Arizona Territory, are said to raise the finest and cleanest wheat in the Territory. Shirred Eggs: Butter a dish and break into it a number of eggs, taking care that they do not encroach upon each other enough to break the yolks. Sprinkle pepper and salt over them, put a small piece of butter upon each, and add a table-spoonful of cream for each egg. Bake in a hot oven until the whites are set.—N. Y. Times.

-A writer says in the Country Gentleman: "My experience with the use of paris green for rose bugs on grape vines was pleasant last summer. Tused a teaspoonful in a pail of water, and repeated it after heavy rains. It cleaned the vines of bugs, and did not injure the vines in the least."

-The tin cans in which fruits, vegetables and meats are preserved are, as a rule, carefully made with a view to prevent any contamination of their contents with poisonous materials, the main danger being from the solder, which contains lead. The Manufac-turer's Gazette says: "If there were any trouble we should hear more complaints than we do now, and we must conclude that the tin cans in common use are, to all intents and purposes, harmless.'

-When meal is fed plain to cows they often pass it with but half digestion, or in this shape it is apt to pass into the intestines without being returned with the cud to be remasticated. This creates a loss, and to prevent it mix the feed with wet cut hay, straw, fodder or other coarse feed. It is said that meal fed dry, if not mixed with rough feed, will be better masticated than when it is fed wet.-Prairie Farmer.

-Jelly rolls are delicious made from this recipe: Three eggs, half a cup of butter, one cup of flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder, twothirds of a cup, of pulverized sugar, a little salt, bake in shallow pans-a dripping-pan, well buttered, is good for this purpose; put in the dough till it is about half an inch thick; take it carefully from the tins when baked and lay on a cloth; spread jelly evenly over it with a knife; roll while hot; if this is not done the cake will crumble. - Boston Transcript.

-In curing clover, the sun only is neccessary to wilt it after cutting. When this is well done the clover should be put in cocks, small at the base, but as high as they can be well made. The cocks may be tramped some in making them. In a day or two they become hot within and must be opened out, but not until all dew and rain has dried off. Take the cocks down in flakes without shaking to pieces and expose to the sun. After being thus exposed for an hour or two, the clover can be removed to the stack or mow. Each layer in the stack should have a light sprinkling of salt.

Poultry Diseases.

Canker in fowls should not be neglected, for it is often a forerunner of roup in its worst form. Chlorate of patash will be found to be an effectual remedy for all except the very worst cases. Put a pinch of the dry powder on the canker spots and keep the fowl from water for an hour or so. Two or three applications will generally effect a cure. In bad cases touch the spots with of lunar asustia and solution of alum or of chlorate of potash to drink. Chlorate of potash is a cheap drug and can be obtained in powdered form at any drug store. Keep fowls that have canker apart from the rest of the flock, and thoroughly cleanse all drink-ing vessels, feed boxes, etc., before they are again used for other fowls. Bumble foot is a wart corn, a lump on the botcom of the foot, and is usually caused by jumping from a high perch to a hard floor. When the lump appears to contain matter, cut it open, press the matter out, wash the foot with warm castile soap-suds, and keep the fowl in a separate coop on a bed of straw until the foot is well. To prevent this, put the roosting perches nearer the floor, or cover the floor with four or five inches of dry earth, or else make a ladder for the use of the fowls. When you see a fowl that is crop bound going around with a crop that looks larger than it ought, catch it, and if the crop is hard and swollen you may conclude that there is some obstruction in the passage from the crop to the stomach. Pour some warm water down the throat and then knead the crop gently until the contents seem soft; then hold the head down and the bill open and work at the crop a few minutes longer; after which give a tablespoonful of castor oil and shut the fowl up without food for twelve hours or longer. If this course of treatment does not benefit the fowl, cut open the crop and remove the contents with a teaspoon handle. Make the cut, which should be about an inch long, near the top of the crop. After the crop has been emptied, oil the finger and pass it carefully as far as possible down the passage to the stomach. Lastly, sew up the cuts, but don't sew all the edges together; take two or three stitches in the cut in the crop and then sew up the outer skin separately. Keep the hen on soft cooked food, and but little of that, and away from the other fowls for a week or so. Give no drink for two or three days after the operation. In making the cut be careful not to injure any large blood vessel. When a hen mopes around with hanging wings, appears in distress and goes often to the nest, but does not lay, she's egg-bound, and the first treatment should be a large lose, say two tablespoonsful of castor oil. If this does not give relief within a reasonable time, inject sweet oil into the oviduct. This is the season of the year that your poultry must be watched

In a Whirl of Water.

On Tuesday morning a young French Canadian mill-hand named Narcisse Meunier, in Eddy's new mill at Hull, Quebec, had one of the most marvelous escapes from death on record. It seems that while attending to his duties in the lower part of the mill he slipped and fell into the water beneath. At this point the stream resembles a gigantic seething caldron, but notwithstanding the warning of the rushing waters Narcisse, who is a powerful swimmer, struck out boldly for the shore. In spite of his efforts he was hurled down the waterway towards the Devil's Hole, where the stream enters the underground passage. Nothing daunted by the tremendous strength of the current, against which he was battling, Narcisse continued to fight for his life. At length he succeeded in getting near enough to the shore to clutch a projecting piece of rock. Fortunately for him some outsiders happened to see him clinging to the rock on the shore with the energy of despair, while the force of the cur-rent was almost tearing his arms out of their sockets, and came to his rescue. Had it not been for this he would inevitably have been sucked down into the Devil's Hole and probably never heard of again. No description can give the faintest idea of the dangers of this spot, but after one glances at it it seems incomprehensible that a human being should have been there and survived .- Ottawa Citi-

THE DANGER OF OVER-EXERTION.

A Stalwart Man Becomes Weaker Than Child and Then Recovers His Former Strength.

(Waterloo, N. Y., Observer.) In these days of rowing giants and ath-letic heroes fine physical development is more observed than ever before since the time of the Athenian games. A man who shows the elements of physical power is looked up to far more than in the days of our ancestors possibly because there are fewer specimens of well-developed manhood than then. An emissary of this paper met a magnificent specimen of physical power a few days since in the person of Dr. A. W. McNames, of Waterloo. His muscles, which showed unusual development, were as hard as wood. At his rement, were as hard as wood. At his request the writer sought to pinch him in the arms or legs, but found it wholly impossible. A realization of what is meant by an iron man was fully made manifest.

"Have you always been so stalwart as this?" inquired the news gatherer.

"Not by any means," was the reply.

"When a young man I was always strong and active and felt that I could accomplish anything. This feeling so took possession of and active and felt that I could accomplish anything. This feeling so took possession of me on one occasion that I attempted to lift a box which four men found it impossible to move. I succeeded in placing it on the wagon, but in two minutes from that time I was unconscious and remained so for hours and when I recovered consciousness I vomited a large quantity of blood. From that day I began to grow weak and sickly. I believed that I had suffered some internal injury and experienced a general debility. I believed that I had suffered some internal injury and experienced a general debility, which seemed similar to the effects produced by malaria. My back was very weak. I had no appetite, and at times loathed food. My lips were parched and cracked. My head felt as though it were entirely open at the top and it pained me on the side intensely. In six weeks' time I had fallen away from 208 pounds to less than 170. I was in a most wretched condition. I was completely discouraged."

"What did the doctors say about you?"

"Almost everything. I consulted no less than six different physicians. They all treated me and fone did me any good. At that time I was suffering intensely. I could not sit upright but was obliged to rest in a cramped, uneasy position. I was compelled to urinate every five minutes and I passed over three quarts every day. I was peried to urinate every five minutes and I passed over three quarts every day. I was not living, I was existing.

"One night (how well I remember it!) my wife had put the children all in bed when the feeling came over ma that I should live but a very short time. My wife and I talked matters all over and I gave the minutest directions as to what she should do talked matters all over and I gave the minutest directions as to what she should do after I was gone. I was not in a flighty condition by any means, for the doctor, on leaving town the day following, bade me good-bye, saying he never expected to see me again, for I was suffering with Bright's disease of the kidneys in its last stages. Within the next few days more than twenty friends came to bid me good-bye. Among the number was Or. John L. Clark. He asked me what I had used in the way of medicines. I told him. He then recommended a remedy of which I had heard much, but about which I was very skeptical. If faith were an element of power it certainly was lacking its my case."

"And so you did not try it?"

"On the contrary, I did try it, and to my surprise it seemed to go to just the spot. Indeed, it was the most palatable thing I had taken into my mouth for months. I velished it."

"And did it cure you?"

"And did It cure you?"

"Do I look as if it did?"

"Yes, indeed. What was it?"

"Warner's Safe Cure."

"A proprietary medicine!"

"Of course. What of that? I suppose I once had as great a prejudice against advertised medicines as any one could have. When I was studying medicine at Ann Arbor, Michigan, I used to vow with the rest of the class that we would fight all such remedies at all times. When a man comes down to the last hour, however, and bids his wife and friends good-bye, such bigoted prejudices as these all vanish, I can assure you, and any remedy that can cure is gladly welcomed."

"And how have you been since then?"

"As well—or better, than before."

"As well—or better, than before."
"Do you still exert your strength?"

"Certainly. But I do not over-exert, as formerly. My strength is increasing every day, and my health is number one. I know that my life was saved by Warner's Safe Cure, and I believe it is the best medicine that was ever compounded by any chemist or physician. I am willing the doctors should sneer at me for such a statement if they choose, but I have proven its truth, and am prepared to stand by it."

The above experience should be of great value to all who are suffering. It shows the description returns of this terrible male.

the deceptive nature of this terrible mala-dy; that all symptoms are common to it and that there is but one way by which it can be absolutely avoided. WHY do white sheep eat more than black

GERMAN AMBER. FIFTE

In the fall of 1875 my sufferings were terrible. I was swollen to such proportions that I feared my limbs would burst. I had the best medical talent obtainable, and at the worst stage of my illness, when my husband and many friends had given fiee up to die, the late Dr. John Woodbury made a thorough examination of my water, and pronounced my case acute kidney disease, bordering on Bright's disease, and accompanied by gravel, and recommended the immediate use of Hunt's Remedy. At this time I was suffering most terrible pain in my back, limbs and hoad, and could find no rest day or night for weeks, and I was growing weaker daily until this kind physician ordered me to take Hunt's Remedy. Before taking half of one bottle I commensed to improve, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. This was nearly eight years ago, and I have had no return of the disease. I have recommended Hunt's Remedy to others in similar cases, and it has never failed to cure. I have laso used it for sick headache, and found in it a sure relief. I think it the best medicine made, and cherrolly recommend it to all.

GERMAN AMBER SEED WHEAT. 50 Bushels to the Acre. To the Editor :

To the Editor:

The farmer who wrote to you last week about the Garman Amber wheat did not state all the facts in the case. I produced a pint of this wheat from the Department of Agriculture at Washington four years ago, and after planting it two years isolated from all other grain, in 1821 raised from 10 acres in a fraction of 500 bushels of as fine wheat as I ever saw grow. The millers to whom I submitted samples in two and five bushel lots pronounced it the best milling wheat they ever saw and would have bought all I had at a high price, but this I refused as I wanted it for seed. The German Amber is a smooth-headed fall wheat, tillers finely, is a vigorous grower, large strong stakes, stands up well, has the large ext heads I ever saw on wheat and the berries are large and fat, and in some instances have been procured that had as high as 65 grains in them. It stands the winter finely and is absolutely clear of all other kind of seeds. I think, and my neighbors coincide with me that the German Amber wheat is the best fall wheat that ever was planted in this section of the country.

If any of your readers desire some of this wheat for seed they can procure it from Phit. Chew. Editor Journal of Agriculture. Til Chestnat street. St. Louis, Mo., with whom I have placed all I can spare this season, at following prices. Single bushel, $5.50; 3 bushels, $10; 5 or more bushels at $5 per bushel. A sample package 25 cents.

St. Louis Co., July 17, 1883. St. Louis Co., July 17, 1883.

I bought two bushels of the German Amber Wheat last season from my neighbor. L. H. Baker, and it has made this year from one-third to one-half more wheat than any I have planted. I consider it a better wheat by far than the old Geiden Chaff, as the heads are larger, the stakes stronger and the betries much heavier than any wheat I have ever grown.

St. Louis Co., July 16, 1883.
