THE Board of Directors of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad Company met in annual session in Topeka last week. All the old directors of the main line were unanimously re-elected by a vote of over 145,000 shares of the company's stock. After the new Board had been organized, Hon. Oliver Ames, of Boston, offered his resignation, stating that a pressure of other business necessitated it, and thereupon A. E. Touzalin was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy. THE police of Atchison were some time since notified to look out for a young woman named Clara Wilson, who is insane and whose mania runs to incendiarism. She became violently insane while at the residence of Dr. S. A. Richmond, at St. Joseph. and was incarcerated in the Buchanan County Asylum. In a short time she was taken to her home in Bethany, Mo., where, after burning some property, she disappeared from that vicinity, but in a letter written by her to the prosecuting attorney of Bethany she threatened to take his life and burn the half of Atchison; hence the actification to the police. The stalls at the fair grounds in the latter city were burned, and the watchman said by a woman. Search was made and the woman was found and put in jail. The fire gained upon him, and just before reaching the stream his nearly exhausted pony stumbled and fell. Assistant Postmaster-General Hatton. It is difficult to imagine how Presi-

Filley, of St. Louis, one of the most abandoned political machinists in the country—unless it be the promotion of Assistant Postmaster General Hatton, who, to Filley's shamelessness as a ma-chine man, adds an impudence of his Department in pushing the fortunes of his own newspapers. Hatton has been and is the servile tool of the worst po-Republican and the Burlington sheet. Moreover, he looks upon his position not simply as a means of forwarding the advantages of his party, but of promoting the interests of its factions. Acts of tyranny and merciless barbarity, from which even the case-hardened politician, but kindly-souled man, Mr. Howe, shrank in ten-der-hearted disgust, Hatton took a delight in executing. Neither age nor sex has been spared. He chops off a head regardless of the misery it might bring to the office-holder or the trouble and annoyance to the public. Indeed, trying to crush out. A Happy Organization.

The Republican party is a peculiarly happy organization. This verdict is not upon an abstract theory but has its foundation on the well-settled principle that busy minds afford a fruitful field to cultivate contentment. well established fact that constant occupation drives off the spirit of restlessness, and light labor serves to reinvigorate the tired senses. The maxims, verified as they are by the test of time, are sufficient to prove the first proposition, if the other conditions can be established. Of course, literally speaking, some difficulty might be met in this particular. The party collectively can not be said to have a mind, and in the light of recent history there is ample room to question whether the members of it individually are better provided. But in order that a measure of amiability may be preserved it is safe to assume that they are thus endowed, though the strength or weakness of the substance may be properly left to conjecture.

This much being conceded, it requires little reasoning to prove that the grand old party must be as happy as a clam at high tide. At least its hands and minds ways light, for experience proves that the task imposed is sometimes much too burdensome to be borne by the feeble structure upon which it falls. But it is a willing service, and that is something. Persistence is another ruling characteristic that gives a flavor of contentment to the laborers. When defeat is the harvest of the effort, the result is accepted with undisturbed equanimity and a new start taken in the battle against adverse circumstances. If vicory spreads her wings over the work in hand, the harvest of his triumph is ac-

the spice of variety to give zest to its prosecution. First and most important in the catalogue of effort has universal ambition to plunder the peo-ple. In this there has been developed ously, and new plans invented with amazing rapidity. But these labors are onerous and exhausting. It is fortu-nate, therefore, that a change of tasks affords diversion, and that there is always at hand a fertile soil into of pneumonia.

which the tired laborer may plunge. This limitless arena is the field This limitless arena is the field of harmony. Harmonizing is al-ways in order. First in one State and then in another the efforts of the party leaders are constantly invited. Periodically the announcement is made that the work is completed, but this is simply a harmless fiction. Promise of bargain with a sect or the fragment of some broken organization allure them away for a time, and the announcement own in employing the United States mails and the United States Postoffice a pleasant subterfuge, but the cessation a pleasant subterfuge, but the cessation is only temporary and work is soon relitical elements of his party. Arbitrary Arrests in South Carolina.

An arbitrary arrest in South Carolina under the Federal Election laws calls to mind the struggle in Congress over the attempt made four years ago to repeal those odious anti-republican statutes. It will be remembered that in 1879 the this offensive upstart shares the alleged sentiments of the great Vanderbilt. During the Virginia campaign Mrs. Pine was postmistress at Manassas. Her sex was a political disadvantage to her, but, in addition to that, she committed the more serious offense of being the sister of a man whom Mahone was twing to crush out. Mahone got her miles away. The entire population of Manassas signed a remonstrance against Mrs. Pine's removal, and this was presented to Mr. Howe. The latter never was a Civil-service Reformer in arbitrary arrests could be made under theory, but in practice his love of jus- the laws, and that if such a proceeding were attempted public sentiment would speedily correct the wrong. The sequel proves that the apprehensions expressed by the Democrats were only too well founded and that the laws in question have office, and he suspended the order making the change. His unwillingness to discharge Mrs. Pine caused that seven-one who will read the testimony taken by-nine postoffice to figure at a Cabinet in the South Carolina election cases in meeting, where he was at last over-ruled in part through the agency of his First Assistant, who went to the White House to see the members of the Cab-deliberately intimidated negroes, drove inet and remind them of the importance | them away from the polls or prevented entire stop for half a day in consequence enabling the party in power to control the suffrages of the people by official surveillance, and compulsion, the arbitrary arrest above referred to is made at a time when there is no political exrespected gentleman was being burien at Green Bay. To promote this Hattod not be pleaded as an excuse for outrages perpetrated upon the voter. The story is briefly told. In Clarendon County, South Carolina, on Saturday, a Deputy United States Marshal arrested nine white men and a negro without showing his warrant or exhibiting any charge against them, and carried them off without allowing them even the poor privilege of changing their clothes. The Marshall intimated that the arrest was for an election offense, but refused to specify its character. When bail was offered for his prisoners, he declined to accept the ground that if he did he would lose his mileage! Such is the latest crime against personal liberty under the wicked and despotic system which the Democratic Congress of 1879 sought to repeal.—Exchange.

Mahoneism.

The white men of Virginia are by natural instinct Democrats. By the law of sympathy they are bound together to oppose Republican domina tion, Boss corruption and one-man power. Mahone has always aspired to be a dictator absolute. He was for a time the dictator of a railroad company. But his corruption was discovered there, and he had to leave the railroad business in disgrace. He attempted to become the dictator of the Democratic party, but the Democrats refusing to surrender their ship into the hands of so treacherous a helmsman, he turned are constantly employed. It can not be so treacherous a helmsman, he turned truthfully asserted that the labor is altraitor and organized a renegade party, protesting to those of his followers who vere Democrats that he was a Democrat, and to those who were Republicans that he was the enemy of the Democrats. By his false colors and his promises of office, together with the debt issue, he triumphed in his treacherous design. And no shame that ever fell upon a community was equal to the disgrace brought to Virginia, by the double-dealing of Mahone. The history of Mahoneism is well known throughout the length and breadth of the land-and the corruption of this man who is now cepted with benignant satisfaction. In allied with the Republicans-his greed. either event the fight is pressed forward to its consummation.

During recent years the labor has had burned recent years the labor has had war against Bossism last fall, and did much to cement the opponents of Boss rule, which resulted in a grand National been a Democratic victory. More About the American Girl. The era of the "good American" anded about the period when the day of a belle Americaine began. "Yurrup" vas the moving agent in both. The rast fortunes made in the mines and ands of the further West set at leisure he Southern planters; and after the var petroleum and shoddy increased his class immensely. "Yurrup"—and great deal of it—became the fashion, and every home arrival sent another to ollow the prevailing example. Colonies of Americans settled in every European capital, and the semi-Europeanized Republicans, whom Henry James has satirized in many novels, and George artis has castigated in the Potiphar Papers,' became familiar to all who had eyes to see and ears to hear. The "Tuileries Americans" were a proverb; and "the Emperor"—for to them Napoleon III. was the only Emperorpensioned off half his ready-made nobilty upon the rank-loving ladies, whose papas had made many dollars in pork, "ile," soldiers' coats, or Nevada silver mines. But these were no more the typical American girls than the hooked-nosed people who used to sit round the Homburg tables and still haunt those of Monte Carlo were good specimens of the nations which honored with their presence. Yet they helped to leaven the American mass. They made a European tour a necessity for every American who aimed at culture, and those visiting "Yurrup" brought back a taste for art, for house decoration after the British fashion, and a kindliness for the Old World and its institutions which were unknown in the lays of our youth when Mrs. Barney Williams was playing the conventional Yankee gal. The Americans complain that they also brought back a con-tempt for their plain-mannered countrymen, and an exaggerated mimicry of everything European, without the influences which in Europe keep some of our follies in their proper place. It is certain that we find Americans everywhere, and that in England, and to a less degree in the more exclusive ociety of the Continent-always excepting Paris, which is tolerant to anybody with money-they find access to society which would be closed to Britons of the same social grade. And as a rule they are very charming people. Elijah Pogram is as extinct as Dr. Ginery Dunkle; and if the mother of the Gracchi is sometimes objectionable, it is certain that the Gracchi are extremely pleasant additions to the old life of Britain. La belle Americaine is no more pronounced than girls in new countries, where social ambition is narrowed, always are. She is petted and run after as pretty women often are, especially in districts where men are more numerous than their possible mates. She sees no social distinction which is not open to money, and no use for money except to seek happiness in ostentatious grandeur. The result is that she grows up rather shallow and showy, a little impudent occasionally; sometimes valuing herself and her father's dollars at more than they are worth, and in very exceptional instances the delightful creature whom Dr. Dix anathematizes; but she is seldom absolutely bad. Actual immorality is left to the immigrants, who bring to the peculiar com-plaints and disability the same class is grapher. At present them.

Get money, honestly if you can, but get money," was a foolish father's advice to his son. Get money, if you can honestly, makes but a slight alteration in the order of the words, but varies the sentiment considerably. There is no harm in making money. It answereth all things. Used rightly, it is a power for good, and there is money enough in the world to form a lever by which the mass of humanity could be lifted, to a certain extent, out of its depths of sorrow and despair. Money we must have for money makes the mare go. Some can make money who have no faculty for saving. Would you save you must know how to deny those who would borrow and never repay as well as those who beg simply because they are too lazy to work. There are men who never want to see you except to ask the favor of a loan. They will ask for just one word with you, and that one word is sure to be money. An impecunious fellow met a rich acquaintance, and not liking to ask directly for a loan, said, "Friend Smith, if you had ten dollars in your pocket and I was to ask you for the loan of five, how many would remain in your pocket?" "Ten dollars, to be sure," replied the rich man, without a moment's hesitation. He had gumption, and knew too much to part with his money by any such rule of subtraction.

O I see, said the impecunious man thus rebuffed. He was able to owe. He was The Story of a Dream by any such rule of subtraction.

O I see, said the impecunious man thus rebuffed. He was able to owe. He was one of the Micawber sort—always waiting for something to turn up. How like some people who are sick. They think to get well by letting disease take care of itself. But diseases do not heal themselves, and too late their victims full often find this out to their sorrow as death seizes upon them. Had they been wise in time they might have added many years to their lease of had they been wise in time they might have added many years to their lease of life. The cure was nigh them, as it is nigh to all who read this medley. These paragraphs tell the story, as a patient perusal will prove. Those who have keen insight and can read between the lines may solve the conundrum the sooner for it, but upon all light will dawn ere they read the final word of our story.

Light will dawn, we said, and so it will, light of hope and help. Light is what a certain individual wanted. Mr. Jones we a certain individual wanted. Mr. Jones we will call him. He was very sick. Consumption had fastened its fangs upon him. He had long neglected catarrh, and laughed at the idea of taking anything for it when advised to do so, and so went from bad to worse. His lungs became diseased, a hacking, church-yard cough racked him almost to pieces, and he was fast wasting away. A mere shadow of his former self, he scarcely slept at all at night, or slept only to dream horrible dreams. Talk of nightmare! A whole circus troupe, horses and all, seemed to make his bed the arena of their wild performances. In this case money did not make the mare go, for he spent a deal of money on doctors and physics and was nothing bettered. He ate little, and was fast going down to an untimely grave, leaving his wife a widow and his four bright children orphans, when, lo on one eventful night he dreamed for once a bright and happy dream, which our next a bright and happy dream, which our next paragraph will relate.

Death, the black-visaged monster, had until then stared him in the face, but the until then stared him in the face, but the dream brought him hope. He saw a bright, white-robed angel in his dream, who said:
"I come to bring you good news. Here is your cure--sure, safe, harmless, prompt, and reliable. Get well and seek to take health thereby to others. Behold the cure!"
With these words the angel was gone, but ere the trail of light which followed him with these words the angel was gone, but ere the trail of light which followed him had vanished the dreamer saw glittering in the light three golden letters—G. M. D. "What can it mean?" he said to himself, as he awoke from his slumber. "I have had a Good Many Dreams before, but never such as this." Startled and surprised, he aroused his wife and to her related his vision. Alas, she could not solve the problem. Remembering all the medical advice, and the physic, and the expense involved since her husband became sick, she expressed the hope that the letters were not intended to suggest that a Good Many Doctors must yet be consulted in addition to all that had been interviewed. He groaned in reply and remarked that if he had to consult any more there would have to be a Gold Mine Discovered in order to pay them.

In a short while our hero was well, and went everywhere among his friends and neighbors, telling of his good fortune and showing the sick and the suffering how they might be healed. Some laughed and continued to suffer, refusing to be healed. More were wise, took his counsel and proved his vision of the night as he had done.

Can anything be more delightful than health after sickness? To be a well man, to feel pure blood coursing through your veins, to know that lungs, liver, kidneys, and all the Grand Machinery Does neys, and all the Grand Machinery Does its duty perfectly in one's body; to carry health's ruddy mark on the cheeks. Ah, this is Good Most Decidedly. This was our hero's case, and thousands can tell the same story. The good angel has come to them. They have seen the letters Gleam Most Distinctly beforetheir eyes, and Going Most Definitely to work in pursuing the instructions given they have precovered instructions given, they have recovered that great blessing—Health. G. M. D. has been to them a channel of good, Good Mysteriously Done, and they have bid their sick friends do what all the sick should do, sick friends do what all the sick should do, namely, put themselves in communication with the W. D. M. A., Which Done Most Assuredly will put them in the Way Desired Most Anxiously.

Alas, that human nature is so slow to believe—alas, that men and women are bowed down with the burden of complaints, of which they might be rid—consumption, bronchitis, dyspepsia, heart-disease, kidney disease, malarial complaints, scrofulous diseases, skin diseases, tumors, ulcers, and many more. It would seem as though some ill deity had given every letter of the alphabet as many diseases as it could possibly desire, thus forming an alphabet of sorrow, suffering and woe. Happy they who the Great Mystery Discerning, have escaped the clutches of sad diseases.

But he has had the pleasure of seeing, as he says, Good Miraculously Done to hundreds upon his personal recommendation.

Dear reader, bear with us awhile if light has not yet dawned on your mind. The mystery will soon be revealed. If the key be not on your right hand it is at least on your left, in letters clear as daylight. A Good Many Delighted have discovered it and opened the portal to a long life and a useful one.

Initials of words that stand for all that is sorrowful and sad, letters, the self-same letters, are often initials of words that breathe of hope and benediction.

Search but awhile and you will find the boon, the blessing and the benefit. The mystery of the three P's, of the F. P., of the G. M. D., and of the W. D. M. A., Will beautiful and the word words are respectively. Dawn Most Auspiciously upon you.

Delightful testimonials of their gratitude. Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these—it might have been—so sayeth the poet. When we think of the myriads that might have been saved from untimely graves had they seen Mr. Jones' vision and sought his way to health, we feel sad. Yet we can not but rejoice at the Great Many Delivered from death's door by G. M. D., and that Pain's Positive Persecution has been escaped again and again by P. P. P.

Nirtues unnumbered serve to make G. M. D. the Greatest Mercy Deigned by favoring providences for the relief of sufferers, and its discoverer feels P. P. P. Perfectly Pardonable Pride in telling of the Growing Multitude Delivered from the Grasp Most Dreadful of Greedy Mournful Deat.

Every sick person is interested in the theme before us, and every well person, too, for who does not know some one who is sick and needs, therefore, the good news of health that is Given Many Daily.

Slovenly Manuscript. I have the misfortune to have a maniscript before me at this moment that would fill thirty of these pages; and yet from beginning to end there is no indi-ation that it is not to be read at a single oreath. The paragraph ought to be, and n all good writers it is, as real and as sensible a division as the sentence. It is in organic member in prose composiion, with a beginning, a middle and an end, just as a stanza is an organic-and definite member in the composition of in ode. I fear my manuscript is rather lisorderly, says another, "but I will correct carefully in print." Just so. Because he is too heedless to do his work n a workmanlike way, he first inflicts latigue and vexation on the editor whom he expects to read his paper; second, he inflicts considerable and quite needless expense on the publishers; and thirdly, inflicts a great deal of tedious and hankless labor on the printers, who are for the most part far more meretorious persons than fifth-rate authors. It is rue that Burke returned such disorderly proofs that the printer usually found it least troublesome to set the whole afresh; and Miss Martineau tells a story of a Scotch compositor who fled from Edinburg to avoid a great living author's manuscript, and, to his horror, was presently confronted with a piece of copy which made him cry: 'Lord have mercy! Have you got that man to print for?" But most editors will forgive such transgressions to all contribufors who will guarantee that they write as well as Burke or Carlyle. Alas, it is isually the case that those who have the least excuse are the worst offenders .-John Morley, in Fortnightly Review.

A writer in the Fruit Recorder makes the statement that last year one of the neighbors planted some cabbage plants among his corn where the corn missed, and the butterflies did not find them. He has, therefore, come to the conclusion that if the cabbage patch were in the middle of the cornfield the butterflies would not find them, as they fly low and like plain sailing.

Sidney Ourchundro, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "I have used Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam for the Lungs many years, with the most gratifying results. The relieving influence of Hall's Balsam is wonderful. The pain and rack of body, incidental to a tight cough, soon disappear by the use of a spoonful according to directions. My wife frequently sends for Hall's Balsam instead of a physician, and health is speedly restored by its use.

"But I will iron for you while you are getting the water," said Louise, and this being accepted, she worked until the water came and then, drinking, revealed her identity. "Well, fo' de Lo'd, honey!" cried Auntie, with eyes gleaming like plaques from an ebony wall, "de old man no' nobody else ever wear dat shirt agin, nohow!" No Gongs, No Banners .- "A Summer Idyl," From a Providence Merchant.

MR. GEORGE H. DAVIS, a fruit dealer at 297 West minster street, bears his grateful testimony to the un-equalled excellence of the production of one of our most skillful Providence pharmacists. Mr. Davis, says: "Last spring I was very greatly troubled with severe inflammation of the kidneys, and it became so bad that at times I urinated blood, and my suffering were intense. My condition was so painful that for a while I was scarcely able to attend to business, and the severe pains would come so suddenly and severely that I would be obliged to leave a customer whom I might happen to be waiting upon. During a part of the time I was unable to walk, and scarcely knew whatto do or which way to look for relief. At this time africad recommended Hunt's Remedy I took two bottles of it, and it took right hold of my disease and cured me very speedily, and I have experienced no trouble with my kidneys since.

Furthermore, Hunt's Remedy has strengthened me very much, and since I began to use it I have been able to attend to business, and am all rig \ now. I heartily recommend it to all. What it has done for me it will do for you who are afflicted."

Suffered for Twenty Years.

HON. JOSHUA TUTHILL, of East Saginaw, Mich., says: "Count me among the enthusiastic friends of Hunt's Remedy. It has proven in my case all you claim for it. Having suffered for about twenty years with severe disease of the kidneys (which our local physicians pronounced Bright's Disease), I made a journey East to consult the eminent Dr. Haven, of Hamilton, New York, of whose fame in this specialty I had heare much. Dr. Haven examined me carefully and simply said: Go and get a bottle of Hunt's Remedy and take according to directions. After having traveled so for fortreatment, it struck me as rather funny to be directed to take a medicine which I might have bought within a stone's throw of my own door; but I was in the doctor's hands, and of course I followed his advice, and right glad was I that I did so, for before I had taker Hunt's Remedy half a dozen times I found immense benefit from it, and by continuing the use of it for a limited time I recovered from my trouble entirely, and am to-day, I think, one of the most rugged of rugged Michiganders. The world is indebted to you, sir, for the promulgation of such a medicine, and I hope you may not go without your reward."
