COMMISSIONERS COURT IS QUITE BUSY

A Very Busy Session In Progress

The court has been in session all of this week and it is likely the session will be prolonged thru next week, as the business of the February term is always very heavy. The tax collections are to be checked, road overseers are to be appointed, election officers must be named and a general line up of the county's business must be made.

The automobile license money all comes to the county now and the total amount of the January collections was $10,313.46. This was divided among the precincts in the following manner, less the 6 1/4 per cent commission: Precinct No. 1, $3,944.85; No. 2, $2,211.12; No. 3, $2,830.96; No. 4, $1,325.53.

The court sold the tank tower and tank, together with the piping on the south side of the court house, belonging to the water work system when the water supply came from a well in the yard, to W. P. McCullough for $75.

Various other transactions were recorded, including auditing bills and accounts, checking reports and the like.

METHODIST CHURCH

Many years ago there lived a man whose energies were given in efforts at doing good. Tokens of love to uplift and encourage others he regularly sent out. It is hard to tell the good he accomplished in this way. Your church is anxious to fulfill such a mission in the midst of men. If you need such help, we do not desire to ignore it—so let us know. If you should like to join in a mutual fellowship that is striving to put such a program into effect, come with us and welcome. St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14, is a good day to start, or renew your efforts at Christian helpfulness. Sunday Feb. 16, at the morning hour, a valentine message will be given. The evening service will be close akin to it. May the warm hearts that yearn for your fellowship find a warm response from yours.

Yours in His service,
Goldthwaite Methodist church,
S. D. LAMBERT, Pastor.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

We are rejoiced this week because of the large class at prayer meeting Wednesday night. There were eighty-four in attendance. This is extra fine. We finished the Hebrew letter and will begin next Wednesday night with Acts, 1st chapter for a lesson. Some of our regular attendants were unable to be with us this week at prayer meeting on account of illness. We hope and pray that they may soon be well and at their regular place in our services. We ought to have a substantial increase in our Bible study next Sunday if the fine weather continues. Now suppose we make next Sunday a record day and always keep in mind the question—"what kind of a church would this church be, if all its members were just like me?" Remember you are just the kind of a member that you want to be. If you wanted to be different to what you are you would be different.

Don't forget that Bible study begins at 10 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. Communion at 11:40 a. m. Young People's class at 6:30 p. m. Preaching at 7:30 p. m. each Sunday. Prayer meeting at 7:30 each Wednesday evening. Ladies Bible class at 3 p. m. each Wednesday. The attendance in all these services have been encouraging heretofore, but let's make an effort to interest others to attend. Consider this a special invitation to be with us next Sunday.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Mr. Lee Rudd, whose mother and several brothers live in our town, died Sunday morning in Sweetwater, Texas. Mr. Rudd was Superintendent of the Sunday school, and also a deacon in his church.

Mr. Jim Berry of Lampasas, and a brother to our fellow townsman, Mr. J. D. D. Berry, died at his home Sunday night. The pastor, with his church, extends sympathy to the bereaved. These men will be greatly missed in their respective communities.

Considering the sorrow that has come to our membership of late, as well as illness in some of our families, we had two splendid congregations last Sunday. Mrs. Leigh delivered a splendid address at the morning hour and those who did not hear her, missed a good message.

At this writing, Spring seems to be here. We all welcome it in our midst and hope it has come to stay. If it remains over Sunday, we are expecting to have the largest congregation of the year in Sunday school, and at preaching services. This means that you will have to come. Now, listen, if you are not ill and you can not think of a good excuse, come to the Baptist church. If you get up Sunday morning just a little "peevish," come down to our church, meet the superintendent, with his teachers and see if that angry feeling doesn't leave. You just can't come to our church without being helped. We are going to make our services on Sunday night just as interesting and helpful as we can. You people who live in rural communities come on. You young people that like to go places on Sunday night, come by our church and worship an hour with us. It will help you. Just remember that we begin our preaching services at 10:45 a. m., and 7:30 p. m.

G. W. Jackson Jr., is visiting at the home of Mr. John Jackson. We have already put the little gentleman on our roll, and this pastor has notified the church treasurer to double Mr. Jackson's pledge to the church.

Everybody get up Sunday with your faces toward the Baptist church.

A BAD ACCIDENT

Monday afternoon, Marvin Rudd met with an accident on the highway near Lawn, Taylor county, that might have been fraught with serious consequences. He was on his way home from attending the funeral of his brother near Sweetwater and in the car with him were three ladies, his wife, Mrs. Chas. Rudd and Mrs. D. Howard Rudd. He was meeting another motorist when a cow started across the road and cleared his side of the highway, but the other driver, in avoiding a collision with the cow, deliberately crossed over to Mr. Rudd's side, forcing him to cross to the other side to avoid a collision and in so doing he struck the cow, breaking his bumper and damaging his car pretty badly, but fortunately the car did not turn over and the occupants suffered no injury, other than a shaking up and a fright.

Cable advices to the State Department from American Consul General Cunningham at Shanghai said a report had reached the consulate general that H. L. A native of Clarendon county, South Carolina, Mr. Reeves has been in China since 1917.

Educational work will cost the Methodist Episcopal church South $1,000,000 this year, figures submitted to the denomination's educational association showed. The committee on general conference legislation made the report and suggested assessments, appeals and general subscriptions as methods to raise the money. The ways and means decision will be left to the general conference that will meet in Dallas in May.

Chairman Alexander Lege of the Federal Farm Board has under consideration a plan to organize a large co-operative marketing group to stabilize prices of dairy products. A meeting will be held soon between the Farm Board members and leaders of the dairy industry. No figure has been set as the probable capitalization of the proposed organization.

Overwhelming disapproval of the proposal to establish a central prison in the vicinity of Austin was registered in the House of Representatives when that body voted 77 to 50 to table the Wallace bill that was before the House in the guise of a substitute for an amendment to another bill. The vote was more decisive than any person had anticipated.

Commissioner of Agriculture George E. Terrell estimates the cost of the Texas cotton crop at 23.9¢ a pound, which is 6¢ a pound more than the price reported. He based his estimate on reports from crop reporters representing ninety-one counties. He found that the lowest cost of production was 6.7¢ a pound and the highest $1.16 a pound. These variations, the commissioner said, were caused by partial or complete crop failures.

Complaint charging embezzlement of $116,000 from the South Texas National Bank of Houston was filed Tuesday in Houston against A. T. Schwartzback, former cashier of the bank, while Schwartzback was undergoing an operation in a Galveston hospital. The complaint was filed by F. R. What You Want
When You Want It

TO THE VOTERS OF THE 17th CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF TEXAS

In this issue of the Goldthwaite Eagle will be found my announcement for re-election to Congress from the 17th Congressional District of Texas for a second term, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary, July 26th, 1930.

About two years ago the then member of Congress from our District having announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election, I announced for the Democratic nomination for that position and was nominated and elected.

For that nomination and election I have a feeling of the deepest gratitude to the people of the 17th District and I have tried to demonstrate that gratitude by rendering the best service of which I am capable to all the people of my District and to the country at large.

There are two sorts of members here, one who does sensational things to attract outside notice, and newspaper publicity, the other sort who, by solid devotion to his duty, and the straightforward dealings with his colleagues, wins their confidence and respect, and inspires in them a kindly concern for his people and for their interest.

To be the latter sort of Congressman has been my ambition and toward that objective I have worked, not only because it is in line with my disposition, but as I see it, it is in line with useful service. I have been in office now less than eleven months. If you will inquire you will find that I have the confidence of my colleagues here, and you will find that I have been diligent to take care of the duties of my office from the matter of smallest concern to the individual citizen to the largest matter of national interest.

I am a candidate for my second term. I had hoped I might have that without opposition. It is impossible to go into the campaign now without a neglect of important duties. Under these circumstances, the fact that I cannot be in the District I feel that I have a right to appeal, and I do appeal, to Democrats who believe in the time honored principle of our party to give a man a second term, unless he has done something to forfeit their confidence, and who appreciate the handicap which a new man labors under here during his first term, to give me the fair and the usual chance which it is a Democratic principle to give, and I hope it is not asking too much to ask that you take care of my interest until I can get home and have an opportunity to give to you in detail an account of my stewardship.

As soon as I can do so without neglecting the business which you have employed me to attend, I will return to the District and make as vigorous a campaign as I can for my second term.

Having lived in the 17th Congressional District for nearly forty years, and being a close student of the needs and development of West Texas, I feel that I can serve my District in a creditable way.

On the basis of faithful service, I most earnestly solicit your vote and influence in the July Democratic Primary.

LIFE SAVING CAMPAIGN

Accident prevention is not something that can be applied from without. It is within the personal jurisdiction of every citizen. During the past decade the accident record in industry has been greatly decreased. Part of this is due, of course, to mechanical safeguards. But the greater part of the credit must go to the fact that industrial executives, thru education and example, have given workers a knowledge of the accident problem that makes them avoid and remove hazards. We would have practically no automobile accidents if all drivers were competent, careful and law-abiding. It is the reckless driver who is responsible for the 21,000 deaths caused annually by automobile accidents in this country. At the present time the progressive schools of the nation are adopting accident prevention courses as part of their curricula. A sense of personal responsibility for accidents is instilled into the child to develop the "life saving" instinct. Adult Americans should benefit from the safety training the schools give their children and understand that accident prevention is more a personal than a legislative accomplishment.

HIT THE BALL

The best way to attract people to your business or your enterprise is to work at your job as if you believed in it. Too many business men make the mistake of standing around, talking about hard times and trying to make excuses for their failure. I like to go into a place and catch everybody hitting the ball. Not too busy to greet me with a smile and a how-do-you-do, but too busy to enumerate their troubles and difficulties. When you see a fellow working at his job like he enjoys it and believes in it, you know full well that he ought to succeed and you like to encourage him and give him your patronage.—San Marcos Record.

HEALTH AGAIN ALL THANKS TO FAMED KONJOLA Stomach Trouble Of Seven Years Standing, Quickly Yields To Power Of New Medicine

MRS. MARY BRANDON

"For seven years I was the helpless victim of stomach trouble of the worst sort," said Mrs. Brandon, of 5889 Maffit street, St. Louis. "It did not matter what I ate, belching and after vomiting spells followed the simplest meal. The gas so pressed against my heart that I became short of breath and faint. Sour hot liquids seared my throat until the heartburn was often frightful. I grew weak and lost weight and strength. No medicine I tried helped me.

"Day by day and week by week after I began with Konjola, my system improved. The gas no longer forms in my stomach now and the bloated sensation has passed. I have an excellent appetite and can eat a hearty meal without the least discomfort. The pains of heartburn are a thing of the past. I have gained weight and energy and my friends remark upon the change in my appearance. I can never express my gratitude for the relief which this great medicine brought me."

Konjola is sold in Goldthwaite at Hudson Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.

SOME WEATHER

We might as well have no weather at all as the kind we have had so far this year. The poor fossil who said variation is the spice of life never lived in a country where the wind blows hot and cold according to his whim, without consulting with or regard for the people most inconvenienced by his inconsistency. If Texas is a Northern State, let us have Northern weather and know what to expect for the four months following the first frost on the pumpkin. On the other hand, if Texas is a Southern State, let us have austral weather, soothing sunshine, titillating zephyrs, merry rainbows and ice only in the refrigerator.

There is no sense in making our geography says Texas is in the South, by West, and unless we are being victimized by the map makers we are sadly deficient in courage if we stand for Minnesota temperature and jungle humidity without calling out the militia. However, this line of cogitation induces such dudgeon in the public mind, as in his own, State Press will forbear to press the issue at the moment. But he reserves the right to come back to it. He will not give up the weather as a subject for comment.—State Press in Dallas News.

Personal Responsibility

It seems to be the consensus of informed opinion that financial responsibility laws, rather than compulsory automobile insurance, will promote discipline among motorists and reduce the number of accidents on the highway.

Boston Found To Be Original Home Of American Syncopation

LEO REISMAN

All day long I sing a song, I sing a song because nothing wrong. My Blackbirds are bluebirds on

Early Slave Traders Started Our Modern Music

Boston.—Boston is the legitimate father of American jazz. This is the startling declaration of Leo Reisman, famous orchestra conductor.

"Starting out with such blue-blood connections, is it any wonder," continues Mr. Reisman, "that the child has made good in a big way?"

"When the slave traders came to the New England coast, the Africans brought with them and left with the New Englanders primitive native songs whose strange rhythm was the foundation of our modern music. "The popularity of jazz," explains Mr. Reisman, "is due to its physical reaction. The same beat that is stressed in what is known as 'legitimate' music is subordinated in jazz. It is the after-beat in jazz that is stressed. The resultant rhythm lifts the body, creating that feeling of floating. 'My Blackbirds Are Bluebirds Now' is a perfect example of this. It has the lift which has made jazz music so popular, and is a direct descendant of the earliest slaves. "If jazz is not played with the after-beat stressed, it is not modern American music. Take the jazz recent out of dance music and you have only a marching rhythm—that exhilarating and lifting quality is gone."

CLASSES OF DEMOCRATS

Mr. Wilcox, in his reply to Senator Love, does not make quite clear the action of the State Democratic Committee, judging from the first news dispatches. The committee, he says, has not barred the so-called Hooverrats from the ballots of 1930 as candidates in the precincts, counties and districts, but only from the right to contest as Democrats for State offices.

However impolitic may be any act of the committee barring the bolters from contesting for office, this decision becomes ludicrous, and it may be illegal. Both the Attorney General and the courts have held that a party has the right to pass upon the qualifications of its members, though Mr. Bobbitt takes the view that it can not prevent the registration on the ballot of candidates who claim to comply with the prescribed qualifications. But Mr. Wilcox and his committee have created not qualifications for membership in the Democratic party, but classes of Democrats.

Mr. Smith, for example, who voted for President Hoover in 1928 and who desires to stand for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, is a Democrat in good standing. But if Mr. Smith aspires to be Governor, or Superintendent of Schools, he will have to run as a Republican, or anything except as a Democrat. Mr. Smith may be elected a Senator from his district, and as a Senator may be asked for his approval of State officials appointed by the Governor, and these, in the event of vacancy during the elective term, might well be officers who ordinarily would have to be elected.

It is certainly a well-founded tenet of the Democratic party that Democrat is a Democrat, whether he is the titular head of the party in the State or a mere public weigher. The decision of the executive committee making a discrimination in the offices which a candidate accepted as a qualified Democratic voter, may seek is the denial of that principle. With all due regard for the committee's desire to welcome the voting Hooverrats back into the fold as a salutary act for the party, it would have been more dignified and possibly legal also had it barred them from all consideration as Democrats, rather than to attempt a compromise, which upon the face of it is absurd and which, on appeal to the courts, may be declared unwarranted.—Dallas News.

In district court at Austin, Judge J. D. Moore discharged the jury which heard the trial of John W. Brady, charged with the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, 28, stenographer, at 4:22 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The jury had been deliberating the case for almost 96 hours. Earlier in the afternoon the defense counsel had filed a motion to discharge the jury. While that motion was pending the state attorneys filed a motion for the discharge of the jury provided the case would be transferred to Williamson county on a change of venue. The defense then withdrew its motion, Judge Moore called the jury and asked if it was still unable to reach a decision. On receiving an affirmative reply, he discharged the tired jurors.

The general fund of the State Treasury had a cash balance of $152,489.29 at the close of business Jan. 31, with outstanding warrants estimated at $3,009,972.43, a net deficiency of $2,857,483.14. This was shown in a statement Saturday by Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher, giving receipts and disbursements cash balances and estimated outstanding warrants in all funds on that date.

The jury stood nine for the death sentence, two for life sentence and one for acquittal. There were twelve to fifteen ballots taken. The vote on each ballot was the same. The foreman was the one who voted for acquittal.

Immediate mobilization of the agricultural and business interests of the South to reduce the 1930 cotton acreage to not more than 40,000,000 acres and to place all the facts of the present critical cotton situation before the public was the first step outlined at the initial session of the newly appointed cotton reduction committee named during the annual convention of the Southern Agricultural Workers' Association at Jackson, Mississippi.

The Eagle always appreciates local items sent or phoned in. Of course we would like for them to be of current news and properly authenticated.

Aroused by the reign of hoodlum savagery that has been marked by nearly a dozen murders, numerous bombings, shootings and robberies during the last ten days, police swooped down on gangland haunts of the Chicago underworld early Sunday and by nightfall nearly a thousand suspected thugs were behind prison bars.

Mrs. Carl Murray, nee Miss Vashti Power, writes from Poteau, Okla., to have the Eagle sent to her address and takes occasion in her letter to say some nice and much appreciated things about the Eagle and its editor and his family. We all remember her with pleasure and are delighted that she still remembers her Goldthwaite friends.

The forty members of the new State highway patrol will be distributed over the State within the next two weeks. G. Phares, chief of law enforcement of the Highway Department, said Saturday. The men, since their appointment in January, have undergone an intensive course of training. Delivery was made Saturday of twenty more motorcycles for the patrol. The men will have sixty machines, five with sidecars, to be used during weather and in emergencies. These machines will be stationed at Dallas, San Antonio, Abilene, Houston and probably Amarillo, which will be the main division points for the patrol.

HOW FORD METHODS CUT COST OF DISTRIBUTION

Lower profits in selling save you at least $50 to $75 in addition to the many savings in manufacturing

TWENTY-SEVEN years ago the Ford Motor Company was formed to provide reliable, economical transportation for all the people. That original purpose has never changed. The constant effort in every activity is to find ways to give you greater and greater value without extra cost—frequently at lowered cost. This applies to distribution and similar important factors, as well as manufacture.

For the Ford Motor Company believes that its full duty is not only to make a good automobile at the lowest possible price, but to see that there is no waste, extravagance, or undue profit in any transaction from the time the car leaves the factory until it is delivered to your home. It is obvious that hard-won savings in production will be of little value if they are sacrificed later through excessive selling costs.

EVERY purchaser of a motor car has the right to know how much of the money he pays is for the car itself and how much is taken up by dealer charges. If these charges are too high, one of two things must happen. Either the price of the car must be raised or the quality lowered. There is no other way. The money must come from somewhere.

In the case of the Ford, the low charges for distribution, selling, financing and accessories mean a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser in addition to the still greater savings made possible by economies in manufacturing. Ford charges are not marked up or increased to cover a high trade-in allowance on a used car.

The profit margin on the Ford car has always been fair to both the dealer and the public. Within the past three months, it has been possible to effect still further economies. Today, the discount or commission of the Ford dealer is the lowest of any automobile dealer. The difference, ranging from 25% to nearly 50%, comes right off the price you pay for the car.

THE business of the Ford dealer is good because he makes a small profit on a large number of sales instead of a large profit on fewer sales. He knows, too, that the extra dollar-for-dollar value of the car makes it easier to sell and more certain to give satisfactory service after purchase.

Consider also that the Ford car is delivered to the purchaser equipped with a Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, an extra steel-spoke wheel, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts, in addition to four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers and fully enclosed four-wheel brakes.

If for any reason you wish to buy certain small accessories, you will find that these, too, are sold at the usual Ford low prices. Replacement parts are also available at low prices through Ford dealers in every section of the country.

THESE are important points to remember in considering the purchase of a motor car. They show why it is possible to put so much extra quality into the new Ford and still maintain the low price. They are also the reasons why more than 35% of all cars sold today are Model A Fords.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT

For seven years it has been my pleasure to be connected with the Goldthwaite schools. Without criticism, but with utmost goodwill, I have definitely made up my mind to sever my connection with this institution at the end of this school year—June 1, 1930.

The board of trustees and the people in general, have been uniformly kind to me and have supported me with a loyalty and faithfulness which I shall always treasure most highly. I have no doubt that I might have been re-elected without opposition, but I make this decision because I must better my financial interests if possible.

I have said often, and I still believe that we have here in Goldthwaite and surrounding communities, the finest boys and girls to be found anywhere. This, of course, indicates that the fathers and mothers are of the right sort. I bear no ill will toward any person in this community, but I shall always consider any person from Goldthwaite as my personal friend and I shall deem it a pleasure to have an opportunity to serve any of them in any way possible.

In order that the Board may have the utmost freedom in selecting my successor and in order that all may be apprised of the fact that the place is open, I am bringing this article to the public of my own volition. D. A. NEWTON.

OLLIE STONE DEAD

Mr. Ollie Stone died in the sanitarium in Brownwood Sunday afternoon, after several weeks illness, and his remains were brought to the home of his uncle, Mr. J. C. Fulton, in this city, from which place funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, burial being made in the Center City cemetery.

Mr. Stone was born and reared in Center City community, his father, Mr. S. M. Stone, having been one of the early day merchants of that town. After he was grown the family moved to Pine Bluff, Arkansas, where he lived for some time, then returned to Texas and located in the eastern part of the state, where he contracted tuberculosis. For a time he was thought to be improved and was able to take work in the Brady section, to which locality he migrated from Eastern Texas. When he became too ill to work he was brought to the Fulton home in this city given every care and was later carried to the sanitarium, where his death occurred. He was about 46 years of age and was never married. He leaves his mother, Mrs. M. E. Stone, two brothers, T. P. and S. M. Stone, and other relatives to mourn his loss.

METHODIST CHURCH

We read in Genesis 1: 3, "The serpent is more subtle than any beast of the field. These warm sunshiney days remind one of the quick approach of spring. The time when life begins to assert itself in plant and animal. The insects and snakes that sleep during the winter make their appearance and will soon be out for the summer. You have had constant warnings of the danger of the snakes, but it is a greater danger, though snake-like, about which I speak; and that is the danger of falling into sin. The word serpent has 12 different meanings in the Bible and possibly more, but it is that cunning, crafty way that the old serpent, which is the Devil, deceives people that I want us to notice. To some, snakes are very ugly creatures, but let me mention some of the pretty things which some possess. Some snakes have beautiful colors. All of them have beautiful eyes, most of them are very graceful in their movement. The Devil is noted for his deception. The ones that he uses to deceive others are usually crafty, cunning, graceful and often polite. They dress and behave in such a way as to appeal to ones fancy. The immoral fellow is generally popular. Many like his company and he moves in the best circles of society. Yet his evil influence glides into hearts with the soft celerity of a panther's tread. I shall never forget the deep anguish expressed in sighs, and tears of a man who told me in my own house how his wife had been lured away from her home by a man that was considered a gentleman. The Devil deceives people. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked. For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Shakespeare has one of his characters to say while he is contemplating on a crime:

A Joint Birthday Feast

Mr. and Mrs. George Baskin opened the doors of their hospitable home at Prairie Friday night to entertain royally a few friends of Miss Lena Clendenen and Luther Baskin in a merry birthday celebration.

A delicious turkey dinner with such good cakes, pies and salads as the epicureans feasted on in mythological days were again feasted upon in reality by these appreciative young people. They ate with zest and played many games with the buoyancy of youth and happy hearts who knew not trouble and were wise enough to enjoy the present care-free days. The honorees, both had the same birthday and with the guests anticipate another party at this good home at an early date.

"What win I, if I gain the thing I seek? A dream, a breath a froth of fleeting joy. Who buys a minute's mirth to wail a week? Or sells eternity for a toy? For one sweet grape, who will the vine destroy? Or what fond beggar, but to touch the crown, would with the scepter straight be stricken down?"

It is a wise thing to count the cost of an awkward step, the step which are so easy to make. I quote again from the famous author: "Unruly blasts wait on the tender spring; unwholesome weeds take root among the flowers; the adder hisses where the sweet birds sing; what virtue breeds iniquity devours."

The old serpent which is the Devil deceives the people, but thanks be to God who gives us the victory, through our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, for the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head.

Faithfully yours,
THOS. M. MITCHELL.

AUTO THEFT RING

The arrest of W. E. Boswell, local automobile salesman here on Friday night, is declared by officers to have brought to light one of the largest mobile stealing rings in the history of the state, operating in Oklahoma, New Mexico and Texas.

Headquarters of the ring, it is said, have been made in Brownwood and in Clovis, New Mexico.

Boswell was taken in custody here about 1 o'clock Friday night and Saturday was taken to Abilene by Department of Justice men who had been working on the case and tracing the many clues which had been given them by an arrest in New Mexico. It is said that others will be implicated before the affair is cleared.

According to a dispatch from Abilene Tuesday, Boswell was charged in federal court there with violation of the interstate transportation law and his bond was set at $7,500. Another man, Coleman Armstrong, is being held in the Clovis, New Mexico, jail on similar charges and is said by officers to be a partner of Boswell.

According to officers an automobile stealing ring has been operating for more than a year and has disposed of many stolen automobiles during that time. Several automobiles have been recovered here and in other places. Four cars had been recovered here today.—Brownwood Bulletin.

EARLY CHICKENS

There may be some question about the value of the old saying that "the early bird catches the worm," but there is no question that the early hatched chick catches the high egg prices in the fall, when supply is small and demand is heavy.

Early hatched chicks, which can be put into the laying houses in time to produce for this high priced market, offer one excellent way of insuring the largest profits from the farm poultry flocks.

Experiments conducted with many flocks indicate that the early-hatched lots produced eggs of a total value of $6.71 per bird, as compared with $2.97 for late-hatched chicks. This is not all of the story however. The early-hatched lot was classified into two groups—one comprising all quickly-growing, early-laying, well-formed birds, while the other group consisted of slow-growing, under-sized, and undeveloped birds that showed no indication of laying when the others did.

The net proceeds from the early maturing lot were $5.09 from the late-maturing lot, $1.93. In the light of this information, it is essential not only to keep the early-hatched pullets, but also to eliminate from the early-hatched flocks the late maturers.

Profits from early-hatched chicks depend, to a considerable extent, upon the high quality of the stock which makes up the flock. Increased profits which farmers have been realizing from poultry during the past few years is due, almost directly to the efforts of hatcheries which have spent many thousands of dollars building up good laying strains. During the past year leading hatcheries have organized under the slogan, "Hatchery Chicks for Greater Profits," to continue still further the improvement of chicks, and insure fair dealing.

Replacement of poor stock by good flocks on thousands of farms is taking place yearly, under urging of agricultural leaders. Continued progress points to poultry as one of the leading farm profit makers within a very short time.—Farm Information Bureau.

FIRE AND PARROTS

It is difficult to think of a more horrible way to die than by fire. It was once pointed out by a great scholar that the progress of civilization is made only over the dead bodies of pioneers. So, too, the progress in fire prevention and protection seems to await horrible fire catastrophes to arouse consciousness of the fire danger. In 1929 the red hand of fire snuffed out many lives. In an editorial of January 17, 1930, the New York Herald Tribune pointed out that the public concern over the so-called parrot fever was quite out of proportion to the seriousness of the problem. Suppose a dozen people in the United States had really died of Psittacosis, or parrot fever, there are at least twice as many deaths due to fire each day and only those actively working to prevent fire seem to worry about the appalling loss. Attention is directed to just eight recent fires that caused serious loss of life.

In the United States, fire takes an annual toll of 10,000 lives and $500,000,000 in property losses, according to National Board of Fire Underwriters. A large percentage of deaths from fire occur in the homes. This is hard to understand in progressive America where so many fire preventions are within the reach of the average household. Homes can be made comparatively safe against fire and the life hazard greatly reduced.

NEEDS NO WHITEWASH

If the crow were a pattern of virtue instead of being the smartest rascal in feathers, he would probably be so perishable that societies would have to be started for his preservation. Good character does not insure survival in wild life. Here is one of the few native American birds, perhaps the only one that can never be downed, yet which is in such bad repute that the Biological Survey feels called upon to explain that it is not trying to protect the crow when it mentions some of the good points of the black outlaw.

The biological experts almost apologize for suggesting that the crow should not be quite exterminated. The loss of the species would joggle the balance of nature. They approve of the farmer's guerrilla warfare on the bird, while deprecating drives for wholesale destruction. The crow does his share in reducing injurious insects, but his greater liking for forbidden crops permits no let-up in the home-made scare-crow industry.

The crow is a born bandit, but no hypocrite—"Open and aboveboard in his ways and doings," said John Burroughs. The Biological Survey does no harm in devoting a few generous words to a self-reliant sinner who needs no closed seasons; whose defiant caw-caw will be heard as ever in field and wood long after the scream of the last American eagle has died away.—New York Herald Tribune.

WATCH THE DATES

Every Eagle subscriber's expiration date is printed on the paper opposite the name of the person addressed and every subscriber can know at any time just how the record shows at this office. The pay in advance rule is being enforced as nearly as possible, while some dates have been allowed to lapse, where the publisher has a reason to believe the paper is desired by the subscriber and the account will be paid. A few have complained that their names have been dropped without notice, which is a true statement, yet it has been the experience of the Eagle management that subscription statements result in a loss of postage. However, a plan has been evolved to make the notice clear and without expense. An X will be marked on the paper opposite the subscription date and the subscriber will then know that a renewal is requested. The Eagle management appreciates the patronage of the subscribers and trusts they will all renew, without the necessity of dropping a name from the list, but if they do not desire the paper continued to their address, the management has no desire to force their patronage.

IMPERFECTION

The press never suits all the people, and a paper that suits the preachers may dissatisfy some of the secular-minded subscribers. It is similar to a preacher's sermons, however. All the members are not well pleased with what the pastor says when he speaks, or with his silence when he says nothing. The like of them among newspaper readers object to things in the paper, and are indignant over things left out. Editing and preaching are very similar in that too much is said or printed about some things and too little about others. No preacher and no editor has ever accomplished the impossible, and the impossible is to please all who follow what the preacher says, or what the editor writes. Human beings are diverse and perverse. They are not all of one pattern, no more so mentally than physically. They differ one from another as much in mind as muscle. None is perfect, unless it be a preacher or an editor. Even at that, when the perfect contacts the imperfect, imperfection is the fruit. No hope.—State Press in Dallas News.

Banjo Is Memento of African Past of Slaves

EDDIE PEABODY

By I can't have you, — No body but you—oo—oo, I want to be lone some, — I want to be blue.

Instrument Was Loaded With Clipper Load of Natives

New York City.—The banjo is the one memento of Africa which negro slaves were permitted to bring to American shores. At that time it was called the seze and arrived with a clipper load of negro slaves from Mombasa, East Africa.

Eddie Peabody, who is one of the world's greatest banjists and who has spent much time tracing its origin is authority for this statement. "The banjo is really Arabic," explains Mr. Peabody. "It was bartered in trade by the Arabs of North Africa with the natives of the West African coast, and they called it a bania.

Was the Zeze

"From there it was carried to the East African coast of Mombasa where it became the zeze. The present generation of negroes in Senegambia and Mombasa each claims the origin of this native instrument. At any rate, it was brought to our shores first by the Mombasian natives and several shiploads later by the Senegambians.

"The original strings were of vegetable fiber strung over a gourd. Not being able to get the gourd here, the Negroes used stretched animal skin and mounted it over an old box. As they were shipped South they took their instruments with them and slowly improved the workmanship. "Since the banjo has become a part of every dance orchestra, it has made tremendous strides. In fact, it is no longer tuned like a guitar but like a viola.

"I expect some of the banjo makers of the future will be as famous in the next generation, as are now the violin makers of Cremona.

Solo Instrument

"The banjo can be used both as a solo instrument and with an orchestra. Some numbers sound better with it than others. The song I am oftenest asked to play is, 'If I Can't Have You I Want To Be Lonesome—I Want To Be Blue.' In it you find all the feeling of the negro blues and all the pathos which a banjo portrays so well."

Eddie Peabody has probably done more for the banjo than any living individual, and its recognition as a legitimate instrument and rapid progress in the music field is due principally to his playing and his banjo compositions.

NEW SARGON TRIUMPH AGAIN IN UNUSUAL CASE

"I think Sargon is the grandest medicine ever made for nervous, rundown men and women.

"Four years suffering with stomach trouble had pulled me down until I was so weak and nervous I scarcely had enough strength for anything. The peculiar thing was that my stomach always troubled me worse just before meals—a dull, gnawing sensation, with terrible gas pains—and when the attacks came on at night, I couldn't get to sleep to save my life.

"It seems almost too good to be true, but since I've been taking Sargon I haven't had the slightest sign of trouble of any kind with my stomach. It just seemed to set my whole system in order; I quit being nervous, began to enjoy sound refreshing sleep, and I feel so much stronger and in better health generally that I'm like an entirely different person."

—Mrs. W. B. Broom, 5215 Junius St., Dallas.

UNBRIDLED TONGUE

It is utterly foolish to say that gossip is harmless "so long as we do right as far as we know," for the world measures one's worth, not by his inner consciousness or his knowledge of his own probity, but by what they see and hear of him. The race as a whole is more ready to believe evil than good, and a life of sincerity is no more a protection against the accusations and insinuations of an evil tongue than a cotton shirt is proof against a bandit's bullet. Just remember that the victim of gossip never has his day in court, that he has no opportunity to answer his accusers face to face and be judged by a jury of his peers; and that if he had, it would be as difficult to disprove the slanders as it would be for the gossips to prove them. It matters not that often the gossips have no malicious intent, for I have seen tragedies grow out of what was intended as a joke. From good women sincerely devoting an afternoon to the interests of the heathen, or making up a box for the orphans, have come streams of gossip from unbridled tongues that create more hell among their own people than they will ever pray or preach out of the heathen. These I do not accuse of malicious intent, and I grant them all credit for their good works, (which I heartily endorse) but their little smirking suggestions, reinforced in the telling, too often become self-righteous accusations against an innocent party, to the final destruction of his or her happiness. A thousand times better be indicted by a grand jury for the most heinous of crimes and be able to make one's accusers face him, under a presumption of inno-

COLD AND WEEVIL

There are arguments on both sides of the question and it is generally agreed that the weevil is a tough proposition and that it takes severe cold to make an impression on it. Many claim that where the weevil goes into hibernation all right that the cold has little effect on it. Still, cold such as we have had recently will thin out all insect life, including the weevil. An insect must be made of cast iron to withstand sub zero weather if it is in an exposed position. One thing that indicates clearly that the boll weevil are thinned out by the cold is the fact that weevil are worse following a warm winter and do less damage following an extremely cold winter. That proposition may not be capable of absolute proof but the facts generally bear it out. Farmers and cotton men who have kept up with weevil depredation for thirty years past are of that opinion. Also weevil have gone further north following a series of warm winters. Central and eastern Oklahoma had suffered but very little from weevil until the past few years, and there hasn't been a really severe winter over the Southwest since that of 1924-'25. The year 1926 was wet and also followed an open winter and weevil and other insects not only did a lot of damage that year but have been bad ever since.

Those who have kept up with local weather conditions will remember that the winter of 1917-'18 was very severe, and the summer of 1918 was one of the driest ever known in this section of Texas. Following this the winter of 1918 was fairly cold with plenty of rain and in 1919 a bumper cotton crop was made. A fairly good cotton crop was made in 1920 and then came a very warm winter, there being hardly any cold weather in the winter of 1920-'21. The summer of 1921 there was plenty of rain and the cotton crop here was the nearest a failure this country has ever known. The total crop that year as reported by the U. S. Government Department of Agriculture was only 8,360,000 bales.

We are not advising folks to plant cotton on the theory that the boll weevil have been killed out, but judging the future by the past there won't be as many of them as there have been in the past. In the meantime it will pay to watch closely this year and see what will actually happen.—Hamilton Herald.

ence until proven guilty, than to be indicted by Dame Gossip who works in the dark, presumes every victim guilty until proven innocent, and since proof of innocence is impossible, the victim goes down the years with the stain of implied villainy and a lifetime is not enough to wipe it out in the hearts of many of those poisoned by it.—Selected.

HITCH-HIKER LAW

The News York Legislature at Albany has before it a bill to deny the right of recovery for personal injury to passengers transported by the owner or operator of a motor vehicle without payment. The bill is designed to remedy the condition which exists in the present law in many states which makes the owner of a motor vehicle liable for damages if an accident should injure a passenger, even though that passenger may be carried without pay and at the passenger's solicitation.

As the law stands in many states, the hospitable driver who halts upon signal to take up an unknown passenger invites a double danger: The chance that his guest may turn out to be a robber and the chance of accident from which the guest may obtain damages for bodily injury. Attempts have been made here and there to outlaw the practice of offering free rides, but as yet with no great success. A personable young man may still ride in comfort across the continent and return during a Summer vacation and not have to pay a cent carfare.

Some such amendment of the law to protect the hospitable motorist is needed. The Kirkland-Watson bill in New York may well serve as a model. It makes a careful definition of the "free passenger" so as to include hitch-hikers and others of the class and at the same time not take away from any person any rights to which he is reasonably entitled. Texas should have such a law.

In the meantime, the automobile operator who picks up a schoolboy for transportation to school will remain without protection against the possibility of a damage suit resulting

ATTITUDE OF MIND IS ACCIDENT FACTOR

If our terrible accident record is to be lowered Americans must learn to think in terms of accident prevention. In the home, in industry and in the automobile the majority of accidents occur not only because someone is careless, but because someone fails to automatically do the right thing in an emergency.

It is a noteworthy fact that the great decrease made in recent years in the industrial accident record has been the result of an attitude of mind that makes safety an essential, integral part of any industrial operation. Executives think in terms of safety exactly as they think in terms of profits or production.

In many of the schools of the nation, children, through the medium of graphic, interesting lessons, with an appeal to the imagination, are being taught accident prevention. They are shown that safety should be a major factor in any act. As a result, a coming generation will have a subconscious, automatic grasp of the accident problem that will save countless lives in the future years. The work has already borne fine fruit in that the death and injury rate among children in schools where safety is part of the curricula, is constantly decreasing.

Adult Americans can all take a lesson in safety from the schools where children are being educated and from the great employing industries. It is said that no one has a sound grasp of a foreign language until he can think in it; in exactly the same way one grasps the accident problem until safety is a constant factor in his mental process.—Graham Leader.

SPELLS OF BACKACHE

"I HAVE used Cardui at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me," says Mrs. J. W. Jimright, R. F. D. 2, Troy, Ala.

"Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of a way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was.

"When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

"I THANK YOU IN THE NAME OF CONOCO"

Thank you for the immediate and tremendous response to our challenge, on the introduction of Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Thank you many thousands of Regular Customers as well as the many thousands of new users who have flocked to Red Triangle stations, until it has kept all of us on the jump to drain and refill crank cases with this remarkable motor lubricant. Because of unprecedented demands for Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil, it has been difficult for our refineries to keep all our stations adequately supplied, but now stocks are moving faster and you can depend on quick and efficient service at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle.

Conoco challenged the oil world last November with the revolutionary new Germ-Processed Motor Oil. Definitely the first fundamentally better oil of the century, this oil is now smashing all sales records. No reasonable person will use any other oil until he has heard the story of this new oil and its "Germ-Processing" feature. Write for details at the Dept. of Sales, Conoco, Inc., for your first experience.

LEE RUDD PASSED AWAY

Mr. Lee Rudd died at the sanitarium in Sweetwater at an early hour Sunday morning and his remains were interred Monday in the cemetery in his home community, in Fisher county, fifteen miles north of Sweetwater. Several members of the family from this place were summoned when it was known his condition was serious and others joined them in attending the funeral services. Mr. Rudd never lived in Goldthwaite, but his parents and several of his brothers came here a good many years ago from Comanche county. His father died here several years ago and his mother and other members of the family still live at this place. Mr. Rudd was a widower, his wife having died in 1921, but he leaves several grown children who, together with the other relatives, have the sympathy of many friends.

A SAD MESSAGE

Mr. J. D. D. Berry and family received a message Sunday night informing them of the death of his brother, Mr. J. H. H. Berry, at his home in Lampasas. While he had been in ill health for several years, his death was unexpected and the immediate cause was pronounced heart failure. Mr. Berry had been a prominent citizen of Lampasas for many years and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters. The funeral services Tuesday afternoon were attended by the members of the Berry family and a number of their friends from this county, as well as a large congregation of his Lampasas neighbors and friends.

Of course the girls are all like they used to be, they all like Valentine greetings, but they don't always like to get them on paper.

Here is an Adam poem for you: Of all the men I ever knew, And those I never saw; Old man Adam was the lucky bird, He had no mother-in-law. By L. E. Duprey.

The best Valentines are sent without rapping.

When you put away your stoves, come in and buy a 35 cent can of Black Jack Enamel; receive a brush free, enamel your stove, put it away. Black Jack Enamel will prevent it from rusting during the summer.

If women are better auto drivers than men, it is because they started from the back seat and worked their way up.

Or maybe it is just naturally because they have good judgment. We notice a lot of them showing a decided preference for Dupont Duco for furniture.
