VALUABLE INVENTIONS

New Airship and Vessel
Protector

✓Prof. Albert S. Johnston, late of Amarillo and now of Caradon has invented an airship that is in many respects far superior to those now in use. It is to be 150 feet long and have a capacity of 10,000 pounds. The color is to be that of the clouds and it will, therefore, be invisible and will operate noiselessly. It will be self-supporting in mid-air for thirty days.

He has also perfected plans for a fortification destroyer and one for protecting ships from submarines and torpedoes, the description of which is not so easily made as that of the airship.

Prof. Johnston has given these inventions to the United States government and has received several very complimentary letters from the navy department relative to his services and patriotism in this matter. The drawings have been furnished the Eagle for inspection and they certainly appear to be all that is claimed for them and the fact that the government officials think well of them is ample evidence that they are meritorious.

The Eagle is indeed proud that a citizen of Mills county has been able to render so great a service to the government as to perfect these inventions.

LIST OF EXEMPTIONS

A Shortage in Planks Necessitates Delay

A shortage in the blanks for filing affidavits supporting claims for exemption from army duty has caused a delay in making out the list of those exempted as well as those accepted for service from Mills county. Only a very few of those included in the first call failed to enter claims for exemption and it is believed by the board that the number secured for the army from this first call will be exceedingly small. All claims, however, must be substantiated by affidavits and as soon as these affidavits are in the hands of the board an announcement of the exemptions can be made. It can be stated with certainty, however, that a second call will have to be made to complete the county's quota of the required number of men for military duty and the second call will likely be made this month. The men accepted for service are to be assembled on Sept. 1 for training and it is likely they will not see active service before next spring.

CHRISTADELPHIAN MEETING

The Christadelphian convention at the reunion grounds is proving interesting and beneficial beyond the expectation of those who planned the meeting. There are some strong preachers present and the sermons are of an order that commends them to the thoughtful consideration of the people. The attendance at the meeting is good and the meeting can in reality be denoted as quite successful and beneficial.

LETTER FROM ALEX

Fort Morgan, Ala.

August 7, 1917.

To My Goldthwaite Friends:

This being Sunday and every one in camp writing to mothers or sweethearts, I will take a chance at dodging the waste basket and give you an idea of a soldier's life.

First, I want to say that playing soldier is a great game—a man's game. There is an idea firmly fixed in the minds of many that the army is a hot bed of vice, but to use the slang expression "there is nothing to it." True, as in all large bodies of men, we have some rough characters, but they are by no means in the majority. We have our social Bible club, Y M C A, Sunday school, prayer meeting and many other modes of moral entertainment. For amusement we have a gymnasium, swimming, wrestling, base ball, basket ball, boxing, etc.

But don't think a soldier's life all play, for there is always some work to be done and nobody to do it but the boys in khaki. Each one must do his best.

In a large body like the army camp one will probably have to work one day in two weeks and in the mean time he will be privileged to do as he pleases, except certain hours when he must drill and stand in formation, which practice is very necessary in making a good soldier. I want to say that if all of Uncle Sam's boys are like these at Fort Morgan we stand a mighty good chance to win this war. They are overflowing with enthusiasm and want to see active service.

The boys who can enter the army and have not done so are missing a mighty good thing. If there are those who read this and want to know more about army life, they can write me personally and I will answer all questions to the best of my ability.

Best regards to all in the interest of our country.

ALEX SHAW,

3rd Co. Coast Art

AN AUSTIN VISITOR

Editor Eagle:

Among the many things that I have seen, learned and enjoyed during my brief stay in Austin is the speech Governor Ferguson made to the delegates of the Farmers institute. I believe the governor spoke especially for the benefit of the Farmers Institute, but the gallery of the house of representatives was filled to overflowing with the people of Austin and students of the University. And these people received some attention from the governor and believe me they gave it back to him in language that could not be misinterpreted.

When I entered the building the governor was talking about the little one room school house by the side of the road and was longing for the time that the pupils of these schools would be furnished free text books, but he positively said nothing about these students being furnished free grub, free clothing and free automobiles to ride to school in.

Once while discussing the terrible state of affairs that the University is in the governor referred to the fact that a seaman minister was at the head of this great, though badly balled up institution and some one yelled, "Hurrah for Vinson" and a majority of the people present took up the cry and cheered Vinson's name for four minutes. When the cheering ceased the governor resumed his speech, but he did not refer to Vinson's name again.

A gentleman who stood near me was perfectly willing to entertain any one that would listen to him by telling them how he and Jim Ferguson had rail-roaded together. And this same gentleman seemed to take great delight in pointing out members of the Texas rangers force and in telling us what the rangers would do if the crowd did not be good.

When the governor was explaining how and why the members of the locating committee of the new A. & M. College issued their signed statement in regard to the locating of this college, a man in the gallery said, "Governor, did you sign this statement?" and the governor answered "I did," and the man continued, "Governor, you signed this statement knowing at the time that you signed it, that it was a lie and a fraud." Several men near the speaker's stand jumped to their feet and on small man commenced making frantic motions with his hands and arms and said, "Ladies and gentlemen," but that was as far as he got with his address, for a couple of men, who were standing behind him took a firm hold on his coat tail and set him down so hard that I distinctly heard his teeth pop. I saw a man coolly and deliberately reach for his hip pocket and remembering what the talkative stranger said about the rangers being so bad, I stepped in behind a big fat man so that the fat man could have unobstructed front view, but the man's hand returned from his pocket carrying a plug of tobacco, which was about an inch thick and long enough to get two good hand holds on. And taking a generous bite he quietly returned the tobacco to his pocket, completely ignoring the gentleman at his side who had been nudging him with his elbow and looking wistfully at the plug.

By this time the noise had ceased and the governor resumed his speech as if nothing had happened and he was soon speaking bitterly of Fuller's calling the legislature together, when he was interrupted by a tall distinguished looking grey haired man who asked the governor if he would allow a question. The governor said, "What is your name?" The name was given and the governor said, "State your question" and the questioner said, "Will you allow the representatives of the people to say whether or not you are guilty of the crimes which you are charged. Answer yes or no." The governor replied, "It is not necessary for the representatives to say whether I am guilty or not" and went on with his speech. The governor concluded his remarks by referring to a gentleman by the name of Macduff, saying there was no excuse for any one to stop fighting until they got enough, that the governor was a match for all comers.

After I had been searched and was told that all men who entered the galleries were searched, I attended the opening of the twice-called second special session of the thirty-fifth legislature. And after the governor's proclamation had been read, Speaker Fuller announced that he had called the legislature together for the purpose of considering certain charges against the governor with a view of preferring impeachment charges against Jim Fuller's document was then read to the house. And after a few remarks by Barry Miller of Dallas the house adjourned until Thursday at 2 o'clock. The fight is on and no doubt it will be the biggest "bear" fight Texas has ever seen since the days of reconstruction. May the right win. B. F. HARRIS

The investigation of Governor Ferguson by the legislature has consumed the time of the lower house this week. Attorney Hanger of Fort Worth represents the governor, ex-Attorney General M. M. The plan outlined for the eradicating of the pink boll worm and preventing the worm migrating north is to have the legislature create a prohibited zone along the border in which no cotton shall be planted and the United States will forbid the shipping of cotton from that zone. Similar measures are to be asked of Mexico, in the interest of the cotton growing industry in this country.

A statement by Elihu Root, head of the American mission to Russia, gives encouragement regarding conditions in that country. He says there is no more disturbance in Russia than in this country and expresses the belief that much assistance may be expected from the people of that nation in winning the war against Germany. He says the Russian women are playing a great part in shaming the men into doing their military duty and suggests that our American women might be of some benefit in the same line.

An announcement by District Attorney Crooker of Houston that he has turned from the anti-prohibition camp to that of the prohibitionists was the sensation of South Texas the early part of the week and his arraignment of the liquor business and its influence was indeed severe. He was twice elected to the office of district attorney as an advocate of the anti prohibition forces, but he now offers his services to the prohibitionists, stating that experience and observation in office have wrought the change in his attitude toward the liquor business.

MRS. JOHN O'CONNOR GAINS EIGHT POUNDS

Suffered From Stomach Trouble And Catarrh Five Or Six Years—Regains Health Taking Tanlac

Mrs. Jno. O'Connor, who lives at 338 East Oldman Street Knoxville, Tenn., called up the Kuhlman-Chambliss Drug Co., recently and said she wanted to speak to the "Tanlac" man. When Mr. Willis answered the telephone, Mrs. O'Connor made the following remarkable statement:

"I just wanted you to know and everybody else to know, what that Tanlac medicine has done for me. Why I have gained eight pounds already and have only taken it for ten days. I have just finished taking the first bottle and have sent Mr. O'Connor back to the store this morning for another bottle. This Tanlac certainly does just what you say it will do. I began to eat better, sleep better and feel better from the very first dose and the change in my condition has just been wonderful. I had a good doctor before I began using Tanlac, but he didn't seem to understand my case, and his medicine did not seem to do me any good so I just set it aside and quit using it.

"For the past five years or six years I have been in a run-down condition—nervous, weak and at times very dizzy. I had nervous headache and indigestion perfectly awful. My stomach was so weak I couldn't digest the lightest kind of food. I was nervous and depressed and slept very little. I had become so dependent over my condition I thought nothing could help me. It certainly was lucky for me when I heard of Tanlac. It is not like any other medicine I have tried—it seems to soothe my stomach, and is a fine tonic, too, because my appetite is good now and I digest what I eat. If any one had told me there was a medicine on earth that would make me gain eight pounds in ten days, I would have thought them crazy.

"I don't believe there is another medicine on earth like Tanlac. My catarrh is also a great deal better—in fact I hardly notice it any more."

Tanlac, the wonderful medicine that accomplished such remarkable results in Mrs. O'Connor's case is sold in Goldthwaite by L. E. Miller & Son, in Regency by Keeling & Keeling, in Mullin by J. R. Clark. (adv)

(Published by request)
In a little while your boy may be somewhere in France. You know not where, you'll only know that some where on the firing line, side by side with your neighbor's boy, he will be fighting on toward the goal that must be reached before the war is done, and there at home you'll wait and pray that he'll come back and God grant that he may. And God grant too, that he'll come back just as he went away, with shoulders back and head erect and in his eyes that light that comes into the eyes of those in whom there is no fear, that in future days or months or years, may point to him and say, "He heard and answered."

While he is gone unless you are brave beyond the strength of Laman kind, you'll dream of him and wake, and in these hours of the day—the darkest—just as the morning breaks, you'll take hand that soothed his brow in babyhood, and hold it tight and wonder, how it goes with him and where he is when the morning breaks on that same day. Somewhere in France X

By eliminating the agent-commission-business, which means that amount saved for the buyer. Agents will tell you their firms can buy marble or granite cheaper than your home dealer and make you a better price, which is false and misleading, as we dealers pay exactly the same price for the same grade of stock. ACTIVE DUTY

How A Volunteer Sees And Enjoys Army Duty

B. E. McGirk, who recently entered the engineering department of the army as a volunteer, writes to his cousin Edward Geeslin regarding his experiences and the letter is published for the information of the young men who are soon to enter the army:

Lewis Ranch,
Leon Springs, Texas,
July 29, 1917.

Dear Edward: I have been planning for some time to write you a letter, but have never gotten down to it before, so here goes to tell you a few scraps of what I have done and learned in the army during my few weeks of enlistment.

Leaving off telling my trip to San Antonio will say I arrived there on the night of June 5th and went to the Casual Camp at Camp Wilson, now Camp Travis near Fort Sam Houston. On the morning of the 6th took physical examination. The next day was sworn into the service for the emergency; was vaccinated and inoculated for typhoid. On the day following received issue of clothing consisting of one hat, one pair of shoes, two woolen shirts, two pair cotton pants, one pair leggings, one belt, eight pairs of socks, four suits underwear and a suit of overalls, besides a toilet kit consisting of a razor, brush and soap, two towels, a toothbrush, shoe brush, whisk broom, comb and brush, besides a "housewife," a little kit with needles, thread, buttons, plain end safety pins and a little pair of scissors.

I kept my own razor, brush and strop, a bath towel and some toilet goods I had brought from home, so I was a little better fixed than those who depended altogether on what was issued to them.

I remained in Camp Wilson until June 14, during which time I did a little infantry drill, worked two days in the company mess hall and was on guard one day and night.

When not on duty of an evening the men were allowed to go to town or spend their time as they chose.

One of the five large Y. M. C. A. buildings in San Antonio was but a few hundred yards from my quarters. There was ice water, writing material and table and plenty of papers and magazines. A piano and a victrola furnished music much of the time. Each evening about 7 o'clock there were several Bible classes—the one I attended was always interesting. After the classes was a picture show or some kind of an entertainment.

In town were shows, skating rinks and all of San Antonio's parks. The saloons were closed to men in uniform, that is they couldn't buy beer, wines or whiskey. On the night I reached the city they began putting into effect a cleanup campaign—closed the restricted district. That made the soldiers mad and scattered things considerably, but perhaps helped the situation some—I can't say as to that.

By a little misunderstanding I was obliged to enlist as an engineer instead of in the signal corps as was my intention.

On the morning of June 14th, together with several others, I was ordered to the camp of the 1st engineer's Train Infantry at Leon Springs. When I got here I found the train commander was an old Southwestern friend, a first lieutenant out of West Point about a year. That made me feel good, but he has not shown me any partiality—that wouldn't do for him or me either but he has been very nice to me.

Arriving here Thursday afternoon I went into the drills and exercises until Saturday morning, when I had to fall out of ranks at inspection. Was on sick list eight days because of belousness and fever brought on by my vaccination. After that I returned to duty for about ten days and it was discovered my vaccination wound was in very bad shape and I was relieved from duty about ten days more. The wound was almost as large as a silver dollar and was deep, though never very sore except during the first spell when it was feverish. For two weeks now I have been improving steadily and feel well and strong.

I expect my arm to be healed in two more weeks, barring mishaps. This train consists of about 170 men made up of a nucleus of about 70 experienced men from old engineer companies, and about 100 recruits. There are blacksmiths, electricians, gas and steam engineers, (locomotive and stationary men) carpenters, civil engineers, stone and brick masons and other trades and crafts represented.

Recruits get infantry drills with and without arms, instruction in knots and lashings, practice in building pontoon bridges which are built on dry land for we have no water handy.

Last week an outfit began work on a model system of trenches about two miles from our camp and about an equal distance from the officers training camp. There are about 1800 yards of trenches staked out. All types of open trenches together with bomb proof dugouts are included in this set of works which is intended for practice and demonstration.

The trenches have a system of barb wire entanglements of all styles—they are all more or less vicious looking arrangements.

Have spent the past two days working at the trenches. The "doughboys" (infantry men) do most of the digging, and the engineers put in the revetments, retaining walls, and do a hundred and one other jobs. The two afternoons past the "Jelly beans" as we call the men in the officers training camp, have come out and dug in the trenches. Such work with picks and shovels is entirely new to many of them and it is a show to see them at it, but they are toughened up to all kinds of propositions so they take hold and move some dirt.

The officers training camp is about four miles from where we are located. They have a big outfit over there. It looks like a small city scattered over the hills; I have been there twice, looked for Earl Fairman and Harmon

Lowrie, but failed to find them.

Our camp is a small affair, no other command is near us. We are about three and a half miles from Camp Funston. The officers training camp is only a temporary camp and we do not have all the conveniences and advantages of the larger camps.

It is claimed for our train that the men in it rank of a higher average of intellectuality and respectability than almost any other concern in the whole army.

I haven't been to Sunday school or church since leaving home. Have not been to town since I came here, almost seven weeks, but am going to ask for a pass soon and try and go down to Pleasanton where I have a cousin living. Then I expect to get a little taste of civilian life once more—if for but a day.

You will want to know what I have learned of the different branches of service and what I think of them. I know very little of any of them. Have had no chance to make acquaintances outside of my outfit, but the fact that many of our experienced men have been transferred to the engineers speaks well for it. At the same time they tell of many things in other branches of services that do not look attractive to me.

I hope it may not be necessary for any of our young men with families to leave home, but it's too early in the game to tell what will be necessary before the war is over and our men mustered out.

Some of our men are too keen to be sent to France and into actual service while others hope they will not sail and some wish they could get out and go home now.

The Leon Springs military reservation now includes about 35,000 acres, I believe. It is a region of limestone hills. Most of the hills are peaks, not many long ranges or ridges. The whole region looks like dozens, perhaps hundreds of San Saba peaks had been scattered at random and all amongst them smaller peaks with hills, knobs and ridges thrown in to make the picture complete and it is a picture. Ask some one who has seen it.

Table fare in the army as I have found it, is not bad. We have a wide variety, more than many people have at home and the quantity and quality meet the highest requirements.

Have just come off guard and had supper. Guard mount is at 5:30 each evening. There are three men for each sentinel post and each man is on duty and off four. By this means each goes four shifts of two hours during the twenty-four hours. As a rule we get guard duty once a week. It is not hard work, but is tiresome—supposed to be steady walking up and down your post.

Each Saturday morning at 9 o'clock is inspection. Every one, unless on special duty or otherwise excused must take his place in ranks, freshly shaved, cleaned and tidied up and with his rifle clean. A dirty rifle is a reflection on any soldier and it often gets men into trouble, such as extra work and maybe the denial of a pass when a fellow is quite anxious to get to town. Tents also must be tidy with mess kits and contents of packs laid out in order upon the cot.

NEEDS MONEY

Kind Friends:

In my present needs I must say you ought to pay me a little something of what you owe. I have not, nor will I be hard on you. Each one of you pay a little which will enable me to live.

Kindly,
DR. J. D. CALAWAY.

Those who know themselves indebted to Dr. Calaway should certainly make an effort to pay him, for there is no doubt about his need of it. He offers to discount the Calaway & Townsen accounts 25 per cent, which should be an inducement to those who expect to pay him. (adv)

Peace Lay Upon Us Heavily.

Peace lay upon us heavily; Sweet Peace, like a calm lethargic sleep; And in the perfumed haze and stupor of it We saw visions beatific, And the very posture of our supine bodies Grew an accustomed and a delightful pose; And the feathery silkiness of our warmed couches

Fitted the sluggard posture of our rest. And we made petty friendships on the pillows.

And petty affections and domestic loves; And all seemed precious as the gift of heaven— The rendering of them an unthinkable thing.

Our child's love gratified us as a necessary amusement; Our wives were daily with us, and daily belonged to us.

God had joined us together—pampered body and soul.

Weekly the sermon soothed us, and the sweet-toned pleading organ; All things were ordered right—God had fashioned them out;

His be the praise in church—the preacher attended to that.

The little and large, the details and the great generalizations, Arranged in accord with our worth—ours alone to enjoy.

At a pulsing word of command expert "service" came.

There were wrath and strife at times, and hunger and desperate wickedness. But to others the burden of quelling them; God had said to us, "Rest!"

We heard it in sermon and "service,"—in church and in massage—"parlor." From obsequious clerks in the shops, and in the roar of the Nation's prosperity,— Divine attestation of worth on our part that was born to be fed.

So we lay at God's command on the motherly bosom of Peace,

And felt its heavings beneath us. That soothed us back into slumber, As a child who heit awakes In querulous sweet discontent,

Clasped in its mother's arms, and is soothed by the rise and fall

Of the generous breast that fostered and nourished and suckled it, And so is drowsed into sleep, knowing that all will last.

Then out of the air around us The lightning of things elemental, And the thunder of Hell and Evil that broke like a breaking wave.

But mightier than the ocean, Mightier than all the thunders, Mightier than all save Evil, came the breaking wave of Death.

And Peace lay dead like a mother slain in a village in Belgium.

Her children scattered and trampled under thousands of armed heels. And into our foolish lives and the perfumed petty secrecy

Of our dear and delightful boudoirs, The roar of battle and massacre, The blare of victor-trumpets, The roll of triumph-drums.

Now, weak child of Peace, fattened on her beneficence, Up, to the challenge of God who despised your sweet repose.

Up, and give thanks to His grace that saved you from shame and oblivion— Now we are living Men—all but still born in peace.

Now let us bring back Peace whose ways shall indeed be pleasantness, Now let us hew out paths for the lasting Peace of God.

He who loseth his life, as sure as Life, shall gain it. That word stands, sure as God and the infinite spirit of Man;

And the one desire of God, And the soul of man at its highest. But warped to an evil end through the craven years that are past,

Is the Peace whose ways are pleasantness, and the paths where Peace abides. And now at the cost of the anguish and strife of a whole generation,

Through the utmost torture of flesh, and the spirit's crucifixion, Let us buy of the Great Taskmaster His last beneficence, Peace. LEONARD DOUGHTY.

FIRST BALE

A Fine Price and a Liberal Premium For the Grower

Charles Hodges, who lives on N. B. Harvey's farm east of Mullin, brought in the first bale of 1917 cotton to this market Thursday. The cotton was of excellent grade and was sold to Lanford Mercantile Co. for 27 cents per pound.

The cotton was ginned by Walter Fairman and the bale weighed 530 pounds, which brought Mr. Hodges $143.10. The business men of the town made a premium of $21.05, making a total of $164.15. This amount added to the worth of the seed, which is $30 made the bale net Mr. Hodges $194.15.

This bale was brought in a week earlier than the first bale last year and Mr. Hodges could have brought it in some days earlier, as he had 500 pounds of seed cotton picked in excess of this bale before he carried the first bale to the gin.

Last Year

The first bale was brought in by P. Rapp of Indian Gap on Aug. 16 last year which was one week later than the first bale this year. It was ginned by J. E. Greathouse and purchased by W. H. Lane for $16.05 per 100. The seed sold for $15 and the bale weighed 618, a premium of $28.75 was contributed by the business community of Goldthwaite making a total of $142.95 realized by Mr. Rapp for the cotton, seed and premium.

TRY IT! SUBSTITUTE FOR NASTY CALOMEL

Starts your liver without making you sick and can not salivate.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tonic is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tonic is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tonic is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs 50 cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tonic is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel.
