COMANCHE.
J. M. Easley has been elected assistant cashier of the Farmers & Merchants National Bank in place of N. E. Palmer who resigned on account of bad health.

A letter from Dr. J. J. Eargle of Proctor, written from Louisville, Ky., states that he is at the bedside of his son Henry who is dangerously ill with typhoid fever.

Prof. J. B. Jones, who was superintendent of the DeLeon school last year and was principal of the Comanche school for awhile, has been elected superintendent of the Granbury school.

Mrs. J. M. Prealar, Sr., died at Beaumont Monday, the 13th, and the remains were brought to Comanche for interment, the funeral services taking place Thursday morning.

Little Halbert Rancier, whose leg was broken in two places and horribly lacerated by a hay press last week, is resting easy and his physicians think they will perhaps be able to save the limb.

Last Tuesday on Sweetwater a boy by the name of Leach, 15-years-old, was shot in the knee by some unknown party. It is supposed some one while hunting did the shooting, and that it was purely accidental.—Chief.

LAMPASAS

Miss Ada Perry, daughter of Dr. J. G. Perry, died at the family home near the Brooks crossing on the Lampasas river Monday at 7 o'clock a. m.

Mrs. Julia McVey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Absher, all of whom are well known here, was married a few days ago at Belton to a Mr. Puddy of that place.

C. G. Bierbower has completed the scholastic census of the city of Lampasas and the total shows an increase of only 14 over the census of last year.

J. W. Moore is home from Tishomingo, I. T., where he has a contract for putting in a system of water works, and went south Wednesday. He has formed a large company with a capital of $50,000, with headquarters at Hillsboro, Texas.

FREE! GIVEN AWAY FREE TO EVERYBODY $150 ORGAN AND TICKET TO WORLD'S FAIR AND RETURN. Two Presents in One.

Everybody who buys their goods from B. A. HARRIS will receive one vote for each 10 cent cash purchase for the Organ and ticket to World's Fair at St. Louis and return. Every 10c entitles the purchaser to one vote each for Organ and World's Fair ticket. $10 will give you one hundred votes for both of the presents.

The Organ is supposed to be voted to some club, society, church, Sunday school or lodge, or if you prefer, to some nice deserving young lady.

The Ticket to the World's Fair and return is to be voted to the prettiest and most-popular young lady in Mills county.

There is no bars or strings on anyone as to how or who they shall vote for. Everything is open and free and you should use your own discretion in voting. The Organ is now on exhibition at Henry Martin's store. The Organ for the World's Fair ticket is on deposit at the D. H. Trent Bank. The place of voting is at R. E. Clements' Drug Store.

Each community in the county should organize and decide how and who to vote for, and by diligent and heroic work you may secure the organ for your Sunday school or club and per chance you might have the prettiest girl in your society that you would like to present the ticket to the world's fair to, and of course, some handsome young man would have to accompany her to the fair, which one of you boys will it be? The votes will be published each week in the Goldthwaite Eagle, so you will be posted as to the results. If your candidate is behind call at our store and invest yourself with more voting tickets. Remember one vote for every 10c purchase.

B. A. HARRIS, THE DRY GOODS MAN

IT IS HARD TO BELIEVE

That a merchant will drive away his trade by offering them inferior goods. There is little profit in all lines of dry goods just now for any one, but the people who buy them do not care for that. They want the same quality they have always had and if they do not get it they feel that they have been badly treated. We take care of all of our customers with consideration. We do not let them get into the habit of thinking our competitors sell better goods than we do. We guarantee everything we sell to be as represented. If goods do not suit bring them back and you will receive your money's worth, or we will refund your money. This does not apply to remnants or piece goods cut off.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

WHAT THE EAGLE EDITOR SAW AT THE FAIR AND ON THE WAY.

It is a hard matter to give anything like an account of the great exposition in a limited space, and to give a complete description of the fair would require volumes.

The Eagle editor left Goldthwaite on the night of June 5 and arrived in Dallas about 9 o'clock Monday morning June 6.

He joined a large party of Press excursionists and over the M. K. & T. railroad for the great Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis.

Our train was made up of three Pullman cars, one chair car and a baggage car. The railroad people had expected to make a record run to St. Louis, but heavy rains in the Indian Territory caused them to abandon that idea early.

Before the start was made they learned that the track was in a dangerous condition at several points in the Territory and, consequently, at Denison the train was run onto the Frisco track and was carried over that track to Vanita, I. T.

Again at Parsons, Kansas, the route was changed and instead of making a direct run to St. Louis we were carried around by Paola, reaching St. Louis exactly twenty-four hours late.

The splendidly equipped train was devoted exclusively to the use of the newspaper people and General Passenger Agent W. G. Crush accompanied the party, and while we were considerably delayed the trip was presently resumed. The excursionists could find cause to complain.

After getting our baggage located at one of the temporary hotels near the grounds and removing a little of the "dust of travel" we started for the fair, expecting to get a pretty good outline of the show that night so we could see the entire exposition the next day.

This idea seemed to suddenly leave us as we passed through the gates and looked upon the wonderful structures and the beauties of the surroundings. As far as the eye could reach in every direction were gigantic structures outlined by thousands of electric lights of various colors.

Even the sky above seemed ablaze and the earth looked transparent. The magnitude of it all seemed beyond human comprehension and we who had been so full of confidence of our ability to "cover the field" at a glance, now commenced to wonder how it could all be and to think with awe and amazement of the master minds that had planned this beauty and grandeur.

Passing around the manufacturers building the sight of the cascades suddenly burst upon us and we felt that surely it must be that our "sub-conscious mind" was wandering while we slept at the "ehack" where the hay mattress on the iron bedstead in the 5x7 room had been selected as a home.

Pen can not picture nor can fancy invent words with which to describe the feelings of one who sees at night for the first time the grandeur and beauty of the magnificent cascades.

It would be idle to attempt to tell the readers of the exhibits in detail. There is no limit, apparently, to the wonders and the arts there displayed. So common becomes the most elegant structures and the costliest exhibits that one passes them by with hurried glances.

If there is one objection to be urged against the arrangement of the Louisiana Purchase exposition surely it is that there is too much of it and its magnificence is beyond the comprehension of the human mind.

The newspaper people were certainly well treated by the exposition management and they have every cause to be thankful to President Francis and his co-laborers. A representative of the fair boarded the newspaper special before St. Louis was reached and all the previous day with tickets of admission were given all of the passes they needed. At the reception at the Texas building Thursday afternoon Mr. Francis announced that the tickets of admission to the grounds would be recognized at the various attractions on the Pike, and the editors were glad to use them on all occasions.

The Texas building is one of the finest state buildings on the grounds. It is built in the form of a star and is beautiful in architecture and construction. The furniture, too, is all that could be desired and the lady members of the Texas commission alternate each week in serving as hostesses in the building. When we remember that this building was erected and is maintained by the liberal and enterprising people of this great state without the aid of a legislative appropriation, while most of the other states appropriated thousands of dollars for their buildings, we can not but feel proud of the Lone Star state and her people.

Not only does the state building make a good showing, but the display in the various exhibition halls are decidedly creditable. In the agricultural department the products of this great state show to a good advantage, while in the horticultural exhibit it is shown that Texas can not be surpassed in fruit growing.

The Eagle editor and his family spent eight days and a good portion of each night in the fair and then only saw a small part of it. There is so much to see that one becomes bewildered and after looking and walking for a week or ten days the visitors will be glad to get home and rest.

It is but just to the people of St. Louis and the fair management to say that the reports of heavy charges by hotels and people in other lines is entirely without foundation and the circulation of such reports is an injustice to all parties concerned. In the first place, such stories will prevent a great many people going to the fair who would go if they knew the facts, and then, the people who would profit by the necessary expenditures of visitors will be unjustly deprived of that much patronage. Almost all of the hotels near the fair grounds charge $1 per day room rent for each person and 50 cents for each meal. At restaurants a person can get plenty to eat at prices ranging from 15 cents to $2 and upwards, according to the bill of fare, but in every case you "call for what you want and pay for what you get" and the menu card tells plainly what the price will be, so there can be no objection on that score. It is better to take a room near the fair grounds, we believe, for in this way the necessity for using street cars is obviated and it is more pleasant and convenient. There certainly need be no fears about securing hotel accommodations, for the provisions along this line have so far greatly exceeded the demand.

Those who can see the fair should do so, for without a doubt this is the greatest show of the kind ever seen in America and after seeing it a person will not regret the expense.

PLEASANT GROVE.

Editor Eagle: Farmers are through re-planting cotton since the heavy rains and are now holding high carnival with the grass.

News is scarce as everybody seems to be very busy at home. Mrs. Sam Ross and her pretty little daughter, Wyvette, from Goldthwaite have been visiting the families of Messrs. Keese and Fletcher the past week.

Misses Rosa McPherson and Minnie Hines, two popular clerks from J. C. Street's mammoth dry goods house of Goldthwaite, were the guests of Mrs. Baker last Saturday and Sunday. Come again young ladies, you will ever meet a hearty welcome among our people.

Mrs. Sam Carson is on the sick list this week. F. N. Irwin has relapsed and been quite sick again, but is improving at present.

The children's day services were largely attended last Sunday. The writer was delighted to receive a call from Bro. Jas. Weems and wife from McCulloch county, who spent several days visiting friends and relatives. Bro. Weems is full of energy and spirit and is delighted with his work. We wish for him unbounded success in his noble calling.

WILLIAMS RANCH MEETING. The camp meeting at Williams Ranch, conducted by Rev. William Gaddy, will begin Friday night July 1. There will be plenty of water, room for camping, pasture for horses of campers, etc. Let every one come prepared to camp. Those coming from a distance will be expected to do this. The community in which the meeting is to be held entertain all who come, neither can the campers. So let those who cannot come, bring well filled baskets of good things and spend a day with us from time to time as you are able to do so. The prospects are for a great meeting.

IMPORTANT. We had ordered a tent for the meeting, but will be unable to get it. So come out on Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 and 30, and help us build a large brush arbor.

SEPTEMBER COTTON 12-1-2 CENTS!

The Old Way the Best.

The old way of making prices cheap enough to sell your goods is the best way. The most goods for your money is the business way to look at the matter—and that is my method—I have no premiums to give away unless you call low prices gifts. I offer no chance game and my customers take no chance when they trade with me. Of course I make some bargains that does almost look like a gift, but they are all dealt out to my customers alike, regardless of their station, occupation or personal appearance. I have no schemes unless you call LOW PRICES SCHEMES. The man who said: "Remember you can't get something for nothing" hit the key note. And the man who advised to "ask the price of everything before buying it" was equally as smart.

I Own My Own Store Building

And have thrown my DRY GOODS and GROCERIES TOGETHER, which saves me house rent and clerk hire, etc., and by cheap prices, good goods, fair treatment and honest dealing I tow my boat toward the shores of success, believing the time has come when the people LOOK AT BUSINESS IN A BUSINESS WAY. THE WORLD'S FAIR.

WHAT THE EAGLE EDITOR SAW AT THE FAIR AND ON THE WAY.

It is a hard matter to give anything like an account of the great exposition in a limited space, and to give a complete description of the fair would require volumes.

The Eagle editor left Goldthwaite on the night of June 5 and arrived in Dallas about 9 o'clock Monday morning June 6. He joined a large party of Press excursionists and joined the M. K. & T. railroad for the great Louisiana Purchase exposition at St. Louis. Our train was made up of three Pullman cars, one chair car and a baggage car. The railroad people had expected to make a record run to St. Louis, but heavy rains in the Indian Territory caused them to abandon that idea early. Before the start was made they learned that the track was in a dangerous condition at several points in the Territory and, consequently, at Denison the train was run onto the Frisco track and was carried over that track to Vanita, I. T. Again at Parsons, Kansas, the route was changed and instead of making a direct run to St. Louis we were carried around by Paola, reaching St. Louis exactly twenty-four hours late. The splendidly equipped train was devoted exclusively to the use of the newspaper people and General Passenger Agent W. G. Crush accompanied the party, and while we were considerably delayed the trip was pleasant.

After getting our baggage located at one of the temporary hotels near the grounds and removing a little of the "dust of travel" we started for the fair, expecting to get a pretty good outline of the show that night so we could see the entire exposition the next day. This idea seemed to suddenly leave us as we passed through the gates and looked upon the wonderful structures and the beauties of the surroundings. As far as the eye could reach in every direction were gigantic structures outlined by thousands of electric lights of various colors. Even the sky above seemed ablaze and the earth looked transparent. The magnitude of it all seemed beyond human comprehension and we who had been so full of confidence of our ability to "cover the field" at a glance, now commenced to wonder how it could all be and to think with awe and amazement of the master minds that had planned this beauty and grandeur. Passing around the manufacturers building the sight of the cascades suddenly burst upon us and we felt that surely it must be that our "sub-conscious mind" was wandering while we slept at the "shack" where the hay mattress on the iron bedstead in the 5x7 room had been selected as a home.

Pen can not picture nor can fancy invent words with which to describe the feelings of one who sees at night for the first time the grandeur and beauty of the magnificent cascades.

It would be idle to attempt to tell the readers of the exhibits in detail. There is no limit, apparently, to the wonders and the arts there displayed. So common becomes the most elegant structures and the costliest exhibits that one passes them by with hurried glances.

If there is one objection to be urged against the arrangement of the Louisiana Purchase exposition surely it is that there is too much of it and its magnificence is beyond the comprehension of the human mind.

The newspaper people were certainly well treated by the exposition management and they have every cause to be thankful to President Francis and his co-laborers. A representative of the fair boarded the newspaper special before St. Louis was reached and all the tickets had been previously supplied with tickets of admission were given all of the passes they needed.

At the reception at the Texas building Thursday afternoon Mr. Francis announced that the tickets of admission to the grounds would be recognized at the various attractions on the Pike, and the editors were glad to use them on all occasions.

The Texas building is one of the finest state buildings on the grounds. It is built in the form of a star and is beautiful in architecture and construction. The furniture, too, is all that could be desired and the lady members of the Texas commission alternate each week in serving as hostess in the building. When we remember that this building was erected and is maintained by the liberal and enterprising people of this great state without the aid of a legislative appropriation, while most of the other states appropriated thousands of dollars for their buildings, we can not but feel proud

PLEASANT GROVE.

Farmers are through re-planting cotton since the heavy rains and are now holding high carnival with the grass.

News is scarce as everybody seems to be very busy at home.

Mrs. Sam Ross and her pretty little daughter, Wyvette, from Goldthwaite have been visiting the families of Messrs. Keese and Fletcher the past week.

Misses Rosa McPherson and Minnie Hines, two popular clerks from J. C. Street's mammoth dry goods house of Goldthwaite, were the guests of Mrs. Baker last Saturday and Sunday. Come again young ladies, you will ever meet a hearty welcome among our people.

Mrs. Sam Carson is on the sick list this week.

F. N. Irwin has relapsed and been quite sick again, but is improving at present.

The children's day services were largely attended last Sunday.

The writer was delighted to receive a call from Mr. Jas. Weems and wife from McCulloch county, who spent several days visiting friends and relatives. Bro. Weems is full of energy and spirit and is delighted with his work. We wish for him unbounded success in his noble calling.

WILLIAMS RANCH MEETING.

The camp meeting at Williams Ranch, conducted by Rev. William Gaddy, will begin Friday night July 1. There will be plenty of water, room for camping, pasture for horses of campers, etc. Let every one come prepared to camp. Those coming from a distance will be expected to do this. The community in which the meeting is to be can't entertain all who come, neither can the campers. So let those who cannot camp, come, bringing well filled baskets of good things and spend a day with us from time to time as you are able to do so. The prospects are for a great meeting.

IMPORTANT.

We had ordered a tent for the meeting, but will be unable to get it. So come out on Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 and 30, and help us build a large brush arbor.

of the Lone Star state and her people.

Not only does the state building make a good showing, but the display in the various exhibition halls are decidedly creditable. In the agricultural department the products of this great state show to a good advantage, while in the horticultural exhibit it is shown that Texas can not be surpassed in fruit growing.

The Eagle editor and his family spent eight days and a good portion of each night in the fair and then only saw a small part of it. There is so much to see that one becomes bewildered and after looking and walking for a week or ten days the visitors will be glad to get home and rest.

It is but just to the people of St. Louis and the fair management to say that the reports of heavy charges by hotels and people in other lines is entirely without foundation and the circulation of such reports is an injustice to all parties concerned. In the first place, such stories will prevent a great many people going to the fair who would go if they knew the facts, and then, the people who would profit by the necessary expenditures of visitors will be unjustly deprived of that much patronage. Almost all of the hotels near the fair grounds charge $1 per day room rent for each person and 50 cents for each meal. At restaurants a person can get plenty to eat at prices ranging from 15 cents to $2 and upwards, according to the bill of fare, but in every case you "call for what you want and pay for what you get" and the menu card tells plainly what the price will be, so there can be no objection on that score. It is better to take a room near the fair grounds, we believe, for in this way the necessity for using street cars is obviated and it is more pleasant and convenient. There certainly need be no fears about securing hotel accommodations, for the provisions along this line have so far greatly exceeded the demand.

Those who can see the fair should do so, for without a doubt this is the greatest show of the kind ever seen in America and after seeing it a person will not regret the expense.

SEPTEMBER COTTON 12-1-2 CENTS!

The Old Way the Best.

The old way of making prices cheap enough to sell your goods is the best way. The most goods for your money is the business way to look at the matter—and that is my method—I have no premiums to give away unless you call low prices gifts. I offer no chance game and my customers take no chance when they trade with me. Of course I make some bargains that does almost look like a gift, but they are all dealt out to my customers alike, regardless of their station, occupation or personal appearance. I have no schemes unless you call LOW PRICES SCHEMES. The man who said: "Remember you can't get something for nothing" hit the key note. And the man who advised to "ask the price of everything before buying it" was equally as smart.

I Own My Own Store Building

And have thrown my DRY GOODS and GROCERIES TOGETHER, which saves me house rent and clerk hire, etc., and by cheap prices, good goods, fair treatment and honest dealing I tow my boat toward the shores of success, believing the time has come when the people LOOK AT BUSINESS IN A BUSINESS WAY. Come and price my Dry Goods and Groceries before you buy is all I ask to convince you that I am the
