STOCKHOLDERS MEETING

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Goldthwaite Rural Telephone company was held at the company's office in this city Tuesday afternoon. The greater part of the stock was represented and the business for the previous year was reported in detail and was found to be on a very satisfactory condition.

The stockholders elected as directors for the coming year the board that has served the past year, with the exception of Fred Faulkner, who takes the place of his father, Mr. L. W. Faulkner, deceased. The board is composed of the following: Dr. H. L. Brown, C. B. Mohler, Jno. W. Roberts, J. C. Street, W. B. Jackson, Fred Faulkner and R. M. Thompson.

The directors then re-elected the officers who served the past year, who are: Dr. M. L. Brown, president; J. C. Street, vice president; C. B. Mohler, secretary and treasurer.

A BIG DEAL

J. W. Hill of South Bennett this week purchased W. W. Westerman's irrigated farm in Jones Valley and has already taken charge of the property, altho he will not move his family there until next week. The consideration was $10,800 and in the deal Mr. Westerman became owner of a nice farm in McGirk community. E. C. Jones will have charge of Mr. Hill's South Bennett ranch and will move to that place at once. Mr. Westerman will move to this city to make his permanent home and his and his good family have a hearty welcome.

MEETING CLOSED

The revival conducted at Nabors Creek by Rev. D. I. Haralson, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. C. D. Morgan of Goldthwaite, closed Sunday at noon. This was a most interesting meeting as well as successful. There were thirteen additions to the church, nine by baptism and four by letter and it is understood that a number of others will unite with the church there later. Dinner was spread on the grounds Sunday and in the afternoon baptism was administered and was witnessed by a large congregation. One most pleasing feature of this meeting was that every family in the community took part in the revival and the church was built up.

Henry Calaway was here from Tahoka last Saturday visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Calaway. He is doing well in the west and certainly indicates prosperity by his physical appearance. He is popular with a large circle of friends in Mills county.

The produce business of this county provides many thousands of dollars for the pockets of the farmers and makes prosperity in all lines. The people of this county are no longer dependent upon cotton. In fact, the fleecy staple does not make up a great portion of the resources of this county.

S. J. Tullos this week brought to the Eagle office some samples of splendid maize which was grown on his farm, a short distance north of this city. Like all good and successful farmers, Mr. Tullos diversifies his farming and has some marketable crops at all seasons. The maize on exhibition in this office has attracted much favorable comment.

What is your boy going to be as the result of the training you are giving him? Are you teaching him to be saving? Are you teaching him that character is the foundation of all success in life? Are you telling your boy about the vital matters of life, or are you depending upon the roving hand to do that? You cultivate your corn and take care of your live stock. Your boy needs his share of attention—he is of more value than many crops. A boy can never overcome the lack of careful home training. The counsels of a wise father can never be forgotten. The sacred trust of your boys training is your golden opportunity. You can lose all your crops and stock, you may find yourself an old man with but little of this world's goods, but a monument that will always endure will be your boys who place manhood and character first.—Ex.

CASH FOR FARM PRODUCTS

The reduction of credit accounts this year and the general increase in cash buying will be a strong stimulus to business in the Southwest when crops are put on the market. There will be many proud, independent farmers this year who will receive cash and deposit it to their credit at the bank instead of paying store bills contracted months before.

Those who have bought supplies on credit accounts for the most part have smaller accounts than usual, for the orchard, the garden, the poultry, the truck patches, the milk, butter, etc., have brought cash to help maintain the expenses of the home and the farm.

There is satisfaction in being able to buy what one needs with cash and take advantage of discounts and competition. Those who have no store accounts to pay may use the income from crops and animals to buy comforts and conveniences that contribute to health and happiness. That a larger per cent than ever before will be in a position to do this is a sure indication that we are making progress in farming and rural citizenship. Cash buying is thrift and 'preparedness.' It is a benefit to farmers, business men and the country in general.

As plans are being made for crops and livestock next year, there is little doubt that such safe and sane principles of farming and business methods will be arranged for, and this leads us to hope that the credit system as formerly practiced in this country is near an end. Surely no one will return to it unless it is absolutely necessary.—Merrin and Ranch.

A GOOD MAN GONE

Mr. C. L. Burks died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Daw in this city last Friday night, after a long illness, and his remains were laid to rest in the cemetery at this place Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Funeral services were conducted at the home and at the cemetery by Presiding Elder Thompson of Brownwood, assisted by Rev. J. G. Forester, pastor of the Methodist church at this place.

The following friends of the deceased and his family served as pall-bearers: Active—W. E. Fairman, Earl Fairman, D. Albert Trent, Howard Trent, O. H. Yarbrough, Hugh Kirkpatrick, J. D. H. Wallace, Honorary—Will H. Trent, B. F. Gouzin, H. C. Cobb, J. D. Brown, W. K. Marshall, E. B. Anderson, Walter Fairman, R. M. Thompson.

Mr. Burks made his home in this city for a number of years and was connected with the Goldthwaite Mercantile Co. When that company closed its business here he moved to Brownwood and purchased a drug store in the Southern hotel and was engaged in that business until a short time ago, when the condition of his health made it necessary for him to retire. He came here in the early part of June, with the hope that the change would be beneficial to him, but his condition was such that loving care of relatives and friends and the attention of skilled physicians could not save him.

Mr. Burks was a man of the highest principles and it was good to know him and be associated with him. He was genial and hopeful at all times and named as his friends all who knew him. He was a business man of splendid ability and qualifications and had high ideals and was unchangeable in his devotion to duty. He was a member of the Methodist church of Brownwood and his noble Christian character drew him very close to his pastor and other Christian workers and the announcement of his death caused universal sorrow.

He leaves a wife and two sons, a sister and two brothers and other relatives and to them all the sympathy of the people is extended in their overshadowing bereavement.

PRIMARY ELECTION LAW

Advocates of the abolition of the primary election system in Texas have a concrete example of the convention system in the proceedings at Houston this week and can easily see the benefits of the primary plan. Notwithstanding the people of Texas—the Democrats of Texas—voted in overwhelming numbers for the retention of the Robertson insurance law, not a word is said in the Democratic platform of principles about the retention of that law, but on the other hand those who controlled this convention are known to favor the repeal of the law in the face of this majority and a declaration by the convention would be decidedly annoying. They could not declare against the law when the people had emphatically endorsed it, so they have it unendorsed in the convention and hope to bring influence to bear upon the legislators to have it repealed or annulled. The same fate befell the prohibition amendment in the convention. Not a word is said in the platform about demanding the submission of the question, but every energy will be exerted to make the legislators believe the wish of the voters as expressed in the primary is "not binding upon them."

These two examples should forever put at rest the opposition to the primary by those who favor honest politics. Every man informed on political subjects and political history knows that a dozen men in Texas can manipulate the state conventions and carry thru their schemes and desires, regardless of the wishes of the great mass of the people.

The primary election law is the only means the Texas voters have of protecting themselves against political tricksters and convention manipulators.

Activities of persons suspected of being spies employed by foreign Governments to acquire information regarding the nature and extent of the defenses of the Panama Canal have made the administration decide to request congress to supplement the existing laws against the improper acquisition of knowledge of military and naval plans and fortifications. Several of the military powers of the world are believed to have undertaken to obtain information as to the character of the defenses of the Panama Canal. The latest incident to excite suspicion is the operations of a little Japanese power vessel, ostensibly a fishing launch, which sought to obtain a permit for pearl fishing in the waters of Panama Bay and vicinity. The canal authorities have been warned that this craft appeared to have been making surveys.

The death penalty was assessed in Dallas court this week against a negro brute who confessed to the murder of Miss Zeola Cramer, a trained nurse in that city on the night of March 27. The negro was arrested on a charge of burglary at McKinney and the officers secured a confession from him of the murder of the young lady. It will be remembered the nurse was murdered on the campus of a ward school in Dallas and the murder remained a mystery until the arrest of the felon some weeks ago when he made a clean breast of the crime. He said he did not intend to murder the lady, but was trying to prevent her calling for help when he robbed her of her suit case, which he thought contained money.

The indications are that the price of cotton will be more satisfactory from the outset than it has been for a number of years. Already some sales have been recorded at 15 cents and it is thought likely the market will remain somewhere near that point.

A couple from Granbury went to Fort Worth Tuesday to be married by W. J. Ramsey of the Ham-Ramsey combination, but were disappointed to learn that Mr. Ramsey was not a preacher at all, but a lay member of the Methodist church.

The sheriff of Baylor county was shot and killed by a negro prisoner last Sunday. The negro was handcuffed and struck the sheriff with the cuffs, rendering him unconscious. He then took the officer's gun and shot him to death. A posse from Seymour pursued the murderer and killed him.

The chase by the United States of the islands St. Thomas, St. Croix and St. John, lying east of Porto Rico and comprising an archipelago known as the Danish West Indies, is provided for in a treaty signed this week by the United States and Denmark. It will be submitted at once to the United States Senate and the Danish Parliament, whose ratifications are necessary to complete the purchase agreement.

Strong influence will be brought to bear upon the next session of the legislature to prevent the submission of the constitutional amendment providing for state wide prohibition, but it seems hardly probable that the will of the people can be defeated in this way. However, some of the leading prohibitionists have declared that they will bring on prohibition elections in the larger cities of the state as soon as it is definitely determined by the legislature to disregard the demand made for submission, if the law making body should so decide.

The vote on the subject of a strike by the railroad trainmen involving 225 railroads in the United States was almost unanimous in favor of the strike. It is not likely the railroad companies will agree to the demands by the trainmen and the strike will be called at no distant day. While the strike will work a decided hardship on the country for a time the result will be beneficial, for a long stride will be made toward government ownership of railroads. Of course, the government would have no way of forcing men to continue in the service if they desired to retire, but in the matter of interfering with others engaged in the service a decided change would be made. In this strike, as in most other strikes, the trouble is not to secure workers, but to give them protection from the violence of strikers and their sympathizers.

On account of the failure of contestants to file their petition within thirty days after the election, as required by law, a decision was rendered in favor of the bonds, without taking into consideration any evidence as to the legality of the election or qualification of voters. The election was on the proposition of issuing $10,000 in bonds for the erection of a new school building. The issue carried by the narrow majority of two votes and a number of the large property owners joined in filing the contest.—Star.

The Possession of Money Means POWER

The men who are looked up to in the community, whose opinions are sought, are men of substance.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE

Mullin, Texas, August 8, 1916.
After closing my article last week I read the following words from one of the books of the Bible, (you find them) "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath from doing thy pleasure on my holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord, honorable, and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words, then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Conceding God's right at the helm, with unquestionable right to say what His subjects (the workmanship of His own hands) shall or shall not do, we need search no further to find how we shall spend our Sabbaths. If we seek our own pleasure in any way, indulging in needless and unprofitable conversation, going hither and thither for pleasure, we have no promise that we shall ride upon the high places of the earth, nor be fed with the heritage of Jacob our father. God says: "Thou shalt keep the Sabbath day holy, abstaining from work yourself and from anything (for pleasure) that would cause others to work. I am truly glad these are all scriptures and no one can charge the writer with springing something new and without foundation from the great builder of all truth.

Some may say this was spoken to people under the old dispensation which the coming of the new set aside and that man, on account of his peculiar advantages caused by the coming of the Christ, is not bound by these stringent laws. If God had set aside the Sabbath at the coming in of this new dispensation, then we might believe all former commands regarding the Sabbath were also set aside, but we find the great central figure of this new dispensation observing the Sabbath and calling attention of the people to these former laws, urging them to live in strict obedience of the same. If God is unchangeable the same yesterday, today and forever, there is not a shadow of a doubt as to the requirements of men now, as well as when the commands were first given. Then if it was wrong to seek pleasure and to speak their own words, it is wrong today and the great mad rush for all kinds of pleasure is appalling.

If there is any one truth more prominent than another in the teachings of God's word as to man's obedience it is the observance of the Sabbath, which means nothing less than a complete abandonment of self and all selfish interests to God and His one day in seven, as not our own, but to be used by us strictly for the glory of God and our well being, with all pleasure strictly eliminated, the world shut out, God shut in, with man submissive, humble and yet kings and priests, walking in Holy communion with the maker of worlds, heirs to all He possesses and happy with the thought that while we thus walk the powers of earth and hell can not shake us loose from our moorings. No room for selfish indulgences, no place for farm, political, or choosing of words along any line that would divert from this sacred communion and holy observance of this day of days.

We leave the reader to settle the question as to some of the pleasures being resorted to on the Sabbath in this one day. H. C. COBB

Many druggists recommend this remedy because they know that it is reliable. Obtainable everywhere. (adv)

BITTEN BY SKUNK

The little daughter of Will Nesbit was bitten on the forearm by a skunk last Friday night, at the home of Mr. John Nesbit in the Pleasant Grove community. Mr. Nesbit and family, who live in Young county, were visiting at his father's home and he and his little daughter were sleeping on a bed in the yard when the skunk attacked the child. Her screams awakened the family in time for them to see the animal, but it escaped before it could be killed. The child was carried to the Pasteur Institute at Austin Saturday and is being given treatment there, in order that there may be no danger from the bite. Dr. Lowrie and C. E. Payley accompanied Mr. Nesbit and the child to Austin and returned home Sunday evening.

CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. E. A. Street died at the home of her son, W. S. Street, at Rescoe, Sunday afternoon and her remains were laid to rest beside those of her husband in the Roscoe cemetery Monday.

Mrs. Street and her family located in the Star community in the early eighties and continued to make their home there until about ten years ago when they moved to the west. Her husband was a merchant in Star and one of the largest land holders in the county for a long time and when they moved west he invested largely in real estate and owned large bodies of land in that section. After the death of her husband she made her home with her son, Mr. J. C. Street, and his family in this city, but spent a good portion of her time with her other children. She had been in ill health for a number of years and her death was not unexpected.

Many friends of the kind lady and her family grieve with the bereaved relatives because of her death and offer them sincere sympathy in their sorrow.

Mr. J. C. Street and Mrs. W. W. Henry were summoned from here on account of the illness of their mother and reached her bedside before the end came.

Tents—Are you going fishing or camping? Better get a tent and other things necessary for your camping outfit at this store. We sell or rent tents, etc.—J. T. Weems

We misjudge men. We measure them by faulty standards. The dollar standard is useless, for Christ died poor and Commodore Vanderbilt left millions. Fame is not an accurate measure, for sometimes it rests upon falsehood. History is not always true, and some little men have great reputations, and some great men are unknown. Kant was dead long before men realized the greatness of his thought. Education is no true test of success. The unlettered father is sometimes a much bigger man than his cultured son, and the doctor of divinity is often a lesser saint than some of his uneducated hearers. Mountain peaks and stars are grand but they are no more useful nor beautiful than the blades of grass. To be just and merciful; to love honor and truth; to be pure and kind and loving; to live our faith and help our neighbors; this is true success.—Christian Guard Jan.

GRANDMA DRISKILL

Grandma Driskill, mother of our esteemed townsman, Jeff Driskill, died at the family home one mile west of Zephyr at an early hour yesterday morning after weeks of lingering illness.

Grandma had lived to the ripe age of 86 years and was known all over this section as a devout Christian lady always ready to do benevolent deeds.

The remains were tenderly laid to rest in Zephyr cemetery at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon where a large concourse of people had gathered to pay the last sad rites to one they had loved so long and to hear Rev. Teague, who conducted the services, who spoke of the departed's long useful life and the reward beyond the grave.—Zephyr News.

The kind and much appreciated lady was the mother of our fellow townsman, Capt. J. W. Driskill and has frequently visited in the home of her son here, and she had many good friends in this city who sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family.

A TRICK FOR DOING GOOD

When the government of the United States of America was first formed Benjamin Franklin was sent to France to attend to many interests of this country. One day he received a letter from a fellow countryman who was also in Paris. The man told of misfortunes which had left him in a strange land without money. Franklin believed the man was honest and worthy, and sent him a sum of money equal to about fifty dollars. In a letter in which he sent the money, Franklin made a queer bargain about how the loan was to be repaid, which he called a trick for doing a great deal of good with a little money:

"I do not pretend," wrote Franklin, "to give you such a sum: I only lend it to you. When you shall return to your own country, you cannot fail of getting into some business that will in time enable you to pay all your debts. In that case, when you meet with another honest man in similar distress you must pay me by lending this sum to him: requiring him to discharge his debt by a like action when he shall be able and when he shall meet with another such opportunity. I hope it may thus go through many hands before it meets with a knave who will stop its progress. This is a little trick of mine for doing a deal of good with a little money. I am not yet rich enough to afford much in good works, and so am obliged to be cunning and make the most of a little."—Texas Star.

STEAM ROLLER POLITICS

The votes of the people, the ballots cast at the primary election, have no more effect on politicians grasping for power or hoping for office than do little drops of water falling on the back of the proverbial river duck.

The whole trouble with these expert manipulators, twistlers and sidesteppers is that they manipulate too much and too long. They never know when to quit.

They manipulated at San Antonio and as a result a great and formerly popular governor had a vote cast against him by the people that was at least embarrassing.

A man who had served well and honorably in the halls of congress for many years was thrust forward as their choice for United States senator and he ran fifth in the race.

They scorned and defeated the prohibition delegates, who were in the majority at San Antonio, and as a result submission won in the fight where ballots counted.

They manipulated and schemed to defeat the Robertson insurance act and the counting of primary votes showed that great law approved by an overwhelming majority.

And yet they were not satisfied and had not learned their lesson. What cared they for the votes of the people? Why should they worry regarding primary ballots, when they were soon to be in their element, in the glorious work of convention controlling?

The boys from the "forks of the creek" may be able to vote right and often, but when they get to the big city, where there is the glare of the bright lights, the blare of music and the call of convention constructors, they are like a ship at sea without a rudder. They can not control themselves, but the other fellow can nearly always control them. They are butterflies flitting here and there, with wings easily clipped.

But that is not the tragedy of it. The real tragedy is yet to be seen, and will be seen later. Convention manipulators are successful only temporarily. They scheme and work and plot, but when the final vote is taken they are nearly always left at the post.—M. E. Foster in Houston Chronicle

The threatened strike by the organizations operating railroad trains on more than 200 roads in the United States may yet be averted by the employes agreeing to submit their claims to arbitration. The railroad managers have all along urged that the matters be submitted to the Interstate Commerce commission or some other representative body for arbitration. Since the votes of the men have been found to favor the strike almost unanimously the leaders are talking arbitration, realizing full well that the sympathy of the public is against an organization whose cause can not be trusted to arbitration.

A GOOD FRIEND

A good friend stands by you when in need. Goldthwaite people tell how Doan's Kidney Pills have stood the test. Mrs. Urbach endorsed Doan's over four years ago and again confirms the story. Could you ask for more convincing testimony?

Mrs. R. Urbach, Front St., Goldthwaite, says: "I was seriously afflicted with a bad attack of kidney trouble, the first symptom being a slight pain in the small of my back. This gradually got worse and I was hardly able to get about. Nights, I couldn't sleep well. If I caught cold, it always settled in my kidneys and increased my suffering. I finally decided that my kidneys were at fault, as the kidney secretions were unnatural. I then used Doan's Kidney Pills and received prompt relief. I am never without this medicine in the house."

The above statement was given on October 24, 1911, and on April 26, 1915, Mrs. Urbach said: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills, as I need them and they never fail to give me good results. I have all the confidence in the world in this medicine."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Urbach has twice publicly recommended. Foster-McBarn, Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)

THE DIGNITY OF LEARNING.

Time was when mere ability to read was a distinction. The ordinary worker could not read. Hence there arose a class 'cultured,' able to read, and they looked down upon those who worked. In turn, the workers came to look up to those who had more leisure and means and so learned to read and write and became 'cultured.' Now that all can read and write, speaking generally, 'culture' has had to find other grounds, and those the usefulness or the lack of it in the education of your boy and girl or mine. 'Culture' now depends rather on what you read than the mere ability to read. Such 'culture' is false at the very core and has no place in a democracy.

It is the purpose of learning, education, if you please, to fit men and women, not to be ladies and gentlemen, for they should be that anyway, regardless of ability to read or of what they read, but to fit them to be men and women capable of carrying on in life the part of real men and women. Therefore, the knowledge of those who raise the crops, mine the coal and iron, make the machinery, print the books, build the houses, run the railroads, sew the clothes, prepare the food, is of no less value or dignity or worth than is that of those who are in the learned professions or who belong to a class that possesses leisure.

There is no aristocracy of truth. There can be no snobbery in real, useful learning. Learning that cannot be put to use, be made to serve, is a hindrance rather than a help to its owner, and an injury to society. No real dignity of education can exist by reason of 'cultural' attainments. Rather it is to be found in the position of the worker, whether he digs a ditch, shingles a house or writes a message to his fellows.—Southland Farmer.
