STAR NEWS

The Star students have formed a few clubs and we think we are going to put over a great thing. The Midway ball teams came to Star last Friday. They played a real friendly game. The Star girls defeated the Midway girls nineteen to twenty eight. The Star boys defeated the Midway boys 40 to 8. Will Roberts called the games. A few of the club boys have gotten their calves for the "Baby Beef" club. We are pleased to note that Miss Louise Hamilton has started back to school. She returned from a trip to Rising Star, Monday. All the young people of the Star community gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Van McGilvary Thursday night to sing. They all had a nice time. All the declaimers of the Star school are working on their declaimations. The school and business men of Star are thinking of having a school fair in the spring. Ruby Poer has had a severe spell of Pneumonia, and has been absent from school since Christmas. But we are pleased to say that she is about to recover now. We are hoping that she will return to school soon. The students of Star put on a real nice program on Washington birthday and many of the parents were present. Cleddne Kieth fell from the barn loft and broke his arm, but it didn't detain him from school.

The board members of the Mills County Association met in conference at the First Baptist church of Goldthwaite to discuss ways and means of financing an Evangelistic program in the remote districts of the county during the summer months. After much thought and discussion the board agreed to send out local pastors and that their churches pay them their regular salary during the time they are out in the Gospel fields of Mills County. At the close of the program they will arrange to put on the field a missionary to keep the work begun in progress. Men selected by the board to carry on the work this summer are Bro. Ira Dance, Bro. BIG VALLEY

The weather clerk has given us a fly back in weather from warm spring days with its corn planting, gardening, cackling of old Biddy, to cold northers and freezing weather. Say, old brother Farmer, did you hear it thunder February 28, well you see this will give us plenty of frost in April. Scot Thompson and D. A. Buck hannon have planted corn, but it is the winter variety. They have seed at $1.00 per bushel. Not much resting here of late, but the quilting bee is getting in its work. Mrs. T. P. Reed, Mrs. J. C. Moreland and Mrs. J. J. Cokrell have been quilting a plenty. Mrs. Bob Robertson is threatening to give a dinner with her quilting bee, but every bee must be a first class bee-er. Bro. Newton preached from 12 o'clock till 2 o'clock Sunday, also Sunday night. All enjoyed the message he brought. The B. Y. P. U. program Sunday night was very fine, subject, "The School of God." Miss Mary Cokrell was at home Sunday. Our friend and neighbor, Harbon Gillentine went to Comanche Saturday night and quietly married, bringing his bride back Sunday. They will make their home here in the Valley. Mr. Gillentine has many friends here and we hope for him and his bride a long and happy life. Mr. Gillentine has bought the Sol Cokrum Filling Station and will run it. Gas 20 cents per gallon. Some may be glad to know that we put our Big Valley phone system back in operation February 28, and you can talk to your neighbor by paying 60 cents per month. Excellent service. Pay and get on the phone wagon. The Pecan Belt Highway gradually moves on with the grading. It's almost completed to Dan Long's Filling Station and a most excellent road it is. Yes, lovers of the joy ride, just drive out to Big Valley via the Pecan Belt Highway. Anyone interested in home brooders see J. E. Moreland. He has the chic-a-chuck in operation. My next letter may be on corn planting. If so, lovers of corn dumpling get ready.

THE ATHENS CLASS ENTERTAINS

On February 14, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Tate entertained the Athens Sunday School Class with a valentine party. The house was artistically decorated with cupids and hearts.

After the arrival of fifty two members, a devotional service was led by the pastor. A short business session was held after which tables were set up for progressive hearts. After several interesting games, a tempting refreshment plate consisting of cherry pie topped with whipped cream and fruit punch was served.

The surprise of the evening came when our beloved president Mrs. W. L. Ross, reminded the class that we were celebrating the seventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Harrison and presented them with a beautiful cut glass bowl, expressing in a few well chosen words the love and esteem that our class holds for its teacher.—REPORTER.

MERRY WIVES CLUB

Mrs. Walter Fairman was hostess to the Merry Wives Club on Tuesday afternoon, for their regular meeting. After the business session and games, refreshments were served to the club members and Mrs. Haynes Harrison, Mrs. Frank Taylor, Mrs. G. H. Frizzell, Mrs. D. Albert Trent, Miss Adeline Little, Miss Norma Frizzell, and Miss Lucille Conro as guest.—REPORTER.

The Toland home on Fisher Street was the setting for a very pretty party on Tuesday night when Mrs. Walter Fairman and Mrs. Toland entertained with a Washington party, inviting the Merry Wives Club, their husbands and a few guests.

The lovely reception suite was made even prettier by the artistic arrangement of cut flowers, potted plants and decorations in memory of the birth of Washington.

Six tables of players enjoyed the evening of "42."

Delicious refreshments in two courses, carried reminders of the inspiration for this pretty party. The snapping mottoes, (A mixture log and hatchet) proved very very jolly and contained red, white, and blue caps which all immediately donned.

Enjoying this hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Roundtree, C. M. Burch, J. H. Randolph, J. H. Saylor, O. H. Yarborough, D. H. Harrison, W. E. Miller, W. J. Weatherby, M. H. Fletcher, D. A. ENGLISH NOTES

The senior class has just passed through an ordeal that tried the spirits of its strongest members. This test was in the form of an examination. The questions were provided by the State Department of Education at Austin and were designed to test the seniors knowledge of the essentials of English grammar, capitalization, punctuation, and spelling.

The class took the examination on Friday February, 25. The papers were graded and returned to Austin February 28. All the affiliated schools in Texas are taking these tests. When the papers have all been returned to Austin the State Department of Education will publish the results. Each school will have the satisfaction of knowing the rank of its senior class.

The Goldthwaite Senior Class is inclined to be proud of its average 89.5. Only two members of the group failed to make the required 70, and about half a dozen students made between 90-100.

Professor D. A. Newton spent the first of this week in Dallas attending the National Education Association.

Miss Doris Thompson of Brownwood visited friends in Goldthwaite this week end.

Mr. Barnhill preached at Center Point, Sunday night.

Elizabeth Nickles, visited Oleta Daniel Sunday.

HONESTY—THE KEY TO SUCCESS

In Romans 13:13 we read: "Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men."

Honesty is that principle which causes a person to prefer his promise or duty to his passion or seeming interest. An honest man is the noblest work of God. In the olden days every Egyptian was required by law annually to declare by what means he maintained himself, and if he gave no satisfactory account of his way of life by death.

When we read the life of George Washington, we pause to think about the great deeds he has accomplished. In the story of the "cherry tree", we find that he faced punishment, rather than tell a falsity. In later years he was trusted by the army; the people depended upon him to protect them from their enemies. George Washington's life was one of honesty, sincerity, patriotism and holiness. Why not take his life as an example?

The question has been asked, "Is it a good policy to be completely honest in the business world?" Yes by all means. An honest merchant gets the trade, while a man, who cannot be trusted by the people, goes bankrupt.

A young man, who had lived a clean, upright life, left the small town to make his fortune in the city. He quickly found a good job. Several weeks later the superintendent of the company praised him for his honesty and uprightness, and promised him a raise in salary. This result came from his doing his best in an honest way.

Is a man a Christian if he is not honest? Can he impart to others the knowledge he has acquired if he does not have a clean conscience? Can a man beg sinners to come to God when he, himself, is lacking, but is trying to make an outward impression on the minds of the people for the sake of popularity or success in business?

We should be honest with ourselves. Honesty is the foundation of a good character. It not only builds up your character, but your reputation, also you are esteemed, respected, and beloved in the eyes of the people and of God.

One might ask: "How can I live an honest life when all around me are dishonest and imperfect?" Take as a pattern the life of Jesus Christ, the one and only perfect man who has lived an earth, and you will succeed.—ADIEL WILSON.

A father received the following letter from his college son, "No Mon, No Fun, your son"

CHAPEL

Mrs. Littlepage, Mrs. Edward Geeslin, Mrs. Sam Sullivan, Mrs. F. P. Bowman, and Mrs. Martin accepted the invitation of Miss Kerfoot to furnish a program for chapel Friday, February 25.

The special number that was given was "The Little Brown Church in the Vale."

Mrs. Edward Geeslin told the story of "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." The song was composed by Dr. Pitts. It is very simple and full of harmony and grace. Although it is old, it is still popular.

Many years ago in a little church house in Kentucky, Dr. Pitts stood before an audience of mountaineers. He sang a song of his own composition, "The Little Brown Church in the Vale." Since their church was brown, this song found a place in the hearts of those people, and kept it down through the ages.

Fifteen years ago, Dr. Pitts died and was buried in the church yard of the "Little Brown Church." Since then a monument has been built. The church still stands today.

Besides that song the quartet sang a medley made up of the following songs: "Doo Da Doo," "Aint ya, Aint ya, Coming Out Tonight," "Massa in de Cold, Cold Ground," "A Little More Cider Too," "Don't You Cry," "Susie Ann," "Swanee River," and "Dixie Land."

One of the best chapel programs that has been rendered this year was furnished by Mr. Newton last Monday, February 28.

This program, like many other good programs, was made possible by the kindness of Miss Frizzelle, who is always willing to furnish numbers from her expression class.

The Monday program was: An Italian Dialect Reading—Geraldine Burnett.

Playlet—By pupils of Miss Frizzelle's Expression class.

Duet, "La Paloma"—Miss Frizzelle and Mrs. Martin.

Miss Frizzelle was dressed as a Spanish lover and Mrs. Martin wore the brilliant colors of a beautiful senorita.

"Happy Sam" was given as an encore.

Although George Washington's birthday has passed it well that we should keep in mind a few things about him that we should know. These things were made clearer to us by Bro. Neal last Wednesday, February 23.

Brother Neal began his talk by asking, "Why should we pause on the 22nd day of February to commemorate the birth of the Father of our Country?" It is because we should stop and consider what he has done and how he did these things, and see if we can model our lives by his.

The principal thing we remember about Washington is that he was patriotic. He gave loyalty, truthfulness, sincerity, and holiness as an example to the people, while he was living. He paved the way for others to follow in his footsteps after he has gone.

Brother Neal gave us a view of patriotism from a national standpoint. The school, according to him, is the most patriotic institution of all. Here is where boys and girls study of the great deeds of their forefathers; here is where they sing "The Star Spangled Banner"; here is where the great men of tomorrow are taught to be loyal to this country of ours. If we are patriotic to the State of Texas, we must know something of the lives of Houston and Austin; something of the scene of the Alamo.

Let us keep these two things in view about Washington: Washington was not a man like the rest of us, it was because of his greatness that he succeeded. The greatest thing about Washington was that he was the right kind of a man. The army could trust him. The people could depend upon him to do the right thing. Some poet has written the following tribute to his character:

"In 1732 George Washington was born.
 Truth, goodness, and glory high did his life adorn."

Because of the fact that George Washington was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen," let us honor him not only on his birthday but through the ages to come.

An Englishman, who had just arrived in this country was frightened at a horrible shriek.

On asking what caused the noise he was told that it was an owl.

He replied "I know it was an owl but what was it 'owling at?'"

Dentist (to his vicar) "After your powerful sermon last Sunday on 'The Beauty of Truth' I can not tell a lie. Er—this is going to hurt."

Pearl Armstrong and Maadia Wilson spent last week end in San Angelo.

ACCIDENT AVERTER BY A SCHOOL BOY

(The Mullin Enterprise)
 Quite a bit of excitement prevailed in our little city last Friday evening when the team of V. E. Porter started to run on the streets with his two little sons, one four and the other six years of age.

Mr. Porter had left the children to hold the team while he ran into one of the stores on business. The teams began to move off, first at a walk and the further they got, the faster they travelled. The boys became panic stricken and began to holler. Young Woodrow Hamilton, seeing the danger, put on his best speed and caught the back of the wagon, bounded in, and secured control of the team at once, saving the boys from serious accident if not from death.

Such prompt action and presence of mind in Woodrow is commendable—a duty well done by one who knew how to do it.

MEMBERS SHOULD ORDER PLANTING SEED NOW

Realizing the condition of the Farmers of Texas and their desire to get better planting seed, the Executive Committee, in session January 28th, reduced the price of our seed to $1.50 per bushel DELIVERED.

There are many farmers among our members who want good planting seed, and we have made this reduction in order that they may obtain the seed they want at a price they can pay for them. There may be cheaper seed on the market, but not the quality.

The following varieties may be had through our Field Representative in each county: Lone Star, Mebane, Rowden, Belton, Sunshine and Cash. All these seeds come in three bushel sacks prepaid to your station at $1.50 per bushel. Six bushels the least order accepted. See your field representative now and order before the supply is exhausted.

CHICAGO—Scientific plans for the rebuilding of hundreds of thousands of worn-out farms are now available to the average farmer in plain language that he cannot fail to understand, says the Research Department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers. Also, in this idea is the key to present day "farm over-production," as millions of acres can be "rested" in sweet clover or alfalfa for a few years while population demands are catching up with food production and bringing farm price levels up to the post-war levels of other callings.

The New Hampshire Agricultural Experiment Station has only recently announced important results from their worn-out hay land tests in which sweet clover and alfalfa are proved the youth-giving gent of tired farm lands. "There is already ample evidence," says Ford S. Prince, "that a stand of sweet clover or alfalfa can be obtained on worn-out soil either with or without manure, provided the field is limed and acid phosphate used when the crop is seeded."

Fall plowing is the first step in the come-back of such land. Barnyard manure, evenly scattered with a manure spreader, is the most important fertilizer. Potatoes with a heavy application of commercial fertilizer would be the best crop to grow without barnyard manure unless sweet clover or some other legume were planted. Legume crops improve the soil much more cheaply and easily than green manure crops, which involve considerable extra labor. Top dressing with nitrate of soda gives good results in hay yields where the field is not badly run out. The use of the lime spreader for the application of lime to worn soils throughout the nation in getting these fields in condition immediately is one of the fundamentals.

"MAKE FARMING A PLEASURE INSTEAD OF A DRUDGERY"

There is a word of ten letters which holds the secret of farming success. It means the doing of whatever is to be done by the quickest, easiest and most economical method consistent with quality. It means IMPLEMENTS which make the most of the human intelligence used in their operation.

That ten-letter word is "efficiency"—and the greatest efficiency in farming is obtained in the use of

for FORDS AND CHEVROLETS

Goodyear has developed a tread which matches the Goodyear Balloon Carcass—made of SUPERTWIST CORD.

It is the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread scientifically redesigned for Balloon Tire use.

The sharp-edged diamond-shaped blocks are placed in a semi-flat design. They grip the road, the retain their usefulness longer than any non-skid tread offered here-before.

Long, slow, even tread wear is assured as opposed to the "cupping" and uneven wear so noticeable in many other Balloon Tires.

And with these advantages of traction, non-skid and long wear, this new tread is perfectly quiet and does not produce vibration.

Let us show you this new tire, 29x4.40 for Fords and Chevrolets. A wonderful tire for winter driving!

VARIOUS TYPES OF HOMES OF THE WORLD

Naomi Sawyer, Science I.
(The Tattler)

Home to most people means food, clothing, shelter, love and a good time. Home is the one place people like best.

There are many types of homes. There are not only the homes of the people, but each animal, bird, or any other living creature must have a home. There are some animals who roam around from one place to another, who seem as though they did not have any home, but somewhere they have a home.

A house which is vacant is not a home, therefore it takes people to make homes. A house is only a place for people to make into a home.

The homes of the Indians are sometimes made of skins, bark, earth and stone. When the house is movable he carries it around from place to place. The savage Indians who live in the interior of Brazil far away from the region where white men live, make their homes in the dense forests. Some of them make huts from the grass and sticks. The climate of Argentina is so warm the homes are made by sticking poles in the ground and stretching skins around the poles. The Indian homes in Ecuador are raised above the ground because of the dampness of the earth.

The homes of the nomads of Africa on the deserts are made by stitching blankets or skins over the poles, some of them are also made of grass. The homes of the negroes in America are made almost like those of the white people—made of wood or stone.

The homes of the natives in the Hawaiian and Phillipine Islands are built of sticks and grass and are ill shaped and rugged. In places they have to build them off the ground because of the dampness.

The homes of the Eskimoes are made of blocks of ice. These homes have a round form shape, and are entered by a small kind of a tunnel, it is so small they have to crawl through it. The interior of the house is lined with skins. The only fire used is an oil lamp.

The houses of Switzerland are built of logs, with roofs built of bark. The bark is held on by the weight of rocks piled all over the top. They are very ugly in form. Most all of the houses are situated at the foot of a hill or at the edge of a forest. These are the homes that are many miles from the others. There are houses that are near the cities that are very beautiful, and there are many beautiful places to build homes.

The homes of the people in the city of Bogata are made mostly of brick and plaster. Some of the laborers are not able to afford a house of this material and make them of wood with grass for the roof. It is very interesting to note the way the houses are arranged. Most of the cities begin at the foot of a hill, these are the homes of the laboring class. Many of the homes, like those in our own country, are decorated with vines.

The homes in the villages of Russia are very rough and untidy. Most of them are made of logs, which are unpainted, and the roofs are made out of grass or tin. The appearance of a village with houses of this type, is not very beautiful. Some of the houses are made of straw woven together and covered with old pieces of blankets, or anything that will make it comfortable, or which they think comfortable.

The homes of the Bavarians are very attractive and beautiful. They are made of stone, or brick. The windows are shaded with vines of many sorts. From holes in the walls, similar to a window can be seen beautiful paintings, which consist largely of religious pictures. Most of the houses are very large, and are of the two-story styles.

We could review interminably the various kinds of homes man builds. He builds as many kinds of homes as there are conditions of life and environment. No more interesting study could occupy our minds than to be able to go from land to land, from ocean to ocean and really see at first hand all the homes of the world.

U. S. Authority Sees Ample Motor Fuel for Long Future

HARRY H. HILL
© HARRIS & EWING

WORKERS IN GAS MASKS AT AN OIL WELL

MR. HILL'S IMPROMPTU SKETCH OF AN OIL DOME
EXPERIMENTAL OIL SHALE REDUCTION PLANT
The U. S. Bureau of Mines is confident that motor fuel supplies will be ample for many years to meet all needs of the country's millions of automobiles. Harry H. Hill, chief petroleum engineer of the Bureau, here tells the reasons for this conviction, and sketches the advances in industrial methods which justify his opinions.

By HARRY H. HILL
Chief Petroleum Engineer, United States Bureau of Mines.

ONE reason why there is no reason to worry greatly about motor fuel for a long time ahead is that people are worrying about it. Interest in such a question at the right time, is the best insurance against disaster. The President and the Federal Oil Corporation Board have done what was needed, at the right time.

We know that most petroleum has come from rather limited areas and that even from these only a small proportion has been taken out. Oil produced by gas pressure capable of lifting it to the surface when we drill holes is but a small proportion of all the oil contained in the sands. Even from the best pools recovery by the old methods is small, perhaps one-half in the most favorable conditions, oftener one-sixth, or one-seventh, or one-tenth. But a considerable part of what still remains in the ground can be recovered by methods now established as technically and economically practicable.

Producing oil from coal and shales and by mining the oil bearing sands is entirely possible. Experiments are going on in these directions, and if we ever have to fall back on these resources we will be ready. For a long time, however, the present methods of exploration and drilling, with improving processes to assure larger recoveries, are likely to suffice.

An Oil Dome Illustrated
I am no draughtsman, but maybe I can draw something that will help explain. Here's a rough drawing of an oil dome. The shaded part at the bottom is a deposit of oil bearing sands—with an impervious rock stratum above. A wild-catter drilled the hole A-B and gas pressure caused oil and gas to flow. After a while the gas pressure wasn't sufficient to keep up the flow and they pumped until ultimately even this ceased producing.

Nevertheless, most of the oil was still left eticking to the sand grains. Then the operator drilled the well C-D, which flowed for a time, but most of the oil was still down there in the sand. If the gas pressure could be restored more would flow. So the operator injects gas into one well, restoring the pressure and causing the oil to resume flowing from the other. After a time the flow will stop again, but still much of the oil will be left. In some fields it has been possible to obtain additional amounts of oil by introducing water in some of the wells and forcing the oil to others. The addition of a chemical such as soda ash to the water may assist in removing the oil from the sand grains, but neither plain water nor water containing chemicals should be introduced into an oil sand except as a last resort, for it is likely that the water, which travels faster through the sand, will get to the open wells ahead of the oil and when the flow is resumed under pressure water will come out.

Everything Saved Nowadays
The gas escaping from an oil well carries with it a proportion of gasoline, which in the old days was lost. Nowadays it is extracted from the gas and saved, while the dry gas can be forced back into the ground to maintain pressure.

One of the menaces to most oil pools is the inflow of subterranean water. Water flows through the oil sands faster than oil, and by surrounding the bottom of the well keeps the oil out. How to shut off the water and permit the oil to run out is a problem with which the engineers have long worked. They have made great progress and so increased recoveries.

In earlier times most oil producers carefully guarded all information about their wells and experiences, but latterly there is co-operation in these matters. Geologists and petroleum engineers, once divided by the "practical" oil men, are more and more accepted as guides and mentors. New knowledge is constantly increasing recoveries.

As to Mining for Oil

In Lorraine they have dug shafts down to the oil sands and actually brought the sands out, like coal from a mine. But it's costly.

Another mining process is to sink a shaft to the oil sands and from its bottom drive tunnels in all directions through the sands. From these tunnels small perforated pipes are driven into the sands, which drain the oil out of the sands. It flows to larger pipes back at the foot of the shaft and thence is pumped out. This requires installing an expensive plant, but in some fields the high recovery that is assured might justify the cost. I understand the process is about to be installed in a few fields in this country, some companies being convinced it is practicable and profitable.

Oil can be distilled from coal, and much work is now being done along this line. But more appeal has been made by the plan of extracting oil from shale. The shales of Scotland have been worked for three-quarters of a century, and they are almost unlimited in this country, richer in oil than those of Scotland. Kentucky, Ohio, Colorado, Utah, Nevada, Wyoming and California are particularly rich in shales. It is just a question of the cost of extracting the oil. Congress has given $180,000, with which the Bureau has installed a plant near Rulison, Colorado, to distill oil from the Colorado River Shales. It is calculated that the shales mined at Rulison will produce about a barrel of oil to the ton.

The Use of Oil Shales

In Scotland they are working shales that produce about twenty-five gallons of oil per ton. The seams are from three-and-a-half to eight or ten feet thick. In Colorado are seams many times as thick and containing much more oil per ton. Reduction of shales involves an enormous mining operation, and after the oil is extracted the vast tonnage of refuse must be disposed of. So it is expensive compared with producing oil from wells.

Ben E. Lindsey of the Bureau of Mines Experiment Station at Bartlesville, Okla., is confident that exploration, better recoveries, better utilization and deeper drilling would furnish enough oil to meet all requirements for at least twenty-five to fifty years, if it could be extracted in that time. But as a practical matter this will not be possible. Within that period there will be times of shortage, when oil from shales will be needed to supplement the oil from wells, etc.

Meantime federal and state governments and the industry are co-operating in an astonishing range of investigations and studies. These activities cover such a wide field that even an enumeration of them would run into tiresome detail.

MEN ARE SEEN THROUGH WALL WITH TELEVISION'S AID

"Looking in" will be as common as listening in to radio programs, according to the prediction of research workers who have been spending much time of late in experimenting and developing this recent marvel, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. At a demonstration in London, J. L. Baird, a Scottish inventor who introduced television in England more than a year ago, showed what progress had been made when he permitted persons in a darkened room to see others in an unlighted room through walls. At this test, use was made of the infra-red rays which are invisible to the human eye. In the earlier experiments with television, the subject had to sit under powerful lights which proved harmful.

Tattooed lips, marked in "Cupid's bow" pattern of red, are reported to be the latest beauty fad in California, regardless of the pain that accompanies the operation. The effect is permanent, saving repeated applications of the lip-stick.
